George Strait Show Interest Growing

"The Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture, along with C&M Production, proudly welcome George Strait, 'Country's Male Vocalist of the Year,' to the Muleshoe Civic Center for a show and dance on Friday, June 21," said Toni Eagle, manager of the CofC.

Doors will open at 7 p.m., and the Clay Blaker Band, with Ronna Reeves, will start the show at 8 p.m. The Civic Center will have festival floor as well as bleacher seating.

All tickets are general admission, and cost $12.50 each, said Mrs. Eagle. Ticket outlets are located at the Chamber of Commerce and Lee's Western Wear in Muleshoe, West Texas Western Wear in Hereford, Cribbs Western Wear in Clovis and J-Bar-N Western Wear in Littlefield.

Only 2,500 tickets were available and the day of the show, June 21, and tickets will be on sale only in Muleshoe. Tickets will be picked up from out of town ticket outlets on Thursday, June 20.

Ronna Reeves, who will open the show, is only eighteen years old, but she is said to be filled with energy-high energy!

Performing has been her life since she was nine years old, and a resident of Big Spring. A youngster as a talent waiting to be developed and through his efforts Ronna progressed from a "cute little girl with a sweet voice" to a confident budding country singer. She was weaned on country classics "Johnny B.

Some Bailey County Farmers Must Make Planting Decision

Goode" and "Your Cheatin' Heart" and helped develop a style that has wowed all audiences the past nine years.

She has performed with George Strait, Steve Wariner, Jerry Jeff Walker, The Glaser Brothers, John Wesley Ryles, and others.

When MCA recording artist George Strait released his first single, "Unwound," in the summer of 1981, it marked one of the most auspicious debuts in the history of country music.

He accomplished the rare feat of scoring a top ten single his first time out. What's more, his subsequent releases proved that George was no one-hit wonder. He fulfilled that early promise with a string of solid hit recordings, including: "You Look So Good In Love," "A Fire I Can't Put Out," "Amarillo By Morning," "Fool Hearted Memory," and "Marina Del Rey," among others.

Simply stated, this soft-spoken, amiable Texan, is one of the most talented singers to emerge on the country music scene in the 1980s. Judging by the significant success and consistent quality of his albums and single releases, George and his music will endure for many years to come.

George was born in Poteet, Texas, just south of San Antonio. Most of his childhood, however, he lived in the small town of Pearsall where his

The Federal government's fiscal 1984 began on October 1, 1983, and ended on September 30, 1984. State Comptroller Bob Bullock Friday sent checks totaling $58.1 million in local tax payments to the 1,003 cities that levy the one percent local sales tax.

Muleshoe continues a slow, upward climb in city tax rebates after showing a decline for last year. Their current check in the amount of $14,537.02, is up from the $11,092.52 at the same time last year. For the year, Muleshoe is reflecting an increase of 7.57 percent in tax rebate payments. Last year at this time, the city had received $100,750.02, and the amount had increased to the current $108,381.64.

In Cochran County, Morton shows an increase in rebates for the year of 10.85 percent. Their current figure for the year is $25,896.76, compared to the $23,361.13 at the same time last year. Their latest payment was in the amount of $3,274.13, up from the $2,440.48 received for the same time last year.

Littlefield barely 'broke even' for the year, showing an increase of only .15 percent. Their payment for this last year was $13,660.51, and had increased to $17,649.20 for the same time this year. However, for the year, the payments returned to Littlefield were $135,142.44, compared to the $134,936.17 for the same time a year ago.

From Friona, the report was a 15.04 percent increase for the year, with receipts of $50,395.48 at this time last year, up to the current figures of $57,976.12. Their current payment was $6,790.73, compared to the payment of $6,492.75 a year ago at this time.

Houston received the largest check--$10.3 million--to push 1985 payments to $76.6 million, up five percent over last year. Dallas' payment of $7.5 million brought its yearly total to $56.4 million, a 16 percent increase.

