

Phone Bills to Be Up

Telephone customers who live in Clarendon will find their base rates for telephone services have increased effective with the December billing. The increase is the result of negotiations between the Clarendon City Council and General Telephone Company of the Southwest.

The rate increase is a compromise settlement between the two parties and was accomplished by the city sending General Telephone a copy of a city ordinance passed on Nov. 27, stating city would allow the company to operate at a 7.48 per cent rate of return.

In a telephone conversation late Friday with Jim Davis, district manager with GTE, he said "General Telephone Company of the Southwest is agreeable to the rates contained in the ordinance passed by the Clarendon City Council on Nov. 27, 1974."

The rate increase will entitle General Telephone to increase local telephone rates an average of 13.36 per cent in Clarendon. The company and originally sought an increase of 27.5 per cent.

According to Bud Knorpp, city manager, the ordinance was written following an in-depth survey by Joe M. Nall and Associates, a consulting engineering firm from Dallas. The survey report said that General Telephone was actually entitled to and almost 28 per cent increase on the base rate and still be within the 8 per cent rate of return allowed in Texas for utility companies.

The ordinance, as it is written, will increase the cost of telephone service to businesses by $2.10 per month. The service formerly was billed at $15.40 per month and will now cost $17.50. Cost of business extension telephones will increase 25 cents per month to $2.00 each.

One party residential service will increase 80 cents per month to $8.50 and two party residential will go up 90 cents per month to $7.50. Four party residential telephones will now be billed at $6.50 per month, up one dollar from previous billings. The four party service is for existing customers only with no new service offered.

Home extension telephones will be increased by 25 cents per month to $1.50.

Davis told the Press-Leader Friday afternoon that Wayne Goodrum, attorney for General Telephone in San Angelo, Texas, had written a letter to the 100th Judicial Court requesting that the pending suit against the city be dismissed as a result of the compromise settlement. Davis said the company was going to operate under the ordinance as it was passed although the increased rates fall short of a sufficient amount.

One other important change was included in the ordinance as it was passed by the Clarendon

City Council which deals with the service charges for installation of residential and business telephones. A new service charge of $22.50 will go into effect on the December billing for residential installation and an increase to $32.50 for business phones.

General Telephone had originally requested the 27.5 per cent rate hike and was turned down by the city on this request. The company then filed suit on Sept. 13, 1974 for an injunction against the city on the rate increase.

General also offered a compromise to the council, asking for a 16.2 per cent increase. This also was turned down by the city council.

The city then hired the consulting engineers to survey General's entire Clarendon operation and agreed to stand by their finding if General Telephone would agree to do the same.

The Press-Leader learned late Friday afternoon that a similar rate increase was going to be asked for the city of Howardwick at their city council meeting which was scheduled for 5 p.m. Saturday afternoon.

Davis, in the same conversation, said General's request would be along the same lines of those agreed to in Clarendon's ordinance.

However, the rates for Howardwick are considerably higher because of the number of customers served by the exchange.

The residents of Howardwick now pay $27.85 for business service, $12.55 for single party residential and $8.50 for four party residential telephones.

The new rates advised by Joe M. Nall and associates for Howardwick residents include, increasing the business service to $30 per month, single party residence service to $15, and the four party residence to $8.75. The report also recommended an increase of 25 cents for extension in both business and residential use.

Council members at Howardwick indicated to news media Friday that the increase would become effective only after the last source of judicial proceedings were used.

Law Officers Seeking Burglary Suspects Here

The Donley County Sheriffs Department, police department and Texas Rangers are investigating the burglary of T. & M. General Store where someone broke into the business Wednesday night or early Thursday morning and took merchandise valued at over $300.

Bill Todd, manager of the store, said the thieves apparently entered the business by breaking a window in the south rear portion of the building. They then broke through a door in the middle part of the business to gain entrance to the front part of the store.

