Every time a reorganizer makes a speech it is featured in the republican organs as the right sort of wisdom for democracy to pattern after. The amount of sympathy republican organs have in the success of the reorganizers continues to be one of the interesting features of political life.—Commoner.

Since the saloons have been voted out of Hall county there has not been a single murder case on the court docket. Our courts have become a matter of form and our jail is useless except as a boarding house for prisoners from our neighboring towns and counties where they have plenty of saloons but no jail. We are well satisfied with things as they now exist in Memphis and we hope that our beautiful little city will never again be cursed with an open saloon.—Memphis News.

Donley county is to have another local option election soon and all signs point to a prohibition victory. Since the last local option election in that county, several of the most shocking tragedies that ever disgraced the good name of any town, have occurred in Clarendon and all were distinctly traceable to the saloon. We say to our good neighbors in Donley county and in Clarendon, make the fight of your lives and expell the liquor demon from your midst. We assure you that we are with you heart and soul on this question.—Hall Co. News.

The mayor of Findlay, Ohio, has issued orders to the effect that every woman found drinking or loitering in saloons shall be arrested. Why this discrimination? A woman has just as much right in a saloon, legally, scripturally or morally, as a man. If they are a good thing in a town they are a good thing for everybody to visit. If they are a bad thing for women to visit they are bad for men, and if they are bad for either or both, then they should not be permitted to exist. We are afraid the mayor of Findlay is light in the upper story.

Let a girl be ever so graceful in a dance, let her be ever so elegant in walking across a drawing-room, ever so bright in conversation, she must possess some other qualities to convince the great average run of young men that she can be the manager of his home, the pilot that steers the ship of state. Frugality, womanly instinct for home, an eye to the best interest of her husband—these are the traits which make the good wife of today, and which young men look for in the girls they meet. Men may sometimes give the impression that they do not care for common sense in their sweethearts, but there is nothing they so unfailingly demand of their wives.—Ex.

We can easily understand how a man can be a local optionist without being a prohibitionist, but we can hardly figure out how a man can be a prohibitionist and not a local optionist. A prohibitionist, as we understand it, is one who not only wants the liquor sale stopped in state and nation, but more especially where it is in his own community, where its baleful effects come directly home to him. In fact, he votes against it at all times and under any circumstances when the opportunity is presented, because he is against it on general principles. Not so with the local optionist. Frequently the latter does not care a copper what its influence is in other states or counties, but when it comes directly home to him and his own friends and perhaps his own family are being injured by it, he wants it removed. Some people though, are general prohibitionists and "agin" local option when that question is up, and local optionists and "agin" prohibition when the latter is to be voted on. We confess we are not "democratic" enough to side in with the anti crowd, even if 500 out of Donley county's 600 voters votes in their favor, because we believe our side of the question right, and no "majority" will cause us to sail under false colors. If a man believes saloons are best for the town, we have more respect for him when he comes squarely out and says so than to try to carry favor on both sides by dodging the question and saying we do and we don't.

Sad Accident.

W. D. Jones, an employe at the Rowe ranch, met with a very serious accident one day last week, while attempting the capture of a yearling. He had successfully roped the critter, and while cavorting around in close proximity of some trees, the yearling and man attempted to go on one side of a tree and the horse wanted to take the other side, causing the man to be thrown violently against the tree inflicting an ugly gash in the right side of his head about three inches in length. Dr. Westbrook was called and dressed the wound which required several stitches. The man was so badly shaken up that it has caused complete paralysis from the spine being injured, and is now lying in a critical condition at the home of Mr. T. S. Bugbee, who voluntarily took the unfortunate man there that he might receive the proper treatment as if from mother's hands.

Children Without Correction.

Soft-hearted mothers raise soft-hearted children. They hurt them for life because they are afraid of hurting them while they are young. Coddle your children and you will turn out noodles. You may sugar a child till everybody is sick of it. Boy's jackets need a little dusting every now and then, and girls dresses are all the better for occasional trimming. Children without chastisement are fields without plowing. The very best colts want breaking in. Not that we like severity. Cruel mothers are not mothers, and those who are always flogging and faultfinding ought to be flogged themselves. Foolish fondness spoils many and letting faults alone spoils more. Gardens that are never weeded will grow very little worth gathering; all watering and no hoeing will make a bad crop. Little children give their mother the headache, but if she lets them have their own way, when they grow up to be great children they will give her the headache.—Spurgeon.

Up-to-date Beds and Bedding.

The selection of beds and the detail of their equipment, says The Delineator for September, is one of the most important items of modern house furnishing. The provision for comfort in sleeping rooms would perhaps receive more attention if one realized that fully one-third of a life-time is spent there. In the course of three-score years fully twenty, even with only moderate sleeping, are passed in bed. White iron bedsteads are so generally used now that they may be found even in the tenement districts, where their neat, durable and simple construction means even more than in the homes of more pretension and wealth. While the adornment of the bed is of moment, the foundations of comfort depend on the choice of mattresses and springs. Here the quality should be of the best that can be afforded. A first expense in good materials is likely to be the last.