San Antonio's check for $3.5 million brought payments this year to $27.4 million, up 14 percent. Austin received $2.9 million, pushing its 1985 total to $21.8 million, a 27 percent increase over last year.

Fort Worth's payment was $2.2 million for a 1985 total of $16.5 million, a 12 percent increase. El Paso received a check for $1.3 million, bringing total checks this year to $10.3 million, up 15 percent from 1984 payments.

Bullock also sent checks totaling $24.2 million to the state's four Metropolitan Transit Authorities. Houston's MTA payment was $11.7 million for a 1985 total of $38.6 million. Dallas' DART check was $10 million, bring its total payments this year to $76.2 million. VIA in San Antonio received $1.9 million, increasing its payments this year to $15.1 million. Fort Worth's MTA payment was $515,335 for a total $3.9 million this year.

June checks represent taxes collected on sales made in April and reported to the Comptroller by May 20.

Rain Causes Some Damage To Vegetables

Now that several days of thunderstorms have abated, after flooding, many areas of the High and Rolling Plains, vegetable growers have a lot to do in a hurry to keep vegetables healthy, warns a specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. And they want to do the most important thing first, he says.

"Plant foliage has been continuously wet for several days. This sets up ideal conditions for the germination of fungus spores and their growth into the leaves," said Dr. Roland E. Roberts, Extension vegetable specialist.

Potato early blight and onion botrytis (often referred to as "blast" or "leaf blight") are fungus diseases that are favored by extended periods of wet weather when the leaves stay wet for days, Roberts noted.

Early blight infects the older leaves of the potato plant first. Botrytis will begin with spots of infection all along the leaves, and is usually more severe on the oldest leaves and those injured by hail and wind.

The Extension specialist said complete coverage of the foliage with a film of fungicide is necessary to prevent infection by early blight and botrytis. "It is very important to force the spray down under the lower potato leaves to assure that the surface of the older leaves is covered with fungicide," Roberts said. He said a seven-day spraying schedule is needed to coat new leaves with fungicide.

Some potato growers are getting good control of early blight with flowable maneb, and application of Duter through center pivot systems, Roberts reported. "If someone is using fungigation effectively on onions, please let me know," he requested.

Another problem from the heavy rains is that nitrogen has been leached out of the loamy sand and sandy loam soils. Potatoes don't usually respond to nitrogen sidedressing on heavier sandy loam, and clay loam soils when the nitrogen is applied within six weeks of harvest, Roberts said.

On very light sand soils, where late season potatoes are growing and won't be harvested until mid-August or later, there is a strong chance that 20 to 30 pounds of nitrogen applied now, and again as soon as need is shown by soil test, will help finish the plant growth and size the tubers, he said.

"Don't apply nitrogen without first determining what is there," Roberts stressed.

To be sure of the nitrogen status of the soil, he urged producers to have a sample tested for nitrate nitrogen immediately. "It is an inexpensive test and most laboratories can give you the results fairly quickly."

He reminded producers to be sure to take the soil samples from between plants and to obtain uniform cores or slices which include soil from the top down to eight inches in depth.

obtained at the county extension agent's office.

Tanksley noted that soybeans are frequently used as a replacement for hail-damaged cotton in irrigated areas. This crop is also tolerant to the preplant incorporated cotton herbicides and can be planted over a wide range of dates.

Pointing to results of a four-year study conducted by researchers at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center at Lubbock, he says that good yields may be obtained from late June to early July plantings.

"Since soybeans are sensitive to day length," he adds, "late plantings result in short stalk growth of all varieties and the combines miss a good portion of lowest seed pods. This program can be partially circumvented by the use of varieties that fall into the late Group IV and Group V maturity groups."

Cultural practices which encourages stalk growth in late plantings include higher seeding rates (65 to 70 pounds of good quality seed per acre), planting a single row per bed and early irrigation.

"It is especially important to avoid periods of moisture stress in late planted beans," he emphasized.

Father's Day

The 16th is Father's Day--when old Dad traditionally gets a day of thanks.

