FARROW CASE IS SET WEDNESDAY

HOME TOWN GOSSIP

The political speaking here Saturday night was at times a feverish affair. Both Lotief and Callaway evidenced the fact that they would be able to hold their own in an oratorical contest in the legislature, if elected.

B. L. Russell, Jr. steered clear of the "mud tossing" yet gained favor when he spoke briefly in behalf of Tip Ross, the absent candidate. J. S. Yeager read statistics by the columns but naturally did not command attention as did the home boys, Callaway and Lotief.

Indications are that when the boys all meet here at the picnic, next month, they will banish the Queensbury rules and bar nothing.

And speaking of Queensbury rules that calls to mind, the world's heavy-weight boxing match at Madison Square Garden, New York, Tuesday night. Jack Sharkey, the Boston gob, will enter the ring for a 15 round match with champion Max Schmeling, who was awarded the title over him via the foul route.

Despite the fact that Sharkey is about 14 pounds heavier than his previous fighting weight and that he is six years older than the elusive German, this column predicts he will grab the crown, which has been just beyond his grasp for years.

Intended this week to take a rather "masty" crack at Roy Carmichael about his high prices but he got right liberal Tuesday and had the family up to his cafe for turkey dinner, so the following must be related mildly.

Fred Burgin carried three dozen eggs into the Lone Star Cafe the first of the week and asked the "chef" to cook several of them for him in exchange for the remaining eggs. Now would you believe it, Fred got two scrambled eggs fried for his three dozen. Such a skimpy profit just 34 eggs.

Two weeks ago an article was published in the Review to the effect that Cross Plains is a city where dreams come true. When highway work was actually begun, after numerous postponements, west of town on 23, Thursday morning, the Review editor was reminded by a local citizen that we are now realizing another illusion of years gone by.

A paved highway from Coleman to Cisco was a dream that the earliest settlers of this place had, in hoping someday to see Cross Plains on a great traffic thoroughfare.

Yes sir, "a city where dreams come true" and we might add "a city of things done and things doing".

ODDITIES

There are more than 3,000 different people's names in the Review this week.

Callahan county issued 97 marriage licenses and granted 17 divorces in 1931, as compared with 96 marriages and 19 divorces in 1930. There was no annulments.

No woman has ever sat on the jury in this county, although they are allowed that right under the Lattimore bill which was passed in 1918.

74 children under 15 years answered the cross word puzzle published in the Review last week.

W. C. Wilkinson was a resident of the Hawaiian Islands before they became possessions of the United States.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Kemper have had as their guests the past week Rev. Norfus, of Dallas; and his mother and sister, of Terrell.

Rev. Ollie Dennis and family of Rochester, are visiting friends and relatives here this week.

Rev. Andy Foster, of Anson visited relatives and friends in Cross Plains the past week.

PICNIC FEATURES ARE OUTLINED

PROMINENT SPEAKERS BE HERE DURING THE TWO DAYS JULY 13-14

Terrapin Race, Rodeo, And Dinner On Ground Are Other Attractions

Speakers of state and county prominence, a terrapin derby, wild west rodeo, concession attractions and dinner on the ground, are features that have already been carded for the Cross Plains annual picnic here July 13 and 14. Six thousand people are expected during the two days.

F. R. Anderson, chairman of the program and entertainment committee, announced yesterday that he had invited: Ross Shaw Sterling, Mr. Miriam Ferguson, Tom F. Hunter, M. H. Wolf, George W. Armstrong, C. A. Frakes, J. Ed Glenn, W. K. Hopkins and R. Q. Evans, candidates for Governor. Former Governor Jim Ferguson was extended the same invitation as were gubernatorial candidates.

Among others that have already been invited by the entertainment committee are: Thomas L. Blanton and Joe Jones, candidates for Congress; Wilbourne B. Collie, Alvin A. Howsley and Oliver Cunningham, for state senate; Judges M. L. Long and Henry L. DeBask, for District Judge; all county candidates and scores of other state candidates, whose names were not available at press time Thursday.

A terrapin derby, conducted in the same fashion as those of the famous 101 ranch is promised by the athletic committee. It is understood that an entrance fee will be charged each crumbeous galloper and that a grand prize will be given the winner. Committeemen told the Review Tuesday that they expected the award to be much larger than last year, which was approximately $50.

"Concessions will go on sale for the picnic the last day of this month," said V. C. Walker, chairman of the finance committee yesterday. All offers will be considered through sealed bids. The committee reserved the right to reject any and all bids, in the event that they did sell high enough. The bids will be opened June 30 at ten o'clock a. m. Cash or check for one third of amount must be inclosed with sealed offer.

