B. L. BOYDSTUN,

All smiles and laughter and gladness she seems. Like the sprite of the night of my rosiest dreams, And I drink to her smile in a goblet of bliss As I lovingly, longingly, wait for a kiss.

The poet was apostrophizing Spring; the artist was told to make a suitable illustration to accompany the verses, but he doesn't appear to have caught the spirit of the thing; too much flesh, too little spirit. Sad tale. Sad world.

But there is plenty of good tailoring in a good world—and always will be. The Royal Tailors, of Chicago, are good tailors.

The best really stylish—modish—fashionably correct, made-to-measure garments—the kind of clothes that make you feel at home when you're abroad—and they cost so little that you can go abroad now and then and enjoy yourself.

Pleased to show you three or four or five or six hundred samples of Royal suitings and overcoatings—something to please everybody—and made-to-measure skirts for the ladies, too. Unless you enjoy wasting your money, look into this matter.

NOTICE.

Mrs. C. C. Jones wishes to say to the ladies of Baird and surrounding country that she is prepared to weave carpets. All orders promptly filled. Leave orders at residence 7 miles west of Baird or at R. W. Phillips' Baird. 17-4t

VIGO.

April 20.—We come once more hoping that we will not get on Rusty Rube's toes any more as he don't like for the writers to say anything about candidates. I suppose he wants them to talk of taking chances on cotton in the east like he is doing. Hoping he will read the Burnt Branch dots I will say Hurrah for John Jones, wheat or no wheat.

The people of Vigo community had or was to have a fish fry Monday, but failed to catch any fish but caught turtles to a finish.

Lou Hadley and Fred Alvord shipped one car load of steers from Moran last week.

It is reported that in Stonewall county cattle dying are in bunches for the want of grass. A good many cattle will be moved out to grass if it can be found. We are sorry to learn of this distress.

We had a fine fine sermon Sunday by Rev. J. J. Hendrix. A very good turn out.

Mr. Swafford, of Baird, visited the R. R. house and took pictures of H. B.'s chickens and also of the residence Mr. Swafford says H. B. has the finest chickens he has seen.

The young people had singing at J. A. Jackson's Sunday evening. They all report a nice time.

In answer to Brother Aguinardo I will say it takes knowledge to tell that and for a little danaro I will give you the full details on the subject, but I will tell you this much. If it don't rain soon potatoes will be so high you can't buy them unless your income is more than mine and your cotton will be covered up in the sand so you will have none to sell at any price. Come down to my farm and I will show you the crop. Everything you want to see but fruit, you can show more fruit than we can.

Miss Alice Gilliland visited Miss Pearl Jackson last Sunday.

Mr. Albro Wilson was up from Seranton to see his best girl.

Miss May James, is visiting Mrs. J. A. Jackson this week. Roy is all smiles, but some one else is not, they look sad.

Mrs. Rowland, of Baird is visiting Mrs. Taylor of Vigo.

J. E. Hart's baby has been quite sick, but is better at this writing.

Mrs. W. K. Boatwright and son visited at Vigo Saturday evening, but found no one at home; all the community had gone to town. Come again, we will all be at home next time.

J. E. Hart has a clerk, and he says all the trains that go by are Pat Shay's train or Dick Shay's train. He is allright.

We will close by saying we will have the Bachelor or the tender hearted Bachelor in this week.

The above cut is an actual reproduction of the way T. E. Powell conducts his business, Business is always in the lead, a very close second is Honesty, third Up-to-Date, and in the same group will be found New Goods, Low Prices, Promptness and Courteous Salesman. For it is by Honest treatment, Up-to-Date business methods, a large line of New Goods, and Low Prices, together with Promptness and Courteous Salesmen that we have captured the immense Business in the past. Far in the rear comes competition, results is too plain to need comment. It makes little difference how large an up-to-date business man gets his business he always wants it larger. Far in front, like the Fox, business is leading him, for it makes no odds how well it is done it may be better. In the last three years our business has run over $350,000, and in this same strain we hope and believe we can exceed this amount this year. On hand to-day we have the largest line ever come to Baird, over $60,000 in New, and Up-to-Date

Dry Goods, Clothing, Shoes, Millinery. Etc.

We kindly ask that you inspect this immense stock and see if all of the above statements are not true. Thanking you for all the favors in the past and soliciting a continuance of the same we are yours to please. No trouble to show goods.

