DONLEY COUNTY YOUTHS PLAN LARGE SWINE EXHIBITS FOR SPRING SHOWS

Donley County youths will exhibit swine in every division of the spring fat stock shows this year for the first time, according to J. R. Gillham, local F.F.A. Adviser. This was made possible by the addition of chester white and berkshire barrows to the breeds already established. Over forty boys are now feeding approximately 200 head of barrows for the spring shows. They expect to exhibit the barrows at the Donley County, Amarillo, and Fort Worth Fat Stock Shows.

Entries in spotted Poland Chinas, black Poland Chinas, Duroc Jerseys, Hampshires, Berkshires, and Chester whites will vary from six berkshires to approximately 100 head of hamshires. Gillham stated that the 4-H and F.F.A. youths had their pigs in top shape and that he expected the boys to have the highest quality animals ever exhibited by them for the spring shows. The local youths exhibited five breed champions and the grand champion barrow in the club show of the 1941 State Fair of Texas.

J. F. and Gene White, C. G. Kirkland, Ralph Davis, Bobbie Harold and Joe Smith, H. A. and Gene Harrison, Jack Ballew, Billy and Charles Smith, Jr. and Gene Bulman, J. B. SHERIFF ISSUES WARNING

Sheriff Guy Wright in discussing the tire situation said: "Please tell the folks that their cars should be locked up each night. If they have no garage, to place the car in a lighted place. Lock up all tires. Used tires will be stolen more than new ones because the new ones can be traced easily." The Sheriff stated that federal agencies had issued warnings against tire thefts. As tires become scarcer, there is bound to be some stealing done, the Sheriff stated.

Boy Scouts To Aid Defense

In line with repeated requests from the various agencies of the government, the Boy Scouts of Clarendon have made plans to cooperate in the campaign for saving all waste paper and rags.

Suitable place will be found for the storing of this material until sufficient quantities have been accumulated to justify the sending of a truck from Amarillo. The boys will attend to the gathering and bundling duties, and will call for the paper at regular intervals.

This program will provide a means for the boys to do a valuable service as a part of the Defense Program, and at the same time help to build up the funds in their Troop treasury. Their instructions call for the handling of this material through the regular sale of each load to an established buyer.

Every business house and every home has a certain amount of waste paper, old magazines, cardboard cartons, and old rags. If you have not already made other plans for disposing of these items, your cooperation with the Scouts will be appreciated.

Everybody who wishes to help the boys and the country in this effort is urged to get in touch with them a tonce. Until all the plans can be worked out and storage facilities provided, call Clyde J. Douglas or Chas. M. Lowry.

Announcement will be made next week as to the place for the storeroom, so that those who will may leave their bundles there.

Worley Keeps Faith With His People

Washington, D. C.—Carrying out a promise made during his campaign last year, Congressman Eugene Worley, 18th District of Texas, December 22, enlisted and was sworn in as a voluntary member of the United States Naval Reserve Corps and was ordered immediately into active duty.

The day Worley voted to declare war on Germany and Italy, he sent identical letters to President Roosevelt, as Commander-in-Chief, to Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of War, and to Frank Knox, Secretary of the Navy, in which he said: "I respectfully urge you to accept my services in any capacity at any time and in any place in our military or naval forces."

The past two weeks have seen Worley turned down by the Army, where he attempted to enlist as a buck private, and also rejection by the Air Corps. In making application to the Navy, Worley stated his preference for active service and, in accordance with naval regulations, was commissioned a Lieutenant Commander in the Volunteer Branch of the Naval Reserve.

Worley's predecessor in Congress, Judge Marvin Jones, now sitting on the United States Court of Claims, volunteered his services when he voted to declare war against Germany in 1917, and was elected to a second term while still serving in the armed forces. Senator Tom Connally of Texas, then a member of the House of Representatives, likewise served in the last war. Several of Worley's colleagues in the present Congress have also entered the military services.

Worley said his office would be kept open and that he would remain in as close touch as possible during his service. After a brief period of intensive training in Washington it is anticipated he will be ordered to the West Coast for active duty.

