

President Buys First 'Baby Bond'

First purchaser of the government's "baby bonds" and obviously pleased with his bargain, President Roosevelt was made happier still when reports showed that many small investors had accepted his invitation to become "partners in the government" by buying the securities in the country's 14,000 postoffices. The president holds one of the bonds bought for each of his grandchildren at $13.75 and worth $25 in 1945.

$7,500 BUDGET TO BE GOAL OF C OF C FOR OPERATIONS IN 1935

A budget of $7,500 for operations of the Brownwood Chamber of Commerce for 1935, including $2,000 for a trade expansion program, was adopted by the directors of the organization at the weekly meeting Wednesday. The tentative budget was submitted by a committee appointed last week, and composed of Brooke S. Ramey, Rufus Stanley, D. T. Strickland and Joe Weatherby.

Dr. Mollie W. Armstrong was present at the meeting, and invited directors and members of the chamber of commerce to attend the public relations banquet of the Business and Professional Women's Club, to be held Tuesday, March 19, at Hotel Brownwood.

EXPERIMENT STATION BILL IS INTRODUCED

Senator E. M. Davis has introduced in the Senate a bill providing for the establishment of an agricultural experiment station in the sandy land cross-timber section of Brown, Comanche, Eastland and Callahan counties. Representative Courtney Gray of Brownwood will introduce the bill in the House of Representatives.

Delegations from several counties are to go to Austin when the bill comes up for committee consideration to urge a favorable report. Brownwood Chamber of Commerce and chambers of commerce in towns in the other three counties, as well as interested citizens have been working to secure the station, which it is believed will be of great benefit to farmers in the four counties and to farmers in other sandy land sections of Texas and the United States.

Senator Davis also introduced in the Senate last week a bill to place further restrictions on local mutual aid insurance associations.

The result of price protection in the book business, under the book-sellers' code, has been a gain in business for smaller retailers, but a loss in total sales to publishers, a prominent wholesaler says.

M'CUCCLOCH ASKS WITHDRAWAL FROM AUTHORITY GROUP

McCulloch county does not wish to take part with Coleman and Brown counties in the Central Colorado River Authority, according to a report in the Brady Standard of Tuesday. The recently organized McCulloch County Water Conservation Board, organized to build low water dams in that county, voted last Friday to ask withdrawal from the district.

A meeting of the board and interested citizens was held last week at the court house at Brady and took action following recommendations of a committee that had been appointed to study the proposals.

The Brady Standard account of the meeting continues: The committee of J. A. Maxwell, James Finlay and Judge Evans J. Adkins reported that after a thorough study of the proposition and after a conference with the State Board of Water Engineers, the committee did not believe that a program such as the Colorado River Authority would create, would be of sufficient merit to ask the legislature to grant and donate the state ad valorem taxes of this county for the next twenty years for the purpose of financing a bond issue for this program.

At the meeting here Friday, it was moved by J. A. Maxwell and seconded by James Finlay that the "secretary be instructed to inform Coleman county that after investigating this proposition from every angle we do not see where McCulloch county would be justified in asking the legislature to pass the bill, and that we would not be sufficiently benefited by its passage and that for this reason McCulloch withdraws from the proposed Central Colorado River Authority Bill." The motion was unanimously carried.

The action taken Friday will in no way affect the low-water dam program as originally planned in McCulloch county, members of the board pointed out.

MARIONETTES WILL BE PRESENTED BY LEAGUE

The Junior Service League is bringing a novel entertainment to Brownwood Friday, March 15th. Faulkner's Marionettes are to be presented in a show called "Radioettes" at Howard Payne Auditorium for a matinee performance at 4:15 o'clock and an evening performance at 8:00 o'clock.

Puppets representing Amos and Andy, Charlie Chaplin, Skippy, Greta Garbo, Chevalier, Tom Mix, Felix, the Gumps, Jiggs and Maggie, Mickey Mouse, Clark Gable, Joan Crawford, Mae West, Kate Smith, Eddie Cantor and 60 other stars of the stage, screen, radio and sports world will be shown in the different acts.

Jack, the dog mascot who attends encampments of the 111th medical regiment, Texas national guard, has been officially promoted from corporal to sergeant.

TWO-BALE FARMER WILL BE EXEMPT FROM BANKHEAD LAW PROVISIONS, AAA DECIDES

REGULATIONS to exempt the two-bale farmer and to provide for appeals of producers dissatisfied with their allotments under the Bankhead cotton production control law, have been announced by the AAA. Last fall President Roosevelt advocated exemption of the two-bale farmer from payment of the ginning tax on all his excess up to the maximum of two bales and there has been a demand throughout the Cotton Belt for a system of appeals from production allotments made by county committees.

Bills to provide for appeals and the exemption have been introduced in both houses but the AAA has insisted the matter will be provided under regulations governing the present season's production.

This year's production of tax-exemption cotton is limited under the Bankhead act to 10,500,000 bales of 500 pounds each. On the ginning of cotton not tax exempt the act levies a tax at the rate of 50 per cent of the average central market price on seven-eighths inch middling spot cotton. The Secretary of Agriculture will demand this average price before the ginning season opens and at subsequent intervals if necessary.

The national allotment of 10,500,000 bales would indicate, however, that producers may expect to receive a tax-free allotment equal to 65 per cent of the average production in the base period. Producers who can not agree with the recommendations of county committees on individual farm allotments will have the right this season to appeal to a State board. The boards also will hear appeals from producers who have authentic figures which do not agree with recommendations of county committees in regard to their allowed base acreage and production yield under the adjustment program.

