Local Ball Nine Loses Again

By Doc Watson
Staying "in form" Clarendon last Sunday lost to a fair team from the Childress A.A.F. Until the 6th inning the game had all the aspects of being close right down to the wire, but in the 6th the airmen teed off for seven runs against "Lefty" Edmondson, imported from Memphis for the occasion, before Bill Menaur came in to stem the tide, and thereafter gave them only two hits.

Childress used three pitchers, three innings each and Clarendon made three of their four runs against the starting pitcher. A rally in the ninth fell far short and the final score stood at 10-4.

A fair sized crowd witnessed the game. Credit must go to Bob Hill for doing a swell job of scraping the entire field Saturday.

This coming Sunday, Clarendon journeys to Pampa to play a return engagement with the Pampa A.A.F., barring unforeseen events.

A recent contributor to the ball club fund is the Foxworth-Galbraith Lumber Co.

The treasurer reports that the club exchequer is over again in the "black ink" and that the baseball equipment fund is closing its books. All that remains to be purchased is a pair of shin guards and a home plate. The backstop needs enlarging and repairing. Money for same is in the treasury - now, to locate the remaining paraphernalia.

H. preceded him in death in March, 1944.

Also surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Fannie Smithers, Peniel, Texas, Mrs. Rose Fore, Odessa. Two brothers, Will Sargent, Phillips, and George Sargent of Greeley, Colo., and a host of grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

FORMER CLARENDON YOUTH DOING GOOD JOB IN WAR THEATER

HEADQUARTERS, EUROPEAN THEATER OF OPERATIONS: The commanding officer of the signal company of this division knows that Private First Class Warren E. Noyes, of Everett Massachusetts, and Corporal Jack B. Yates, of Plainview, Texas, are messengers who can be depended upon to get the message through. Assigned to a difficult and dangerous job during a recent battle in Normandy, Yates and Noyes not only accomplished their mission, but distinguished themselves in doing so.

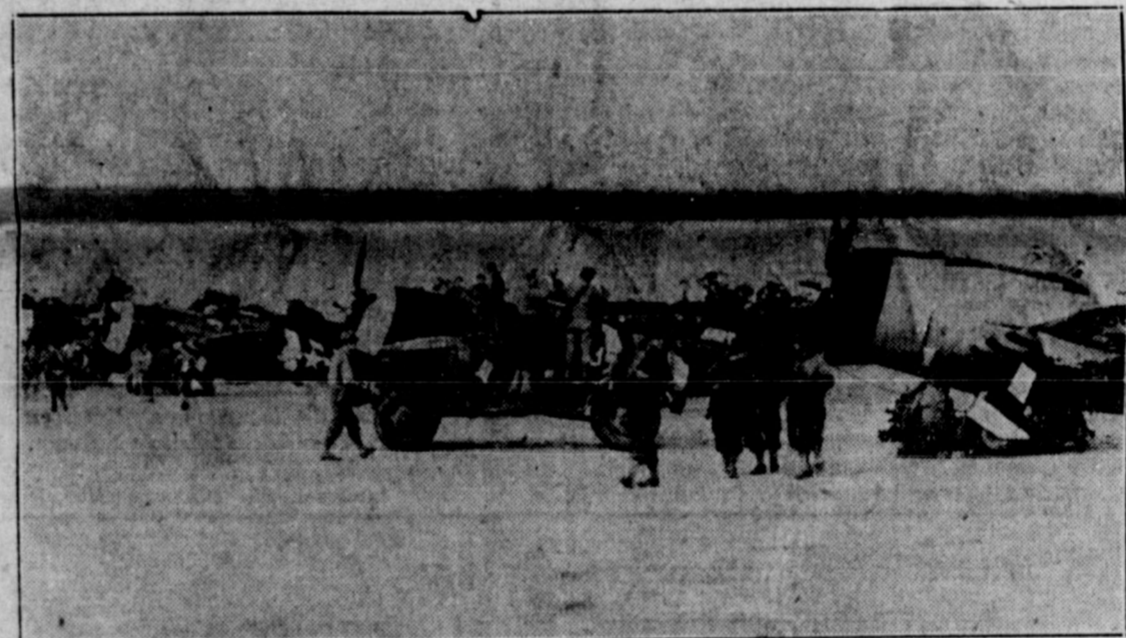

The soldiers were told late in the evening to deliver an important document to the commanding officer of another unit. With Noyes driving the jeep and Yates riding as guard the pair arrived at their destination only to find that the outfit had since moved away.

Knowing of the new location, the messengers started a search on their own. They drove closer and closer to the front lines until they finally found an officer who could direct them properly. Although he warned that the enemy was shelling the road and area around the location of the unit's new command post, Noyes and Yates decided to go on.

As shells screamed overhead and exploded around them, the two messengers stuck to the road and finally delivered the document. One shell hit a building only about 35 yards away from their vehicle.

Before they left to return to their own unit, another jeep arrived with a wounded soldier who had been shot through the stomach by a sniper. Yates and Noyes assisted a medical officer in giving the man first aid.

Cpl. Yates at one time lived in Clarendon and is a son of A. O. Yates, well known by Clarendon folks. Mrs. R. R. Dingler of Clarendon is a sister of Cpl. Yates.

RATIONING AT A GLANCE

By PEPPY BLOCKER

There is no politics in rationing and there will be none, according to War Foods Administrator Marvin Jones. "Food is not a political matter and its distribution to the American people under the rationing system, or to Allied nations under lend-lease will not be affected in the least by the presidential campaign, or any other political campaign," said the nation's war food chief.

