SENATOR HANNA ON TRUSTS

From speech of Hon. John Wesley Gaines, of Tennessee, in the House of Representatives, June 2, 1900. Cong. Record, Appendix, page 984.
Again, Senator Hanna, in the course of the campaign in Ohio last fall, warmly advocating the trust-loving Mr. Nash in his candidacy for his election, at different times thus showed he was the bold advocate and friend of trusts.
Trusts are good things. There is no trust in the United States. What harm can these trusts do to the people of this country?
It may be that the trusts will do the people harm, (Friday, the Republican party will take care of that.)
How, I ask? By killing all anti-trust laws, as recently done in Ohio, and smothering those in Congress? It is evolution in business. (Tuesday) There is no such thing.
I say there are no trusts, if there are, break it.
We know our business.
"We," not we-we, but WE, giant "we," that was not made to be downed as long as the Republican party is in power, State and National.
The trusts have the best men in the country at their head.
The formation of trusts is a step forward. The combination of corporations is simply the evolution of business.
I am not defending the trusts, nor am I repudiating a single word or phrase in the Republican platform.
Who did repudiate our Ohio platform against trusts upon which Mr. Nash was elected governor last fall? Your Republican legislature, "at the dictation of the bosses at Washington and trust magnates at New York," by killing the "Russell Bill No. 10."

Not Needed.
New York, Oct. 2.—Most interesting of all the news circulating in real estate circles was a story to the effect that Cornelius Vanderbilt had rented the residence of the late Collins P. Huntington on Fifth avenue for the winter of 1899. The weak spot in the story is that it is not true. Neither Mr. Vanderbilt nor any one else will lease the Huntington mansion for the winter months, as Mr. Huntington will probably occupy the place herself.

Washington, Oct. 2.—Minister Wu has delivered to the state department official confirmation of the degradation of Prince Tuan and many other Chinese leaders. The following statement is made as to Minister Wu's dispatch:

"A cablegram received from Director General Sheng at Shanghai states by special cable, issued October 25, Prince Chang, Prince Yih, secondary Princes Tai Len and Tai Ying are handed over to the said board, which shall consult and decide upon a severe penalty, and that Kang Yi, assistant grand secretary and president of the civil board, and Chai Si Chiao, president of the board of punishment, are handed over to the board of censors, who shall report and decide upon a severe penalty."

Minister Wu's information appears to be at rest all question as to the fall of the reactionary element, headed by Prince Tuan and including the president, commander and chief of punishments. It shows, moreover, that the punishment of Tuan is more severe than heretofore reported, as he is removed from office, a fact which is previous dispatches. The clan court is directed to decide upon a severe penalty, in addition to the loss of official salary and services.

The state department received a dispatch from Minister Conger announcing that he had decided upon a severe penalty to be imposed upon the Chinese against the French note on the powers regarding the opening of negotiations and the permanent disarmament of the Chinese army.

IN THE COAL REGION.

Three hundred and seventy-five square miles of broken territory in the eastern central portion of Pennsylvania include the anthracite coal supply of the Atlantic district of the United States. In general this territory came from the hand of the Great and mighty mountains, broken, and story. Swift streams vein the country at the bottoms of narrow valleys. Where the steel rails of the road builders have been laid these streams have been parallelled and in some of level as to height. Chickens may mark an individuality in one yard, for the reason that on one side are gaseous ducks and on the other side gaseous swans for these premises are deadly in their sameness.

Here dwelt the Irish, English, Scotch and Welsh, colliers, who make up the aristocracy of the colliery. They are the comparatively well-paid classes and represent in greatest measure the law-abiding element in the village. Beyond these, however—beyond the Peace and the Pickers.

The philosophical historian who comes to visit of the situation of the world in the last year of the nineteenth century will have an abundance of matter to moralize upon. The powers of earth are enjoying the blessings of a nominal and local peace. But this has not been a time when they were less animated by the sentiments of peace. That Russia and Great Britain should watch each other is not surprising. But the distinctive feature

FIELD, RANGE, GARDEN.
Cotton pickers are in demand. Turnip goes to market lively. Spring sowing is in progress. Vegetables continue in good supply. Ferns come as fairly good this season. There has been considerable cattle trading in Hall county.

