Classic Christmas for Kids Campaign a huge success

With the last few installs being completed this week Classic Cable is excited about the large number of toys collected for children this Christmas. According to Jennifer Hauschild, Marketing Manager, "Classic Cable started this special campaign November 1 and offered it through December 15. We had many customers thrilled to be able to help in our efforts to give to the less fortunate children this Christmas."

Classic offered a reduced installation fee if the customer would donate a new toy. In this company wide effort Classic Cable was able to collect 3,190 toys all of which will be distributed back into the community in which they were collected. In the Clarendon, Classic was able to donate 12 toys to the Panhandle Community Services who will see that deserving children in the community receive a toy this Holiday season.

Classic Cable is working hard to be a good neighbor in the communities they provide with cable service. This Classic Christmas for Kids campaign is just one of the many ways they give support back to the communities.

Record for moisture continues to climb

Clarendon's record for annual precipitation continues to climb upward.

The total for 1997 rose to 42.79 inches last week.

The record was broken earlier the weekend of Dec. 20 when the total topped 42 inches and beat the previous record of 40.89 inches set in 1960.

Final winners named for Chamber of Commerce Festival of Lights contest

The winners for the final week of the Chamber of Commerce's Holiday Festival of Lights contest have been announced.

Bret and Leslie White won a $20 gift certificate from Eads Furniture, and Kent and Suzanne Womack won a $20 gift certificate from Henson's.

Believe it, or not

Polleen Fross of Wichita, Kansas, was visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Cockerham, here for the holidays. During her stay, they happened to go Petty's Antiques where Polleen bought a book, Dave Dashaway: The Young Aviator.

When she opened the book at home, Polleen found an inscription: "To Billy from Moyer May 19, 1931." She also found address for Billy McElhiny.

To her amazement she found that in 1931, Billy McElhiny lived at the exact same address in Topeka, Kansas, as her daughter does today.

"What are the chances?" she asked.

Believe it, or not.

16 teams to play here in Salt Fork Classic

Defending Region 1 girls finalist Spearman opens up a 16-team boys and girls roundball tournament at Clarendon College Thursday with a 9 a.m. tip-off against Clarendon District 2-2A rival Wellington.

Exciting match-ups — enough to satisfy the appetite of most basketball junkies — will be played eight times a day every 90 minutes Thursday, Friday, and Saturday in the college gym.

Many of the teams were in the play-offs in 1997. Spearman, Lockney, Allison, and Clarendon all had boys and/or girls teams involved in post-season play.

Clarendon High School teams will cap off the furios first-day action. The Lady Broncos will face Wheeler at 6 p.m. Thursday in the Salt Fork Classic while the Broncos will tip off against Wheeler at 7:30 p.m.

"The Wheeler boys are coming off a state finalist run in the football play-offs," said Clarendon head coach Jimmy Avery. "That will definitely carry over into basketball, so they'll tough to beat."

"You know they have a lot of athletes if they went as far as they did in football. They also have a new coach, and I've heard a lot of good things about him. It should be a good game."

Teams participating in the tournament are the Spearman boys and girls; Wellington boys and girls; Lockney boys; White Deer boys and girls; Bovina boys and girls; Allison boys and girls; Wheeler boys and girls; and the Clarendon boys and girls.

Clarendon's regular season will resume Tuesday with match-ups in Canadian. The junior varsity teams will meet at 5 p.m., while the varsity girls tip off at 6:30 p.m., and the boys meet the Wildcats at 8 p.m.

Clarendon's junior varsity squad will participate in the White Deer Tournament Jan. 8 and 10 in White Deer. The girls meet Highland Park at 4 p.m., and the boys square off against Highland Park at 5:30 p.m.

WTU parent company to merge with AEP

DALLAS — American Electric Power Company, Inc. (AEP) and Central and South West Corporation (CSW) announced last week that their boards of directors have approved a definitive merger agreement for a tax-free, stock-for-stock transaction creating a company with a total market capitalization of approximately $28.1 billion ($16.5 billion in equity; $11.6 billion in debt and preferred stock). The combination is expected to be accounted for as a pooling of interests.

Central and South West Corporation is the parent company of Clarendon's electric utility — the Abilene based West Texas Utilities Company.

