EXTENSION OF KATY BRANCH TO ABILENE

There has been an undercurrent of local interests, working in co-operation with Abilene, for some time concerning the extension of the Katy branch, or building an independent line of railroad from this point to Abilene. The chief factor working on the proposition was composed of Abilene interests, a committee of representative citizens of that city having visited Cross Plains in connection with the project several months ago. Publicity of the undertaking was requested to be withheld until the committees from the two cities could gain some definite decisions relative to the matter.

The following is reproduced from the Abilene Times of last weeks, and seems to indicate that the matters has been settled and the road assured by the Missouri-Kansas & Texas Railway Company agreeing to extend the present DeLeon-Cross Plains branch on to Abilene:

Abilene is to have a new railroad. This is the report that is being circulated from Cross Plains, according to unofficial information gathered by a representative of this paper. The report is to the effect that the Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railway Company has accepted a proposition made by Abilene interests to extend the Katy line from Cross Plains into Abilene and perhaps further west into the West Texas oil fields.

The extension would connect Abilene with the extensive Katy system giving the city the long sought rail outlet to the coast by way of Houston, it is declared.

The Cross Plains branch of the Katy merges with the Stamford and Rotan line at DeLeon and connects with the main line of the system out of Port Worth which goes by way of Waco and Temple to Houston. There is another line of the Katy which gives connection with San Antonio and other important points in South and Central Texas.

Extension of the Katy line from Cross Plains to Abilene has been under consideration at various times by Abilene committees seeking more rail outlets for the city, but a proposition acceptable to all concerned has never been worked out unless it has now been perfected as the reports would indicate. Some members of Abilene railroad committees seeking connection with the coast have not considered the connection with the Katy system the best outlet in this direction because it was not direct enough, however others have held on to a proposition of this kind because it seem to be the most available.

The distance from Cross Plains to Abilene is only about 60 miles and the cost of the extension would be small compared with the building of an entirely new line, even if a new line direct to the coast could be secured. Other connections with main lines have been considered through the construction of extensions and branch lines but none have ever been considered as feasible as the Cross Plains extension.

Favorable consideration of the Katy to a proposition to extend their line into Abilene and then west or north into the plains and panhandle is due to the rapid development of West Texas in all lines, especially in the oil fields, the reports indicate. If the company was to see fit to extend the line further than Abilene it would likely go northwest to merge with the branch that goes to Rotan in Fisher county tapping the oil field now being developed in Jones and Fisher counties and thence due west or northwest, and in either case it would touch a large territory that is now well served by any railroad.

Abilene's Best Bet

Many consider this extension the best bet for Abilene to secure another railroad that will give anything like the desired connection, however some who are favorable to this plan maintain that should the Katy build into Abilene it will force the Santa Fe to come in, even though the system has steadfastly refused to consider any kind of proposition, since the break of heads of the road with Abilene city dads of the early days when the road built through the south part of the county.

The Katy road is a pioneer in its territory, and is still the only railroad serving all the more important centers in Texas and Oklahoma through both St. Louis and Kansas City. The Katy has grown with the southwest, constantly improving and expanding its services and equipment. The system's expenditures for improvement purposes in the past 30 years have approximated $145,000,000. The Katy has a net work of track in a large part of North, Central, Southeast and South Texas, but has yet to make its debut in West Texas on a large scale.

WHO WILL BE THE BRIDE?

It has been announced that Taylor Bond will be the groom in a wedding that will rank as one of the great social events in the history of Cross Plains. Who would have suspected that the kindly, modest cashier has been harboring matrimonial ambition? Who will be the fortunate bride to bask in the smiles of the loving groom?

Paul Harrell will be the train-bearer, and Dr. McGowen will be the jilted lover. Who jilted the Doctor? It must have been a cold and stony heart that could resist the blandishments of the gentle Doctor.

That you may learn who this hard-hearted creature is it will be necessary for you to be present, Friday evening of this week, in the High School Auditorium. Here the Leader Sunday School Class is presenting "The Womanless Wedding," directed by Mesdames Fred Cutbirth and I. T. Huckabee.

On this occasion you will have the privilege of judging of the histrionic ability of 40 or 50 of the prominent business men of Cross Plains. Perhaps some of these should have spent their lives behind the footlights rather than behind counters and desk. Come and give them the benefit of your criticism. It may not be too late for some of these men to recast their lives.

A few of the out of town guests attending the wedding include President and Mrs. Herbert Hoover, Calvin and Mrs. Coolidge, Maggie and Jiggs, Mutt and Jeff, Moon Mullins (if out of jail at the time), Andy and Minn, and Uncle Bim, coming all the way from Australia. He will probably give away small kangaroos as souvenirs. Be there to get your kangaroo.

Judging from what can be learned, "The Womanless Wedding" should be the best production ever staged in Cross Plains by home talent.

The important question is who is the bride.

MRS. MARION HARVEY ENTERTAINED CLUB

Mrs. Marion Harvey entertained the bridge club, and several out of town guests, Tuesday afternoon.

