CHAMBER OF COMMERCE EDUCATION COMMITTEE SUBMITS RESOLUTION

A strong recommendation that Brownwood attempt to secure federal assistance for new public school buildings and improvements on present buildings was advanced at a meeting of Chamber of Commerce directors Wednesday by the Chamber's education committee composed of H. H. Gibbs, chairman; E. J. Woodward, city superintendent; Thomas H. Hart, alderman; Douglas Coalson and H. E. Robinson, deputy state superintendent.

The recommendation was in the form of a resolution which was unanimously adopted by the board. Chairman Gibbs declared that the need for improvements is urgent. Woodward emphasized the need for developing in the city a stronger sentiment for payment of school taxes.

Chamber of Commerce secretary Chester Harrison pointed out that around 75 or 80 Texas towns already have prepared applications for aid in public building construction in anticipation of passage of the four-billion dollar lending bill now in joint committee of the house and senate. It is believed that various taxing agencies may be enabled to secure loans through pledging delinquent taxes as security.

Modern agriculture and industry is and must be the application of the brain and arm, especially the brain," Dean J. Thomas Davis of John Tarleton College, who was a speaker on Tuesday night's program.

Harrison Address

Chester Harrison, manager of Brownwood Chamber of Commerce, told the campers that agriculture is not only the oldest vocation but also the most honorable occupation and extended the boys and sponsors a welcome to Brownwood and the state park. NO WHEAT MARKETING QUOTAS FOR THIS YEAR

The wheat crop will not be subject to the marketing quota plan in 1938, according to Geo. Slaughter, Wharton, chairman of the Texas Agricultural Conservation Committee.

The new farm act set May 15 as the latest date for establishing a national wheat marketing quota subject to a referendum by wheat growers, and also provides that no wheat quotas can be in effect during the marketing year beginning July 1, 1938, unless provisions for party payments have been made.

The Texas committee received word at its headquarters at Texas A. and M. College from AAA officials at Washington that the wheat marketing quota would have been proclaimed if party payments had been provided for within the required time, Slaughter said.

The farm act provides that the wheat quota shall be proclaimed when the total supply of wheat will exceed the normal year's domestic consumption and exports by more than 25 percent.

The Division of Crop Estimates has indicated that the probable production of winter wheat will be 400 to 500 million bushels in excess of the normal year's domestic consumption and exports and about 200 million bushels in excess of the marketing quota level.

Wheat is the only crop for which marketing quotas this year depend upon provisions for party payments. Slaughter pointed out. Marketing quotas are already in effect for cotton and for flue-cured, burley, and the dark tobacco. The act provides that there shall be no marketing quota for rice this year.

STATE AAA COMMITTEE NAMED BY SECRETARY

The membership of the Texas Agricultural Conservation Committee and Advisory Board, which represents Texas farmers and ranchmen in their dealings with the AAA program, has been announced by Secretary of Agriculture H. A. Wallace according to word received by E. N. Holmgren, administrative officer in charge of the State AAA office at Texas A. and M. College.

The committee and advisory board will consist of C. L. Thomas, Pampa; V. L. Cade, Slaton; J. H. Watson, New Castle; B. B. Ingle, Grandview; Donald L. Cottrhan, Caviness; Howard T. Kingsberry, Santa Anna; F. B. Seale, Benchley; John Weatherly, Appleby; R. M. Korth, Ecletto; Geo. Slaughter, Wharton; A. E. Gates, Laredo; and H. H. Williamson, director of the Texas Extension Service.

Slaughter will serve as chairman of the committee. Every type and class of farming and ranching has representation on the board, Holmgren pointed out.

The committee, as in the past, will hold regular meetings at A. and M. College during the third week of each month, and also will be subject to called meetings.

As in 1937, the Wednesday after the third Monday of each month has been set aside to hear farmers and ranchmen who may wish to state special cases or conditions.

NO WHEAT MARKETING QUOTAS FOR THIS YEAR

The wheat crop will not be subject to the marketing quota plan in 1938, according to Geo. Slaughter, Wharton, chairman of the Texas Agricultural Conservation Committee.

The new farm act set May 15 as the latest date for establishing a national wheat marketing quota subject to a referendum by wheat growers, and also provides that no wheat quotas can be in effect during the marketing year beginning July 1, 1938, unless provisions for parity payments have been made.

The Texas committee received word at its headquarters at Texas A. and M. College from AAA officials at Washington that the wheat marketing quota would have been proclaimed if parity payments had been provided for within the required time, Slaughter said.

