FIND SKELETON OF FORMER CITIZEN

HOME TOWN GOSSIP

After one of the most glamorous Christmases in recent years business is settling back to normalcy like a schoolboy resuming his studies after a long summer vacation. The yuletide was grand but frankly, we're glad it's past.

At a Christmas tree for county officials held in the lobby of the court-house the other day, County Judge J. H. Carpenter received a bright, glittering cuspidor (sometimes called a "spitttoon"). We understand his honor the Judge was at a loss to know just exactly what emotion he should register. He accepted the token, however, with humorous jest and now has the gift conveniently located where any and all may make deposits.

Tuesday is New Year's day. The time when we all make fine resolutions that are so soon to be broken and forgotten.

If the people of this trade territory would but make one resolution this year and keep it, adverse conditions could quickly be banished from our locality. Things would move ahead, relief rolls diminish and unemployment become a minor problem. Let's here an now pledge one to other to make that resolution.

You can't get ahead of a woman and Ed Henderson will verify that truth.

Last Christmas Ed gave his wife a handsome two faced ax with a red handle. So, this year—long after he had forgotten the joke—Mrs. Henderson presented her mate with a number three wash tub.

If Ed is ever induced to use his recent gift this department promises to get a picture of the procedure for publication.

Throughout every day of 1935 let's trade completely and entirely in our home town. If our merchant friends fail to have some desired article in stock let's say: "I have done my bit by pledging to trade at home throughout 1935, now if possible I want you to get 'such and such' for me." The result would be appalling. Salaries would rise, homes would be remodeled, built and improved. The movement would benefit every man, woman and child if merely this spirit of complete cooperation were placed in effect.

In only a few days all Cross Plains automobile dealers will have new models on display. Plymouths are here. Fords will be shown in town Saturday and the 1935 Chevrolet is scheduled to make its appearance January fifth.

It's really going to be interesting to watch these local boys hustle the business. If you're thinking of buying a car, by all means don't overlook Cross Plains as the place to get it. Competition is perhaps keener here than in any town this size in Texas.

Our resolutions for the new year are these: to labor untiringly to make the Cross Plains Review the most widely read country weekly in a town of this size in Texas; to secure for this city so much publicity in big state papers that strangers will no longer ask you how far Cross Plains is from Amarillo.

Cross Plains merchants report the largest December business in four years. Mindful of this you may rightly expect local stores to be even more prepared for the holidays in 1935 as well as throughout the entire new year.

The next meeting of the Dressy Home Demonstration club will be at home of Mrs. R. M. Neeb, January tenth.

Federal Government's Last Cattle Round-Up In Callahan County Is Set For Saturday, Dec. 29

CALVES, COWS AND YEARLINGS TO BE BOUGHT AT BAIRD

Although the federal cattle program was scheduled to close in this county last Saturday, County Agent Ross B. Jenkins told the Review yesterday that all cows, yearlings or calves in distress would be bought tomorrow (Saturday, December 29) if delivered to the Baird pens.

This will absolutely be the government's last call and any person having cattle in distress because of range, feed or water shortage should take advantage of it. We will not be able to purchase cattle under any conditions after Saturday", Mr. Jenkins said in a statement to the Review.

Blanks for parity payments to farmers participating in the cotton program were received at the County Agent's office this week. Mr. Jenkins said to the Review that he expected checks within a week totaling $35,000., all of which is to be paid to farmers and land owners of this county.

Landlords will have 30 days in which to present a receipt from their tenant as to the division of payment. Third and fourth tenants receive three-fourths of the parity, the Landlords the other fourth. Half and half tenants receive one half of the parity payment whether his name appears on the contract or not.

"RIVERS THAT LEAD INTO THE SEA" WILL BE PASTOR'S TEXT

"The Rivers That Run Into the Sea" will be the sermon topic of Dr. C. A. Voyles at the Baptist church Sunday morning. The choir will sing; "I Am a Poor Way Pilgrim."

"Travel Stains" is the theme for thought Sunday night. The choir will sing; "God, Our Hope" "Do you feel that you have had a hard year; have you failed in your ideals? Then do not fail to hear these two sermons," Dr. Voyles urged in a statement to the Review.

A number of Baptist people are planning to attend the B.T.U. meeting Sunday afternoon at two thirty. "If you have a car will you help us take the Juniors and High School Unions," the pastor stated.

