A Texas Terracer was delivered to the May Chapter of Future Farmers last Monday morning as a reward for their winning the district Texas Terracer contest. The reward came as a surprise to the boys as they did not have so much hopes of winning although they had worked hard in an effort to win one of these very useful machines.

The State of Texas is divided up into 6 districts in the terracer contest and May is in district two which is made up of about 48 counties of central and West Texas. The contest is sponsored by the Brown Tool Company of Breckenridge who are manufacturers of the Texas Terracer.

The Texas Terracer has proven to be the outstanding terracing machine and is being used by the government on many of the soil conservation projects. The machines are made in 6, 7 and 8 ft. bladed lengths. The machine received by the May Chapter is sold by the makers for $115.00 f. o. b. The chapter hopes that this will

Back Yard GARDENING on a Budget

This is the fourth of a series of articles on gardening by budget.

BY PROF. C. H. NISSLEY, Extension Horticulturist, N. J. College of Agriculture and Experiment Station, Rutgers University

NOWADAYS it is possible for the progressive gardener to work magic with his plants, and gain six to eight weeks in his garden work, by the simple method of utilizing window seed flats or cold frames.

Old strawberry boxes, cigar boxes, or any small, wooden containers can be put to good use during the late winter weeks, if you want to have your plants well established and ready for the ground when the first days of balmy, spring weather arrives.

Seed flats are nothing more than shallow seed boxes 3 or 4 inches deep, 8 to 10 inches wide, and usually 15 to 18 inches long. This seems to be the size which fits most conveniently in a window, and the window chosen should be on the sunny side of the house.

The flat is made with a layer of about an inch of well-rotted manure, peat moss, leaf mold, partly decayed grass clippings, or some other form of organic material, on which is placed two or three inches of good garden soil, consisting of approximately one-third organic material, such as manure or peat moss, one-third sand.

The soil is leveled off and firmed with a flat piece of wood. The rows are marked two inches apart and the seed planted approximately four times as deep as its diameter.

IMMEDIATELY after the seed is sown, the soil is watered with lukewarm water and covered for a day or two with newspaper. As the seeds begin to germinate and break the ground, they should be given plenty of air and should not be kept too warm. It may be necessary to move the flat to an upstairs window where the heat will be no greater than 65 to 70 degrees.

When tomatoes, eggplants, peppers, and cabbage attain a size of about two inches, they may be transplanted into other window boxes prepared in the same manner.

Some gardeners prefer to leave them undisturbed until they attain a height of about four inches in the seed box and then transplant them to the cold frame.

The cold frame is one of the necessary requirements of a good garden. Seed of early plants may be started and young plants grown in the cold frame before they are set into the field in early spring. It may also be used to winter-over violets, pansies, and many other types of hardy flowering plants.

THE cold frame consists of an enclosure of wood covered by special standard sash made for this purpose, three feet wide and six feet long. It may be made in either two, three, or four sash units, or it may be built against the south side of the house with an outlet through a cellar window so that the temperature in the frame may be modified during extremely cold weather.

Preparation of the cold frame is like that of the window box. Ap-

This boy started the vegetables for his garden in craton boxes obtained from school. On sunny days, he placed the boxes outdoors, and took them in from the cold at night. The seed flats above contain from 500 to 700 young plants each, ideal ways to start fine, tender plants.

proximately two inches of well-rotted manure, leaf mold, peat moss or other organic material is placed on the bottom. On top of this place three to four inches of well-prepared garden soil containing available plant nutrients.

The cold frame must receive careful attention when it is in use for temperature, moisture, ventilation, and extra protection at night are necessary to maintain proper growing conditions.

Tomatoes, eggplants, and peppers require the entire growing season to develop. The seed must be sown and the young plants started at least six to eight weeks before they are to be planted in the garden. Early cabbage, cauliflower, broccoli, kohlrabi, and early celery seed should also be started early, so that young plants will be available in the early spring for outdoor planting.

By planting the seed of lettuce, endive, and beets in flats, or by starting cantaloupe, squash, or cucumbers in boxes, four to six weeks of plant growth may be gained, and a gain means earlier outdoor picking.

Uniting the Work

Coordination of the work of the City and County in improving sanitary and health conditions, taking care of charity patients and doing general welfare work has been suggested by Alderman T. H. Hart, and it is a good suggestion. Too much duplication of effort and expense has handicapped work of this nature too long; cooperation could eliminate duplication and increase efficiency.

