'Twas An Ill Wind Blowing--At Floydada, 29-7

Mules Fail To Overcome
The Powerful Whirlwinds

Although the Muleshoe Mules played an excellent first half against the Floydada Whirlwinds Friday night, the Floydada team was able to come out on top, defeating the Mules 29-7.

The first quarter gave Mule fans an indication that the game would probably be a close rally to the last quarter. The Mules were able to capitalize on their second possession of the ball, when Michael Dunham took the ball from quarterback Johnnie Garcia, three yards to score the only Muleshoe touchdown of the night. Ronnie Perez kicked the extra point to give the Mules a 7-0 lead with 2:50 left in the first period.

The Whirlwinds tried to come back in strength, but only succeeded in throwing the ball straight into the arms of Ronnie Perez on the second play of the second quarter.

Because of this interception, the Mules were able to take the ball close to another TD, but Floydada's Chad Pernel intercepted the ball in the end zone to return the ball to the Whirlwinds. Floydada then took the ball for a 78-yard scoring drive and scored on a one yard touchdown run with 4:04 left in the half.

The third quarter opened with the score tied, 7-7, and hopes for a continued close game. The Mules were able to keep Floydada away from the end zone until Johnny Taylor took the ball home to add three yards to his total and bring the Whirlwinds into the lead, 14-7.

The Mules took the ball 35-yards on their next possession, but had to give the ball again to Floydada, who, with eleven seconds left in the quarter, again took the ball in for seven more points.

The fourth quarter saw domination by the Floydada team and yet another touchdown with Cont. Page 6, Col. 6

The two senators will be in Muleshoe at 1 p.m. Tuesday, at the old Santa Fe Depot - Senior Citizens Center - at the Muleshoe Heritage Center, east of the Bailey County Coliseum.

HARVEST CREATES PARKING PROBLEMS--With the fall harvest in full swing, and despite signs at the Mule Lot showing No Trucks, trucks have parked all around the Mule Memorial during the past week or two. Several months ago, the Muleshoe City Council approved the 'No Parking' for trucks, as the heavy trucks are destroying the asphalt paving on the Mule Lot. However, despite the designation, trucks have continued to park in the restricted areas.

1933 Muleshoe State Bank Robber
Re-Visits Crime Scene Recently

It was a quiet Monday morning at The Journal office, and around 11:30 a.m. when a silver-haired man and woman walked in. After being invited to sit down, the man began a conversation by saying, "M'am, I'm a bank robber."

Looking at his lined face and silver hair brought on the question, "Recently?" His answer "I robbed the bank in Muleshoe more than 50 years ago, and never got caught."

This was the introduction to an interesting two and a half hour conversation on Monday, October 5.

He introduced himself as Willard B. Ward, and said he had never been in Muleshoe before the day of the robbery, which he said was in April, 1933, during a raging sandstorm.

Looking back at records later, the 1933 Journal permanent file showed Muleshoe State Bank was robbed on April 13, 1933, during a raging sandstorm, and in fact, the two robbers were never caught.

The original bank robbery story from the April 20, 1933 edition of THE MULESHOE JOURNAL is reproduced in this issue as "A Touch Of History."

Willard explained that he and a friend, who he says is now dead, were traveling through the country, robbing places as they traveled. On this particular day, he said they were on their way to Denver, Colo., and impulsively decided to stop and rob the local bank.

He said he was the tall, nervous robber, and although he did not see the story in the permanent files, correctly described all the conditions on that day, including the pursuit which followed the robbery. He did not know who was driving the car chasing them. (It was Gil Wollard, at the time a post man in Muleshoe) The chase went into the Y-L community, which he also did not know the name.

After eluding their pursuers, the robber duo then continued on their way to Denver. After more robberies in the Denver area, they were caught and returned to Texas to face numerous charges.

Jessica McClure

Brought Safely

From Deep Well

Some 54 hours after 18-month old Jessica McClure, of Midland, fell into an abandoned eight-inch well shaft, the toddler was successfully rescued.