The finance committee said that they would accept bids on bottle drinks (with exception of near beer), hamburgers, hot dogs, novelty goods, watermelons, barbecue, bingo stand, ice cream, snow cones, pop corn and peanuts, home made candies, general stand, lemonade, orangeade and root beer. Bids on other concessions especially desired not listed herein will be considered the committee informed. Little data was available concerning the rodeo or dinner during the two days of the picnic, but it was understood that plans were being formulated to make these attractions the best in the history of Cross Plains. COURT OF C. C. RULES AGAINST JERRY KENT

Jerry Kent, Cross Plains youth who is under 40 year sentence for the slaying of his grand uncle, Bob Ensor, has again seen his dim ray of hope to evade "prison walls" fade starkly before him. The court of criminal appeals at Austin, which affirmed the case in May, Wednesday overruled the appellant's motion for rehearing.

Kent has been confined in the county jail at Baird 15 months. Except for leniency he will not be given credit for this time on his prison sentence. He is 21.

PUBLIC BEGINS PAYING TAX TO BALANCE BUDGET NEXT TUESDAY MORNING

Whether you realize it or not, next Tuesday morning you will begin helping "Uncle Sam" balance the federal budget. That is, of course, if you purchase tires, chewing gum, cosmetics, automobile accessories, gasoline oil; take deeds of trusts or give checks on your bank. Then June sixth the two cent postage fee will advance to three cents.

Whether Cross Plains merchants will add the tax to all above named articles, and others included in the revenue raising plan, Tuesday morning or not was not definitely known Thursday but it is certain when they replace these items the tax will be paid.

WELLS NEAR HERE RESUME DRILLING AFTER BAD WEATHER

Intermittent rains and unfavorable weather conditions in general slowed drilling in the Cross Plains area the past week but all had resumed operations yesterday.

Marion Harvey and C. C. Neeb, on the Dickens tract, east of Cross Cut two miles, were nearing the sand Thursday afternoon at a depth of 1200 feet. They expect to hit "pay" at 1350—the Cross Cut sand. Their test is directly between two producing oil wells.

Brown and Eckholm's test on the Western extremity of the Burkett pool, being drilled by F. A. Lane, expects to strike the sand sometime next week. Rain prevented them from drilling practically all week.

Roy Carmichael et al on the Adams farm, two and one half miles northwest of town, were 370 feet Wednesday morning. They plan to drill to the Cross Plains sand, 1,600 feet. "The logs are a little higher than other tests in the locality, giving very favorable prospects", said Roy Carmichael yesterday.

Harve Kellar et al on the Hargrove tract, near Cottonwood, was drilling at 500 feet late yesterday. They expect the sand at 700.

Frank Stone et al on the Barr, two miles West of Cross Plains, ran pipe at 330 feet to shut off a small water flow. They encountered a showing of oil with the water. "Pay" is expected at 500 feet.

O. T. Laws' Strawberry Experiment Is Proving Profitable In Cross Plains

Dewberries, hackberries, mulberries, blackberries and possibly goose berries, have grown near Cross Plains for years and now strawberries are becoming quite prominent.

Cultivation of the red juicy berry-queen of the rosaceous variety—was begun here a few years ago, more or less as a fad, but its unusual prosperity has developed it into almost already a commercial success.

O. T. Laws, local water superintendent, is the pioneer strawberry grower in this locality. Beds of them at his home, just east of the high school building, are yielding much more than his family can use for present and canning needs. A representative of the Review was escorted around the place Monday morning by Mr. Laws, who pointed out and explained the processes that he is using advantageously.

Among the things that Mr. Laws has developed to cultivate better strawberries are beds with cotton burrs as a fertilizer and to keep the berries out of dampness, which frequently disfigures or mars the color. Among the gallon or more that he

July first will be Cross Plains day at Boy Scout camp Tonkawa, near Buffalo Gap. Scoutmaster, Dr. J. H. McGowen told the Review Wednesday that a troop of local boys would probably attend.

The Boy Scout executive committee met Tuesday night at the Oil Well Supply building and formulated plans for a two weeks study course before completing Scout organization. Those present Tuesday night were: Dr. J. H. McGowen, Ike Kendrick, Ted R. Smith, Virgil Graves, H. T. Schooley, W. A. Huckaby and Clarence Stevens.

Grand Jury Finds Bill For Murder In Slaying of Archie E. Davidson

BULLET WOUND FATAL TO ARCHIE DAVIDSON, BURIED HERE MONDAY

Funeral services for Archie E. Davidson, 29, was conducted from the Church of Christ here Monday afternoon. Interment was made in Cross Plains cemetery. Death resulted shortly after one o'clock Sunday afternoon, of a pistol wound received here here Saturday night. Walter Farrow, local cafe man, was taken into custody in connection with the shooting.