That portion of the 1935-36 regulations dealing with tax-exempt allotments to small farms says: "Each allotment of tax-exempt cotton shall be expressed in net pounds of lint cotton. The State allotment board shall determine each such allotment by applying to the allotment basis of each farm such percentage figure as is required to be used in order to insure each producer his pro rata share of the allotment under the act, except that if the allotment basis of any farm on which cotton was planted in any year after 1927 and before 1935 is 955 pounds or less the allotment shall be 100 per cent of the allotment basis, and if the application of such percentage figure to the allotment basis of any farm with an allotment basis of more than 955 pounds on which cotton was planted in any year after 1927 and before 1935 results in a figure of less than 955 pounds the allotment shall be 955 pounds."

Community and county committees through which individual producers will apply for allotments of tax-exempt cotton and tax exemption certificates under the Bankhead act have been elected and are functioning in all counties in the cotton belt. County agents will handle the applications in a few counties where production is small.

Application forms must be signed by an owner, a cash tenant, or a tenant who pays as rent a fixed quantity of products. These application forms will be mailed to the field from Washington as soon as they are printed. An individual share tenant or share cropper who operates an entire farm may submit a joint application and sign with his landlord, or at the discretion of the county committee, either the landlord's signature or the share cropper's signature may be dispensed with if either interested party is unavailable or not desirous of signing, or is not in a position to supply the information called for in the application.

Any operator entitled to sign an application may do so through an agent, but the agent must submit a written document showing his authority to act for the operator of the farm covered by the application. Provision has been made to assure that share croppers and share tenants receive the share of tax exemption certificates to which they are entitled by law.

Counties have been divided into communities and a community committee designated in each county subdivision. The community committees are establishing headquarters where farm operators or their agents may submit applications. The data submitted in applications will be examined by the community and county committees and necessary adjustments may be made. The county committee's recommendations will be passed upon by the local county committees which heretofore have functioned under the Farm Credit Administration. It was pointed out, however, that no loans would be made to farmers who are able to obtain credit through usual commercial channels and that in cases where existing crop or chattel liens existed, waivers and non-disturbance agreements from such lien holders will be required before any loans will be approved. For non-relief clients, loans not to exceed $50 will be approved.

Mr. Johnson said the relief commission will discontinue making these loans immediately upon resumption of activities by the Farm Credit Administration.

CENTRAL AUTHORITY BILL INTRODUCED

Delegations from Brown, Coleman and McCulloch counties are planning to go to Austin to urge a favorable report on the bill to create the Central Colorado River Authority, introduced in the House Friday by Representative Courtney Gray of Brownwood and Representative W. H. Adkins of Brady.

The purpose of the authority is to carry out a program of soil and water conservation. State ad valorem taxes paid in the three counties would be transferred to the authority to be used for carrying out the program. The authority would be governed by a board of nine directors, three to be appointed from each county.

BROWNWOOD PEOPLE AT SIDNEY MEETING

A meeting was held in the Sidney community, Comanche county, this week for the purpose of discussing road matters of mutual interest to the Sidney and May communities and the proposed government experiment station to be located in the sandy land belt of Brown, Comanche, Eastland and Callahan counties.

J. B. Cooper, superintendent of Sidney school, presided. A delegation from the May community, Brown county, was present.

County Judge A. E. Nabors of Brownwood, Brown County Commissioner H. I. Stapp, J. A. Betts and Chas. B. Palmer, and Chester Harrison, secretary of Brownwood Chamber of Commerce, attended the meeting.

J. B. Cooper, superintendent of Sidney school, presided. The Sidney citizens appointed a committee to work with a committee from May on road matters. The gathering voted its enthusiastic support of the proposed experiment station, which is being sponsored by Brownwood Chamber of Commerce and other chambers of commerce in this section. A bill providing for establishment of the station has been introduced in the Legislature.

Recommendations for figures to be used in determining individual allotments will be based on the best information available regarding cotton base acreage and production.

PROGRAM ARRANGED FOR CONVENTION OF HOSPITAL MANAGERS

The program for the convention of the Northwest Texas Clinic and Hospital Managers was announced this week by A. L. Buser of Stamford Santarum, Stamford, president of the organization, through Oswald Daugherty of Central Texas Hospital, Brownwood.

The convention is to be held at the Hotel Brownwood next Thursday, March 21. Hospital problems will be discussed during the morning session by E. M. Collier, Abilene; C. R. Gallihar, Fort Worth; J. H. Felton of Lubbock and C. E. Hunt of Lubbock. A round table discussion will be led by J. B. Adcock, San Angelo.

The afternoon session will be devoted largely to discussion of nursing problems, with speakers being Miss Ruby Duchannan Gilbert, Lubbock; Bertha Nielson, Sweetwater; Elizabeth Kelley, Santa Anna; Margaret Rose, Wichita Falls; Martha Maude Apple, Wichita Falls and Janet McLellan, Temple.

Following the Brownwood session, many of the hospital and clinic managers will go to Marlin, where the state convention is to be held Friday and Saturday, March 22 and 23.

PEANUT CONTRACTS BEING TABULATED

All peanut contracts in this county were being tabulated this week by N. M. Clark, R. A. Bowden and W. M. Dunsworth, Brown county peanut committee. The results of their check-up will be sent to the central state board for approval, after which they will go to Washington. After they are checked there, checks will be mailed to the peanut growers.

It will be necessary for the land to be measured and checked again to determine the accuracy of the contracts before the contracts are mailed to Washington.

There are 125 peanut growers in this county who have signed crop reduction contracts for payment on 1935 contracts.