Taken in the burglary was an 18 inch portable color television set and four lamps. Exit was made through a large door at the rear of the building.

A major traffic accident occurred in Clarendon Thursday evening about 6:30 when a 1965 Ford driven by Shirley Hicks collided with a 1972 Plymouth driven by Wesley E. Sanders. The accident occurred at the intersection of McClelland and Third Streets.

Mrs. Hicks was taken to the Groom Hospital and treated for minor injuries and released.

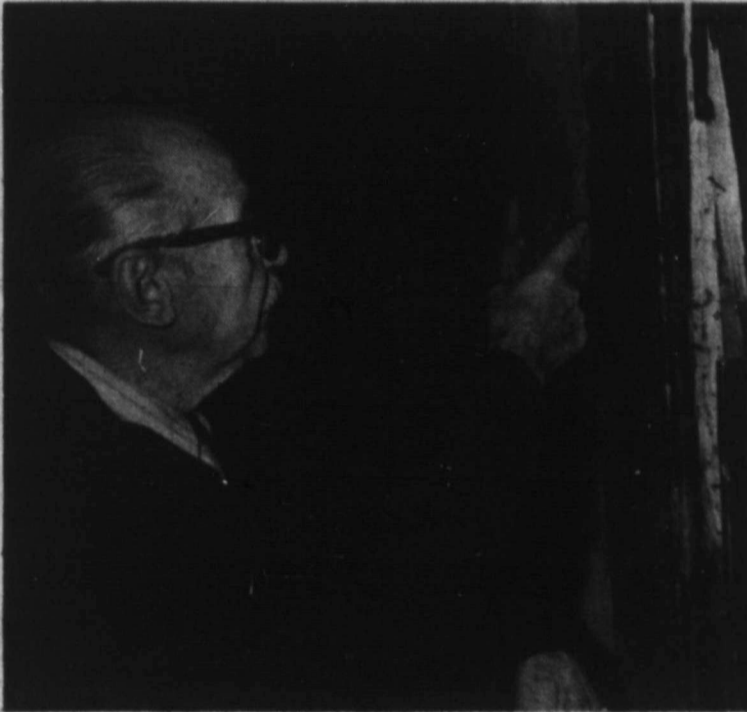

Heavy damage to both cars was reported by police chief Gary Gerdes.

In other police business, information has been received here that a court hearing is to be held Thursday, Dec. 26, in Riverside, Calif., on the extradition proceedings for James Corbin, who escaped from the Donley County Jail several weeks ago.

Law enforcement officers from Donley County are expected to be in Riverside to pick up Corbin following the court proceedings and return him to Donley County to face charges here.

Workers began rearranging the south lawn of the Donley County Court House late this week in preparation for the construction of the new court house annex to be built on this location. Workers were surveying the site, removing a few of the large trees and tearing out the old sidewalks prior to setting the foundation of the new annex.

Bill Todd, who operates the T & M General Store, points out the broken framework of a door where burglars broke into his store sometime late Wednesday night or early Thursday morning. Todd discovered the break-in about 8:30 a.m. Thursday when he opened the store. Taken in the burglary was a portable television set and four lamps.

Set in rural Alabama in the early 1900's this is an extremely popular Christmas story. It is descriptive of Christmases we have experienced and our memories of them.

Howardwick Party Line

by SHARON MILLS

Hello, to you on the same line but on a different day.

I'm sure most of you had a very nice holiday. So many were out of town, the news is just reaching the Party-line.

Mrs. Margaret Berry's brother, Carl McCormick of Clarendon is now out of the hospital and is doing much better. Margaret's sister, Mrs. Dot Givens also of Amarillo, was here for the day.

For Thanksgiving, Mr. and Mrs. H. Bright and family went to Snyder to visit their friends, the Ray Reeses. The Bright family are to go to Bowie this weekend. They plan to leave the driving to the Bus Driver.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Corgill went to Turkey for a few days to visit their daughter and family, Louise and Kenneth Garvin.