Davidson was shot through the right temple when he started to enter Farrow's cafe, on Main Street, here, Saturday night a few minutes after ten o'clock. He was carried to a local doctors office, where medical attention was administered. An hour later he was placed in an ambulance and taken to a Santa Anna hospital, where he died the following afternoon.

Doctors said that the bullet, a 45 calibre, entered the right temple and lodged in the brain. He never regained consciousness after being struck.

Farrow was arrested at his cafe several minutes after the shooting and held by local officers until Deputy Sheriff Bob Tollet, of Baird, arrived to take him to the county jail.

Davidson had resided here virtually all of his life. He was an oil field worker.

Minister C. M. Moser, of Coleman, conducted the rites here Monday afternoon from the Church of Christ. Interment was made in Cross Plains cemetery. Surviving are parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Davidson, brothers, Bill, Ode, Ern, Lois, Merlin and Grady a sister, Mrs. Richard Mitchell, all of Cross Plains and another sister, Mrs. Jess Youngblood, of Cisco, and another brother Sam Davidson, of San Angelo.

QUEEN OF SKY SAILS OVER CROSS PLAINS

The silvery sided dirigible Akron, mightiest airship aloft, sailed majestically past Cross Plains Sunday afternoon, shortly before seven o'clock. The elevation is said to have been approximately 5,400 feet.

Hundreds of local people saw the giant dirigible, which remained in vision more than 20 minutes. Its speed was reported by the Associated Press to have been 50 miles an hour average. The ship was enroute to Lakehurst, N. J. from San Francisco.

Local Boy Training Olympic swimmer For Cincinnati Try-outs

Norvell Pierce, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Pierce, arrived the past week from Los Angeles with a friend Fernando Gauthier, an Olympic swimming entrant, for a brief visit with Norvell's parents.

The boys plan to leave Cross Plains soon for Cincinnati, Ohio, where Gauthier will participate in the Olympic tryouts July 14, 15 and 16. He is said to hold numerous swimming records, and feels confident of pulling through the Olympics. He credits much of his success to the training and good management of "buddy" Norville.

The boys are continuing training while visiting here.

F. A. (Cowboy) Lane was a business visitor the first of the week in San Angelo and Sonora.

Case of Walter Farrow, Cross Plains cafe man billed for murder in connection with the fatal shooting of Archie Davidson, 29, here Saturday night, will come up in district court at Baird Wednesday. Judge M. S. Long set his bond at $3,500.

Grand jurors in session the fourth day after the shooting questioned seven eye witnesses. They were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bounds, Miss Athalie Adams, Bye Montgomery, Alvie Simpson, Ray Tyler and Dave Davis, all of Cross Plains. Several hours after beginning the probing they announced the finding of a bill for "murder."

Farrow is being held the county jail at Baird. He had not made bail Thursday morning, according to reports received from the court house. His attorney R. L. Martin, of Abilene, was in Cross Plains, Wednesday afternoon gathering evidence and working on the case. Prosecution will be handled by District Attorney, Bob Black. Judge M. S. Long will hear the case.

It is expected that the jury in the case will be selected from the list of men that have already been summoned for service for the third week of district court. WESTERN UNION KEEPS UP-TOWN OFFICE HERE

Announcement was made from Dallas Wednesday morning that the Western Union office would not be closed up town in Cross Plains and moved to the railroad station, as was intimated several weeks ago.

Increase in business and staunch support of citizens here are said to be reasons for maintaining the up-town office.

A check up here yesterday revealed that Cross Plains was one of the very few cities of its size to have a Western Union office separate and apart from the railroad.

We Vote, But Why?

One month from tomorrow Cross Plains will go to the polls to voice her opinion in precinct, county and state elections. Records from the Tax Collectors office show a decrease in our voting strength. To offset that situation and maintain the political prestige that Cross Plains has always commanded, we must turn out one hundred percent and vote our preferences.

Remember every person over 60 years of age can vote without a poll tax receipt. Those that reached the age of 21 after tax paying are also accorded that privilege for their first ballot.

Make plans now to go to your voting box July 23 and support your favorites, regardless of who they are. A heavy ballot always commands consideration when your town, precinct or state is asking for favors from the parent in government.

Reptile Traveler Welcomed

A young emperor boa constrictor is making his home in the Philadelphia zoo after a journey from the jungles of tropical Brazil in a bunch of bananas. The snake caused a near-panic when Phillip Braverman, who operates a fruit store, unwrapped the cover from a bunch of bananas he had bought from Brazil. The snake dropped to the floor and police were summoned, captured it and turned it over to C. Emerson Brown, director of the zoo. Brown said that it was a rare specimen and that he had never heard of a boa constrictor making the trip from Brazil in a bunch of bananas.