This combination creates the nation's preeminent diversified electric utility serving more than 4.6 million customers in 11 states and approximately 4 million customers outside the United States. Both companies have low-cost generation and offer their customers in every state prices below the national average. Over the last two years, both AEP and CSW have ranked among the top five electric utilities in customer satisfaction in the American Customer Satisfaction Index™.

Under the agreement, each common share of CSW will be converted into 0.6 shares of AEP. Based upon AEP's closing price of $52.00 on Friday, December 19, 1997, this represents a premium of 20 percent over the CSW closing price of $26.00. AEP will issue approximately $6.6 billion in stock to CSW stockholders to complete the transaction. CSW stockholders will own approximately 40 percent of the combined company. Both companies anticipate continuing their current dividend policies until the close of the transaction.

Under the merger agreement, there will be no changes required with respect to the public debt issues or the outstanding preferred stock of CSW or its subsidiaries.

Dr. E. Linn Draper, Jr., chairman, president, and chief executive officer of AEP, said, "We believe that together we will be a successful competitor — nationally and internationally — in the 21st century. This merger creates a company that is diverse in its fuels, its generation, and its workplace — a link between the Midwest and the Southwest, reaching from Canada to Mexico. We are two companies that have historically been efficient and financially strong. Together, we will participate in three major power pools (ERCOT, SPP, and ECAR) across the country."

"No two companies are more closely aligned in their visions and philosophies than AEP and CSW," Draper continued. "We are both pro-competition and are eager for the day when customers have a choice of energy companies. We believe this agreement creates the kind of company regulators, legislators, and government officials want operating in their states — a company able to produce and deliver low-cost power, a company ready to compete for the benefit of its customers and a high-quality, well-capitalized company positioned to handle the future. The agreement we announce today will create value for customers, employees, and shareholders."

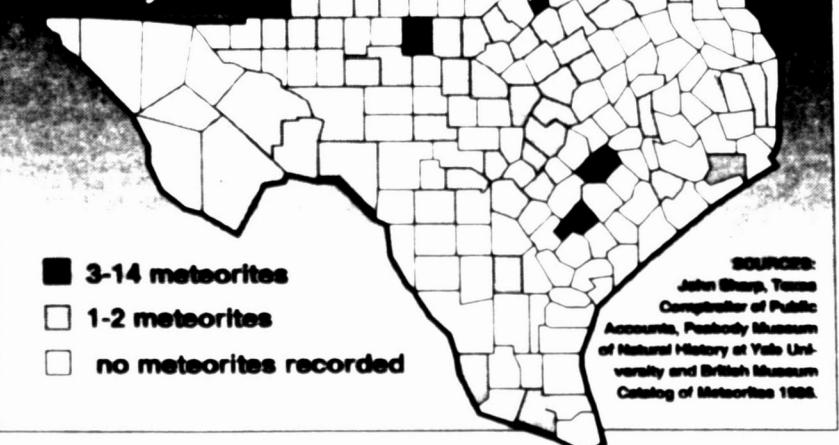

E.R. Brooks, chairman and chief executive officer of CSW, said, "With

Keeping an eye on Texas

Ancient space travelers visit Texas

Meteorites are pieces of other bodies from our solar system that flash through our atmosphere at 32,000 to 150,000 miles per hour. The oldest bodies in our solar system, meteorites date back 4.6 billion years. More have landed in Texas than in any other state, and 14 meteorites have hailed on Hale County.

Good News For Guys

Rejoice men! There's finally a study that points to enjoying life may actually make your live longer.

A study reported in the Journal of the American Medical Association last week indicates that the more saturated fat men eat, the less likely they are to suffer a stroke. The Associated Press said the 20-year study found the "highest intakes of saturated fat, monounsaturated fat, and total fat were associated with the fewest strokes."

So-called "health experts" were, of course, out-raged that the esteemed Journal would even think about printing this study's findings and warned that fat is very, very bad for you since it increases your cholesterol and raises your risk of heart disease.

But wait! Remember some other recent findings. The risk for heart disease apparently goes down with moderate use of alcohol — particularly red wine.

I'm glad that we're finally getting to hear from more of the "average Joe" health researchers. I was getting pretty tired of the "curds and whey" crowd.

