TO BUILD AN INSTITUTION

So dependable that it will merit the confidence of everyone, to be so conservatively managed that there shall be no element of risk, to be helpfully liberal in assisting its worthy customers, to strive for a good name rather than great riches, to be of real service to the community, to maintain unbiased judgment and hold a firm faith in the future—this has been the purpose, is now the accomplishment and will continue to be the endeavor to which this Bank devotes the whole of its energies, its resources and its skill.

CROSS PLAINS GOOD WILL TOUR REMARKABLE SUCCESS

C. P. BUFFALOES OUT FOR PRACTICE

The Cross Plains Buffaloes started training in dead earnest Monday, Sept. 10, with 28 men for practice, nine of which were letter men. Preliminary training had been in progress for several days.

The Buffaloes are piloted this year by coach Nat. Huggins, former grid star of Daniel Baker College, and member of the team for the past three years that has made strong bids for championship honors, having won the T. I. A. A. championship in 1926, and strongly contended for that honor in 1927.

The team this season is captained by Arthur Carmichael, half-back of the 1927 squad. The co-captain, Sweetie Webb, will be out of the line up due to an accident several weeks ago.

There seems to be a plentiful supply of backfield material to pick from. The difficulty that the coach is now facing is filling the line positions. He is vacant by graduation ineligibleity.

The team has already been in on several plays and is expected to start active scrimmage toward the last of the week.

The local squad is facing the toughest schedule in its history. Games with Eastland, Rising Star, Goldthwaite, Moran, Baird, have already been matched and other strong teams are being considered. The team will meet Eastland Saturday, Sept. 22nd, at Eastland. On Friday, Sept. 28, the Buffaloes will meet Goldthwaite on the home field. In next weeks paper a full schedule will be announced.

LETTER MEN BACK

FEEDING FISH ELECTRICALLY

ABILENE, TEXAS, Sept. 12 It was the State of Texas which introduced this ultra-modern feeder to West Texas. The State fish hatchery has installed forty-five 50-watt electric lamps on its fourteen fish ponds at Cisco, near the big dam.

The lights hang two feet above the water and the beams at night attract millions of grasshoppers, blister-bugs, crickets and other insects. The majority of the insects fall on top of the water and are devoured by the fish. However, many of the game fish jump out of the water and nab the insects as they fly near the surface.

The lights burn eight months out of twelve. In installing the lights, the West Texas Utilities Company guaranteed the state an abundant supply of insects.

FIRST FOOTBALL GAME LOBOES VS HASKELL

The first football game of the season in the Oil Belt will be played on Friday, Sept. 14, when the Cisco Loboes and the Haskell Indians meet on the Cisco gridiron. The Loboes—always one of the strongest teams in the State—are meeting in eleven that always ranks high in the Class B race. Haskell has three full teams, which is an unusually large squad for a "B" school.

Little, the speedy halfback who made many brilliant runs for Cisco last season, is back. In fact, the Loboes have seven letter men in the backfield—which cause many fans to believe that the Big Dam team will have the fastest attack in the district.

Fans from a wide territory—their appetites whetted for football after many months of inactivity—will flock to the game and an attendance that will set a record for a non-conference battle is probable. The game will start at 4 P. M.

The good will tour to our neighboring towns of Oplin, Burkett and Cross Cut, Friday of last week, which was sponsored by the Cross Plains Lion Club, and planned in conjunction and through the co-operation of the entire citizenship, was a remarkable visit in many of its features. The Cross Plains Band furnished excellent music for the occasion, and the big motorcade, composed of about forty cars, were lined up on Main street and departed for the trip under the following program manner on schedule time:

Aubra C. Dodson, in charge of autos, band leading.
Paul V. Harrell, in charge of speaking.
Left Cross Plains at 9:00 A. M.
Arrived at Oplin 10:30 A. M.
Left Oplin at 11:30 A. M.
Lunch on Jim Ned Creek on Coleman road at 12:00 M.
Arrived at Burkett, 1:30 P. M.
Left Burkett 2:15 P. M.
Arrived at Cross Cut 2:45 P. M.
Left for home 3:30 P. M.

The party was received by a great welcome and cordiality at each of the towns visited. Short speeches were made by a number of the visitors, explaining that the chief purpose of the visit was to get acquainted and from a better cementation of the community interests which recent completion of the new highways connecting the towns has afforded. The visit was no for a selfish purpose, as explained by the speakers, nor to distract any of the established business or prosperity of these fine little towns. The only business feature of the visit was to expand the knowledge that Cross Plains has for many years maintained the reputation of being the best cotton producing country and other produce trading points in this part of the country. Large cash buying concerns, full of the right kind of enterprise and square dealings, and shipping facilities are the factors that have brought about this natural result. The new highways now extend this advantage to our neighbors of the more rural and distant communities.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS OPENED MONDAY

The Cross Plains school opened Monday with all pupils and many parents assembled in the Auditorium. After announcements in the Auditorium registration began and lasted throughout the remainder of the day. Fourteen teachers will be used in the system this year. Thirteen have been selected and another one will be selected this week.

The following teachers are now employed:

T. R. Haggard, Supt. and teacher in High School.

M. F. Kennedy, Principal of High School and teacher of English.

A. H. Daniel, Head of the Science Department.

Nat. Huggins, Athletic Director and teacher in High School.

Miss Vivian Jennings, Spanish Teacher.

ELEMENTARY TEACHERS

Clyde D. King, Principal Elementary School.

Miss Lora Redding, Teacher of Geography, 5th, 6th and 7th grades.

Miss Gladys Irwin, English in 5th, 6th and 7th Grades.

Miss Della Keller, fourth grade teacher.

Miss McLaren, Teacher of third grade.

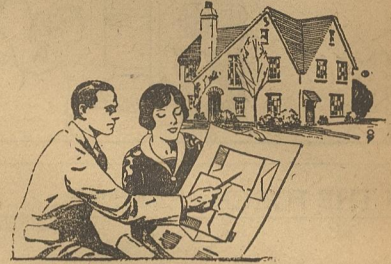

Miss McConathy, second grade teacher.

Miss Faust, First and second grade teacher.

Mrs. Haggard, Low first grade teacher.