MISS VIDA MOORE ATTENDS MEETING OF DRESSY CLUB

Dressy Home Demonstration club met Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. B. M. Baum, with 17 members present, two of which were new—Misses Kaola Cavanaugh and Vesta Bond.

Miss Vida Moore was present and demonstrated "Christmas candy making". Refreshments of cake, coffee, tea and candy were served to members and Mrs. J. A. Miller, of Trickham.

Guests then gathered in the living-room around a Christmas tree and gifts which had been placed on by drawing names of club members were distributed. The last gift taken from the tree, a set of bronze book ends, went to Miss Moore as a gift from the Dressy club.

LIBERTY BILL FOR WEEK INCLUDES 3 GOOD PRODUCTIONS

"Among the Missing", "Whirlpool" and "Bombay Mail" are pictures scheduled at the Liberty theater here for the next seven days.

Richard Cromwell and Billie Seward are featured in the picture showing at the local theater tonight and Saturday.

Dealing with a gang of jewel thieves, the story concerns an old woman, "Aunt Martha," played by Henrietta Crossman, who disappears from home only to become involved with the robbers, acting as their cook.

The youngest of the gang, "Tommy," When "Aunt Martha" learns that he is in love with a sweet, young girl, she prevails on him to lead a straight life for his sweetheart's sake. He agrees, but when the gang leader decides to do a big job "Tommy" states he will participate in "just this one job—his last."

The situations that arise from this last foray offer many surprises and thrills which lead to a startling climax.

"Whirlpool" which comes to the Liberty screen Sunday, presents Jack Holt in the role of Buck Rankin, who later assumes the identity of Duke Shelton.

Rankin a carnival owner, is sent to the penitentiary for twenty years on a charge of manslaughter and shortly learns that Helen, his bride of but a few months is to bear him a child. She swears eternal fidelity, and in order to release her from the life of a convict's wife, Rankin through a cleverly planned ruse, leads her to believe he has died in an attempted prison break.

At the expiration of his term he soon establishes himself in the underworld as Sheldon, with the aid of his former henchman "Mac", who furnishes hilarity with his thousand and one imaginary ailments.

The discovery of Sandra, his daughter, and Helen as the wife of a prominent judge, greatly involves matters. An inescapable situation ensues when a shyster lawyer unearths wife and daughter, and the story speedily moves to a startling climax.

"Bombay Mail" "A thrilling mystery screen play with an express train speeding through India as the background is promised in "Bombay Mail", starring Edmund Lowe at a New Years preview starting at 11 o'clock Tuesday night", said W. A. Beavers manager of the Liberty yesterday. The picture "Bombay Mail"—is also billed for Wednesday and Thursday nights.

TAX COLLECTOR TO BE HERE SATURDAY 29th

Wm. J. Evans, County Tax Collector, told the Review in a telephone conversation this week that he would be at the Citizens State Bank here Saturday, December 29 for the purpose of collecting taxes. He urged that property owners of this locality keep the date in mind in order that he might explain or adjust any tax matter.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Meredith, of Kansas City, visited Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Bryant and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Bryant here Christmas.

G. E. Morgan and Jesse McAdams were business visitors in Dallas Wednesday.

HAD BEEN "GONE" 20 MONTHS WHEN FOUND SATURDAY

A skeleton found hanging from a tree in a densely wooded section near Rising Star Saturday morning has been positively identified as that of H. L. McBee, former Cross Plains man. Identification was made by McBee's father and two brothers, living near Eastland.

Justice of Peace W. M. Morris has withheld a verdict and indications were yesterday that it would be several days before the official "finding" is announced. The remains are being held at the Higginbotham morgue in Rising Star until investigations have been completed.

No Signs of Violence

Examination of the skeleton disclosed no marks of violence on the bones. Officers have stated that the man was probably killed with a knife or perhaps with a bullet through the abdomen, before the body was hung in the woods.

The skeleton was found by youths while hunting rabbits, dangling from a tree limb less than a mile from the Rising Star limits, and about 75 yards from a community road.

McBee, a former state highway employe who did maintenance work while residing here, had been missing 20 months. He was last seen in May, 1933. Physicians who examined the bones said that the body might have been long where it was found for that length of time.