Though an increasing number of wives work these days, and Dad often isn't the sole breadwinner, any dog deserves his day, once a year.

American fathers are unique. They have generally accepted theories about making family decisions. Modernists think this is democratic and beneficial.

Critics believe it's often abdication of the father's responsibility as an authority, which has contributed to a breakdown of discipline, and to juvenile crime.

However, children who enjoy the blessing of loving, well-providing fathers, of character and standing, begin life with a major advantage.

And the example set by fathers, lives with sons and daughters all their lives.

"Selecting an alternate crop is always an unpleasant chore," Tanksley observed. "Fortunately, there are crops such as grain sorghum, sunflower and soybeans which can be planted relatively late in the season to partially compensate for the loss of the primary crop."

Muleshoe Volunteer Firemen Attend Annual Convention

Chief Jack Dunham and Captain J.O. Parker, members of the Muleshoe Volunteer Fire Department attended the 109th Annual Convention and Conference of the State Firemen's and Fire Marshals' Association of Texas, held June 9 through 12 in Waco.

Speakers included Dr. Charles Patterson, Killeen; Bob Murphey, a Nacogdoches lawyer and a former Association president; and Hugh Keepers, of the Texas Railroad Commission's Liquefied Petroleum Gas Division, in Austin.

Each year the convention gives paid and volunteer firefighters from throughout Texas the opportunity to get together for business meetings, a memorial service and training sessions. A two-day trade show features the most modern fire-fighting and rescue equipment. About 1,500 firefighters, firemen's auxiliary members, families and guest attended this year's convention.

The State Firemen's Association serves both volunteer and paid firefighters by sponsoring the municipal firemen's training school each July at Texas A&M University, administrators a certification program for volunteer firefighters and fire marshals in Texas; and represents some 40,000 firefighters before the Texas Legislature. The Association's monthly magazine, TEXAS FIREMEN, has more than 4,600 subscribers and includes technical articles and news about the state's fire service.

"The convention gives us the best opportunity of the year to stay in touch with the needs of our members," said Ed S. Kirkham, executive manager of the Association.

Lions Club Names State Queen

Thanks to Desirre Gray, District 2-T2 of Lions Clubs International found a fitting way to conclude its Silvery Anniversary Celebration.

Miss Gray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Gray of Rotan, was selected State Queen at the recent Texas Lions State Convention in San Antonio.

It was also a milestone for District 2-T2, a 68-club District which encompasses 22 counties of West Texas and boasts some 2,800 members. Desirre is only the District's second State Queen in 25 years.

Desirre, who celebrated her 18th birthday June 3, has a big summer ahead. She will ride in the 67th Annual International Parade at Dallas in mid-June, then leave in early July for a six-week Lions Club Youth Exchange trip to Japan.

This fall, she plans to enter Texas Tech University and study Business Marketing.

At Rotan, she was involved in many activities, such as Band, U.I.L. poetry and one-act play, was in National Honor Society, played basketball and tennis, was a twirler and head cheerleader, a member of Who's Who Among American High School Students, graduated in the top five of her class, was a Homecoming queen nominee, a member of Society of Distinguished American High School Students and chosen Miss R.H.S. by the student body.

In addition, she was selected Queen of the Rotan Lions Club. That allowed her to compete in the District 2-T2 Queens Contest in Plainview at the District Convention in early May. There she was named District Queen over 46 other entries and was one of 14 (Texas is divided into 15 Districts) hopefuls at San Antonio.

Some of Desirre's hobbies include doll collecting, reading, water and snow skiing, horseback riding, playing the piano and modeling. She also enjoys traveling, as she has toured Italy, France, England and Switzerland.

Her grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. A.C. Sharp of Spur and Mrs. N.O. Johnson of Rotan.

Desirre will represent both District 2-T2 and the State of Texas during the 1985-86 Lions year. Judge Melvin Powers of Wolfforth and the Lubbock Redbud Lions Club will serve as District Governor during the 1985-86 year.

