CLARENDON, DONLEY COUNTY, TEXAS, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 31, 1918

VOL. 29, NO. 45

WAR WORK DRIVE BASED ON HELP TO HOME BOYS

The basis of appeal for funds in the United War Work Campaign in Donley County is asking the people of this county to put up the money for comforts, recreation and assistance to the three hundred and more sons of this county who are in France battling for our safety and happiness, and those now in the training camps and soon to go "over there."

The campaign in the entire United States resolves itself into each community being patriotic and interested enough in the comfort and welfare of its own boys to put up the money so that the seven agencies now united in doing just that, may be able to do their work without stint and without the handicap of insufficient finances.

Donley County's quota is $10,000 for this work, which amounts to about $30 per capita to furnish reading, recreation—clean recreation—hot drinks when exposed to the rigors of a damp, chilling winter in a foreign country, stationery for his letters home, trained brotherly men to look after his moral welfare and the thousand and one attentions the seven agencies will be able to give him.

Is there a single parent who would not stint and save that the necessary $30 for the comfort of their son might be given him? We don't believe that there is a single one who will fail to do what they can to see that Donley County does her part. Not a citizen would be willing for the report to go out that some other county in Texas, or the nation, was forced to put up the money to give Donley County's boys their share of the comforts while in the service.

Would our people be willing to face the boys when they return and even attempt an explanation as to why Donley County failed to do their share of this great work? No, and neither are we willing for the report to go across the seas that we failed. We cannot afford to fail and the safest way to assure the success of the $10,000 drive from Nov. 11th to 18th, inclusive is for each man, woman and child to do their utmost to make it a success.

The News prints below the assessed quotas against the several school districts in the county:

HONOR TO SOLDIER FROM LELIA LAKE

Lieutenant James W. Adams, a Lelia Lake boy, of the Signal Corps of the 69th Infantry, stationed at Camp Funston, was on last Friday designated by General Leonard Wood as advance officer for his division which will soon sail for France.

He has gone to Long Island where arrangements will be made by him for the final transportation of the division to France where they will take their place as an active unit in the great American army over there.

Lieutenant Adams will precede the division some few days to France, in order to meet the proper authorities there, and make the necessary arrangements for their landing and encampment.

His many friends will be glad to know of this signal honor thus conferred, but they, together with the writer, feel that the honor is justly deserved, and that this great responsibility placed on him will be met with true manliness and courage.

Mrs. Adams came in Sunday morning and is at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Adams, the gentleman's parents, where she will make her home.

WINDY VALLEY WARBLES

Bert Ayers and family have been rather sick with the influenza but are some better at present.

Mrs. Laurence Sligar returned home Monday from a visit to McLean with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. S. Ray.

J. J. Bills and daughter, Miss Jack, Fern Bagwell and wife, Roy Darnell and wife, were Clarendon visitors on Monday.

Andrew Russell was called to Granbury, Tex., Tuesday night to the death bed of his sister, Mrs. Frank Morrison. He has our greatest sympathy.

BLUE EYED SUE.

The change in time has proven very popular with Clarendon people. We get down town without being late these mornings and then it isn't so long between dinner and supper as it was. The great majority of people in this section hope the new time will not be put in effect next year.

ery is working smoothly and all the officials are optimistic over the outcome.

Donley County will raise her quota of $10,000.

THE PRESIDENT SUGGESTED PLAN FOR WAR DRIVE

"The White House, Washington, Sept. 3, 1918.

"My Dear Mr. Fosdick:

"May I not call your attention to a matter which has recently been engaging my thought not a little?"

"The war department has recognized the Young Men's Christian Association, the Young Women's Christian Association, the National Catholic War Council, the Jewish Welfare Board, the War Camp Community Service, the American Library Association and the Salvation Army as accepted instrumentalities through which the men in the ranks are to be assisted in many essential matters of recreation and morals.

"It was from the first, and has become increasingly evident, that the services rendered by these agencies to our army, and to our allies, are especially one and all of a kind, and must of necessity, if well rendered, be rendered in the closest co-operation. It is my judgment, therefore, that we shall secure the best results in the matter of the support of these agencies if these seven societies will unite their forthcoming appeals for funds, in order that the spirit of the country in this matter may be expressed without distinction of race or religious opinion in support of what is in reality a common service.

"The point of view is sustained by the necessity, which the war has forced upon us, of limiting our appeals for funds in such a way that two or three comprehensive campaigns shall take the place of a series of independent calls upon the generosity of the country.

"Will you not, therefore, as chairman of the commission on training camp activities, be good enough to request these societies in question to combine their approaching appeals for funds in a single campaign, preferably during the week of November 11, so that in their solicitation of funds, as well as in their work in the field, they may act in as complete co-operation and fellowship as possible?"

"In inviting these organizations to give this new evidence of their patriotic co-operation, I wish it distinctly understood that their compliance with this request will not, in any sense, imply the surrender on the part of any of them of its distinctive character and autonomy, because I fully recognize the fact that each of them has its own traditions, principles and relationships which it properly prizes and which, if preserved and strengthened, make possible the largest service.

"At the same time, I would be obliged if you would convey to them from me a very warm expression of the government's appreciation of the splendid service they have rendered in ministering to the troops at home and overseas in their leisure time. Through their agencies the moral and spiritual resources of the nation have been mobilized behind our forces and used in the finest way, and they are contributing directly and effectively to the winning of the war.