EARLY SETTLER OF CALLAHAN COUNTY IS LAID TO REST

Last rites for Mrs. W. E. Gilliland, 78, resident of Callahan county, since 1882 and member of a well known Baird family, were Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock from the home in East Baird, Rev. P. C. Yarborough, pastor of the Methodist church, officiating.

Mrs. Gilliland died Sunday morning at 9:25 at her home, following only a brief illness. She became last Wednesday, later developed pneumonia, which resulted in death.

Widow of Editor

Mrs. Gilliland was the widow of the late W. E. Gilliland, founder and for many years editor of the Baird Star, which printed its issue December 8, 1887. The paper now operated by a son, Harry Gilliland, and a daughter, Miss Gilliland, recently celebrated forty-seventh birthday.

Eight other children—daughters also survive Mrs. Gilliland. She is John and Eliska Gilliland, L. A. Blakley, Mrs. Larmor H. and Mrs. Robert Estes, all of Baird; Mrs. J. R. Price, Van Horn; Amy Walker, Balmorhea; and Don Carter Welch, Dawson county. One brother, Tom Windham, died, 22 grandchildren and ten grandchildren also survive.

Early Settlers

Miss Dice Windham was youngest daughter of Dr. and J. D. Windham, who were among the earliest settlers of West Texas. She was born in Angelina county May 18, 1856, and moved to Callahan county with her parents in 1880; she was married to W. E. Gilliland March 28, 1872, and moved to Callahan county ten years later. She had lived in Baird since December 1887.

Of her family, two children her husband preceded her in death. One son, Sam, died October 1889; a daughter, Ellen, died on 23, 1925, and Mr. Gilliland January 14, 1929. Burial was made in the lot in the Baird cemetery.

HAZEL HURD TENT THEATER WILL BE HERE NEXT WEEK

The Hazel Hurd Players will open a week's engagement here Monday night under the auspices of the Fire Department. Their big water proof heated tent theatre will be pitched in a convenient place.

Billy Prescott of Spearman, Texas, manager of the show states that the show is absolutely clean in every respect and not a word of "smut" will be heard in any of the bills presented throughout the week. And the organization comes here with a reputation of being one of the best that has ever visited this city.

Speaking of the show, the Moran paper has this to say: "The Hazel Hurd Players, who opened here Monday night, for a week's engagement have been playing to large crowds each night. The plays have been enjoyed and appreciated."

"Local residents who have been questioned regarding their opinion after they had seen the show declare it to be one of the best and cleanest tent shows that has been here for years. Prescott who manages the show is of splendid personality and has made many friends during his stay here. The Hazel Hurd Players claim the distinction of being the only tent show in existence that does not sell candy and advertising to merchants.

Mr. Prescott asks you to take advantage of the "ladies free" Monday night and judge for yourself their ability.

Miss Burdett Williams who is attending John Tarleton college at Stephenville is visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Williams this week.

Miss Stella Shields of Ranger, spent Christmas day here.

ERROR MADE LAST WEEK IN LISTING OFFICIAL CHANGES

In a page one story last week the Review stated that the only noticeable changes to be made at the courthouse January first, when new officials take charge, was in the Commissioners Court, where four new faces were to be seen. B. C. Chrisman, newly elected County Superintendent, has already taken the oath of office succeeding A. L. Johnson, resigned.

Mrs. Will Rylee, District Clerk elect, will also assume duties of her office January first. It was entirely unintentional that this error occurred in last week's issue. We apologize.

LOCAL AUTOMOBILE DEALERS GET CARS

Local automobile dealers will compete for the spotlight of business interest in Cross Plains for the next few weeks, as three companies show 1935 models to the buying public.

Calhoun Motor Company, dealers of Plymouths and Pontiacs, has on display the 1935 Plymouth, in their show-rooms on South Main Street.

McAdams Motor Company will have an exhibit Saturday the 1935 Ford. Jesse McAdams and G. E. Morgan left here Wednesday afternoon for Dallas to return with at least one of the late models.

Chevrolet, according to F. R. Anderson local dealer, is expected to have a 1935 model in Cross Plains January fifth.

Miss Clara Nell McDermott and Fanora Neeb who are attending John Tarleton are visiting their parents here this week.

Mrs. Walter Westerman had as her guest this week end Mrs. Marie Sindorf of Houston.

