THE PEANUT CAPITAL OF AFRICA

What cotton is to the South, peanuts are to Dakar and West Africa. President Roosevelt in his address last week as a hunger point to the Americans, over one-half million tons of peanuts are shipped each year.

The French first came to this part of Africa in 1384, but it was some years later before they established a colony there. Dakar is now a city of about 90,000 people, 85,000 of which are natives. You will remember reading in the papers last year about the attempt made by the Free French and the British to capture this important port.

Did you know that people living in and around Dakar go hunting for chickens just as we hunt for rabbits, quail, etc. The chickens live in the brush and are as wild as any other wild game found in Africa and have to be shot like other wild birds.

WOMEN IN BRITAIN FIND RATION MELT BULGES

LONDON — Women who for years have been trying to find a diet which would reduce those unwanted bulges have discovered that rationing is the ideal thing.

Many women are regaining slim lines they thought had gone forever. They are not only getting slimmer, but also fitter, as is generally agreed by medical men, factory welfare officers and dietitians.

People now are in a better state of health than they were before the war, and many older people who suffered in health during the last war say that they feel much fitter in this one.

The Pioneers

Dedicated to those men and women who followed the setting of their Westward surge to establish new homes, subdue untamed Indians and build an empire. Their ranks now thinned by the toll of time, a cross section of these hardy old pioneers will convene in annual reunion at Clyde, August.

From peaceful homes in an older state—Cross swollen streams and arid plains, Came pioneers to hew their fate And plant sturdy, courageous strains.

Young brides, still in their teens Strapping men, tanned by the sun Prairie scooners with ducking screens— Babies clad in plain home-spun.

It was a bold and valiant band That tackled the challenging job To win and till a virgin land And conquer the Indian Mob.

The ring of axes and buzz of saws; Saw forests thinned and homes arise, Churches built for the Master's cause Schools begun under Western skies.

So it was, our heritage came about Not by chance or idle dreams. But through pioneers brave and stout Who tilled the land and harnessed streams.

It was they who made America great In spite of famine, flood and foe A land of freedom, this our fate God, help us, keep it so.

Home Making Hints

BY CLARA BROWN

Peaches

Peaches everywhere—plentiful, cheap, fine in quality—these should be now on family tables and on pantry shelves for winter use—Peach weeks have been proclaimed for July 24 to 31 and August 7 to 14—So let's check up on up-to-date methods of conserving peaches—

A standard bushel of peaches weighs 48 pounds and should yield about 30 pints jars or 20 quarts jars. This bushel of peaches if a light syrup is used, will need about 3 lbs. of sugar. For a light syrup to each three cups of water use one cup of sugar.

Preparation for Canning

Immerse the peaches in boiling water until the skins will slip easily. Plunge into cold water. Remove skins, cut peaches in halves, discard pits. To prevent darkening, and the loss of Vitamin C, drop the halves immediately into a solution made by dissolving a tablespoon salt and 2 tablespoons vinegar in one gallon of water. Rinse fruit with clear water.

To Can Peaches

Make a light syrup by boiling for 5 minutes, 3 measures of water to each measure of sugar. Peaches may be packed raw, but a better pack is obtained if the fruit is first simmered in the syrup 4 to 8 minutes, depending on the texture of the peach. Use a kettle or pan large enough to prevent stacking the halves. Do not cook until too soft to handle. Pack at once, placing the halves in over-lapping layers, the concave surface of each half being downward. Fill container with boiling syrup. Process in water bath; quart and pint glass jars and No. 2 plain tin cans 15 minutes.

When packed raw, exhaust the air before sealing by placing the filled containers in a boiling water bath deep enough to come within two inches of the top of the container. Cover the water bath to hold in the steam. Exhaust 5 minutes. After air has been exhausted from fruit, take one container and finish filling others removed from water bath to seal and put back for processing. This method retains more vitamins and gives full packs. Process in water bath 25 minutes if fruit is firm, and 20 minutes if it is soft.

Crushed Peaches

Skin ripe peaches and prepare as above for canning. Pass the halves through food grinder with end perforated with large holes (better 1/2 inch holes). Pack at once into cans and to each gallon of fruit add syrup made by 1 1/3 cups sugar and 2 cups water boiled together 5 minutes. Exhaust (as above) 10 minutes. Seal at once and process in water bath 15 minutes for pints and No. 2 cans, 20 minutes for quarts and No. 2 cans.

The fruit can be heated in the syrup to 1650 F and packed hot into the cans and sealed at once and processed in the water bath as for canned peaches. This is an excellent way to utilize peaches that have a good flavor but that are undesirable from size, spots that have been cut out, or that are a little too ripe to keep their shape well. Crushed peaches are suitable for serving at any meal.

Peach Butter

Well ripened peaches (freestone) are best to use for making butter. To peel the peaches dip in boiling water for one-half minute until the skins slip, put into cold water, and peel. Cook the peeled peaches with very little water until soft; put through a colander sieve. To each measure of pulp, add half a measure of 1-2 pound of sugar. Cook slowly and stir frequently until the produce is of the desired consistency. While still hot, pack in sterilized jars and seal.