"It has been gratifying to find such a fine spirit of co-operation among all the leaders of the organizations I have mentioned. This spirit, and the patriotism of all the members and friends of these agencies, give me confidence to believe that the united war work campaign will be crowned with abundant success.

"Cordially and sincerely yours,
"WOODROW WILSON."

Dear Mother:
I will try and write you a line to let you know how everything is; fine. Well, mother, tell everybody hello for me. I am in the base hospital with rheumatism. Mother, tell all the boys they may not believe in the Good Lord, but when they go in the front line they will think about Him then. Mother, I have been reading from two to three chapters in the testament every day and I pray every night, and I feel like the Good Lord was going to let me come back to the states.

Mother, I want you all to help the Red Cross all you can because they are the finest people in the world. They have more patience with a man. Well, good bye. Your son,

THE SITUATION BETTER

Dr. C. G. Stricklin, who came over Monday from Clarendon in response to a request from the Red Cross to assist in treating the influenza, will return to Clarendon today and go immediately to the army in medical service in response to a telegram from the war department.

Dr. Stricklin stated before leaving that the situation here is much improved and cautions the people to use good judgment and proper care and the disease will soon have run its course in this community.

Dr. Warriner, also, makes the statement that the situation is much improved over that of last week and urges the people to use good judgment and proper care and the disease will soon be stamped out in this community.

Dr. York has been confined right at home the past week with his own family. Mrs. York and several of the children being sick and Mrs. York's condition is yet very serious.—Panhandle Herald.

At his home seven miles north-east of Happy, Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 15th, D. A. Castleberry passed away, having yielded to the disease so prevalent among us just now—Spanish influenza. He leaves a wife and three small children, who are also sick at the present time. The bereaved ones have the sympathy of the entire community in their great sorrow. Mr. Castleberry was a comparative stranger to us, having moved here from Clarendon a short time ago, but those who knew him best say he was a young man of exemplary character who numbered his friends by his acquaintances. His funeral was held Wednesday afternoon under the auspices of the Masons and Modern Woodmen, both orders of which he was an honored member. After the services his body was laid to rest in the Happy cemetery.—Tulia Herald.

HEREFORD'S SUCCESS- FUL FREE FAIR

The Hereford Free Fair has come and gone, and if there are any regrets on the part of any citizen The Brand has not heard of it. On the other hand many compliments have been heard, paid to the amazing work performed on such short notice by the ladies especially, and by the stock committees and others.

The basement housing the exhibits of the ladies department, the merchants' exhibits, field crops and garden exhibits, etc., was riot of color and beautiful and tasty to look at. The stock barns, thrown up in shape of a great V—on the open lots opposite the court house, with the open end in that direction, were convenient sanitary and comfortable. The hogs, dairy and grade stock and poultry were shown in between these sheds and the court house, the whole forming a compact, easy-to-reach fair ground that caused favorable comment on all sides.

There were not rules and regulations for exhibitors this year, owing to the short preparation period. But a significant action was taken Saturday at noon, when a small body of business men met at the hog pens on the grounds and adopted a resolution to the effect that a regular fair should be planned at once for next year.—Hereford Brand.

MANY WILL PLANT WHEAT

The rains the fore part of the week put a good season in the ground in most sections of the plains, especially north and west, and as soon as the weather permits wheat sowing will begin on a large scale.

North of Plainview the rains were heaviest. At Tulia there was between eight and ten inches, and bridges on Tule creek were washed away. North-east of that town at the Kinder, Martin and Reeves farms the precipitation was heavier than in Tulia, and fences and feedstuffs in the field were washed away.

West of Plainview from Halfway to beyond Olton and through Swisher and Castro counties the rain was heavy, and the draw was put up and has been running boldly since Tuesday night.

South and east the rains were lighter. At the Snyder place it was less than an inch, on the Ellerd farm near Hale Center it was less than an inch also. Beyond Aiken to the east there was little rain.—Plainview News.

Mrs. Will Coon died Sunday morning in Amarillo of Spanish influenza. The remains were taken to Ft. ON HUNTING TRIP

Judge Tatum, Bill Garrett and Noel Cummings returned last week from a hunt of several days in the Cimarron mountains. So far as known they brought back no trophies. It is thought this bunch have more acute olfactory senses and can trail the antlered herd regardless of rain, snow, sleet or fire.—Dalhart Texan.

THE STORY OF THE LOST BATTALION

(By Frazier Hunt)

In France with the American Army, Oct. 14 (delayed)—Seated tailor-fashion in a "funk-hole" scooped out from the slope of a steep wooded hillside, two or three kilometers from the front line. Major Charles W. Whittlesey told last night for the first time the complete story of the gallant stand of his battalion of the 77th Division. For five days and nights this battalion was cut off in the heart of the forest of the Argonne.

Tall, slender, smooth shaven, wearing thick-lensed spectacles, this man, who, when surrounded, beaten and cut up, had answered the German demand for his surrender with a polite invitation to "go to hell," told in a low pitched voice what is probably one of the greatest stories of the war. His uniform was ragged and dirty and he was wrapped in an ill-fitting private's overcoat and wore an old winter cap that had been issued long ago at Camp Upton.