A picture of Luene Horner, 19 year old Brownwood girl, appears on the cover of the April issue of The Ladies Home Journal. The cover design was submitted by a California artist who made a color study from a photograph made by Luene Horner when in Los Angeles several months ago.

Miss Horner, a graduate of Brownwood high school, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Horner and the granddaughter of Mrs. S. E. Lacy, all of Brownwood.

Relief Workers Of District In Conference Here

Two Hundred Representatives Of 22 Counties Attend Meeting Wednesday.

Relief workers from the 22 counties comprising District 10 of the Texas Relief Commission met in Brownwood Wednesday for discussion of problems relating to procedure of the Commission's work. Administrators, case workers, certifying officers and rural rehabilitation workers numbering approximately 200 attended the meeting.

State relief officials who attended the meeting included J. C. Bisset, assistant chief engineer; Mrs. Elizabeth Gardner, social welfare workers; Miss Mona Jarrell, assistant director women's work; J. E. Stanford, assistant director rural program; R. J. Landers, assistant chief accountant; R. H. O'Brien, senior accountant; J. M. Gilbough, purchasing officer; R. H. Lawrence, engineering examiner; D. W. Brack, commodity distribution supervisor; Harold N. West, field supervisor.

Chester Harrison, chairman of the Brown county board, welcomed the visitors. Mr. West acted as general chairman of the meeting and introduced the state officials. Mr. Bisset, speaking for the administration urged administrators to cooperate closely with county boards which he said represented cross section of county leadership and can be of untold value in making the relief program successful.

Case workers were reminded of the necessity of maintaining a sympathetic attitude toward clients and of maintaining strict confidence in the matter of case records. Other problems relating to technical details in the rural rehabilitation program in accounting procedure and other phases of the program were taken up for solution.

Counties represented and administrators attending the meeting were:

Brown county, C. E. Boyett; Johnson county, O. G. Kinon; Erath county, W. E. Creighton; Shackelford county, Oscar Wise; Taylor county, Doyle T. Brooks; Somervell county, C. L. Gibbey; Eastland county, H. E. Driscoll; Mills county, E. B. Gilliam, Jr.; Callahan county, R. D. Williams; Jones county, Mrs. Lenore Christian; Bell county, E. L. FRIDAY LAST DAY TO PAY DELINQUENT TAX, LESS PENALTY

Friday, March 15, is the last day to pay delinquent taxes without the addition of penalties. Tax Collector and Assessor Winston Palmer warned this week. After Friday it will be necessary to add penalty and interest to all delinquent taxes the collector pointed out.

Payments of taxes have been very satisfactory during the past few weeks, Mr. Palmer stated, and many have taken advantage of the opportunity to pay up delinquent taxes at this time and avoid the penalty.

Automobile license sales have been moving slowly, but have speeded up somewhat during the past week, Mr. Palmer stated. Something more than 500 licenses for 1935 have been issued by the office. Last day for payment is March 21.

Mr. Palmer has removed the grill above the counters in the collector's office to facilitate payment of auto license fees, and will accept payments at this office only, instead of across the hall in the assessor's office, as in the past.

The collector urges prompt payment of license fees to avoid the last minute rush. Fees must be paid in cash, and no checks can be accepted.

Lions Will Meet Next At Santa Anna

Santa Anna was selected as the place for the next quarterly meeting of the Lions clubs in this district at their meeting in Coleman last week. Lion Smith of Goldthwaite was elected as president of the district for the next year.

The Richland Springs club won the banner for the largest percentage of membership in attendance. Other clubs represented were San Saba, Goldthwaite, Santa Anna, Brownwood and Coleman.

Those from Brownwood attending were: A. H. Bell, president of the local club; Dr. J. M. Horn, G. F. McKay, Dr. Roy G. Hallum, Ben A. Pain, Mr. and Mrs. U. R. Groom, and H. F. Mayes.

Donald Richberg didn't add anything to the argument of the Administration for a two-year continuation of the National Recovery Administration when he told a senatorial committee that the estimated annual cost of the NRA to American business has been $41,000,000. This is the cost borne by business and industry of operation of the various codes for one year, not the additional cost to the government itself.

Mr. Richberg quickly qualified his statement with the explanation that the $1 million dollars represents less than 1 per cent of the sales involved by the business operated during the past year under the 700 different codes. But even at that, the sum is staggering, and still remains $1 million, any way you look at it.

With new decisions being handed down daily that the NRA cannot specify minimum wages or selling prices on the hundreds of thousands of small businesses engaged in commerce only within the borders of their states, the usefulness of the NRA to the small business man — forming the bulk of American business — is becoming less and less. And with the passing of its usefulness, or to say the least, the weakening of it, will come increasing difficulty in collecting "code assessments." Mr. Richberg himself admits the codes without authority to enforce collection, explaining that the costs were met by voluntary contributions.

The NRA was a most useful invention. It served its purpose well during the months following its adoption, and did much to stimulate business. But as months went by and opposition to the codes and their provisions became more and more felt, it largely bogged down of its own weight, and, so far as small business was concerned, became utterly confused in the maze of red tape in which it was enmeshed.

The administration is supporting the movement for two year extension of the NRA, and no doubt the emergency legislation will be extended. But it will be a revised, re-worked NRA, which should apply only to those businesses engaged in interstate commerce, and to those industries favoring operation under the code to operation without it.

The County Judges and Commissioners Association of Texas has proposed a number of legislative matters during the present session designed to relieve overburdened county taxpayers over the state. A legislative bureau is being maintained at Austin, and serious efforts to bring about several needed reforms are being undertaken.