Northwest Texas Press Association.

At the annual meeting of the above association at Jacksboro this week J. N. Rogers, of Jacksboro, was elected president; Harry Koch, of Quanah, vice-president; Orion Procter, of Bridgeport, secretary; W. A. Johnson, of Memphis, treasurer; and the new executive committee consists of N. W. Halcomb, of Decatur, Cyrus Coleman, Henrietta and H. B. Martin of Amarillo. The place of next meeting is Amarillo. So few could go on the excursion the trip was abandoned.

Dallas is making preparations for a reception of the newspaper men of Texas on the occasion of the Dallas Fair. Wonder if Sidney Smith will insist on editors having their pictures on their tickets to get through the gate this year. Texas editors are very great fools in some respects.—Hall County Herald.

Object of Advertising.

The object of advertising, in a general sense, is to educate the human mind to think best of your goods when thinking of goods in your line at all, and to attain this requires a skill in arousing, sustaining and directing attention that no schoolmaster or college professor in the world is required to exercise in a life-degree with his unwilling pupils. Show us a "dead" store, and in it you will generally find a "dead," behind the date advertiser.—Titusville, Fla., Advocate.

Clarendon Graded School, Its Work.

The life of an individual can be properly judged only by what it has accomplished. This is also true of a school, an ordinary school, or even an institution of higher learning.

Clarendon graded school, we know of a fact, has made an enviable reputation since it has been under its present management, but its faculty has never claimed any credit for the splendid support, both financial and moral, it has received from the citizens, save that of merit. However, we believe it a pardonable sin if we indulge a personal pride in the progress the school has made since 1895 when it was organized under its present management. It is a very easy matter to make claims of superiority in school work and yet it is often very difficult to establish these claims by actual facts.

We have shown by figures, heretofore, that the attendance upon the public school has constantly increased and that the increase within the last year was the greatest in its history. But large numbers do not necessarily make a good school, and it is really more meritorious to strive for excellence than for a large attendance.

But the success of our public school is attributable to certain definite points of superiority a few of which we will enumerate and discuss.

(2.) It provides a competent corps of teachers and a well equipped school building.

(3.) Competent teachers are retained so long as they faithfully perform their duties.

(4.) Much might be said about our system of grades both for and against, but it is sufficient to say that nothing else has ever been provided that could take its place. The public school does not demand that a teacher prepare to hear the lessons of three or four grades daily but those of only one or two. It affords the best opportunities for class emulation, and class spirit as well, as for class instruction and individual instruction.

The course of study provides a certain definite work to be accomplished which is an incentive to strive for higher attainments. It ought to be the ambition of every boy and girl in a public school to complete its course of study and receive a diploma from its trustees.

(5.) The teachers in Clarendon public school, as a class, have always been up to the average scholarship of any other school in the county, and have done their work in a conscientious manner. Not all of them, as matter of fact, have been specialists, but many of them have had fine advantages and rank among the best teachers in the country. The public school offers good opportunities for boys and girls who are willing to apply themselves to their study.

The public school emphasizes the essentials in school work, and refrains as far as practical, from public entertainments or ostentatious display, knowing that a maximum of these things represents a minimum of real work.

Our new school building stands without a rival in this part of the country. It is complete in all of its appointments, well arranged for heat, light and ventilation. The surroundings are such that the pupil may be comfortable and happy.

The trustees of Clarendon public school have always retained faithful, competent teachers. This has been a source of much encouragement to our teachers, and has operated to constantly strengthen the faculty. The teachers chosen this year, as a body, seem to possess all the elements of strength necessary to success.

Several of our teachers return to work this year fresh from attendance upon summer normals, others from quiet rest; but all will enter enthusiastically upon their duties. An other year of excellent school work will soon be added to the one just past. W. R. SILVEY.

From the Bureau of Forestry.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 12, 1902.—The people of northwestern Texas are beginning to realize the importance of forest tree planting. At the request of the Fort Worth & Denver City Railway Company, an agent of the Bureau of Forestry recently made a trip from Fort Worth to Texline with a view of securing the cooperation of farmers along its line in forest tree planting. Dates were made at numerous points along the railroad for public meetings to be held during August and September, for the discussion of questions relating to forest planting.

No section of the United States is more in need of forest trees than northwestern Texas, for the high prairies of this region are exposed to the prevalent south winds which are frequently very hot and dry. The rainfall, which would be ample in a cooler climate, is rapidly dissipated by evaporation; agriculture is thus exposed to severe injury by climatic conditions. The winds in exposed situations have the power to take up by means of evaporation more than six feet of water during the year. This great demand for moisture would consume one and a half times the rainfall of humid New England. Experiments have shown that the reduction of the velocity of the wind from 25 miles per hour to zero, reduces its power of evaporation to one sixth. In other words, if the average velocity of the wind at the surface of the ground for one year should be found to be 25 miles per hour and the evaporation for the same period should be found to be 72 inches, a reduction of the velocity of the wind at the same place to a dead calm would result in a reduction of the evaporation to 12 inches.