Promoted on the Battle Field
Although three days before on the battle field he had been made a lieutenant colonel, there was no mark of rank about him. And the tale he told was as simple and honest as the clothes he wore. Across the bridge of his nose was a deep cut made by a shell—a scar that he will always wear.

Shells were whining overhead—answers, it seemed, to the German peace proposals—and the dusk of early evening was adding to the unutterable mystery of this great forest, that American history will rank with Belleau Wood. Supper was being brought up from the rolling kitchens tucked far below in the gully and when these men who had been through the terrible strain saw real beefsteak they awoke the whole woods with their cheers.

It was their first real meal since they started fighting their way through the black, unknown forest 17 days before. Many of them had grubby, week-old beards, their clothes were torn and dirty, but they were joking and laughing.

Their Suffering Was Forgotten
Already, it seemed, they had forgotten the five long, terrible nights, the days of thirst and hunger and suffering when even hope was gone and dogged determination remained. The romance and wonder of the war had gripped them—had brought them rescue, and now was bringing them rumors of peace and hot food.

For hours we had ridden by motor over the slippery, muddy forest roads, now swept by a great tide of moving guns, marching troops, camions, wagons and all the paraphernalia of war, now swept back by the undertow bound to the rear. Finally we left the car in one of the super traffic jams and tramped miles through these tragic, majestic woods, searching for this man who some day will have a place alongside Custer.

First he traced briefly his story of the battle in the Argonne up to the night when his command was cut off and surrounded. At 2 o'clock on the morning of September 26 the bombardment started. Four hours later these New York City boys went over the top. The first day they advanced four kilometers (about three miles).

Then night came on, mysteriously and slowly, with darkness dropping over the woods like some great bowl. Night sounds, always so intense and dramatic were made more terrible by the knowledge of great unknown tasks ahead.

Guns Spat Like Angry Cats
Hun machine guns swept the woods, spitting like giant angry cats, and promising certain death to any who might move. The Yankees could only lay low in their holes and await dawn. Then they started again, reaching forward through the tangle of underbrush and virgin trees like blind men feeling their way through strange streets. Always there was machine guns ahead firing upon them. This was one of the great tasks of the war—to clean out these woods, roughly three miles wide and three miles long. Sixty thousand gallant Frenchmen, thousands upon thousands of the enemy had gone down there. The night ghosts of these men seemed to roam through the deathless tracks, uttering sabbatic entreaties amid the cries of the wounded and the moaning of the winds.

Town Boys Fought Like Indians
This was work for men of the outdoors, but these boys, whose feet had traveled only the great White Way, now traced machine guns by their sound, battling with all the cunning woodcraft and bravery of old Indian fighters. On the second day they made three kilometers, the third and fourth days a little less. The enemy's resistance was strong now. Only by pushing one group forward with heavy sacrifices and then sending others to flank the enemy positions was it possible to gain at all. All day long they fought. When night dropped down they could only stop and wait for dawn.

On the morning of October 2 our forces were approximately two-thirds through the woods. Major Whittlesey's men had been fighting continuously. They now were ordered to advance to a certain road that ran alongside a high slope and about half way up. They made this advance across a deep narrow valley, getting into a position on the hillside just below the road.

Through Old Trench Position
On the other side of this deep gully rose a great wooded slope on the crest of which was an old boche trench. They had fought their way through it.

With Major Whittlesey at this time were 550 men, parts of two battalions of the 308th and 307th regiments, and two platoons from machine gun companies with heavy guns.

Immediately upon gaining the position Major Whittlesey ordered his men to dig "funk holes" which were only large enough to get their bodies below the level of the ground, and prepare to spend the night there.

Fighting against numberless machine guns, when one unit had advanced as far as it could, and with the whole movement like a checker game, liaison had been very difficult, and while there was a system of runner posts established back to regimental headquarters, there was no connection with the units on the flanks.

At dawn the morning of October 3 things began to look bad for the little command here by itself, not knowing just where was friend or foe. At 8:50 o'clock Major Whittlesey sent his first message by carrier pigeon: "Being shelled by German artillery. Can we not have artillery support? Fire coming from northwest."

Found He Was Really Cut Off
Much concerned because he was receiving no orders and no food, ammunition or details of troops were coming, Major Whittlesey received his first definite assurance two hours later that he was actually cut off.

"One of the runners from the post across the valley came up, frightened and shaking, and reported his post had been attacked and one man killed and another one wounded, while he escaped only by luck." Major Whittlesey went on, talking slowly, with no effort at the dramatic. "This man said he knew the post next him had been attacked at the same time and the runners probably had been killed."

"I knew that this meant only one thing—the Germans had filtered through from our left flank and occupied the hill across the valley behind us, taking over their old line trenches there. Immediately I sent a strong patrol to the right to see if it could get through. When it returned and reported a stiff fight I saw we were cut off completely."

"All this time the machine guns from the hill across the valley were firing at us and I sent E company to clean them out if possible. They tried desperately, but met heavy resistance."

Mortar Did Great Damage
"At 4 o'clock on this first evening they opened up on us with a mortar hidden behind a hump in the slope. This gun did a lot of damage. We tried to capture it, but the boche enfolding machine gun fire made it impossible."

"Then, just at dusk they started their first attack, coming into us from practically all sides. You see, our position was a road cut along the hill. Above this, after a sharp rise of ten feet, ran the hill, which the boche claimed, except for our patrols. "They charged down this hill, lobbing 'potato mashers' on us, while others attacked our flanks from across the valley below us."