Yates of Oklahoma, and sister Miss Eunice Hembree of Cottonwood, visited with relatives and friends here Tuesday of this week. Mr. Yates was formerly with the Putnam Supply Co. in Cross Plains, and is now employed with a supply company in Oklahoma.

Ice Cream Found In Ruins Of Home

Childress, Texas, June—One would scarcely look for frozen dainties in the salvage of a home destroyed by fire, but a quantity of ice cream was found in the smoking ruins of the M. G. Brock home here.

While working with electric connections among the smouldering timbers of the home, employees of the West Texas Utilities Company opened a charred frigidaire and from its porcelain lined chambers found two trays filled with ice cream and ice cubes. Refreshments of ice water were enjoyed by the the searching parties.

OF BURNED OUT BEARINGS YOUR MOTOR CAN ESCAPE IT

If you've ever listened to the anvil chorus under the hood when a bearing burns out, you realize the damage that poor oil can do to a motor. Replaced bearings cost real money—a great deal more, in fact, than the cost of a year's supply of good oil.

Isn't that reason enough why you should always insist upon a brand of oil which has stood the test—a brand backed up by an organization which has spent years specializing in the lubrication needs of every type of motor?

Such are the brands offered you by the Continental Oil Company. You may be sure that an oil sponsored and sold by this organization is the right oil for your car.

You protect the bearings—and your pocket-book, too—when you ask for these brands at service stations and garages.

Conoco Motor Oil insures protection. It seals compression—saves gasoline—fights friction. Stands up under most intense cylinder heat. In short, does a complete lubricating job in all kinds of weather.

Ask for the grade made especially for your car.

day ashore. At nine-thirty I noticed a strange bulge on the eastern rim of the sea. I called my officers' attention to it. At first we thought it a mirage. But it kept growing larger. It came toward us. Then we recognized it—a tidal wave such as is caused by submarine earthquake and volcanic disturbances. The danger was only too clear. We lay between the island and the wave.

"Cut the anchor cable. Clear the motor. All hands on deck!"

We dared not raise sail, for then the wind would drive us on the reef. So our only hope of getting clear of the island was our motor. The huge swell of the tidal wave was rushing toward us with breakneck speed.

The motor didn't stir. The mechanics were working frantically. They pumped compressed air into the engine. We waited in vain for the sound of the ignition. Now, right at the critical moment, our motor had failed us, just as it had so often failed us before. By this time, the tidal wave was only a few hundred yards away. We were lost. To our frightened eyes it looked like a whole mountain range of water. It must have been thirty or forty feet high. It came rushing with a roar that drowned out our voices.

A gigantic, violent hand seemed to grasp the ship. The wave swung her on high and threw her forward. It flung us crashing on the coral reef. Our masts and rigging went over, broken like matchsticks. The shattering impact of the ship smashed the coral, and pieces flew in all directions like shrapnel from an exploding shell. The swirling water seized great pieces of coral and whipped them around, beating them against the ship. The Seeadler had heeled over until her deck was almost perpendicular. The water swept over the deck, and the swirling eddies bombarded us with chunks of coral. I clung to an iron post near the lower rail. The rail saved me from the tons of shattered coral that were hurled up by the blow of the falling ship. In a moment, the wave had ebbed away, leaving us high and dry. It had passed over the circling reef and the lagoon, though not over the main part of the island. And on its way it had swept hundreds of thousands of birds' nests into the lagoon.

I arose, scarcely knowing whether I was alive or dead, and stood alone with one foot on my slanting deck and the other on the rail. For a moment I thought I was the only one saved.

"Boys, where are you?" I shouted weakly.

"Here," came the reply, "still standing like an oak."

My men and the prisoners had taken refuge in the bow, and had been sheltered by the rail, as I had been. Not a one was injured. For that at least we could be thankful. For that and not much else. The Seeadler was a total wreck. The jagged coral was rammed deep into our hull.

We stand like an oak! I adopted the reply of my sailors as our motto henceforth. We were castaways on this coral atoll in one of the loneliest and least-visited reaches of the South Pacific. Everything lost, but "we stand like an oak."

CHAPTER XII

Castaways on a Coral Atoll

The last German colony! We found it on this beautiful, isolated coral atoll in the middle of the Pacific. The Imperial German flag of war flew from the top of the tallest palm. I was the viceroy, by chance and not by desire, of course, and my sailors and our prisoners were my subjects. The only visiting nationals from elsewhere were the three Kanakas, the turtle catchers. "The White King of the Society Isle of Mopelia," my mate facetiously called me. One of the Yankee captains put it differently. He called me "the Sea Devil King of the South Seas." And he caustically described our lovely isle as "a poisoned paradise." Everybody was good humored, despite our hard luck.