Circumventing Colic

A pretty little party from pittsburg, who always wears a straight flush and who can't understand the ways of a man with a maid, brings her problem to Oral Hygiene. "My boy friend," she boasts "is as fine as they come, but whenever he calls he invariably waits 15 minutes before kissing me. Now, what's his system, please?" "Perhaps," grins the editor, "he has learned how long it takes the paint to dry?"

Preference

A famous New York Clergyman, whose hair is very kinky, was introduced by a witty bald-headed toastmaster as follows: "This is the well-known preacher with the crocheted hair." To which the preacher replied: "I would rather have hair that is crocheted than hair that is knit."

Railroad Instrument

A dynagraph is an apparatus, or a collection of apparatuses, in a railroad car for exhibiting and recording the condition of a line of track and the resistance of a train, its speed and other particulars concerning its running.

FORT IS ONE OF TEXAS' OLDEST STRUCTURES

The oldest complete structure still remaining in Texas is the stone fort at San Pedro Springs San Antonio.

Plans to preserve this old fort are well under way. Its construction is placed at various dates between 1690 and 1716. The stone fort formed the southwest corner of a cedar stockade, which was burned by Indians.

Defense of the old fort from attacks of decay has been speeded by recent loss of the old stone market house and the Veramendi Palace.

Grate on Each Other

"There's a good deal of friction in human relationships at present."

"What can you expect when so many people have lost their bearings?"

Water Invaluable

Water is without more important to mankind than fire. Man could not live at all without water, and it is necessary also to all plant and animal life, upon which man depends for food.

Alternative

Sometimes husband and wife chat merrily as they prepare for bed, and sometimes they have played against one another at bridge.

Prolific Author

The elder Dumas, the famous French writer, wrote 67 plays, 92 novels, 32 historical works, 18 books of travel and 14 miscellaneous works.

UNKNOWN

Buried in the middle of the second volume of Lincoln Steffens' autobiography are some paragraphs on education, for which I extend my thanks.

"Thinking back over my school and college courses," he says, "I could see that one trouble with our education was that it did not teach us what was not known, not enough of the unsolved problems of the sciences, of the arts, and of life.

"It gave us positive knowledge where there was no certain knowledge, and worst of all, when we did not particularly want it. We were not curious as students, and we are not curious enough now as men and women.

"It seemed to me . . . that curiosity was the beginning and end of education."

If a copy of this happens to fall into the hands of a college president, I should like to suggest to him the establishment in his college of a lecture course on The Unknown.

The first lecture might be by a professor of physics. He would doubtless start by dropping a paper weight on the desk, saying, "That is something which no human being understands. We call it 'gravitation,' but no man in the world knows what gravitation is."

The second lecturer might well be a professor of economics. He would have to say something like this: "We do not know why good times come or why they leave. We have many impressive phrases in our business. We speak of 'gold supply' and commodity prices and 'speculation' and so-forth. We make many charts. These charts only tend to show that what goes up must come down and that history has a way of repeating itself. But why it repeats itself, we really do not know."

The third, lecturer, of course, should be a philosopher or or a theologian. He say: "No one knows how the universe started or what is its object. Some men call themselves philosophical pessimists and pretend to know that it has no meaning. Some of us prefer to believe that it has a Maker and a meaning. We feel that this positive faith gives life more significance, more cheer."

Such a lecture course would cure the colleges of afflicting the world with wise young men. The graduates would be humble, curious, thrilled by the challenge of so much to learn, so many things to try.

Also, they would understand why no man needs to be ashamed to say: "I do not know, but I believe."

TEXAS' LARGEST CITY

Houston ranks first in Texas in point of population, and second in the South. Its population in the city limits is 292,354; in its metropolitan area 339,216. The population of Harris county is 359,239.

The city has an area of 72.8 square miles.

There are seven refineries on her ship channel, in which 4,884 persons are employed and paid nearly $7,000,000 annually.

There are 374 churches in the city, with 100,000 members, representing 25 religious denominations.

There are seventeen first-class hotels, valued at $12,600,000, with 4,388 rooms.

There are nineteen hospitals and clinics with 1,151 beds.

A GENTLEMAN

The following definition of a gentleman was taken from "The Steer," Ship's paper of the U. S. S. Texas, and was written by a blue-jacket on that vessel. In these days it will bear repeating:

"A man who is clean inside and out; who neither looks up to the rich nor down to the poor; who avoids liquor and bad company; who can lose without squealing and win without bragging; who is considerate of women, children and old people; kind to animals; too brave to lie and too generous to cheat; and who takes his share of the world and lets other people take theirs."

MERCHANTS WARNED OF TWO GRAFTERS PREYING ON PUBLIC

A man and woman travelling over Texas are said to be using a "skin game" on merchants to a very profitable advantage. The following clipped from a Marshall newspaper relates the story.