"For four hours we fought. Finally the Germans retired to their positions. It was dark now and the firing died down, except when they swept our whole position with machine guns."

"Then the protecting night came. Darkness was never more welcome to those men crouched in their tiny holes on hillsides. For a distance of three hundred yards and almost down to the bottom of the gully they had dug themselves in now. Those who were uninjured went from one hole to another helping the wounded, dividing their iron rations in their packs and fetching water."

Buried Dead in Shallow Graves
"Other groups dug shallow graves and buried the men who had been killed. At the bottom of the gully ran a little stream and the men went down to this and filled their canteens. At intervals some boche machine gun swept the valley and raked the hillside. Every now and then some man cried out that he was wounded."

and not on cost of replacement; our cash price system; we sell for small profit; we have one price only; our goods are marked in plain figures. Everybody treated alike. Everybody pay the same price every day in the week. Makes no difference what price others make we have the same goods for less.

Bleached and Brown Domestic Wool Flannel Outing, Flannel Net, Percale, Gingham,

Ladies' and Misses' Suits, Ladies' and Misses' Cloaks, winter underwear; Wool Blankets, Wool Nap Blankets, at one price until goods are all sold. It would be extortion to sell goods two or three days in the week cheap to get you coming their way then raise the price. We sell at one price until goods are all sold. After our stock is all sold out and we have to go in the market for replacement, you will have to pay much more.

Working Men's Clothes

At a price that will save the working man his hard earned dollar. Your money is now worth about half what it was before the war began. Now to save in buying means a great deal.

OUR PRICES SPEAK FOR THEMSELVES
We have everything you need in warm clothing.

Campus Tog Suits

for young men and older men; for men who care and appreciate real values.

Campus Tog's true meaning is Quality, Correct Style, Correct Fit, Correct Tailoring and the real true meaning is Value; such as you will not find anywhere else. You would not find such values if it were not for our buying twelve months in advance, and our cash basis of selling is surely less than you would pay elsewhere.

was trying desperately to fight his way out. Again and again he sent patrols to find an open way. Always they came back—their wounds offering ample evidence of the desperate position they were in. On the second morning another precious carrier pigeon was sent with a message.

"Huns still around us, but in smaller numbers. We were shelled heavily by mortar this morning. Present effective strength about 235. Cover bad if we attempt advance up hill. Very difficult to move wounded if we attempt to change position. Situation is cutting into our strength badly. Men suffering from hunger, exposure and wounds. In very bad condition. Can not support be sent at once?"

A Whole Brigade to Rescue
This pathetic appeal for support unnecessary for a whole brigade was trying desperately to cut through the Germans, now heavily entrenched, and get to the trapped Americans. Time after time these men, surrounded on the hillside, could hear heavy firing across the valley and identified it as attempts at rescue. It came in waves, dying down now and then, and when night came on, it would cease until dawn broke again.

Few braver deeds of the war are on record than those attempts at rescue. Brig. Gen. Evan M. Johnson personally led two attacks. In one of them a machine gun bullet cut through his puttee, missing his leg by a fraction of an inch.

While the gallant attempts to rescue them were going on by land, airplanes were attempting to drop boxes of food and ammunition from the air. So heavy, however, was the screen of trees over the unknown terrain that all fell into boche hands.

On the fourth day, when the desperate straits of hunger were gripping the men, one box was seen to drop a few hundred yards away. Immediately eight men volunteered to try to reach it. Five were killed and the remaining three injured and captured.

A few hours later one of these three wounded men came in with a letter demanding that the Americans surrender.

"Go to Hell," Was the Major's Reply
"I guess we will just tell them to go to hell," Major Whittlesey remarked when the message was brought to him. A little later the words of the major spread about the hillside and the men set up a defiant shout.

That night another attack was beaten off in the same way as all the others. Day came on this last and fifth morning with one-third of the men able to handle their rifles. Only a little ammunition remained. This was hoarded carefully. The machine guns had practically all their ammunition. In every third funk hole lay a wounded man, and fresh wounds covered the hillside.

The artillery, mortar and machine gun fire had broken down much of the protection which the trees and underbrush had afforded, but still the men moved about helping the wounded. A score had lost their lives getting water. Long ago the last drop of food and tobacco had been used up—and still no help came.

And Then—A Rescue
That night at 7 o'clock shouts came from the right of the thin line. Then there came calls for Major Whittlesey. Hurrying along the slope he found the rescuers had come. The advance guard had broken through the left. He knew this meant the withdrawal of the Germans from his rear. Weak, worn out, but happy now, the besieged men gathered about their rescuers.

Then the men who had fought their way through turned over their own reserve rations and their cigarettes were divided among the wounded.

Toward morning plenty of food and a big relief with ambulances and doctors came. A divisional general arrived, too, and when he saw the men who had fought back so bravely and so long, he gripped his hand and told him that from that moment he was a lieutenant colonel.

That morning they removed the wounded. Yesterday they carefully took out the bodies of the dead from the shallow graves and carried them to the heart of the valley below, where they buried them in a consecrated spot.

In the center rises a rough hewn wooden cross and it will mark for all time where American heroes died rather than surrender.—Kansas City Star.