NAVAL OFFICER

CONG. EUGENE WORLEY

Paul Greene In Air Battles

The first air battle between the American and British fliers on the one side, and Japs on the other over Rangoon, Burma took place on December 23, according to a report of Leland Stowe, Foreign Service reporter for the Chicago Daily News and printed in the Oklahoma Times under date of December 26, 1941. Paul is a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Greene of Clarendon.

The report continues: "The luckiest escape was had by a tall, hardjawed lad from Clarendon, Texas, who parachuted after his plane had burst into flames. He was shot at by two Japanese fighters while drifting to the earth, but landed with only bruises."

The Texan told us his story. "We met a fighter squadron. I got two of them. It isn't confirmed yet but I was firing pointblank at them with all my guns going. I saw two ships go down. As far as I could see, I was by myself in that tangle. There were six of those little yellow b—s that I was playing with. They're pretty poor shots, some of them. But others were pretty good. One of them must have hit my controls because the ship went into a spin. I couldn't get it out and had to leave."

Third of 'Chute Shot Off

"To top it off, all Japs like to strafe you when you're in a parachute. One Jap fighter made a few passes at me as I was coming down. I couldn't do anything but scream and cuss. Then a second Jap came tearing around me. He circled half a dozen times and kept pumping at my 'chute. He shot about a third of it away and the top looked like a watering can. The 'chute gave me a beating. I opened it too soon. It jerked me like the devil but that's all I got."

CHRISTMAS DINNER AT ELKINS HOME

There was gobs of Yule cheer in the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Elkins when they served a Christmas dinner on Christmas day to a number of their friends. The affair was 'done up' in that typical western ranch way of hospitality known only to pioneers, with plenty of turkeys and the trimmings.

To share in this happy event came Mr. and Mrs. Lu McClellan, Mr. and Mrs. John McClellan and Vanetta, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Elkins and Mary, Verda Ruth and Billy Wayne, all of Pampa. Mr. and Mrs. Garvin Elkins and Dukiene of Lubbock. Mr. and Mrs. Burdette Kiem and Paul Wayne of Pampa.

Estlack Next Postmaster

Due to war time conditions, reports on examinations taken in May by eleven applicants for the position of postmaster of the Clarendon postoffice was not made until Tuesday.

The papers returned to applicants showed that Walker Lane, J. C. Estlack and G. G. Reeves made the highest grades in the order named.

Cong. Gene Worley called Estlack Saturday by telephone and informed him of his appointment. This fact was further verified in a telephonic conversation between Walker Lane and Cong. Worley Tuesday night.

Estlack has been a resident of Clarendon for twenty-three years, and has been a warm supporter of Gene Worley all through the years in his many campaigns for the Legislature, and was the only publisher in the district to support Mr. Worley in his congressional campaign last year from start to finish. "If and when I become postmaster, with the help of other employees of the office, it shall be my ambition to give the patrons the best service they ever have had," Estlack stated.

CHRISTMAS DINNER AT BROMLEY RANCH

Three sisters, each of whom have resided in this county over half a century, took their Christmas dinner at the Bromley ranch. One of the sisters, Mrs. E. H. Watt of Giles, whose only grandson, Fred Watt Jr. is in service, had but a few hours at home. The grandmother spent that short time with him, foregoing the pleasure of the gathering at the Bromley ranch.

The three sisters present were Mrs. W. L. Rains of Hedley, Mrs. W. D. Shelton, Ashtola, and Mrs. E. W. Bromley where the gathering was held. Mr. Rains and Mr. Shelton were present.

Others there were Tom Bromley and wife of San Antonio, Emma and Morton Burnett of Ardmore, Bill Bromley and wife and children, Bill Milt and Mary Ann, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Bridges and Mary and Billie from Hedley, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Shelton and children, and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Robertson and children of Amarillo.

The Christmas dinner was prepared by Nancy, the colored cook, and rated one hundred percent perfect.

Wholesale tire prices, now stabilized under informal agreements with manufacturers, may be fixed under another ceiling if circumstances require.

SIDE GLANCES ON TEXAS HISTORY

By Charles O. Hucker

General Cos Loses A Treasure

The actual storming of San Antonio early in December, 1835, one of the great military successes of the Texas Revolution, was undertaken by the Texans as a last resort. It was to be a difficult business, they knew, but they had played out their hand to the end in vain, and there was nothing else to be done.

