ANNUAL MEETING OF ASSOCIATION LAST WEEK NEAR GUSTINE

Featuring the formal opening of a new concrete bridge over the South Leon River, two miles east of Gustine, the seventh annual meeting of State Highway 36 Association, was held Thursday of last week.

More than 200 residents of Comanche county and delegates from cities along Highway 36, Abilene to Freeport, attended the session held in the theatre building at Gustine, with H. K. Jackson, Gatesville, association president, presiding.

Resolutions asking the State Highway Commission to complete the existing gaps in the airline route from the Texas Plains to the Gulf Coast were adopted and a plea will be made to the commission at an early date.

Highway 36 extends through thirteen counties and thirty-eight towns from Abilene to Freeport and the records of Hilton Burks, association secretary, show that there yet remain sixty-five miles unimproved and 150 miles yet to be hard surfaced along the 400-mile route. In an address E. S. Cummings, Abilene, said that seeking the completion of Highway 36 has been set up as the number one project for the Abilene Chamber Commerce.

The resolutions committee was composed of Joe Bonner, Temple; Floyd Ziegler, Gatesville, and B. H. Freedland, Cross Plains. The nomination committee was composed of H. L. Stewart, Comanche; Jess Winters, Abilene, and Mrs. Phil Bertram, Mayor of Gustine.

In the election of officers, Jackson was re-elected president, Bonner first vice-president and Burks secretary.

A picnic lunch provided by the Gustine and Lamkin communities was served at noon under the native shade trees near the new bridge. In opening the bridge, Burks delivered an address, and Mayor Bertram cut the ribbon.

Congressman Clyde L. Garrett, Eastland, delivered an address at the opening, reviewing his association with Highway 36, recalling the formation of this association six years ago, when he was serving as County Judge of Eastland county. Garrett described Highway 36 as one of the most important routes in Texas.

The Rev. George R. Greenon, pastor of the Gustine Methodist church, offered the opening invocation that morning. Mayor Bertram delivered the welcome address in behalf of Gustine and Bonner responded. Round-table talks were made by delegates attending the session, in which all stressed 36 as a tourist and freight travel route from the Plains to the Gulf.

A&M Commander

Durward Varner To Command Cadets At Texas A&M College

Durward B. Varner, of Cottonwood, will command the Texas A&M College Cadet Corps, I.O.T.C. for the 1939-40 school year with the rank of Cadet Colonel, according to the promotion list announced by Col. Geo. F. Moore, CAC, U.S.A., head of the Military Department at the college.

Varner has been an outstanding student ever since he enrolled at Texas A&M in the Fall of 1936 and has never failed to be on the Distinguished Student list. For most of the time he has been a straight "A" student and held the presidency of his class in his sophomore and junior years. In addition, he had won the Danforth Foundation Fellowship twice; served as agricultural editor of the Scientific Review, a student publication; has held offices in the Economics and Marketing and Finance Clubs, and will serve as president of the latter club this year.

He was a freshman numeral in basketball in 1937 and a varsity letter this past year and was elected captain of the cage team for the coming season.

He is majoring in marketing and finance and will graduate in June 1940.

Other high ranking promotions announced at the same time included: James W. Collins, son of Rev. and Mrs. S. P. Collins, of Cross Plains, commander of the engineer regiment.

Needed Work At Cross Plains Cemetery To Be Taken Care Of By Full Time Sexton

A long needed project for Cross Plains cemetery is now taking shape and indications are that a full time sexton will be employed to keep the grounds and graves in a more slightly condition.

Under the auspices of Cross Plains Cemetery Association, L. D. Long is compiling a list of subscribers to pay 75 cents quarterly for the expenses necessary to employing a sexton. 41 signers had been secured yesterday at noon.

Assured that 41 at least will help in the financing of the proposition, Long has already begun cleaning the grounds and filling in sunken spots. He asked yesterday that the Review urge those who have not already paid their pledges for the first three months to do so at once. Persons interested in the proposal who are unable to contact Mr. Long are asked to send their check directly to him or to Drew L. Hill, member of Cemetery Association executive committee.