Lubbock had some of our residents for Thanksgiving. The Morris-Castners were there to be with some of their children. Between Thursday evening Friday morning the Castners caught several fair-size fish.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Corgill went to Amarillo Tuesday to visit their grand-daughter, Brenda Ray. While in Amarillo they also did some shopping.

Wednesday Thelma and Jim went to Memphis to visit John Collins who is ill at Hall County Hospital. Mr. Collins is in room 10 and the Zip code is 79245. This is really a bad time to be sick.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Littlefield had a family dinner for Thanksgiving. Her son and family, Raymond and Carlene Adams, and children Debbie, Dickie and Kelly from Collinsville. Bill Littlefield's son, Doyle and daughters, Tannele, Vonnelé and friend, Brenda Boren were also there as well as Doyle's son, Kenneth and Vickie and children, Wade and Carroll of Tulia and granddaughter Becky and Mark Simmons of McLean. Mr. and Mrs. Littlefield returned Kenneth's visit last week, and Duane's family's also. Mrs. Littlefield also visited her sister, Mrs. Ivan Taylor.

Miss Jessie Hendrick of Wichita Falls was here to spend Thanksgiving weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Hendrick. Mrs. Hendrick's brother, William McBride of Eagle Nest, New Mexico was also here for the weekend.

The other fishermen we heard of are Tuffy Reynolds who caught a five pound Channel Cat and some smaller ones Thursday.

Ed Castner also caught some fish Wednesday night and Thursday. I think that amount was eleven nice ones.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Boling had as their guest her mother, Mrs. Tronnie Smith and their daughter, Mrs. Dan Bailey and family. All of their guests were from Amarillo. We are sorry to hear Jack still has the flu. Get over it real soon, Jack.

The Ed Castners again had a five-generation get-together. This time the event was Thanksgiving. Marilyn and Gerald McDonald of Lubbock were here. Donny and Rhonda Buchanan and children Kelley and Kacey of Sweetwater also here to help put away the turkey and trimmings. The names of the ladies of the generations are, first Mrs. Boone, Grace Castner, Marilyn McDonald, Rhonda Buchanan then last but surely not the least, Kelley an Kacy. My, what a bunch of girls.

Mr. and Mrs. Neal Mann's son, Bill, of Los Angeles, and her son, J.D. Chase and children, Dave, Jeff and Christy of Phoenix, Ariz. are planning to be here for the Christmas Holidays.

The other fishermen we heard of are Tuffy Reynolds who caught a five pound Channel Cat and some smaller ones Thursday.

Ed Castner also caught some fish Wednesday night and Thursday. I think that amount was eleven nice ones.

The Melville Mills are back home trying to get some Christmas shopping done. While in Dallas, the weather was lousy, so not much was done there. We did go out to see the new Dallas-Ft. Worth Airport. It is really something to see, especially with all the lights on. We drove all the way through it. I'd hate to be stranded there. One Sunday while gone, we attended Church in Bowie's new Methodist Church. It is beautiful. The previous Sunday was the first time to worship in it. The Church was full and the Sunday we were there, there were forty less people. Merwin Turner is the pastor. We spent Sunday with the Turners. Mrs. Virginia Turner is a niece of the Mills.

Don't forget the Lions Christmas Dinner. It will be the 14.

I must quit so you can get back to you Christmas baking and candy making, if you have the sugar and also to your sewing or whatever your needs are.

Bye, Sharon

Mr. and Mrs. Don Altman of Clarendon would like to announce the approaching marriage of their daughter Donna June to David Dwayne May, son of Mr. and Mrs. D.D. May of Estelline. A Dec. 15 wedding is planned.

Mark Your Belongings To Prevent Thefts

"This year, take some precautions—don't let anyone 'take away' from your holiday fun."

Gary Gerdes, Chief Police said that Christmas is open season for burglars.