During the first day of registration the high school enrolled 115 and the elementary school enrolled 285. During the month this enrollment will likely reach 450 to 500.

Both the faculty and the pupils are enthusiastic about the work and in all probability this will be the best school year that Cross Plains has ever known.

BOY BREAKS BOTH ARMS IN ACCIDENT

Valley Joe, 13-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Williams, happened to an accident which broke both of his arms last Tuesday. The youth, together with a number of other small boys, was riding on an improvised Ferris wheel, which they had built near the home of Sam Barr, the injured boy fell from the wheel while it was in motion, striking the ground in manner that inflicted a severe break to his left arm, and a break or compound fracture to his right arm. The boy is at the Cross Plains Sanitarium for treatment and an X-Ray examination will be made to ascertain the extent of the injury to the right arm. He is resting well at this report and seems to have received no other injuries.

TWIN SISTERS BECOME MOTHERS SAME HOUR

Mrs. John Havel of Shiner, Texas, and Mrs. Jaro Netardus of El Campo, Texas, a few days ago become mothers of a daughter and a son respectively, within a few moments of each other. The mothers are twin sisters, who can hardly be told apart and before their marriage were Misses Kolar of Shiner.

CHEVROLET COUPE LANDS IN DITCH

A Chevrolet coupe, occupied by Bill Howell of Pioneer, and Harry Shehan, from some cause left the road while coming north over the highway between Cross Plains and Burkett last Friday evening. The car landed in the ditch bordering the highway and turned over. The car was badly wrecked, but both occupants escaped with minor injuries, the one of them believed to be more seriously hurt was brought into the Cross Plains Sanitarium. The damaged car was brought into Cross Plains by Garrett Motor Company wrecker, and placed in their garage for repairs.

R. P. Odom is having the home recently totally destroyed by fire on his ranch in the Burnt Branch community, replaced with a modern five-room dwelling.

Mr. and Mrs. Andy Gaines and Pat Gaines, formerly of Cross Plains, but now conducting an automobile agency at San Angelo, visited friends here the end of the week. They left an order for a supply of stationery with the job department of the Review office.

HOOVER CLUB ORGANIZED IN CROSS PLAINS

Following an eloquent address by Rev. W. L. Evans of San Antonio, the frame-work of which was based on the present status and chief issues in the presidential campaign, and naturally eliciting unusual interest from a political standpoint, a Hoover for President Club was organized at the Methodist church in Cross Plains last Monday night. Its purpose is to augment the determined fight which the churches of the South, and almost the entire country are waging against the election of Al Smith for President on account of his avowed stand on the prohibition question.

The organization of the local club was perfected before the close of the meeting by the election of Rev. Collins, pastor of the Presbyterian church, as president, and Ralph Chandler as vice president. Mrs. Alfred Williams was elected secretary, and Geo. B. Scott, of the First State Bank, was asked to act as treasurer for the organization. An active campaign will be instituted against the election of Al Smith in this community.

SCOUTS TO MEET IN NEW ARMORY

The Cross Plains Boy Scouts, who have formerly been meeting for practice in the Presbyterian church, will hereafter meet in the building known as the Blue Front Cafe, on West Eighth street. This building is owned by Jim Miller, and through the interest which he feels in the welfare of the local boy scouts, he has given them the use of the building free. The West Texas Utilities Co. have generously donated the use of the electric lighting system of the building, and it is believed that the Southwest Gas Co. will supply the gas for heating purposes when it is needed.

ANT ENEMY TO BOLL WEEVIL DISCOVERED

A variety of ants that are mortal enemies of cotton boll weevils has been discovered by Jess Tucker of Garland. The ants have almost exterminated the weevils in an infected cotton patch in Tucker's field, it is claimed.

Reliable Electric Service And West Texas Progress

Over Plains, Ranches, Farmlands, Hill, Valleys And Streams in the heart of West Texas, the Electric Transmission lines of this company cover 1898 miles. These power lines carry electrical energy from large generating stations to 102 cities, towns and villages, streets, homes, stores and offices.

This energy turns the wheels in oil fields, furnishes power for factories, mills and other industrial plants, and operates labor-saving machinery and appliances on farm and ranch.

Wherever it goes, this flow of electricity increases production and wealth, encourages industry, speeds progress, reduces drudgery and hardship, provides comforts and conveniences.

The continuous, single aim of the company is to supply efficient service at a fair price. By always improving operating efficiency and constantly investing more capital in expansion and equipment it is able to do so.

How Much Will Poor Ginning Cost You This Year?

In these days of high production costs, there is little profit in raising a cotton crop only to have it improperly ginned.

Not the size your yield, but the way it is ginned, determines how well you are paid your work.

Our purpose and aim is to Render the Best Service, giving our customers the preference of Square or Round Bale.

FUTURE LABORING TRAINING

In past issues of this paper we have told the stories of scores of young men and young women prominent in the social, political and business life of the Southwest—who made their start with one of the great courses offered at Tyler Commercial College, Tyler, Texas.

Among some of the Tyler Trained successes are: Senator Mayfield; L. E. Dowd, cotton specialist; Herbert Wilson, ex-chairman of the Arkansas Highway Commission; J. J. Walden, president of Southwestern Engraving Company; W. M. Lovelless, business manager College of Industrial Arts; F. F. Florence, Dallas Banker; O. B. Roberts and Tyson Cleary, Shreveport Bankers, Melvin A. Traylor, Chicago bank president, and many, many others.

The list of T. C. C. alumni who have risen to executive positions or the ownership of business is a long one indeed. And scarcely a day passes that one or more names is not added to it from information gleaned from letters of the files or daily newspapers.

We have told you of all these successes because we want you to become acquainted with Tyler Commercial College, the time and money-saving advantages it has to offer you and what it has done for other young people.

If you have read these stories, we feel sure you will not be satisfied to go on in some poorly paid, futureless position or job; nor will you be discouraged if you think yourself poor in purse. You will feel that Tyler school offers you a way to an even greater goal, regardless of your circumstances, and that you should enroll for one of the courses right now.