One of these measures, which it calls the "county judges plan," is discussed at some length this week by the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, which, apparently misunderstanding the nature of conditions which the proposed legislation would correct, berates the measure severely. The plan would have the state take over county road bonds, retiring them through money to be derived from an additional cent per gallon added to the gasoline tax. The measure would relieve the ad valorem taxpayers of the obligation of retiring the bonds in question.

Granting that if the roads were used largely by automobiles the measure would be a just one, the Star-Telegram sets up the false premise that lateral roads in Texas are "roads of purely local use. In many instances," the Star-Telegram states, "they are roads which have disappeared altogether. . . . Under it (the plan proposed) not only would the motorists be required to pay for the roads they caused to be built, and which they use, and for the schools, but for roads built before automobiles were a factor, and which they have never used and never can use."

How many readers can think of a lateral bonded road in Brown county which has never been used by an automobile, and never can? Or, what per cent of the lateral roads are of purely local use?

The building of state highways is vitally important, but more important are the lateral roads which connect these highways with the actual users. The state highway system comprises less than 20,000 miles of roads in this state, whereas there are more than 200,000 miles of lateral highways. In many instances, these lateral roads serve to connect up state highways. Most all of them are of more importance to the motorist-taxpayer than are the state highways, except in the case of the larger cities in the state.

We are not sure that the best way to retire the bonds issued to construct these roads is through an increased gasoline tax. But, to be sure, real property at present is over-taxed. Ad valorem taxes are not being paid, and the gasoline tax would be collected and the bonds retired. Real estate would benefit, the ad valorem taxpayer would benefit, the counties would benefit, the 200,000 miles of lateral highways would benefit through making available money now used to retire bonds for maintenance of these highways. The only one who would suffer would be the automobile owner who does not own real property, or the large city counties where the contribution to state retirement of the bonds would be greater than the financial benefits of the proposed legislation.

To our way of thinking, it is a worthy piece of legislation, and should be adopted at the present session.

Last year the American people established one unenviable record. More people were killed and injured in automobile accidents than ever before. An interesting analysis of the record is made by the Travelers Insurance Company in a graphic, illustrated booklet entitled "Thou Shall Not Kill." It shows that the fatality total was around 36,000, and the injury total near the million mark.

It is a fact that automobile registrations increased last year, as compared with 1933, some 6 per cent, as did gasoline consumption. But the death total by automobile accidents increased 16 per cent.

Last year, automobiles struck 337,000 pedestrians — and 16,000 died.

There were 381,000 accidents in which two cars collided, resulting in the death of 8,500 people. Four thousand were killed as the result of cars striking fixed objects, and 1,100 perished in accidents involving cars and trains, a type of accident which is almost invariably the fault of the motorist.

Drivers who speed in improper places, who drive on the wrong side of the road, who usurp the right-of-way, who pass on hills and curves, who fail to give proper signals and who are otherwise reckless, menace life, health and property of every American citizen.

Aviatrix

"I never dream of an airplane crash that I don't hear of the next morning," stated Eleanor Smith, who possesses youthful beauty as well as bravery and skill as an aviatrix.

"Last year, when I was making an altitude attempt, I thought my motor had been cut off 26,000 feet above the ground. I reached down my hand to try the throttle, and I accidentally turned off the oxygen gauge.

"Well, that has just the same effect upon a person as doing this to her. . . . Here Miss Smith graphically sliced her throat with the blade of her hand and made a shivery, sizzling sound as one makes when choking.

"While I was unconscious my plane dropped. I regained consciousness just as it was nosing for the ground. I was too near to glide to a landing. I had the immediate choice of hitting a brick wall or falling into the reservoir and probably drowning, or the heading for a space between two tall trees.

"Now, I remembered that the night before I had dreamed of a crash. I knew what that meant for me; I knew I must take no chances; I must do anything to avert such a catastrophe.

"To fly between the trees was my only chance of escape. I had enough experience to know that if the plane flew between them the impact would slice off the wings, turn the plane over and wreck it.

"So I turned the plane over deliberately, from within, and saved damage to it, instead of allowing it to resist the turn and doubtless be shattered.

"If it had not been for that dream I might have taken more chances with those trees."

Through the cooperation of his tenant, his county farm demonstration agent and his commissioner, Mr. S. L. Johnson, of Leonard in Fannin county was enabled to terrace his blackland farm for $2 per acre. The tenant said: "When the spring rains caused me to lose good seed and several days work by having to replant, and then in the fall when my lint yield was about 30 pounds less per acre than the adjoining terraced farm, I became interested in getting my landlord to terrace."

L. W. Watson of Cordele in Jackson county states: "In 1932 I made 120 bales of cotton at a net profit of $120 or only $1 per bale. This year, though I produced less cotton due to reduction, I made more money from my crop. I made a net return this year of over $40 per bale on my cotton." According to the farm demonstration agent, Mr. Watson keeps an accurate record of his cost of production and knows wherein his profit lies.

PAROLE PERILS

(Houston Post)

Only one thing gave America the parole system: kind-hearted sympathy. Yet today there are many kind-hearted people, seeing its abuse, who are doubtful of its efficacy.

More than 10,000 paroled convicts were rearrested during 1934. The list of crimes they were charged with included nearly everything which debased minds could conceive.

A recent report by the division of investigation of the United States department of justice shows that of the 10,000 rearrested convicts a heavy per cent were known to the authorities as "repeaters." Nearly 400 had been convicted of criminal homicide; 1788 were robbers; 2788 were burglars.

There is little question that as the parole system is being administered and abused, society is endangered.