The importance of forest belts for wind breaks in an arid or semi-arid country can scarcely be overestimated. The great question which concerns the welfare of Texas farmers is the conservation of the natural rainfall of the region. The records of the Weather Bureau for the past ten years show an average annual rainfall of 21.55 inches at Amarillo. Large areas in Russia famous for the production of wheat have less than 15 inches annual rainfall, and the celebrated Red River Valley of the North receives only about 20 inches. Western Texas receives sufficient rainfall for the growth of ordinary agricultural crops if all of it could be utilized. The planting of trees will very materially assist in the much needed conservation of the moisture.

From the information derived by an agent of the Bureau of Forestry it is safe to say that there is quite a list of forest trees that may be grown successfully along the line of the Fort Worth & Denver City Railway. As far west as Clarendon, the Black Walnut and Pecan may be planted, with fair prospects of success. The Black Locust will thrive from Fort Worth to Texline, while the Russian Mulberry, Osage Orange, and Red Cedar can be grown from Fort Worth to Amarillo. Where moisture is abundant the Cottonwood can be grown successfully throughout this region. Other good trees for the locality are White Elm, Hackberry, and Honey Locust.

Before giving specific advice to prospective tree planters, the Bureau of Forestry sends an agent to the farm of each applicant. It is the duty of this agent to make a thorough examination of the soil and situation and prepare a "planting plan" for the guidance of the farmer. The preliminary examination is made absolutely without cost to the farmer.

The purpose of the meetings to be held along the "Denver Road" in August and September is to afford farmers an opportunity to secure the services of a trained forester, whose advice on tree planting may save planters the expense of many costly experiments. Applications for assistance in tree planting may be made direct to the Bureau of Forestry at Washington D. C., or through Mr. W. F. Sterley, Asst. General Freight and Passenger Agent of the Fort Worth & Denver City Railway at Fort Worth, Texas.

Republican Meeting.

The republicans of Donley Co., and all others disposed to act with them, are requested to meet at the Court House in Clarendon, Texas, at 3 p. m. Tuesday, Aug. 26, 1902. CHARLES J. LEWIS Chairman.

World's Fair Notes.

Connecticut will send to the World's Fair one of her finest military organizations, Company A, of Waterbury. Henry B. Carter, World's Fair Commissioner from Connecticut, is Captain. The military feature of the Exposition will include many thousands of drilled men.

Ecuador will take part in the World's Fair at St. Louis, President Plaza and the Ecuadorian Board of Immigration believing the big Exposition a good place to exploit the resources of the republic. An expedition is planned to be held at Cuenca next May, and it is expected that the exhibits at that Fair will be sent to St. Louis.

A party of Laramie, Wyoming gentlemen have organized a World's Fair Club to visit the Exposition at St. Louis in 1904. The party will charter a special Pullman train with dining car. The plan of the club is to deposit a given sum of money each month with the treasurer so that when the Fair opens the money to pay for the excursion will be on hand. It is estimated that $50 will pay the expenses of each person for one weeks visit at the Fair.

The ruins of the former homes of cliff dwellers in northern Arizona will be visited this month by a party of St. Louis and Washington scientists, who propose to dig for specimens to be taken to the World's Fair in 1904. Arrangements are also under way for a collection of specimens from the petrified forests of northern Arizona, also to be part of Arizona's exhibit at the Exposition. The Arizona World's Fair Commission has applied to Washington for permission to take from the reserve such specimens as may be satisfactory and will give a proper idea of the beauty and value of these petrified trees.

DALLAS TEX., Aug.—The San Antonio International Fair Association has designated Oct. 28 as "Texas World's Fair Commission and Texas Press Day," and has contracted to share the gate receipts on that day with the Texas World's Fair Fund. It is the next to the last day of the fair, and as there will be special attractions it is expected that there will be a large attendance.

Arrangements are progressing for the "Texas World's Fair Commission and Texas Press Day" at the Texas State Fair in Dallas, Sept. 27.

The press bureau of the Texas World's Fair Commission is supplying matter concerning World's Fair work in this State to more than 600 papers direct. Besides this, a great deal of special matter is furnished to correspondents of metropolitan papers at Dallas and to the press bureau of the World's Fair at St. Louis. The latter reissues it, and the matter finds its way into many papers all over the United States. The following letter was received a few days ago from Mr. Mark Bennett, chief of the World's Fair press bureau:

St. Louis, Mo., July 31, 1902.—Mr. Tom Finty, Jr., Press Agent, Texas World's Fair Commission, Dallas: Dear Sir—I do not think I acknowledged your favor of July 7, or thanked you for the copies of the interview with Capt. Sydney Smith. Texas is getting a very wide advertising throughout the United States by her enterprise in working up an exhibit for the World's Fair. The State will derive benefit not only from the exhibit that she will make at the fair, but will have good two years' advertising in advance of the opening. I am glad to see that your people so fully appreciate the opportunity that the exposition offers.