Major Ike Ashburn of Fort Worth was recently wounded twice in France and after his second wound gotten in the very thick of the hand-to-hand fight, he compelled with a hand grenade several German soldiers to become prisoners and carry him to a dressing station. That was great work. Major Ike is a giant of a fellow, and from our knowledge of him back in college days, The News man will guarantee that in spite of his wound and in spite of the desperation of the situation, that the major grinned while he enforced his will on his prisoners. No army in the whole world fights, suffers and dies with a smile but "les Americans."

The influenza scare in this locality seems to have been more a passing hysteria than a reality. Very few cases have developed and practically no deaths resulting from it or its complications. The public mind in Clarendon is about cleared of its fright and with the opening of the schools this week, the picture show today and the churches next Sunday, the regular routine of life is resumed. It is doubtful if ever before has there been so long a time in Clarendon without church services. Our people will no doubt assemble at their places of worship next Sunday with more pleasure and with a clearer appreciation of how much church means to them than on any former occasion. If it works out that way, then the recess is not without its advantage.

One of our neighboring contemporaries, the Vernon Record, has raised their subscription price to $2.00 per year on Nov. 1st. During the past week the mayor of that town came into the Record office and advanced his figures another year at the new price. "When the publishers feel that it is necessary to charge $2 a year for the home paper," said the mayor, "I want the honor of being the first man to subscribe at that price." The mayor of Vernon is a business man who recognizes the fact that a newspaper, like all other business, must keep its selling prices in ratio with the increased cost of production in order to remain in business. The Clarendon News is facing the same proposition and on Dec. 1st will go to $2.00 per year. You have a month to renew your subscription at the old price. Only one year at $1.50 will be accepted.

In a recent news dispatch we note where a certain bull cost $3,000. There's lots of men scattered over the world who can relate instances where "bulls" cost more than that. The humpty-dumpty head of the house of Hohenzollern, for instance.

Next Tuesday is general election day. The state Democratic Chairman has issued a strong letter urging the voters of the state to go to the polls. The more votes cast the stronger Democratic representation in the affairs of the nation. The elections are paid for out of state money, therefore every voting citizen ought to avail themselves of this opportunity of a voice in state and national affairs.

How much are you willing to give that soldier boys from Donley County shall have the little comforts you bloody western front? This question is personal and will be put up square-jaw even on the firing line of the ly to every citizen of Donley County during the United War Work Campaign, Nov. 11th to 18th. A liberal donation marks a man who backs up his professed interest in our boys "over there."

The Clarendon News is mailed to some thirty of the boys in France. Even at the risk of making some of the fellows over there downright mad this office does not intend mailing them the issue of the week following the United War Work drive unless Donley County has made up her $10,000. We cannot contemplate their feelings of disappointment should they read that Donley County people, prosperous and happy, had failed to do what had been asked of them to make life under fire a little more tolerable. Will the boys get The News carrying the county report?

Over Texas there were some antis who at the promptings of their appetites, made quite a demonstration over the fact that the statewide prohibition law had been held unconstitutional by the supreme court. But they cheered too soon. There are certain sections of the law which are still in effect and in almost every instance in Texas the law still in effect hedges about the wet localities so that hardly a saloon can exist. Some tried to open up and operate but only ran an hour or so and were arrested and have serious charges to face. Injunctions have restrained the opening of saloons in other anti territory, so that the poor ignorant bunch of antis are coming to view the matter like their more enlightened leaders, who recognize the utter failure of their cause and the eternal stamping out of their hellish business.

NEW THE "LINGO"

A sentry on a lonely road leading back from the front heard the rattle of an approaching motor. Bringing his gun to port, he said, "Halt! Who goes there?" And a voice came out of the darkness. "British Ambulance, sir." "Pass, British Ambulance!" A little while after the same noise of approach and the question. This time the answer was: "Ambulance Française." "Pass, French ambulance." Silence * * * and then another approach. "Halt, who goes there?" "What the h--- is the idea of stoppin' me like this? I got a load o' sick men—" "Pass American ambulance!" —Breakfast Story.

The News man returns thanks for some fine late roasting ears and an ample bag of Tepyary beans left at the editorial sanctum by F. P. Dunkle of Lelis Lake.

HUMILIATING GERMANY

San Francisco Chronicle: It is high time that the German people were told frankly that the German government will have no voice whatever in deciding the terms of peace. All thought of a peace by diplomatic agreement between the two sets of belligerents should be banished from the mind at once.

Germany will be informed respectfully but firmly what conditions are to be imposed upon her, but she will be no more consulted than was France when Germany was the victor dictating the terms.

If German leaders protest that such a course would be humiliating to the people of their country, we either do not heed the protests of the defeated or reply that Germany had no hesitation in humiliating France at the conclusion of the last war.

France was not asked what terms she would like to accept; she was simply told what Germany had decided. But the Germans did not stop at making their own arrangements in regard to the seizure of Alsace and Lorraine and the payment of a big indemnity; they insisted on expressly humiliating France by a wholly unnecessary triumphal parade through the streets of Paris.

Has Germany forgotten these things? France has certainly not.

The humanity actuating the Allies may not permit us to stoop to the crimes of Germany in meting out punishment for them, but, whatever we may choose to call it, some punishment must be inflicted. As the judge said to the prisoner who wept bitterly at the sentence: "We are not punishing you for stealing the horse, but that other horses may not be stolen."