The government price support program has proven one of the great aids of the entire war foods program, Jones said, adding that the food situation at this time is excellent. He expressed the hope that, with weather conditions remaining favorable, even more food will be produced during the year. Jones paid high tribute to the farmers of the country for producing record-breaking crops and thus advancing the war effort.

The nation's rubber shortage has been licked but its tire shortage remains a problem. Ways and means must be found to produce for the armed forces more heavy duty tires than ever were thought necessary. This sudden and urgent need for so many of these big tires is the result of recent changes in the tactical situation in Normandy, in Italy, and on the islands of the Pacific. The destruction of railroads in Europe has necessitated a sharp upward revision in the number of motor trucks required to keep supplies flowing in the number of big bombers, and the effectiveness of heavy artillery against the strongest fortifications of our enemies has brought about an urgent call for a tremendous number of additional big guns.

A call for more big guns, big planes and big trucks is also a call for more big tires. For example, each 155-millimeter gun, the famous "Long Tom" that has been so effective in every theater of war, has a carriage which rides on ten heavy-duty tires and is pulled by a huge truck equipped with ten more large tires. These twenty tires require as much rubber as 167 of the most popular-size civilian passenger car tires. Not many people realize how much more time and material it takes to make a military tire than it takes to make a passenger car tire. Before Pearl Harbor the average weight of a tire was about 35 pounds. Today it is about 55 pounds. The size of the combat tire used by the armed forces in greatest numbers takes six times more rubber and five times more cord fabric than the most popular size of passenger car tires. It also requires many more man-hours to produce. Today the rubber industry is producing more rubber than ever before, but more machinery and more manpower are needed. The most serious problem yet to be solved is manpower. A few expert tire builders are being released from the armed forces, but many more men are needed if we are to provide our battle forces with the tires they must have on time.

Just how many more big guns and trucks and planes and tires will be needed as the result of this emergency is, of course, a military secret. But undoubtedly it will delay for some months the time when adequate supplies of civilian passenger car tires will become available. It is evident that for some time to come the civilian tire situation will remain critical. In the meantime all of us have the consolation of knowing that the additional trucks and planes and guns are helping to save the lives of our American boys. And every car should continue to practice those same conservation measures which have proved so successful in preserving America's great system of private transportation.

LIBRARY NOTES

By Mrs. C. A. Burton

War books still dominate the book output—or books on the coming peace—but gradually more and more books giving the humorous side instead of the horrors of war are being published—some of them most amusing. And the publishing houses are bringing out a good many more solid things, also.

Mrs. J. D. Jefferies sent us a splendid ten volume set of books this week—"Modern Eloquence"—consisting of lectures, anecdotes, occasional speeches and after-dinner speeches by the noted speakers of the last century—volumes full of information.

Many of our readers have enjoyed the books of John P. Marquand and will be interested to know that he has joined the editorial board of the Book-of-the-Month Club. Mr. Marquand will be remembered as the Pulitzer prize winning novelist and writer of magazine and detective stories.

Since he has had two of his novels, "H. M. Pulham, Esq." and his latest, "So Little Time" chosen by the Club, he has forfeited his right to have any of his future novels chosen, as it is a rule since the organization of the Club in

REBORN P-39 FIGHTER PLANE NAMED "SPARE PARTS"

"Spare Parts" is the name of this reborn Bell P-39 Airacobra fighter. Riddled by Jap bullets in the South Pacific, it was tough enough to be patched together again with odds and ends after officers at first thought it was ready for the junk pile. The picture is an official U. S. Air Forces photo, and shows some of the men who put their spare parts to good use.

Ingenuity—as someone has pointed out—is one of the real secret weapons of American soldiers. And, to prove the point, the story has just drifted back to this country about how a group of mechanical-minded boys in a South Pacific theater took a bullet-riddled plane, a collection of odds and ends, a lot of elbow-grease—and, with these ingredients, put together a fighter plane that no one expected to see.

They started with a wrecked Bell Aircraft Airacobra (P-39) shot down in combat by the Japs. It was all ready for the junk heap. But they scrambled around and got together enough salvaged parts to put the plane back into flying trim again.

Appropriately enough, they named the ship "Spare Parts." Builders of the plane are members of the Sky Riders Squadron of the Seventh Air Force. Written off the books, no longer boasting a serial number, the reborn fighter, at last reports, was still doing a job in the air.

1926 that no judge may have one of his own books chosen.

The addition of Mr. Marquand to the board brings the total up to its original number of five for the first time since the death of Heywood Brown in 1939. His appointment follows closely that of Clifton Fadenian in May replacing the late William Allen White. Other members are Dorothy Canfield, Christopher Morley and Henry Seidel Canby.

Stuart Cloete has just finished another one of his African stories—"Against These Three" which is said to be the story of the lives of Paul Kniger, Cecil Rhodes, and Lobengula, last king of the Matabele. Some forgettable pictures of Africa are found in Stuart Cloete's books. He lives and writes in a penthouse in New York.

Red Lawson, war hero and author of "Thirty Seconds Over Tokio", is now a major. After a year in Chile, he is back on the West coast, where the movie version of his book, starring Spencer Tracy is nearing completion.

Joe E. Brown has written his experiences while entertaining our troops overseas in the story of our fighting men in New Guinea, the Aleutians, China and Italy in

"Your Kids and Mine."

