

FISHERMEN—Pictured above is a view of the crowd which gathered on the banks of the Lakewood Country Club lake on Friday of last week, to get a share of the fish which were being poisoned by the club. At the peak, conservative estimates placed the crowd at 2,500 and cars were parked for blocks around the lake. A count of the boats on the small lake revealed 47 and as can be seen in the picture, many fish hungry people were wading and swimming after the choking fish. It was impossible at times to get near the shore and the total pounds of fish taken could not be estimated. It was a rare sight to watch the crowd go after the fish with everything from improvised spears to garden rakes and pitchforks.

THE BAYOU PHILOSOPHER VAGUE ON ADMINISTRATION CHANGE, BUT SURE ON WANTING WEATHER CHANGE

Editor's note: The Bayou Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on the Bayou is taking a mighty bold stand this week, his letter reveals.

Dear editor: There are a lot of people who will argue we need a change in the national administration, but there would be one change that's needed that outdistances that all to pieces.

It's the weather. Something has gone wrong with the weather the past 12 months.

Here we are into spring and as far as I can tell winter hasn't gotten here yet. Of course it is cold in places in Texas this past winter occasionally, but on the whole winter just never did arrive. Skipping from fall to spring wouldn't be bad, but the situation has affected the weather in other ways. Take rainfall. It used to be, and I don't believe the national administration had anything to do with it, we'd have rainy spells. Rain would set in and fall for a week or two, sometimes longer, and when the sun finally came out everybody heaved a sigh of relief and school children ran wild, but it's been nearly two years now since we had an old-fashioned rainy spell. It'll cloud up, thunder and lightning, and rain will beat down for maybe fifteen minutes, then it'll shower a little while, and the clouds will go on off and the rain gauge will show .19 of an inch and you can plan that afternoon if that's what you had in mind. As far as the weather system goes now, that constitutes a rain, but it's mighty piddlin. Why I got a pair of rubber boots I ain't had on but five times in the last 18 months, and a couple of those times I just put em on for sentimental reasons.

Now I ain't made up my mind on the national administration, I always follow the majority and I've seen lots of administrations changed without no noticeable difference in my financial standin out here on my Johnson grass farm, which manages to be pretty weedy regardless of who's President, but I ain't beatin around the bush about the weather. What we need is a change. The way it is, we ain't had year before last's rainfall yet, which is the reason I ain't planted year before last's crops yet.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

James B. Moore Dies Here Tuesday After Long Illness

J. B. Moore, 78, passed away at his home here Tuesday morning, March 25. He was born March 10, 1874 in Williamson County and moved to Burnet County when a young boy.

He was converted and joined the Baptist church at Fairland and was very active in church work until his health failed him. He was a deacon in the Cross Plains Baptist Church where he had been a member for about 25 years.

He was married to Ida Mae Perry on July 1, 1894 at Fairland and they moved five miles west of Cross Plains, where they bought a farm in 1905. They made their home there until three years ago when they moved to Cross Plains. Mrs. Moore preceded her husband in death two years.

Funeral services were held at two p.m. Wednesday, March 26, at the First Baptist Church with the pastor, Rev. J. W. Chapman, in charge of services. Deacons of the church will serve as pallbearers and nieces of the deceased will be flower girls. Burial was made in the Cross Plains Cemetery.

Higginbotham's were in charge of arrangements.

Band Boosters Club Entertains Buffalo Band With Banquet

Members of the Cross Plains Band Boosters Club entertained the members of the Junior and Senior Buffalo Bands here last Friday night with a banquet and entertainment.

The affair was staged in the American Legion hall and the decorations gave the place an atmosphere of a garden party. The entire ceiling of the hall was covered with liveoak branches from which multi-colored lights hung. In one corner of the building stood a large oak tree and a spotlight hidden in the branches above made it look as though it was growing outside with the moon shining on it.

A sumptuous meal consisting of baked chicken with all the trimmings was enjoyed by all present, with members of the Junior Band blacked up to look like Negroes serving the meal as a part of their initiation into the Senior Band.