Bottom line is this: take everything in moderation, eat, drink, and be merry.

Happy New Year and pass the butter.

Attend Hospital Board Meeting

Citizens who are interested in or concerned about the future of the Medical Center Nursing Home and the Donley County Hospital District should try to attend the next meeting of the board.

The next meeting is set for Tuesday, Jan. 6, at 6:30 p.m., for the purpose of discussing options for facility and the district.

At the last meeting, the board heard from three prospective buyers of the Medical Center Nursing Home, and those proposals will probably be discussed further at this meeting.

Make your voice heard.

Agriculture will lose under climate treaty

From the Texas Cattle Feeders Association

The Global Climate Treaty Summit, which concluded in Kyoto, Japan in December, raised a lot of interesting issues that agriculture will closely follow in the ensuing months. The treaty calls for the European Union to reduce "greenhouse gas" emissions by 8% below 1990 levels, the U.S. by 7%; and Japan by 6%. Twenty-one other industrialized nations would meet similar targets and the reductions could be achieved between 2008 and 2012. However, noticeably absent in the treaty are any similar expectations by developing nations to reduce emissions.

Also noticeably absent in the treaty negotiations and its aftermath is recognition that a significant number of scientists don't believe that global warming even exists.

Patrick Michaels, for example, professor of environmental sciences at the University of Virginia, points to the data from the worldwide network of weather stations. The data show a 0.9 degree Fahrenheit rise in average global temperature since 1880 — but all of it before 1940. In other words, while industrial activity has exploded and carbon dioxide emissions have almost tripled since 1940, no climate warming has been detected.

Fred Singer, another climatologist from the University of Virginia and the former head of the National Weather Satellite Service, confirms that satellite measurements of atmospheric temperature reveal no increase over the past 18 years — the entire period for which such data have been collected.

Even if there is some warming, adds Hugh Ellisasser, a meteorologist at the Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory, there is no evidence that it is man-made. There was a well-documented warm period 900 years ago, long before the Industrial Revolution, when the global temperature was one to two degrees warmer than today. That period came and went without any apocalyptic consequences.

The computer models on which much of the rhetoric about the perils of global warming are based are fallacious, says MIT meteorology professor Richard Lindzen. He says the models cannot account for cooling factors such as clouds and, had the models been applied to the past century, would have overstated the rate of warming by more than 100%.

In fact, some climate scientists are so disturbed at the lack of attention to scientific fact in the global warming debate that 80 have signed a declaration stating, "We cannot subscribe to the so-called 'scientific consensus' that envisages climate catastrophes and advocates hasty actions."

This consensus they refer to is a 1996 report of the UN's Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change, which is often cited as the core of such a consensus.

However, many of the 2,000 scientists whose names appear on the report were included not as recognized climate scientists but merely as official representatives of their governments. A number of actual climatologists are on the list only because their data were cited or they were asked to review parts of the report — not because they endorsed its conclusions. In fact, the list contains outspoken critics of global warming claims, such as Michaels and Lindzen.

Concludes Robert W. Tracinski, senior writer for the Ayn Rand Institute in Marina del Rey, Calif., who supplied the above facts, "Just as the Environmental Protection Agency banned DDT despite the conclusion of its own scientific panel that the pesticide was safe — just as Congress, in response to the acid rain campaign, enacted massive restrictions on industry in defiance of the major scientific study Congress itself had commissioned — so do today's environmentalists pursue a political agenda in militant indifference to the objective evidence."

That indifference could cost agriculture dearly. Any reductions in emissions will come at the expense of higher energy costs. According to a study released prior to the Summit by Sparks Commodities, a Memphis, Tenn., ag consulting company, production costs could rise by as much as $15.9 billion and export sales could decline by $3.6 billion under a global climate treaty. Net cash income for U.S. agriculture producers could decline nearly 50% with higher energy costs.

Now that the 159 nations involved in the Kyoto Summit have signed the proposed treaty, it must be ratified. In the United States, that task falls on the U.S. Senate, which has so far been cool toward the proposal. In fact, the Senate earlier this year passed a binding resolution that developing countries be included in any requirements for emissions reductions.