Publication this year of the "O Henry Memorial Award Prize Stories" will be in September instead of the usual November date. Hershel Brickell remains the editor of the collection with Muriel Fuller as his assistant. The judges for 1944 will be John P. Marquand, well-known author, J. Donald Adams, long editor of the New York Times Book Review, and Dorothy Canfield Fisher, whose story, "The Knot Hole," was one of the prize-winning stories in last year's O Henry volume.

Two Far East experts have new books scheduled for fall 1944 publication by Doubleday Doran. Hallett Abend, for many years chief of the N. Y. Times Bureau in China, has written "Treaty Ports," an account of the opening of the Far East to western trade. Wilfred Fleisher, former editor of the Japan Advertiser and New York Herald Tribune Tokyo correspondent discusses the peace we will have to dictate in "What to Do With Japan," to be published in November.

Stanley Carlile is again at home and at his old job with the Bumper to Bumper station.

Yes, everything complete regardless of what price memorial service the family selects. As servants of those in distress we know that this is the better, more kindly way. One call, day or night, places everything in capable hands.

Where were you on the night of August 1, 1929?

Could you remember, if you were squirming on the witness stand? Probably not. Fifteen years is a long time.

Maybe, being August first, you were writing checks to pay the monthly bills. Do you remember how much you paid for electricity?

That's a tough one, too, isn't it? Actually, if yours is an average household, your electric bill may have been a little less than it is now.

But today you're getting twice as much electricity for your money!

How come? Well, while the price of electricity was coming down, your use of electricity was going up. You have a lot more electric appliances in 1944 than you had in 1929. But you enjoy all these added comforts at little, if any, added cost!

Even if you're hazy about everything else that's happened in the last 15 years, remember this wartime bargain. It's due to hard work by all our people—and sound business management.

West Texas Utilities Company

Leave me out of it.

I'd rather skip any new car rush—worse than a nylon stocking sale after War. More cars have already gone out of the running than ever were built any year! How'll everybody get his new one overnight? But I've come this far with my engine OIL-PLATED, so I figure I'll be all right. I'll just keep it safely OIL-PLATED by staying with my good old friend Conoco Nth motor oil. If you think you can beat it, okay. But remember, any engine is bound to have acids inside from every explosion. Therefore you'd risk too much grief from corrosion, as I understand, except that OIL-PLATING is made to check it.

The cans of Nth oil tell you about a modern synthetic that does the OIL-PLATING. You'd imagine it's kind of magnetized to working parts, making a protective surface to shed off acids, before the worst happens. Good thing you needn't wait for an OIL-PLATED engine; you can have that whole improvement now, using Conoco Nth oil.

THE TEMPLE OF TRUTH
By the Apostle

EDITORS NOTE—The Old Apostle threw in the sponge this week and has gone to cooler places. The column this week is being taken care of by local talent, who request to remain anonymous.

REMINISCENCES OF THE PAST

This town, as are all others, lately, has been almost out of the handy "tailor-made" cigarettes. Most all the modern cowhands around the drugstores and cafes never knew before they could "roll their own" They are learning they can, so that is something.

Along with these "moderns" came the old boys of the '90's, who were so adept at rolling their Durham and Dukes, back fifty years ago, who also adapted the new order of things. It is amusing to see these old gray heads again standing on the street corners rolling them up, licking them down and getting fired up for a real smoke. It seems so natural, except that as I look up and down Main street, I see no hitch-racks, no horses and buggies, no trees, no watermelon wagons, nothing else of the sleeping past, when all were happy, no New Deals, no Coupons, no ODT's, no labor strikes, no wars, no Alphabet except the one in the back of the old Speller. I wish it were like that again.

CUCURBITACEOUS DELICACY.
A few good watermelons have begun to arrive here from local fields, and are competing for first place on the menu of the Sunday noon meal. If you want to put on the dog and strain your pocket-book a little, you now have watermelon and let the choice steaks and roasts take a back road.

THE RICH INDEED.

There was a time when people passed along the sidewalk admiring the new automobiles. Now no one pays any attention to the car—it is the tires which brew envy. "My what dandy tires," is a common expression; or "Old so and so has a new tire. Boy, I wish I had one. Those old rags of mine are going to blow out any minute." Yes, even a poor man is envied now—he hasn't any money, but gosh at the rubber he owns!

The story goes that an old cowboy who had never been away from the ranch country, visited the city. The first morning he went into a restaurant and wanted to know what they had to eat. "What about a nice bowl of oats?" queried the sweet young waitress. "What the H - I you think I am," drawled the cowpuncher, "a D - horse?"

MOOS OF THE MOMENT
BY UNCLE BOB
of the Kraft Dairy Farm Service

A little cash laid out right now in repairing barns and silos or putting up a temporary silo, if you do not have a permanent structure, will do a lot to save your cows some misery next winter.

Leaky and drafty barns can cut down the milk production. Silos like humans, work best in comfortable surroundings. Silos which have sprung leaks or suffered wind damage may cause trouble, too. August is a good time to check up and make repairs.

8 feet deep will give one ton of silage per foot of length. This silo should be covered with a layer of cut straw or chaff and a thicker layer of straw or dirt.

The slat fence silo should be lined with some sort of tar paper or a good grade of specially prepared building paper, strong enough not to tear easily and capable of withstanding weather conditions. The booklet gives a lot of information on location of such temporary silos as well as detailed material on construction and filling.

If you could see into the future, you would know whether you will be able to get adequate supplies of grain and mixed feeds this winter. But not having a crystal ball myself, I want to suggest you get some "insurance" by planting cover crops.