Mr. Hart's suggestion is that the office of city and county health officer be combined, that the city school board enter into the work by assisting in bearing the cost and thereby being allowed to utilize the services made available; that the health inspector and the milk inspector work under the combined city-county-school health officer. The total cost, Mr. Hart points out, would not be more than the various agencies now are paying, with the possible addition of school board participation. The results, as anyone who will study the situation will agree, will be greatly improved conditions in the city, county and schools.

The scheme is not entirely new. More than a year ago, the Brownwood Community Council suggested a combination of the city and county health units, and the construction of a city-county charity hospital. The hospital idea was dropped at the time because of the heavy expense, and the whole scheme went by default because of lack of interest on the part of officials to whom it was suggested. Mr. Hart's endorsement of the plan is important, for it gives it official backing, essential to adoption by any of the three agencies.

The county is making a step forward in the work of caring for the poor, through the acquiring of a welfare home through the recent trade whereby the city acquired a tract for a municipal airport. The site is to be improved as a WPA project, and soon will be available for those now being cared for by the county. Located within the city, it is available to all residents of the county, and would make a suitable headquarters for a full time health officer and any necessary staff.

The city will be faced with the necessity of employing a new milk and sanitary inspector within the next few weeks. The time is right for the adoption of this, or some other plan for working out the combined city and county health problems in a way that will be more satisfactory and less expensive.

Re-Assuming The Obligation

On April 1, relief activities will stop, according to the present program and the obligation of taking care of those unable under these trying times to take care of themselves will be thrown back upon local governmental agencies. What is to be done? That is a problem that has been perplexing city and county officials for the past several months, that is unsolved at present, but must be solved in some manner during the remaining days of this month.

There is no use sidestepping the problem, for it is here. There is no denying the obligation, which has been always with us, and which has been increased tremendously during the past two years. Just what will be done is hard to say.

In taking over the relief burden, the state and federal government assumed that by April 1st, recovery would have progressed sufficiently to permit all who desire to work to find employment of some nature. Not even the most optimistic assumed that employment would be plentiful or lucrative by that date, but it was hoped that the process of putting men back to work would be operating sufficiently that the local obligation would not be burdensome.

Things haven't worked out exactly as planned, in spite of the progress that has been made, and today, although efforts have met a measure of success, there are more people actually needing help than had been anticipated. A definite program, financed by local people, must be adopted and put in operation, and although it will not be able to afford the same measure of relief as did the federal government, it should be sufficient to keep people from actual want.

A meeting has been called for Friday night to discuss the problem and if possible reach some conclusion. It is to be hoped that everyone will make a special effort to attend.

Walk—Dont Run In Case of Fire!

Panic again took a terrible toll when six persons were killed and thirty seriously injured in a fire which attacked a restaurant in New York recently.

Fire prevention education has done much to acquaint the general public with the dangers of fire, and the work of the city fire departments and the fire insurance companies has made the nation safer. However, the instinct of self-preservation still causes people to rush in panic to escape flames, instead of walking calmly to exits. In this fire, as in many others, panic made the crowd block and jam the exits, with the usual tragic result.

One of the first considerations of fire prevention engineers is to see that there are sufficient exit facilities of approved type. Conditions, however, do not always permit of the ideal, and in many cases disorderly and panicky crowding results in disaster. Perhaps the fire drills being held in the schools as part of fire prevention education for children will produce a new generation of adults who will be more orderly in emergencies.

The "Safeguarding" series of books and pamphlets published by the National Board of Fire Underwriters is now being used in schools in all parts of the country, and in these books special emphasis is placed on safe escape from burning structures. Fire prevention education is required by law in 18 states and, in addition, the subject is now being taught in practically every state in the Union.

May this work bring wisdom in governing the actions of those who are now being taught to walk—not run—toward the exit in case of fire.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD By William Ferguson

FARLEY HAS THE ANSWER (Houston Post)

That President Roosevelt has failed to keep his campaign pledge to reduce the expenses of the Federal government by 25 per cent is a stock charge of the Republicans. As they go into the 1936 presidential campaign, they are endeavoring to make political capital out of the fact that the cut has not been made.

They fail, however, to tell why. Chairman Farley of the Democratic National committee has the answer, and he is giving it. If there has been less than a 25 per cent cut in the ordinary expenditures of the government since Hoover left office, it has not been the fault of the President, but of Congress, which overrode the veto of the President on the economy bill, and the Republicans had a big hand in preventing the cut.