High Blood Pressure Lacking In Symptoms

High blood pressure is a serious disorder with at least one notable characteristic. It almost never has any symptoms.

It doesn't make you feel bad, and it doesn't hurt. For these reasons, many of the 20 percent of adult Americans who have high blood pressure do not know it, says the Texas Medical Association.

Despite its silence, this disorder can be dangerous to your health. That's why May has been designated National High Blood Pressure Month.

In this state, TMA and its auxiliary kicked off the month with free testing for high blood pressure at the state Capitol. Other participants in the two-month "I'm in Control" program are the American Heart Association, American Red Cross, Texas Association of Community Health Centers, Texas Dietetic Association, and Texas Nurses Association.

As the heart pumps blood through the arteries, the blood puts pressure on the vessels' walls. If too much pressure occurs, the result is hyperten-

Bagworms One Of Major Pests Of Trees, Shrubs

Bagworms are one of the major pests of junipers and other trees and shrubs in Texas. Spring hatch began in early May in the Lubbock area this year and is now almost complete. Insecticide control is most effective in late May and early June when the bagworms are small, says County Extension Agent Spencer Tanksley.

In the spring, bagworm larvae emerge from hatching eggs inside last year's bags and begin feeding on leaves. They soon begin to construct their own protective bag of silk, twigs and leaves, making them camouflaged and hard to see. As the larvae and their bags continue to grow, control becomes more difficult.

Bagworms feed throughout the summer months, building their bags until the bags are about 1 1/2 inches long, Tanksley adds. In the fall, the bagworms become adults, mate and the females lay eggs inside their bags. They then overwinter in these bags in trees and shrubs. Each overwintering female bag on a tree contains from 500 to 1500 eggs.

"Since the bagworm only completes one generation a year and spreads very slowly from plant to plant, picking the bags off infested plants in the winter will help a lot toward controlling this pest," says Tanksley. "But if bagworms were present on the plant last year and control measures were not applied, chances are very good that an insecticide will be needed this spring."

Insecticides which can be used to control bagworms include sevin, dursban, diazinon, malathion, dylox and orthene. The biological insecticide Bacillus thuringiensis can also be used. To obtain effective control, thorough coverage of the foliage is important. Always read and follow label instruction when applying insecticides.

The Creative Woman

Two topics will be featured on "The Creative Woman" show on June 18 and 22. One Part will be on quick breads. Many people are discovering or re-discovering the joys of baking yeast and quick breads. Nina Swan, formerly with the National Oats Co. in Cedar Rapids, Iowa will share a recipe for cinnamon applesauce bread. Like other whole grains, oats are an excellent source of fiber. Ounce for ounce, oats contain more protein than any other grain, and they supply B-vitamins, iron and other nutrients as well.

Maggie Gregory, owner of Clothier That Work in Albuquerque is a color, wardrobe and image consultant. Her topic will be closet reorganization.

On June 20 three topics will be presented. Karen Dillon, a sewing instructor with Palmer/Pletsch Associates will compare custom tailoring with fusible interfacing tailoring. She'll explain different types of fusible interfacings on the market and tell how to select them.

Library News

BY ANNE CAMP

Wednesday morning, 51 were in attendance at the library to take the pretend trip to the South Sea island of Hawaii. Special guests were Jeanette St. Clair, who won and took a trip to Hawaii in February; also Kristi and Sharla Hoit.

Kristi modeled a grass skirt and carried a straw hand made bag. Sharla modeled a blue satin coat with the back embroidered with pictures of the islands. Jeanette told the boys and girls some very interesting things about her trip and what she saw in Hawaii... she wore a mau-mau, which she said was not pronounced Moo-Moo (as in cows-moo) but Maw-Maw!

She told how pineapple was grown, and about visiting the Dole pineapple plant from which thousands of cans are packed and shipped daily; about the dolphins, fish and hugh turtles they saw; and about being greeted with beautiful fresh flower leis being placed around their necks. She brought many pictures of the beaches and other interesting things, and answered questions...which made a very informative and entertaining program.

