J. G. (Grundy) GAINES ANNOUNCES FOR OFFICE OF COUNTY TREASURER

To the Voters of Brown County: In view of the fact that I received such loyal support from many of you in my race for the office of County Treasurer two years ago, I wish to take this means of making known to you my intentions of again being a candidate for that office. I sincerely appreciate the help and support extended by my friends in the last election and trust that I may have that same valued consideration again, with the addition of many others who did not see fit to support me then. If the people of Brown county choose to place me in this office, I assure you that my constant endeavor will be to serve you diligently and faithfully.

Here's Howe, Chinese Lens Man!

One of Hollywood's topnotch photographers is at the same time the only Chinese cameraman in the film industry. He is James Wong Howe, shown above at work. Born in South China, Wong was flyweight boxing champion of the northwest before he decided to photograph faces instead of massaging them with leather. He owes the "break" that launched him on his career to Mary Miles Minter, one-time actress, who was pleased with a portrait he had taken of her.

THE EARLY HISTORY OF TEXAS AS SHOWN FROM THE AUSTIN PAPERS

(Note: This is the last of a series of articles taken from the three hundred special collections of family archives in the University of Texas library. The collections cover all periods of Texas history, from the earliest days of the Spanish missionaries in the province of Texas, through the colonial era, to the present. This series of articles presents interesting excerpts from a number of these family collections, some chosen for their intrinsic significance in the development of the empire of Texas, others for their purely human interest in portraying personalities, economic conditions and social intercourse.)

In concluding this series of articles, which have dealt with the lives, public and private, of Texas citizens of early days, it is fitting that the final story should be that of Anson Jones, Texas physician, patriot, and last president of the Republic of Texas. Many documents penned by Jones, addressed to him, and other data concerning him are found in the archives of the University of Texas library.

A brief account of Jones' life is given in "Personnel of the Texas State Government, with Sketches of Representative Men of Texas," written in 1892 by L. E. Daniell of Austin. Of the man under whose guidance Texas took the last steps leading toward annexation to the United States, Daniell wrote:

"Dr. Anson Jones was born in Great Barrington, Massachusetts, in 1798; was licensed to practice medicine in 1820, and after spending two years in Venezuela, came to Texas and settled in Brazoria in 1833. At a public meeting held in 1836 he advocated Texan independence, and introduced a resolution, which was adopted, calling the convention that met in Washington in March, 1836. When hostilities commenced he enlisted in Capleson's regiment. In 1837 he represented Brazoria county in Congress; in 1838 was minister to the United States, and the same year was elected to the Senate, of which he was chosen president to act in the absence of the vice-president of the Texas republic. During Houston's second term he was secretary of state, and in 1844 was elected president of the republic. To his skillful statesmanship was due in a large measure the success of the negotiations that led to the annexation of Texas to the United States before half of his term of office had expired. On retiring to private life he repaired to his plantation in Washington county where he resided eleven years. In 1857 some of his friends brought him forward as a candidate for election to the United States senate, but he was defeated. Wifall and Hemphill being selected as senators. Although Dr. Jones anticipated a dejection of spirits that led to his untimely death. In 1857 he sold his plantation in Washington county, intending to establish himself on the coast between Galveston and Houston. January 7, 1858, while in the old capitol at Houston, he said sadly to a friend: 'Here, in this house, twenty years ago, I commenced my political career in Texas, as a member of the senate, and here I would like to close it. Shortly after a pistol shot was heard in his room and he was found in a dying condition. On the admission of Texas as a member of the Union nearly every man who had played a distinguished part in her political history was rewarded with some state or federal office. Dr. Jones, who had performed his duties as Secretary of State and President with such marked ability and unselfish patriotism—hastening the end of his term as chief executive that Texas might find security in the federal union—alone seemed to be overlooked."