Profession of a Stout Lady.
The dignity of Mrs. Caroline Fitzgerald of Havre Point, Mo., was subjected to a tremendous strain the other afternoon. Mrs. Fitzgerald, who is quite stout, was standing on a barrel while training some vines, when the top of the barrel caved in. It was her husband tried to extricate her, but he was finally compelled to roll her to the blacksmith shop, about a quarter of a mile. There the iron hoops were removed and Mrs. Fitzgerald regained her freedom.

DELIVERING ARMS TO NON-UNION MINERS.

the valleys there has been scarcely room for a right of way for a road train. To a stranger, used to the green fields and hills of the agricultural portion of the United States, a ride on the railway through this territory is particularly depressing. Only the worthless and poisonous laurel shows green on the hillsides. All other timber has been sacrificed for mine props. Sulphurous smoke has affected vegetation and washings from the giant cum piles have drowned it out. Water in the swift streams has been stained and polluted by coal dust and salts of iron until they run black as ink, inimical to life of any kind in their depths.

In this dreary setting as a background, the mining village straddles itself upon the vision like a blot upon a sheet of white paper. House seemingly piled upon house on the bleak benches of the hillsides, with here and there the giant outlines of the coal breakers rising out of the midst of company houses and the wilderness of "backs" in the village "patches," uncovered stoop. Below there is a cellar in which is a coal bin filled monthly from the company mine. The average pay of miners is $23 a month. Some earn $25 and others $100. Others, generally boys, earn as low as $25 and $18.

Edward W. Parks, statistician for the United States Geological Survey, has estimated that the original anthracite coal supply of Pennsylvania was about 15,200,000,000 tons of 2,240 pounds. Since 1820, when the first incense was made upon the field 2,000,000,000 long tons have been mined. But it has been estimated that for every ton of coal mined a ton and a half goes to waste, either through being lost in the culms pile or being left in the depths for the support of mine roofs. Allowing for this waste, 5,000,000,000 long tons have been taken from the original deposits. From these figures 14,200,000,000 tons still are buried in the hills and improved methods have been minimizing the waste to such an extent that most of this and some of the deposits already charged of the British press today is its note of distrust and dislike for Germany, and the German papers reciprocate the sentiment with interest. The British publications, moreover, openly admit the hostile feelings of France, and the French publications teem with irritating expressions of animosity toward England, which France seems to hate even more now than it does Germany. Italy alone of the continental powers is friendly toward Great Britain. But in proportion as it betrays Great Britain it estranges the two other factors in the triple alliance. There is, it is true, an alliance between Russia and France, but even the strength of this is somewhat weakened by the Russian policy of flirting with Germany. In the Orient Japan is an uncertain quantity, a rival to Russia and distrusted of England, while China just at present is the world's enemy. On the whole, the spectacle of the happy family of nations is not one to encourage a wholly optimistic view of civilization at the end of the century of the world's greatest progress and enlightenment.

Passing of the Bicycle.
The decadence of the bicycle is clearly shown by the reports of the treasury department. Four years ago, when all the world was on wheels, this country exported to the rest of the world bicycles and parts of them to be made up abroad valued at $1,888,612. The next year the value of wheels sent abroad was $7,662,822. This was the highest point reached during the year. In 1898 the exports fell to $6,485,229, in 1899 to $5,752,899, and in 1900 to $5,551,625. The steadily dropping figures indicate the gradual disuse of the wheel abroad as well as in this country. But it will not disappear altogether. The novelty of the wheel is simply gone, and from a fact it has become an article of use. Instead of being ridden merely as diversion, it will be employed by those who wish to get to business in a quick and economical way.

Captain T. A. Brassey, who is acting civil commissioner at Pretoria, does not believe the task that has fallen to him of regulating the sale of liquor. All the bars in the city are closed, his only being authorized to sell liquor by retail.

B. G. Townsend of Midland recently sold to C. W. Meacham of Ash-Em, Tex., an eight-month-old Shorthorn bull for $500.

The price of broom corn in the Hilliana belt jumped from $10 to $109 a ton a few days ago on account of buyers holding the product.