Virtually the entire world was watching minutes before 8 p.m. Friday night when she was brought to the surface of a shaft which had been drilled near the site she fell in on Wednesday morning.

She came to the surface strapped to a backboard and in the arms of a paramedic, and was immediately whisked by ambulance to a Midland hospital.

Her plight had caught the attention of the entire world through the ordeal.

Her rescuers worked 24-hours a day, drilling through solid rock to get to her.

Although she is resting comfortably, doctors are closely monitoring her right foot and leg, which had become wedged beside her face when she toppled into the abandoned well shaft.

The avowed bank robber said the reason he had returned to Muleshoe was to re-visit the robbery site, and to talk to Sheriff Bob Henderson and Muleshoe City Police Chief Wayne Holmes. Holmes was fully aware of the robbery in 1933, even though he had not even been born then. His father and uncle, enroute to Littlefield, were briefly detained following the robbery.

According to statutes checked for THE JOURNAL by Linda Elder, Bailey County Attorney, federal statutes have a 'general-

"The More You Know -- The Better It Gets." And that was the theme of the Tuesday night meeting of the Muleshoe Roadriders at Summit Savings.

More than 20 people were at the meeting, which was highlighted by two motorcycle safety instructors as special guest speakers. Donnie Becker and Don Taylor, of Cannon Air Force Base, Clovis, N.M., instructors for the Motorcycle Safety Foundation, did a quick 'walk-through' of a portion of the safety classes they teach.

According to Becker, 95 percent of the people who are involved in motorcycle accidents have had no formal training in motorcycle safety. Motorcyclists are not allowed on-base at Cannon Air Force Base until they have successfully completed the Motorcycle Safety Course.

He showed the "Murphy Film" which depicts that "anything that can go wrong -- will."

The film depicted typical and special riding situations and how to successfully avoid them.

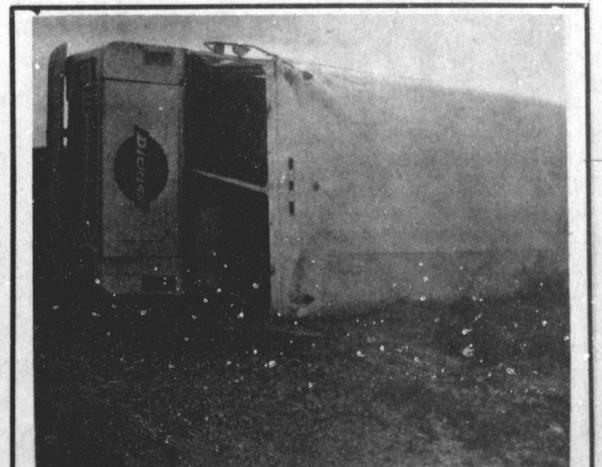

Road hazards, including pot holes, rain, overloading, punctures, wind, obstructions, sand, gravel, passengers, animals and parking were all covered in the film.

He discussed what "makes a bad passenger," and said it is a passenger who won't sit still, throwing the motorcycle off balance. Becker suggested treating the passenger as though he/she knows nothing about a motorcycle, and instruct them on safe riding practices.

"Brief them before they get on the bike," she said. "Explain what they're to do, as well as not to do. Instruct them to look over the shoulder of the driver in the direction he is

O-O-OOPS--Wednesday morning, intermittent rainshowers fell in western Bailey County and caused this van to hydroplane on the thin skim of water and road oils. The driver was unhurt in the accident that occurred about three miles west on FM 1760. One other accident Wednesday was attributed to wet highways. A large truck jackknifed about eight miles north of Muleshoe on Highway 214. Again, no injury was reported.

Creative Living

By Sheryl Borden

Two interesting topics will be featured on "Creative Living" on Tuesday, October 20 at 12 noon and repeated on Saturday, October 24 at 2 p.m. on KENW-TV. (All times are Mountain).