In discussing the charge, Mr. Farley says: "At the request of the President, Congress enacted (in 1933) an economy bill, carrying out his pledge to reduce normal expenditures by 25 per cent. . . . In March, 1934 . . . the economy bill was erased from the statute books over the veto of President Roosevelt. The members of Congress who overrode that veto came before the voters in the fall of that year, and most of them were re-elected and vindicated by the voters. . . .

"The American people repealed that plank." Blaming the Republicans for a share of the blame for holding expenditures up, the chairman says: "The New England senators who voted to destroy that plank in the Democratic platform included Hale and White of Maine, Austin and Gibson of Vermont, Keyes of New Hampshire and Walcott of Connecticut, every one a Republican. From Massachusetts alone seven Republican representatives cast their votes to override the President's veto, including . . . Representative Allen Treadway, the man with the strong voice who is always talking about Coolidge economy!"

The veto roll call is available at Democratic headquarters for all who may desire a copy of it. Movies in which actors "stand out from the screen" and appear in relief have been produced with experimental apparatus devised by Dr. Herbert Ives, in New York.

WHEELER—A new fence enclosed the yard of Mrs. Joe Harris, yard demonstrator of the Bethel home demonstration club, separating it from the field. This prevents the stock from getting in the yard when the field is pastured. Two salt cedars have been removed from in front of the house; eight two year old rose bushes have been planted; a salt cedar hedge of about 150 plants has been put out for a wind break; and three cottonwood trees have been planted for shade, following plans to landscape the place made by Mr. and Mrs. Harris with the aid of Miss Viola Jones, home demonstration agent of Wheeler county.

Mr. Antilley has one of 28 Taylor county farmers cooperating with county agent Knox Parr in demonstrating the trench silo method of storing feed.

DIMMITT—Providing their homes with light cover has been one of the objects of home demonstration club women of Castro county this winter according to the report of Miss Izora Clark. In this work nine feather quilts have been made from home grown wool, whereas 17 pounds was the weight of the quilts that were replaced by the wool comforts.

DALLAS—The planting of 159 native shrubs and setting out of 175 cuttings of shrubs and evergreens is the yard improvement work reported by Ruth Kemp in her demonstration yard this spring. Ruth reports that her father has plowed her yard and leveled it with a drag and harrow and that she has transplanted five rose bushes into her rose garden and has out one hundred rose cuttings. She has two red buds, one cedar, one French mulberry, six dogwood, ten New Jersey tea, two red haw, twelve black haw, two yucca, six elder berry, four sumac, one honey locust, four cottonwood and one hundred coral berries which she used in screen plantings to cut off the view of the service buildings of her home.

MT. PLEASANT—Thirty-five farmers have taken steps to improve their pastures in Titus county this year. The size of the pastures range from five to 30 acres. Brush has been removed, gullies plowed in, contour lines run, stumps removed and permanent pasture seeds sown. Principally Dallis grass, loespedeza and clovers were sown. This increase in permanent pasture development will increase the grazing capacity for the county several hundred cows and other livestock.

Lydia Belle became ill several weeks ago, developed pneumonia and only remained with us a few days. We cannot understand why her young life was ended so soon, but God knows and death all things for the best. While we know we cannot call her back, we can say with David of old, "I will go to to her." A host of relatives and friends are grieved because of her passing, but we know she is now enjoying the beauties of heaven. She was so patient and cheerful through her days of suffering. She gave the best of her strength and love toward the making of a happy home. The imprint of her beautiful character will be seen and felt in the days and years to come. Her beautiful form is now sleeping beneath the sod, but her angel spirit lingers near. Weep not, dear ones, as those who have no hope, but strive to meet your loved one in that better world, where sorrow is no more.

HIGHWAY ACCIDENT FATAL TO WINCHELL CHILD SATURDAY

Mattie Frances Vann, 12 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Vann of the Winchell community, was fatally injured Saturday afternoon when she was struck by an automobile on highway 23 about two miles northwest of Winchell. The little girl was returning home with a group of Winchell students from Brownwood where they had participated in a playground ball tournament at Woodland Heights.

The car in which the students were riding, driven by G. W. Bobo, stopped near the Vann home to let Frances out and as she walked from behind the car to cross the road she was struck by an automobile driven by George Ehlinger, Sr., Brownwood railroad man.