The college has published a big book especially for ambitious boys and girls. It will be sent to you free if you clip and mail the coupon printed below. Of course you are not obligated in any way. The book is free and all information will be cheerfully and gladly given. Just clip and mail the coupon now.

What could you do? Automobile fires work fast and are a menace to those who endeavor to extinguish them. Too frequently the end of the fire is the end of the car.

But Fire is only one of the dangers of the road. There are also theft, collision (when your car is damaged), property damage (when your car damages the property of another), public liability (when your car injures some person).

The only real protection against financial loss through these perils is a full coverage Automobile Policy. Our agency will provide it.

To the Sheriff or any Constable of Callahan County, Greeting: YOU ARE HEREBY COMMANDED to summon L. G. BRADSTREET and J. G. BRADSTREET, by making publication of this Citation once in each week for four successive weeks previous to return, day hereof, in some newspaper published in your County, if there be a newspaper published therein, but if not, then in the nearest County where a newspaper is published, to appear at the next regular term of the District Court of Callahan County, to be held at the Court House thereof, in Baird, Texas, on the 5th Monday in October A. D. 1928, the same being the 29th day of October A. D. 1928, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 5th day of July A. D. 1928, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said Court as No. 7358, wherein J. H. WALLER is Plaintiff, and L. G. BRADSTREET and J. G. BRADSTREET are Defendants, and said petition alleging: J. H. WALLER VS. L. G. BRADSTREET and J. G. BRADSTREET. In the District Court of Callahan County, Texas, October term, A. D. 1928.

TO THE HONORABLE JUDGE OF SAID COURT:

Comes now J. H. WALLER plaintiff, complaining of L. G. and J. G. BRADSTREET, hereinafter styled defendants, and represents that plaintiff resides in Callahan County, Texas, and that the defendant L. G. BRADSTREET resides in Burnt Branch County, Texas, and defendant J. G. BRADSTREET resides in Brown County, Texas, and for cause of action represents to the court as follows, to wit: First: That on or about the 3rd day of September, 1925, plaintiff owned and still owns 53 acres out of the C. Vigil Survey in Callahan County, Texas, being all of the following described 63 acres tract, to wit: Beginning 214 varas N. of the S. E. corner of said Vigil Survey thence N 642 varas, thence W 543 varas, thence S. 642 varas, thence E 543 varas to place of, beginning except 10 acres in N. E. corner sold to J. H. POTTER.

That J. H. WALLER and wife and J. H. POTTER and wife leased 40 acres of the N. end of said 63 acre tract to R. D. Howell on or about the 3rd day of September 1925 for the development of oil and gas. The defendants L. G. and J. G. BRADSTREET came into possession of said lease covering 40 acres of said land, 30 acres of which is owned by plaintiff, and drilled four wells on said thirty acre tract. That by the terms of the said original lease executed by Plaintiff, under which defendants operated said lease and drilled said four wells provided, among other things, that the lessee would pay all damages to growing crops on plaintiff's said thirty acre tract, and there was an implied obligation upon the part of the said lessee in said lease and his assigns to pay all damages resulting from the negligence of said lessee or his assigns in the drilling of said wells to the land and improvements on said land.

That at the time the defendants and their employees entered upon said 30 acres of land, as assignees of the said original lessee, the said thirty acres of land, the larger part thereof was cultivation and had growing upon it an orchard consisting of fruit trees of various kinds, which bore fruit apples, peaches and plums, each year.

That the soil of said land was a deep, sandy loam and was sub-irrigated very fertile and produced large crops of vegetables, berries and all crops planted thereon, such as pinto beans, tomatoes, feterita etc., that the defendants went upon said thirty acres and drilled four wells for the development of oil and gas, and in doing so, negligently constructed a slush pit at each well into which was run, salt water and other noxious and poisonous mineral waters taken from said wells.

That defendants negligently constructed said slush pits by failing to excavate the same below the bottom of the sandy soil into the clay soil beneath a sufficient depth to prevent salt water and refuse waste to escape out of said slush pits and percolate through, into and over the adjoining cultivated lands of plaintiff, thereby destroying the fertility of the soil, killing the vegetation in, on and growing out of the adjoining lands of Plaintiff to his great damage, as hereinafter alleged.

Second: Plaintiff further alleges that in addition to the negligence of the defendants in permitting the salt water and other waste to escape from the slush pits, the defendants erected on said land of plaintiff tanks for the storage of oil produced from said wells. That mixed with the oil placed in said storage tanks was a great amount of salt water, the oil being lighter than the water, the oil would rise to the top and the salt water settle to the bottom of the said storage tanks, and in order to get rid of the salt water, the defendants negligently drained the salt water from said tanks at the bottom of the tanks and permitted the same to flow on over and through the adjoining land of plaintiff, destroying the fruit trees, vegetables and other crop on said land, and killing and destroying the vitality of the soil and rendering it totally unfit for the growing of fruit trees, vegetables, berries or any other character of crops in the future, to plaintiff's great damage, as hereinafter set out. That in addition to the negligence of the defendant in the operation of said wells on said 30 acres, as hereinafter set out, plaintiff further shows to the court, that prior to the time defendants took charge of said lease, the Plaintiff used a lane running from his lots to the well where he secured water for his stock, that defendants after finding production in said wells, negligently erected two lines of iron rods across said lane, about four feet above the surface of the ground, thereby preventing plaintiff's stock from going from his pastures and pens to the water aforesaid, and this compelled plaintiff and his stock to go a great distance around in order to get to said water, to plaintiff's great damage, as hereinafter set out.

That by reason of negligence of the defendants in the manner and form as hereinbefore set out, this Plaintiff has been damaged in the following amounts to wit:

One plum tree killed of the value of	$150.00
One apricot tree killed of the value of	$50.00
Two apple trees killed of the value of	$250.00
One acre of berries destroyed of the value of	250.00
1/4 acre of tomatoes destroyed of the value of	$100.00
1/2 acre of watermelons destroyed of the value of	$75.00
1/4 acre of cucumbers destroyed of the value of	$50.00
1/4 acre of feterita destroyed of the value of	$100.00
One willow tree destroyed of the value of	$400.00
Damage to other fruit trees of the value of	250.00
Damage to 5 acres of land	$400.00
Inconvenience and extra labor in getting to water	$100.00
Total damages in the sum of	$2,175.00

That plaintiff has repeatedly demanded of the defendants to pay the above damages, but defendants have failed and refused, and still fails and refuses to pay the same or any part thereof.