TARIFF AND THE TRUST

How the Beef Barons Tax the American Consumers.

BUY AND SELL AT THEIR OWN PRICE

Never a Penny of the Tax Goes Into the Public Treasury—Farmer is Not Benefited—Independent Butchers Helpless Against Railroad Rebate and Trust Boycott.

In behalf of the meat trust it is urged that repeal of the duties on cattle, sheep, beef, pork and mutton would be of no benefit to American consumers. The agrarians of Germany, who are now working to increase the meat duties of that country, have a much better understanding than that concerning the operations of a tariff; so have the American protectionists who rigged up the Dingley tariff with duties on all the meats which the people consume under the pretense of protecting American farmers. How much the farmers are protected is seen by the fact that the meat trust, with headquarters in Chicago and Kansas City, dictates to the farmers the price of their cattle. Should a dealer undertake to buy cattle, sheep and hogs independently of the trust he would encounter a railroad rebate in favor of the combination and would be driven from business; should a butcher buy cattle or carcasses of beef from an independent dealer or directly from a western farmer he would be subjected to a boycott.

ROAD MONEY WASTED.

Working Out Highway Taxes Produces No Lasting Results.

Commenting on the highway law of the Empire State, the New York Times in a recent issue said: "The legislation heretofore enacted for the improvement of the roads of the state is good as far as it goes, but it is not likely to go very far in the lifetime of the youngest of our readers. It provides for state aid to towns that are willing to contribute their part to better roads built under the direction of the state. Up to the present time we believe that only 300 miles of the 5,000 in the state are benefited by this law. The highway alliance, whose purpose is to "increase the usefulness of highways," proposes that the plan now in operation in towns generally shall be so changed that the resources available, which are very considerable, shall be applied under state direction. At present each property owner is required to pay his share of the amount voted for roads, but is at liberty to work out the tax at the rate of one day's labor for each dollar due by him. The work, whether voluntary or hired, is done when and where the path master and the highway commissioner may direct. The change urged is that all payment of road taxes in labor shall be done away with, that all taxes shall be paid in money and that the money shall be expended under the direction of the skilled and trained officials of the state.

There can be no doubt that this arrangement would secure very much better return for the money of the various towns than is got at present. No one need be a great traveler in the interior of our state to know that the general condition of the roads is bad and that the badness is tremendously costly. It is quite common to see a fairly good road passing from the area of one town become a wretched road in the next, and the proportion of the latter is many times greater than that of the former. As a rule the actual cost of the decent roads is not appreciably larger than that of the bad ones. The money is used in one case and wasted in the other. The plan suggested would not increase, as we understand it, the amount collected for roads. It would simply secure an immensely better return for it. And this return would be in the definite shape of economy and profit for the residents of the towns as well as for the community generally.

It has been estimated that improvement in roads steadily used, which should save only 10 per cent of the wear and tear of horses and wagons and of the time of men employed, would save to the average farmer from $50 to $100 a year. It is not at all unreasonable to infer that the plan proposed would effect such an improvement. As it would not cost the country residents a cent more in expenditure, it ought to be popular if it is once understood.

NEED OF GOOD ROADS.

They Cost Money, but in the End Are Cheaper Than Poor Ones.

The greatest need of the country is good roads. To have good roads we must have a good road law, says Texas Farm and Ranch. To have a good road law the people who use roads must be made to comprehend their value. Then they will demand of state and county legislators to proceed to solve the problem.

Good roads cost money, and myopic taxpayers have objected to any practical system on that account, whereas bad roads cost a great deal more than telford or macadam. There is no lack of facts and figures to prove this statement true. Railroads, telegraphs and telephones are great modern agencies of civilization, and if there is an exception to the rule that civilization follows these institutions we have failed to find it or hear of it. But bad country roads greatly retard the civilizing process, besides levying the heaviest tax known to civilization.

Rural mail delivery is largely dependent upon the character of our roads, and would be well nigh impracticable on the muddy lanes of the Texas black waxy section in wet weather. Therefore, to enjoy the benefits of a daily mail, our people must go to work systematically to make better roads. What matters it if a road costs $3,000, $6,000 or even $10,000 per mile if, after it is made, every person who uses it will feel glad that the expenditure was made?

Plant Trees by the Roadside.

How much and at what little cost could the roadways of the country leading to the large cities be beautified if each farmer should give a little time to the planting of trees and shrubbery along the way!