Land which has been used for corn, cotton, soybeans, tobacco and similar items normally lies idle in the winter, but you can put it to work by sowing barley, oats, rye, crimson clover, alfalfa or vetch and Austrian peas—crops which will provide grazing. These use available land to greater advantage.

The Extension Service at the University of Tennessee has issued a leaflet on this subject, discussing what to plant and how the various crops can supplant grain in your dairy herd's ration. August is the time to plant such cover crops, according to these bulletins.

Alabama Polytechnic Institute has a bulletin devoted entirely to crimson clover. I believe you will want both these bulletins in your file. Write for Tennessee Leaflet No. 6, at Knoxville, Tennessee, and Alabama Circular 254, at Auburn, Alabama.*

Whenever I think of plowing, for some reason I think of corn, which leads me up to corn silage and a bulletin on this subject issued by Wisconsin.

Circular 337 stresses the importance of putting corn silage away at the proper stage of maturity. If properly prepared, corn silage is one of the most palatable and nutritious of silages. To get the greatest food value possible, it should be ensiled when neither too ripe nor too green.

Corn is ready for ensiling when the kernels have barely finished denting, and when all or nearly all leaves are still green. If cut too early, soluble nutrients may be lost and the silage may become soggy and unpalatable. Cut too mature, it may be too dry to pack well, causing air pockets and mold.

The Wisconsin circular says hybrid corn is just as good for silage as is open-pollinated corn, but it cautions that hybrid corn may stay green after the crop is too mature for silage. Denting of the kernel is the reliable guide to proper time for cutting.

You can get this circular by writing the Extension Service, University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wisconsin.*

Farmer's Bulletin No. 578, issued by the U.S.D.A. in Washington, D. C., warns that the important thing with any silo is to keep out air. It contains a good discussion of box silos and has many helpful suggestions for putting away silage. I suggest you get a copy: It is free.

City folks have got acquainted with sharing the ride, which brings them a step closer to farm boys who are pretty familiar with riding the share—that is, behind the plowshare.

*NOTE: There usually is a 5c charge for pamphlets mailed to non-residents of a state, but possibly your own state has a free pamphlet on the same subject. Ask your county agent.

SUNDAY, AUGUST 13th
The Tenth Sunday after Trinity.
11:00 a. m. — Morning Prayer and Sermon—Mr. Knorpp.

THE METHODIST CHURCH
H. W. Hanks, Pastor

Sunday school at 9:45. Preaching at 10:50. Subject: "The Peril of giving first place to things of secondary importance." The evening service will be at 8:45. We are to begin our meeting at Goldston August 20th. We will begin at Ashtola August 27th. We will begin here in Clarendon September 3rd. Bro. P. E. Yarborough, our pastor at Tulia, will do the preaching in the meeting here. We will run one week. We hope each member will make a desperate effort to get everything so arranged to attend each service. If there is some one you want to see saved during this meeting please write their name on a slip of paper and hand it to me. May God help each of us in each of these meetings to so work that a great spiritual awakening will come into our hearts and that many who are un-saved will surrender their lives to God.

I think you will agree with me that the church is now facing one of the most serious hours of her history. It is an hour of crisis. It is also an hour of great opportunity. Our boys and girls now fighting are hoping to come back to a better world. The only way we can have a better world is to have better people. The only way we can be better people is to live more Christ-like lives. May God help us do our whole duty in this hour.

PUBLIC FORUM COLUMN

Clarendon, Texas August 9, 1944

The Donley County Leader:— As a reader and a citizen of Clarendon for many years, and one who is vitally interested in his home-town, please allow me space here to suggest an idea for the betterment of our little city that I should like so much to be consummated.

I wish the city of Clarendon would take the lead in having our streets and residences named and numbered. It is my belief, that most of Clarendon's property owners would appreciate this step and co-operate in getting it done. I think it would be in order to request the aid of some of our civic organizations in the city to sponsor, or at least assist in sponsoring this cause.

My idea would be for the city at this time to put up markers at the intersections of the main streets, north and south, east and west, on say just the main arteries, then after the war, perhaps it could be completed. Along with this, enlist and encourage the populace in ascertaining their street names and numbers from the city map, and place their respective house numbers. I think it would do very little good, just to do that one thing, then quit. It must be publicized, advertised, promoted, and the people educated in their pride of this until it becomes their habit.

You know, it is sometimes embarrassing when a stranger comes here and asks for some location. We begin by using the old, worn out way of saying go so many blocks this direction, then so many another direction, then turn south and you will be there; or do you know where Ike Smith lives? Usually the reply is "no". Well, do you know where Tom McKenzie lives? The answer is usually, "well I know the vicinity." Well, you go to his house, then turn left two blocks, then south 1 block and I live across the street from him in a brown, stucco house. Let's get away from that and prepare to give our correct addresses just as they do in larger towns. You would not think of living in Amarillo, much less a larger city, and not have and remember your street address. Well, it is just that easy here if we will do it and it will certainly add to the convenience and civic beauty and appearance of our little city.

Clarendon citizens, as a rule, take much pride in their homes. They are clean. Their yards and shrubbery are beautiful; their homes are nicely painted and in good repair, even in this time of WPB and FDR.

This would cost the tax-payers very little; it will cost the individual homeowner very little; it will add much to Clarendon's civic appearance, and at so little cost and trouble.