But our little South Sea colony passed its first nights uneasily. For sleeping places, we slung hammocks between the palms. At intervals, a coconut would fall from a height of fifty or sixty feet and go whizzing close by a man's head. While our fellow countrymen back in the cities along the Rhine were complaining about the night raids of the French and British bombing squadrons, we had our bombing problem also. It didn't make much difference whether you were bumped off with a falling coconut or a falling bomb. The result was all the same. After one whizzed by your ear, you would very likely go down to the open beach to quiet your nerves. Then if you tried to sleep there, the land crabs would soon convince you that the beach was no place for a weary war veteran either. Patrols of fighting marine crabs would raid that beach every night. After being chased out by the crabs, you would go back to your hammock and lie awake wondering when the next aerial coconut bombardment would commence. So life during those first days on our tropic isle was not all skittles and beer or orchids and coconut milk. You can bet we worked hard getting up huts! Luckily, there were no casualties from either crabs or coconuts.

We cleared a large space for our village, and built huts out of timbers, sailcloth, and palm leaves. The first one up was a queer-looking thing, but our architecture improved with practice. Our prisoners, who were all Americans, helped us a great deal. They understood the art of pitching tents. They built a special town for themselves, and gave the streets such names as Broadway, State street, Pennsylvania avenue, and the Boverly. In time we contrived to arrange quite decent dwelling places. Of course, we also installed our wireless set ashore in order to keep in touch with passing ships and events happening out on this side of the world. Nor did we neglect to take ashore a heavy arsenal of arms and ammunition, including rifles, Luger pistols, hand grenades, and dynamite. In short, we had a perfect little town with everything except a calaboose. Some of our men who had romantic tendencies constructed "country homes" for themselves a few hundred yards away in the jungle. Then we named the place Seeadlerburg, Sea Eagle Town.

There were gulls' eggs everywhere along the shore, but the birds were brooding now, and most of the eggs we collected had half-formed little gulls in them. We got around this by clearing a large section of beach and throwing the old eggs into the lagoon. Then the gulls flocked back and laid more eggs, and thus a supply of fresh eggs was assured.

Our American prisoners were nearly all cheery fellows. Some of them fitted in with the new life better than my men. They seemed to know all about the art of fishing, and taught us Germans things we had never dreamed of. They were accustomed to what in the states along the Gulf of Mexico is called spearing eels. They fastened iron bars to shafts of wood and with these speared big fish in the coral lagoon.

They also showed us a clever way of catching fish on a grand scale. They took some forty men and boys and, just as high tide was turning, formed in a line about fifty yards off shore. Then the line came splashing in, driving the fish before it toward shore, just as the natives round up tigers for a rajah in India. Many of the fish floundered into shallow water, and a few minutes later were left stranded by the receding tide. You see, the water, as it backed offshore, left large pools on top of the irregular coral reef, and there the fish were trapped. Sometimes we caught five or six hundred pounds a day, and it was exciting sport.

One night, while we were sitting around our fire, we heard a scratching sound. It seemed to come from everywhere. We looked and found a lot of crabs with big claws. They were hermit crabs. We caught several and put them in boiling water to cook. Meanwhile, the crab invasion continued, and more from behind kept pushing the rest forward. We tried the ones we had cooked, and they were delicious. They were as good as the best lobster.

"By Joe," I said, "boys, let's get busy."

We spread out a large sail and filled it up with crabs, like a sack. We must have had several thousand of them. For days we lived on them, until most of us couldn't look a crab in the face. We had 'em boiled, broiled, and in soup. Then that invasion of these hermits passed as mysteriously as it had come, and we never saw them again. But the turtles were always with us. We caught a number of them and kept them in a coral basin at one end of the lagoon.

The wild pigs on the island provided us with more fun and more food. They fed on coconuts, which is the best kind of fodder to make good pork. There were snipe on our island, too, and we hunted them with great success, thereby varying our sea food and pork diet. Using coconut shells for fuel, we smoked what flesh and fish we could. By way of vegetables, we had coconuts, and bread made of coconut flour, which the Kanakas taught us to prepare and bake of palms.

If our new home seemed with useful, edible creatures, it was not lacking in pestilential forms of life, either these both of native origin and imported from ships. A thousand kinds of insects were everywhere. If you awakened thirsty at night and reached for your glass of water, you were likely to find that it contained more cockroaches than water. You had to reconcile yourself to getting up in the morning and finding your toothbrush alive with ants. The ants were particularly pervasive. We could only guard against them by putting the legs of tables, chairs, and other articles of furniture in cupfuls of water. We slept at night to the ceaseless shuffle of rats, huge insolent fellows, running about on tops of our tents. Purple waged war against them, but the odds were too great. It would have taken a whole regiment of terriers to end that plague.

Flashing birds of paradise flew from palm to palm. Gorgeous humming birds with green and yellow breasts darted among the branches. With every flower there seemed to be a great butterfly. The whole island was aglow with butterflies. They floated on wide-beating wings of greens, violets, and reds.