Director J. Edgar Hoover of the division of investigation, states bluntly that but one thing is responsible for the maladministration of the parole system in the United States; failure of public officials to carry out their public trust, placing paramount the welfare and interests of society.

At the present session of the legislature a bill is in the hopper which would revamp and perhaps change the locale of the board of pardons and parole. It would be well for the committee to which the bill was referred to give the parole system in Texas a thorough go-over and propose methods to strengthen it and impose restrictions which will prove kind-hearted to society as well as to the enemies of society, the criminal class.

McKinney—A cutting bed 6 by 18 feet started in February, 1933, has furnished a total of 137 strong plants for use as screen and foundation plantings in the yard of Mrs. Bart Bryant of Collins county, according to Miss Helen Dunlap, home demonstration agent.

Although a freeze followed the first plantings of the cutting bed, 32 cuttings were transplanted last fall as plants to screen the out-buildings. New cuttings were planted and now Mrs. Bryant has a total of 195 living plants which will be used in foundation plantings. She plans to use waste water from the milk house to water the cutting bed by running it through sub-irrigation tile.

Haskell—An investment of $1.20 for 90 feet of concrete tile netted $14.50 in fresh vegetables and canned products for Mrs. Paul Frierson of the Midway Home Demonstration Club in Haskell county, according to Miss Peggy Taylor, home demonstration agent. In addition to using 100 pounds of fresh tomatoes, Mrs. Frierson preserved 12 quarts of soup mixture, 12 quarts of canned tomatoes.

Spinach was grown over the tile in the early spring before the tomato plants were set out. Mrs. Frierson plans to put down 90 feet more of the tile and plant lettuce, mustard and radishes before time to set out tomato plants.

Wheeler—In checking the list of hens she had planned to can Mrs. Ben King of Wheeler county finds 3 varieties she could not get because of the drought, but she does have 165 varieties on her pantry shelves, according to Miss Viola Jones, home demonstration agent. The 84 1-2 quarts are arranged and labeled, and her pantry also contains special shelves of food for use when unexpected company comes or in other emergencies. Sale of canned products has paid her grocery bill, paid the canning expenses, and left a bank balance of $79.75 for other expenses.

Baird—D. M. Jones of Calahan county will have fresh tomatoes or the Christmas holidays because he packed green tomatoes in dry sand and allowed them to ripen, according to Ross B. Jenkins, farm demonstration agent. Due to the late rains in the fall, Calahan county farmers had a fine crop of green tomatoes and many inquired as to how they might preserve them for fresh use. Under the direction of the farm demonstration agent, Mr. Jones packed them in dry sand using care that no tomato touched another and leaving about 1-2 inch stem on each tomato. That was done before the first frost, and about 30 days later he exhibited some evenly ripened fruit. He says that he can easily hold the tomatoes for 60 days.

Madisonville—Gid Manning of Madison county is thoroughly convinced of the value of culling, dusting and feeding his flock of White Leghorn hens properly, according to W. L. David, farm demonstration agent. Mr. Manning had about 300 hens which were laying 75 eggs a day. These chickens were badly infested with fleas and lice and were not getting a balanced ration. After culling his flock to 190 hens and treating them for fleas and lice, Mr. Manning put them on a balanced ration. As a result of this, he is getting 100 eggs a day from his 190 hens.

Sulphur Springs—One-third more cotton was gathered this year on terraced fields on a farm operated by I. G. Davis of Hopkins county than was gathered on adjoining fields which were unterraced, according to S. L. Neal, farm demonstration agent. Terrace lines were run and terraces constructed on approximately 770 acres in November, 1933. The average width of the terraces was 21 feet and the height was two feet with a fall of from one to two inches per hundred feet. Gullies from two to five feet deep were filled in and rows with the terraces.

Five hooked mats have been made from discarded silk hose and underwear by Miss Nora Walters of Haskell county. The mats have a money value of $7.50 and the only expense was thirty cents for dye. These mats are used for chair cushions, covers for tables or footstools.

Mr. Jeter Newman and Beecher Newman of Harrison county have started a pasture demonstration. They have cut the brush, contoured the hillside and placed Bermuda grass sod on the contours. Each one of them has seeded an acre with bur-hop and white Dutch clovers.

GIVES CARS NEW LIFE

Is your car losing its original pep? Disappointing on pick up? Overheating on long runs? Then, a pleasant revelation is in store, the first time you use PYROIL.

PYROIL does immediate wonders for any car—new or old. Simply added in small quantity to regular gasoline and oil supply, PYROIL establishes a heat-, wear-, dilution-proof surface of self-lubrication on every moving metal part. Actually, builds lubrication into the metal. PYROIL withstands the withering heat of the motor head where ordinary oil burns into carbon. Hence, it supplies constant lubrication to valves, stems, guides, pistons, cylinder walls, that no motor heat can affect; that wear off as long as sustained; that can't wash off. Prevents sticky rings at once. Seals rings. Aids compression. Banishes hard carbon. Makes your motor better every mile you ride. HOW DOES YOUR GARDEN GROW?

By PROF. C. H. NISSLEY
Extension Horticulturist, N. J. College of Agriculture and Experiment Station, Rutgers University.

The home gardener will get lots of real fun out of starting his own vegetable plants. The requirements are few, the cost is trivial. Here are shown the materials with which the gardener must start. At right is a pile of good garden soil. This is sifted through the three-quarters inch mesh screen shown in the left background. After this sifting has removed stones, roots and other undesirable matter, a sifting through the one-quarter inch mesh screen will result in the fine soil shown in the center of the picture—an excellent medium in which to grow seedlings.