Just as cooking was revolutionized by the microwave oven, sewing has its own revolution going on. The serger, or overlock machine, that was once used only by clothing manufacturers, has taken the home sewing market by storm. Lynn Raasch, spokesperson for Palmer/Pletsch Associates in Aptos, CA will discuss this and some of the other new trends in the home sewing field.

Seafood is an ideal "heart healthy" food. It's low in total fat, saturated fat and cholesterol. Seafood is high in protein, low in calories and sodium and a good source of vitamins and minerals. It's also quick and easy to prepare. Marilyn Rose is with the Florida Department of Natural Resources Seafood Marketing bureau, and she will discuss buying and storing seafood. Marilyn is from Plantation, FL.

On Tuesday, October 20 at 9:30 p.m., sources and resources for clothing information for handicapped individuals will be presented by Dr. Joyce Davis, instructor in the Home Economics Department at Eastern New Mexico University, Portales, NM.

Jean Benson, owner and operator of "Crittter Crafts" in Pasco, WA will also be on the show to demonstrate some exciting soft toys to stitch and stuff that will delight children and adults alike. Jean has also authored a Farm Journal Craft Book called Soft Toys to Stitch and Stuff.

On Thursday, October 22 at 12 noon "Creative Living" will feature a segment on a pre-school project for parents and information on turkey deli products. Turkey ham with about half the calories. Teresa Farney is the Director of Consumer Affairs with the National Turkey Federation, Reston, VA, and she will show some of these turkey deli products and then share a recipe that is a real family pleaser and one that's easy on the cook, too.

Lela Goar, home economics teacher at Gattis Junior High School, Clovis and one of her FHA/HERO students, Felicia Garcia, will tell about an award-winning project that was conducted at the school. The project was designed to cover five areas of instruction for parents of pre-schoolers in order to help make the transition of entering school easier on both parents and children. The junior high students did the actual teaching and Ms. Goar and Ms. Garcia will tell about the results of this project.

"Creative Living" is produced and hosted by Sheryl Borden. The show airs on more than 100 PBS stations in the United States, Canada, Guam and Puerto Rico and is distributed by Pacific Mountain Network, Denver, CO. Viewers can request copies of printed materials offered on the show by calling on KENW-TV's toll-free telephone lines between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m., Monday through Friday. In New Mexico, the number is 1-800-432-2361, out-of-state: 1-800-545-2359 and Portales and Roosevelt County: 562-2212.

SEAFOOD FOR THE GOOD LIFE

Fish cookery offers endless opportunities for exploration and delight. There is an infinite variety of fish from freshwater lakes and rivers and from the sea available in some areas. The technology of handling seafood has improved tremendously in recent years. Commercially frozen fish has been quickly frozen at its peak and the consumer can now find a wide choice of top quality and wholesome seafood in the freezer case. When properly thawed, frozen fish is comparable to fish that was never frozen. When buying frozen fish, look for packages that still have their original shape and the wrapping intact with no ice or blood visible. Do not allow the package to defrost during transportation.

BAKED FISH

1 lb. filets or steaks, 3/4 to 1 1/2" thick, such as cod, halibut, ocean catfish or whiting, cut into serving size pieces. 2 Tbsp. cornmeal, 2 Tbsp. flour 1/4 teaspoon paprika, Salt and pepper, 1 Tbsp. oil, 1 Tbsp. grated Parmesan cheese

Pat fish dry with paper towels. Combine cornmeal, flour, paprika and dash of each salt and pepper in flat dish. Place oil in baking dish; heat in 425 degree F. oven 1 minute. Dredge fish in cornmeal mixture; shake off excess, place in baking dish and turn to coat with oil. Arrange fish pieces 1-inch apart.

Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. Bake at 425 degrees F. allowing 10 minutes per inch thickness measured at its thickest part or until fish flakes when tested with a fork. Serve with your choice of sauce. Makes about 4 servings.