BRUNK'S COMEDIANS COMING NEXT WEEK

Henry L. Brunk's Comedians will play in Cross Plains next week, under auspices of the Band Parents Club, it was announced yesterday. The company will open Monday night and remain through Saturday night with a different play each evening.

"She Knew What She Wanted" will be the play for opening night, Henry L. Brunk told the Review in an interview yesterday.

Featured players are: Mercedes Rey, leading lady; Herbert Clark, leading man; and Joyce Lee Brunk, singer and dancer. A varied type of vaudeville numbers are promised between the acts.

GAME WARDEN WARNS HUNTERS AGAINST LAW

State Game Warden John Wood announced Monday that dove hunters here are not complying with Federal statutes under which guns used in hunting doves must be plugged and prohibiting the shooting of doves from automobiles or from any public road.

Wood said he found hunters are violating the law, and that charges would be brought in each such case. Offenders can be prosecuted under the Federal statutes, he said.

Guns—either pump or automatic—must be plugged to a three-shell capacity, including one shell in the chamber and two in the magazine of each gun.

Doves can not be shot from an automobile and can not be shot from any kind of public road, regardless of whether the road is a part of any designated State or Federal highway.

The bag limit is 15 birds and no hunter should have in his possession at any one time more than 15, regardless of when they were killed.

10 LOCAL F.F.A. BOYS BEGIN FEEDING CALVES

A report handed the Cross Plains Review by Deel Edgington, F.F.A. reporter for the local chapter in the Cross Plains high school, shows what a boy with ambition can do with calves with good blood. Larry McDonough, a member of the local high school chapter, is feeding three Hereford calves, "Lynn", "Abney", and "Claude". Lynn during a 96-day feeding period has shown an average daily gain of 3.1 pounds while Abney and Claude has made an average daily gain of 2.9 pounds each.

A total gain of 300 pounds was made by Lynn from an initial weight of 330 pounds, and a total of 275 pounds was gained by Claude from an initial weight of 300 pounds. Lynn at the present time weighs 576 pounds, Abney weighs 610 pounds, and Claude tips the scales at 575 pounds. The increase was made in a feeding period of 96 days.

The calves will probably continue on feed until in early March, Edgington said. Expenses including cost of calves and feed were $137.00. Young McDonough bought these calves for $100.00 on March 26, 1939, from the Cox-McInnis ranch, picking them from a lot of about 20 calves. He started these calves on feed officially June 5, 1939, from this feeding period. Alfalfa, alfalfa hay, omeleone, steer fatena, linseed meal, cottonseed meal, and ground corn has been fed these calves along with milk from nurse cows.

Those feeding milk fed calves for the seventh annual F.F.A. Fat Stock Show are Deel Edgington, Glenn Payne, and Harold Browning, two each, Larry McDonough, three each; and Ivan Clark, one each. Dry lot feeders are Kent Davis and Junior Vestal, three each each, Rex and Jerry Angeley one each each. There is still room for more dry lot calves.

CLYDE SIMS OFFERS TO ASSIST SWEET POTATO GROWERS IN MARKETING

Sweet potato raisers who have potatoes they wish to market are being urged to contact Clyde D. Sims, president of the Cross Plains Chamber of Commerce, who is assisting truckers to find loads when they arrive here.

Several trucks have been here the past few days hunting potatoes but in several cases Sims was unable to accommodate them even after extensive effort, the Review was told.

"We are happy to help farmers and truckers to get together and believe this can be easily done if producers will only tell us when they have loads to sell and where the potatoes may be picked up," Sims said yesterday.

Curran E. Allen left Sunday for Pampa where he will be employed with the Sinclair Prairie oil company.

Does a newspaper really lead as exciting a life as the movies would you believe?

In running back over some of the best of 23 years of news-chasing this chronicler recalls such experiences as:

The alarming night when Curley Syard awakened me from sound slumber to go out and see how the city-finished Lake Eastland dam was withstanding the punding of its first flood.