There is a swindle being perpetuated all over the state, and maybe in Marshall, that is pretty raw, but according to numerous exchanges is being successfully worked. A man will go into a store, make a small purchase and present a $10.00 bill in payment. Receiving his change he will leave and in about ten minutes a woman will come in, make a small purchase and present a $1.00 bill. Receiving her change she will leave but in a few minutes return very much agitated and go to the clerk who waited on her (who is always one different from the one who waited on the man) and in a teary voice claim the clerk made a mistake in the change, that she only had two bills, one a ten and the other a one dollar bill, and she had made only one purchase. Fortunately that morning she had written a telephone number on the ten and she feels sure it will be found in the cash register. Of course that will be the bill the man presented. But the scheme worked in five towns and possibly others. The woman is always shabbily dressed and that bill means everything to her in her penury.

Extra VALUES

GUM-DIPPED CORDS
The Firestone patented Gum-Dipping process transforms the cotton cords into a strong, tough, sinewy unit. Liquid rubber penetrates every cord and coats every fiber, guarding against internal friction and heat, greatly increasing the strength of the cord body, and giving longer tire life.

TWO EXTRA GUM-DIPPED CORD PLYS UNDER THE TREAD

This is a patented construction, and the two extra Gum-Dipped cord plies are so placed that you get 56% stronger bond between tread and cord body, and tests show 26% greater protection against punctures and blowouts. It sets a new standard for tire performance on high speed cars.

NON-SKID TREAD

Tough, live rubber specially compounded for long, slow wear. Scientifically designed non-skid gives greater traction and safe, quiet performance.

Children's Bedtime Story

By Norris Chambers

Series No. 13
The Razenian Genuis
Chapter IV
Danger Threatens

KARA was downhearted, and with reluctance he left the craft that had carried them so unfaithfully to this strange place. Neither of the two helping pilots were injured, and the three started on a brisk walk for where they knew not. It was not, however, until they had tried with all their might to move the little plane.

They walked for probably ten feet and were startled to hear the familiar hum of a wasp den. If they could only make friends with the wasps, maybe they would yet be able to straighten the craft and repair it.

Kara signaled with his feeler to the king of the wasp den, and informed him that they came as friends, and not as enemies or intruders. The ruler signaled back and declared that they would accept them if they would withdraw a suitable distance from the den (which was on a low bush). This was to justify the safety of the den.

Kara agreed, and they withdrew under the escort of three wasp warriors. Here the king came out to have the peace conference. The ants told them all about their airship and how it had failed, then he told them how he wanted them to help him get the ship to a suitable position for repairing. He also wanted them to put some of their nest building pulp over some of the broken places in the cabin. He could also use them in the repairing of the control system.

The king reluctantly agreed, and they withdrew, with twenty wasp artisans, to the plane. But lo! a large army of ants, amounting to seventy-five strong warriors came rushing from the bordering weeds. Danger threatened.

THE BATTLE

The seventy-five ants were now within ten feet of the three ants and the wasps. They signaled their defiance as they came, making vows and threats that they would completely annihilate the three ants.

The wasps were now swooping down upon the ants and, after grabbing them in their claws, carrying them over the bordering forest and dropping them, were fighting desperately for their home.

Now the wasps were on the ground, vibrating their wings in such a fashion that it was impossible for the ants to pass the line. They would be blown back by the currents that were generated. The attacking ant line broke, and the antagonists were marching around the wasp line. Fifty more vicious wasps from neighboring nests came to the aid of those already fighting.

Kara, with the aid of three faithful wasps, was swiftly working on the broken airplane. They had dragged it out in the open, and had it chained down, the nose facing the gently moving breeze. With the spare twine that he had brought he worked swiftly and incessantly on the controls, while the stalwart wasps fought valiantly for their home, and for the ants.

Now all there was to do to the airplane before it would be ready to take off would be to double the control cords. They would last awhile now, but Kara decided to work at them until the ants were practically upon him. He redoubled his speedy actions, and with the aid of the wasps soon had the ship repaired.

The ants were now through the line of wasps and were headed for the little airship. The three ants were in the navigation room, and were ready for the wasps to cut loose the ropes.

CHAPTER VI

Now the ants were piling over the deck of the craft, or the open plane surface on the forward end. The wasps were fighting bravely to repulse the ants and loose the ropes, but the ants held their ground, and the wasps were forced to retire.

"Hold this door ready for me to enter," signaled Kara to the other two pilots, "for I must cut loose the two ropes." He then opened the door and rushed out among the melee of confused ants. They all tried to get at him at once, and as a consequence they became so jumbled that they did not know which one they were after.

He rushed immediately to the forward rope, and with his sharp pinchers cut it immediately. He then rushed to the back one and also cut it. The wind was still now, and of course it did not take off. He rushed back along the outside rim of the feather to the door which he expected to be open, but to his dismay he found that the door was closed, and that the ants were attacking the cabin.