Clarence Kottman recently sold his interest in the Crow creek and is putting his cattle on it.

H. U. Stephens of Memphis has sold cattle to Joe Jackson at $29 a head for the yearlings. $25 for dry cows and $15 for cows and calves.

A. H. Schrock of Pecos has bought the 20-section pasture owned by Mr. Leavens on Tovar creek and is putting his cattle on it.

B. K. Rigs of Midland has purchased from A. S. Hawkins a 29-section pasture near Fort Stockton for $16,000, being in payment a lot of horses at $15.

W. B. Lafferty recently sold at Clarendon to T. R. Hughes 42 yearling steers at private terms, and to W. N. Orr of Hall county five cows and calves at $22.

W. W. Nelson of Colleton County recently sold to C. C. Harles of Surry county fifty head of cows and calves at $15, and to Clara A. Loran of Garma county forty yearling steers at $16.40.

At Big Springs L. O. Rainey bought from A. B. Jones fifteen high grade Hereford cows at $50 each and five calves at $20 each. Mr. Jones now has nothing but pure bred cattle on this ranch.

A big deal in rice land was made in Wharton county a few days ago. A. H. Pierce sold to Hon. J. Lane 20,000 acres of land on the east side of the Colorado for $6 per acre, the land to be used for the cultivation of rice.

The outlook for sheepmen in Idaho is still discouraging. No rain to amount to anything has fallen since the first of the year. The prospect in that state have fed to carry their stock through the winter.

Western sheep ranchmen are getting the idea of breeding for mutton. One Idaho man recently sold 15,000 black-faced lambs. It is not very long since the sheep of the western valleys and mountains were chiefly raised for their wool.

"I couldn't Sew another Stitch to Save my Life."

A gorgeous costume flashed beneath the brilliant lights of a ball room. The queen of society is radiant to-night. The nervous hands of a weak woman have toiled day and night, the weary form and aching head have known no rest, for the dress must be finished in time.

To that queen of society and her dressmaker we would say a word. One through hothouse culture, luxury and social excitement, and the other through the toll of necessity, may some day find their ailments a common cause.

Nervous prostration, excitability, fainting spells, dizziness, sleeplessness, loss of appetite and strength, all indicate serious trouble, which has been promoted by an over-exacted system.

For the society queen and the dressmaker alike, there is nothing so reliable as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore strength, vigor, and happiness.

Mrs. Lizzie Anderson, 49 Union St., Salem, N. J., writes:
"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I feel it my duty to write and tell you how grateful I am to you for what your medicine has done for me. At one time I suffered everything a woman could. I had inflammation of the ovaries, I felt in the back of the womb, and hemorrhages. At times could not sleep, and I had a bad case of constipation. I have now taken six bottles and am well and able to do my work. I also ride a wheel and feel no bad effects from it. I am thankful to the giver of all good gifts for the wisdom of Mrs. Sarah Swoder, who introduced your medicine to me. I recommend it to all my friends."

makes a picture that runs upon the unaccommodated night-owls.
There are two sections to the mining village—the company town, made up of company houses more or less than pass, and the "patch" in which the substitute for losses are unlike almost anything else evolved by man in his desire for a home and a habitation. One description may stand for all the authentic districts, waving the minor exceptions.
"Up the valley is a wide, rambling street, its width to some extent determined by the size of the valley. There may be two streets, or three, even. On each side of this unkept thoroughfare is a row of unimpaired small houses, set two and two, each separated from the others by a picket fence. There is no pretense of architecture. Walls, roof, eaves, windows to light in light, and eaves down to provide for ingress and egress are all sufficient. The roofs have the same shape, the walls the same window-eyes, and the chimneys the same dead glaucous outlines of the breakers—around the company store, a thousand, the patch" of the strike patchwork. Here may live a thirty-year-old or fifteen hundred Hungarians, Poles, Italians, and Sicilians.