Once, in the middle of the night, I was awakened by a small, sharp, repeated sound—knick, knick, knick. It was the opening of tropical flowers. I went outside and there I saw the lovely Queen of Night, which blossoms by the light of the tropical stars. It is a great, gorgeous bloom, eight or ten inches across. There were thousands of them. Scores of glowworms, far brighter than any we know, hovered about each, eager to catch the magnificent perfume that the opening Queen of Night gives forth. In the darkness I could see the flowers only by the light of the glowworms. On every side were these eerie nocturnal lights, a dancing lamp of gathered glowworms illuminating each flower. In that unearthly gleaming, like a kind of moonlight only stronger, the odoriferous petals shone with the ghostly nuances of their naturally flaming colors, white, crimson, sapphire blue, violet blue. In the South Seas, the flowers have little scent by day, while the sun shines on them. At night, when the dew falls, perfume awakens. It is truly a perfumed night. And the nostrils of man are excited by the rich and almost oppressive blending of odors. The Queen of Night gives off the perfume of vanilla. Mingled with it comes the scent of hyacinth, orchid, mayflower, and heliotrope. Sweet-smelling breezes blow, and above in the tropical sky with its clustered blazing stars and gorgeous

USED CARS

Our Policy In Selling Used Cars
Is Just What You Would Hope

When you buy a car which has passed from the hands of its first owner, you would like to be sure of two things. First—you want to know, of course, that the used car you buy has a generous amount of unused mileage in it. Second—you hope you are not being charged for an excessive trade-in allowance which the dealer may have made in order to sell a new car. In short, that you are paying just what the used car is worth.

The Ford dealer's policy in selling used cars is exactly what you would hope to find. For instance, when we sell a Model T Ford which has been traded in for a Model A, that used car has been thoroughly and carefully reconditioned. With it goes a guarantee. When we sell used cars of other makes (and we have many kinds traded in for Model A Fords) we tell you frankly what you may expect, and the price is based on the amount of mileage we think you'll get from that car.

Regarding the price of the used cars we offer, you can be certain there has been no inflation to care for excessive trade-in allowances. The new Ford car is priced right—so close to the cost of production and selling that there is no margin, or leeway, for unreasonable trade-in concessions.

For these reasons it is worth your while to come to us when you are thinking of buying a used car. Nearly always we have a generous selection. Come in today and look over our bargains in unused mileage.

ONE OF THE RELIABLE FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS OF COLEMAN, COUNTY. WITH MEN AT THE HELM OF THIS INSTITUTION WHO KNOW THE BANKING BUSINESS, THIS BANK IS ENJOYING A STEADY GROWTH, AND OUR PREDICTION IS THAT IT WILL CONTINUE SO UNTIL IT HAS ENJOYED A REPUTATION THAT IS UNSURPASSED.

A town is largely measured by the strength of its financial institutions. The First National Bank of Coleman is recognized as one of the outstanding factors in the development and growth of this community and entire section.

The banker is your friend, he is one of the greatest workers a town or city can possess. If you have a worthy project he will lend you a helping hand. If there is a worthy move on foot that tends to the development of the town he is eager to be of assistance.

This can certainly be said of The First National Bank, for they are ever ready to boost for anything that tends to the further advancement and building of Coleman, their town and outlying trades territory. In fact PROGRESS from the word "go" is their highest ambition.

With such men as J. C. Dibrell, as the head of this institution as President, W. M. McCulloch, as Vice-President and E. C. Edens as Cashier, who are guiding the destinies of The First National, and men on the directorate such as John S. Rogers and H. P. Wilson, composing the other members of the board, there is nothing to keep this institution from continuing its rapid growth.

We can not predict defeat in the set purpose—Progress—of the First National Bank, but a continued growth that will stand out as a shining light and a strong feature in the financial condition of the fast growing city of Coleman. For a friendly service and a courtesy that is unsurpassed drop in at the First National Bank, Coleman, Texas.

The City of Coleman

The first settlement in Coleman County was probably at Trickham, about 1850. Several other settlements were made about the same time or shortly afterward. The settlers were few in number at this time and the settlements far between. Until the coming of the whites, this country was a part of the domain of the Comanche Indians, who made frequent raids on the settlers farther east and in Coleman County. As a protection against the raiders, the United States Government established a military post along the Colorado River, called Camp Colorado, which was later moved to the east central part of the county where Camp Colorado School is now located. Trouble with the Indians abated about 1875, by which time some parts of the country were fairly densely settled and the lands allotted for grazing purposes.

Coleman County was formed from a part of Travis County, the first organization being perfected in 1828, by the Texas Supreme Court for frontier purposes. During the Civil War the county organization was abandoned. The present organization of the county was perfected in 1875, and Coleman was made the county seat in 1876. The greater part of the early settlers came from the Eastern and Southern States and from Eastern Texas, where settlement was already well developed. Some emigrants from the Northern states are said to have entered the county after settlement was well under way.

The Gulf Colorado and Santa Fe Railway was built to Coleman and westward in 1886, and following its advent the settlement of the county increased rapidly. The northern extension of the Santa Fe from Coleman to Sweetwater and beyond was built in 1907. The population has steadily increased until it has approximately 25,000 at the present time.