Two short movies were shown and at the close the children were able to enjoy treats from the display table of pineapple chunks and cocoanut balls.

Kiberley Griswold brought shells for the display table, and identified some of them. Boys and girls who brought a list of South-American animals from last weeks' movie were given a little prize.

Anne Camp reminded all those parent that there are just a little over two weeks left to get their books read, and listed and returned to the library in the Summer reading Club program.

This week tickets for one afternoon at the swimming pool were added to the "Go-For-It" box courtesy of Bob Graves, manager and appreciation goes to him-the kids will really enjoy that!

Mildew On Houses Can Be Removed

You may have to endure the summer heat and humidity, but you don't have to live with the unsightly mildew growth it produces on the exterior of your house.

"Mildew most often grows on areas of the outside walls that receive little sunlight," says Dr. Peggy Owens, a housing specialist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service.

Ideal places for mildew are the north side of the house, carport and porch ceilings, and areas behind trees or shrubs where air movement is restricted, she explains.

Mildew is usually black, Owens says, but some forms may be green, red or other colors.

The Specialist suggests a cleaning solution of one quart liquid chlorine bleach, one-third cup of powdered laundry detergent and three quarts of warm water. Use the solution with a fairly soft brush to scrub affected areas and then rinse well with clear water.

Another way of applying the solution is to use a garden sprayer for the solution, a long-handle brush for scrubbing and the full-force of a water hose to rinse.

Because this cleaning solution is strong, she advises wearing rubber gloves and protective clothing to avoid contact with the skin.

"If you're going to paint the clean surface, allow it to dry thoroughly and paint immediately before re-contamination occurs," Owens says.

To minimize future mildew problems, the specialist suggests treating the cleaned area with a water-repellent preservative or other fungicide before repainting with a paint containing zinc oxide and mildewicide.

WATCH UP FOR POWER LINES

Power lines can be dangerous.

Touching irrigation pipe to a power line can divert the electricity through the pipe . . . and to anyone in contact with it. In this part of the country, this is the leading cause of farm injuries and deaths in electricity-related accidents. Any equipment of unusual height represents a potential danger. Lift arms on field equipment, combine auger spouts and even radio antennas can cause serious injury or death if they, and you, make contact with a power line.

Keep an eye up for power lines. Watch up, for safety's sake.

George Strait

father taught junior high school mathematics.

"My parents were divorced when I was in fourth grade," George recalls. "So my Dad raised me and my brother. We have a sister and she lived with my mother."

After George's grandfather died, his father took over operation of the family's cattle ranch in Big Wells, some 40 miles west of Pearsall.

Although the weeks were spent in Pearsall, on weekends George went to the ranch with his father and brother.

Steer roping is still one of George's favorite hobbies, although he has little time for it now. "I never was all that great at ropin'. I just enjoyed doin' it. It takes a lot of time away from my family, so I kinda put ropin' on the back burner for now."

"I started listening to Merle Haggard, George Jones, Hank Williams, and Bob Wills," George notes. "They were the main musical influences in my life."

He also sang with several "garage bands," which he claims, "never really got out of the garage. We played 'Gloria' and things like that."

After he and Norma, his high school sweetheart, ran off to Mexico and got married, George attended Southwest Texas State University for several semesters before enlisting in the Army.

Ironically, the Army proved to be the beginning of George's singing career. "When I joined the service in 1971," he says, "I had it in the back of my mind to be a singer. I wound up stationed in Hawaii and there I had the time to learn how to play the guitar. I figured if I was gonna get serious about music, I better get started."

George bought himself a cheap, beat-up, old guitar, which was all he could afford on his Army pay, and some Hank Williams songbooks. "I started teachin' myself to play the guitar and tried to learn enough songs to get a band together so I could start playin' the clubs," he says.