"One way you can protect valuables is to mark them and then display a sticker outside your home to indicate that your property can be easily traced and identified," Gerdes continued.

Operation Identification is a project of the Crime Prevention Unit of the Clarendon Police Department. "The program is working as a deterrent to burglars," Gerdes said that the thinking behind the program is that burglary is a crime of opportunity. And if the disposal of stolen property is made more difficult and the burglar's chances of being detected with identifiable property is increased, his inclination will be to seek an easier mark. Therefore, the more individuals participating in Operation Identification, the less opportunity there is for easy access to and easy disposal of stolen property.

"We suggest that individuals plan to check out an engraving pen from City Hall right after Christmas or include an engraver on their own shopping list," Gerdes said.

"Whenever you get something new, you need to update your Operation Identification list and mark the item," advised Gerdes.

To participate in Operation Identification, contact the Crime Prevention Unit of the Clarendon Police Department. A crime prevention officer, or Consultant Against Crime, gives information as to where to find printed materials on the program and when and where to check out engraving pens.

Once valuables are marked with a driver's license number, decals should be placed on the front and back doors of windows. These warn burglars that the property inside that home is protected and is easily traceable.

"Our statistics show that Operation Identification works, and that the incidence of burglary is reduced significantly in homes and offices where the program is in effect," Gerdes concluded.

Sanders Named To Screening Committee

The Texas Supreme Court has appointed Michael R. Sanders of Clarendon as a member of a State Bar of Texas committee to aid the Bar's screening process in reviewing applicants for admission to the Bar.

He is charged with certifying the eligibility and qualifications of applicants for admission to the Bar as part of a new Supreme Court System of assuring that all new lawyers meet character and fitness guidelines.

Each of the 17 State Bar Districts has one district committee, consisting of at least 15 members from the district, appointed by the Texas Supreme Court with the assistance of State Bar president Lloyd Lochridge.

Adopted in February, this new unified procedure replaces the diverse screening processes used by several dozen local bar associations across the state.

Mrs. Helen Green from Amarillo is visiting in Clarendon.

Finding Security In Retirement

Dr. Vern Bengtson, of the University of Southern California Andrus Gerontology Center, recently released some significant data about aging. His research indicates that several conventional myths regarding old age may no longer be valid. Among his findings: —Some studies reveal that health actually improves upon retirement. —Sexual interest does not necessarily cease in the later years. —IQ's do not decline as people grow older. In fact, some aspects of intellectual functioning actually increase. —Old age does not imply institutionalization: of those citizens over 65 only 5% are presently in nursing or care facilities. —Contrary to popular belief many retirees enjoy taking up their "rocking chair" type existence; and thus don't have to stay active to be happy.

Religious Thoughts

by REV. JAMES O. BRANDON

Pressures in life can do one of two things: They can either make you or break you depending upon how you react to them: the mighty oak tree on a wind swept hill may not be the most beautiful tree around, but it is strong. Often it is knotted and twisted. Many times some of its branches are missing, but it has withstood much. It is strong because it has stood against many storms. The winds have blown against it and because of this, it may be bent; but the result has been that in order to survive, that old tree has put down some deep roots. It is wise in the ways of the world.

People are like this. The pressures of life can be those very things which make you instead of break you. As you struggle against them, you can grow strong emotionally. Overcoming your difficulties can develop a strong emotional constitution. Usually, character failures come when a person quits struggling. Alcoholics, drug addicts, delinquents, and even mental illness can result as a person seeks to escape the realities of his life instead of face them and overcome his problems with them. Yet, it can be these very problems, if faced and worked out, that builds character and gives wisdom to life. It is in overcoming our difficulties that we are strengthened.

Social crises and conflict work the same way in life. It is through competing that we grow. There is that pressure to do better, or to beat someone else. This makes a person try harder. As you try harder you develop your personality.