PUTNAM GIRL WED TO CALIFORNIAN SATURDAY NIGHT

Announcement has been made of the marriage Saturday evening of Miss Mary Jane Guyton, daughter of Mrs. Mary Guyton, of Putnam, and Dr. W. G. Durnin, of Los Angeles. The wedding took place in a Cisco Presbyterian church, with the Rev. Mr. Pierce officiating. The bride wore a white moire satin frock trimmed in gold.

Coach Willis Hodges of Cisco was best man and Miss Melba Gary of Brownwood was the bride's attendant.

Mrs. Durnin, a daughter of Mrs. Mary Guyton, was graduated from the Cisco high school with the class of 1931 and was graduated from the Pasadena junior college and Pasadena hospital, in Pasadena, California. She plans to finish her semester's work at Hardin-Simmons university, Abilene, where she is a junior, before going to California.

Dr. Durnin is an orthopedic surgeon at Los Angeles General hospital. His parents are natives of Bottineau, North Dakota.

Mrs. E. S. Beavers, Joe Lacy and Lonnie Brown Beavers and family of Iowa Park, spent Christmas with their son and brother, W. A. Beavers.

Erwin Purvis from Mineral Wells is visiting with his parents Mr. and Mrs. George Purvis at Atwell this week.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Hemphill and family spent Christmas with Mr. Hemphill's parents in Greenville.

Tommie Holden is visiting his parents this week. He is attending Oklahoma University.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cook and children of Fort Worth visited relatives at Atwell during Christmas.

TWELFTH INSTALMENT

SYNOPSIS—Ellen Church, 17 years old, finds herself alone in the world with her artist mother's last warning ringing in her ears, to love lightly. Of the world she knew little. All her life she had lived alone with her mother in an old brown house in a small rural community. All her life, first as a new baby, then a bubbling child, then a charming young girl—she had posed for her talented mother who sold her magazine cover painting through an art agent in the city—Mrs. Church's broken life—the unforgiving husband, his disappearance—and after seventeen years of silence announcement of his death was at last disclosed to Ellen. The news of the husband's death, trying to follow the warped philosophy of her mother to "love lightly," resists the thought of love, for circle of friends is small, artists and two or three girl models. Ellen attends a ball with Sandy, while dancing a tall young man

"We're modernists, Sandy," she said. "Every night is a night out far as either of us is concerned, we're not playing the marriage game according to the old sentimental standards, not Tony and I." Sandy's eyebrows came down, and his eyes narrowed.

"In that case," he said, "we ought have dinner together—I'd be feeling like a husband-robber. Lothario for a change. I'm not of beginning to lose confidence in myself."

Ellen felt just a little icy, inside, was the first time since her wedding that she'd actually made the mistake—that she'd put herself, married, in a position of accepting favors from another man.

"I'll meet you anywhere you say, Sandy," she told him, at any time you say.

"Let's make it a real party," he said. "We'll dress, and I'll stop for at your place in about an hour, don't suppose, by any chance, there'd be a cocktail waiting me?"

"Marriage," she said, "hasn't changed my ideas about that, Sandy."

at she was all ready when he came for her in an hour (she met at the door, he mustn't come up here so obviously unchanged apartment!)

andy did it all very well! It was as if that evening he were going to outdo himself—to make a party memorable. They rode in to one of the larger hotels boasted a dance orchestra and of garden.

They were shot, in the hotel elevator, to the roof garden. They were shown to table close beside the dance floor.

"It's a nice roof!" she told him—tried valiantly not to tell her that it would have been perfect if Tony had been the one to back her chair, to seat him opposite her!

"Suppose," said Sandy as he looked at the menu, "that the boy is working, or something, more power to him!"

the beard were frankly apprehensive.

"So it is," said Sandy. He grinned nervously. "Just what does do in a situation like this?" he asked. "It's all out of order!"

Ellen was laughing. She tried to make her laughter sound casual. "One says, 'Hello,' she said, and 'goodby.'"

Tony wasn't as brown as he had been when Ellen first saw him. "At a time like this, parties join together! If you haven't ordered, come over to our table."

There wasn't anything else to do. Ellen, as gracefully as possible, and wishing that her dress were pink or blue or orchid or anything but white, rose from her seat, and was escorted by the two men back to the place where the girl in flame chiffon was sitting.

The waiter brought forward two extra chairs, laid two extra places on the table at which Tony and his guest had already started their dinner.

Then the music began. And Tony said, "Dance?"—looking at Ellen. But Ellen wasn't dancing with him, always had a ruinous effect upon her.