As fate would have it, the post commanding officer was organizing a country band composed of military personnel. George, who was working in the post's payroll department, auditioned as the singer and got the job. "I spent my whole last year in the Army singing in a country band," George grins. "I didn't even have to wear Army clothes! We had a great job."

Following his discharge from the service, George and Norma returned to Texas where he enrolled again at Southwest Texas State. George wanted to complete his education, but music was still very much on his mind.

He put up fliers on campus bulletin boards, advertising himself as a singer. The ad led to the formation of the Ace In The Hole Band. George was looking for a band, and the group was looking for a singer. Over the next six years, George and the band evolved into a popular country attraction.

The band played five nights a week at Clubs, honky tonks, weddings, and private parties within a 200-mile radius of San Marcos. Meanwhile, George attended classes during the day, and in order to supplement his income, worked on a nearby cattle ranch.

After graduating in 1979 with a degree in agricultural education, George worked fulltime managing the cattle ranch while continuing to gig with the Ace In The Hole Band and pursued his musical dreams of recording.

"It was pretty hard going,"

George notes. "There were about 1000 head of cattle on the ranch, and I was responsible for doing everything. Ranching isn't 9 to 5; it's more like sunup to sundown. I'd have about half an hour to get cleaned up and get to that night's gig."

The band became increasingly popular as an opening act for major concerts, and they even recorded several songs for D Records in Houston. But success was not forthcoming just yet.

As time wore on, George nearly wore out. "I was goin' to quit singin' altogether," he admits. "I didn't feel like I was makin' the progress I should be. I had made three trips to Nashville and done sessions on my own before I ever signed with MCA. I don't know if I was doin' as much as I could have, but I sure was tryin' all those years."

George decided to take a job working with an architect in Uvalde, Tx., designing cattle facilities. "About a week before we were to move down there Norma talked me out of goin'," George says. "She's been right with me the whole time—the good times, the bad times—all of it."

He decided to invest one more year chasing his dream of becoming a recording artist. "It's kinda hard to get it out of your blood once you get up there on stage and start singin'," George explains. "It's a lot of fun and it's good way to make a livin'. I really believed in myself and I thought I could sing good enough to make records."

Sure enough, George's big break was just down the road. He and the band were booked into the Prairie Rose, a local San Marcos honky tonk. Erv Woolsey, the owner of the club at the time, booked them sight unseen. Woolsey, who has heard his share of talent during his years in the music business, was very impressed with George.

When Woolsey returned to Nashville to work with MCA Records, he eventually brought George to town and teamed him with producer Blake Mevis. Several recording sessions later George was signed to the label and "Unwound" was released.

"It's everybody's ambition when they're in local bands to get a major label behind you and get your record out on the radio," George says. "I wasn't any different in that. I hoped 'Unwound' would hit, but I didn't expect it to happen so fast. It took me by surprise. I guess I sorta held back a little bit because of the all the times I'd had my hopes up and got let down."

Since then, George hasn't held back or let anyone down. Recently he has upgraded his band, adding a keyboard player, and he has recored with producer Ray Baker, whose credits include Moe Bandy and Merle Haggard.

"Ray and I got along real good," George says. "We think along the same lines. The traditional sound is what country music is to me. All I've ever wanted to be, from the time I started, is a country singer. I have no desire to cross over (to pop). If one of my songs does, that's great."

George made a cameo appearance in the film, "The Soldier", performing one of his hits, "Fool Hearted Memory." Acting is a venture he would like to pursue some day. "Sometimes you see actors wantin' to be singers and singers wantin' to be actors, and it just doesn't work too many times," he laughs. "But it's something I wouldn't turn down if the right thing came along. It'd be a fun thing to try. I'd give it a shot."

But first and foremost George is a vocalist who is equally comfortable singing heartfelt country ballads, or tearing into hardcore honky tonk numbers.

Shy and modest, the handsome, green-eyed singer tends to downplay all the acclaim he has received. True to his western heritage, he knows that the bottom line for any venture in life is determination and hard work. Authentic cowboys know that from firsthand experience.