As the criminal before the court of civilization, Germany has been found guilty, and what court would ever think of permitting the convicted criminal to have a voice in deciding the nature of his sentence?

It is for Germany, by an unconditional surrender, to throw herself upon the mercy of the court, and not to play the part of a cornered but not yet arrested criminal promising to go along to prison if the police will guarantee that he will have a seat beside the judge when the case comes up for trial.

WHEN THE COLORS WENT BY

The great outpouring of French sentiment for Americans is described by Lieutenant Frank O. Brigham of the air service, whose home is in Oakland, Cal. He writes to his father, F. E. Brigham, and his letter is reprinted by the Literary Digest:

I was in Paris, July 14. It was a wonderful day in every way. The early morning was very dull and gray, but by the time the parade was started there was not a cloud in the sky. I never expect to see another spectacle like it unless I am fortunate enough to see an Allied entry into Berlin. Half of the world—yes, more than that—was represented in line and represented by the best that each nation could bring forward. As the colors of each nation went by, Paris seemed to get more and more excited until I believe that they had reached the absolute heights of enthusiasm.

English, Belgian, Italian, all of them took the city by storm, but away off down the line I heard a hum that steadily grew louder and sounded above all the rest of the noise, a hum that somehow or other got inside of me and made me stand a little straighter, and then about a block away I saw a flash of color, and oh! how wonderful it looked to me for the color resolved itself into the "Colors;" and then, my dear people I thought the heavens had broken loose. I have never in my life heard such an outburst of noise. It was not the high shouting that one usually hears, but a roar that started away down and gradually increased until when it broke the very windows rattled. It sounded like the organized yell of a million rosters and then just as quickly as it had started it died down, and amid an absolute silence and with every civilian hat off, every man in uniform, at a stiff salute, the colors of the United States of America went by.

IN MEMORIAM

A shadow of gloom was cast over our city when news was received that Homer Stocking had passed away at Camp Travis, Texas, Oct. 15th. Homer was born in Clarendon, Texas, November 14th, 1895, and had spent most of his life here. At nine years of age he professed in the saving power of our Lord and joined the Methodist Church, South. His education was obtained first from our public school from which he graduated with the class of 1911 after which he spent one year in Clarendon College and later attended the State University of Oklahoma at Norman, where he took special work in geology, after which he took up work with the Cosden Oil Co., locating oil wells, and was retained on their pay roll up till the time of his death. Early in the spring of the present year Homer went to Austin and made application for service in the aerial branch of the army, but arrived there just a few hours too late to be admitted, as this line was full.

On June 26th he answered his call and with a number of other Clarendon boys, left for Camp Travis, Texas. From a private he was soon made a corporal and was later recommended for a sergeant and was to have been sent to the officers training camp near Atlanta, Ga., a day or two after Camp Travis was quarantined.

On Oct. 7th he was taken sick and entered the influenza hospital; developing pneumonia he was carried to the base hospital from which place his spirit passed into the Great Beyond at 8 a. m. the morning of the 15th. During the last twenty-four hours of his illness his mother and sister attended his bedside and he was placed under the care of a special nurse and all that loving care could do was offered to restore him to life, but the death angel was hovering near and he soon passed away.

Sergeant Griffis of his company, attended the body home, arriving here the evening of the 17th. He was buried from the home at 3:30 of the 18th, just two months after his father had died. A large concourse of friends followed the body to the Citizens Cemetery where it was laid to rest in the family burying ground beneath the floral offerings of his many friends.

The ripe, juicy plums are here ready to be plucked and beginning next Friday these plums will begin to fall to those in need of goods in this department.

LISTEN—You have never known of us misrepresenting any goods in our ads—what's more, you never will. We say unhesitatingly that these are garments made in the new fall colors, of all woolen materials; the latest styles, made by Bischof, Moshontz, Stylefit, and others who cater to the best trade. We find that people have been more conservative than we anticipated, so in this sale our loss is your gain. We are also selling many other articles below whole-sale cost. Our stock is the greatest ever shown in Clarendon; in fact, it is too large and we want to reduce it, therefore we are holding our prices far below market quotations.

LAREDO BOY WRITES OF BATTLE SCENES

The following letter written by Milus Little of Laredo, Texas, gives a vivid account of some real fighting. The lad is a nephew of T. M. Little of this city, who kindly furnished it for publication:

Somewhere in France.

Dear Mama and Papa:

I dated my last letter the 13th when it should have been the 9th; our battalion was in the battle but came out all O. K. I was about two weeks without a bath; we all had good baths today; during the drive we were located for a while in the trenches captured from the Germans; it was wonderful sight, they were certainly fixed well; the Germany army is well equipped; we captured a lot of their personal equipment; the Germans had our exact range and we had a time dodging their shrapnel; they would not give us a minute's rest; believe me I was glad when we got out of there; the hills were covered with the dead. Our battalion alone buried 50 men. I saw Germans and Americans lying dead side by side; it was an awful sight at first but we soon got used to it. I hope the war will soon be over; I don't want to get into another battle like this. I don't think it will be over soon; I have been in the army over a year and hope I will not be in it another year. I am feeling fine; I don't believe anything but a German bullet will put me out of action; I have not seen Sam Dickens since the fight but think he pulled through all right; I saw Lawrence Price during the fight on German territory, he had been over the top and had a German officer's pistol; he went through it all without a scratch; he said he saw boys shot by his side and in front of him; he said he guessed the Lord was with him. I have not seen Jack White nor heard a thing from him though I think he is all right. Lieutenant Greenshield and Major McCoy are well. I am now ready to come home as I have already seen enough. Write often,

MILUS.