Wherefore plaintiff prays the court that defendants be duly cited to appear and answer in this cause, at the next regular term of this court, and that on final hearing of the same, plaintiff have judgment against the defendants for the amount of his damages as hereinbefore set out interest and cost of suit and for such other and further relief, special and general, in law and in equity, that he may be justly entitled to, and for which he ever prays the court.

The STORY of BRAVE BEAR

MAJ. JAMES MCLAUGHLIN

RAIN-IN-THE-FACE

BRAVE BEAR'S 'SELF-PORTRAIT'

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

I LIES before me as I write—a little old-fashioned book with the word "Autographs" stamped upon its frayed and stained green cloth cover. You know the kind of book it is and you can easily guess its contents—page after page on which are written in the elegant Spencerian handwriting of the "Elegant Eighties" some such "sentiment" as "In the present age, boys have grand opportunities; may you improve yours that no regrets shall mar your manhood. Your teacher, Elizabeth ——" Or in a sprawling school-girl hand, signed "Jennie" or "Minnie" or "Addie" is the declaration that

My pen is poor,
My ink is pale;
My love for you
Shall never fail!

If such were all that this "autograph book" contained, it would be no different from the thousands of others which were once cherished by our fathers and mothers and which now and then come to light again as we ransack an attic or delve into an old trunk. But this particular book contains an autograph (or perhaps I should say, an "autoportrait") which makes it unique. On one of its pages is a pencil sketch, colored with bright purples and reds and blues, and signed by the Indian who drew it, "Brave Bear."

And so as American Indian day (September 28, this year) draws near and as I look at this little autograph with its unique "portrait of the artist by himself," I am minded to tell again the story of Brave Bear, a warrior of the Sioux. If there be left any who once knew Brave Bear, perhaps it may not seem quite appropriate to make American Indian day, which is observed in many states "in recognition of the contribution of the American Indian to our national tradition," the occasion for retelling the story of an Indian who was notorious rather than famous. For, from the point of view of the white man, Brave Bear was a "bad Indian." But there were in him some of those qualities, characteristic of the American Indian, which no one, whether he be white or red, can help admiring.

Wapapay (Brave Bear or the Fearless Bear) was a member of the Cut Head band of the Yankton tribe of the Sioux in North Dakota. He first appears in history as the boon companion of the famous warrior, Rain-in-the-Face, popularly (and erroneously) known as the slayer of General Custer at the Battle of Little Big Horn. In his declining years Rain-in-the-Face told the story of his life to Dr. Charles A. Eastman, an educated Sioux, and it is in Doctor Eastman's book, "Indian Heroes and Great Chieftains," published by Little, Brown & Company, that Rain-in-the-Face tells how he, Brave Bear and Hohay, the Assiniboine captive of Sitting Bull, made a daring attack on Fort Totten, N. D., in the summer of 1866. Here is the story as Rain-in-the-Face told it:

Wapapay, the Fearless Bear, who was afterward hanged at Yankton, was the bravest man among us. He dared Hohay to make the charge. Hohay accepted the challenge, and in turn dared the other to ride with him through the agency and fight under the walls of the fort, which was well garrisoned and strong.

Wapapay and I in those days called each other "brother-friend." It was a life-and-death vow. What one does the other must do, and that meant that I must be in the forefront of the charge, and if he is killed, I must fight until I die also! I prepared for death, I painted as usual like an eclipse of the sun, half black and half red.

Now the signal for the charge was given! I started even with Wapapay but his horse was faster than mine, so he left me a little behind as we neared the fort. This was bad for me, for by that time the soldiers had somewhat recovered from the surprise and were aiming better.

Their big gun talked very loud, but Wapapay was leading on, leaning forward on his feet pony like a young squirrel on a smooth log! He held his rawhide shield on the right side, a little to the front, and so did I. Our war-whoop was like the coyotes singing in the evening, when they smell blood! The soldiers' guns talked fast, but few were hurt. Their big gun was like a toothless old dog, who only makes himself hotter the more noise he makes.

How much harm we did I do not know, but we made things lively for a time; and the white men acted as people do when a swarm of bees get into camp. We made a successful retreat, but some of the reservation Indians followed us yelling, until Hohay told them that he did not wish to fight with the captives of the white man, for there would be no honor in that. There was a good running down my leg, and I found that both my horse and I were slightly wounded.

After that daredevil feat, Brave Bear drops out of sight, at least so far as history records any of his doings. The next written record of him is in the book, "My Friend, the Indian," published by Houghton Mifflin Company, and written by the late Maj. James McLaughlin, who as Indian agent on the Devils Lake and Standing Rock reservations in North Dakota had occasion in both places to know Brave Bear. In 1873 Brave Bear and a companion named The Only One entered the stable of a settler named DeLorme near Pembina, N. D., for the purpose of stealing horses. When two of the owners approached the stable, the two Indians shot and killed both and mortally wounded a third man. Then they entered the DeLorme house, shot and seriously wounded two women and after rifling the place and taking several horses escaped into the Missouri river country, passing through the Devils Lake reservation as they did so but keeping away from the agency. As soon as Major McLaughlin, who was then Indian agent at Devils Lake, heard of the crime, he reported it to the civil authorities of Dakota territory, but they were unable to capture the murderers.

Five years later (in the winter of 1878) Major McLaughlin learned that Brave Bear and The Only One had returned to Devils Lake and were living among their people, the Cut Heads, in the western part of the reservation. Accordingly he arranged to capture them in the early spring before their ponies were in condition to start out on their usual raids against white settlements. He called a council of their band, feeling sure that they would not dare absent themselves from the council, and asked Capt. James M. Bell, who was stationed with two troops of the Seventh cavalry at Fort Totten to be on hand for the council and make the arrest.