MUSTARD SAUCE

2 Tbsp. Dijon mustard, 1 Tbsp. white wine vinegar, Dash white pepper, Dash sugar, 1/2 cup oil.

In food processor or blender, combine all ingredients except oil. With motor running, gradually add oil in thin stream; process until mixture is blended and slightly thickened. Serve at room temperature with steamed or baked fish. Makes about 1/2 cup.

ABOUT YOUR HOME

By April Rhodes

Brisk walking, an excellent exercise, is most enjoyable at this season when mother nature has displayed so much beauty.

Casseroles gain popularity as the weather becomes cooler. Combined leftover meats and vegetables with added seasoning become a "new" dish.

October usually brings the first signs of approaching cold weather. Watch the skies for V-shaped formations of wild geese migrating southward—a sure sign of cooler weather.

If you're taking a fall vacation in a camper, be sure all camping gear is in good shape, especially your means for heating.

getting ready to turn. Tell them not to lean in that direction, but to just look over the driver's shoulder.

He added that the driver should instruct the passenger to dress similar, or better, than the driver, including long sleeves, full length pants, boots and gloves.

Checking the motorcycle according to the road/motorcycle manual 'is a must' before any lengthy trip, explained Becker. Check the motorcycle suspension, tire pressure, and be sure to load the bike properly, keeping the load over the center of gravity.

He said most tires are improperly inflated, and this causes mechanical accidents, as the tires are usually under-inflated.

Also important, weigh the baggage, and balance it out on each side of the bike. Check tie-downs each time the motorcycle is stopped.

Very important is to be prepared mentally for a trip. "This is an active process because drivers are more exposed to hazards on the road," he said. "THINK -- all the time, and follow SIPDE -- translated as -- Scan, Identify, Predict, Decide and Execute."

With president Don McDaniel conducting, a short business

Thursday morning, Muleshoe school buses traveled 'pavement only' following up to nearly an inch of rain that fell overnight on Wednesday. The Lazbuddie school buses traveled 'pavement only' east of Highway 214, and wherever possible west of highway 214.

As Muleshoe officially recorded .61 to .65 in moisture, heavier amounts were recorded in the area.

At the Muleshoe National Wildlife Refuge headquarters, some 1.1 in rain fell Wednesday night and early Thursday morning. The approximate same amount also fell at Paul's Lake on the east side of the Refuge across Highway 214.

According to records at the Refuge, their lowest morning temperature as of Friday morning has been 37 degrees.

From the Maple Co-op Gin, an inch of rain was recorded during the same time frame, and without additional moisture, producers expect to be back in the fields by Monday.

Their lowest temperature to date this fall has been 38 degrees.

Northwest of Lazbuddie, about half an inch of rain fell Wednesday night and Thursday morning at the Harrol Redwine farm.

ized' five year statute of limitations for prosecution of all crimes, except those for which a death sentence would be given. And, state statutes have different statutes of limitations for prosecution, according to the seriousness of the crime.

Thus, the statute of limitations ran out for prosecution on the 1933 bank robbery many years ago.

Ward left a book he had written at THE JOURNAL office, and in only one place does it mention the bank robbery in Muleshoe, and that in generalized terms. He said in the book he was wanted at one time for robberies in Texas from Muleshoe to Beaumont, and all in between.

He was captured, and subsequently sentenced to seven life terms in the prison at Huntsville for seven armed robberies. He was termed 'incorrigible' and his stories of his life behind bars was interesting and different.

He said he was very bitter, and was even shunned by the other convicts during most of his years in prison. In fact, at one point, following an escape from prison, he stayed two and a half years in a cell, 5x8 feet, with the door welded shut.

Called 'the mayor of isolation,' Ward said he spent those years in isolation after his re-capture following an escape on a rainy night from the Retrieve unit.

He was still amazed as he told of the escape, with a Walter LeMay, and how they crept up on three oil drillers, and took the keys to their Kaiser. Ward said he found he did not know how to operate the Kaiser (it had push buttons) so the men who had been released were called back to the car to show them how to operate it.