The farm act provides that the wheat quota shall be proclaimed when the total supply of wheat will exceed the normal year's domestic consumption and exports by more than 35 percent.

The Division of Crop Estimates has indicated that the probable production of winter wheat will be 400 to 500 million bushels in excess of the normal year's domestic consumption and exports and about 200 million bushels in excess of the marketing quota level.

Wheat is the only crop for which marketing quotas this year depend upon provisions for parity payments, Slaughter pointed out. Marketing quotas are already in effect for cotton and for flue-cured, burley, and the dark tobaccos. The act provides that there shall be no marketing quota for rice this year.

STOCKMEN WARNED TO PREPARE FOR SCREW-WORMS

"Prepare for the screwworm in great numbers," R. R. Reppert, entomologist of the Extension Service of Texas A. and M. College, has warned Texas ranchmen.

The Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine of the U. S. Department of Agriculture has forecast a severe infestation, probably worse than that of 1935, in many parts of the Southwest, especially Texas and Arizona.

The screwworm fly has started earlier than ever before. The infestation in extreme Southwest Texas had been held down by dry weather during the first part of the season, but the weather in other parts of the state has favored the rapid development of the insect.

The best way to protect livestock from screwworms, Reppert points out, is to examine animals frequently so that wounds may be treated before they are seriously infected. Many ranchmen report that they have found it advisable to hold wounded or infested animals in small hospital traps, located on a high, open part of the range where flies are less abundant.

Reppert endorses the Bureau's recommendation for killing the maggots. The procedure is to treat the infested wound with 90 percent commercial benzol. The wound is then plugged with clean cotton saturated with benzol. Reinfestation is prevented by lightly covering the area around the wound with dehydrated pine-tar oil of 1.065 specific gravity.

The advantage of the benzol over most patented medicines lies in its low cost and in the fact that it does not cause shock to animal tissue. It does not deteriorate with age but is highly inflammable and will evaporate readily. It is this last property which makes it valuable in screwworm control, for the maggots are killed not by the liquid but by the fumes.

Reppert also emphasized that the common pine-tar oil will often burn the animal while the dehydrated form will not.

The MARCH OF TIME

A BANNER Feature by the Editors of TIME, The Weekly Newsmagazine

Agriculture, the greatest of all industries—the one industry essential to our very existence—has steadily declined in economic importance in the last decade. While thirty-three (33) percent of our population is engaged in farming, that one-third receives only twelve (12) percent of the national income.

This greatly reduced income is due chiefly to three causes: improper and antiquated farming methods; depletion of soil fertility; and lack of planned economy in farming operations and marketing of farm products.

This is an ever changing world and no industry can be maintained on a profitable basis that operates on methods in vogue 25 or 50 years ago. The discoveries of chemists and scientists are just as important to the farmer as to the manufacturer. Intelligence counts for as much in farming as in the practice of law or medicine.

That the fertility of our soils has been depleted seriously is obvious. Forty years ago the farms of Brown county yielded on an average 43 bushels of wheat; 55 bushels of corn and 80 bushels of oats per acre. In 1937 the average yield of these crops was less than half as large.

Farming is a real business and as such requires careful planning, cost accounting; and intelligent marketing methods. The lack of attention to these essentials has brought agriculture to its present low estate.

But there is a way out—a certainty of a better future for agriculture. It lies in the splendid training the boys and girls are now receiving through the instrumentality of vocational agricultural teachers, the County and Home Demonstration Agents.

The boys of the 4-H Clubs and the FFA Chapters are learning to farm intelligently. They know that brain is now as important in farming operations as brawn. They are learning to plan their work. They keep cost records, quickly determine and abandon an unprofitable crop. They are learning the lesson of seed selectivity. They know how to conserve and preserve the fertility of the soil. When these boys come to take over the farms, they will till fewer acres at less cost and with greater yields. And the girls of the 4-H Clubs, who will become their wives, are learning home economics in a practical way. They will maintain the household on a higher standard at less outlay of cash. Their homes will be more attractive, more comfortable and in another generation we shall see discouragement and bewilderment in rural life replaced by happiness and prosperity.

Truly, the way out is through the youth of today who will be the leaders of tomorrow.—Chester Harrison, Manager Brownwood Chamber of Commerce.

The State-wide Safety meeting called by the Governor, the Highway Commission, Department of Public Safety and other agencies in Fort Worth June 15 to consider means and methods of checking the growing human slaughter on our highways is a step in the right direction and evidences a growing interest in this serious and terrible traffic problem.