AMERICAN CAFE

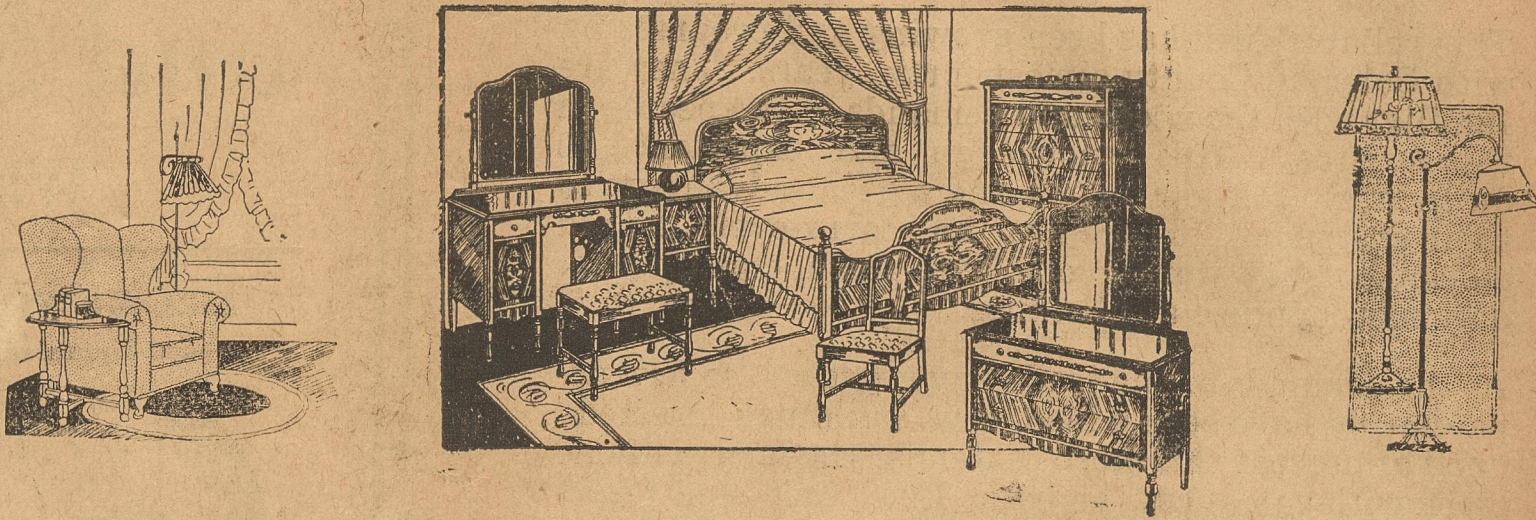

LOCATED-COMMERCIAL AVENUE

AN EATING PLACE WIDELY KNOWN AND WELL LIKED, THE AMERICAN CAFE HAS ACHIEVED A GROWTH AND SIZE OF PATRONAGE THAT FORCES RECOGNITION OF ITS IMPORTANCE IN THE COMMUNITY'S BUSINESS LIFE. A POPULAR CONCERN SERVING COLEMAN AND VISITORS WITH REGULAR MEALS AND SHORT ORDERS, SANDWICHES; PIE AND CONFECTIONS. MR. JACK LANE IS THE MANAGER.