The men were again released and started down the road again, and Ward, who had not driven for several years, slid off the road into a ditch and got stuck. Again, the oil drillers were called back to help push the car out of the ditch. Again they were released and started down the road, when Ward discovered rain slickers in the back seat of the car. For the third time, the men were called, back and given the slickers for their long trek, afoot, to the nearest town. This was all accomplished with the escapees armed only with a knife.

tion office for Harris County (Houston) and also became a security guard for shopping malls.

The front of his book says, "Needless to say, I have payed a terrible price for my misdeeds. I let ignorance, stupidity and lack of education deprive me of the love and happiness I have enjoyed since my release from the nation's greatest hellhole, in 1955."

Willard B. Ward was 73 on Friday, October 9. He said he was 19 years of age on the day of the robbery of the Muleshoe State Bank, which netted the robbers just over $1,500 as he remembered it. He said the money was spent 'running and playing.'

For several years following his release from prison, Ward mowed lawns, and did different types of yard work, then he met the woman who is currently his wife, and gives her a lot of credit for the 'turn-around' in his life.

On January 4 of this year, he surprised a man in the early morning hours, 3:10 a.m., scooping coins out of the fountain in West Oaks Mall at Houston, where he was a security guard.

The man slammed him into the ground, breaking three discs in his back. Ward said he had back surgery on July 31, and in fact, was still wearing a back brace at the time he was in THE JOURNAL office.

His book says on the last page, "It will be up to you, the reader of the book, to decide which direction you, the citizen must take. You will learn about the personal lives of Bonnie and Clyde Barrow, Baby Face Nelson and Pretty Boy Floyd. And most of you will learn who really set up Bonnie and Clyde. You will also learn about the chance meeting with the mystery lady known in the 40's as the "Black Dahlia."

"This will not be an easy book to read; some of the atrocities will be hard to digest, but it is all in the annals of history. I found all the details by long years of research. It is not a pretty revelation."

Thus, it would appear that one of Muleshoe's early mysteries just may be solved -- just who robbed the Muleshoe State Bank on April 13, 1933.

TOUCH OF HISTORY

Bank Robbers Uncaught After Sandstorm Chase

As the Journal goes to press this week no definite clue has yet been obtained as to the whereabouts of the two masked gunmen who robbed the Muleshoe State Bank here Thursday afternoon of last week, taking with them $1,642 in money. It was approximately 3:00 p.m. Thursday of last week, the wind was blowing a terrific gale, the atmosphere full of sand and dirt, nearly everyone off the streets inside to get away from the storm, and the doors of all business houses closed, when two masked bandits, one described as being full six feet tall and the other one of short stature entered the First State Bank. Cashier Jess Osborn was in his private office and did not notice their entry at that time. Mrs. Opal Morris, standing at the teller's window promptly discovered their masked condition and started out through the rear, when one of them called to her to halt or they would shoot, other robber stepping around the private office covered the cashier.

Mr. Osborn, Miss Morris and Mrs. Pat Bobo were all herded into the front private office and forced to lie flat on the floor, one bandit standing guard at the front door while the other made a complete search of the bank for money. Miss Morris was forced to go to the vault to locate hidden money, but succeeded in not "finding" all of it. Mrs. Bobo was forced to work the combination on the vault door which that morning had been turned on the locking studs thrown out, as a precaution, she having to release the studs after which all three were put into the vault and the door locked from the outside. As soon as they were put into the vault Mr. Osborn reached and touched off a switch on the burglar alarm which set the gong to going on the outside, and with a screw driver quickly opened the door from the inside, they not being held in the vault more than two or three minutes.

It is stated the robbers took plenty of time for the job. The small fellow on guard acted like an old hand at the business, being very calm and deliberate, the tall man was quite nervous, causing some solicitation on the part of Mr. Osborn and Miss Morris, both of whom had a .45 punched into their ribs, the hammer being drawn back only the nervous twitch of the forefinger being required to end their earthly careers. Both robbers debated for some time after completing the bank force with them or lock them in the vault; but the way being apparently clear, they decided to leave them behind.