His plan worked well, for as soon as the two Indians had entered the council room Lieut. Herbert J. Slocum with a file of soldiers surrounded them. As they passed out of the building under guard, The Only One made a desperate attempt to escape. He was shot by the soldiers as he bounded across the prairie, but when they approached he sprang up with a knife in his hand and died fighting. Brave Bear was taken to Pembina for trial but escaped from the jail there and made his way to the Pine Ridge reservation. Fearing arrest if he stayed there, he stole a horse and started north. Near Fort Sully he lay in wait for a settler named Johnson, killed him and taking the man's rifle, escaped into Canada, where he joined Sitting Bull's band of fugitives.

In the summer of 1881 Sitting Bull returned to the United States and surrendered and Brave Bear had no choice but to return with him and take his chances of escaping punishment for his crime. Sitting Bull's band was settled on the Standing Rock reservation. That fall Major McLaughlin took charge at Standing Rock, and Brave Bear, knowing that the major would be sure to have him arrested again, laid his plans to escape. But he delayed too long. A white man who had agreed to help him escape betrayed him and Brave Bear was made a captive for the last time. He was sent to Yankton, then the capital of Dakota territory, placed on trial for the murder of Johnson, found guilty and sentenced to be hanged.

While he was in the jail at Yankton awaiting execution he was the object of considerable interest for white visitors who had heard much of the Indian desperado. One of them, a rancher named Payne, took his small son, Whit Payne, with him to see Brave Bear and when the boy asked the Indian to write his name in his autograph book, Brave Bear not only did that but also drew the picture which is reproduced above.

The end of the story of Brave Bear is told in Major McLaughlin's book as follows:

When Brave Bear was hanged for his crime, his father, an old Indian of the Cut Head band of Sioux, came and sought me at the agency.

"Is my son dead?" asked the father. "He is dead," I answered. "Are you sure he is dead?" persisted the old man. "I have a telegram saying that he was hanged yesterday," said I. "It is well," rejoined the old man. "We are glad, his mother and myself, for he was a bad son."

And this frightful declaration was as near eulogium as was ever pronounced on Brave Bear.

black, half red. We fought all day in the rain, and my face was partly washed and streaked with red and black; so again I was christened Rain-in-the-Face! His name shall be Rain-in-the-Face!"

Afterwards, when I was a young man, we went on a warpath against the Gros Ventres. We stole some of their horses, but were overtaken and had to abandon the horses and fight for our lives. I had washed my face to represent the sun when partly covered with darkness, so I painted it half black, half red. We fought all day in the rain, and my face was partly washed and streaked with red and black; so again I was christened Rain-in-the-Face! His name shall be Rain-in-the-Face!"

To good-natured people, to be told that they are good-natured is frequently reward enough.

CAPLIKE TOQUE FANCIED; DRAPING FOR FORMAL GOWNS

Chapeaux of Modish Design.

L A PETIT chapeau a la Parisian is with us. It is already proving considerable of a rival to the new poke cloches, which at this moment are being so widely featured. Judging from modes arriving from Paris hats either have brims or they haven't. If they have they proclaim novelty every step of the way, especially the aforesaid poke cloches which frame the face, sometimes almost to the point of hiding it from view. If they have no brims, well, they most assuredly have not, for the new cap toques, as they are called, are not much more than tiny skull caps with clinging-to-the-head drapes.

As intimated before, these very little hats are considered tres chic in "Paris" and we Americans are beginning to think so, too. For these tight hats French modistes are employing every interesting media, from wool and metal tulle to feathers and spangled effects, not forgetting velvet, soiled and supple felt.

The tulle weaves contribute genuine novelty to the list of hat media. All sorts of mesh have been devised. There is the wool tulle of yarn, and there is the yarn and metal combination, metal with floss, all metal and the combination of metal with color. These novelties are woven about four inches wide and they require the art of a real milliner for their draping.

The petite chapeaux in this picture vary greatly as to the materials used in their making. The first model employs a metal and wool loosed woven novelty which has a knitted effect. Felt forms the brim effect. Velvet with satin ribbon describes the center hat at the top. To the right is shown a smartly draped toque which is Fashionists are launching a fascinating idea in connection with the evening mode for autumn and winter, 1923-1924—that of styling decollete gowns of velvet or other luxurious fabric with transparent shawls or capelets or scarf drapes.

So ponder no longer as to what to choose for dine-and-dance wear. There is nothing more lovely shown than the new gowns, which are caped, and scarfed and draped with ornate fantasies of tulle and net which have been elaborately worked with paillettes or various forms of beguiling handwork.

The model in the picture is a charming exponent of the new evening mode which veils fair shoulders so enchantingly. It was one of the many lovely frocks displayed at a recent Chicago style show. The shawl of brown tulle so handsomely patterned with glittering paillettes is incorporated into the very making of the frock and is not a separate accessory item. Note how a cunning one-side effect is achieved here, the scarf end falling over the right arm with exceeding grace.

This lovely expression given to sheer effects about the shoulders may or may not take the form of a wide scarf or shawl effect as defined in the picture. All sorts of fascinating treatments are growing out of the idea. One of the most effective is that of the transparent shoulder cape, which is embellished with very beautiful hand-worked designing done with paillettes, metal threadwork, chenille embroidery and the like.

Brown tulle has entered very conspicuously into the evening mode. Not only is it employed for diaphanous effects about fair shoulders as pictured, but it is frequently posed in the form of huge bows with trailing streamers, accompanying the bouffant side drapes which predominate throughout formal modes. Party frocks of brown tulle whose skirts are tiered and side plaited, have bodices of contrasting rich fabrics, that is, contrasting as to weave, being brocade, or sheer velvet or satin. The color may be perfectly matched or otherwise. Brown tulle with rust color is highly favored.

Constipation Gone. Has Roses in Her Cheeks Now

"About seven years ago, I was dying slowly of constipation. My system was full of poison, which not only dulled my senses, but my complexion was muddy, eyes blurred, my stomach was ruined, and I was continually catching cold. I did not have any life or energy."

"After reading one of your ads, I bought several bottles of Milks Emulsion, and began improving at once. Improvement was so marked that everyone noticed it, and spoke of how it cleared my skin, made my eyes much brighter, and put roses in my cheeks. In fact, I was an entirely different person. I took altogether 15 large bottles of Milks Emulsion, and looked wonderful and felt the same way. It absolutely made me over. It adds more to your looks than anything I have ever heard of. After I had taken the first 8 bottles, people began to notice the improvement in my skin and my eyes being brighter. "Every woman should know of it. I have never had a cold since I took Milks Emulsion, no stomach trouble or constipation. I think it is a God-send to humanity."