After the meal a short program was carried out and then the floor was cleared for dancing and table games. All present reported a very entertaining and enjoyable evening.

Six Candidates File For Places On The School Trustee Ballot

Junior Ford, Secretary of the Board of Trustees of the Cross Plains Independent School District, announced this week that the deadline for filing for a place on the ballot for school trustee passed Saturday, without any further petitions being filed for candidates.

The election will be held at the City Hall here on Saturday, April 5. With three trustees to be elected, voters of the district will have a choice of six candidates, as follows: Junior Ford, Sterling Odom, A. L. Breeding, D. L. Sessions, Norrell Long and Oren Barr.

Trustees whose terms expire this year are Ford, Odom and Breeding and all are filed as candidates for re-election.

According to Ford, state election laws require that candidates desiring places on the printed ballot must file their intentions at least 10 days prior to the election, and said petition must bear the signatures of at least 10 qualified voters of the school district. However, voters are not obligated to vote for the candidates listed on the ballot. Write-in votes are permissible, the only requirement being that write-in candidates be tax paying, qualified voters of the school district.

Insurance Executive Lauds City For Excellent Fire Credit Rating

C. R. (Mike) Cook, local insurance agent, the past week received a letter from T. R. Mansfield, president of the Gulf Insurance Company, complimenting the City of Cross Plains for its excellent fire insurance rating over a long period of time.

Here's the letter: "Cook Insurance Agency "Box 6 "Cross Plains, Texas

"You live in a good fire insurance town, Mike, and Mrs. Cook, and a town good in that way is pretty apt to be good in other ways, also.

"I have just made a study of the fire records of all Texas towns for the past fourteen years, and I find Cross Plains has received a credit for good record every year—and in most of the years it was for the maximum. I give credit mainly to the high quality of your citizenship and your local agents and after that, to the good work of your Fire Department. My hat is off to Cross Plains and its fine record.

"Naturally, the Gulf wants all the good business it can get in such a fine community. "Sincerely, "T. R. Mansfield."

Veterans? Box

Q—Are there any charges made for obtaining a GI home loan?

A—The lender may charge reason closing costs, usually paid by any borrower. He also may make a reasonable flat charge as provided in schedules issued by VA, to cover the cost of originating the loan. But no commission or brokerage fees may be charged to a veteran for securing a GI loan.

Q—Would a World War II veteran with a "bad conduct" discharge be eligible for GI Bill benefits?

A—That depends on the circumstances in any individual case. The law requires a discharge under than dishonorable. VA would have to determine whether the "bad conduct" discharge was given under conditions other than dishonorable. If this were so, the veteran might be eligible for GI Bill benefits, subject to all the other conditions that apply.

Q—Is there any priority system for entering a VA hospital?

A—Yes. Veterans who need treatment for service-connected disabilities have priority over those who require hospitalization for non-service-connected conditions. Veterans in the latter category, if not emergency cases, must wait for a bed to become available and must swear that they are unable to afford private treatment elsewhere.

Q—I expect to be discharged from service soon. Can you tell me what I have to do in order to get the new kind of term insurance for Korean veterans? I have never held National Service Life Insurance, and I am not disabled.

A—You must apply in writing to VA, Washington 25, D. C., within 120 days after your release from active duty, and pay the required first premium.

Seed Bed Preparation Pays When Seeding Grass

S. A. Chambers, who lives just out of Williams, Texas on the farm-to-market road, is a co-operator with the Brown-Mills Soil Conservation District and has had assistance from the Rising Star Work Unit in planting about 70 acres of native grass mixture. Right next to his house he has 30 acres of grass that was planted in the spring of 1950. The planting is a mixture of Big bluestem, Indiangrass, Upland switch grass, Little bluestem and Sand Lovegrass.

This 30 acre planting is an excellent demonstration of how grass will respond to different types of seed bed preparation. The grass seed used to plant this field all came from the same place. It was all planted with the same drill and planted at the same time.