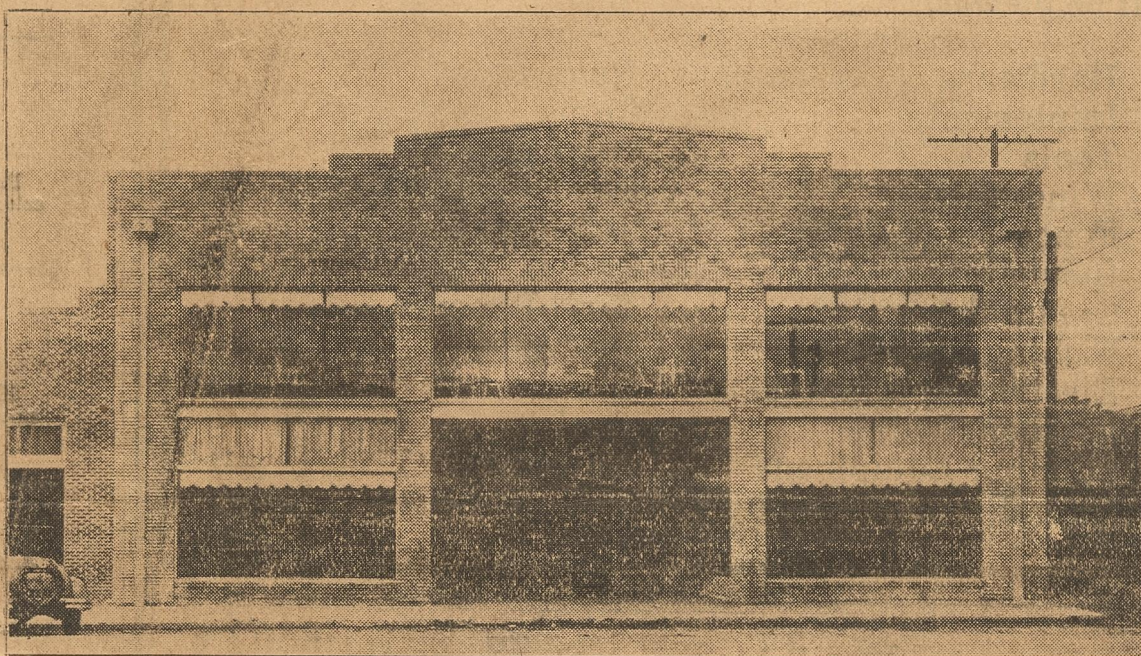

The manager is one who believes in Coleman in the future. Along the much traveled paths of this State's highways is planted many eating houses, houses large and small, houses for the rich and houses for the other kind, houses that are 65 percent style and 35 percent service, houses to feed every class of people with every class of food. But along these many miles there is no other eating house that supplies a better service or a better line of food, at lower prices than the American Cafe provided in Coleman. The food as served by the American is of known quality and is appreciated.

In an interview with the management he stated: Service, Quality and Courtesy is my ideal. These three things form a combination that will win every time in the Cafe business. Of course, the prices must be right, and we try to charge only a very reasonable price for what we sell, that is taken for granted. But even if your prices are low you must furnish the public with quality foods and service if you expect to win and hold the public favor. We have given, and will continue to give the same courteous service and quality foods. We have been favored with a generous business and we gladly take this opportunity to say to the people that we are grateful for it and will continue to strive to merit their patronage. "We are pleased to present this concern, with its qualifications for your favor and patronage."

HANDELMAN'S

"WHERE QUALITY MERCHANDISE SELLS FOR LESS"

IN COLEMAN IT IS HANDELMAN'S WHERE QUALITY MERCHANDISE REALLY SELLS FOR LESS. CARRIED IN THEIR MOST COMPLETE STOCK IN DRY GOODS, READY-TO-WEAR FOR WOMEN MISSES AND CHILDREN, HATS SHOES FOR ALL THE FAMILY; MENS' AND BOYS' CLOTHING, BOTH FOR DRESS, WORK AND PLAY; THEY ALSO HANDLE THE GENERAL DRY GOODS LINE. HANDELMAN'S IS EXTREMELY POPULAR AND ENJOYS A PATRONAGE IN THIS SECTION.

In this review from a development standpoint, we feel that there is no mercantile establishment that has played a more important part in the rapid development of Coleman and surrounding territory than the above named firm—Handelman's. WHY?

As pertaining to their slogan of money saving values: "Where Quality Merchandise Sells For Less."

By selling for less, does not mean that the quality is inferior in any sense of the word. This is certainly not the fact at Handelman's. Everything carried in their large stock represents quality. This feature is paramount. Their sales are of large volume, they buy in large quantities, and as everyone knows quantity buying means savings, and these savings are passed on to their customers, the firm of Handelman's believing in volume sales and small profits.

This feature has made the store of Handelman's extremely popular with the people of the immediate and surrounding sections. Their business has grown by leaps and bounds since the inception of their store, and the people of this community know that whatever they buy at Handelman's is representative of high quality and reasonable price.

There is no need for us to attempt to enumerate the many items as carried at this big store, but suffice to say, it is for any member of the family they have it and can supply your every need.

In this development feature we are glad to present the firm of Handelman's stating in conclusion that they are not here only to sell merchandise but are eager to see continued growth of Coleman and surrounding counties, and if there is ever a project promulgated that means progress you will find identified with it Handelman's—The store where quality merchandise sells for less, and its in Coleman, the coming Central City.

OIL DEVELOPMENT

There are twenty separate and distinct oil pools within Coleman County, and over 200 producing wells at this time. The average daily production is approximately 3,700 barrels.

Oil is found at depths ranging from 390 to 2,800 feet. Oil discovered at these shallow depths is of very high quality.

Coleman has a number of the larger supply houses located here. Several of the large oil companies have branch offices here, and there are many tool and repair shops in Coleman.

GREAT DECREASE IN VALUE OF DOLLAR

Shrinkage in the purchasing power of the dollar in the last 100 years is shown strikingly in a memorandum book owned by G. W. Greathouse of Fort Worth.

The book belonged to Greathouse's grandparents on the maternal side, W. H. and Margaret H. Jones of North Carolina. It is dated 1821. The following schedule of prices prevailed at that time:

Five days' carpentry work $2.50
600 pounds of pork $21.00
121 bushels of corn $25.00

Jones was a surveyor. The memorandum book contains bits of poetry and philosophy which Jones penned probably while he was resting during a day's work.

FROM FIELD TO TABLE IN 26 MINUTES

Twenty-six minutes from wheat to biscuits is the record made last week by J. P. Hoff of the Comanche Milling Company.