Economic pressure can help a person develop his personality. Through tightening up the belt, making some economic sacrifices, denying oneself some of the pleasures of life, giving up something; one can arrive at a sense of what is really important and what is not. This is facing real values. Some how, in our society, it is easy for a person to lose sight of what really is important. It is amazing how spoiled we can become and being spoiled, we're not far off from rotten.

It is difficult to start a fire without a match. It just may be that God in His wisdom uses the crises of life to start you on a journey of developing a better you. God is interested in your development just as much as parents are in their children's. If a child will not study and learn, Mom and Dad usually take strict measures. God sometimes does the same. You see, the Lord wants you to get better. He knows that in order for you to do this, you have to learn and grow in His grace. If you will not do this on your own, He takes other measures.

One of the greatest methods of personality development is self-denial. When a person denies himself on behalf of someone else, he in some strange way becomes a better person. Jesus Christ put it this way: "If any man will come after me, let him deny himself... For whosoever will save his life shall lose it; and whosoever will lose his life for my sake shall find it" [Matthew 16:24-25].

What the "right kind" or ideal beef steer looks like?

It will vary in the minds of different buyers, but generally it is the animal that has characteristics preferred by most people in the beef business.

How the ideal beef animal should look?

Its body is moderately long, oblong shaped with evidence of natural muscling. LOIN area is wide, long and sloping to the sides ("quonset shaped"). Steer should show neatness and muscling, without an excess middle; sufficient length of loin and rump. Top over loin and rump area should show muscling. Topline is straight and parallel to the ground; a well sprung rib and fullness in crops, along with ample width of chest floor.

Joseph Reassured By Visit...

But while he thought on these things, behold, the angel of the Lord appeared unto him in a dream, saying, Joseph, thou son of David, fear not to take unto thee Mary thy wife: for that which is conceived in her is of the Holy Ghost. And she shall bring forth a son, and thou shalt call his name Jesus: for he shall save his people from their sins. Now all this was done, that it might be fulfilled which was spoken of the Lord by the prophet saying, Behold a virgin shall be with child, and shall bring forth a son, and they shall call his name Emmanuel, which being interpreted is, God is with us. — St. Matthew 1:20-23

Nobody's Perfect But....

BY JERRY SPARKS

We would like to take this opportunity to tell all those people who have placed advance orders for Virginia Browder's new book "Donley County: Land O' Promise", that there has been a delay in printing the book.

We don't know the exact cause of the delay but it involves some photo-typesetting problems. We have been told that some of the pages are having to be reset because some of the photo-type has faded on some of these pages. When they were set, the printer compared the type styles and found that it didn't match up with the rest of the book.

The publisher will not print the book until all of the type matches. For this reason, delivery of Mrs. Browder's volume will be at a later date.

Persons who want to get their copy can be glad of the fact that the printer is particular about what he puts out. No one wants a second class job. We can promise you this, however, when the books are finished and ready for delivery, you will have first class book on the history of Donley County.

We are finding here at the Press-Leader office that moves such as the one we have just gone through consume a lot of time and effort. This has been one of the most confusing weeks we have ever been through, working at all hours of the day and night, almost always past midnight and sometimes still being here at the office when the sun comes up the next morning.

If we can get all the loose ends tied down next week, our employees may be able to get back to a normal schedule.

We have been reading a lot lately about the high unemployment rates around some of the large cities in the United States. Always before, we had passed this off as a lot of hoopla. Now, we are not so sure.

This past Thursday, we placed a classified ad in the Dallas News advertising for a full time news editor, hoping to attract the attention of some young man or woman who had a yearning to get a little printer's ink in his or her blood.

We were seiged with calls, most of which were from highly qualified professional people, some of whom had had more than 30 years experience in the trade. Almost without exception these people all told us they were not working at the present time because of lay-offs and other related problems that were no fault of their own.

Many of these prospective applicants were accustomed to earning in excess of $12,000 annually but were willing to accept salaries of half this amount. In every case, these people were college graduates, apparently qualified to demand much higher pay.