"I feel real lucky to be where I am," George says. "I'm just real serious about my music and I hope I'm doing the same thing for years to come."

George is a man of few words. Any true artist doesn't have to sing his own praises. Therein is the reason George is considered one of the finest country singers in America today.

George Strait's music speaks for itself.

Government Spending individuals were 43.8 percent of federal expenditures in Texas during fiscal 1984 and 62.6 percent of direct federal spending in Bailey County during that period.

There has been and continues to be considerable controversy regarding increases in defense spending by the federal government. Total federal defense expenditures were $209.7 billion during fiscal 1984 or by 7.2 percent greater than those of fiscal 1983. Defense spending in Texas had increased by 13.8 percent from $12.3 billion in fiscal 1983 to $14.3 billion during fiscal 1984. Defense spending in Bailey County had increased to $136,000 in fiscal 1984 or by 15.3 percent.

Not including grant funds which account for a substantial portion of total federal spending, other departments and agencies of the federal government including the Departments of Agriculture, Commerce, Housing and Urban Development, Interior, and Transportation and the Environmental Protection Agency, disbursed $4,026,000 in Bailey County during fiscal 1984. While the federal government does not provide a breakdown of these figures in Bailey County, other sources indicate that the Department of Agriculture was one of the largest sources of these funds in Bailey County during fiscal 1984.

Other federal spending in Bailey County during the fiscal year included $549,000 in grant awards. Specific details on all local grants were not provided. However, besides general revenue sharing grants, the lar-

The seminar, which runs for three full days, is designed to give these selected high school students a better understanding of the various forms of government and their responsibilities as citizens. loan programs, as well as others.

Direct federal loans in Bailey County were $1,026,000 during fiscal 1984 while federally guaranteed loans in the county amounted to $19,046,000. The Department of Agriculture loan programs were among the largest sources of federally guaranteed loans in Bailey County during that year. The Department of Agriculture's loan programs include a number of low and moderate income housing loan programs as well as various farm loan programs.

None of the federal spending totals in Bailey County include expenditures made through the United States Postal Service in Bailey County. The Postal Service's expenditures are no longer considered a separate corporation. Postal Service expenditures in Bailey County for fiscal 1984 are not presently available.

The total of direct and indirect federal spending in Bailey County was $34,940,000 during fiscal 1984. It is apparent that federal spending provided one of the largest sources of funds for the economy of Bailey County during that time.

Water District Releases New Monitoring Guides

Four "Water Management Notes" dealing with the mechanics of soil moisture monitoring have just been released by the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1 and are available to producers for their use as guides in determining the methods used and equipment necessary to monitor soil moisture conditions, and in evaluation of crop water needs.

Since water is the limiting factor in crop production on the Texas High Plains, knowing the amount of moisture stored in the crop root zone soil profile can provide the edge needed to increase yields and thus profit potential. These four Water Management Notes are designed to help producers monitor their soil moisture.

The first of these brochures, entitled, "Soil Moisture Monitoring, An Overview of Monitoring Methods and Devices," discusses the basic concepts of soil water and the water-holding capacity of different soil types. Additionally, it provides a brief summary of five techniques for monitoring soil moisture, from the simple "feel and appearance" method to the complex "neutron moisture probe." Also discussed are the "gravimetric" method, the use of "gypsum blocks with resistance meters," and "tensiometers."

The second brochure in our "Water Management Note" series is entitled, "Irrigating By The Block." This brochure provides a discussion of the use of gypsum blocks and a step-by-step formula for installation of the blocks, reading the blocks to determine current soil moisture conditions, calculating the crop's daily water use, determining the amount of water which would need to be applied to bring the soil moisture profile to field capacity, and determining how long before the crop will need that next irrigation. Gypsum blocks, which are attached to resistance meters for readings, are one of the most commonly used tools for monitoring soil moisture.

Burial was in Earth Memorial Cemetery at Earth under the direction of Parson-Ellis Funeral Home of Earth. Ruiz died Tuesday in San Francisco General Hospital.