In the beginning there had been hope of a better solution. Stephen F. Austin, then commander of the Texas forces, first suggested a peaceful settlement to General Cos, who commanded the besieged town, and received only insults in return. Then he settled down to starve Cos into submission, but succeeded only well enough to force him to send out a company for prairie grass that his horses might stay alive.

Yet another hope, as the story goes in the Texas Collection of the University of Texas Library, was that Cos's men might rebel. The Texans had learned that General Ugartachea was on his way to San Antonio with a shipment of silver, the Mexican payroll; and if only they could intercept that shipment, Cos might well find himself unable to control his men.

Mule Train in Sight

Probably with such a hope in the back of his mind, Austin kept scouts constantly on the lookout around San Antonio; and hope glowed bright early in the afternoon of November 26th when suddenly famous old Deaf Smith galloped into camp with news that a guard of 100 Mexican soldiers was approaching the town escorting 70 heavily-laden pack-mules.

"Ugartachea!" The cry swept through the Texan camp. The caravan was still about three miles from the town, with a convoy of only 100 men. The silver—and with it San Antonio, as they thought—was in their grasp. Col. James Bowie with an equal number mounted behind him quickly dashed out to the fight, and practically the entire Texan force followed him soon in a wavy.

A mile from the town and in sight of it, Bowie came upon the caravan and charged. The Mexicans were surprised and quickly alarmed and, seeing no chance of beating the Texans to the town with their pack-mules, retreated into a ravine for the fight.

All Loss And No Gain.

Cos's defending force inside the gates, meanwhile, had observed the sudden activity in Austin's camp and soon put in their appearance en masse to save the precious caravan. Bowie, forced thus to turn his attention from the ravine, fought them off for a time; then his reinforcements came up from behind, relieved him of his burden on his flank, and settled down for a bitter battle over the treasure.

But the caravan had been creeping steadily toward San Antonio all this time, moving unobstructed down the ravine. And now Cos's men began to fall back, always maneuvering the Texans out of position to reach it. At last, however, a final and determined charge by Bowie's men scattered this protection and swept upon the mule train, in one stroke changing the running battle into a riot.

In broken order the Mexicans fled into the town, leaving some fifty dead and their precious pack-mules on the field. The Texans, saddened only by the loss of one man, naturally descended upon the mules in a mass, eagerly and gleefully ripping open the packs. And they found Cos's treasure—not silver, but the grass he needed for his starving horses.

THE TEMPLE OF TRUTH
By the Apostle

SERIOUS STUFF.
Most of us take ourselves too seriously. The world's problems seem to multiply the most rapidly in those periods when every person you meet is advancing a solution for the world's problems. I wonder what would happen if we'd all relax - - - and hush.

JAPS DID IT.
Japan claimed to have jumped upon China through a fear of communism. Now they have jumped on Uncle Sam, destroyed churches and every sacred cause in the Philippines because of their fear of christianity. Judging from its products, that Shinto sun worshipping bunch have a hell of a religion themselves. Yep, they have a few churches on the Pacific coast, too.

DUKE'S MIXTURE.
Marching along to war linked up with communism to combat the pagan nations of Germany and Japan is a new date we did not expect twelve months ago. That giggle you hear is the chuckle of the war god laughing at what fool animals can be made of human beings.

APPRECIATION.
Every time they had an earthquake in Japan, our nation rushed in supplies of all kinds as well as money. We sent them missionaries and built them churches. We actually went so far as to supply them with war supplies so that they could become strong enough to believe they could wipe us off the map. Still they are not satisfied.

ECONOMY.
The America First Committee could now rent a phone booth and hold a convention.

MISFORTUNE.
Ima Fizzle says she never does anything nice for people but that she has some misfortune fall her lot. I've known other people like that. For instance, the lady who gave away her baby carriage back in the 'good old days' up at Panhandle.

QUERY.
Why is it that a young lady must not chew gum in public, but can smoke cigarettes until the air is so thick the men folks become dizzy?

STUCK UP.
In the 'good old days,' a town that had a brick depot was a city.

WEAKLY POME.
Men may seek applause,
Or violate some laws;
This much is sure,
And will endure:
They don't shoot Santa Claus.