There is a tremendous difference though in the looks of the stand on the different seed beds. On one seed bed you can see every drill row and there is a perfect stand of grass. On the other seed bed you have to dig down in the weeds and needle grass to find the grass seedlings and when you find them they show the effects of the competition that the weeds and needle grass has given them.

How did Mr. Chambers prepare the seed beds? Where he has the excellent stand of grass he broke the land the year before he planted the grass and planted Hegeria in rows. The rows were kept clean and when the grain matured it was harvested and all the stubble left on the field. Nothing more was done to the seed bed. The grass seed was just drilled into the stubble. Results—Perfect.

What happened where the grass doesn't look so good? The land was broken just before planting time, leaving the seed bed loose and hard to plant properly. It also provided a seed bed that was more suitable to weeds and needle grass. One trip over Mr. Chamber's field is most convincing.

Farmers and ranchers who plan to seed old fields to pasture grass should give very careful consideration to the seed bed that they are going to plant their seed in. Many grass seedings have failed or have been very slow to make a stand because proper consideration was not given to the seed bed.

Many people seem to feel that because a grass will grow out in the pasture they should be able to get it started in an old field just by scattering out a few seed. Nearly every one who has tried just scattering the seed has been disappointed.

Grass will respond to good treatment just like a crop of cotton or corn. Only grass requires a different seed bed. Grass likes a firm, almost hard, seed bed. Grass seed cannot stand to be planted over a quarter of an inch deep.

Motorists Are Urged To Have Cars Inspected Now

Motorists are urged to have their motor vehicles safety inspected while there is a lull before the expected rush to inspection stations.

G. W. Busby, chief of the Motor Vehicle Inspection Division of the Texas Department of Public Safety, said 2,400 inspection stations have been certified to aid motorists in complying with the new state law. September 6 is the final deadline for having all motor vehicles certified for safe driving.

Busby said the movement of vehicles to inspection stations is lagging, with only about 40,000 being inspected weekly. If a bottleneck is to be avoided before the deadline, he said, at least 100,000 vehicles a week will have to flow through the stations.

Requirements under the new safety law have been modified considerably following an anticipated rush to inspection stations when the law became effective a few months ago. Safety Department officials said many new inspection stations are being certified weekly to aid in avoiding another bottleneck.

"We earnestly hope that motorists will take advantage of the lull we are now having and avoid a last-minute rush in order to comply with the September 6 deadline," Busby said.

HEALTH NOTES

Central Texas' fox population will have to be reduced by at least 50 percent immediately in order to avert serious fox rabies trouble this spring, the State Department of Health has warned.

Unless livestock owners, fox hunters, and the public generally get on the ball, the whole region is in for increasing numbers of rabies cases, State Health Officer Geo. W. Cox predicted.

Five rabid foxes have been killed within Austin's city limits or adjacent to them since the first of the year, Dr. Cox said. All were found to be positive by laboratory tests.

The grim warning came on the heels of a report that the disease had been diagnosed in Fayette County for the first time in history.

The health officer said Central Texas rabies had been almost eradicated except for a small pocket in Milam County. Because no cases were reported for some nine months, fox thinning efforts were relaxed. That's when the trouble began.

In November of 1951, he reported, the disease flamed in the southern part of Milam County and advanced rapidly toward the heavier fox population of Lee, Fayette, Bastrop and Travis Counties.

The direction of spread now, according to all indications, is westward and southwestward. New outbreaks can be expected in those sections.

He said there was only one way to stop the disease which is 100 percent fatal to livestock and humans alike, once symptoms develop. That way is to kill foxes "by trapping, shooting, poisoning—any way to cut their number in half and break the chain of infection." "If it isn't done watch out for an epidemic," he warned.

Congressman Omar Burleson Reports On Peanut Program

Washington, D. C.—Congressman Omar Burleson said in Washington this week that he was a little more encouraged for the welfare of the 1952 peanut program, since the Production and Marketing Administration, through the Department of Agriculture, has announced the main points to be followed for this crop year.