He was born on March 19, 1951, in San Antonio and was a student at Texas California Department of Training and Rehabilitation at San Francisco. He was a member of St. Mary Magdalen Catholic Church of Earth.

Survivors include his mother, Mrs. Manuela Ruiz of Dimmitt; seven sisters, Mrs. Ofelia Madrigal and Mrs. Blanca Martha, both of Earth, Mrs. Janie Rodriguez, Mrs. Diana Gonzales Miss Olga Ruiz and Miss Elva Ruiz, all of Dimmitt and Mrs. Sally Bueno of Sandia; six brothers, Adolfo Ruiz of Abilene, Arturo Ruiz of Muleshoe, Amando Ruiz of Dimmitt, and Gus Ruiz and Jesse Ruiz, both of Fresno, Calif.

The third brochure discusses the functions of a tensiometer in gauging soil moisture as well as the basics of soil water suction, which is the force a plant must overcome to obtain water from the soil. Tensiometers measure, in terms of a pressure reading, the amount of suction a plant root must exert to obtain water from the soil. A plant will permanently wilt and die when the soil dries to a level that it must exert 220 pounds per square inch of suction to obtain water from the soil. Tensiometers are recommended for use in sandier soils when growing crops that require high soil moisture levels, such as corn and vegetables. The installation, record keeping, maintenance and taking of readings when tensiometers are used are also discussed in this brochure entitled, "Tensiometers, A Gauge for Measuring Soil Moisture."

The fourth of our new Water Management Note brochures, "Neutron Moisture Meters, The Scientific Approach to Monitoring Soil Moisture," rounds out the first four in the series. The neutron moisture meter is one of the most accurate devices available for measuring soil moisture. This brochure is presented to assist the layman in understanding the functions and operation of the neutron moisture meter. While this instrument is not yet commonly used by individual irrigators, understanding this water management tool should be of interest to anyone. Much of the soil moisture information obtained and published by the High Plains Water District and other agencies is obtained using this device.

Each of these first four "Water Management Notes" is available through the local offices of the USDA Soil Conservation Service and the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1. To obtain copies of any or all of the brochures, call, come by or write the Water District at 2930 Avenue Q in Lubbock, Texas 79405, or phone (806) 762-0181.

Sudan News

by Evelyn Ritchie

The Minor league team lost both of their games to Crowell. In the first game, Sudan lost 36-39. The Sudan girls fell behind early in the game but made a terrific comeback in the 4th quarter when they outscored Crowell 12-4. However, their efforts fell short. Teresa Williams led the scoring for Sudan with Terry Ray making 4; Jill Reid scoring 3, Mistie Miller 2 and Kaylenn Nix adding a free shot. In the consolation game, Sudan was once again outscored 26-45. With this loss the girls were eliminated from the tournament with the third place ribbon. The Sudan team played an even game for most of the first half but the opponents began to pull away with the hot-shooting of one Crowell girl. This young lady made 43 of Crowell's points.

Leading scorers for Sudan was Williams with 18. Nix added 4 to the score and Reid and Roxann Gunn made 2 each. Other member of the team were Missy Kuykendall, Christie Phillips, Brooke Baker and Heather Harrison. They were coached by Doylene Seymore and Donna Fields.

Texas A&M scientists develop new grain sorghum for methane production

COLLEGE STATION — A high-energy grain sorghum has been developed by Texas A&M University scientists in a project that shows promise for a new methane-producing industry in Texas and other sorghum-producing areas of the country.

The new hybrids combine the traits of high-yielding grain sorghums, usually used for livestock feed, with those of sweet sorghums which have high carbohydrate (sugar) levels in the stems and are used to produce syrup and molasses.

"We don't want to give up any grain yield, but would like to be able to genetically regulate the plant so that we can store larger amounts of carbohydrates in the stem," said Dr. Fred Miller, a crop scientist in Texas A&M's College of Agriculture and a researcher for the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.