We have always considered the news trade to be one of the most stable when it comes to lay-offs and the like. Always before, there has been a brisk demand for people qualified to produce news and advertising material.

Here in Clarendon we have a different story. We know of several businesses that have been needing qualified help for some time now and there have been few if any applicants for the jobs available.

Clarendon is about to become the home of some mighty nice folks by the name of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Skinner and family. The Skinner's are moving here from Portales, New Mexico, in the very near future to make their home.

Jim is a travelling salesman for Higginbotham-Bailey Company of Dallas, selling fabrics, dry goods, ready to wear clothing and an assortment of other merchandise. His wife, Joy, began work this past Monday as a secretary for Lloyd Waters at Clarendon College.

The Skinner's have two children, Mike, 16, who is a junior in high school, and Lynn Lavato, 22, who is married to a civilian aircraft maintenance advisor currently in Viet Nam. Lynn will be staying with her family until her husband's return to the States.

We ran across the Skinner name while making our rounds to the different businesses Thursday. Jim had already joined the Clarendon Chamber of Commerce and told us that he wanted to become active in the affairs of the community.

He is a member of the Kiwanis International. They are members of the Presbyterian Church.

We would like to back-track on a statement appearing in this column this past Thursday concerning the long distance toll calls generated in Clarendon and their effect on General Telephone's rate of return.

Jerry Courtney, attorney for the City of Clarendon, informed us Thursday evening that Bell Telephone owns all of the long distance lines connecting Clarendon to the outside world. Not all revenue received by General Telephone on toll calls goes into their pot, so to speak.

The rates, however, will be determined by averaging their investment in equipment and what amount it would take to replace it, and the percentage of the use of equipment between local service and long distance calls.

It is quite complicated and entirely out of our field. We will leave the explanations to those who are qualified to translate the complex system used in determining the fair rate of return allowed utility companies in the state of Texas.

questions and answers

Q. I am 52 years old and partially disabled. I applied for social security but my claim was denied because my disability was not severe enough. I am working, but my job does not pay much. Can I apply for Supplemental Security Income as a disabled person and receive a partial disability payment?

A. The disability requirements for Supplemental Security Income are the same as for social security. Therefore, you would not be entitled to SSI payments unless your condition has become more severe. To be entitled to Supplemental Security Income payments or social security payments as a disabled person, your physical or mental condition must be so severe that it prevents you from doing any substantial gainful work and must be expected to last for a period of 12 months or longer or be expected to result in death. There are no social security or Supplemental Security Income payments made on the basis of partial disability.

Q. My 18-year old son receives social security payments as a student. He will attend the same college next fall. Will his checks stop during the summer months?

A. No. His checks will not stop. He will continue to receive these checks during the summer months since he intends to return to full-time attendance after his vacation ends.

Never a Bobbie

It makes Scots squirm when other people refer to Scotland's National Bard as "Bobbie" Burns. Robert Burns would have squirmed himself if anyone had ever called him by an English nickname. He liked best the name which he had been given at the christening ceremony, but at various times, in poems, songs and letters, he used such variations of Robert as Rob, Robin and Rab.

Some Scots refer to him as "Rabbie" Burns and that is said by purists to be just as wrong as using "Bobbie". By ancient tradition in Burns's native county of Ayrshire, the name "Rabbie" was used only for simpletons, and Robert Burns was certainly not a simpleton, though at times he confessed to having been a fool. As far as Teacher's Scotch Information Centre is able to discover, the name "Rabbie Burns" was used officially on only one occasion, when it was printed on a Masonic apron presented to the poet. Burns was a staunch Freemason, so probably he forgave the Freemasons' Lodge which perpetrated this solecism.

When you are at a Burns Supper in Scotland and raise your glass of whisky in honour of the poet, you know you must not refer to Rabbie, Bobbie, or even Rob and Rab. You hold your glass high and say, "To the Immortal Memory of Robert Burns."