Yours for success,

MARK BENNETT.

Walter Williams, of Columbia, Mo., who represented the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, during his recent tour through Europe and portions of Asia and Africa, has returned. When asked for a statement regarding his trip, and particularly the Congress of the International Press Association, recently held in Berne, Switzerland, Mr. Williams dictated the following: "I have been away nine months, traveled some 30,000 miles and visited 25 countries. The last important event was the attendance of the International Press Congress at Berne, Switzerland. This congress is composed of about 300 delegates and representatives of the leading metropolitan journals of the continent of Europe. Such newspapers as the Figaro, the Latere of Paris, the Local Anzeiger of Berlin, the Imparcial of Madrid, and the Tribune of Rome, and other papers of like importance, were represented at this meeting by their chief editors. Some 17 countries were included in the membership of the Congress, embracing all the capitals and points of commercial interest in Europe. I presented, as representing the press clubs of the Exposition, an invitation to the Congress to hold its next annual session, September, 1903, in St. Louis. There were six or seven invitations from as many different countries, including one from Germany, authorized by the Emperor, to meet next year in Berlin. These invitations, one by one were withdrawn and finally the Berlin invitation by a vote of the German delegation was withdrawn with the understanding that it would be presented for 1904. The German delegation thereupon without exception supported St. Louis. Speeches in advocacy of the St. Louis invitation were made by representatives from Germany, Italy, France, Hungary, Spain, Austria, Sweden and Switzerland. There was an exciting discussion. The Congress has never been outside of Europe and has declined invitations to go even as far as Glasgow, Scotland, during the exposition, and to London. The question being put to a vote, however, said invitation was accepted by practically the unanimous decision of the delegates. It is expected that, from assurances made at Berne, fully 300 delegates from the European countries will attend the Congress in St. Louis.

NAMED THE TICKET

Hon. J. M. Mallett of Cleburne is Placed at the Head.
ALLIED POPULISTS SET FORTH
In Their Platform a Number of Demands, and Among Them is One in Opposition to Child Labor in Factories.

Fort Worth, Aug. 13.—The new Allied People's party of Texas was created Tuesday by the Populists gathered here and a straight state ticket was nominated.

J. M. Mallett of Johnson county was made temporary chairman. He took a glass of water with the remark that he had refused a drink before breakfast and the prohibitionists in the audience smiled their enthusiasm while he drank to their health.

Bryan Barber of Mineral Wells was made temporary secretary with A. M. Colwick of Greenville as assistant for the next session.

When the convention met the first thing for consideration was the platform. After this was disposed of, after having discussed on motion of Stump Ashby the nomination of a state ticket was gone into at 10:45 o'clock. The following ticket was nominated:

Governor—J. M. Mallett of Johnson.
Lieutenant Governor—J. H. L. Bonner of Smith.
Attorney General—T. J. McMin, of Bexar.
Treasurer—Buck Barry of Bosque.
Controller—J. M. Perdue of Upshur.
Land Commissioner—M. C. Granbury of Austin.

Superintendent of Instruction—Prof. Collier of Callahan.
Railroad Commissioner—E. P. Alsbury of Harris.
Chairman State Committee—Milton Park of Dallas.
Stump Ashby of Tarrant county, T. S. DeArmond of Hamilton county and C. C. Beardon of Wise county were elected as members of the national committee.

J. D. Johnston of Dallas was made secretary of the state committee for two years.
New. Gresham of Raines county, A. M. Collick of Hunt county were elected delegates to the non-partisan initiative and referendum convention to be held at Waco on the 25th inst.

Platform favors construction of a system of state railways as fast as the idle labor of the state can be utilized, to be operated by the state in the interest of the people, to the end that the transportation monopoly which handicaps the agricultural, mechanical and industrial development of Texas may be overcome.
The change of the scholastic age of public school pupils from the present limit of from 8 to 17 years to 7 to 21 years is favored.

If given power, the platform pledges clear-cut legislation in the interest of labor, including the following specific enactments: To prevent the use of child labor in any manufacturing industry until the child employed shall have reached the age of 15 years, and not then without having completed the rudiments of a common school education; eight-hour law for workmen on all public works and in occupations injurious to the health of the workman; a law against the use of double-header trains; a rigid law to prevent blacklisting of employes by corporations and with the pledge to the strict enforcement of such legislation; a law providing for equitable arbitration of labor disputes; a law to prohibit the use of convict labor in competition with the free labor and that the convicts be employed on the state farms or kept within the walls of the penitentiary.

EDWARD CROWNED

Archbishop of Canterbury Performs the Solemn Ceremony.