The soil in the flat at right above has been firmed by the firming block, also shown, to facilitate even distribution of moisture through capillary action, to give the seedlings stronger support, and to make the essential plant nutrients immediately available to the seedlings. The flat at left has not been firmed. The coarser garden soil is placed in the bottom of the flat and firmed with the firming board. After the flat has been filled with the finely sifted soil, it should be watered with a very fine spray prior to seed sowing. When the surface soil is dry enough to preclude its sticking to the marker, the rows are marked out, the seed sown, and covered with moist soil.

Below are lettuce seedlings in a simple, home-made flat, showing correct planting of seeds. The rows should be about two inches apart and one-quarter inch deep for most plants. A safe rule to follow is to plant seeds to a depth four times their diameter. Don't plant the seed too thickly, for this will result in a spindly growth. Watering too much also is dangerous, for it may help to bring on "damping off," a disease which quickly kills the seedlings.

CONSTRUCTION OF DAMS BY RELIEF LABOR EXPECTED TO AID DROUTH STRICKEN AREA

TEXAS, dealt a disastrous blow by a lingering drouth in 1934, may never suffer such serious consequences again, if the Texas Relief Commission's water production program brings about its expected permanent remedy. Although it was the middle of September before any applications for water production were approved, the Commission since that date has brought water to or supplemented the supply in 115 communities throughout the state.

Records show that approximately 40,000 persons have been benefited directly, and it is estimated that water has been provided for 150,000 head of livestock.

The Texas Relief Commission has drilled and completed approximately 90 new wells and has deepened cleaned and otherwise rehabilitated some 20 more.

In one community where water mains were inadequate, 600 man-hours of labor were traded for water for relief clients and farmers close by who were suffering from a shortage of supply.

In another case when the inadequate municipal supply was owned by an individual who found himself unable to provide additional quantities, the distribution system was leased to a school district after which relief officials dug a well that provided an adequate supply. Relief well drillers were 100 per cent successful in striking water although one well where salt water was encountered had to be abandoned.

Freight charges have been paid on water shipped by railway cars into several communities.

Construction of Dams. Perhaps the more important phase of the program, particularly from the standpoint of long-time value, is that dealing with construction of dams across small streams and the impounding of water for human and livestock consumption.

One of these dams, built across Brushy Creek near Round Rock Williamson county, has created a lake covering 150 acre feet. Some 30 families and hundreds of head of livestock will benefit directly from this dam, a 16-foot concrete structure about 200 feet long.

Surrounding property owners have easements to the Texas Relief Commission, the State of Texas and Williamson county, which grant public access to the water impounded. These dams offer splendid opportunity for recreational activities as well and one has been built in a state park in Leon county for this purpose.

The Brushy Creek dam, begun 10 weeks ago under Jim Patterson, superintendent of construction on the Hamilton dam, was completed on the afternoon of February 8, just before the beginning of a rain that sent water lapping over the top of the dam next morning.

All Counties Eligible. J. B. Keely, chief engineer of the Texas Relief Commission, has requested county administrators to contact communities interested in low water dams.

Out in some of the western counties of the state are spring-fed streams that never run dry; yet no attempt has been made to conserve this water and in many instances areas containing these streams have long suffered from lack of rainfall. Now it is proposed, where possible, to dam these streams, save much water and in some places it may be possible to introduce the rural rehabilitation plan by means of irrigation.

It was explained that the counties should determine the most practical sites for dams, pass a resolution accepting full responsibility for construction of the dams and accepting liability by reason of overflows, back waters, etc., as a result of the dam's construction.

Counties must furnish the Texas Relief Commission with sufficient engineering data to enable the Commission to determine the desirability of constructing a dam upon the proposed site. Plans and specifications of the proposed type of dam to be constructed are submitted to the state board of water engineers before final decision is made. If the Texas Relief Commission approves the project, it will participate in the construction by furnishing all labor that can be supplied from the relief rolls, together with 25 per cent of the materials necessary for the construction of the dam. The political subdivision puts up the remaining 75 per cent of the material costs.

It has been said often that the greatest amount of rainfall occurs where there are the most lakes or bodies of water. If this be true, then it may be possible that these dams serve to break drouths not only by conserving water, but also by attracting more rain.

Stockmen have declared cattle in most instances could be saved the ravages of another drouth if dams can be provided so that it will no longer be necessary to drive herds more than six or seven miles to water.

Kay Roberts Is In Race For Re-Election

Kay Roberts, alderman from Ward 4, Brownwood, this week authorized the Banner to announce his candidacy for reelection. Mr. Roberts has served on the city council for the past four years. Mr. Roberts was elected on a platform of economy four years ago. The program outlined and the policies advocated by him at that time have been carried out. If reelected, he promises to continue to render efficient, economical service to the city to the best of his ability.

Blizzard Paints Scene of Beauty—at $500,000 Cost

Late winter conceived one of its most beautiful—but costly—masterpieces in the sleet and snow storm that swept the northwest, striking with greatest force along the west end of Lake Superior, paralyzing traffic and communication and causing damage in excess of $500,000. Here is a typical street scene in Duluth after a sleet came in the March blizzard and a million gems sparkled in the sunlight.

Starving Horse and Cow Win $500,000 Feed Aid

The pitiful spectacle of a starving horse and a dying cow at the door of Minnesota's statehouse spurred action by the legislature after pleas of 50,000 desperate farmers had failed to bring relief. The Senate voted $500,000 to feed the state's starving livestock. This picture shows the scene that met the eyes of legislators on the statehouse steps.