An unpublished early letter of Jones', written to his brother William, who resided in Utica, N. Y.,

The May Future Farmer Chapter conducting team appeared on the program of the Texas Agricultural Workers Association meeting in Mineral Wells Friday morning. Mr. P. G. Haines, state director of vocational agriculture, was in charge of the vocational agriculture phase of the program and asked the May team to put on a demonstration in the opening and closing ceremonies and abilities in parliamentary procedure.

After the program the boys visited the Crazy hotel where they listened to a broadcast in the studio. This was very interesting to the boys as it was their first time to witness a broadcast.

The trip was also an enjoyable one as some very beautiful scenery is found around Mineral Wells, of which the cedar breaks is probably the most beautiful.

discusses his plans for his education. It is apparent that even then, in 1818, he was fully decided to become a physician. From Litchfield, Conn., on March 23, he wrote in part:

"I have just returned here from Goshen where I have been engaged for three months in teaching a school. I do not know what I shall do this summer or where I shall go though I intend to pursue my professional studies somewhere if possible.

"You mentioned in your last letter to Sophia that you thought some of having me come to Utica but as you have written nothing to me on the subject I suppose you do not find it convenient to have me to live there. I should like however if you would write me soon and let me know what you intend to do for at present I feel rather disappointed here and as Sophia calculates to leave this place this spring I must make my calculations for going to some other in a short time as my expenses would be too great here in that case."

Young Jones evidently carried out his plans to study in Utica, for in the University library there is a letter of recommendation of his professional qualifications, written by A. G. Hull, under whom he studied and in whose office he served his apprenticeship or internship. This endorsement is dated August 7, 1821, and reads as follows:

"Doctor Anson Jones, the bearer of this, has finished his medical studies under my direction. He has been in my office about two years and by his close application to books, as well as the practice of medicine, in the circles of my business, has rendered his attainments in the science of medicine and surgery, more than ordinary, which has, and may justly too, gain him the confidence, and high respect of most of the distinguished medicine gentlemen of the Oneida Medical Society. His moral character, sound integrity and amiable disposition give him an elevated standing in this village. It is with no inconsiderable pleasure that I give him this recommendatory letter to be presented to the worthy citizens of that town or country in which he may establish himself in the line of his profession, commending him to the protection and blessing of heaven and to the friendship and civilities of all good citizens to whom he may make himself known."

After Jones came to Texas and made a niche for himself in the political circles of the republic, he was sent to Washington to act as minister to the United States. He served about a year and was succeeded by Richard G. Dunlap. The following letter dated March 14, 1839, from James Webb, secretary of state of the republic, officially informed him of the change.

"The president having appointed the Hon. Richard G. Dunlap minister plenipotentiary of the government of Texas, near that of the United States, I am directed to request you to turn over to that gentleman, all the books, papers, seals and archives of the Texian Legation at Washington and to say that as your services will no longer be required near that government, you will return home at such time as may be convenient to you."

If your home is inadequately heated... if you "huddle" in one or two rooms. SUDDEN TEMPERATURE CHANGES ARE UNAVOIDABLE. Your family goes from a heated room into a cold hall or adjoining room. Then, shivering and chilled, they return to the heated room. This happens many times a day, and each time they have unnecessarily subjected themselves to conditions that make them susceptible to highly communicable diseases. GOLDEN WEDDING OF COUPLE CELEBRATED AT BANGS CEREMONY

Rev. and Mrs. J. A. Hall of Bangs celebrated their fifteenth wedding anniversary at their home in Bangs Friday, January 3, with an open house. The following account of the affair appeared in the Bangs Gazette:

First greetings were given at the door by Mrs. Cyril Prince and Mrs. Warren Ragsdale, who in turn presented them to the host and hostess, Rev. and Mrs. J. A. Hall, who stood just in the living room. The guest register presided over by Mrs. Luther Bruton, was Mrs. Hall's bride book. Miss Rachel Jenkins modeled the wedding dress which had also been worn by Mrs. Hall's mother fifty-one years ago.

The dress was a tan satin polonaise, chocolate color drop skirt with Spanish lace finish.