The Slaughter Must Stop

According to respective trends in thought and life, various reasons for the appalling number of accidents have been advanced. One would say the violation of the commendable slogan, "If you drink, don't drive; if you drive don't drink" is responsible for most accidents; another, of horse and buggy days and ways, would say it is fast driving; others from whom time has taken youth and left too little of sympathy and charity would say it is wild, reckless, adventurous youth; still others would say that there are too many commercial cars unrestricted on the highways. Each, no doubt, would have facts to sustain his diagnosis.

Highway hazards are a matter of recent development, and because of lack of individual responsibility, have not had the careful thought which its dangers justify. Through a hundred years of operation, during which time they have been held to a strict and rigid accountability for damage to life and property, railroads have developed definite and distinct policies of safety. Speed limits have been fixed and rigidly enforced, brakes and other control facilities are required to be the best and to be frequently and carefully inspected and tested. The persons in charge are required to be capable, sober and alert and not permitted to be on duty above a limited number of hours without rest and sleep.

Among other remedies, the following would be recommended: more rigid requirements and more careful examinations for drivers' license; amended and more strictly enforced speed regulations; making speed limit to vary in inverse proportion to weight of vehicle and load; and for violations of load limits, speed limits, and other regulations, take up license and take vehicle off the road for a period of time.

Rescinding drivers' licenses has proved to be a most effective deterrent to drunken driving on the highways.—E. J. Miller, Judge 35th District Court.

The undertaker's traffic recipe: 1 natural born fool 2 or 3 big drinks of bad liquor 1 high-powered motor car. Soak fool in liquor, place in motor car and let go. After due time, remove fool from wreckage and place in black, satin-lined box and garnish with flowers.

—C. E. Duncan, in Dallas Traffic News.

All the good of which humanity is capable is comprised in obedience.—J. S. Mill.

I find the doing of the will of God, leaves me no time for disputing about His plans.—George MacDonald.

That thou art happy, owe to God; That thou continuest such, owe to thyself, That is, to thy obedience.—Milton.

Obedience to Truth gives man power and strength.—Mary Baker Eddy.

By contenting ourselves with obedience, we become divine.—Emerson.

Obedience is yielded more readily to one who commands gently.—Seneca.

Our greatest glory is not in never falling, but in rising everytime we fall.—Confucius.

Man's capabilities have never been measured; nor are we to judge what he can do by any precedents, so little has been tried.—H. S. Thoreau.

Graduation At Arthurdale . . .

ARTHURDALE, W. Va. — Although Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt was scheduled last week to address the high school graduating class at Arthurdale, the subsistence homestead community closest to her heart, Mr. Roosevelt announced he would fill his wife's engagement—using a national radio hookup—instead of speaking. Mrs. Roosevelt attended the commencement hop where in a gay print dress and highest spirits she squaredanced, Virginia-reel and trucked with partners young and old.

At the commencement exercises, parents and friends of the thirteen hill children graduating clustered around as President Roosevelt greeted them and, over their heads, addressed all school graduating classes, all the People.

Congress, the President told them, had in its new 1938 Tax Bill floated two "very fundamental principles" of Government: 1) In alleviating for small business the tax on undistributed profits it had reopened the loophole for Big Business to avoid taxes. 2) "This new bill wholly eliminates the progressive tax principle with respect to capital profits; it taxes small capital profits and large capital profits at exactly the same rate."

For these reasons, he said, he gravely disapproved the Tax Bill. But it did have some good features. "Therefore, for the first time since I have been President . . . I am going to let the act go into effect at midnight tonight without my approval . . . By doing so I call the definite attention of the American people to those unwise parts of the bill . . . one of which may restore in the future certain forms of tax avoidance, and of concentrated investment power, which we had begun to end, and the other a definite abandonment of a principle of tax policy long ago accepted as part of our American system."

Arthurdale gave Franklin Roosevelt a rousing hand for his speech, but in Washington there was a different reaction. Judging by what he had said, the President, it was charged, had not read the new Tax Bill, or had not understood it. Among those most concerned was Senator Pat Harrison, Democratic Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, who insisted that "American principles and Government principles of long standing" had not been abandoned in the Tax Bill which he had helped write.

Said Pat Harrison of the undistributed profits tax: "There is no great American principle about this . . . it came to us in 1936, Mr. Oliphant, representing the Treasury, was very zealous and persistent about it. I presume he had sold it to the President."

Said he of capital gains taxes: "It is not an old American principle we are abandoning . . . (Not until 1913 were long-termed capital gains taxed, and then with a 20-00 exemption.) With reference to the illustration the President gave, he was just misinformed. I have no doubt about that, because I know the President is sincere in his utterances."