As soon as the ants saw him a dozen went straight towards him. At the same time a hard puff of wind came, and the feather shot skyward, dislodging many of the enemy ants. Kara had been suspecting it, though, and he had been prepared. Still he faced ten ants. How would he outwit them, or would he? The feather was now floating gently above a large patch of broom weeds.

The group of ants came up to Kara, and proceeded to grab him and chunk him over board. They had thrown Kara off, and now they had only to force their way into the pilot room and get the other two. It looked like defeat over the broom weeds.

FOURTEENTH INSTALLMENT

Diana, a young English girl, in love with Dennis Waterman, a married underdog, undergoes a nervous collapse and is sent to the country to recuperate under the care of Dr. Donald Rathbone, who lives near the cottage where she stays. She finds herself falling in love with the doctor, but still trying to hold Dennis' affection. Linda, Dennis' wife, tells her that she offered Dennis a divorce but he would not accept it; he would have felt compelled to marry Diana. Diana's love for Doctor Rathbone is tempered by jealousy of a woman named Rosalie, who lives in the doctor's house. A last Rathbone finds that he is deeply in love with Diana, but he confesses to her that Rosalie is his wife.

He had married her out of sympathy, when her husband had been killed in the war. But Rosalie was hopelessly insane. Diana and Rathbone part, and a letter comes from Aunt Gladwyn calling Diana back to London.

He had married her out of sympathy, when her husband had been killed in the war. But Rosalie was hopelessly insane. Diana and Rathbone part, and a letter comes from Aunt Gladwyn calling Diana back to London.

Dennis comes to see her. She discovers that she is all through with him. As she is leaving for London a letter comes from Rathbone, expressing his hopeless love. Back in London she learns that Linda Waterman, Dennis' wife, has been for years in love with a married man whose wife has just died in an insane asylum. Life seems a frightful puzzle affair. She goes to a party, expecting to be bored, but the footman at the door announcing the incoming guests, calls out: "Dr. Donald Rathbone."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Diana had been idly watching the scene before her, her thoughts far away, but at the sound of that name her slender body stiffened, and her face went as white as her gown.

"No...no...no..." her heart cried out in passionate protest even as her dilated eyes met Rathbone's across the long room.

And she had been afraid that she was beginning to forget him!

Forget him! Forget his big, powerful body against which she had once been held in such perfect happiness and peace? His grave steady eyes, and the mouth that looked as if it rarely smiled?

He did not smile now, though a little flash passed across his sombre eyes before he turned to greet his hostess.

It seemed an eternity to Diana before Rathbone began to make his way across to her. He seemed to know a great many people, many of whom stopped to engage him in conversation.

Rathbone was beside her now, but he made no attempt to take her hand, and she did not offer it.

"Good evening, Miss Gladwyn."

Diana raised eyes that were infinitely pathetic, because they fought so hard for indifference.

"Good evening, Dr. Rathbone."

"A great rock in a weary land..." How silly to think of that now, and yet—oh, how wonderful to feel once again the peace and safety of his presence!

"I hope you are well?" he said formally.

"Yes, thank you."

"Quite well?"

She tried to answer, but now that suffocating feeling had mastered her, and she could only nod silently.

Then someone came and took him away.

At dinner he was a long way from her; he sat on Mrs. Foster's left hand with the great newspaper magnate on her right; evidently Rathbone was the second most important guest.

The dinner was endless; to Diana's overwrought imagination, the long table seemed to grow longer till Rathbone appeared to be separated from her by miles; course after course followed one another in terrible monotony. How could people go on eating for such—hours!

She almost said, "Thank God," when at last the ordeal was ended.

Rathbone would come and talk to her now, she was sure; he would find some way of shaking off all the other people, and he would come to her, and he would say something that would stop this dreadful pain. He would know what she was suffering; perhaps he was suffering equally himself.

But though she watched the door of the great unfriendly drawing room with strained eyes till the men began to appear, Rathbone was not among them.

If only she could sleep!... Her head was throbbing so.

Then she learned that Rathbone had been called away suddenly on a urgent call.

He had gone without even saying good-bye to her.

CHAPTER XXI

Anna had been waiting up for her. She said with unusual kindness in her voice:

"I should go to bed and try and get some sleep."

"I couldn't sleep," Diana said.

"Let me give you something to make you sleep—some of that draught you used to take before you were ill. You must sleep, Miss Diana."

Anna came back with the sleeping draught and Diana took it and allowed herself to be put to bed.

"I'll be close by, if you want me," she said.

Something in the tone of voice made Diana think suddenly of Miss Stirling, and an almost childish longing for her and for the peace of her little room at the cottage awoke in her heart.

How amazed the Creature would be if she could know!