Well, that's all for this week except the New Year resolutions. About all the Apostle expects to do this year is, not to push ahead, but to just try to keep it from rolling back on him.

Eighth Naval District

NEW ORLEANS—Launching a drive to procure 2,500 aviation pilots each month for combat fliers in the aviation wing of the U. S. Navy, the Navy Department today extended enlistments in the Naval Reserve Aviation class to include sophomores in college and announced that all men enlisting as volunteers in Class V-5 will be eligible for active duty at the end of their current school year.

The enrollment of sophomores in college as potential candidates for commissions in the Naval Reserve Aviation is the result of an effort by the Navy Department to build up the pool of able-bodied young men to take the place of the thousands of young Naval pilots now passing through Naval Air Training Stations for duty with the fleet.

Candidates for appointment as Aviation Cadets must:

- Be a male citizen of the United States for a period of at least ten years.
- Be not less than twenty years of age, and have not reached his twenty-seventh birthday at the time of enlistment as seaman, second class.
- Agree to remain on active duty four years, including period undergoing training as aviation cadet, unless sooner released by the Navy Department.
- Be unmarried, must not previously have been married, and must agree to remain unmarried until the expiration of two years from the date of entering upon active duty.
- Be educationally, morally, physically and psychologically qualified.

College juniors and seniors, after enlistment in Class V-5, may be deferred from call to active duty until completion of their current college year, if they request. Thereafter they will be assigned to active training duty in the earliest class in which they can be accommodated.

10 RULES TO MAKE TIRES LAST

- inaugurating a nation-wide rubber conservation campaign, the Office of Production Management today called upon the country's 27 million car owners to observe 10 rules to make tires last longer.
- Have worn tires retreaded instead of buying new ones.—Cost of retreading tires is usually about half that of a new tire, and will give you about 80 percent as much wear.
 - Cut out high speeds.—Your tires will last twice as long at 40 miles per hour as at 60 miles per hour.
 - Inflate tires weekly to recommended levels.—Never let pressure fall more than 3 pounds below recommended minimums.
 - Don't stop short or make jackrabbit starts.—Every time you ignore this rule you burn up the tread.
 - Avoid striking curbs, road holes, rocks, etc.—This can result in broken cords or blowouts. Drive slowly and carefully over paved roads.
 - Check wheel alignment twice a year.—Misalignment causes scuffing and uneven wear. A tire a half inch out of line will be dragged sidewise 87 feet every mile.
 - Repair all cuts, leaks, breaks, promptly.—Delay may cause damage that can't be repaired. Breaks and cuts should be vulcanized whenever possible; blow-out patches should only be temporary.
 - Change wheel positions every 5,000 miles.
 - Always get the tire made to fit the rim of your car.
 - Don't speed around curves.
- Foods which are valuable as sources of iron are whole wheat flour, rye, flour, brown rice, oatmeal, eggs, lean meat, liver, kale, spinach and other greens, beans and peas, dried fruits, molasses.
- Only four out of every 100 low-income farm people are in first-rate physical condition, the USDA Farm Security Administration has announced after a check covering 2,480 FSA clients and their families. A total of 11,947 men, women and children in 17 states were examined.

RETAIL CONSUMERS IN GENERAL DON'T NEED PREFERENCE RATINGS

In the confusion incident to attacks upon the United States by the Axis Powers, many distributors of consumers' goods have told their customers that they cannot sell to them unless their orders are accompanied by preference rating certificates. This seems to have been most prevalent among dealers who handle metal products, particularly in the farm machinery and hand-tools fields.

The Priorities Division pointed out that retail consumers cannot and must not be expected to produce preference rating certificates, when placing normal orders for finished goods.

In the case of important civilian items, as for example, farm machinery and spare parts for privately owned automobiles and trucks, the Priorities Division has given assistance to manufacturers so that they may continue their production. The goods manufactured as a result of this assistance are then made available through the normal trade channels.

The marriage rites were read by Rev. R. B. Jackson, pastor of the First Baptist church as the couple and attendants stood before an improvised altar banked with huge ferns and flanked on either side with tall baskets of gladiola and baby breath.