The project is for 3.7 miles of grading, drainage structures, catch basins and triple asphalt surface on highway No. 10 through Comanche and 1.5 miles east. The work will be started at the Frisco overpass west of Comanche.

Legionnaires Give Program For CCC

The regular Friday night program at Camp Chester Harrison last week was furnished by the Brownwood and Bangs Legion posts.

The Brownwood post presented songs by Misses Bertie Cox and Elva Scott and Mrs. E. G. Keith and several readings by Miss Elizabeth Britton. Mrs. Edna Savage Saunders was pianist.

The Bangs post presented a string band of four pieces and a black-face comedian. Bangs entertainers were Travis Lemmons, Darwin Stacy, Burrell Dury, Wm. Dury and Charley Dury, with Jim Gilbert as master of ceremonies.

Besides the regular enrollees of Camp Harrison ten enrollees and Lieutenant Hoffman of the Taylor camp were present. The latter group being here for the basketball tournament being held today among the CCC camps of this district.

Other visitors at the camp included Gus J. Rosenberz, director of the program, W. D. Wells, John Collins, Mr. and Mrs. Lively McChristy, Charles Carter, Miss Sheffield and H. B. Lewis.

Flight Tripped Up

Captain Frank Hawks was ready to start a record-shattering flight to Buenos Aires—even to posing for this picture waving goodbye at Floyd Bennett Field, New York—when the venture was mysteriously called off. Because the plane was described as an "attack" craft, reports hinted, it was considered an unfriendly vehicle for the trip.

HALF FOOT RISE IS RECORDED AT LAKE

Rains over the watershed of Lake Brownwood Monday morning caused a half foot rise in the lake's elevation. Ed Hall, lake superintendent reported that elevation before the rain was 1,392.8 and after the rain it was 1,393.3.

The lake now covers an area of about 1,400 acres and contains about 17,000 acre feet of water. The lake is 63.3 at the deepest point.

LIQUOR SCORED BY SPEAKERS TUESDAY

Oliver Stewart, Chicago, and Miss Norma C. Brown, Bloomington, Ill., presented in a clear-cut and forceful manner the present status of those in this country who are opposed to the liquor traffic in speeches at Howard Payne College Wednesday.

In Mr. Stewart's address he said that the Eighteenth Amendment was not a mistake, but that the mistake was in the administration of it. He does not think that there is a need for a new party so far as liquor control is concerned, but there is need for the moral forces of the nation to hold control of the administration through their party affiliations.

Miss Brown spoke on "Broken Promises," the promises made by the advocates of repeal of the 18th amendment. She said that despite promises made that in states which have gone "wet" conditions are as bad or worse than they were in the "saloon" days, taxation problems are as great as ever, unemployment has not been greatly decreased by the liquor interests and the "bootlegger" is still as great a menace as ever, even in those states which are wide open.

The menace to life and safety on the highways and streets by the drinking drivers was described by Miss Brown at the close of her talk. She called attention to the plan of the automobile insurance companies to raise insurance rates due, they say, to increasing losses in automobile accidents caused by drunken drivers.

Miss Brown and Mr. Stewart also spoke to large audiences in Coleman yesterday.

WORK RELIEF IN COUNTY RESUMED

Brown county's work relief program for March will include lateral road work in the four commissioner's precincts. Resumption of the program, which had been practically abandoned due to the shortage of funds, was ordered by State Relief Director Adam R. Johnson last week in a communication addressed to all county administrators.

Mr. Johnson said past rules and regulations governing work relief projects are again in effect but cautioned all administrators with regard to proper planning of expenditures.

"Allotments for the month will in all instances be lower than for February," he said. "This will mean in many cases reduction in family budgets. It should not mean, however, the end of work relief, and the client should be extended work relief as in the past but in smaller amounts. It is suggested that all economies possible be effected in regard to non-relief expenditures."

The allotment for this county for March is $15,000.

EARLY HISTORY OF TEXAS

AS SHOWN FROM THE AUSTIN PAPERS

This is one of a series of articles taken from the collections of the University of Texas library. The collection covers all periods of Texas history from the earliest Spanish mission to the present day.

John Cartwright was born in 1787. He came to Texas in 1825, settling near San Augustine. He was a prominent merchant and politician.

Cartwright's business interests were extensive. He was involved in the cotton trade and the establishment of the first cotton gin in Texas.

SHARP REDUCTION SHOWN IN COTTON EXPORTS IN 1934

Exports of American cotton for the first half of this season were 42 per cent less than last year and about the same percentage less than the ten-year average, according to the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. Egyptian exports are 14 per cent less but India's 49 per cent greater.

The bureau also estimated the world cotton crop at 22,600,000 bales, 3,500,000 bales less than last year, and 2,700,000 below the ten-year average. Foreign production is estimated at 12,869,000 bales, 400,000 bales less than estimated in January and 184,000 bales less than last year. This decrease includes 600,000 bales in the crop of India, which the bureau said more than offsets increases in Brazil, China, Russia and minor countries. The unofficial increase in Mexican acreage is said to be heavy.

Following exemption regulations announced by the AAA under the Bankhead cotton control act, the House Agriculture Committee reported for passage the bill by Representative Doxie of Mississippi amending the law to provide an exemption from the ginning tax of farmers producing two bales or less, and writing into law a system of appeals from action of the county or community allotment committees. The Doxie bill includes share-croppers and tenants.

Estimates of the number of bales the bill will remove from the ginning tax vary. Suffice to say that both the Doxie bill and regulations of the AAA seek to take care of the little fellow mentioned by President Roosevelt last fall. The Doxie bill makes it specific that tenant farmers and share croppers are included.