"It is, however, still not fair to the peanut farmers of Texas," said Burleson. "The PMA has not yet determined what charges will be made to the farmer for storing and handling of peanuts he wishes to place in the loan."

The encouraging part of the announcement is that evidently the Growers' Association and the co-ops will be able to purchase peanuts from the farmers and thereby afford him a ready market, instead of forcing him into the loan as was first recommended.

"I have insisted on this feature to the fullest extent," said Burleson, "and am glad we have at least gotten this much concession from them."

According to Burleson, the support price on peanuts will amount to 90 percent of the February 15, 1952 parity price of $266 per ton, and it makes provision for proportionate increase if the parity price at the start of the marketing season is higher than the minimum level announced today.

The support price for peanuts includes purchase agreements, which will be available for the first time. Under this provision, producers may sign contracts between now and the end of January next year, and if at the end of the market year, which is set at May 31, 1953, they have not been able to market their crops at a price above the support price, which is estimated at $239.40 per ton as the average for all types, they can then sell to the Commodity Credit Corporation.

The Southwestern Peanut Growers' Association and other cooperatives will be offered loans, and they in turn can provide a ready market for peanuts at support price.

Where it is practicable, producer loans will be made on the farm storage, and this phase of the program will be handled by the State and County PMA.

Congressman Burleson said that he will continue every effort with the PMA, insisting on the best possible administrative program.

Tribute to a neighbor

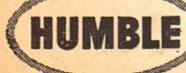

We'd like you to meet a neighbor on whom both of us depend.

He's the man who operates the service station in your neighborhood.

You depend on him to take care of your car, to supply you with products of high quality at reasonable prices. You expect, and get, from him more free service than from any other merchant with whom you do business: whatever you spend, he cheerfully cleans your windshield, checks your oil and tires, furnishes you with free battery water, and renders special services as you need them.

The oil companies depend on him as the independent merchant who distributes their products. He demands, and receives, continuously improved products with which to compete with his business rivals. He insists on reasonable prices that will move his merchandise in volume. His progressive attitude is one of the chief reasons why the oil industry has supplied you with better products at about the same prices over a long period of years.

It's a pleasure to pay this tribute to a neighbor, to thank him publicly for being such a friendly, dependable contact between the oil industry and its millions of customers. He is not on our payroll, but we couldn't do business without him.

TRYING DAZE

Dear Sir:

In reply to your request to send a check, I wish to inform you that the present condition of my bank account makes it almost impossible. My shattered financial condition is due to Federal laws, State laws, County laws, City laws, Corporation laws, Liquor laws, mother-in-laws, brother-in-laws, sister-in-laws, and outlaws.

Through these laws I am compelled to pay a business tax, amusement tax, head tax, school tax, gas tax, light tax, furniture tax, and excise tax. I am required to get a business license, car license, operator's license, truck license, not to mention a marriage license and dog license.

I am also required to contribute to every society and organization which the genius of man is capable of bringing to life; to women's relief, the unemployed relief, and the gold digger's relief. Also to every hospital and charitable institution in the City, including the Salvation Army, Community Chest, Red Cross, Purple Cross, Double Cross, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Cub Scouts, Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. as well as Way Stations for Wayward Girls and Boys Ranch and Boys Town.

For my own safety I am required to carry health insurance, life insurance, fire insurance, property insurance, liability insurance, burglar insurance, accident insurance, business insurance, earthquake insurance, tornado insurance, unemployment compensation insurance and old age insurance.

My business is so governed that it is no easy matter to find out who owns it. I am inspected, expected, suspected, disrespected, rejected, dejected, examined, re-examined, informed, required, summoned, fined, commanded and compelled, until I prove an inexhaustible supply of money for every known need, desire or hope of the human race.