The wedding of fifteen years ago was re-enacted with Miss Elizabeth Early playing "Trammer" on the violin, accompanied by Mrs. Firman Early on the piano, this being followed by Mendelssohn's Wedding March to the strains of which the "bride and groom" entered and were "married" by Rev. Edgar Owen, who used the single ring ceremony.

During the ceremony, the soft notes of "Blest Be The Tie" were heard, which had been fifteen years ago.

Mrs. Charlie B. Guyger presided over the punch bowl individual wedding cakes; embossed with small pink flowers formed a delightful accompaniment.

Many lovely gifts including a large number of crystal pieces were received by the "bride and groom."

Those present besides the host and hostess and their son, Bob, were Rev. and Mrs. Edgar Owen, Messrs. and Mesdames Joe Cates, Wilburn Stacy, Rufus Pierce, Jess Kennedy, John Allison, Cyril Prince, John Stephens, Jeff Davis, Charles Hardwick, Luther Bruton, Warren Ragsdale, Dr. and Mrs. E. J. Ashcraft, Mesdames C. B. Guyger, Chester Wilson, F. R. Early, Maggie Martin, E. A. Taylor, J. A. Swenson, Mr. Guy Taylor, R. B. Stephens, Frank Owens, Misses Elizabeth Early, Mabel Bailey, Dorothy Mae Allison, Rachel Jenkins, Dorace Wilson, Merlene and Glenna

Nobody's Business

Austin.—Lobbyists and members of the legislature who have been in Austin recently are agreed that the called session will be at work at its gigantic task of raising revenue early in February, despite conflicting rumors of indefinite postponement. Renewed opposition by Gov. Alfred to a general sales tax, following his visit to California, which has a sales tax that is to be submitted to the voters for possible repeal soon in a referendum election, and the entrance of Sen. Roy Sanderford as a candidate for governor on a straight 3 per cent sales tax platform, made it practically certain that the sales tax, freighted with more political significance than ever before, will be a leading issue before the session when and if it is held. Incidentally, the Kentucky legislature, which adopted a sales tax in 1934, repealed it last week.

Another source of considerable state revenue was bottled up last weekend when attorneys for group of chain store organizations obtained in district court at Dallas an injunction against collection of the chain store tax. Chain store lobbyists, facing defeat just before the bill was passed, openly boasted in Austin that they had succeeded in obtaining adoption of amendments to the bill that would render it subject to court attacks, both state and federal, on constitutional grounds. The law may have to be reviewed before the U. S. supreme court before its validity is finally decided, probably preventing collection of any taxes under its provisions for a year or two.

Two developments of first importance to Texas occupied attention of observers here last week. First, and most important because of its possible political implications, was the supreme court decision invalidating the AAA. Texas has collected more agricultural benefit cash from the federal government than any other state. Texas senators and congressmen were virtually unanimously supporters of the AAA program, and primary elections are coming on this summer. Many politicians believe that the AAA will be re-enacted. Bruton, Radoyce and Aloyce Hardwick, Margaret Owen, Joy Cates and Ann Prince.

Here that both President Roosevelt and the Texas congressional delegation have been strengthened substantially in Texas by the decision. Others are concerned over the possible economic effect of the immediate shutting off of millions of dollars in benefit payments to Texas farmers, and the probable trend of the cotton market in the face of unrestricted production of cotton this year. All proposed substitutes for the AAA are receiving careful attention, including Congressman Cross' (of Waco) plan to enact legislation to curb the powers of federal courts to declare acts of congress unconstitutional.

A second development — a 5 to 15 cent increase in the posted price of crude oil—brought rejoicing to many sections, notably East Texas. The increase was forecast in this column in December, a date between Jan. 1 and 19 being predicted. The increase was posted Jan. 9. It will mean about $50,000,000 additional annual revenue, to Texas land and royalty owners, and additional increases are expected shortly, as the gasoline price is adjusted. The raise also brings in substantial additional tax funds to the state treasury and to the university and school funds.