BROWNWOOD LOSES BASKETBALL TITLE RACE TO DENTON

Mac Miller, who saw his Brownwood Lions basketball team lose in the State title race to Denton in the semi-finals at Austin Saturday afternoon.

Mac Miller brought his fast-stepping high school basketball team within sight of the state crown last week in Austin, when the Brownwood Lions drove to the semi-finals, there to lose to the Denton High Broncs. The Denton aggregation later emerged state champions by virtue of the victory in the finals over Lamesa, winners-up in 1934 also.

Lynn Clardy of Brownwood emerged with individual honors, being named by the Daily Texan, Austin, as guard on the all-star team. Clardy played a spectacular game at Austin, and drew praise from several state papers.

Brownwood, placing third in the state meet by virtue of a defeat at the hands of Hughes Springs, the other team eliminated in the semi-finals, gave Denton the closest game the champions had during the two-day meet at Austin. The score was 28 to 21.

Several members of the Brownwood squad, including Pete Crow, Clayton Coffey and others, suffered from ptomaine poisoning Saturday morning, and required the services of a physician.

Box score of the Denton-Brownwood semi-final game follows:

Girl Is Injured In Car-Truck Collision

Bettie Johnson, 9, of Jarrell, Texas, received a fractured frontal skull and other injuries when the car in which she was riding, driven by W. W. Burns of Owens, collided with a truck driven by W. T. Bassett of De Leon, Texas. Pat Moore, Zephyr, Mr. and Mrs. Burns and Nathalie Johnson, who were all in the Burns car were injured but not seriously.

Neither Mr. Bassett nor his wife, who was accompanying him at the time of the wreck, were injured.

The Johnson girls are nieces of Mr. Burns, farmer of the Owens section.

Nobody's Business By JULIAN CAPEERS, JR.

Austin—The legislature reached the halfway mark in its 120-day session, with final action taken on less than half a hundred of the 1100 general bills poured into its hopper since it convened. But committees have been working earnestly on the big job of sifting the chaff from the wheat, and the near future will bring the beginning of final action on such important problems as departmental appropriations, prohibition repeal submission, race-track betting, the Centennial appropriation, public utility regulation and additional taxation—including the highly controversial sales tax.

Senator Joe Hill of Henderson, who favors resubmission of prohibition repeal, threw the floor lobby into violent spasms with his proposal to submit a constitutional amendment that would repeal state prohibition, but would establish a state monopoly in the sale of hard liquor. It would extend the local option privilege to counties as in the pre-prohibition era, and forbid open saloons. But the state of Texas would be the only entity that could make any money out of retailing liquor—and the boys who sell or want to sell liquor hate the very thought of that system.

The state of Texas is a penurious employer sometimes. When the railroad commission was established years ago, the commissioners were given $2500 a year to regulate railroads. Eventually, the federal government took over most of the work of that job. So when utilities were added to the commission's duties, the legislature gave the commissioners another $1000 a year to regulate them. Later, regulation of the oil industry became the task of the commission, so another $1000 a year was added to their salaries, making $4500 a year.

Today, oil is the main job. The supervision of the commission enables the state to collect about $45,000,000 a year in taxes from oil and its products. The commission has only seven employees who work at regulating railroads; 24 regulate trucks and buses; 11 regulate gas companies; while 136 are employed on oil regulation. The average pay of the 156, including the commissioner, is $135 a month. That isn't enough to keep good men, yet the commission must have good men, or its regulation suffers, and the state fails to get all the tax money it is entitled to from the industry.

There is a group in the legislature who seek to correct this situation by allocating a little more of the money the commission makes it possible for Texas to collect from its oil resources back to the commission to do a more effective job of regulation. It sounds like it might be a paying investment for the state.

Col. W. E. Talbot, who once did the Republican party in Texas a notable service by his unique campaign for governor on the G. O. P. ticket, in which he forgot politics and talked about building Texas industries, is busy again in the service of his state. Building Texas manufactures, keeping Texas money in Texas, supply our home commodities to our home markets—these things are the passion of Bill Talbot.

Highest Quality—Vacuum Packed Always Fresh at Your Grocer's

As the new president of Progressive Texans, Inc. Talbot has outlined a comprehensive program for that organization for 1935, that calls for this three-point objective:

1. To relieve unemployment, increase consumption of raw materials, and add wealth to Texas by increasing use of Texas-made products.
2. To encourage thru information and industrial surveys, location of new industries in Texas that do not compete with those already here.
3. The bring before the people of Texas and all others interested, the opportunity for developing virgin industries utilizing metallic products, wool, building materials, etc.

Every Texan, regardless of party, can subscribe to that platform, and those who have watched Bill Talbot work know he will get somewhere with it.

The race track betting advocates are paying the price for the legislative trickery they utilized to pass the pari-mutuel law, when two years ago, they tacked it onto an important appropriation bill as a rider during the last days of the session. They have found the sentiment for repeal of betting law stubborn and wide-spread. The repealist advocates are mostly amateurs—ministers, moralists and merchants—and they are no match for the skilled lobbyists who want to save race-track betting. The professionals outmaneuvered the repealists on legislative procedure on several occasions, but Gov. Allred each time has exerted the pressure of his influence to put the repeal bill back on its feet. The race track owners have been a God-send to jobless lobbyists. They now have Jim Ferguson, ex-Senator McGregor, and Elbert Hooper, former first assistant attorney general under Gov. Allred—and a host of lesser fry. It is a very expensive—probably a very expensive—lobby. You will hear much more of the race track fight before the session ends.