And the night that three men were fatally burned in a gasoline tank explosion at Olden and the rest of the dance hall went on as usual as though nothing had happened.

A memorable experience back in exhibition days was an inspection of an oil boom hotel which had been raided. There were mirrors so placed that a man on watch could served the approach of strangers and there were cords that could be manipulated, closing doors halfway down the corridors to delay "laws" and enable law breakers to escape to hide poker chips or liquor.

Officers had caught the "sentry" guard, however. Then there

New "Hot Check" Law Places Stiffer Sentence On Violators

As a result of too numerous violations of the hot check law, a new bill was recently passed by the 46th legislature, which is designed to cut down on the number of violations by a large percentage.

The new law reads: It is unlawful for any person, with intent to defraud, to obtain any money, goods, service, labor, or other things of value by drawing any check, draft or money order when such person does not have sufficient funds with the drawee to pay the instrument and all other outstanding instruments at the time it was given.

The penalty reads as follows: First conviction: for less than $5, confinement in the county jail not exceeding two years or fine not exceeding $200.

Second conviction same offense: than 30 days nor more than two years.

Third or subsequent convictions on same offense: confinement in penitentiary for not less than two years nor more than 10 years, regardless of the amount involved in the first conviction.

The law bill also states that any person who has filed a complaint or furnished information in the acceptance of a complaint by the district or county attorney, will be guilty of a misdemeanor if he suggests or requests that the case be dismissed.

Re-appointment of Tom C. King as State Auditor is a richly deserved recognition of two years' loyal service to the people of Texas.

Hick Halcomb, colorful newspaperman and political figure, has a sticker pasted inside his hat: "H-u, this ain't yours; put it back!"

How about a saturday through the Austin hotel lobbies to see who we can see? There's Hall Walker, he's mayor of Ranger, head of the bank, runs a hotel and in the hotel are the bus station and the telegraph office as well as a coffee shop and barber shop, and he is thinking about putting in a curio department.

And there goes Garland Adair, who used to edit papers at Breckenridge, McCamey and Mexia, who is happy as assistant of the new University of Texas museum which he had so much to do with making a reality.

The big, quiet-looking man in the broad-brimmed hat is Captain Frank Hamer.

Who's the visitor with the snow-white hair, Oscar Chastain of Eastland, who made the closing speech in the House of Representatives years ago in support of the renowned Small riverbed bill.

A stranger walked into a district courtroom in East Texas. The judge took one look at him, recessed court and called him to the bench shaking hands with him and plying him with questions as to what he was doing there.

The alarming night when Curley Syard awakened me from sound slumber to go out and see how the city-finished Lake Eastland dam was withstanding the punding of its first flood.

And the night that three men were fatally burned in a gasoline tank explosion at Olden and the rest of the dance hall went on as usual as though nothing had happened.

A memorable experience back in exhibition days was an inspection of an oil boom hotel which had been raided. There were mirrors so placed that a man on watch could served the approach of strangers and there were cords that could be manipulated, closing doors halfway down the corridors to delay "laws" and enable law breakers to escape to hide poker chips or liquor.

Officers had caught the "sentry" guard, however. Then there

THE BOOK SHELF

—by—

Lexie Dean Robertson

"On this book shelf always look for anything except a book"

The vagabond Book Shelf would have preferred to linger on the Pacific Coast until pecans are ripe in Texas but duty called so we took off for Spokane which is nearly four hundred miles away on the eastern side of the state. Leaving Seattle the road led across mountains, by lakes, also through forests. Mt. Baker, which looms for miles almost any direction one looks in Washington, is the most beautiful mountain I have ever seen. It is cone-shaped and completely covered with snow, and against the dark blue sky it gives the effect of something incredibly lovely printed on a picture post card.

All the coast cities have totem poles set up in various places; this Indian tribal emblem is considered typical of the Northwest. Seattle has had an especially interesting totem pole (These are tall, fantastically carved and painted poles and each city seems to want the most striking in height and design) which has been carved from one tall tree, but the years have damaged it so the city fathers had engaged two Indians to carve and paint a new one. When we were there, the city was in a dither for it had been discovered that neither of these Indians had ever carved so much as a toothpick, and were proposing to take the nose and ears from the old pole and fasten them to the new one!