Simply because I refuse to donate to something or other, I am boy-

P. P. SMITH CELEBRATES 90TH. BIRTHDAY SUNDAY

Another old timer of Cross Plains passed his ninetieth milestone Sunday. P. P. Smith, who makes his home with his son, W. M. Smith, enjoyed a birthday dinner at the home of his son Sunday.

Two of Mr. Smith's daughters, Mrs. J. F. McCollock and husband and Mrs. T. L. White of Stamford, were here to help their father celebrate.

He talked about, lied about, held up, held down and robbed, until I am almost ruined.

I can tell you honestly that except for a miracle that happened I could not enclose this check. The wolf that comes to many doors nowadays just had pups in my kitchen. I sold them and here is the money.

Yours very truly,
John Q. Doe.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Ellis of Abilene spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wid Harlow, and his cousin, Mrs. James Cook.

PEANUT POINTERS

Peanuts are one of the best cash crops for many sandy soils. They will supply a good income from land where most other crops are unprofitable.

However, one crop peanut farming is hard on the land, so wise farmers grow peanuts in combination with other crops, pastures and livestock. In this way, farming operations are balanced and soil fertility is maintained.

The farmer in the illustration planted four rows of peanuts stripped with two rows of combine maize on contour. In this case peanuts were hogged off, maize stalks cut with stalk cutter, and field seeded to cover crop of rye. As shown, farmer is disking rye and peanuts leaving a mulch.

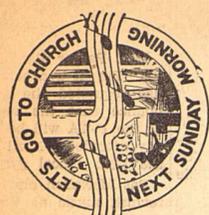

See the County Agent on the 7-Step Peanut Program. This program will help to increase the acre yield and profit.

THE PINK BOLLWORM

Two problems in Texas Agriculture come to us across the Rio Grande—the "wetback" and the cotton Pink Bollworm.

The insect, or Pectinophora Gossypiella, has this in common with the "wetback": things look better to it on this side of the border, and it comes across to work in our cotton crops. It will "hitch" a ride across the international bridge on trucks and cars and clothing, or anything else that has been in contact with cotton or cotton products in Mexico. Or, in the moth stage, it will fly across.

The first Pink Bollworm was discovered in Texas near an oil mill in Robinson County in 1917. Since then, it has become the greatest threat our cotton industry has ever faced, with 193 counties now under quarantine.

The worm comes from an egg laid by the moth on the cotton plant. The larva burrows into the fruit, square or boll and reaches maturity in 10 or 15 days. It puppates, and in about 30 days from the time the egg is laid it has developed into a moth. After mating, the female moth deposits eggs for another generation.

The worm grows to about one-half inch in length. It's made up of segments, like the tail of a crayfish. Each segment is ringed by a pink line.

The moth is less than an inch long, brown in color, and shy—hiding from the light or day under stones or brush and flying in the late evening. It can make long-distance flights of hundreds of miles, at an altitude of 2,000 or 3,000 feet—for example, from the Laguna district of Mexico to as far away as Arizona, New Mexico, and the Plains of Texas, which is a rather respectable performance.

These little moths live only two or three weeks. But as many as five and six generations appear in one season. That means if every egg laid by one female moth should develop into an adult moth, in five generations one moth would have

Pioneer-Gunn H. D. Meets Wednesday With 14 Present

The Pioneer-Gunn H. D. Club met in regular session at the club house on March 19 with 14 members present. All married members answered roll call with their anniversary date and how many years married.

The final report of Red Cross committee was $32.48 raised in our little community for that worthy cause.

The H. D. Clubs met in Eastland last week with the Commissioner's Court and more money was appropriated for a County H. H. Agent and we hope to have a new one soon.

Mrs. Bert Brown gave the council report.

The club voted to run a 4-H Club girl in the "Queen for a Day" contest, sponsored by the clubs of the county. They also plan to do something for Girl's Town and to learn more about what we can do for the inmates of the State Hospital at Abilene, that are sent there from our county.

Mrs. Nell Flemming gave drills on parliamentary procedure. Mrs. Rody and Mrs. Flemming brought interesting lamps they had made and it was decided we would have a work-day soon and each lady make an electric lamp.