TELLS OF THIRTY-TWO YEARS OF TROUBLE

DUNAVANT FREE FROM RHEUMATISM FIRST TIME SINCE HE WAS SEVEN YEARS OLD—TANLAC ONLY THING HELPED HIM.

"I am free from rheumatism for the first time in thirty-two years, since taking this Tanlac," said B. N. Dunavant, 934 Johl Place, Memphis, Tennessee.

"When I was seven years old, I was unable to walk and had to be carried about by a nurse. I had it in three forms, muscular, sciatic and inflammatory and I simply suffered agony from head to foot. I was down from two to three months at a time, unable to do anything and my left arm got so I couldn't raise it from my side. Many a night I suffered so I couldn't sleep a wink and would have to get up and walk the floor.

"I tried medicine after medicine and made two trips to Hot Springs but nothing gave me more than temporary relief. Some of the medicine I took was so strong it upset my stomach, and I got worse. I started taking Tanlac, and took six bottles and I haven't had a pain since I finished my last bottle nearly a year ago. I went through the last hard winter without a pain. My stomach has been put in good condition also, and I have gained eight pounds. I feel like a different man."

Tanlac is sold in Clarendon by Stocking's Store; in Hedley by J. F. Tomlinson Drug Co.; and in Jericho by O. C. Brown.

When you buy light globes you try to get those that will give the best light at the least expense. Get the Tung-Sol, sold at Stocking's Store.

Songs of the Sea

To the Soul of every one of us there comes at some time a great longing for the mighty ocean. We feel the majesty of its bigness—the serenity of its calm—the fearsome power of its storm.

The traditions of the ocean and the music embodying them hold a tremendous fascination for anyone of imagination or the slightest touch of romantic feeling. "The Flying Dutchman" and his blood-red bark; the swaying galleon sailing the golden sea with her pilgrims to the New World, or the lighthouse, standing firm on its rocky base, sending out its warning beacon gleam—music expresses the soul of them all.

The NEW EDISON

"The Phonograph with a Soul"

will bring the salt tang of the sea to your nostrils, and you will freely sail the great highways of the world under the spell of its musical RE-CREATIONS.

We will RE-CREATE at your request the famous songs of the sea.

The Round Oak Square Base Heater Burns Cheapest Fuel—Prevents Clinkers

The powerful improved Round Oak hot blast converts that 38 per cent. of carbon in the smoke into heat units, which are directly radiated into the room. Ordinarily it goes up the chimney. This saving of 38 per cent. in fuel is very important; but when, on account of other and quite as interesting features, the Round Oak saves an additional 12 per cent., it instantly commands your favorable consideration.

Come and see the stove itself. See that absolute control is built into the stove, not simply assured. Discover why the patent cone center grate and double fire pot prevent clinkers, with cheapest fuel. Examine the extra-heavy cold-rolled boiler iron body. See the doorframes riveted on—gas tight for life. Ask the weight. When you see it, you'll know why it's the best buy.

LIEUT. PAUL DUNKLE TELLS HOW HE WAS WOUNDED

The News is pleased to present the following letters to our readers, written by Lieutenant Paul Dunkle to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Dunkle of Lelia Lake. The descriptive value of the letters will be recognized at once:
Hed'q't. 1st Bn. F. A.

Dear Folks:

Many things have happened since the last time I wrote to you, all of which I cannot relate, but I can say that I stood in company with my major on top of one of the highest hills in this section of France and watched large shells from Allied guns bursting in "Metz," Germany. I was in full view of many square miles of ground over which our troops had advanced and were still advancing when I last saw them.

Believe me, it was a beautiful sight to watch the numerous villages dwindle to dust, and the sun beating a hasty retreat. At the same time I saw three of our airplanes bring down two Germans that were flying in French planes.

I am now many miles from that battle field and badly in need of rest for I have been six days on the road. The men and horses of my battalion are also in need of rest; altho the prospects are far distant now.

In this last battle of the St. Mihiel salient we were able to get several guns into action and fired something over 80 tons of bombs into the Germans in one night.

I had probably the worst job of anyone and that was getting ammunition up to the guns at night when it was so dark you would often run into your own men or bring up against a "kicky" mule. However, when the barrage started everything was pretty well lighted up. Most of our gun positions were in our front line trenches and believe me, it was some Fourth of July picnic to hear all of those Allied shells sailing over you.

I am now able to decorate the lower right forearm with a gold stripe. I accidentally got my head in the way of a German 210 mm. shell. My head was a little bit harder than the shell so it glanced off and left me not knowing if I was in Lelia Lake, Clarendon or Bryan. I soon woke up to the fact that the "boche" shells were still coming my way, so I picked up a private that had been seriously hit in the back by the same shell and put him in the Dodge car that I had with me and immediately beat a hot trail for a hospital. I soon got over my little scalp wound, but the private is badly wounded and may not live.