HISTORIC WESTMINSTER ABBEY
Crowned by Royalty, Peers and Peesses, and a Number of Americans Occupied Seats in the Sacred Edifice.

London, Aug. 11.—Amid the plaudits of his people Edward VII, king of Great Britain and Ireland, and emperor of India, was Saturday crowned in Westminster abbey.
After the procession entered suddenly "Vivat Alexandra" was shouted by the boys of Westminster abbey, and the queen, walking slowly to the left of the throne, gained her chair.
Two or three minutes later a hoarse cry from the Westminster boys of "Vivat Rex Edward" broke out, and King Edward appeared and walked to his chair in front of the throne, bowing to the queen as he passed and kneeling in prayer. After removing his somewhat unbecoming cap, his majesty stood up, and the archbishop of Canterbury, in a trembling voice, read the recognition, beginning: "Sirs, I here present unto you King Edward, undoubted king of this realm." Then there was a hoarse shout and a blending of the choir and the people, women and men, in the cry: "God Save King Edward." Several times this was repeated, and the abbey rang with loud fanfares.

Again the king and queen knelt, and the archbishop of Canterbury walked to the altar and commenced the communion.
The administration of the oath followed. Standing before the king's chair, the archbishop remarked, "Sir, is your majesty willing to take the oath?"
The king answered in firm, strong tones: "I am willing."
Then the inkstand was brought and the king signed the oath. He did not advance to the altar, but sat in the chair he had occupied since the service began.

While the choir sang "Come, Holy Ghost, Our Souls Inspire," the king remained seated, and the queen stood up. After the archbishop's anointing prayer a gold canopy was brought over the king's chair and his majesty divested himself of his outer robe and then walked to the ancient chair, while the choir sang the "Seateoaks" anthem.
The anointing ceremony was scarcely seen, owing to the canopy. After prayer the king donned the colobium edonis, then resumed his seat, and the archbishop of Canterbury read prayers and delivered the sword to the king. The armilla and orb were then delivered to the king according to the programme.

When the king held out his hand for the ring the archbishop of Canterbury had difficulty in finding it, but finally, with trembling hands, he placed it on the tip of his majesty's finger, reading the prayer simultaneously, the king himself completing the process of putting on the ring as he withdrew his hand.
Later the archbishop had a similar difficulty, owing to nearsightedness, in placing the crown on the king's head. In fact, the choir started "God Save The King" while the archbishop was striving to place the crown on the king's head, and a great shout went up, and the electric lights were turned on.
The archbishop of York crowned the queen.

Bryan, when shown Wednesday's report that he might again be a candidate, was much nettled, and expressed himself in no uncertain manner. He said he wanted the matter settled right now, so there could be no further question. The Mason City interview, he said, was unreliable.
"I will not be a candidate for president in 1904," said Mr. Bryan. "While I would not promise never to be a candidate under any circumstances, I am perfectly content to do my work as a private citizen, and enjoy my editorial work. KNOCKED BY KNOX

United States Attorney General Re-sents an Insult in a MOST EMPHATIC MANNER

Cyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 9.—To a representative of the Associated Press Mr. Knox confirmed the report that he had a personal difficulty with a party of men in Atlantic City last Wednesday.
"It was one of those disagreeable incidents," said he, "that sometimes occur in a restaurant or other public place. Accompanied by Mrs. Knox, my daughter and two or three friends, including District Attorney Young of Pittsburgh, I was dining in the restaurant of the Garden hotel. A party of men, none of whom I knew, seated themselves at an adjoining table. Their talk was unseemly and boisterous. They talked loudly and their comments upon members of my party and upon me were insulting, to put it very mildly.
"Under the circumstances, accompanied as I was with the ladies, I could not resent their actions or their words at that time. They evidently were seeking trouble, so, without attracting any more attention than possible I got my party out of the restaurant.
"Then I returned," continued Mr. Knox, with a smile, "to see if the men really were looking for me. I think they were, for scarcely had I approached them when they sprang up. One of them aimed a blow at my stomach, but it failed to reach me. I have no idea who he was. What happened to him I am not prepared to say. Those things occur very quickly. I am quite satisfied, however, that he does not feel as well today as I do. You will note that I am looking first-rate."
"You do not know who they were in the party of your assailants?" the attorney was asked.
"Not positively. I understand that Charles T. Schoen of Philadelphia and one of the Cramps, also of Philadelphia, were in the party, but even of that I am not at all positive."

PETERS TO FARMERS.

He Urges Them Not to Glut the Market With Cotton.

Calvert, Texas, special: With the close of this month, August, the cotton year of 1901-2 will pass into history with the shortest supply of spot cotton in many years.

In fact, we are almost facing a cotton famine.

The speculators are industriously making the most of the early cotton that is coming into the market and leading the spinner to believe that he can obtain sufficient from this new cotton to bridge him over until a full crop is on the market.