Diana sat up in bed, rocking herself to and fro.

She wished she could cry, but her eyes felt too hot and burning to allow the relief of tears.

Were other girls made to suffer like this, or were they too wise to allow themselves to care very much for anyone?

With a terrible feeling of restlessness she got out of bed and began to walk about the room.

If only he had bid her good-bye at Mrs. Foster's. Shown some affection for her.

If only she could sleep!... Her head was throbbing so; it reminded her of that night at the Savoy with Dennis, when the world had seemed to be filled with a million demons, all of whom were conspiring together to torment her.

Anna's sleeping draught had been useless; it had only excited her and racked her nerves.

Perhaps if she took some more... She looked around the room eagerly; yes, the bottle was there on the dressing table.

Diana crossed the room. She was a childish figure in her white nightgown with her bare feet and disordered curl hair.

Her hands shook a little, making the bottle rattle against the glass as she measured out some of the drops. It had a nasty bitter taste.

"That's because I haven't put any water with it," Diana thought vaguely. "I don't care; perhaps it will really make me sleep this time."

She shivered and made a little grimace as she crept back to bed. Why were all the things that were supposed to be good for one so nasty?

CHAPTER XXII

Jonas was putting the pony and trap away in the stable when Mr. Shurey came down the yard, a giant figure looming out of the grey mist.

"Don't 'ee put her away yet," he said. "There's some things for Rathbone's."

Jonas turned round.

"It'll be difficult to get so far in this fog," he said rather sullenly. The farmer frowned.

"When I was your age I didn't argue about things being difficult," he said bluntly. "I did 'em. If you go up to the house the missus'll give you what's to go."

Jonas shrugged his shoulders and obeyed. He did not really object to the fog, but he was in no mood to go.

There was a dark spot in his mind whenever he thought of Donald Rathbone.

He felt as if, during the past weeks since he first met her, she had unconsciously been giving him broken pieces of a puzzle, which had slowly and carefully formed themselves into one, until this morning, he suddenly realized that it was complete. And it was Rathbone's face that he saw in the finished picture.

The love Jonas felt for Diana was the kind of love which Dante had felt for Beatrice. He had been content to love on his poet's dreams of her, asking nothing more for himself than that he might be allowed to continue to dream.

But that she should be unhappy was more than he could endure.

It was nearly midday before Jonas reached Rathbone's. The big gates were wide open—a most unusual thing in his experience, and as he neared the house he saw that the front door was wide open also, regardless of the damp fog that swirled in.

He drove round to the side door and got down.

Nobody answered his repeated knock, and presently he turned the handle and looked into the kitchen.

Nobody about. He set his basket of eggs and butter down on the table and had turned to go when Hobson, the chauffeur, suddenly appeared.

Jonas looked at him.

"Where's everybody?" he asked. He indicated the basket. "I've just brought that. Isn't there anybody about?"

"We've got something else to do besides hang round waiting for you to call," Hobson said tartly. He half turned to go, then came back.

"Which way did you come?" he asked lowering his voice.

"Through the village."

"Oh—well—you didn't see anything of our Miss Rosalie, I suppose?"

"Miss Rosalie? No. Why?"

"Why?" Hobson echoed with the impatience of anxiety. "Why, because she's out somewhere, of course. Been out since nine o'clock this morning, as far as we can make out. Not very nice for a young lady to go wandering off on her own a morning like this, is it?"

Suddenly Monday evening the streets of our little city seemed filled with girls in white trousers, white shirts and black ties, that being the costume of the 3-H Club. They met at the home of Mrs. Gerie Graham where refreshments were served and the serious initiation was given to new members, who the Monday previous had had pranks played on them and had eaten green salted worms with the seeming relish of true sportsmen. It may seem incongruous to use the words of a poet in this paragraph but "Like the swell of some sweet tune." Morning rises into noon may glide onward into June. And already June is more than half gone and vacation days are slipping by. The 3-H-Club girls are making plans to spend profitably the summer vacation in work and play and at least one week in camping out. Petty differences have been forgotten and true friendship rules the club.

FAT MAN REDUCES 53 POUNDS --OH BOY

Don't be stubborn, you big fat men—throw off your fat before your fat throws you into the discard. Do as Mr. S. A. Lanier of Sawtelle, Calif., did—read his letter:

"I have used two reducing belts to no benefit but since using Kruschen Salts each morning in my coffee I have taken off 7 lbs. in a week and eat most anything I like. I weighed 243 lbs. 6 months ago and now I weigh 190 lbs."

Take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning—out down on fatty meats, potatoes and sweets—now you know the safe way to lose unsightly fat.

For a trifling sum you can get a jar of Kruschen Salts that lasts 4 weeks at Smith Drug Store or any drug store in the world—but be sure and get Kruschen—your health comes first.

