The preliminary tally close.
The latest count stood:
For a new control program... 289,423
Against... 52,442
"It is only natural we should be pleased with the apparent approval of adjustment given by corn and hog farmers," said Chester C. Davis, AAA administrator, as he watched the returns come in at Washington. "If the final results bear out present indications, another voluntary contract will be offered for both corn and hogs."
To Seek Increase in Hogs
Davis emphasized earlier assurances that the AAA would seek a 25 to 30 per cent increase in hog production next year, saying the need for increasing the present pork supply of the Nation will be kept in mind in plans for the next adjustment contract.

Asserting that early returns indicated the total vote might exceed the 579,716 ballots cast last year, Davis said: "In that event we would, in my opinion, have an expression which would effectively represent the views of the men who produce most of the country's corn and hogs."
Returning to the capital after a trip on the Government yacht Sequoia with President Roosevelt, Secretary Wallace issued a statement commending the Nation's farmers for their favorable vote.
"The referendum means," Wallace said, "that corn-hog farmers of the country will be doing their best to increase hog production next year in such a way as will not bring about excessive overproduction in subsequent years."
"They realize their triple duty: To the consumer, to the cause of soil conservation and to the maintenance of a fair income for themselves."
He also declared the Nation's farmers did not make a political issue of the question, asserting they had voted economics, not politics. He voiced the opinion the AAA was not an issue as such.
Some observers at Washington found significance in this paragraph in Davis' statement:
Soil Erosion Program
"In both the 1934 and 1935 programs the producers developed and followed directions for use of land taken out of corn, which greatly stimulated planting of legumes and other soil-building crops. The new contract will be more specific on that point. In common with other new contracts offered for 1936, it will require that an area at least equal to the number of acres withdrawn from production of crops covered by the contract must be added to the normal area on the farm devoted to soil conserving and erosion preventing uses."
That statement was directly in line with President Roosevelt's comment last week when he outlined a permanent AAA and said more attention should be paid to soil conservation.
Officials said the new adjustment contracts probably would extend over four years, following the announced policy of obtaining long-

MAKING
Smart CLOTHES

Of all the Paris designers today, Schiaparelli is the one most of us watch most carefully. She has a dramatic flair. She has a rare sense of humor. She has a feeling for clothes which are gay and flattering as well.
This dress is a Schiaparelli design, carefully copied for you in a Butterick Pattern. It looks like the kind of dress that will be a life-saver in a wardrobe. It will be stunning in all black crepe with a gold pin at the neckline. But it has tricks, too—Schiaparelli tricks, which make life worth living, and clothes worth having.

For instance, the sleeves and yoke are cut all in one, which gives you a neat shoulder line. Each cuff has a godet which adds fullness. And—most fun of all—the dress has a zipper closing which is frankly a zipper. (A 1935 idea of Schiaparelli's—like her safety pin trims of last year! And you know, one Paris designer said clothes were going to be worn so tight this year that you'd need zippers to get into them.)
This is Butterick 6552—which you may buy for 45c at the pattern counter of your local department store.

Early High and Brownwood Junior High football teams will meet at Daniel Baker park Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock in their scheduled Class C game. Early is coached by Boren Hunter, former Hill Billy star, and Junior High is coached by Hilton Gilliam, former Jacket star.
The Early High gridsters and the Williams teams battled to a scoreless tie Monday afternoon on the Early gridiron.

range programs for all major crops.
Explaining previously expressed fears that a new program might be defeated in the referendum, Davis said the AAA officials had been afraid a heavy vote would not be cast. Had many producers in the Corn Belt failed to vote, he said, accepting the theory that a new contract would be offered anyhow, he felt there would have been danger of an adverse ballot.
While AAA officials discounted political significance of the balloting, some informed quarters held the results of the referendum might tend to remove the AAA as a 1936 presidential campaign issue.
Looking over the State tabulations, Davis expressed delight that preliminary returns indicated a majority of noncontract signers voting this year favored a new program. He recalled that last October a majority of non-signers voted against production control. Likewise, it was pointed out, that a heavy vote of approval was indicated in the Kansas returns, whereas that State voted against a program last year.

We have had several requests from Scouts wanting to know if the Council is going to have a Christmas Camp. We're still undecided and this is to ask every First Class Scout and those who rank above a First Class to write to give us your opinion concerning the matter. The program would likely be worked out to conform with winter camping, featuring hunting with bow and arrow. Drop us a post card and let us know what you think.
As has already been carried in a large number of papers, the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America plans to hold a National Jamboree some time during 1937. The exact place and date to be announced later.

The Corn-Hog Vote

The impressive majority rolled up by the nation-wide poll last Saturday of American farmers in favor of continuation of the corn-hog program is encouraging to Department of Agriculture and AAA leaders, and rightly it should be. For there now is no question that the farmers of the country favor the policies of the AAA.

There was no good reason why they should not vote in favor of more benefits from the Administration. At no time in the past has the American farmer been shown such favors by the Federal government. And, at no time has Agriculture, a major factor in American life and American business, been so nearly on an equality with business and industry in the matter of governmental aid.