Before the services, Mrs. Mike Stricklin sang "Because" and Miss Ruth Palmer at the piano played the traditional wedding march and recessional. Soft music was played by Miss Palmer as the vows were spoken.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a simple street length dress of navy blue. FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH

M. E. Hutson, pastor.

JUST SUPPOSE

the law should close the churches of this country—deny the right of free worship. Don't you think the average person would fight to the last ditch?

Well, we may be doing by INDIFFERENCE the same thing that is being done in some countries by law. The INTENTIONS are not the same—but the RESULTS are. We have weakened the power of the church.

Two men, who were playing Golf on Sunday morning while the church services were in progress, were talking about the AWFUL CONDITION in Russia because the churches were closed. YET, by their action and INDIFFERENCE, they were driving the churches of their community to the same thing.

If this community is to have the influence of the church there must be those who will give it the time, thought, and effort that is necessary to make it a success. We know you want to do your part.

IMPROVING HOME

Miss Elizabeth Stevens is having a modern roof put on her home on East Second street. The house was built for Joe Pratt, a Denver fireman, in 1889. Paint has preserved the building wonderfully. Miss Stevens plans other improvements to the interior.

Naval officers are no longer required to own swords because there are more urgent needs for the metals.

There formerly was a Naval rating of Pigeon Quartermaster for the men in charge of the Navy homing pigeons.

Navy free balloons rarely carry radio; pigeons are the means of communication with the base.

If a Navy balloon lands in wild country, the pigeons it carries are the only method of obtaining help.

Homing pigeons are valuable to the Navy during radio silence or bad static when the radio is useless.

Stockpiles of Food for Peace

Here is what the U. S. Department of Agriculture means when it urges farmers to help produce "stockpiles of food for use after the war." The upper picture shows barrels of dried milk, just as good a year from now as today. The lower picture shows a warehouse filled with huge drums of cheese, even better with aging. These farm products, plus condensed milk, dried milk, cured pork, and canned meat and vegetables, constitute the stockpiles of defense food which, says Secretary Claude R. Wickard, will be needed by hungry Europe and "will exert the maximum influence at the peace conference table."

SIDE GLANCES ON TEXAS HISTORY By Charles O. Becker University of Texas Library

A reader of this newspaper can get the answer to any question of the fact about Texas by writing A. Garland Adair, Curator of Patriotic Exhibits, Texas Memorial Museum, Austin, Texas.

OPINION: "I sincerely believe that every school child in Texas should be given an opportunity to see "Calvacade of Texas." It has entertainment value, but it is primarily educational. The commentary recites the history and tradition of our State, and emphasizes the opportunities offered by the Texas of today. I know of no other medium through which the student could get the composite picture of Texas which is presented in this film." Karl Hoblitzelle, Chairman of Executive Committee, Texas Centennial of Statehood Commission. To secure the picture for your community write to the State Superintendent or to the Centennial Commission.

Nelson Eddy And Rise Stevens, Brilliant New Singing Team

Music lovers, regardless of their tastes, have a treat in store for them at the Pastime Theatre, where "The Chocolate Soldier," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's new musical comedy, starring Nelson Eddy and Rise Stevens, opens Saturday night Prevue, also Sunday and Monday.

A brilliant production, musically and dramatically, it serves as an excellent vehicle with which to introduce Miss Stevens, Hollywood's newest singing star, who comes to the screen from the Metropolitan opera.

M-G-M has drawn from the popular Oscar Straus numbers, from opera and from classics, embellished with new and modern arrangements, to round out a musical repertoire for Eddy and Miss Stevens that is all-embracing.

The story revolves about a married couple who are the musical comedy toasts of Vienna. The success they enjoy on the stage is, unfortunately, not repeated in their marital life for Miss Stevens, cast as Maria, is a flirtatious wench, and Eddy, as Karl, is a husband consumed by jealousy. It is not until Karl hits upon the resource of masquerading as his own rival that he is able to test his wife's faithfulness, a test which is obviously fraught with hilarious complications.

A well-rounded cast is seen in support of the stars, with prominent roles played by Nigel Bruce, Florence Bates, remembered for her mother-in-law portrayal in "Love Crazy," Dorothy Gilmore, Nydia Westman, Max Barwyn and Charles Judels.