As soon as the alarm was sounded by those inside the vault, Gilbert Wollard, mail carrier, Curtis Taylor, farmer living north of town, and Cecil McLaurý, local restaurant man, who at that time were in the post office across the street from the bank, jumped into Wollard's automobile and gave chase to the robbers. Having no guns with them they dared not come in intimate contact with them. They later secured a rifle loaded with only two shells and started after them the second time, keeping well behind them until they were south of Plainview when, in the gathering sand storm, they lost them.

The bandits are said to have been driving a 1930 Chevrolet coupe, having yellow wire wheels, and that the license numbers on the car had been turned backwards. O.K. Angeley, former Muleshoe citizen, now proprietor of a filling station at Plainview, was here Sunday and stated that late in the evening of the robbery a car containing two men drove up to his station for oil and gas. They looked and acted so suspicious that one of the men at the station took down the license number of the car, which license was issued in Wichita county, this state. At that time they did not know of the robbery, but the next morning learned of it, and reading descriptions. Mr. Angeley declared they checked exactly with the car and people they served. He said the car was driven on east out of Plainview toward Floydada.

Since the robbery both Texas and New Mexico officers have been scouring the eastern territory of New Mexico in search of the bandits, it being their suspicion they may have doubled back late the evening of the robbery and are now in hiding somewhere in the broken county across the western part of Texas in Roosevelt county, N.M.

Superintendent To Participate

In MELP Program

Superintendent H. John Fuller has been selected to participate in the Meadows Executive Leadership Program (MELP), which is being implemented by the Texas Association of School Administrators. The MELP program has been established to train executive level administrators with the overall goal to provide the kind of leadership for Texas schools that will be required as we approach the 21st century. The thirty superintendents who were selected to participate were first nominated by educational leaders in the state. Those nominated were then invited to apply and a selection process was utilized to identify thirty exemplary superintendents who represent a cross section of Texas superintendents with regard to school district size and geographic location.

The Meadows Executive Leadership Program was recently established to train executive level administrators, with the overall goal to provide the kind of leadership that will be required in the 21st century. As Texas moves to diversify its economic base, there has been a growing awareness among its citizenry that the key to its future prosperity lies in its educational program. Effective educational leadership must be the cornerstone of that excellence, working in partnership with business and industry.

Recognizing the urgency of this need, the Meadows Foundation in Dallas has recently provided funding to the American Association of School Administrators (AASA) to establish a cooperative assessment and development program site in Texas. This project will involve major Texas Universities, the Texas Association of School Administrators (TASA), and the Texas Education Agency. The Department of Educational Administration at the University of Texas will serve as the fiscal agent for the project, under contract by AASA.

All of the training will be provided through the foundation. Much of the training will be scheduled on Saturdays and Sundays with a minimum number of school days being utilized.

MISD Board Asks Study On Amendment

NOVEMBER 3 -- Proposition No. 1

Texas voters will decide on November 3 whether or not State Board members will continue to be appointed by the governor or will be elected.

House Bill 72, the education reform law of 1984, established the current appointed board as a transitional body and mandated the return to the traditional elected board in 1988, with elected members taking office in January of 1989.

The proposition, one of two referenda and twenty-five constitutional amendments on the November 3 ballot, states: "The State Board of Education shall be composed of members who are appointed from districts instead of elected, with equal representation from throughout the State of Texas."

The local trustees at their last meeting discussed the "pros" and "cons" of an appointed vs. an elected State Board. There was consensus agreement on the need to be informed about Proposition No. 1 and on the need to have an informed and politically active electorate. If a person is opposed to the State Board being appointed and believes that an elected STATE Board of Education would better serve the needs of education, that person should vote "NO" on the ballot. However, if an individual wants an appointed State Board of Education, that individual should vote "Yes" on the proposal.

The best friends are those who seek nothing.