"The rich get richer," it is said. There is a good reason why this popular adage is true: wealthy people usually see to it that their money is always working for them, earning still more money. And people with lots of money have always had a number of places where they could invest their surplus cash: real estate, high grade stocks and bonds, and a host of other profitable investments.

One of the safest and highest yielding of the investments used by wealthy individuals and corporations has been so-called "money market" instruments. These include certificates of deposit issued by major banks, commercial paper of the nation's leading corporations, and treasury bills and other securities issued and guaranteed by the U. S. Government.

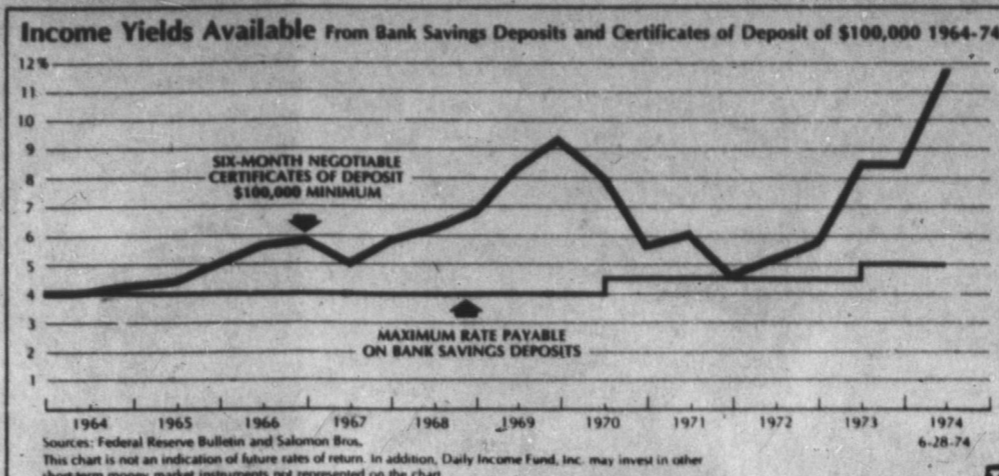

Such money market investments have paid as much as five full percentage points above the interest rates paid on regular pass-book savings accounts. For example, in September, 1974, regular savings accounts were paying 5 1/4% while certificates of deposit and prime commercial paper paid between 10% and 11%.

But today, with inflation constantly eating away at our purchasing power, the problem of earning maximum interest, with safety, on our "after expenses" dollars is important to everyone: individuals, small businessmen, professional people, retired persons, etc., as well as the large corporations and institutions.

Since the highest, most secure yields are available with money market investments, why don't more people take advantage of them?

There are two basic reasons why money market investments are not widely used by the general public. For one, most money market instruments require large cash investments. You cannot buy short-term, high interest cer-

MANAGING YOUR MONEY

IT PAYS TO PAY ATTENTION TO INTEREST RATES.

For less than $100,000, and treasury bills are issued in denominations of $10,000. Secondly, all of these high yield investments have specific periods of maturity ranging from 30 days to as much as 1 year. Thus, you have to be an individual with large cash surpluses who can tie up your money for considerable periods of time if you want to play in this big money league.

But recently a new money market investment service was introduced to the public, designed to provide individuals of modest means the same access to high yielding money market investments that big business and the very rich enjoy.

The new investment service is called Daily Income Fund, Inc., and the theory behind it is simple: most people do not have either the cash or the knowledge that is required to invest in the money market directly, but by combining the capital of many small investors, Daily Income Fund allows them to take advantage of previously unreachable interest rates, and still be able to withdraw their money whenever they need it without any penalty or loss of interest.

"By introducing Daily Income Fund, we hope we have effectively put an end to the double standard that allows big investors to earn vastly higher yields on their surplus cash than small investors can," says Joseph H. Reich, president of the Fund and of Reich & Tang, Inc. which acts as its investment advisor. Reich & Tang presently manages over $100 million for retirement trusts, endowments, individuals and corporations.