Ehlinger stopped but was unable to bring the child to a hospital due to a blown out tire caused by the accident. An ambulance rushed the child to Central Texas hospital where she lived for about an hour. Investigations of the accident were made by Deputy Sheriff Lewis of Winchell who termed it unavoidable.

Funeral services were held at Winchell Baptist Church Monday afternoon with Rev. J. M. Cooper officiating. Interment followed in Winchell Cemetery.

Mattie Frances Vann was born December 23, 1924 at Mullin. She lived all her life in Brown county and was a student of the Winchell school at the time of her death. She was a member of the Baptist church.

Survivors include her parents, one sister, Madie Joyce Vann, 8, and a grandfather, L. M. Curbo of Winchell. A number of aunts, uncles and other relatives also survive.

GUARD RIFLE RANGE STARTED THIS WEEK

Construction of a National Guard rifle range on the McClelland farm south of Brownwood, a WPA project sponsored by the city and local Guard companies, was started Tuesday. The plans call for building a complete range with targets, pits and range house. Total cost will be $1,500, WPA to furnish $1,062 and the sponsors $438.

Officials say that the range will be one of the best in the state and will be entirely safe. The targets will be placed against a hillside and bullets fired into the targets will go into the hill, eliminating danger from long range bullets.

Donors Of Gift Honored By H. P. C.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Jennings, donors of a recent gift of several pieces of property to Howard Payne College, were honor guests at a banquet given by the board of trustees and the faculty of the college in the gold room of Hotel Brownwood Saturday night. Approximately 65 persons attended the affair.

Dr. Thomas H. Taylor, president of Howard Payne, was master of ceremonies. Rev. W. R. Hornburg offered the invocation after which Yantis Robnett, representative of the faculty, and Rev. Karl H. Moore as representative of the board, spoke.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Jennings spoke and musical numbers were given by Miss Louise Sturdivant who sang two songs accompanied by Mrs. W. D. McCulley. Mrs. McCulley played a piano solo.

The program was concluded with a short talk by John Will Jennings of Dallas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jennings, reading St. Patrick's Day rhymes by several guests and singing "Alma Mater" by the entire group.

MURDER INDICTMENT RETURNED AGAINST BROWN COUNTY BOY

An indictment of murder was returned last week by Brown county grand jury against John W. Stover, Brown county boy, in connection with the death of Frank Davis, farmer of the Rising Star section, who was allegedly struck and killed by an automobile driven by Stover last summer. Stover was released from county jail Friday night on $2,500 bond.

The youth was arrested soon after Davis' death, July 27, 1935, but was later released under bond. A grand jury investigated the case last fall but made no report.

According to a statement made to District Attorney A. O. Newman by Stover soon after his arrest last July, he and three companions were riding along the road beside a watermelon field owned by Davis when they ran over the body of a man in the road. The car dragged the body a short distance before it could be stopped. Stover said. After finding the body, the youths drove a short distance and met H. B. Baker, resident of the Rising Star section. One of the occupants of the car and Baker drove to Rising Star and notified officers.

No charges have been filed against other occupants of the car.

ECONOMY STORE NOW CLOSED; CISCO MAN TO MOVE STORE HERE

The Economy Store, one of Brownwood's larger dry goods stores, closed Saturday after nearly 13 years of operation here. Remaining stock unsold after a two-weeks closing sale was shipped to Snyder, where the company operates another store.

The Economy Store was opened in September, 1923, at a location on Fisk Avenue. The Fisk Avenue store was destroyed by fire in June, 1930, and the following October the store was reopened on Baker Street. In 1932 the store was moved to Center Avenue, where it has since been located.

Throughout its operation here, the store has been under the management of Gus J. Rosenberg. He has been assisted by Mrs. Rosenberg. Mr. Rosenberg has been prominent in business circles and in civic work during his residence here, serving 1933 as president of the Brownwood Chamber of Commerce.

Rosenberg opened an exclusive men's and boys' store at 218 Center Avenue. The success of this store and the volume of business handled has forced him to devote his entire time to it, and for this reason he decided to close the Economy Store.

The Economy Store location has been leased to I. Moldane of Cisco, operator of The Boston Store in that city. Mr. Moldane is supervising remodeling of the location, and purchasing of new merchandise, preparatory to moving the Cisco store here. He has been in business in Cisco for a number of years, and comes to Brownwood well recommended.
