As for his academic goals, Chris is planning initially to major in Physical Education, then another major in Aero Space Technology. Upon graduation from college, he plans to go into the Navy and hopefully be in their pilot program.

It was an exciting week for many of Texas' high school football players. Many of them signed letters of intent to play football at colleges of their choice.

Texans Talk Toll-Free To Governer Clement's Office

AUSTIN - Last month, Governor Bill Clements' Office helped 836 Texans cut through the bureaucratic red tape with an innovative Citizens Assistance Hotline.

From 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays, hotline staff members provide information to anyone who calls 1-800-252-9600 (463-1780 in Austin).

The department helps people obtain information or assistance on a variety of topics ranging from obtaining the address of their state legislators to how to get a copy of a birth certificate.

The hotline also serves as a liaison between the public and state agencies or programs.

During the legislative session, hotline workers expect to field thousands of telephone calls about pending legislation. A summary of the legislative queries will be presented to the governor for his consideration as he reviews bills sent to his office by lawmakers.

This morning is gloomy beyond description — I can hardly see the fences at the highway. The weather fits my disposition this morning — sad!

It isn't often that I attend two funerals in one week. On Thursday, I went to Breckenridge for the funeral of a very dear cousin, Edmond Gene Satterwhite.

On Saturday, I attended the funeral for Mr. Alton Tatom at First Baptist Church. My sincere sympathy is extended to that large family.

It was a pleasure to see Bro. Burlie and Geri Taylor, also Carroll and Susan Rhodes, and many others whom I had not seen in quite some time.

Mr. Norman Lee went to Dallas last week and brought Mrs. Lee home. She went back to her job this week.

Rex Beggs answered the 'phone at his parents' home. Betty had just driven off. Betty has a very dear, longtime friend visiting her this week. She is Anna Smith of Fort Worth.

Helen Tillotson, Nell Fleming, and Sally Roady did not answer their telephone this morning.

Weekend visitors in the John Burleson home were his mother, Mrs. Dee Burleson of De Leon, their daughter, Ruth Hutchins and Clinton of Odessa, Bill Burleson of Houston, and Matthew Burleson of Lubbock. They also visited their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Cole Tillotson.

Small Business Set-a-sides Eliminated

Engineering design, construction and certain service contracts valued at over $25,000 will no longer be small business set-asides.

In compliance with the Business Opportunity Development Reform Act of 1988, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Fort Worth District announced today that all of its future solicitations, including those issued since January 1, 1989, will be open to all contractors regardless of business size, except those set aside for small minority firms.

Under the new Public Law 100-656, non-small business set-asides consist of construction standard industrial classification groups #15 (building construction — general contractors and operative builders); #16 (heavy construction other than building construction, contractors); and #17 (construction-special, trade contractors).

Refuse and related services cover groups #4212 (local trucking without storage); #4215 (courier services, except by air); and #7389 (business services, not elsewhere classified).

The law also encompasses groups #8711 (engineering services); #8712 (architectural services); and #8713 (surveying services).

Contracts valued at less than $25,000 may be issued as emerging small business set-asides, at the discretion of the Corps' contracting officer.

For additional information concerning contracts affected by this law, call Chester Bochenko, the Fort Worth District's Small and Small Disadvantaged Business Utilization Specialist, at 817-334-4412.

Texas Commission On Alchol And Drug Abuse Survey Shocking

austine AUSTIN — The Texas Commission on Alcohol and Drug Abuse today presented startling new information on the extent of alcohol and drug use among children and adolescents in Texas. The data, part of the Commission's 1988 Survey of Substance Abuse Among Secondary School Students in Texas, was unveiled at a meeting convened by the Commission to coordinate the efforts of health and human service, education and criminal justice agencies, and organizations to address the myriad of needs brought to light by the survey results.

Among the more significant

*76 percent of all Texas secondary school students (86 percent of seniors) have used alcohol during their lifetime, with 43 percent (58 percent of seniors) reporting use within the last month.

*The average high school senior who drinks alcohol consumes an average of 41 alcoholic drinks per month, of which 31 were beer.

*About 12 percent of seniors have attended class while drunk at least once during the last school year.

*Use of inhalants is higher among younger students than among seniors. For example, 28 percent of seventh graders reported using inhalants as opposed to only 17 percent of seniors. This pattern of use is radically opposed to the norm, and suggests that many young inhalant users may drop out of school before reaching the twelfth grade.

*Of those seventh graders who use inhalants, 31 percent reported their first use at age 10 or younger.

"The data from this historic youth survey holds powerful implications," said Bob Dickson, TCADA Executive Director. "Implications that call for coodination among not only the chemical dependency and education fields, but among all other systems in Texas that are impacted by this generation of youth that are growing up without the benefit of sufficient education and treatment services." Dickson added that the data was presented first to the directors of these other agencies to emphasize the need for continuing cooperation and commitment from all involved.

File For Conservation Plans Now At SCS

Producers in Callahan County who are farming highly erodible cropland have only 11 more months to develop and begin applying a conservation plan in order to remain eligible for USDA program benefits, according to Range Conservationist Tony Baeza of the Baird Field Office of the Soil Conservation Service vation Service.