Marble machines, declared recently to be gambling devices per se by both state and federal courts, are as hard to stamp out, apparently, as Johnson grass. Taking a steady toll from legitimate business which in the aggregate amounts to millions of dollars yearly, they have flourished for two years, in many towns and cities where local authorities were acquiescent. Operators in the larger cities are reported substituting the older type of machines, which do not pay off automatically, but where the player must collect from the store-owner, for the automatic type, claiming the court decisions do not apply to the older type machines.

Politicians in Austin are gravely concerned over the growing strength of the Townsend old-age pension plan. Considered about a year ago, the aged Californian's scheme to pay everybody over 65 $200 a month, has shown a remarkable comeback throughout the nation, and Texas is no exception, the political scouts report here. Opinions vary, but whether they consider the plan "screwy" or sound, politically minded individuals recognize that a very substantial bloc of votes may be enlisted behind it by next July, and they know that no plan that has substantial voting strength behind it is regarded as too "screwy" for demagogic office-seekers to enlist under its banner. State Senator Claud Westerfield, known as the leading senate radical, announcing his candidacy for congress against veteran Hutton Summers in the Dallas district, has made his support of the Townsend scheme the leading plank in his platform.

Gov. Alfred once more laid rumors that he is "luke-warm" toward the New Deal when he was paid the high honor of being invited to deliver the Jackson day address last week at Nashville, near the Hermitage, historic home of President Jackson. He delivered an eloquent eulogy of President Roosevelt and his efforts in behalf of the forgotten man. At the Dallas dinner, Bascom N. Timmons, noted Texas journalist in Washington, convulsed an audience of 800 diners with his dry wit, when he commented upon the supreme court AAA decision:

"When I first saw those nine old gentlemen in their black robes, I was pretty much impressed," he said. "But, do you know, I later found out they don't sleep in those robes at all. They take 'em off, and don a nightshirt or a suit of pajamas, just like any other ordinary men."

Atty. Gen. Bill McCraw did the honors as chief speaker at the Fort Worth dinner with his customary forensic skill.

After supper all Scouts and Scouters went to the large gymnasium, where G. N. Quirl, Scout Executive, presented Russell B. Jones, who is Scout Commissioner for Comanche Trail Council. Mr. Jones made a short talk. Twelve of the fourteen events listed were carried out with great enthusiasm being shown by both the Scouts and visitors.

Totem Poles, Patrol Flags, Troop Flags, and Scout uniforms were in evidence—giving the meet a real Scout Rally appearance. Scoutmasters who were in attendance other than the ones mentioned above were: R. W. Stubbs of Parks, J. B. Diggins of Breckenridge, R. A. Steele of Ranger, C. M. Allen of Eastland, Elbert Thurman of Flatwood, Ralph Barton of Cisco, J. V. Thompson, Ass't-Scoutmaster Carbon, Ass't-Scoutmaster J. O. Jones of Gorman and Scouters Geo. D. Henshaw of IDEX and possibly others who did not register. Scouters present voted to have the next Rally the second Saturday night in April to be held in Eastland.

"TOM, if we shop at PIGGLY WIGGLY we can make a greater saving this year"

Why not you start the year off right? Bring us your Butter, Eggs, and Chickens, and receive the highest market price. We will save you money on your Grocery purchases. You do not have to wait until Saturday to buy Groceries cheap at our store. We sell them six days in the week at a reasonable price. If you are not already a Piggly Wiggly customer, we invite you to bring us your produce this week-end, compare our prices with what you have been paying.

We always meet or beat all advertised prices on Sugar and Compound, which are so often used as a bait.

HOME OWNED

The Brownwood Piggly Wiggly stores are locally owned and operated. No outside capital. We buy your Produce, Beef and Pork. In 1935 the Brownwood Piggly Wiggly stores purchased and slaughtered over 400 head of cattle, over 100 head of hogs, from Brown county farmers; chickens and eggs too numerous to mention.

We are not soliciting your business, however, on this basis, but on the basis that we can save you money on your Grocery bill 365 days in the year, and if you buy from us, it enables us to buy what you have to sell.