Until further notice each Tuesday will be quilting day. Come quilt with us.

Next meeting of the club will be held in the home of Mrs. Nettie Rody, with Mrs. Flora Bellah as co-hostess.

Refreshments of cheese sandwiches, potato chips, mints and fruit punch was served by the hostesses, Meses. Velma Brown and Gertrude Hester.

Mrs. O. B. Edmondson and son and Mrs. L. W. Westerman were visitors in Baird Tuesday morning.

Ray Plumlee entered the Veterans Hospital at Temple, Tuesday, for treatment.

Mrs. Laura McCarty and son and daughter, Leon and Nina, of Brownwood visited their cousin, Mrs. L. P. Reed, Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert M. Belew and sons, Buddy and Jerry, spent the week end at Sweetwater with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Petty.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Burson of Midland spent the week end here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Von Clifton.

Fred Cook of Rising Star was a business visitor in Cross Plains Tuesday morning.

produced more than 10,000,000,000 hungry Pink Bollworms.

Multiply that by millions of moths on thousands of acres of cotton, and we get a rough idea of what we're up against. (To be continued)

Watch For These Disease That Often Happen In The Turkey Flocks In Texas

The use of management and sanitation practices that will prevent diseases are mighty important to the turkey producer. It is always more desirable to prevent the occurrence of a disease than to try to treat an outbreak, says L. C. Grumbles, poultry pathologist of Texas A&M College.

Management practices are important from the day the poult is hatched and one of the first to cause trouble is water starvation, says Grumbles. This practically always happens when the poults are about two weeks old and results from the change from small water fountains to large ones or automatic watering systems. The poults just don't find the water and the trouble can be avoided by making the change gradually and by providing sufficient watering space.

Another condition associated with management that often causes trouble is crop and gizzard impaction. It occurs when the poults eat the floor litter and can usually be prevented by covering the litter with paper or sacks for the first week of the brooding period. Providing plenty of feeder and watering space and then making sure the poults are eating and drinking will also help, says the pathologist.

Three infectious diseases cause most of the trouble in young turkey poults. One of these is pullorum. It is transmitted through the egg and can largely be eliminated by buying poults from a hatchery that is U. S. pullorum clean.

Another is hexamitiasis. This disease is caused by a very small parasite that inhabits the small intestine and mortality among the infected poults is usually very high. It generally occurs in poults between the ages of four and 12 weeks. Grumbles says most mature turkeys are carriers of the disease and the organisms are passed out in the droppings. The parasite survives for only about 30 minutes outside of the bird's body and is spread through fresh droppings from carrier birds.

Except on farms where breeding flocks are kept, all mature birds should be disposed of before poults are started. Where mature birds are kept, a different person should care for the poults.

The third disease is coccidiosis and it usually occurs in poults when they are between four and eight weeks of age. It is also caused by a small parasite that invades the walls of the intestines. These parasites are universally present and most poults are exposed to coccidia during the growing period, says Grumbles. A light infection is desirable in order to build up flock resistance to the disease. The severity will depend upon the number of the parasites picked up one time by the birds.

Sanitation will be effective in some instances especially where small groups of poults are started early in the season. It is usually not completely effective where successive lots or poults of different ages are being brooded.

Perhaps the most effective control method is continuous medication with a coccidia killing drug in the feed. Results are usually good and the cost runs from one to two cents per bird. Several of the sulfa drugs are effective in controlling the disease but Grumbles points out that a complete and thorough diagnosis should be made before treatment is given. Since most poults diseases require the use of a microscope or laboratory facilities for an accurate diagnosis, he suggests calling in a trained veterinarian at the first sign of trouble. Action is needed once an infectious disease strikes but treatment should be based on a reliable diagnosis.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Peavy were business visitors in Abilene Monday. They also visited their son, R. T., and wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Clements of Fort Worth were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Baum.

Guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Foster here over the week end were her son, Garland Williams, and family of Fort Stockton.