Roy Del Ruth did an expert job of direction, and the picture was given elaborate staging and production by Producer Victor Saville.

Chiropractic

Eliminating Sinus Trouble With Chiropractic

The sinuses consist of a number of honey-combed bones situated in the head and face region. Directly over the head we have the frontal sinuses which communicate with the nose. Behind the nose and either side of it we have the ethmoidal and sphenoidal sinuses. And in each cheekbone we have what is called the antrum. All of these communicate with the nasal passages. Apparently Nature designed these sinuses as a means of warming the air which is taken in through the nose before it is introduced into the lungs. They afford a greater space for the air to pass over. Examine the radiator of an automobile, and you will see that it consists of a number of very finely honeycombed cells. This is a cooling device, allowing a greater amount of surface for the heat generated by the engine. In the sinuses the action is warming and moistening the air before it is taken into the lungs.

Now every one of these sinuses is lined with the same mucous membrane which lines the nose and other air passages. When an inflammation of this mucous membrane develops it is known as catarrh which means that there is an excessive outflow of mucus. Sinus congestion begins when the sinuses are unable to drain off the excess mucus. The inflammation and pressure which result from this congestion produces chronic headaches and neuralgic pains throughout the face and head.

Sinus operations are now very fashionable. But they are dangerous, costly and unnecessary. Likewise the use of nose drops to alleviate the condition is harmful. They do not get to the root of the trouble.

Chiropractic effectively reaches the root of this disorder by changing the condition of the mucous membrane by removing the cause of its congestion. Spinal adjustments remove disturbances to nerve fibers supplying the blood vessels and membranes of the sinuses and bring about quick relief and permanent cure.

DO YOU KNOW TEXAS?

A reader of this newspaper can get the answer to any question of fact about Texas by writing A. Garland Adair, Curator of Patriotic Exhibits, Texas Memorial Museum, Austin, Texas.

TIMELY: "Do men gather grapes of thorns, or figs of thistles? Destroy the tree of fundamental Americanism or supplant it by the ugly shrub of Nazism, and you must expect a different and inferior kind of fruit. Observations on this November 11th, the 23rd Annual Armistice Day should remind all of us that eternal vigilance is essential in the protection of the sturdy Americanism tree and I fervently hope that all Texans will join with the American Legion and all other patriotic bodies of men and women in this state in sounding a high note of patriotism in appropriately celebrating Armistice Day as a Day of Rededication to the fundamental principles of Democracy for God and Country."—Coke R. Stevenson, Governor.

Q. Who is now the Texas Lieutenant Governor?

A. Since Lieutenant Governor Coke R. Stevenson became Governor following the summer senatorial election the state officially does not have a Lieutenant Governor. Senator H. L. Winfield of Fort Stockton, elected by the senate as President protem of that chamber, serves as Governor, in the absence of the Governor.

MEMORABLE PASSAGE: It's about time to say "Automobile Sense" instead of "Horse Sense," because horses will soon be extinct; and in fact, automobiles display much "sense" by taking alcoholic beverage only once or twice a year.—Joachim Besen.

Q. Are wages paid an employee in Texas subject to Garnishment for a debt owed in Texas or owed in another state against a citizen of Texas?

A. No, Texas protects her labor from Garnishment of Hourly, Daily, Weekly, monthly or yearly wages. Contract wages are subject to garnishment. Some states in our early history imprisoned a person for debt as did the mother country, England. But a person in prison had no chance to pay the debt. A debtor whose wages are protected by Texas laws should appreciate this favor of the law and try harder to meet all his just obligations. Dead beats have at times almost caused the repeal of this law by the legislature. Good credit rating is almost as good for one as good health.

Q. When is election year in Texas?

A. During the even years elections generally are held. 1942 is the next election year in Texas from the Governor down.

POLITICAL RUMOR: The Me-nard News observes that many Texans are now holding their hats in their hands ready to hurl them into the political arena this coming year. It also, observes that according to rumors Raymond J. Gant of Austin will enter the race for state-comptroller. "Doc," as he is familiarly known to his friends throughout Texas, is a registered pharmacist who has practiced his profession during the last twenty years in Sherman, Ozona, San Angelo, McCamey, Uvalde, Sanderson, and now in Austin.