This can be cooked with less stirring in a slow oven, just stirring occasionally. Clean and label jars before storing in a cool, dark, dry place.

Peach Preserves

Peaches not too ripe that will hold their shape but ripe enough to give a good flavor may be used. Peel and prepare the peaches as for canning. If clingstone peaches are to be used, cut flesh from pits. To each pound or measure of fruit, add three-fourths pound or measure of sugar. Combine sugar and fruit in alternate layers and allow to stand overnight to extract the juice. Stir gently while heating slowly to boiling. Or prepare a syrup by adding 1-2 cup water to each one and three-fourths cups of sugar. Add fruit and boil rapidly. Cook until fruit is tender and clear. Pour into hot sterilized jars and seal. Clean and label jars before storing in a cool, dark, dry place.

Peach Pickles

2 gallons peaches, 1 gallon sugar, 1 quart vinegar (strong), 2 sticks gumamum bark, 1 tablespoon cloves, 1 tablespoon allspice.

White clingstone peaches are preferable. Select firm fruit. Wash well. Remove the thin skin carefully. Cook spicy syrup until thick and pour over fruit and let stand overnight. Drain off juice and boil until thick. Then add fruit. Do not stir, but keep under syrup until tender and pack hot into sterilized jars. Cover with syrup. Seal, polish and label. Store in a cool, dry place.

Sources of Heat For Drying

1. Sun-drying. There is little control of temperature by this method and only where the atmosphere is dry should this be depended upon. Slated or wire trays covered, top and bottom, with thin cloth as cheese cloth, to keep out dust and insects.

2. A ventilated glassed-in box that acts like hot-bed intensifying the sun's heat and so provides a higher temperature, which results in quick drying and can be made a protection from rain is an excellent dryer. Trays can be adjusted in the box for product.

Length of Time For Drying

Sliced peaches dry in three to eight hours; halved fruits in whole to twenty-four hours; and whole fruit in 18 to 36 hours. Often some of the products dry before the rest. In such cases, remove only the thoroughly dried products and allow the rest to finish drying. Regardless of the time mentioned above, the fruit must be dried until a "rubbery" texture exists.

Storing Dried Products

Conditioning—Food taken from drying trays is not uniformly dry. Portions that are more moist than others may cause mold to develop. To obtain an even degree of moisture, place the products into deep containers and stir each day for 8 to 10 days. This is known as conditioning. If food is too moist after conditioning, return to dryer.

Heat before storing—Heat all products for 30 minutes at a temperature from 150 to 180 degrees F. to protect from infestation by certain beetles and moths.

Containers for storage—All containers for storage of dried fruits should be sealed or closed very tight. Types of containers that make it possible for the product to be examined every month or two are necessary. Any indication of moisture in the container should warrant opening and reheating to 160 F. of stored dried products and re-sealing in fresh containers. Some practical containers are:

1. One half gallon glass jars that can be sealed and moisture detected through the glass without opening and closing containers.

2. Cellophane bags sealed with warm curling iron. This also makes possible the detection of moisture inside the containers.

3. Tin containers with tight fitting lids are good storage containers.

4. If sacks are to be used, they should be kept coated with wax.

Storage of Dried Foods: Store products in small containers that can be used in short time after opening. Dried products must be stored where they are always dry, as in attic or pantry, if it does not receive moisture from the kitchen. Most foods will remain in good edible condition for a year or more if stored in a cool, dry place.

Ty Cobb Wins Match

Ray Joslyn of the Golden Rule Farm for boys in Franklin, N. Y., for whose benefit this charity golf match was played at the Commonwealth Country club, presents Ty Cobb with the Bette Davis trophy, while the Georgia Peach indicates with his fingers the three-up score in which he beat Babe Ruth.

"Why the Hitter Left Town", a bit of humorous writing which M. L. Kinsey of the Crandall Star found somewhere:

There is only one occasion when the editor of a small town paper dares to cut loose and tell the truth in his paper and that is when he is ready to depart suddenly and permanently for some unknown destination.

"Mr. Jim Zilch and Miss Georgianna Thistle were married Monday at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Thistle, the Rev. Jones officiating.

"The groom is a popular young man who hasn't done a lick of work since he got expelled in his junior year at College. He manages to dress well and keeps a supply of spending money because his dad is a soft-hearted old fool who takes up his sealawag son's bad checks instead of letting him go to jail where he belongs.

"The bride is a skinny little idiot. She paints like a Sioux Indian, sneaks cigarettes and drinks mean corn liquor.

"The house was newly plastered for the wedding and the exterior newly painted, thus appropriately carrying out the decorative scheme, for the groom was newly plastered and the bride freshly painted.

"The groom wore a rented dinner suit and his pants were held up by pale green suspenders. His number nine patent leather shoes matched his state of tightness, and harmonized nicely with the axle grease polish of his hair.