This will be an important issue for agriculture when the legislature reconvenes after the Christmas recess. And it will be an issue that won't necessarily go away even if agriculture is successful in stopping or significantly amending the treaty in the Senate. According to the National Cattlemen's Beef Association, even without Senate ratification, the Clinton Administration may enforce emissions reductions through government regulations.

Stay tuned. This could well be one of the most important legislative issues that agriculture will undertake in the 1998 legislative session. Its outcome will affect every citizen in the United States, and particularly those of us who produce the food and fiber that feeds and clothes the world.

Reader: Angels work at Medical Center

Dear Editor,

The family of Ruth Payton have asked me to use this column to let your readers know of the care Ruth received during her stay in Clarendon's Medical Center Nursing Home. This very special lady was treated with great dignity and tenderness throughout her residency there.

It was the last days of her life, however which brought out the true colors of the staff. None of us who sat with Ruth during that time will ever have to look for the definition of tender loving care in the dictionary. We have seen it in action. Without exception, each staff member who came into the room gave Ruth a caress or a kiss and told her she was loved. And it was not unusual for her nurses to come by on their days off to say "I love you," to her.

Great consideration and courtesy were also given to family and friends who sat with Ruth during those days. Each was made to feel welcome. It seemed the staff looked for ways to be helpful: little snacks, trays of food, kind words, a hug, a pat, a smile. How reassuring to have someone walk to the door and see you safely in your car in an empty parking lot late at night!

We claim no expertise in extended care finance or management. We only hope that, whatever decisions are made about the ownership and management of our Medical Center Nursing Home, it will retain the quality of caring and concern given by the present staff.

Yes, we believe there are angels among us, and we know where to find them: at our Medical Center Nursing Home.

WTU parent company merger: Deal still to be finalized by regulators, stockholders this merger. CSW and AEP will be doing much more than simply combining two excellent companies to create a larger one. We are creating a new standard for excellence in the emerging global energy and related services market.

"CSW and AEP are the right fit. We both excel at customer service. We both are among the lowest-cost electricity generators in the United States. We both place a premium on innovation. And, most importantly, we both are committed to leading our industry into a competitive future," said Brooks. "This strategic combination will create new value for shareholders. It will deliver exceptional service and products to customers and it will be a magnet for talented employees."

Brooks continued, "AEP has positioned itself to become America's Energy Partner™ at a time when customer choices on energy supply are rapidly expanding. This past summer, drawing aim at the same future of customer choice, CSW embraced the slogan "Advanced thinking. Enhanced living." as our standard for customer service. Separately, I am confident we would reach these objectives. Together, we'll do it smarter, we'll do it better, and we'll get where we intend to go faster."

The companies anticipate savings related to the merger of approximately $2 billion over a 10-year period from the elimination of duplication in corporate and administrative programs, greater efficiencies in operations and business processes, increased purchasing efficiencies, and the combination of the two work forces. At the same time the companies will continue their commitment to high-quality, reliable service. Position reductions because of the merger are expected to be approximately 1,300 out of a total domestic work force of approximately 25,000. The combined company will use a combination of growth, reduced hiring and attrition to minimize the need for employee separations. Organizational and staffing recommendations will be made by transition teams of employees from both companies.

The companies anticipate that the merger will not affect base rates. The electric systems of AEP and CSW will operate on an integrated and coordinated basis as required by the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935. Any fuel savings resulting from the operation of the combined company will be passed on to customers.

Draper, currently chairman, president, and chief executive officer of AEP, will remain chairman, president, and chief executive officer of the combined company. Brooks, currently chairman and chief executive officer of CSW, will become a board member of the combined company. Thomas V. Shockley II, CSW president and chief operating officer, will continue as a key senior officer of the combined company in the Southwest region. The board of the combined company will be made up of 15 members, 10 from AEP, plus Brooks and four others from CSW. The name of the combined company will be American Electric Power Company, Inc. and will be headquartered in Columbus, Ohio, with significant operations in all 11 states.

The merger is conditioned, among other things, upon the approvals of each company's shareholders and state and federal regulatory agencies. The companies anticipate that regulatory procedures can be completed in 12 to 18 months.

AEP and CSW have ownership interests in two regional electric companies in the United Kingdom. AEP owns 50 percent of Yorkshire Electricity Group plc through a joint venture with New Century Energies, Inc. CSW owns SEEBOARD plc. AEP and CSW will keep the United Kingdom regulators and officials fully advised of the transaction.