The benefits which have accrued to farmers through the various agencies of the AAA correspond in a way to the protective tariffs that have for years protected American business, and have placed it on the sound footing which it has enjoyed throughout most of the history of this country. The major difference is that the protection to business has been great; the protection to agriculture up to the present time, while important to farmers, has been comparatively small.

No doubt the overwhelming vote for continuation of the present benefits will shape the future program of the department to the benefit of the farmer. But, in spite of those critics who predicted that the vote would be a repudiation of Roosevelt agricultural policies, there was little doubt from the outset what the result would be. It has been pointed out, wisely, by the Dallas News and other newspapers of importance, that no other result could be expected. The farmers themselves, and not the American public, were voting upon the issue. A similarly favorable vote, points out the News, would have been cast for the payment of the soldiers' bonus, had a poll been conducted among Veterans. Business would have favored higher tariffs, labor higher wages, and quite naturally the farmers chose to vote for more money rather than a recession to the hard times of other years.

Never the less, the farmers have given, in no uncertain terms, their endorsement of the corn-hog program. Whether it is sound economics or not, the farmers recognize the importance of continued benefits, and they have so indicated by their votes. It must have been quite disappointing to David Lawrence and other professional critics of the Administration who predicted other results.

Whatever the present called session of the Legislature may or may not do with regard to pensions, county salaries or liquor, it has found time to pass some worthy legislation during the two weeks of the term. High place must be accorded the increased penalties authorized against those convicted of driving an automobile while intoxicated. The stiffening of these penalties is an effort to decrease the tremendous toll of life taken by automobile accidents annually.

Wise Legislation

Of almost equal importance is the driver's license law which Governor Allred submitted to the session this week. With the two laws on the statute books and rigidly enforced, an important step in curbing automobile accidents will have been taken. Little more can be done by legislation; the rest remains for the driver of the automobile himself to take care of.

Most drivers prefer to be careful; none want to have accidents. But with the present law, it is not enough for a driver to take care of his own automobile and see that he violates no traffic laws or endangers no lives. There is the constant danger of meeting the intoxicated or the incompetent driver—too often with dire consequences. If the two laws, one enacted and the other almost certain of early passage, are well enough drawn and are capable of being enforced, much good will have been done in preventing accidents.

Valuable front-page publicity was accorded Brownwood by a Brady newspaper this week, upon the occasion of the erection near Brady of one of the Brownwood bill boards, which have been put on every major highway leading into Brownwood by the local chamber of commerce. The signs are attracting favorable comment daily, and should be a stimulus to increased trade during the coming months.

Evidently through a misunderstanding of motives, the Brady paper was a bit critical of the location of the sign, the article tended to emphasize the large trade territory enjoyed by Brownwood merchants, and which it is hoped will be extended by the use of the boards.

In erecting the signs, the chamber of commerce is following the lead taken by Dallas, Fort Worth and other cities that have erected boards throughout their territory, apparently with good results.

Do you know what is the most dangerous driving period of the year? The statistical truth is that we are now in that part of the year which is most fraught with peril to the motorist and the pedestrian.

Football and Fall Traffic

October is usually the worst of the twelve months, the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters reminds us, and November comes next. The last three months of the year are the most dangerous quarter season.

The reasons for this intensification of danger are to be found in the combination of a false sense of security and the increased hazards of natural conditions. The days grow shorter. Nightfall, notorious for its accident possibilities, gradually produces yearly peaks between 5 and 9 p. m. The weather is often crisp, bracing, ideal for driving, and the roads are crowded—always an important element in accident frequency. A number of subtle, unobtrusive causes contribute: The skidding menace of wet leaves, roads slippery with frost in the early morning, car windows shut in chilly weather with consequent failure to use hand signals, longer working hours causing greater fatigue when driving after dark, week-end concentration of traffic in particular areas augmented by the great crowds driving to football games.

This last calls for special attention. Every Saturday there converge in stadiums throughout the country multitudes of spectators, sometimes 100,000 in one place. Most of them drive, approaching their destination on the same roads at the same time. Such conditions breed accidents, and if the accident peril is imminent before the game it is doubly so afterward. Then the thousands of automobiles choke every radiating highway, all in a hurry to get away subtle, unobtrusive causes contribute: The skidding menace of the game reduces driving alertness. Add to all this the likelihood that many drivers are under the influence of alcohol and the situation is distinctly menacing.

WHERE THE FAMILY FAILS

ENGRAVED in stone on the door-way of the law building of an Eastern university is the silent but powerful message, "He who enters selfishly here endangers." This is certainly true of the profession of law and of medicine, in fact of all professions, including that most responsible profession of them all—parenthood.

Our American home has suffered greatly from without and within this quarter of a century. Causes and results have become hopelessly interwoven in helping to destroy the home's momentous influence, through easy divorces, childless homes, handbox apartments, promulgated heresies of marriage through literature and screen.