This is based upon the hypothesis that the cotton farmer will follow the same old policy of rushing all of his cotton on the market and auctioning it off.

And this is what is holding prices down and why September and October figures are a cent below spot cotton to-day.

I would urge every cotton farmer to abandon the auction system which you well know forces the sale of any commodity below its real value and adopt an up-to-date business method of marketing the crop, i. e., slowly as the needs demand, and not glut the market and force the prices down.

Not only would this maintain the present values, but would tend to securing to the cotton grower a fair price for his cotton.

We urge every farmer to read and carefully heed the resolutions of the cotton growers' section of the Farmers' congress at College Station July 15-18.

The knockers are beginning to circulate reports of a 4,000,000 crop for Texas and their agents are already in the state attempting to verify their estimate.

Being in close touch with the cotton situation all over the state, through the membership of the Cotton Growers' association and my own personal observation I do not see how it is possible for such a crop to be made in Texas, even if we should have ideal climatic conditions from this date on.

There is no doubt but that the plant was seriously stunted by the drought, which also stunted the boll weevil and other pests and my opinion is that in the boll weevil district and which covers a very much larger area than last year that the weevils, worms, caterpillars and other pests will make it impossible to make a maximum crop.

These facts obtained from my correspondents are verified by the official statements of United States Entomologist Hunter and State Entomologist Malley.

Another factor that must be taken into consideration is the flood damages, which has destroyed at least 100,000 bales.

E. S. PETERS, President Cotton Growers' Association of Texas.

Head Split with an Ax'—Fort Smith, Ark., Monroe Porter, a Cherokee Indian, is at death's door on account of a wound inflicted at a church three miles north of Sallisaw, I. T.

Three white men were together at the church ground. There was whisky around, all got drunk and got into a dispute over a trifling matter.

A fight resulted and one of the whites man grabbed an ax and buried it's edge in Porter's head.

Ed Krykendall and John Thomas have been arrested.

Shot and Killed.—Memphis, Tenn., J. B. Worley of Foote, Miss., was shot and killed at the crossing of the Illinois, Central and Yazoo and Mississippi Valley railroads and Simon Birde, a one-legged negro, is locked up charged with the crime.

Worley's dying statement was that a one-legged negro approached him and asked to see his revolver.

Worley handed his weapon to the negro, who immediately fired upon him. Birde was arrested in the vicinity of the shooting.

Venezuelan rebels cut Barcelona cable.

Senator McMillan Dead.—Washington: A dispatch was received here announcing the death of Senator James McMillan of Michigan at an early hour Sunday morning at his summer home at Manchester-by-the-Sea, Mass.

Death was the result of heart failure, following congestion, after an illness of a very few hours. The news came as a great shock to his friends here, as he was thought in good health.

No Boat Free from Danger.—Once upon a time a small boy asked permission of his father to go rowing in a boat with a friend.

"You may go, my son," said the parent. "If you are careful to keep away from the rocks."

"Certainly," replied his son; "we are going in deep, clear water, where there are no rocks."

"They went, and as it happened, his friend was a fool. So, when they were from shore, he swayed the boat from side to side, thinking that it was great fun to do so.

Finally, the boat turned bottom side up, and the occupants had a very narrow escape from drowning.

Moral—Rocks may appear in any water when there is a fool in the boat.

Two Hundred Miles to Buy a Hat.—A writer in the Boston Journal is responsible for the following story: "When I was in Boston," I asked a friend of mine, a New Yorker, the other day, as we met in Postoffice square,

"Come on to buy a hat." "Why come to Boston for that?" "Well, you see, in New York when you put on a new hat all your friends promptly remove it and look inside to see if it was bought at a swell store. Not having the price the swell store wanted and being favored with a railroad pass, I came on to buy mine here and fool the crowd. Going back to-night."

Roman Philosopher's Words.—You will do the wisest service to the state if you shall raise, not the roofs of the houses, but the souls of the citizens; for it is better that great souls should dwell in small houses rather than mean slaves to lurk in great houses.—Epictetus.

OLD TOOLS FOUND IN MINE.

Implements Used Two Centuries Ago Discovered in Massachusetts.

A remarkable collection of implements used by miners in 1633 has been discovered in a deserted shaft of the Sturbridge graphite mine at Webster, Mass., ninety feet below the surface.

The discovery includes a wooden pump stool, twenty-five feet long and almost intact; a section of chain four meters weighing fifty pounds and now tipping the scales at but five, and some hammers of ancient make.

More than this, it has become positively known that the Sturbridge graphite mine was the first mine of any kind discovered and worked in the United States.

The discovery was recently made by C. E. and Francis Husbands of Philadelphia, expert graphite men, who are now operating at the mine.

For something like 219 years these implements have lain in ice-cold water deep in the ground, and in the line of ancient tools, are probably more valuable than any others in the country.

An investigation conducted by the geologists has developed the facts, which first became known outside to Edward S. Hill of Webster, president of the Massachusetts Graphite company, which owns the property.