Salomon Smith Barney acted as financial advisor and provided a fairness opinion to AEP. Morgan Stanley & Co. Incorporated acted as financial advisor and provided a fairness opinion to CSW.

Central and South West Corporation is a global, diversified public utility holding company based in Dallas. CSW owns four electric operating subsidiaries serving 1.7 million customers in Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, and Arkansas, a regional electricity company in the United Kingdom, other international energy operations and non-utility subsidiaries involved in energy-related investments, telecommunications, energy efficiency and financial transactions.

American Electric Power Company, Inc., a global energy company, is one of the United States' largest investor-owned utilities, providing energy to 2.9 million customers in Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, West Virginia, Virginia, Tennessee, and Kentucky. AEP has holdings in the United States, the United Kingdom, and China. Wholly-owned subsidiaries provided power engineering, consulting, and management services around the world. The company is based in Columbus, Ohio.

North Texas attorney announces candidacy for Congress

Ed True, a north Texas attorney, recently entered the Democratic primary as a candidate for the U.S. House of Representatives for the 13th District, according to a press release.

That seat is currently held by Republican Mac Thornberry of Clarendon.

True's background includes 20 years in private law practice, the last 10 years representing disabled Texans in their claims for Social Security and SSI disability benefits, and 20 years as an attorney in the U.S. Air Force.

True stated, "A lot of political attention has been focused on our country's conflicts and problems, but the basic causes are not being addressed. For instance, some proposed major changes in the tax laws may sound appealing, but the changes seem likely to aggravate our problems instead of helping solve them. They don't address the real frustration most people have with the tax system, which is unfairness. For another example, many of the recent changes in human support programs actually sharpen the conflicts between the 'haves' and the 'have-nots', further dividing our society. When problems have arisen, our government has recently reacted by enacting more and more restrictive and controlling laws. I certainly believe that law and order must be maintained, but I also believe that caring and compassion are essential."

True admitted that he was not a "politician", but stated that as a concerned citizen he has thought a great deal about what he can do to be part of the solution: "I believe that, having lived this long and having had the varied experiences I've had, I've gained some sense and wisdom that would be useful to the people of this district and the country. What wisdom I do have is certainly for sale, but only in exchange for votes, not money."

For the past decade, True has listened to his clients express frustration and anger at the bureaucratic roadblocks they encounter in trying to get help after a serious illness or accident. True found, however, that most of these people saw no reason to vote, having lost faith that voting would make any difference in the government they were dealing with. True said, "If there is one message I can get across by running for Congress, I want it to be this: the laws that the government makes control much of our lives, and we can't control the government unless we vote."

True, although a Nebraska native, has lived in Texas for nearly 30 years. "I am a Texan by choice," said True.

Help arrives for your New Year's Resolution

If you are one of the many who will pledge to quit smoking for your New Year's resolution, the American Cancer Society wants to help you.

The American Cancer Society is introducing a new "Stop Now-Here's How" quit kit in time for smokers attempting to begin the New Year smoke-free. The quit kit is available free of charge and can be ordered by calling the American Cancer Society at 1-800-ACS-2345.

The new kit provides information and describes methods of quitting smoking that can help people achieve a healthier lifestyle. The kit contains quit tips, a self-help guide, relaxation exercises, facts on nicotine replacement, non-nicotine replacement and other alternative methods of quitting.

"We know that about 90% of successful quitters do so on their own. We also know that quitting smoking is not easy, so we want to provide the "Stop Now-Here's How" quit kit to assist smokers who are trying to stop," stated Allen Henderson PhD chair of the American Cancer Society's Tobacco Control committee in Texas.

According to surveys, smokers often try to quit more than once before they succeed, with 70% of ex-smokers making one to two quit attempts, and 22% making 3-5 quit attempts. Smokers should not give up trying, since most ex-smokers cycle through the quitting process several times before becoming long-term quitters.

People who quit smoking live longer lives than those who continue to smoke. "If you or someone you know tried to quit during the American Cancer Society's great American Smokeout, but didn't quite make it, New Year's offers another chance to begin the year on a healthy note," offers Henderson.