However, the basic ailment of the whole world from nation to individual is selfishness—self-aggrandizement, selfish interests. The golden rule has become leaden—do for yourself and let others do likewise. The doctrine has permeated some of our American homes. At a fairly recent Parent-Teachers' state meeting in one of our most intellectual Eastern states, the president made an eloquent appeal for parents, fathers and mothers to spend one evening each week with their children, reading or playing in the home circle or at a movie. Asking for a rising vote of promise from this audience of 500 parents she could hardly suppress her disappointment when only 75 men and women stood to pledge this much of their time from their own pleasure plans to really become acquainted with their children.

Two years ago Roger Babson told us that more money was spent for automobiles in the last three and one-half years than had been spent for homes in the last 150 years. Could it be that pleasure is becoming the pivot of American home life rather than the rearing of children?

When parents' interests turn in on their own pleasures, their children's interests turn out of the home, so that children themselves lose enjoyment and become bored with an evening at home. If one figures approximately the waking hours from childhood to college age, seventeen, about 1,000 hours are spent on Sabbath school, around 11,000 hours in the public schools, leaving 80,000, nearly 87 per cent of childhood and adolescence under the influence and responsibility of the home.

How can parents give the child momentum enough in his first six years to carry him through life from home lessons of character and religion, if some of our parents are so absorbed in their own selfish interests that they are unwilling to spend even one evening a week with their children?

WHAT INCREASED FARM PRICES

"What was it that really brought about the great increase in farm prices since 1932?" many argument-confused farmers are asking. Was it due to changing the gold content of the dollar? Was it due to crop control? In answer to these questions we find the following interesting analysis in The Progressive Farmer:

Dr. George F. Warren of Cornell, who is given much credit for the President's gold devaluation policy and who certainly would not underestimate its influence on prices, estimates that 60 per cent of the cotton price increase is due to the devaluation and 40 per cent to the reduction in supplies. Oscar Johnson, manager of the Cotton Producers' Pool, attributes 50 per cent of the price increase to change in our monetary system and 50 per cent to Triple A activities. A careful analysis of all the data and of economists' varying viewpoints has led to the conclusion that with six varying sets of conditions of "what might have been" as mentioned below, cotton prices would have been as follows:

1. With no cotton acreage control and no change in the gold-weight of the dollar, cotton prices would now be 5 to 6 cents.
2. With the 1933 cotton adjustment program but no 1934 cotton adjustment program and no change in the value of the dollar 6 1/2 to 7 1/2 cents.
3. With the 1933 and 1934 cotton adjustment programs but no change in the dollar cotton prices would now be 8 1-2 to 9 1-2 cents.
4. With devaluation of the dollar but no cotton adjustment programs cotton prices would now be 7 to 8 1/2 cents.
5. With devaluation of the dollar and the 1933 cotton adjustment program 9 1/2 to 10 cents.
6. With devaluation of the dollar and the 1933 and 1934 cotton adjustment programs (conditions which have existed) 12.4 cents.

Who Said "Boss" Wants Election

Boss Mathews says "Do not sign anybody's petition" and he also says "Any statement that I want an election is false..."

Ain't It So

I've heard all of my life that the best place to settle a public question was by the good old American custom of voting on it at the polls.

Courts Acts Quickly

Holds That People Have Right to Vote. Boss Mathews sent out a circular letter on Monday. The first sentence read: "It will require two weeks or more for the Third Court of Civil Appeals to render a decision..."

Not So Now

This old thing of hollering from the hill-tops "Don't be misled" and other old-time tricks of the Boss politicians don't register these days and times.

Let's Look at the Record

During the 23 years that the T. P. & L. have been citizens of this community, have they done their part to help to build and develop the city?

Jim and Bill Meet Again

Bill: Good morning, Jim. You and I both are over 60 years and have been voting as "exemptions" for several years and I understand that our names are not good on a petition unless we have a certificate.

BIG HURRY!

Boss Mathews says he is in a great rush to start work on a light plant. Why all this rush now when he waited six months to advertise his franchise...

The opinion of the Court of Civil Appeals didn't say anything about "imaginary defects" in the franchise...

FACTS

Stacy Stephens, member of the Bangs Future Farmers of America chapter and member of the chapter's band, has been selected to go to Kansas City with the State Band.

Does anybody in Brownwood know what kind of a light plant Boss Mathews plans to build?

It would seem that the only "imaginary defect" in Boss Mathews campaign for more, bigger and better light franchises was that the City failed to call an election on the petition of citizens.

Does anybody in Brownwood know whether he plans to serve ALL THE PEOPLE or just a chosen few in the MORE THICKLY POPULATED PART OF TOWN?

Everything is measured by comparison. Pull out your yard sticks, boys!

ACCIDENT PREVENTION PREACHED TO SCHOOLS

Members of the Home Accident Prevention committee visited all schools in the county this week in behalf of the campaign being carried on under the Red Cross Home Accident Prevention program.

Word is going around that a certain young fellow wanting a light franchise was advised to let the city council go ahead and call an election on one of his franchises.

When better poles are made T. P. & L. will set them.