"A nephew of mine was almost dead of stomach trouble. I started him on Milks Emulsion and while he has only taken 4 bottles, he can eat nearly anything, and is beginning to feel fine."

The world's softest job is the one held by Sergius Ughet, a Russian in Washington who once represented the Kerensky regime, according to a writer in Capper's Weekly. "We refused the new Russian government recognition and during all these 10 years Ughet has been in charge of the Russian embassy at Washington living off the fat of the land, responsible to no one. He has had charge of business of former Russian governments involving the collection of assets which exceeded liabilities by many millions. Only the other day he received a check from an American railroad for $954,104 in settlement of a Russian claim. And he doesn't have to render an account to anyone."

How Rain-in-the-Face Was Named

I was about ten years old when we encountered a band of Cheyennes. They were on friendly terms with us, but we boys always indulged in shaw fights on such occasions, and this time I got in an honest fight with a Cheyenne boy older than I. I got the best of the boy, but he hit me hard in the face several times, and my face was all spattered with blood and streaked where the paint had been washed

"Gate of the Gods"

It was the idea of the Chaldean and Platonic philosophers that the "gate of the gods" was located in Capricornas, says Nature Magazine. Through this gate souls released by death returned to heaven, while through the "gate of men" in the constellation of Cancer, souls descended from heaven in the bodies of men. The positions of these two "gates" correspond to the positions of the two solstices, winter and summer respectively.

Catalina Island Yields

Many Ancient Treasures

Avalon, Santa Catalina Island, Cal. — An attempt to follow ancient trails to the long-lost island temple of Chingichnich, the Sun God, has resulted instead in the discovery of the burial place of a small Indian princess of 3,000 years ago and evidence indicating that child sacrifices were made in wholesale fashion by tribes of the Channel Islands, off the coast of California.

Within a stone urn weighing 134 pounds and fashioned skillfully as though by modern tools was found the skeleton of an Indian girl between five and seven years. Her hands apparently had clutched the rim of an urn, whose rich ornamentation of wampum bespeaks her royal lineage.

In a circle with the urn as a center were counted by Prof. Ralph Glidden, curator of the Catalina museum of Channel Island Indians, the skeletons of 64 children buried in tiers four deep with small heads touching each other.

Beneath them was the skeleton of a seven-foot man. A spear blade still was fixed in the ribs.

The sand within the funeral urn had the appearance of ground crystal — apparently, according to the discoverer, a sacred sand used in the burial of Indian royalty — and was far different from that which had sifted over the graves of the other children.

These finds as well as a wealth of obsidian knives, spear points and arrow heads and hundreds of other articles of wampum-inlaid stone and bone have provided material over which Glidden has puzzled since he discovered them.

One thin piece of slate he believes to be a stone map, holes having been drilled to indicate trails to the four main burying grounds on Santa Catalina Island.

"It is plausible," Glidden said, "that the strange child burial within the urn and those surrounding it were the result of a natural death of a little girl of high rank and the slaying of 64 attendants and playmates with her. Or they all may have been killed in some religious ceremonial rite.

"It is even possible the princess may have been given some potion and buried alive. The way the small hands clutched the outer rim of the bowl makes this a possibility."

Wampum inlaid in four broken circles on the rim of the urn with "gates" leading to the four points of the compass lead Glidden to believe the burial place may be near the site of the temple of Chingichnich.

Butter Stored for Winter

The Department of Agriculture says that for butter, to be stored for winter use, pasteurized sweet cream should be used, churned at a low temperature and the butter washed so that it will be firm and waxy. Rolls or prints of butter should be wrapped in parchment butter paper, placed in a stone crock, and covered with strong brine. Butter should be stored in a cool place as is available and in a place free from odors likely to be absorbed by the butter.

Popular trio—three meals a day.

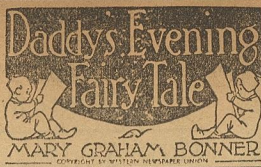

When Food Sours

Lots of folks who think they have "indigestion" have only an acid condition which could be corrected in five or ten minutes. An effective anti-acid like Phillips Milk of Magnesia soon restores digestion to normal. Phillips does away with all that sourness and gas right after meals. It prevents the distress so apt to occur two hours after eating. What a pleasant preparation to take! And how good it is for the system! Unlike a burning dose of soda—which is but temporary relief at best—Phillips Milk of Magnesia neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

SWALLOWS

Nick and Nancy had built a little bird house, with Daddy's help, and the tree swallows had accepted their invitation and had gone to live in the house at the foot of the garden.

They did not disturb them, nor bother them for a long time, so that the swallows gradually became used to the family.

They first saw about their white eggs, and then, after that, they became quite friendly.

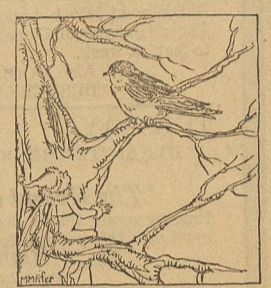

The Mr. Tree Swallows are bluish green above and white underneath.

The Mrs. Tree Swallows are gray, and white beneath.

Sometimes they build their nests out of grass and feathers for the lining, in fact that is the way they usually do, but they sometimes like to have fine bird homes already made for them.

They sing or make a little chirping sound like their other swallow cousins do.

They usually build their nests in hollow trees and like to sit on old branches, so they have been called the Tree Swallows, for their cousins.

Billie Brownie Had Come to Visit.

The Barn Swallows, build their homes around barns.

These swallows like to fly high in the air, and they also love to sit on telegraph wires.

So you can often see and study them as they sit on these wires along the roadsides where the wires can be seen.

And the little tree swallows are ready to be kindly and friendly, but don't bother them until their babies can look after themselves, for they are very nervous until they feel their babies are strong and can take care of themselves.

"They won't bother us, will they?" asked Mother Tree Swallow, "until our babies are older and can look after themselves. We are no nervous."