Baeza said that his office has already assisted with the development of 80 percent of the plans needed in Callahan County. "We believe that those persons who have not yet developed a conservation plan are those who are either not aware of the requirements or else they are putting it off in hopes that it will go away," Baeza explained.

Baeza further stated that his office will not be able to help everyone who needs it if they wait until the latter part of the year. Those who need assistance are requested to contact the SCS office as soon as possible at 854-1349. "We can also provide information as to whether or not a conservation plan is actually needed," Baeza said.

Baeza also said that those farmers with highly erodible land can also stay in compliance with the 1985 Food Security Act if they choose to put their highly erodible cropland in the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP). Under this program, highly erodible land is planted to permanent grass and retired for ten years. The government will assist the landowner 50 percent to seed the cropland to permanent grass.

The government will then pay the landowner a set price per acre for the next ten years. A landowner will not be able to graze, hay, or harvest seed. A landowner will be able to lease land for hunting. A sign up for the CRP program will take place from February 6 — February 24.

The service of the Soil Conservation are available to anyone regardless of race, creed, color, sex, religion, or national origin.

PUTITINTHE LUANTADS FOR RESULTS

Economic Progress Can Gain New Momentum With Adoption of Texas JOBs Plan

By Governor Bill Clements

Texas is a "recession buster." We're literally blazing a trail to a new era of economic achievement.

Certainly, our accomplishments are reflected in the growing number of businesses relocating or expanding in Texas, but also in our falling statewide unemployment rate. Our state's jobless rate fell in December to a four-year low.

Since 1986 our economy has created an average of 329,000 new jobs.

The time has come to fortify our initiatives with new, bold and innovative programs.

That's why I have presented the Texas Legislature with a Texas Jobs and Opportunity Blueprint, better known as my Texas JOBs program.

Our initiatives are designed to underscore our business climate by fostering economic diversification and by putting policies into place that promote growth, not a retreat from growth.

Our JOBs Plan is aimed at providing tax incentives for job creation, at enhancing the development of rural Texas and, at the same time, broadening our markets in America and abroad. Above all, our program calls for an overhaul of our out-of-whack workers' compensation system and renews our commitment to preserving our strong right-to-work laws and to working against a corporate or personal income

To make Texas an even more attractive distribution center for the nation's commodities, and to bolster our manufacturing and twin plant industries, I'm proposing that we exempt business inventories from property taxes when these goods are only in the state temporarily. Besides Alaska, Texas is the only state in America that offers no such exemption. Our central location is one of our greatest natural resources. It's time we took greater pains to promote this asset through policies such as this "goods-in-transit" initiative.

To provide a further incentive for job creation for all industries, large and small, I'm asking the Legislature to speed-up the scheduled phase-out of the sales and use tax now paid on manufacturing equipment. By providing refunds for a portion of the tax payments earlier, Texas can reap the benefits of job growth today, not tomorrow.

Each one of our proposals represents a window of opportunity - an area or sector with untapped potential. One such window is rural Texas.

Today, agribusiness accounts for less than 10 percent of the "total value added" to our economy through processing and manufacturing. That's half of the national average of 20 percent. Reaching just that average would create more than 250,000 new jobs for Texans and boost our annual gross state product by $24 billion.

My JOBs program also proposes the creation of the Rural Economic Development Fund — a guarantee loan program that would foster the expansion of food and fiber processing in Texas.

Establishment of a Rural Economic Development Commission that I am proposing within the Texas Department of Commerce can develop recommendations to revitalize all segments of rural Texas.

Further, I'm proposing efforts to boost Texas exports.

Texas now exports nearly $20 billion in goods and products annually. But if we increase our exports by just 5 percent, the Department of Commerce estimates that we can create 50,000 new

Today only 20 percent of our businesses with exportable goods or services have expanded to global markets. Part of the reason has been a lack of

To address this, we must target small- and mid-sized businesses by creating an Exporters Loan Fund to help Texas capture a bigger share of foreign

Opening new doors to new markets will put our ingenuity and our creativity to a greater test. Certainly, we cannot allow today's sweeping changes in science and technology to pass us by. It's imperative that we help our universities and research centers transfer their successes in the laboratory to the marketplace to continue to underscore our high tech base.

Legislation to create a Product Development Fund would let us reach that goal. It would provide sorely needed funding for testing, refining and demonstrating potential new products.

Remaining competitive in today's global economy requires that we place a greater emphasis on specialized workforce training.

That's why I'm urging the creation of a more substantial and flexible Workforce Development Incentive Program to provide specific, fast-track training in new and developing fields.

This is our JOBs Plan for Texas. It embodies our hope for the years to come- a roadmap for a strong Texas economy

Report Payments Of $600 or More

Farmers who make total payments of $600 or more during a calendar year to another person, other than a corporation, must file information returns with the Internal Revenue Service.

For example, the IRS says, interest payments of $600 or more paid on installment sale contracts should be reported on Form 1099-INT, "Statement for Recipients of Interest In-

Payments of $600 or more for rents, commissions, fees, prizes, awards, and other payments and compensation, including payments to subcontractors and payments for services provided by nonemployees, are reported on Form 1099-MISC, "Statement for Recipients of Miscellaneous Income." Royalty payments of $10 or more are also reported on this form.