"Sandy brought me," she said, "I'll have this one with him." It wasn't a jolly evening. But it managed to be adequately conversational and very polite. No reference was made to the last evening that the four spent together.

And then, after the dinner had been drawn out as long as possible it was time to go home! There wasn't anything else to do.

It was Sandy, not Tony, who decided the situation.

"I think, Jane," he said (they'd never gotten past the first name stage), "that it's up to me to take you home, even though I started the party with another gal! After all, you know, we're on the outside, looking in."

Jane bit her lip sharply. "I've got my car downstairs," she said. "I can take you all home, you know."

And at last, after detailed directions had been given to the chauffeur, the car came to a stop in front of Ellen's house. The moment had arrived—and Tony rose to it nobly.

"Thanks, Jane," he said, as he helped Ellen out of the car. "You were nice to come to dinner with me—and nice to bring us home."

It would have been all right if Jane had left it that way—if she had just said a gracious goodnight. For a moment one imagines that she meant to, and then she leaned out of the car and her slim, beautiful hand rested lightly upon the sleeve of Tony's coat.

"You'll not forget," she said, "that it's my birthday Saturday, and that the crowd is coming down to our country place for the weekend. You said you'd be there, you know."

Tony mumbled something. It sounded to Ellen like, "I'll remember." And then he was starting to slam shut the door of the car. But his movement was arrested by Sandy's gay, tactless voice. Sandy's gay, tactless voice. Ellen echoed, "and not inviting me! How come, Ellen should have somebody along who talks her language. She'd be lost with all of you folks—who are Philistines."

Sandy, you see, was assuming—the other three, Jane and Ellen and Tony, realized it at the same horrible second—that Ellen was to be a member of the party! The birthday house party to which Jane had invited Tony—Tony evidently, to her mind, was still playing the role of a bachelor!

"Of course, you can come, Sandy," she said, sweetly, "if you want to. It might be much more charming for Ellen to have one of her own—sort. Maybe you have the right idea, at that."

And then the car had gone flashing down the street.

For a long moment there was silence before Ellen found words. Before she spoke in a voice that was shot through with bewilderment.

"And now," she said, "what are we going to do?" Tony laughed boishly. "I guess," he said, "that it's all set! It begins to look as if you're coming with me to a house party."

Sandy certainly put Jane in an odd position, didn't he? But, as usual, she came through one hundred per cent.

"Yes," said Ellen, "yes, she did. Jane did come through. As usual." She spoke so softly that for all Tony knew she was sighing. He didn't know that all at once there was a seething anger in her heart.

"You're rather a peach, you know," she told Tony, and her tone was not at all casual. "You've made everything very easy for me, tonight. But even though you're so regular, even though you've been truly wonderful, I couldn't possibly accept Jane's invitation—I can't possibly accept Jane's invitation—I can't possibly go to her party. She was forced into asking me, you realize that. She doesn't want me—why should she want me? It's you she wants!"

Tony answered. "I'd like, Ellen," he said, answering the first part of her remark, "to make all of life very easy for you, if I could. That happens—" his voice also had lost its casual note, "that happens to be the way I care about you." He paused. And then he was answering the last part of what she had said to him.

"But," he added, "I do wish awfully you'd come to Jane's party. She may have been forced into asking you—I'm honest enough to admit that she was—but the important thing is that she did ask you. Under the circumstances, if you don't go, I couldn't go either, now. And if I don't appear on Jane's birthday, my crowd will think it's strange. And so—" even through the dark Ellen was aware of his smile, "and so it would seem that we're in a box. Fortunately we're in the same box. Not—" the smile had grown into his carefree young laughter, "not that it isn't very nice to be in a box with you."

Ellen was turning again; they were getting nowhere. She started to move wearily toward the steps of the house in which she lived. Tony followed her. They climbed the steps together, slowly.

"I don't know what to do, Tony," she said, and her voice was vague. "Don't you think we'd better let it ride—all of this business about Jane's party? Let's not worry about it tonight. Let's just wait and see what happens."

Tony was speaking. "Whether you go to Jane's or not," he said, and his tone was wistful, "I wish we might have a few evenings together. This has been sort of grand hasn't it? To me it's been kind of crazy not seeing you since—" his voice lowered, "our wedding day."