Minimum investment in the Fund is $5,000. There are no sales commissions or redemption fees, and additional investments can be made on any business day. Withdrawals of all, or part, of your investment can be made on 24 hours notice. Income is credited to each account daily. A notice confirming each transaction is issued when it takes place, and complete statements are provided quarterly.

"Because yields in the money market fluctuate daily, we cannot guarantee that the current high rates will continue," Reich says. "However, in the present inflationary environment we believe that Daily Income Fund fills an important need for investors seeking convenience, safety and liquidity, along with a better than average return."

Another advantage of the Fund, Reich points out, is that the investor is relieved of the administrative chores such as bookkeeping, keeping track of diverse maturity dates, and safeguarding the securities. Daily Income Fund's cash and investments are held by the Bank of New York, which acts as custodian and transfer agent.

For more facts about this new method of investing, you can obtain a free prospectus and brochure by writing to Booklets Department, Daily Income Fund, Inc., 230 Park Avenue, New York, New York 10077.

your week ahead BY DR. A.W. DAMIS

Forecast Period: December 8 to December 14

ARIES
Mar. 21 - Apr. 19
You might be in the mood to recruit allies for a project that has bogged down. Take care! A new face, on the scene, could create problems.

TAURUS
Apr. 20 - May 20
There's a few anxious moments forecast for this week's cosmic cycle. Indirectly, a younger person's friends or associates will be the source of your being concerned.

GEMINI
May 21 - June 20
It's a fact of life, many members of your sign will be trapped in the "eternal triangle." So, if you've been in bounds - stay there!

MOONCHILD
June 21 - July 22
A major decision awaits you, this week. Whatever you do, don't be entrapped in the "worry circle." Do what has to be done, quickly... the clock ticks against you!

LEO
July 23 - Aug. 22
Proceed with caution at a gathering or informal party. An incident with a member of the opposite sex - could trigger a chain of unfavorable events.

VIRGO
Aug. 23 - Sept. 22
Your chart shows a bad case of self pity and an overworked imagination. You'll feel tied down and restricted, for one reason or another.

LIBRA
Sept. 23 - Oct. 22
There's no question about it, according to your chart, someone will toss an overture your way. Play it cool... it won't be a last chance situation.

SCORPIO
Oct. 23 - Nov. 21
Neglect and forgetfulness might cost you the loss of a personal article. It might be a good idea to keep your valuables under lock and key.

SAGITTARIUS
Nov. 22 - Dec. 21
A member of the opposite sex's good grooming, poise and mannerisms, will indeed, impress you. The point? Don't take whatever friendship that might develop - too seriously.

CAPRICORN
Dec. 22 - Jan. 19
This week, it's a situation of, "If I only knew then, what I know now." You and an associate hold fundamental differences in "how" to approach a problem.

AQUARIUS
Jan. 20 - Feb. 18
Good judgment won't be one of your strong points. Take care in putting together a formula to please the opposite sex. Tender love and care works - sometimes!

PISCES
Feb. 19 - Mar. 20
You'll tamper with the two ingredients that make up a sour batch of unreality... nostalgia and the thought of the grass being greener, elsewhere.

SHRIMP TIP

one with the red sauce on top! True, home production usually takes some doing but not if you already have a can of shrimp tucked away in the refrigerator. Canned shrimp, thoroughly chilled, make good cocktail shrimp. As for the favorite red cocktail sauce, it is simple beyond belief to make.

COCKTAIL FOR TWO

1 can (4 1/2 ounces) shrimp
Crisp lettuce
1/2 cup chili sauce or tomato catsup
1/3 cup chopped celery
2 teaspoons prepared horseradish
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Rinse shrimp in cold water. Arrange in lettuce-lined cocktail glasses. Combine sauce ingredients and spoon over shrimp.