Will Clarendon and the Donley County Leader get behind this, and let's see if it can't be done. Perhaps you will say "we did that once and look at it." Well, that is right, it apparently was just half done. Now let's do it right and keep on and on till we just naturally will like to tell folks where we live in the right way.

Sgt. Henry Krolczyk, who is typically Texan despite his Polish name, crawled through a hail of machine gun bullets in Normandy and finally reached a thick hedgerow. Rising carefully, he peeked through a hole in the hedge—and found himself eye-to-eye with a big Nazi soldier, who was peering through from the other side, less than two feet away.

"Hank" yelled at the man, demanding that he surrender. Just at that time, however, several other Germans started lobbing hand grenades at the Texan.

"Hank" tossed a few himself, killing four Nazis and routing the others. During the scrap, the enemy in the hedgerow took to his heels. He didn't get far, however, before the East Bernard, Texas, trooper dropped him with a single rifle bullet.

During the same battle, S/Sgt. Homer Molina of Laredo dived into a shell hole right on top of four Huns. When he came out, he was marching the Germans before him as prisoners.

When his buddies congratulated him on the feat, the Texan grinned. "There weren't but four of them," he insisted. "Four Nazis to one Texan—that's about the right odds!"

Incidentally, the American fighting men are covering ground so fast in France that one of the biggest jobs is not how to whip the Germans, but how to take care of the children and old men and women freed from Nazi slavery. Field representatives of the French Relief Fund, an agency of the National War Fund, already are on the job, and will see that the aged and helpless war victims are given another chance at life.

The fighting ability of Texans is being reflected these days in the medals they are being given by a grateful government. Here are some of the Texas boys who recently won the coveted Silver Star, given only for "conspicuous gallantry and bravery": Maj. Jack Bradley, Mustang pilot, of Brownwood, who has downed 15 Nazi planes; Maj. Andrew Cheek, also of Brownwood; Lt. M. B. Etheredge of Weldon; S/Sgt. Frank Hash, Killeen; S/Sgt. Otis Wiley, San Antonio and Pfc. Reuben Peterson, Kenedy.

The three fighting Clawson brothers of Llano, who have been in action overseas for many months, are back home for a rest, and are reunited for the second time since they entered the service. Tech. Sgt. Billy Clawson was the last to arrive, being preceded by two weeks by his brothers, Capt. Johnnie Clawson and S/Sgt. Doyle Clawson. Their first reunion was behind the lines in Italy.

Lt. John Holloman of Livingston, Texas, has been voted "best pal" by a group of doughboys fighting in France. He pilots the little artillery observation plane known as "El Diablo," and is so good at spotting Nazi gun positions that he is credited with saving hundreds of American lives. When Lt. Holloman locates a German gun, he radios the news back to the artillery units, and they blow it off the earth.

Texas parents of men fighting in France may soon hear their sons' voices on Texas radio stations. Wayland D. Towner, general manager of the United War Chest of Texas, has arranged to have several Texas fighting men speak to the "home-folks" direct from the fighting fronts. Their voices will be sent by short-wave radio to the United States, recorded here, and presented on a state-wide radio hookup to be staged by the War Chest about the 28th of this month.

The United War Chest is the Texas agency of the National War Fund, which raises funds for USO, War Prisoners Aid and 17 other war-related relief agencies.

RECORDS SPEED OF PROJECTILES

General Electric equipment which measures the speed of projectiles to the 1/100,000th part of a second is now in use at the Aberdeen Ordnance Research Center proving grounds of the War Department. This equipment, known as the General Electric counter chronograph, automatically measures the speed of a shell, and the result is printed by an electric typewriter. The chronograph can be easily operated by persons without technical training, whose only task is to push the necessary buttons when a starting signal is received over a public address system.

To record the speed of a shell, a rectangular cage, which has a coil at each end, is placed a few feet in front of the gun. The coils in the cage are spaced about one hundred feet apart, and are connected in series. The projectile, which is magnetized, passes thru the open center of the coils, and the time interval required for its passage from one coil to the other is recorded on the chronograph's automatic typewriter.

A recording can be made every five or ten seconds. Thus, within a minute or two, a single chronograph can record speeds of shells that come from ten different guns.

"We are not at liberty to describe the detailed operation of the chronograph," declares Dr. P. C. Michel of the General Engineering Laboratory, "but we can say that the chronograph, with its one hundred or more electronic tubes, measures the time required for the shell to pass from one coil to the other, and types the results on the paper in tabulated columns."