For just one second—one second out of all life—Ellen dared to be eager. She did not draw her hand away, even though it was held so loosely.

"Sometimes," she said, during the last two weeks I, too, felt that we were silly. I'd be glad to see you just as often as you want to see me, you know." She said the last with a rush. She tried not to emphasize the word, "just as often as you want to see me."

Tony answered very seriously. "That would be quite a lot," he said. "I guess we won't go into that. I guess you understand." He hesitated slightly. "Well, I guess it's goodnight."

Ellen was loitering there in the doorway was faltering there in the doorway. She took a step forward—Tony was very close, it was a short step. But despite his closeness, he couldn't know that she was near to yielding—to making crazy, sweet admissions.

"Won't you come up," she asked, "for just a minute?" But Tony was moving away from her, down the steps. It seemed as if the distance was automatically widening between them.

"I'd like to," he said, "but I don't trust myself to come up with you. Unless—your invitation means more than I think it does. You must realize why I can't."

Ellen was fumbling with her latch key. She knew in her her soul that she must open the door quickly, before she told Tony how much she wanted him to come in, how much she wanted him not to trust himself. She couldn't make that move—she wouldn't. He wouldn't be given a chance to hurt her pride, or to break her heart. She must open the door, now—and go inside, alone.

Some of the people, whose letters are printed below, were as nervous as you are—possibly more so—yet they have found relief.
Three years ago I was so nervous I could not bear to go out in company and could not sleep nights. A friend recommended Dr. Miles Nerveine. I now enjoy myself thoroughly and sleep every night. Miss Juliette Currier, New Market, N. H.
I have used Dr. Miles Nerveine in liquid form and find it the best medicine for the nerves I have ever used.
Christene Lanier, Middleton, Tennessee
Whenever I have over-indulged and feel restless I take one or two Nerveine Tablets just before I retire. In the morning when I awake I feel like a new person and can go about my work as usual. Dr. Miles Nerveine Tablets quiet your nerves, brace you up and are the simplest, most convenient tablets to take I have ever found. Miss Grace Redmann, St. James, Minn.
Before using your Nerveine I was very nervous and irritable. Since I have started to take it I feel so much better that my family notice the difference. I still take it from time to time and the good result is wonderful.
J. H. Redding, 1027 18th Ave., Rock Island, Ill.
Mr. Redding's family appreciate his improved disposition.

FOR FIRST AID... Yes!
IN MOTOR OIL... No!

Because Sinclair Opaline Motor Oil contains no petroleum jelly Sinclair dealers can apply it to your car according to the Sinclair Law of Lubrication. Petroleum jelly is valuable in many ointments but, unless removed, makes motor oil too thick when cold—too thin when hot. Petroleum jelly is removed from Opaline at as low as 60°F. below zero—a much lower temperature than required for just removing wax. Ask the Sinclair dealer.

Wright Home Is Scene Of Party

Mrs. Carmen Wrights home was the scene of a Christmas party when she entertained with three tables of bridge Friday afternoon.

The honor was beautifully decorated with Autumn leaves and the yuletide motif was carried out in bridge accessories and table covers.

Guests received their tally from an attractive Christmas tree. To each tally was tied a piece of holly.

Mrs. E. A. Brum won high score, and cut prize went to Mrs. Jack Garrell.

In the center of each table was a red candle in a chrysal holder, and a chrysal basket filled with holly.

A refreshment plate consisting of chicken salad, crackers, olives, fruit cake topped with whipped cream, coffee, and snap dragons as plate favors was passed to the following guests: Mmes Fred Burgin, Bob Gaines, Marion Harvey, Jack Scott, C. R. Cook, George Scott, E. R. Haught, and Mmes Jack Garrell, E. A. Brum, Marshall, and Ross Newton of Cross Cut, Miss Sara Chapman and the hostess.

Need an Electrician? If so, call Chas Taylor for efficient, economical work. Residence directly in front of Bennett Hotel.

Moreland Baldwin who is attending A.C.C. spent the holidays with his parents.

About You and Us

Substantial business as you know is built upon fidelity, fair price and neighborly service. These principles shall be our guiding policy again in 1935.

We want you to feel that when you have prescription work to be done that we WILL NOT SUBSTITUTE; when you desire toiletries we either HAVE THEM OR WILL GET THEM and regardless of what service it is you expect of your drug store we are ready and anxious to render it.