"No," said Billie Brownie, "they won't bother you."

Billie Brownie had come to visit the swallows and had seen the work that Nick and Nancy and their Daddy had accomplished for the birds.

Billie Brownie was dressed so that real people could not see him, but Mother Nature, you know, had given him special knowledge so that her Natureland children could see him and could understand him, and so he could understand them.

"I will send out word by the Breeze Brothers," Billie Brownie said, "and they will tell every one about the ways of swallows and what they can do and what they must not do."

So the Swallows felt very pleased about this—especially the nervous little Tree Swallows, who really want to be friendly but who are frightened when their babies are young and helpless.

The Mantle of Pope

A small pupil in the summer schools recently was told to write an essay on "Man." The following is the result:

"Man is a queer animal. He has eyes, ears, mouth and nose. His eyes is to get dust in; his ears is to get earache in; his mouth is where his teeth grow in, and his nose is to get the sniffles in."

Give Henry Credit

Jane had one of those childish aversions to washing her face.

Henry, her cousin, used to tease her so that she would do it.

One day after she had finally formed the habit, her aunt and I were discussing Henry's methods.

"Yes," spoke up Jane, "Henry had a great deal to do with the bringing of me up."

Good Time

"Did you have a good time at the party?" asked the fond mother, when the child returned, flushed with excitement from a birthday gathering.

"Oh, yes, mother, we had a perfectly lovely time."

"But what did you do to have such a lovely time?"

"Oh, we just screamed and screamed."

Truck Signed Off

Little two-year-old Bonnie Bell, whose parents had recently purchased a radio, was busily playing in the sand pile when the milk truck drove into the yard. While the driver was unloading the cans the engine stopped. Instantly Bonnie Bell called to him and said:

"Say, Leon, your truck signed off."

PAUL WRITES TO HIS FRIENDS IN CORINTH

LESSON TEXT—1 Cor. 1:10-13:3; 5:11, 21-23.

GOLDEN TEXT—Behold how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Paul Writes a Letter to His Friends.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Paul Writes a Good Letter to His Friends.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Paul Urges Team Work.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Paul Pleads for Christian Unity.

Concerning Contentment in the Church (1:10-13).

1. Exhortation (v. 10). "That ye all speak the same thing."

In view of the fact that he besought them in the name of Jesus Christ, the one thing which he desired them to speak was the Lord's name. The name of the Lord stands for all that the Lord is and does. "That there be no divisions among you," that is, no factions, no alienation of affection. "That ye be perfectly joined together in the same mind and in the same judgment."

2. The reason for this exhortation. (v. 11).

Word had been brought to Paul by members of the household of Chloe that wrangling was going on among the members of the Corinthian church. He assured them that he had sufficient evidence of the strife which was going on among them.

3. Nature of the contentions (v. 12).

Their disputes were about their teachers. Their interests were centering in their favorite ministers. Some were for Paul, perhaps attracted by his logic; some were for Apollos, doubtless moved by his stirring eloquence; others were for Peter. Doubtless these were Jewish converts who looked to Peter as their authority. There were still others who had as their cry "back to Christ," repudiating all human teachers.

4. The grounds of allegiance to Christ (v. 13).

(1) He is Head of the whole church.

The unifying power of the body is the head. He raised the question, "Is Christ divided?" The mere raising of the question gave the answer.

(2) Redemption accomplished.

By his atoning death He has supreme Lordship over all.

(3) Allegiance to Christ acknowledged in baptism. By one Spirit are we all baptized into one body (1 Cor. 12:13).

11. Concerning Christian Ministers (3:1-5).

Since the dissensions in the church gathered around the ministers, Paul proceeded to cure the evil by exhibiting the ministerial office in its true light. To conceive of ministers as party leaders or teachers of philosophy tends to divisions. Divisions in the church occur when men are occupied with the messenger rather than with the message. The cure in such a case is to get a right conception and proper estimate of human teachers. Ministers really are:

1. Servants of God (vv. 5, 6).

They are instruments in His hands for the execution of His will. They are men sent to deliver a message, to do a definite work.

2. Ministers are equal in rank (vv. 8, 9).

They are called by the same spirit to teach the same truth, and therefore stand in the same relationship. Official hierarchy in the church has no foundation in the Scriptures.

3. Every minister must give an account to God for his work (vv. 10-21).

If he lay other foundation than Christ he is not a Christian minister at all. If he build sound doctrine on the foundation he will receive a reward. If he build false doctrine on a true foundation he will suffer loss and receive punishment. Sorrow and anguish will be to him who builds good material upon a wrong foundation, and likewise to him who builds poor material upon a right foundation. Human wisdom has no place in the solemn work of building; the church of God.

4. Ministers are the property of the church (vv. 22, 23).

Frequently the assumption is that the church is owned by the ministers. Ministers should be followed only as far as they follow Christ.

5. Ministers are God's stewards (4:1-5).

Their business is to dispense His truth. They do not originate the message. God demands fidelity on their part and He will enter into judgment with them as to their faithfulness.

Proof of a Divine Reality

The best proof of a divine reality at the heart of things is the passion for growth, the desire for perfection, that makes itself felt in all who are sensitive to the possibilities of spiritual attainment.

Being Content

We have been content with a slight deviation above the evils of our time, and not intent on the inward searching, purifying and consuming of the Holy Spirit.—F. B. Meyer.

Eskimos "Mine" Ivory

Ancient fossil ivory valued at $50,000 came South on the first boat from Nome this season. The ivory on board represented an unintentional bequest from the long deceased Eskimo to the present generation. The natives from time immemorial feasted on walrus and the tusks, having no value, were tossed aside.

These piles accumulated, especially on the St. Lawrence and the Pribilof islands, during the centuries.

Then white men came north with trading schooners and bought freshly killed walrus ivory. The Eskimos, remembering the wasteful habits of their ancestors, promptly began sinking mines on the sites of ancient camps. Each summer they dig out thousands of dollars' worth of fossil ivory, valuable because of its deep coloring and extreme hardness.

OCTOBER QUEEN OF AUTUMN

By a Cross Plains Lady

I am Miss October; I come with the brightness of the Morning Star; I bring you good cheer, happiness and prosperity. Miss September, you say you get ready for expansion? I (October) get the expansion.