STORIES OF CORRIGAN

The Archbishop's Characteristics Interestingly Depicted.

PLEASING INSTANCE OF HIS TACT

How the Famous Catholic Prelate Placed a Guest of Different Faith at His Ease—Amusing Incident on a Railway Train Bound Out From Munich.

Here are some interesting anecdotes of Archbishop Corrigan of New York: The famous prelate never more fully displayed the charming tact which, aside from his other attainments, made him so wide a popularity than at a reception of the Catholic club in New York city. The guests had pressed forward in a long line to be introduced and kiss the archiepiscopal ring, but a wife presented herself alone, says the New York World. Smiling in an embarrassed way, she explained that her husband, she thought, stood in awe of his grace. But his grace made no such mistake. Wife and husband were of different faith. He grasped the situation in a moment, and a humorous light came into his eyes. Whispering to the priest at his side, he expressed his desire to have the man presented. There was no alternative. The recalcitrant approached. The archbishop extended both hands, firmly caught the right hand of his unwilling guest and, holding it to his breast, made it impossible for him to kneel during their short conversation.

Sometimes the occasion arose where the archbishop was compelled, in a more or less public way, to reveal some of his literary accomplishments. Such took place some time ago when he was in Europe, says Holland in the Philadelphia Press.

It is an anecdote which his then secretary, McDonnell, now bishop of Brooklyn, who was present at the time of the incident, tells with much amusement. The archbishop had entered a compartment of a railway train bound out from Munich. In the compartment were two Italian officers and a third gentleman whose nationality was not apparent at first. For some time the Italians chatted with the archbishop in their native tongue, apparently not realizing that Italian was not also the native tongue of the archbishop.

Something occurred which led the other gentleman to speak, he addressing the archbishop in French, and he received a reply in that language from the archbishop. Something went wrong about the window, and this gentleman then spoke in English about it, addressing his remark to the archbishop, who replied in English.

The conversation was continued between them in English, and the stranger at last said that he understood the American archbishop Corrigan had been in Munich, adding that he would have been greatly delighted had he been able to meet him, having taken great interest in the career of Archbishop Corrigan.

The countenance of the archbishop was unperturbable. Then the stranger, doubtless perceiving from his dress that the archbishop was a clergyman of the Catholic church, asked him if he knew whether Archbishop Corrigan had left Munich, and to this question the archbishop replied very quietly, "Yes; I believe he has gone." The stranger then said that he was an American and, asking the archbishop his nationality, was told in reply, "I am an American too."

Soon after that the stranger, being about to leave the train, asked the archbishop if he would not exchange cards with him. His card revealed that he was a captain in the United States army. He did not look at the archbishop's card until as the train was just starting, but he must have discovered a moment later that his wish had been gratified and that he had not only seen the American archbishop, but had been in conversation with him.

Pingpong Favors.

Souvenirs for pingpong parties, according to the New York Commercial Advertiser, are to be had at the confectioners' shops already, and the makers of cotton favors are racking their brains for ideas that will suggest the game that has almost eclipsed bridge and bids fair to cast even golf into the shade. The pingpong candy boxes are in the form of pingpong bats or rackets (call them bats if you would be English, you know) and have a small rubber ball fastened to the top. The handle is tied with ribbon, and the box holds about half a pound of sweets.

Boer Subjects of the Kaiser.

After the war broke out 150 Boers trekked into German Southwest Africa, where they have since become naturalized subjects of the kaiser. They are now serving their time as German soldiers.

"A Life on the Ocean Wave."
 [As sung by Mr. Frye. Words by Marcus Hanna.]

Oh, a life on the billowy sea,
 A home on the rolling deep,
 With a government subsidy
 And nothing to do but sleep.
 For a steamer chair I pine,
 For wages without the work;
 Oh, give me the flashing brine,
 That preserveth the subsidy "pork!"

The elections are now in view;
 The people begin to frown;
 We fear our bold pirate crew
 In political waters will drown.
 So we'll pour out rhetorical oil
 On the turbulent popular sea
 While the seething passions boil
 Round the good (?) ship subsidy.

It's so easy it makes me smile;
 The people we'll put to sleep
 And collect so much per mile
 While we bound o'er the billowy deep.
 And the song of our hearts shall be,
 While the voters vainly rave,
 A home on the bounty sea.
 A life on the bounty-us sea.

ROYAL MEEKER.