Today in this long street of twin houses, there is much of family life. The miner, of course, does not have his home. He may have a pay $10 or $12 a month for it, according to the size and desirability. He may have eight rooms, four below and four above. If it be a large one, he may pay considerably less for one than he only two rooms below and two rooms above. Outside, in front, there is an

For several years the culm piles of an early date have been retained, as it were. Heavy rains and melting snows have washed coal particles from these into the creeks and ditches and from these they have been swept into the rivers. Grappling for this coal in the river has become a considerable industry. This coal has been washed fifty miles down rivers, and particles are found in the Susquehanna river more than 100 miles from the mines.
In some of these tributaries of the Susquehanna, under favorable circumstances, coal-grapplers frequently take out as much as five tons a day to a man. This coal has not deteriorated and it is washed free from dust by reason of its immersion.

A TYPICAL MINER'S HOME.

THE POLITICAL SITUATION.

Bryan carried the following states in 1896 and in addition received one vote each from California and Kentucky, viz:

Table showing states carried by Bryan in 1896: Alabama, Colorado, Florida, Georgia, Kansas, Louisiana, Missouri, Mississippi, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, North Carolina, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Virginia, Wyoming, and one vote each from California and Kentucky.

Total Necessary to elect, 270. The above table will show that Bryan was short 48 votes in the Electoral College, and the question naturally arises when can we secure that number, assuming that he can carry all the states he carried in 1896?

Kentucky and Maryland are almost sure to go Democratic this year. If they do that will give Bryan 20 additional votes, leaving him 28 votes short. West Virginia has gone Democratic since 1892, and it is believed that it will go Democratic this year, but was always a close state. It may go for Bryan, and also Delaware. This will give Bryan 29 votes more than he received in '96, or 19 votes short of election. Where will he get them?

Leaving out New York, this narrows the fight down to Ohio, Illinois and Michigan. Ohio has only one vote more than he received in '96, or 18 votes short of election. Where will he get them? Leaving out New York, this narrows the fight down to Ohio, Illinois and Michigan. Ohio has only one vote more than he received in '96, or 18 votes short of election.

This was good sound Democratic doctrine during the days of Grant, but the probabilities are some "yap," who doesn't know a thing about the history of the party, who claims that grants ruled and shaped its destinies, and who declares, "that is Republican doctrine." Of course Lincoln, the Republican, did not agree with Douglas, nor do some of our latter day so-called Democrats, who are now approving of Lincoln against Jefferson, Madison, Jackson, Monroe, Calhoun, Jefferson Davis, Vanoe, Harvey and Douglas. These against Timms of Pittsburgh, and Alabama, and against the "Old Dave" Culberson, (God rest him,) and other old time Democrats, who fought the fight of the party when it required nerve and backbone to do so.

We commend the above to the careful and prayerful consideration of Editor Shoemaker of the Abilene Reporter, who is so eager to charge others with being republicans, who do not agree with everything put forth by a few leaders and labeled democracy.

An unknown exchange files the following as history: "The country is cold lemonade spring on every village garden. It bread grew on seven-finger stalks and every blade of grass was tipped with blueberries. There were no sticks in the lemonade, no butter or preserves on the bread, because the grass is not produced 83% instead of 81% on the blades."

Texas Party and Branch says: "The Grand Army, at its recent annual session, were the bloody spirit on the outside, by denouncing Southern school histories and demanding that they be abolished. What the Grand Army wants is a history that will teach Southern children that their fathers were traitors in the civil war and ought to have been hung, and that all the patriots of the country appeared on this great politico-military organization. We are sorry to disappoint the Grand Army, but we believe we are capable of managing our own schools without outside help."

ABLENE FAIR.
 The West Texas Fair at Abilene, closed last Saturday. Callahan county took the premium, $125.00 each for the best county exhibit. The exhibit was gotten up by S. H. French, and he alone is entitled to both premium and credit, because he received little, if any assistance from the people of the county. We regret this, because our people lose by not taking more interest in the West Texas Fair. We hope they will take more interest in the Fair next year. The Fair gets better every year, and the people of Callahan stand in their own light if they do not patronize it liberally.
 Jones county had a fine exhibit, also Mitchell county.

The store straggle to relate little damage was done except a few broken straps and a bent spring on the wagon.