I put vim in your veins and a spring in your heels, and a hurry to town for sacks to gather the white staple.

I (October) convert the atmosphere into a great choir by the whistles and songs of, the boys and girls in the cotton patch, which breaks the silence on their way to and from school.

The melody of the birds thrill the air as they flit from branch to branch, feasting on the rip fruit, the haws, the beech-nut and the chickopee. The stillness of the midnight hour is broken by a solo—the cricket.

Miss September, you boast of your greatness, and you left summer behind.

When you observe the frosty nights and the brightness of the firmament, mingled with the smoke from the Indian pipe, number Ten (October) of the solar year, brings Indian Summer with its beauties—the real autumn month.

The pictures of the forest trees, as beautiful as the rain-bow, are painted in the stillness of the night by Mr. Jack Frost.

I, (October) with the frosty nights, ripen the fruit of the pecan tree, therefore given joy and gladness to the thousands of boys and girls, as well as a feast for the squirrels that hoard the fruit away for rainy days; barks, much as to say:

"Thank you, Miss October, I longed for your return—if you had not come again, the pecans would not have ripened."

The opossum would still be in his hiding place had it not been for me. (October) I so faithfully see after his rations, the persimmon.

Miss September, your limit is thirty days; my life is thirty-one days, better far by twenty-four hours. Therefore I render a longer and a greater service. I (October) am a finer and a greater month—so I am the QUEEN OF AUTUMN.

CITATION BY PUBLICATION

The State of Texas

To the Sheriff or any Constable of Callahan County, Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon L. G. BRADSTREET and J. G. BRADSTREET, by making publication of this Citation once in each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your County, if there be a newspaper published therein, but if not, then in the nearest County where a newspaper is published, to appear at the next regular term of the District Court of Callahan County, to be held at Court House thereof, in Baird, Texas, on the 5th Monday in October A. D. 1928, the same being the 29th day of October A. D. 1928, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 5th day of July A. D. 1928, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said Court as No. 7359, wherein J. H. POTTER is Plaintiff, and L. G. BRADSTREET and J. G. BRADSTREET, are Defendants, and said petition alleging:

In the District Court of Callahan County, Texas.

How comes J. H. POTTER who resides in Callahan County, Texas, hereinafter called Plaintiff, complaining of L. G. BRADSTREET who reside in Tarrant County, Texas, and J. G. BRADSTREET who reside in Brown County, Texas, hereinafter called defendants, and for cause of action Plaintiff, represents and shows to the Court that heretofore, to wit: on the First day of September 1925, he as the owner in fee of ten acres of land situated in Callahan County, Texas, being ten acres in the N. E. CORNER of the G. Vigil Survey in the County of Callahan, State of Texas, on which he resides with his family in a residence house thereon.

That on or about the 3rd day of September 1925, he with his wife, executed an oil and gas lease covering said ten acres to one R. D. Howell, for the development of Oil and Gas, which said oil and gas lease contained the usual covenant and agreement contained in the Producers 88 Texas form of lease, which provided among other things, that the lessee therein would pay all damages to growing crops occasioned by the development of said land also that the lessee would not drill a well on said land within two hundred feet of any dwelling house located thereon without the consent of this Plaintiff or lessor in writing, and also would bury all pipe lines below plow depth on said land.

Plaintiff alleges that defendants came into possession of said lease and was bound by all the stipulations therein obligatory on the part of the lessee therein.

That defendant drilled a well on said ten acres of land wherein less than two hundred feet, to wit: within ninety feet of Plaintiff's family residence, without the written consent of Plaintiff.

That the defendant negligently dug a slush pit into which slush pit was discharged the salt water, mud, oil and slush from said oil well and said slush pit located within six feet of Plaintiff's water well from which he produced water for family use.

That by the negligent construction by defendant the said slush pit in not digging the same down below the bottom of the sand and into the clay underlying the sand a sufficient depth to prevent the salt water slush and oil to percolate through the sand and into the said water well unfit for use that the slush pit on account of the filthy and stagnant water held in the same, became a breeding ground for mosquitoes, and its proximity to Plaintiff's residents made the occupancy of said home by Plaintiff and his family undesirable and untenable.

That defendants negligently constructed two 2 inch pipe lines through his yard near his residence aforesaid, one of which was a pipe for conveying steam power to the engine, and said pipe was usually kept at a very high temperature due to the passage of hot steam; the said pipe was laid about four inches above the surface of the ground and very dangerous to children, and especially to Plaintiff's six year old child; the other of said pipe was used for conveying gas and laid about four inches above the surface of the ground and these two pipe lines were laid through the yard near the house, rendering ingress and egress to the house dangerous and hazardous; a large steam boiler was located about twenty feet from the said dwelling house, and by reason of the heat engendered by the boiler and the noise made, it was impossible to sleep in said house.

That two guy wires supporting a mast of the drilling machine, one of which was anchored within two feet of the entrance to the house and the other about ten feet from the front entrance. Also two large storage tanks from which salt water oil constantly escaped, the odor of which mingled with decaying vegetation caused by the water and oil became a menace to the health of Plaintiff and his family to occupy his said residence. Also work going on both night and day by workmen employed, destroyed all privacy also a large rose bush five feet high and four years old was grubbed up by defendant's employees to make room for said guy wires, for all of which unlawful and unwarranted acts were committed by defendants and their employees for which defendants are liable.

That by reason of said negligence of the defendants in manner and form as herein before set out, Plaintiff with his family was compelled to abandon his said residence house and home located on said ten acres of land aforesaid and secure

Why Stormizing Process Is Mechanically Correct

Stormizing Machines bring "Factory" accuracy to the Garage. They are power driven, precision machines that make accuracy a certainty. Accuracy does not depend on the mechanic's individual skill. The Process is so accurate that it can be repeated several times as cylinders wear.

All Stormized cylinders will be re-aligned perpendicular and "SQUARE" with crankshaft and all Stormized cylinders of the block will be uniform in size and finished to a glass smoothness, just as they were when the car left the Factory. Correct alignment and uniform size of cylinders is necessary for "balanced" motors.