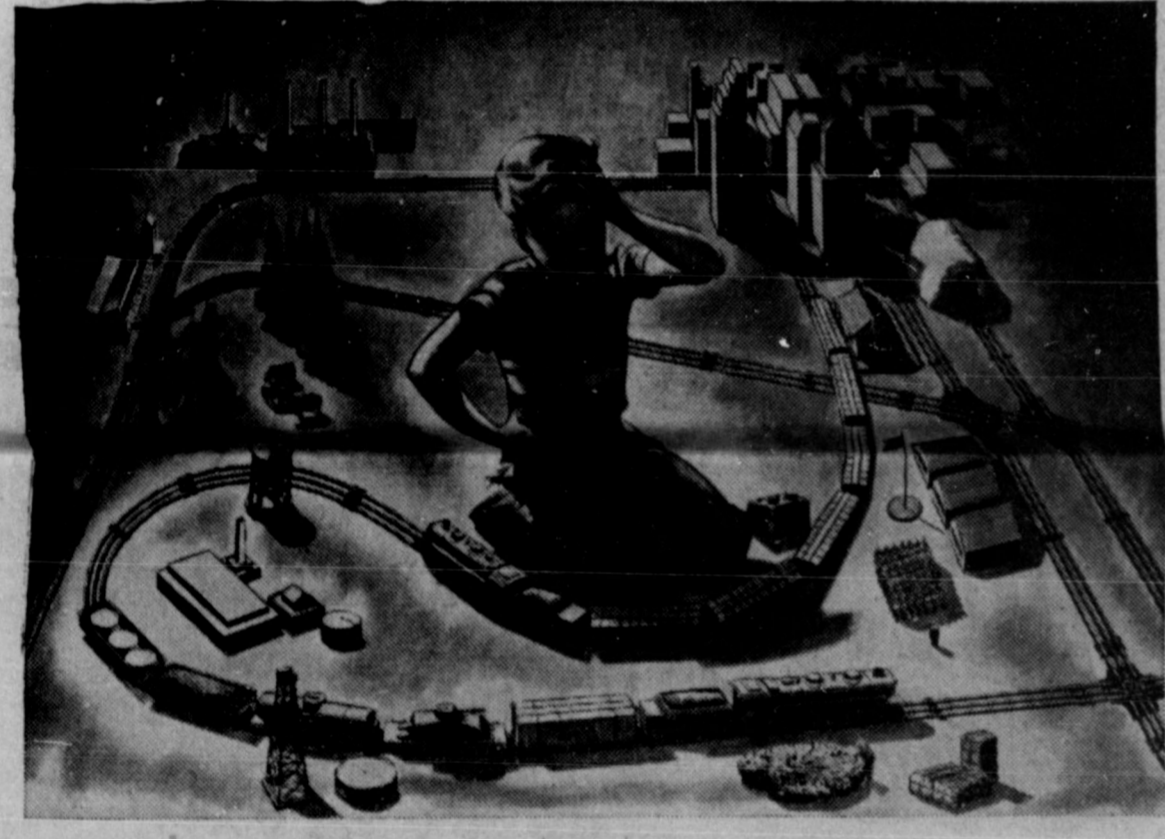

Mrs. Ray Stewart returned home last week from Portales, N. M. where she had been for some three weeks with her sister, Mrs. Henry Rape and family. Mrs. Rape's health is reported as being unsatisfactory. She returned here with Mrs. Stewart for a time, after which they will locate in some different locality.

"Boy, oh boy, it's getting to be a job to run this railroad!"

"You see, I started out with just a little bit of track and only one train."

So did the Fort Worth and Denver Railway, Jimmy, back in 1882.

"But I kept adding new track and switches and engines and cars, until now I've got a real railroad."

Nice work, Jimmy; that is exactly how we grew to our present size. Altogether, the Burlington Lines have 11,000 miles of track and serve 13 different states.

"Boy, can I get around on my railroad! Why, I've got track running all over the place."

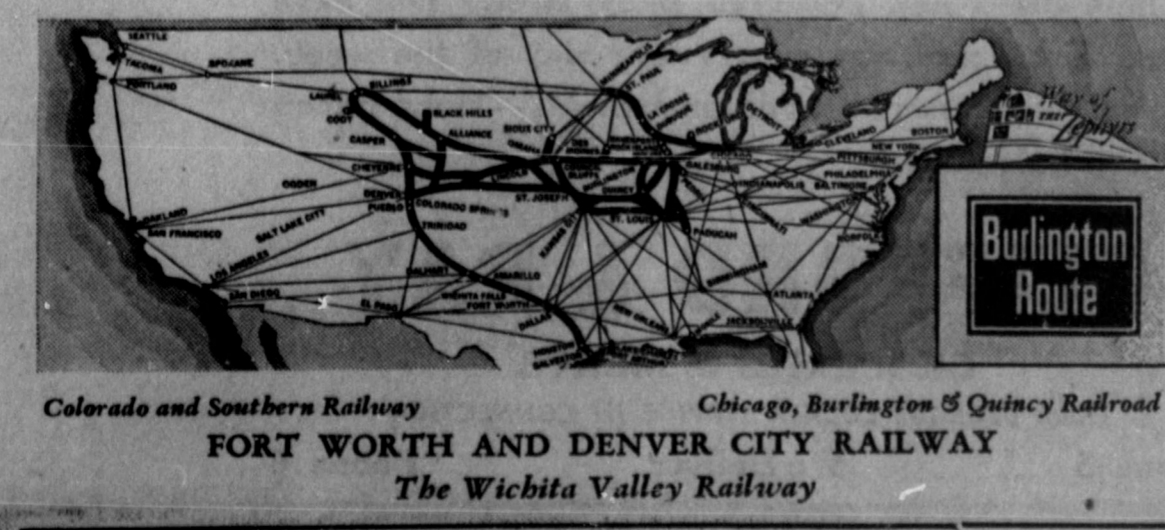

In a way, the Burlington Lines blanket the country, too, Jimmy. Because of their location and because they serve 22 principal gateways and have more than 200 interchange points, they form an essential link between railroads from the north, east, south and west. So, you see, as a team, we have track running "all over the place."

"Look, I've got a lot more things along my track than I used to have. Army camps and munition plants and a bunch of new factories. It sure keeps me hustling to see that they get good service."

It's keeping all of the railroads bustling these days, Jimmy. A freight train starts on its way somewhere every four seconds. Every six minutes, a troop train. And there's a tremendous amount of civilian travel being handled at the same time.