Both of the above gubernatorial candidates have been invited to speak at the Cross Plains picnic here Wednesday and Thursday, July 13 and 14. In Memoriam

Be it Resolved:—That in the passing of sister May Cole, our order has lost one of its best known and beloved Rebekahs. We miss her glad handclasp, her pleasant smile, her tender word of greeting. If she could speak to us today we believe her message would be, "carry on, carry on, lift high the banner of Odd Fellowship, because she exemplified that in her life, she was ever known to be 'faithful.'"

We are told that life is a book, we turn the leaves one by one, but fall asleep ere our lessons are learned.

Our sister whose memory we honor and cherish has turned the closing leaf in her book of human life, has finished her allotted tasks has passed to her reward, but will never cease to be missed.

The Golden Gates were opened and a gentle voice said "Come; and with a farewell, unspoken, she quietly entered home."

Be it Resolved—that a copy of this resolution be sent the members of the family, placed on our minutes and put in the Cross Plains Review.

Fraternally submitted,
Mrs. L. C. Cash

48,218 Chevrolet Cars Sold In May

Chevrolet dealers reported the sale of 48,218 new passenger cars and trucks in May, within 200 units of domestic production for the month, W. S. Knudsen, president and general manager announced Monday.

In the first 10 days of the month, dealers reported the sale of 13,870 units, and in the last period it climbed to 18,121 new cars and trucks, Mr. Knudsen stated.

This entrance into June on a rising sales curve is one of the most hopeful signs for the month now evident, Mr. Knudsen pointed out.

In June the Chevrolet company, largest in the industry, is conducting an intensive new car campaign among more than two million owners of low priced cars two and three years old now in need of replacement, Mr. Knudsen stated.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Jennings of Kosse are visiting Rev. C. C. Armstrong and family.

Mrs. Ed Baum is spending several days in Brownwood with her daughter Mrs. Ressie Browning.

T. S. Wood was in Marlin for few days past week.

INDIGESTION

"My work is confining, and often I eat hurriedly, causing me to have indigestion. Gas will form and I will smother and have pains in my chest. "I had to be careful what I ate, but after someone had recommended Black-Draught and I found a small pinch after meals was so helpful, I soon was eating anything I wanted. "Now when I feel the least smothering or uncomfortable bloating, I take a pinch of Black-Draught and get relief."

"SIX CYLINDERS NO MORE-NO LESS,"
says America

Anything more and you sacrifice economy—anything less and you sacrifice smoothness.

BUYERS everywhere are comparing low-priced cars. Lifting hoods. Counting cylinders. And the result? An overwhelming verdict for the six, in preference to cars of fewer or more cylinders.

"SIX CYLINDERS. No more—No less!" And America backs up that conviction by purchasing more six-cylinder Chevrolets since January 1st, than the combined total of all fours and all eights under $1000.

With more than six cylinders, you sacrifice Chevrolet's famous economy of gas, oil and upkeep—the greatest economy in today's motor car market. With less than six cylinders, you sacrifice the built-in smoothness that makes driving really restful and enjoyable.

But with a six—a Chevrolet Six—nothing is sacrificed. You get smoothness and economy.

And power, 65 horsepower. And speed—65 to 70 miles an hour, easily! And pick-up—from a standstill to 35 miles an hour in less than 7 seconds! You also get Free Wheeling; Syncro-Mesh gear-shifting; big, spacious Fisher bodies.

So, when buying a new low-priced car, settle the question of cylinders RIGHT, and you can't go WRONG. Take America's word for it: "SIX CYLINDERS. No more—No less!"

THE PEOPLE OF TEXAS MUST DECIDE THE FATE OF TEXAS RAILROADS

● THE WELFARE of Texas and Texans has gone and will always go hand in hand with the welfare of Texas railroads. Their dependency upon each other is absolute.

In 1929 Texas railroads gave employment to 82,956 employees, to whom they paid annually $126,674,543 in salaries and wages. In 1930 this number decreased to 70,739 while the payroll declined to $109,892,226. In 1931 the number of employes fell to 57,098 and the payroll to $89,505,918.

This represents a decrease of more than $37,000,000 in purchasing power in Texas communities. There has been a corresponding decrease in purchase of materials and supplies by Texas railroads. The ability to have maintained railroad payrolls and purchases would have been a very important factor in overcoming the present trying economic condition.

The decline in railroad payrolls and purchases is due only in part to economic conditions. The revenues of the railroads have been affected not only by business conditions but to a very large extent by loss of traffic to trucks and buses using the public highways in competition with the railroads.

● The time has come when the people of Texas must decide whether the traffic of this state can best be carried by the railroads, using facilities which they built and maintain at their own expense, or by trucks and buses using the highways built and maintained at the taxpayers' expense.