Getting the wheat from a combine on the Walter Barrett farm it took Mr. Hoff 16 minutes to get it to Comanche, 4 minutes to make the wheat into flour and it took Mrs. Hoff 6 minutes to turn the flour into as good biscuits as man ever ate.

From field to table in so short a time, Mr. Hoff believes is a record. —Comanche Chief.

Industries Are Trekking Toward the Smaller Towns

CONGESTED quarters, high rents, exorbitant taxes and unsatisfactory labor conditions are slowly but surely driving industries from the larger cities to the country.

THOUSANDS of manufacturers, mill owners and big business men yearly are realizing the advantages of quiet, uncrowded, inexpensive living and excellent labor conditions offered by the small town and are trekking in that direction.

THE majority of the small towns in West Texas can have their share of industrial development because they have the necessary facilities, of which none is more important than ample, uninterrupted, economical electric power.

THE WEST TEXAS UTILITIES COMPANY, with its more than 2,000 miles of transmission lines and 70,000 available horsepower of electrical energy, guarantees the industries the same efficient service they have enjoyed in the great cities of the country.

The British Ambassador informs America that he is willing to give up the privilege of importing liquor if the practise is distasteful. The practise, Mr. Ambassador, might be more distasteful than the liquor. We suggest, however, that you get an opinion from a few Congressmen, who seem better judges of liquor than they are of the needs of the farmer.

EARL WON'T GIVE UP CABIN FOR CASTLE

Happier in Environment of Canadian Northwest.

Winnipeg.—"I will not," said Frederick Joseph Trevelyn Perceval, when asked whether he would exchange the doubtful comfort of a bachelor's shack on a ranch in the Priddis district of the Canadian Northwest for an earldom, a fortune estimated at £1,000,000, about $4,750,000 in American money, a country estate rated as one of the finest in all England and a seat in the house of lords.

A death in England a few days ago changed Fred Perceval, pioneer rancher in the Canadian Northwest province of Alberta to the tenth earl of Egmont, fourteenth baronet and master of Avon castle, Ringwood Hants, England. As if by magic wave of a fairy wand the modest Canadian rancher was transported to an earldom when his cousin, the ninth earl of Egmont, died at his ancestral home, Avon castle.

While other members of the British peerage sought news of the old earl's successor, the tenth earl of Egmont was toiling away in the hills south of the city of Calgary, clearing brush from his ranch. Swinging an ax side by side with his father, was the Hon. Frederick George Moore Perceval, fourteen, son and heir of the new earl.

Prefers Ranch Life.

The new earl was in an old well-worn sweater and overalls working away at his woodpile. Nearby his husky young son and heir, clad in chaps, windbreaker, top boots and Stetson hat, as worn by all the cowboys in the district, was saddling a pony preparatory to taking the cattle out to their grazing place just over the hills.

"Well," the earl was accosted, "I suppose you'll soon be packing up and heading for England to claim your estates?"

"I will not," said the tenth earl of Egmont with a smile. "I have lived in western Canada 29 years, and my father was here before me. We have farmed and ranched and raised cattle and horses, and I love the life. There is no reason why I should not stay here until I die for I love my ranch, my cattle and my horses, and I am not going to leave it all unless it is absolutely necessary.

"If I do leave it, it will only be because I want to see my son obtain the benefits which will come automatically with the title and the estates."

The son is also happy in his ranch life, and there is little likelihood the new earl will return to England except for a visit and to take care of business pertaining to his new fortune.

"Avon castle, the Egmont family seat, is in Ringwood, Hampshire," the earl continued. "It comprises 1,309 acres of land and as recently as 1913 approximately $200,000 was spent on it in improvements. We also own land in several parts of England and Ireland, and the estate investments include shares in at least forty different companies, including a huge sum in war loans.

"Probably people will say we are queer when I say that I do not want to leave my Alberta ranch for all the wealth and comfort I could enjoy in England, but I repeat that if I do go back it will be only for the boy. We have lived the simple life out here for more than half my lifetime and we have been happy. The neighbors call me 'Fred,' and I call them 'Bill' and 'Jack' and 'Harry' and that suits me fine."

Home Only Two Rooms.

The new earl of Egmont is about fifty-five, 5 feet 6 inches in height, grizzled and lean from years of hard work and deeply tanned. His ranch-house is a two-room affair built of logs and although sparsely furnished, memories of old England in the way of pictures adorn the walls. He is independently wealthy in his own right but explains his simple surroundings by saying that before the death of his wife he promised her their son would be brought up in the clean hard life of the Canadian Northwest.

"My change of position is not a surprise," the earl said in conclusion. "I've known for years that I would succeed to the title. I've been in steady communication with my solicitors in London and from time to time they have mailed me reports of the condition of the estate. These reports indicate I am a very rich man indeed."

Canadians Move Whole Town 5 Miles to R. R.