"You know something, though—my dad says for me to keep right on figuring new ways to do more things better on my railroad. Because, he says, there'll be plenty of new jobs ahead that will take a lot of doing."

Dad is right, Jimmy. There's a lot of work for all of us in the peacetime days ahead. And the Burlington Lines are proud to be among the army of railroads which will team up to handle the lion's share of tomorrow's transportation job—just as they're handling today's.

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION
 proposing an amendment to Section 51 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Texas, by adding thereto Sections 51-e and 51-f; Section 51-e providing that cities and towns in this State shall have the power and authority to provide a system of retirement and disability pensions for their employees, provided, however, that no pension system shall be set up in any city until it has been approved at an election by qualified voters entitled to vote at an election on the question of the issuance of tax supported bonds; Section 51-f providing that the Legislature shall have authority to provide a system of retirement and disability pensions for appointive officers and employees of cities and towns to operate State-wide or by districts under such plan or program as the Legislature shall direct and shall provide that participation therein by cities and towns shall be voluntary; provided that the Legislature shall never make an appropriation to pay any of the cost of any system authorized by this Section; providing for the proclamation and publication thereof and prescribing the form of ballot.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS:
 Section 1. That Section 51 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Texas be amended by adding thereto Sections 51-e and 51-f, which shall read as follows:

"Section 51-e. Each incorporated city and town in this State shall have the power and authority to provide a system of retirement and disability pensions for its appointive officers and employees who have become disabled as a direct and proximate result of the performance of their duties, or have passed their sixty-fifth birthday, or have been employed by such city or town for more than twenty-five (25) years and have passed their sixtieth birthday, when and if, but only when and if, such system has been approved at an election by the qualified voters of such city or town entitled to vote on the question of issuance of tax supported bonds; provided that no city or town shall contribute more than the equivalent of seven and one half (7½) per centum of salaries and wages of the officers and employees entitled to participate in its pension system, and that said officers and employees shall contribute a like amount; and this Amendment shall not reduce the authority now duty of any city or town otherwise existing.

"Section 51-f. The Legislature of this State shall have the authority to provide for a system of retirement and disability pensions for appointive officers and employees of cities and towns to operate State-wide or by districts under such a plan and program as the Legislature shall direct and shall provide that participation therein by cities and towns shall be voluntary; provided that the Legislature shall never make an appropriation to pay any of the cost of any system authorized by this Section."

Section 2. The foregoing Constitutional Amendments shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of this State at an election to be held throughout the State

November, 1944, at which all ballots shall have printed thereon, "For the Constitutional Amendment providing that the cities and towns in this State shall have the power and authority to provide a system of pensions for their appointive officers and employees" and "Against the Constitutional Amendment providing that all cities and towns in this State shall have the power and authority to provide a system of pensions for their appointive officers and employees." All ballots at such election shall have printed thereon, "For the Constitutional Amendment giving authority to the Legislature to provide for a system of retirement and disability pensions for appointive officers and employees of cities and towns" and "Against the Constitutional Amendment giving authority to the Legislature to provide for a system of retirement and disability pensions for appointive officers and employees of cities and towns." Each voter shall scratch out two (2) of said clauses on the ballot, leaving the two (2) expressing his vote on the proposed Amendments.

Section 3. The Governor of the State of Texas shall issue the necessary proclamation for said election and shall have the same published as required by the Constitution for Amendments thereto.

Section 4. The sum of Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000), or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated out of any funds in the Treasury of the State, not otherwise appropriated, to pay the expenses of such publication and election. (27-c)

Section 1. That Section 9 of Article 8 of the Constitution of the State of Texas, be so amended that the same will hereafter read as follows:

"Section 9. The State tax on property, exclusive of the tax necessary to pay the public debt, and of the taxes provided for the benefit of the public free schools, shall never exceed thirty-five (35) cents on the one hundred dollar valuation; and no county, city or town shall levy more than twenty-five (25) cents for city or county purposes, and not exceeding fifteen (15) cents for roads and bridges, and not exceeding fifteen (15) cents to pay jurors, on the one hundred dollar valuation except for the payment of debts incurred prior to the adoption of the Amendment September 25, 1933; and for the erection of public buildings, streets, sewers, waterworks and other permanent improvements, not to exceed twenty-five (25) cents on the one hundred dollar valuation, in any one year, and except as in this Constitution otherwise provided; provided, however, that the Commissioners Court in any county may re-allocate the foregoing county taxes by changing the rates provided for any of the foregoing purposes by either increasing or decreasing the same, but in no event shall the total of said foregoing county taxes exceed eighty (80) cents on the one hundred dollar valuation, in any one year; provided further, that before the said Commissioners Court shall make such re-allocations and changes in said county taxes that the same shall be submitted to the qualified property tax paying voters of such county at a general or special election, and shall be approved by a majority of the qualified property tax paying voters in such election; and, provided further, that if and when such re-allocations and changes in the aforesaid county taxes have been approved by the qualified property tax paying voters of any county, as herein provided, such re-allocations and changes shall remain in force and effect for a period of six (6) years from the date of the election at which the same shall be approved, unless the same shall have been changed by a majority vote of the qualified property tax paying voters of such county, voting on the proposition after the expiration of the Commissioners Court at a general or special election for that purpose; and the Legislature shall have authority to amend this section by changing the rates provided for any of the foregoing purposes by either increasing or decreasing the same, but in no event shall the total of said foregoing county taxes exceed eighty (80) cents on the one hundred dollar valuation for any one year; providing that before such Commissioners Court may make such re-allocations and changes in such county tax levies have been approved by the qualified property tax paying voters of such county at a general or special election, and shall be approved by a majority of the qualified property tax paying voters of such county at a general or special election; and, provided further, that if and when such re-allocations and changes in such county tax levies have been approved by the qualified property tax paying voters of such county at a general or special election, such re-allocations and changes shall remain in force and effect for a period of six (6) years from the date of the election at which same shall be approved, unless the same shall have been changed by a majority vote of the qualified property tax paying voters of such county, voting on the proposition, after submission by the Commissioners Court at a general or special election for that purpose; providing that this section shall not be construed as a limitation on powers delegated to counties, cities or towns by any other section or sections of this Constitution; fixing the time for the election for the adoption or rejection of said proposed Constitutional Amendment; making certain provisions for said election and ballots thereon and the method thereof; directing the issuance of proclamation therefor; prescribing certain duties of the Governor of the State of Texas; and making an appropriation to defray the expenses of said election.