Computers compare the data reported on information returns with individual income tax returns.

Free IRS Publication 916, "Information Returns," gives details, and can be obtained using the order blank in the tax package or calling IRS toll-free at 1-800-424-3676.

Weeding Out The Records

By DEBBIE CHRISTIAN
Extension Agent-Home Economics

Winter is a good time to re-assess your financial habits because a year has just ended. Like most people, your financial papers and records could probably stand a little overhauling.

But before you begin a reorganizing, consider what you really need and what you can prune out. Most of us save more paperwork than necessary and it just takes up a lot of space.

Start by setting out boxes and files to hold three types of records: those you can toss, those you need to keep six or more years, and those you need to keep for the rest of your life.

Things You Can Toss. If you don't need the record for tax purposes or if you are sure it can easily be replaced, don't save it.

Receipts for small daily purchases do not have to be saved, especially if they have no tax consequences. But keep receipts for expensive items to settle insurance claims in the case of loss, theft or damage.

It isn't necessary to keep monthly mutual fund and brokerage statements once a comprehensive year-end statement is issued. However, you should save trade confirmations and dividend-reinvestment statements. This information is needed to determine your cost basis when you sell a security. Without it, you may overpay taxes when you sell the security.

You can safely discard most business receipts for less than $25 and your credit card bills after your bank returns the cancelled check verifying that you paid the bill. However, if you need your credit card statement for analyzing itemized deductions at tax time, keep those statements with your tax records.

Records To Keep Six Or More

FIRE DEPARTMENT DONATIONS

Recent donations to the Cross Plains Volunteer Fire Department were Noah Johnson $25; Class of 1949 in memory of Tennie Phillips $10; Esther Sunday School Class, First Baptist Church in memory of Vera Harris $15; Martin C. Landolt, Jr. $50; Union Texas Petroleum $200; and Mrs. Ethel Sims $25.

The department appreciates all donations and thanks the above for their contributions.

Years. Plan to keep tax records for as long as they are important for any Internal Revenue law. Keep records that support an item of income or a deduction appearing on a return until the statute of limitations for the return runs out. Usually this is 3 years from the date the return was due or filed, or 2 years from the date the tax was paid, which ever date is later.

Sometimes you may keep tax records for a longer period, such as in property transactions, when the basis for the new or replacement property depends on the old property's basis. Keep those records for as long as they are important in figuring your property's basis.

Records To Keep Forever. These records include birth and death certificates, list of financial assets, medical records, powers of attorney, trust agreements, will, and W-2 statements. Also, keep divorce decrees and custody agreements, military papers, naturalization papers, and prenuptial agreements.

Getting a handle on your paper trail will take a little time and effort, but will be worth it. Once you've accomplished this task, you'll be able to find every paper you need.

Form 4835 Used For Rental Income

Farm landfords not participating in the operation or management of their farms must report rental income and expenses for tax purposes, the Internal Revenue Service says.

In such a case, farm rental income based on the landlord's share of crops or livestock produced by the tenant is reported on Form 4835, "Farm Rental Income and Expenses," and the totals are carried to Schedule E (Form 1040).

However, the IRS says, rents for the use of pasture or farmland are reported as rent on Schedule E, "Supplemental Income Schedule."

Free IRS Publication 225, "Farmer's Tax Guide," contains additional information and can be obtained by using the order blank in the tax package or calling IRS toll-free at 1-800-424-3676.

Young Men Turning 26 In 1989

Young men who will turn 26 in 1989 will be reaching an important milestone, according to the Selective Service System.

Beginning on January 1, 1989, men who were required to register with Selective Service in 1981 will be turning 26. Selective Service does not have the authority to accept late registrations after a man reaches his 26th birthday.

Selective Service State Director Harold D. Doyle warned that, with few exceptions, a man who fails to register before turning 26 will permanently forfeit his eligibility for certain federal benefits such as student aid, job training, and most federal employment, in addition to facing possible prosecution as a felon.

Some states also require registration for state student aid, entrance to state-supported colleges and universities, state employment, and permission to practice law.

Many of the men who have not registered may be unaware of the requirement or do not understand the importance of the obligation to register. Some may even have served in the military but failed to register either before entering the armed forces or after leaving active duty. Others may have been institutionalized or incarcerated at the time of their 18th birthday and did not realize they were required to register if released prior to age 26.

State Director Doyle points out that men age 18 through 25 who have not yet registered can avoid the risk of prosecution and loss of benefits by registering promptly at any local post office. Failure to register is a felony punishable by a fine of up to $250,000, up to 5 years in prison, or both.

For those men born in 1963 who have registered, 1989 also marks the year that ends their eligibility for selection for induction under present law.

Over 21 million men have registered with Selective Service since registration was reinstituted in 1980. Currently, over one million Texas men age 18 through 25 are registered.

On a sunny summer day, the heat of the sun on one acre of pond can equal the energy of 4,500 horsepower.