Winnipeg.—The entire town of Waterhole, Alta., was moved five miles to a new location in less than two months. When the new railway was extended in that area the citizens of Waterhole found they were five miles from the steel. The town council had a conference and decided that if the railway would not come to them they would go to the railway, and in consequence the whole town, including two hotels, stores, etc., was moved to a point on the railroad and the town renamed Fairview.

The six months additional sentence given Harry Sinclair shows that if you shadow the jury at the bar the bars will shadow at the jail.

RETAIL MERCHANT TO WHOLESALE IN AN SWER TO DUN

My dear friend:
I beg leave to inform you that the present condition of my shattered bank account makes it impossible for me to send you a check in response to your request for funds for the "Aged and Decrepit Army Worm."
The state of my present financial condition is due to the effect of these various laws I have been held down, held up, walked on, sat on sand bagged, flattened and squeezed until I do not know where I am. These laws compel me to pay a merchant tax, capital stock tax, excess profit tax, income tax, real estate tax, state auto tax, city auto tax, gas tax, cigar tax, cigarette tax, street tax, real tax, school, surtax, syn-tax and carpet taxes.
In addition to paying these taxes I am requested and required to contribute to every society and organization that the inventive mind of man can organize, to the society of Saint John the Baptist, the Women's Relief, the Navy League, the Children's Home Fund, the Policeman's Benefit, the Doras Club, the Y. M. C. A., the Boy Scouts, the Jewish Relief, the Gold Diggers Home. Also every hospital and every charitable institution in town, the Red Cross, the Black Cross, the White Cross, the Purple Cross and the Double Cross.
The government has so governed my business that I do not know who owns it. I am suspected, expected, inspected, disrespected, examined, reexamined, required, commanded and compelled until all I know is that I am supposed to provide an inexhaustible supply of money for every known need, desire or hope of the human race and because I refuse to donate all I have and go out and beg and borrow and steal money to give away, I am cursed, discussed, boy-cotted, talked to, talked about, lied to, lied about, held up, held down and robbed until I am nearly ruined so the only reason I am clinging to life is to see what in h— is coming next." SHOWS THE WAY TO DAIRY PROFITS

By multiplying his sales of dairy products more than six times in one year, J. K. Raney, a farmer living near Madisonville, has established farm dairying on a profitable basis. It has come about by shifting to good cows, planting pasture crops, feeding on balanced ration and keeping careful accounts as a demonstrator working with the county agent.
During May a year ago Mr. Raney sold $30 worth of dairy products, but in April this year his sales of milk and sweet and sour cream amounted to $202.41 from nine cows, four of which are pure-breds. Feeding at the rate of one pound of feed for every three and one-half pounds of milk, the cost of feed for the month was $57.30. At the same time his flock of 106 hens had all the skim milk they could consume and produced $37 worth of fresh, infertile eggs at a grain feed cost of $13.35.
Mr. Raney keeps a milk and feed record nailed to his barn door and weighs each cow's milk night and morning, enabling him to feed each cow according to production. He supplements his native pasture of Bermuda grass and bur clover with Sudan grass drilled in 18-inch rows, and last winter sowed one acre each of alfalfa, sweet clover, crimson clover, hairy vetch and Austrian field peas with oats as a nurse crop.

"IT'S JUST WHAT I NEEDED" SHE SAYS "I Don't Suffer With My Stomach Since Taking Orgatone. My First Rejuvenated" Says Ab'lene Woman

Mrs. H. C. Coffee, resident 425 Hickory Street, Abilene, Texas in her statement regarding the benefits she obtained from Orgatone says:

"I have just taken one bottle of Orgatone and am greatly pleased with the results in my case. I haven't been what you would call a really sick woman but have just been down and out of condition for about a year. I haven't felt like myself at all. I was constipated all the time and bilious and had no life or energy scarcely. I was nervous and restless and couldn't sleep well and I would wake up in the morning tired. My appetites was very poor and I suffered from indigestion. Gas would form on my stomach after eating and I would have to refrain from eating many things I enjoy because I knew if I ate them, I would suffer afterwards. I would have terrible sick headaches, and dizzy bloating spells and was in a very run-down condition. I also suffered from rheumatism, and just seemed to get worse all the time.

"Orgatone was just what my condition needed to straighten me out. It seemed to go straight to the spot and I could tell a change in my condition for the better after my first few doses. I have now been relieved of my constipation and biliousness and my general condition is improved. I'm not nervous like I was and get plenty of sound refreshing sleep every night and don't feel tired on getting up in the mornings. My stomach is in good shape and I eat hearty and my food agrees with me, and gives me strength. Orgatone has relieved me of that dull, sluggish feeling and I have more vim and energy and it is a pleasure for me to do my work now. Really, I feel as though I had a rejuvenated system, and Orgatone has been such a great help to me I believe it will help anyone, who will give it a trial."

Genuine Orgatone may be obtained in Cross Plains, Texas, at Smith Drug Store.

Jeff Clark was fishing on the Sar Saba the latter part of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Fenton Stewart of Brownwood were guests at the Harrell ranch the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Bryant and son Tom Jr. are in Cross Plains visiting.