And smile your long life

where'd you GET your gun?"

From the supply sergeant, of course. He got it from the Ordnance Department—and they got it from a factory. It's the finest Army rifle in the world.

But before one factory wheel could turn—for the first model or the finished job—there had to be power—and most of it is electric. Electric power helped put your Garand in your hands, Johnny.

It takes a tremendous lot of power to make all the guns, tanks, planes and ships we need—but America has a lot. Power reserves, built up in advance by the business men who manage America's electric companies, have been able to meet almost every defense demand overnight.

Requirements keep increasing, of course—and the electric companies are working day and night to keep ahead of the nation's needs. In 1941, they built and installed almost 2,000,000 more horsepower in Democracy's busy arsenal!

You have the hardest part of the job, Johnny, but we're glad we can help by doing our share. We're glad to pledge our co-operation with you, the government, and other industries—to make America so strong it can remain forever free and unafraid.

Six Plants Are Making Tanks

American tanks have gone into battle on the wastelands of North Africa.

As they roar across the sand under the operation of British forces, these tanks give substantial evidence of the increasing flow of armored vehicles from the Arsenal of Democracy.

Already seven American plants are participating in a tank program for which contracts worth $300,000,000 have been awarded. By the start of the New Year production of tanks will be going at 30 percent of its peak, and by the end of 1942 tanks will reach a rate of 2,800 a month.

Light model "on schedule"
Production lines of the American Car and Foundry Co. at Berwick, Pa., and St. Charles, Mo., are turning out "on schedule" the fast-moving, hard-hitting light tanks that are brothers-under-the-armor of the ones defending the democratic front in Libya.

In five other American plants and one in Canada, the larger, twice as heavy, medium tank M-3, which military observers have said surpass any other in mobility and mechanical reliability, is being produced in ever-increasing numbers, doubling monthly figures set early in the fall. By spring the production of medium tanks will be on a considerably larger basis.

Meanwhile a later model is to go into production. The new medium tank will have, among other improvements, a cast steel hull that will replace the majority of riveted plates being used in the production of the medium M-3. Welding will further eliminate the use of rivets.

18 months' progress
Although production of this latest model is expected to begin shortly, its introduction will in no way affect the scheduled flow of medium M-3's.

From spring, 1940, when the first light tank rolled from the production line at the American Car and Foundry Co.'s Berwick plant, to the 1941 Battle of Libya, was only 18 months. But it was long enough for American arsenals to build tanks enough to fill preliminary requirements of the United States Army's five armored divisions and tank battalions and have a considerable number left over for shipment to the British forces.

The story of American tank production is one of long-range planning, by the Army's Ordnance Department, and of speedy, efficient operation by the automotive and locomotive industries.

It was not until the fall of 1940 that large appropriations from Congress became available to put the tank program into operation. Immediately there began a series of transformations from confield to tank arsenal; from idle factory to humming production line.

It was to the locomotive industry that the Army first turned for production because many problems of tank construction were more closely associated with it. So it was that with the light tank being produced by the American Car & Foundry Co., four other locomotive plants began turning out medium tanks. These were the Baldwin Locomotive Works at Chester, Pa., the American Locomotive Co., at Schenectady, N. Y., the Pullman Standard Co. at Hammond, Ind., and the Pressed Steel Co. at Chicago. A sixth plant—that of the Lima Locomotive Co. at Lima, Ohio—soon will start its production of medium tanks. In Canada the same medium tank is being produced by the Montreal subsidiary of the American Locomotive Co.

Auto industry is producing tanks
The automotive industry entered tank production last summer upon the completion of the Detroit Tank Arsenal. This huge plant, operated by Chrysler Corporation, is turning out a larger number of tanks than any other single industrial unit. Even this capacity will be enlarged greatly when existing facilities are expanded. Also scheduled for construction are tank arsenals to be operated by Ford and General Motors.

Lessons learned from the battlefields of Europe and Africa are being translated into better armament, more protection, and other improvements for American tanks that already outstrip similar sized tanks used by other nations. The pressing need for quantities of tanks of Russia and Britain has resulted in higher priorities for the steel and equipment that goes into the manufacture of these vehicles.

The light tanks of the kind now in action in Libya weigh 13½ tons.