One of the amazing sights along the highway to Seattle is the Dry Falls now set aside by the government as a park. It seems that millions of years ago the Columbia River ran through this section and made these falls which are bigger than half a dozen Niagaras piled on top of each other. Now only geological experts can read the story and a few clear lakes are through the arid land to show where the mighty river once laid her course.

I have learned now to tell when we are approaching a great dam, because all dam country looks much alike, arid, bare mountains, great cliffs and scar-like gulches, and a hot sun beating down over all the desolate waste lands. When I saw Bonlder Dam I thought that would be the last word on the DAM subject, but Son discovered that Grand Coulee lay almost directly on our route suggested that we go by Poor Son! Although he is driver, packer, and sometimes cook on the trip it isn't often that he has a voice in destinations so we were all happy for him to express his heart's desire. If and I could travel the universe and never miss the lack of dams, but we are not machinery-minded. When completed, Grand Coulee will be the largest dam in the world. I looked at it and still I didn't believe it. The Columbia River comes to a narrow place to make a good spot for this dam which is a mile long. Everything else is so amazingly big that the mile across looks about like a city block even if the freight cars hauling concrete out on the dam looked like match boxes. Seven thousand men have been working on the dam—day and night—for six years, and in three more years it will be completed. Much of the work is done by remote control and the great cranes fill and empty barrels of concrete with never a person at hand to supervise.

Spokane which seemed very large to me a few years ago when I visited there now seems a mere village after these cities of half a million to a million and a half that we have been visiting. And when I learned that there was not a single dry-cleaning establishment in the city that remained open all night, I was quite put out. We remained long enough next morning for JPM Sunken Gardens, in the Manitou Sunken Gardens, and even they had not yet begun blooming. These exquisite gardens were not so lovely as they were a few years ago, and I hope the city dads are not withholding funds. When people will drive an extra hundred miles just to see a flower garden it is worth keeping it at its best.

At Pullman, Washington, where I was scheduled for a poetry recital, we found delightfully entertaining and hospitable people. Mr. and Mrs. Erich S. Klossner invited us to dinner and what a joy it was to sit again at a dining table in a beautiful home and eat delicious food much of which had come from Mrs. Klossner's own garden. I reluctantly admit that in the matter of sweet corn and crisp cucumbers Texas can take lessons from Washington!

Everybody in town turned out for my recital which was sponsored by Mr. Klossner and the Writer's Club. It was an evening program in the beautiful United Church... there are many united churches in this section and I think the plan a good one... and the audience was flatteringly responsive. When I read my whippoorwill poem I was amazed to see a questioning look on the face of nearly everybody; then it dawned on me that they had never heard of whippoorwill! And so it was. I explained our native birds and regretted that I had never learned to whistle so that I could show them how musical our birds really are!

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond presented me with a corsage so exquisite that I must describe it. It was a great shoulder spray of white gladioli, each of which was centered with a luscious pink rosebud. I treasured it carefully hoping to save it for Salt Lake City, but alas! the days were too many.

Pullman is the seat of Washington State College which does not have a full summer session. The town therefore during the winter has about eight thousand people and in summer only half as many.

Our bread is special baked to retain all of the many health building properties of the wheat and milk of which it is made... and it is slowly baked to make it more easily digested.

It is wrapped so that it stays fresh. The last slice is just as delicious and just as good as the first slice. Be sure to stop in today for your loaf!

It's a pleasure to say YES

Some people have the mistaken idea that banks like to say no to prospective borrowers. This is not true, particularly of the Citizens State. Here you will find that our officers lean forward, not backward, in their consideration of every legitimate loan request. Naturally, as good bankers, their thought must be for the safety of their depositor's money, but after they are satisfied on that point you will find them highly co-operative in trying to meet your borrowing needs. They like to say yes whenever they can consistently do so.