Little Octane Numbers that will help end the war sooner!

TODAY'S SUPER-FUEL is 100-Octane, as compared with 90-Octane for pre-war aviation gasoline. This difference of 10 octane numbers is definitely contributing toward hastening the day of victory, because these extra octane numbers represent extra fighting power... extra range and carrying capacity for our big bombers... extra speed for our fighter planes!

In thirty months, U.S. production of 100-Octane Aviation Gasoline has been multiplied ten times. Our facilities for producing this precious, fighting, superfuel can now deliver 21,000,000 gallons daily. Think of it! This is a greater quantity of aviation gasoline alone than the combined total of all petroleum products available to Axis Europe.

The first to take 100-Octane gasoline out of the laboratory and into mass production, is now one of the nation's five largest producers of 100-Octane, despite the fact that Phillips operates only in the Middle West.

This production achievement suggests how competently and completely Phillips is devoting itself to the war effort, with similar special emphasis on butadiene for synthetic rubber.

Until that great day comes, when you can say "Fill 'er up with Phillips"... and the service man cranks into your tank a new and improved Phillips gasoline... remember that Phillips refineries, in addition to producing gasoline, lubricants, and fuel oils, are also gigantic chemical plants pouring out weapons for victory.

PREVENT HEAT EXHAUSTION

Folks who are working in fields and barns these hot days need to guard against heat cramps, heat prostration and sunstroke. Generally speaking, susceptibility to any of these is increased by loss of salt through perspiration. In particular sunstroke is due to fever brought on by working in a hot sun or in a humid heat. To defend yourself against these heat sicknesses you might try full teaspoons of salt. Loose thin clothing, sufficient sleep, and an adequate diet of light foods also are recommended by safety authorities.

You'll find complete details on first aid for heat victims in manuals put out by the American Red Cross or other groups. But here are a few Farm Safety Week suggestions from the A&M College Extension Service.

In the case of heat cramps, always send for a doctor. But before he arrives, remove the victim to a cot in a room with good circulation. He may need to be kept warm with blankets and hot water bottles. In no case should the victim return to work the same day.

First aid for heat prostration is much the same. In addition, to covering the patient with a blanket, it's usually necessary to rub his arms and legs toward the heart to stimulate circulation. If the victim is able to swallow, give him cool drinks of salt solution, but nothing very cold. Often hospitalization is necessary, and return to work must be delayed for a week or 10 days.

Perhaps the most serious is sunstroke, for many fatalities occur from this type of heat sickness. Furthermore a victim of it may remain sensitive to heat exposure for several years. The patient should be laid on his back with his head raised. Ice packs and cold or wet cloth should be placed on his head and his body should be sponged to lower the body temperature.

The best idea, though, is to take precautions against heat exhaustion.

$29 PER CAPITA IS APPROVED BY ATTORNEY GENERAL

The Attorney General has rendered an opinion approving the action of the State Board of Education in setting the scholastic apportionment at $29.00.

The legislature set the apportionment at $25. The education board found that there was sufficient money on hand to pay the $29 apportionment and asked for an opinion.

The rate for the coming year will therefore be $29, the largest amount ever paid in Texas.

RED CROSS VOLUNTEER SERVICE

We still have some Navy Kits and housewives that go in the kits to be made, so if anyone can help us on this rush order please call Mrs. Geo. Norwood, telephone No. 337-W, and she will be glad to issue you any number you can complete.

Mrs. Frank McClure took out 61 kits for the Presbyterian Auxiliary to make; Mrs. Dave Johnson took out 6, Mrs. O. W. Latson 6, Ashtola Community 75; Lelia Lake Community 50; and Mrs. Emma Ayers took out 55 for the 1930 Needle Club to complete.

Please let's all cooperate and take some of these kits to make. Of course the sooner you take them out the sooner they will be finished and we can get this order off soon.

HOUSEWIVES ASKED NOT TO HOARD TOKENS

Hoarding of ration tokens has brought about a serious shortage of tokens in this District, the Ration Banking Section of the District Office of Price Administration has reported.

An appeal is made to all housewives to use all "loose change" in tokens before using other stamps from ration banks, thus keeping tokens in circulation. Hoarding of tokens makes it necessary to manufacture more and more tokens. In addition to this needless expense, it ties up equipment and machinery needed for manufacturing other items.

All ration stamps, both for processed foods and meat, are valid indefinitely — hoarding doesn't help anyone. Keep your ration tokens circulating!