It all happened this way—I was escorting a wagon train of 60 wagons through the outskirts of "Pout-on-Mousson" when some boche balloon or airplane saw me and immediately had a big gun aimed in my direction and one shell landed a little too close.

Well, its all war, and I am on the winning side. You may look for another newsy letter in a few days.

Of course, the main news of these affairs get to you within 24 hours after it has happened so there is no use of giving details. I have had several letters from you lately. Keep them coming.

Lots of love,

PAUL

Hed'q't 1st Bn. Trench Artillery.

Dear Folks:

Long before this letter reaches you the news of this great drive between Reims and Verdun will have reached you and been forgotten for there are many more to come. We succeeded in feeding the hun about 60 tons of bombs and some damage we did, too, for I went over the top about one hour after the infantry and inspected our targets. The drive has been on for about 60 hours and in that time we have captured many thousands of luns and inflicted some awful losses on them. It was only a few hours after the bombardment when we had to quit in order to let our infantry go. Trench mortars any longer we are going French mortars any longer we are going in as infantry.

I am having an awful time keeping rations going up to the men. It means working day and night. Sometimes when I do sleep it is with my clothes on. I don't object, however, as long as I know it is helping to win our cause.

I told you in my last letter about a slight wound in the head—the scar has nearly healed now and never has bothered me to speak of. I got two letters from you today.

I must close now and go hunt some socks and clothes for my men.

Lots of love to you all,
PAUL

ADDRESS TO REPUBLICANS

Dallas, Texas, Oct. 25, 1918.
Republicans of Texas:
This is not an appeal to you; it is a vital message telling you that our party in this state stands on the threshold of the greatest opportunity ever presented to it.

On your activity in the next few days depends whether we accept it, or let our lethargy destroy it.

There has come into the State Democratic party, ring-ridden and long gorged with political spoils and power, the most distinct feeling of unrest it has ever experienced.

This unrest, without any aid from us except the proffer of fair dealing and square, clean politics, will burst into revolution against their party bosses.

Their last primary, despite its singular appearance of one-mindedness, in reality split the party in twain. There are tens of thousands of men, of independent thought and action, who are determined to give party dictators a blow even if it shakes the Democratic party to its very foundation.

You can feel this very spirit if you but turn to your friends over the county, and talk to them.

It presents to us the greatest opportunity in fifty years to make the republican party in Texas a power to be dreaded for all time to come by these ring politicians.

We want you to begin the greatest activity for the party and keep it up every hour of your time until the polls close November 5. We must work. Nothing can be accomplished if these men who are determined to work out their political salvation by turning to new and fresh fields of political endeavor, do not find you ready to welcome them.

Did you know there were dozens of counties in this state that, if the election was held tomorrow, would turn in a republican vote which would astound the nation as well as the Democratic party leaders?

The eyes of our whole party are upon us. Ours is a chance to accomplish great things. You know that chance is here. You can get the feel of it everywhere.

Republicans! Get into action all along the front.

If we get out our normal Republican vote on November 5, and cast it solidly for Mr. Boynton and our state ticket, an upheaval will occur.

To do such a thing organization must take place. Real organization, we mean.

Go to work at once and get the Republicans in your county pledged. Get them to talking of the election.

To every man not in the party who sees the rottenness which has sucked the life blood of the State Democratic machine, stop and talk. Give him the real message of Republicanism. Give him literature.

Keep this watchword for every male voter: "Cast your ballot November 5."

We want every Republican in this State to come alive to the real situation in the state today. We want all of them to realize that something is going to happen November 5.

Are you going to be one of those who have known it all along and worked to bring it about? Or are you going to be on the outside, a mere watcher, an unnamed bystander, unable to say that you did a single thing for the Grand Old Party?

Your answer will be read in the vote your county casts in the November 5 election; we are sorry we cannot have a personal conference with you, a heart-to-heart talk which would mean a great deal to both of us. But the committee is putting its message here. And its final word is: Results will count.

Republicans! Into the battle! The promise of the day is mighty!
REPUBLICAN STATE CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE,

Geo. F. Rockhold,
Campaign Manager,
—Political Adv.

HEDLEY GLEANINGS

(From "The Hedley Informer")
Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Osborn recently returned from a visit to relatives in Wood county. Frank was sick while there and wasn't permitted to enjoy his vacation much; however, he is all right now.

Mrs. R. S. Smith returned the past week from Forrester, Ellis county, where she was called on account of the illness of her sister, Mrs. N. E. Marks. She left her sister much improved, we are pleased to state.

L. L. Cornelius was here from Clarendon last Saturday—meandering with the aid of a pair of crutches. He hurt his leg while working with a hay baler, and has been suffering severely from it. We trust he is soon "right side up" again.

G. W. Baker has been in Hedley this week. He owns a good farm in McKnight community. For the present he and his family are located in Fort Worth, though their home is still in Clarendon.

To the delight of Hedley people, Rev. Cal C. Wright and family returned to us this week, the former having taken a discharge from the army as a result of being temporarily incapacitated by influenza which attacked him the same day he received his commission. He relates some interesting experiences, a number of which crowded themselves into his few weeks' absence. We are much pleased to have them back at home.

S. O. Richerson and C. A. Hicks have closed a deal whereby the latter comes into possession of the Richerson farm near Hedley and Mr. Richerson gets the Childress sanitarium—including, so "they say," nurses, at-