For more information from the American Cancer Society, visit our website at www.cancer.org or call 1-800-ACS-2345.

The American Cancer Society is the nationwide, community-based, voluntary health organization dedicated to eliminating cancer as a major health problem by preventing cancer, saving lives and diminishing suffering from cancer, through research, education, advocacy and service.

Beginning The New Year With God

January is a time when we can reflect on our past accomplishments and determine what needs to be done during the coming new year. One perplexing task that most of us start in January, is to try and get our personal income tax records in order. A more pleasant activity that we may want to begin planning for, is a family vacation, or an occupational move that may be in our future. Setting some goals for the year is always a good way to help keep us focused on our accomplishments. Planning for our spiritual needs is just as important as planning for our physical needs. With this in mind, we may want to establish a goal to read the Bible each day, or get into a Bible study, or to just set aside a daily prayer time. Although everyone may have different lifestyles and goals, if we begin the year with God, and make Him Lord of our lives, He will bless us throughout the year.

Beef Nutrition Lecture continues on Jan. 5

by Leon J. Church, County Agent

The third in the four part Beef Nutrition Lecture Series, sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in Donley County, will be held on Monday, January 5. The topics to be covered will be: Mineral Nutrition and Development of Replacements Heifers. Presenter will be Dr. Ted McCollum, Beef Cattle Specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and Leon Church, Donley County Agent.

The session will be held at the Courson Ranch and Feedlot Operations Building on the Clarendon College Campus beginning at 7:00 p.m. The evening will start off with a hands on activity, that will help the producer determine the supplement needs of his/her beef cattle. Winter supplementation is one of the biggest expenses beef producers face. Knowing what is needed and feeding only what is needed makes good economic sense.

All beef producers are welcome and encouraged to attend this timely and informative lecture series.

Any questions should be directed to Dr. Ted McCollum (806) 359-5401, or Leon Church (806) 874-2141.

4-H Clothing Project to begin Jan. 8

by Sue Church, County Agent

An orientation meeting for youth interested in taking part in the 1998 4-H Clothing Project will be held Thursday, January 8, at 4:00 p.m. in the Courthouse at the Courthouse.

This will be a good opportunity for young people to have hands-on experiences with clothing selection, cars, construction, grooming, and more. Several field trips, a clinic, and camp are being planned for the project year.

At the first meeting participants will learn how easy it is to make scrunchies for their hair and ear warmers for the cold temperatures of January. To be sure that there are enough supplies and equipment available for everyone, please call the Donley County Extension office at 874-2141 to sign up.

To enroll in the 4-H clothing project does not require a participant to complete a finished garment. Consider the possibilities that a 4-H clothing project year can make available to you.

Conference to focus on state water plan

AMARILLO — New state regulations require all water users to develop plans for both application and conservation.

On Jan. 7 at the High Plains Irrigation Conference, C. E. Williams, manager of the Panhandle Groundwater District from White Deer will address many of the key issues that affect area growers regarding rules compliance, conservation strategies, and figure need versus supply in accordance with Senate Bill 1.

"We're offering new ideas and tested technologies to help growers make informed decisions about water use and irrigation scheduling," said Leon New, agricultural engineer with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and conference organizer.

The event will be at the Amarillo

Civic Center and also features an industry trade show. Registration begins at 8:30 a.m. with the program's first hour to include show tours, and free coffee and donuts. The $7 registration fee includes a catered lunch.

The opening session will begin by 9:30 a.m. two and one-half continuing education units (CEUs) will be offered to private commercial and non commercial chemical applicators completing the day's program. The event has been conducted annually for more than two decades by the Extension Service.

For more information contact Leon New, Extension agricultural engineer and irrigation specialist, or Regina Linder at (806) 359-5401, or any county agricultural agent.

The Clarendon High School Junior Historians recently visited the Panhandle Plains Historical Museum on the West Texas A&M University campus. The group used the museums archives to research their National History Day projects and their Adopt-A-Building project. The chapter has adopted the Clarendon Depot. Students Noel Devin, Ben Vorheis, and Walker MacAnear are leading the Adopt-A-Building project. The students are searching for the date of original construction and the name of the builder. Anyone in the community with information concerning the Clarendon Depot is asked to assist the students by contacting them at Clarendon High School, 874-2181.