Mr. Husbands and son believe they are now in a fair way to unearth a very rich bed of graphite, and it was during their investigation that the relics mentioned were discovered. Ice cold water, away from the air, the pump had lain for more than 200 years, apparently, and is to-day in almost a perfect state of preservation.

Had a Good Thing.—Mr. Rockefeller's Opinion of the Medical Profession. When Mr. William Rockefeller had appendicitis Dr. McBriney was called in to perform the necessary operation.

After his recovery Mr. Rockefeller received the doctor's bill in due course, and drawing a check, went to pay the account of the person. In the conversation which followed appendicitis was naturally their main theme.

"You told me," said Mr. Rockefeller, "while I was sick, doctor, that everybody in the world had a vermin form appendix."

"With a few exceptions I believe that to be the case," answered the doctor.

"And that sooner or later," pursued the oil magnate, "every one would have to be operated on, either to cure or prevent the disease."

"That is the generally recognized opinion among the medical fraternity," was the answer.

"Well," said Mr. Rockefeller, rising, "if you will pardon me saying so, it seems to me that you have a better thing of it than has the Standard Oil Company."—New York Times.

Vegetable That Coughs.—Neither man, nor the entire animal kingdom, has a coughing, or coughing or even getting red in the face in an effort to throw off foreign substances. Before there was a vertebrate on the earth, while man was in process of evolution through the vegetable world, Elada Tussien—that is what the botanists call him, while we know him as "the coughing bear"—coughed, got red in the face, and blew the dust out of his lungs.

Recently botanists have been giving special attention to this bear, and tell interesting things about it. It is a native of warm and moist tropical countries and objects most emphatically to dust. It has an effective means of getting rid of objectionable matter.

When dust settles on the breathing pores in the leaves of the plant and chokes them a gas accumulates inside, and when it gains sufficient pressure, there comes an explosion with a sound exactly like coughing, says the Washington Times, and the dust is blown from its lodging.

Rivalry Over Beethoven Statue.—Much rivalry has existed between the cities of Leipzig and Vienna for the possession of the remarkable statue of Beethoven, recently executed by Max Klinger of Leipzig.

Subscription lists were opened in both places, but it is understood that the city council of Vienna finally decided to make no contribution to the fund, so Leipzig now has the best chance of securing it. It represents the labor of fifteen years and depicts the great German musician seated upon a bronze throne which is supported by symbolical figures in relief. An eagle, chiseled in black marble spreads its wings at the feet of the massive figure. The unconventional treatment as well as its fine execution has created quite a sensation throughout Europe. It is said to have cost $27,000 for materials alone, and is held by the sculptor at a purchase figure of $100,000.

Mayor Was Excited.—P. A. Collins, recently elected mayor of Boston, was at work in his office when he was disturbed by a knock at his door. He called, "Come in," and a messenger boy presented himself and timidly approached the mayor.

"Is it," asked the mayor, "asked the boy, with a good deal of hesitancy. "It is," replied the mayor promptly. The boy looked surprised.

"Excuse me," he said, "but I thought the you were short."

"Yes," said Gen. Collins, "you're quite right, I am a little short; can you lend me five?"

Bees Took Possession.—An English writer says: "Some of the bees were deliberately turned out of their nests at times by bees. I remember watching for the completion of a hedge sparrow's nest a few years ago, but before the birds had laid any eggs the nest was usurped by a small species of bumble bee and the rightful owner's deserted. A friend of mine had two wrens' nests in his garden taken possession of by bees in a similar manner, and I once knew of a tawny owl being turned out of her nesting hole in a hollow tree." Bees are pugnacious.

Went to Hunt Him.—A tall, green sort of a fellow walked into a place the other day where they were talking politics.

"Where are the Socialists? Show me a Socialist, gentlemen, and I'll show you a liar."

In an instant a man stood before the inquirer warlike and said: "I am a Socialist, sir."

"You are."

"Yes sir, I am."

IRONING A SHIRT WAIST. Not infrequently a young woman finds it necessary to launder a shirt waist at home for some emergency when the laundryman or home servant cannot do it.

Hence these directions for ironing the waist: To iron summer shirt waists so that they will look like new it is essential to have them starched evenly with Defiance starch, then made perfectly smooth and rolled tight in a damp cloth, to be laid away two or three hours.

When ironing have a bowl of water and a clean piece of muslin beside the ironing board. Have your iron hot, but not sufficiently so to scorch, and absolutely clean. Begin by ironing the back, then the front, sleeves and the cuffs, followed by the neckband and collar. When wrinkles appear apply the damp cloth and remove them.

Always iron from the top of the waist to the bottom. If there are plaits in the front iron them downward, after first raising each one with a blunt knife, and with the edge of the iron follow every line of stitching to give it distinctness. After the shirt waist is ironed it should be well aired by the fire or in the sun before it is folded and put away, says the Philadelphia Inquirer.