"This is probably the last issue of this paper, but my life ambition has been to write up one wedding and tell the truth. Now that is done, death can have no sting."

Haven't made up your mind where you'll spend your vacation? You might include a stay in New Braunfels, the quaint town with its old rock building and tin roofs, picturesque hills (almost mountains) surrounding it. Ranches are numerous and you can glimpse the abundant deer. There is a modern hotel, the Faust, managed by R. J. Grimsley; many new homes; a museum; two newspapers, the 50-year old Herald and the Zeitung, edited for 42 years by G. F. Ohm; a charming drive along the Guadalupe River; the State's shortest-but-biggest, in volume-river, the Comal, which rises and ends in the city limits, and there are many attractive camps.

Walter Duffey, Fort Worth oil man, went through the famous Hogtown boom. His room was on the second story of the town's leading hotel and it juttet out over the sidewalk. "It's a wonder that some wild Westerner out for a celebration didn't blaze through the floor with a six-shooter", Duffey said. "I used to be awakened by the shouting of the service-car drivers at 6 a.m. Most of them yelled, 'Take you to Mingsus and bring you back' but one of them varied this with, 'Take you to Mingsus or break your back'—no idle boast, considering the condition of the roads.

Duffey also tells of the oil man who couldn't read or write but who was very successful. Whenever this man received a telegram, he would say to a friend, "What do you think about that? Just look at that!" And the friend, knowing that the operator couldn't read, would read it out loud.

There may be a place that could beat one county for colorful politics but I'm going to have to be shown—by-gone campaigns, because the county has tamed down now. But back in the days when the biggest oil boom in history had "fallen down and gone boom", folks had a "morning after" feeling.

For instance, a prosecuting attorney, running for reelection, was opposed by a lawyer who represented the defendants in almost all the criminal cases—so the county attorney referred to his opponent as "a legal scavenger."

A peace officer with a malodorous record handed a campaign card to a voter who said, "Sure, I'll be glad to help you out." And it was two blocks and ten minutes later that the officer figured out what the man had meant.

NEWS BRIEFS OF BYGONE DAYS

Little Squibs Gleaned From Files Of Review

July 2, 1926: Another stretch of gravel and white clay, which is an excellent road surfacing material, and the next best that can be used in the absence of an asphalt surfacing was placed on the state highway through Cross Plains during the past week. The work of graveling will continue on to a connection with the hard surface road at the Eastland county line as grading on the present road bed can be completed. We are informed that fifteen thousand dollars has been appropriated by the state highway commission to complete this unfinished link of a few miles through the Cross Plains section. The route of the highway through the town reached Main Street a few blocks South of the business section, following Main Street to the intersection of 8th Street, thence to the Eastland county line, and is designated as State Highway No. 83. This gap is reported to be the only unfinished link in the chain from San Angelo to Fort Worth, via Rising Star, Cisco and the Bankhead highway.

July 9, 1926: A totally new and unexpected insect menace to cotton raising, at present classed as the cotton flea, has appeared within the past few weeks, and is threatening to spread its destruction over the entire cotton growing section of the South.

The cotton nopper was first noted in Georgia and South Carolina and evidence of occasional injured plants at various points through the cotton belt. This Spring it was noted that an unusual number of hoppers were transferring their attention to the cotton in South Texas, but damage to the remainder of the cotton belt became evident less than three weeks ago.

In Texas, apparently the whole state is involved with the exception of the extreme western margin of the cotton area, and a very small district in the southeastern corner of the State.

Control has been the subject of many experiments in the Texas investigation. It was found that the best results at lowest cost were obtained by dusting the plants with sulphur.

The advise to use sulphur is accompanied by a warning that care be exercised to avoid flame with the dust produced, sulphur dust being highly inflammable.

July 16, 1926: Luther Browder of Cisco was shot and instantly killed Tuesday while driving on a street in that city. The wounds indicated that he was shot with buckshot from a shotgun. A man living in Eastland County, whose name is not given, surrendered to the officers immediately after the killing.

July 30, 1926: F. W. Gwin, Secretary of the Cross Plains Chamber of Commerce, attended the Texas Commercial Execution Association at Lubbock last week, where matters pertaining to city welfare were discussed by men of experience and pronounced ability, city and community problems and the successful ways and means of meeting them were cited by the speakers. Much valuable information relative to the work of Chamber of Commerce secretaries was given by the speakers. The meet was a profitable and enjoyable one and the attendance was exceptionally good.

August 6, 1926: Our model 14 Linotype, purchased from the Mergenthaler Linotype Co. of New York, arrived a few days ago and Mr. Byus, erector, is here this week installing the machine. It will be ready for operation at once. This machine seems to have brains. It is possible to turn out work very rapidly with a linotype, and as soon as our operator develops speed, it will represent quite a saving in time and labor. The list price of the machine with extra parts is $4,000.00. But they are worth the money.