Wind Break Trees, Drip Irrigation Available Here

The Blackwater Valley SWCD is again providing reasonably priced wind break tree seedlings for wind erosion control, stated Warren Givens, Soil Conservation Service Technician. The SWCD also has drip irrigation systems for your wind break trees to insure a good survival rate and faster growth rate. The drip systems will be designed for your wind break by SCS technicians and priced 20% below retail. Drip systems are the most efficient way to water trees. The seedlings most adaptable to Bailey County with rapid growth rates are: red cedar, arizon pine, Arizona cypress, honey locust and green ash.

Wind break tree seedlings need protection from rodents and strong winds the first year, according to Givens. Wooden shingles on three sides for wind protection and net wire for rodent protection usually solve these problems.

Seedling trees during the first three years of growth need supplemental watering, so a drip system is a good investment for tree survival.

Contact Warren Givens, SCS technicians for more information at 105 E. Avenue D, Muleshoe.

a little BIG NOW

We all get a thrill out of seeing our children put on our hats or shoes. Obviously they don't fit now, but some day he, or she will grow to fit them. At the same time imagine that they are trying on our lives. Would they fit? ... or do you live the type of life that you would want them to grow to. Live a life of worship of the Lord.

"Thou wilt shew me the path of life: in thy presence is fulness of joy: at thy right hand there are pleasures for evermore."

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Sandhills Philosopher

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Sandy Acres thinks he has solved the drop-out problem among Presidential candidates.

Dear editor:
It looks like something needs to be done about the drop-out rate among Presidential candidates.

A candidate can get his organization going, con contributors into donating vast sums to his enormous campaign fund, get on television, and secretly begin thinking about his inaugural address, months and months ahead of even the nominating convention, then something turns up and he has to withdraw.

You'd think candidates would know they're going to be scrutinized from head to foot from the time they're born on to now. If they cheated in college, how about high school? How about kindergarten?

Clearly, the fault lies in the length of campaigns. Reporters are given too much time to check up on you.

If you want to reduce the drop-out rate among Presidential candidates, they way to do it is to follow the British system. Over there, I understand, a political campaign lasts just a few weeks, and a candidate can get into office before there's time to find out anything about him. This allows scandals to happen after you're elected, not before.

But here, a campaign drags on so long that reporters have time to go over a candidate's past with a fine-tooth comb.

Consequently it's hard to find a candidate who, after being investigated for months, can come out clean as a hound's tooth and pure as the driven snow.

And even if one is found, you know what would happen? Some reporter would come up with a hound dog whose teeth aren't clean. And some other reporter would uncover some driven snow that isn't pure.

Herbs

Herbs are known for their flavorful, aromatic and medicinal qualities. A less-familiar quality of many herbs is that bugs don't always like them. Of course, that's good news for herb gardeners. But it's also good news for those ready to experiment with natural pest-control methods on vegetables and ornamentals.

What appeals to people about herbs is exactly what can make them unappetizing to many insects: their strong scent. All plants' scents attract or repel insects to some degree. Herbs go one step further: They share their protective aromas with the plants growing right next to them.

The powerful scents of most herbs don't actually repel insects from attacking neighboring plants. More accurately, scientists believe, they mask or absorb the other plant's insect-attracting scent. This can confuse would-be predators and make them move on to a less-protected stand.

The trick to taking practical advantage of this phenomenon is to choose the right herb for the plant you want to protect. For instance, borage has a reputation for discouraging only one pest, but that pest is the voracious tomato hornworm. Basil can also help protect tomato plants, so many gardeners surround their tomato patch with a decorative border of this fragrant herb to discourage insect pests. Planted in pots or hanging baskets just outside doorways, basil can also help keep flies away.

Here are some other herb-pest combinations: sage and rosemary to deter imported cabbageworms and carrot flies, horseradish to protect potatoes from Colorado potato beetles, and tansy to repel Japanese beetles, spotted cucumber beetles and squash bugs.