Economy is a good thing, but should not be carried to parsimony.

I have just received a nice line of ladies' and misses' red, oak and mahogany rockers, wall packets, music racks, clock shelves, screens, iron beds, hammocks, etc. I have a few refrigerators left that I will sell at cost. J. N. EDDINS.

While the Herald always felt sure that prohibition would not carry in Donley county last year, and so expressed itself before the election freely, still we are constrained to believe the conditions are changed very much at this time and the election now on hand will reverse the result. It is almost certain that Clarendon will go "dry" in the next sixty days.—Hall County Herald.

Direct Legislation in Oregon.
The adoption of a constitutional amendment by Oregon providing for what is known as "the initiative and referendum," awakens interest in a movement which, though very quiet, is making considerable headway.

Oregon's amendment provides that whenever 8 per cent. of the voters petition for the passage of a specific piece of legislation it shall be submitted to a popular vote. If approved by a majority of the votes cast, it becomes law. This is the initiative. Acts of the legislature may be referred to the people by that body and must be so referred whenever 5 per cent. of the voters demand it. In such case the act is suspended until the vote. If it is approved by a majority, it is law; if not, it is void. This is the referendum.

Similar constitutional provisions have been adopted in South Dakota, Nebraska and Illinois, and are under consideration in several others.

Experience is yet too fragmentary to justify any definite conclusion concerning the practical working of the initiative and referendum. But it is evident that the people, especially of the west, are losing confidence in elected legislatures and propose to reserve to themselves powers heretofore delegated to their representatives. It is in a way a return to pure as distinguished from representative democracy.—Post-Dispatch.

INDUSTRIAL WEST CORRESPONDENCE.
Quite a number of our citizens attended court at Clarendon this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Singley, of Wellington, Texas, visited their daughter Mrs. W. W. Suggs of this place last week returning home Friday.

Dr. Stubbs, of Blooming Grove, Texas, spent a part of last week with his brothers at this place, returning home Saturday. The Dr. says Donley county has the best corn he has seen in three years.

Joseph Stephens, of Skillet, was doing business in Allenreid Saturday.

Mr. Ellis Cox and family, of Greer county, Ok., are visiting Mrs. Cox's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Brooks of this place.

Miss Jackson, of Bowie, who has been visiting her cousins, the Misses McCrackens the last month, returned home Thursday.

Mr. McNight and family, of Greer county, Ok., are visiting Mrs. McNight's parents Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Hill of Allenreid.

Allenreid is talking of circulating a petition asking for a prohibition election to be held at the regular November election. Come through brothers, you are young but can't have prohibition too soon.

Crops generally are very fine, grass very good and cattle very fat. Messrs James and John Brooks of this place are visiting their brother Will, at Rowe switch.

The death of McCarty of Clarendon was no surprise to me as such characters are sure to die and most sure to wake up in hell and call on the saloon men for a glass of cold water to cool their parching tongue instead of a glass of whiskey that burns their stomach and deadens the brain. Whiskey has, we believe, run its race in Clarendon.

Giles Gossip.
INDUSTRIAL WEST CORRESPONDENCE.
Crops around Giles are looking fine.

Weather cool and light showers. Wm. Hassell, Dr. Miller and Yank Swafford shipped several cars of cattle to Kansas City on the 10th inst.

Rev. John Carney delivered an excellent lecture on prohibition at Giles on the evening of the 10th. Every one present seemed to enjoy it finely. After the lecture was over he took a vote of the audience and every one present voted for prohibition.

On the 8th the good people of Giles and surrounding country enjoyed a delightful picnic given by the Giles Sunday school. We were treated to some delightful music by the Memphis brass band. Mr. G. G. Willingham is leader of the band and deserves much praise as the boys have only been instructed a very short while. After every one had partaken of a delightful dinner, the Memphis and Giles boys repaired to the ball grounds and entered into a nice social game of five or six innings, resulting in favor of the Giles boys with a score of 23 to 2. In justice to Memphis, we will say they only played one of their first nine, while Giles played all of their first, and this was the first game the majority of them had played in ten years. We trust that we may have the pleasure of attending another picnic at Giles in the near future.

Mr. Wm. Johnson and wife, of Greenville, Texas, are visiting in and around Giles.

Bro. J. B. Cole is assisting in the meeting at Rowe this week, and as a matter of course, we anticipate a good revival.

Mrs. P. C. Johnson visited relatives at Clarendon the 10th inst. Don't fail to notice that patch of Mexican June Corn of P. C. Johnson's near Giles, it is immense.

Judge Akres will visit friends and relatives at Iowa Park this week.

Mrs. Dr. Johnson and sons of Amarillo, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Tom Curtis.

Miss Pearl Stone has been entertaining several of her girl friends from Memphis, the past week.

Mr. Grover Elder, of Greenville, Texas, who has been spending quite a while at Giles for his health, will return home in a few days.