PRAGUE—Thousands of Czechoslovakians last week went to bed with gas masks at their bedside, while by decrease every Czech citizen was ordered to own a gas mask before the end of June. For although Czechs hoped that the German-Czech crisis had passed, the conversations between Fuehrer Konrad Henlein of the Sudeten (Nazi) party and Premier Milan Hodza on settlement of Sudeten grievances, came to a halt last week as Fuehrer Henlein journeyed to Czech to stage an impressive propaganda funeral for the "new Nazi martyrs" killed there fortnight ago.

Meanwhile, as Berlin and Prague swapped grievances, largely over border violations, Konrad Henlein made answer to the question—"Just what do the Sudetens want?"—in an interview with the pro-German London "Daily Mail": "G. Ward Price: Said Henlein: "The north-west end of Czechoslovakia forms a sort of foreign appendix in the body of the German Reich. This appendix cannot be allowed to remain in its present state of high inflammation . . . If such a dangerous condition is neglected the inflamed appendix would burst one day and instantly infect all Europe with political peritonitis."

Henlein suggested three alternative appendectomies: 1) local autonomy for the Sudetens, with foreign and national affairs to be administered from Prague. 2) A plebiscite under foreign control to determine whether the Sudetens want to be citizens of Germany or Czechoslovakia. 3) If Czech repression of the Sudetens continues, their resentment may one day force the German Government by direct action to bring them within the frontiers of the Reich.

But this time Herr Henlein had apparently let one cat too many out of the bag. The German Minister in Prague received a telephoned dressing down from Berlin. The Sudeten party leaders went into a hurried conference, and soon a party communiqué denied that Henlein had given any such interview. It appeared that for the present Germany is not ready for talk of "direct action."

WASHINGTON — Almost everybody but Youth itself has tried to tell Youth how to cure what ails it. In 1935 the American Youth Commission set out to get at the bottom of the youth problem, sank a sample shaft in Maryland, where 25 trained interviewers polled 13,928 representative young people at home, on the street corners, in drug stores, in dance halls. This week, as the Commission published its 255-page report, "Youth Tell Their Story," Youth had its say about its own problems, and to many the diagnosis was shocking.

Youth's biggest worries were neatly summed up by one youngster thus: "The problem is how to get married on $15 a week." Other hard facts:

"Marriage & Family": 4 out of 5 youngsters (including almost half the married couples) are living with their parents. Nearly all want to marry, have a home and children (but not so many as their parents). "School": Maryland's average youth leaves school at the end of the ninth grade, yet the high school graduate is paid 50 percent more than the youngster who did not finish elementary school. "Work": 3,669,096 U. S. youngsters between 16 and 24 are unemployed today. Three out of ten in Maryland were jobless, some had been jobhunting as long as 7 years. "Play": even youth's fun was depressing, for youth hunts fun mostly by alone or in pairs instead of groups. About one-half the boys and girls drink.

A large part of U. S. youth today is apathetic, discontented, increasingly prone to look to the Federal Government to do its thinking and planning. Only one in ten is a rugged individualist, one in twenty-five a radical. The Commission found the chances were 3 to 1 that the son of a laborer will not rise to a job on the white-collar level, and concluding that Youth's story is ominous for democracy's future it recommended more education, more jobs, more guidance, more fun. Its warning: "Unpleasant stories are told of operators of coal properties who . . . mine only the richer veins and leave the smaller ones to cave in. This coal, it is said, is forever lost. Somehow this sort of thing reminds us that youth, too, never comes again."

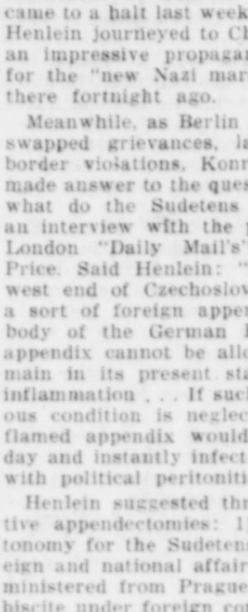

Trouble . . . ANADARKO, Okla.—Hard Luck Harry of the whole U. S. last week was J. D. Whisenhunt, funeral parlor proprietor of Anadarko. Mr. Whisenhunt, received a telegram saying his wife was near death in a Kansas City hospital. Leaving a daughter seriously ill with whooping cough, he flew to Kansas City, found his wife better, but received a message that his daughter was worse. He flew back. Alighting from his plane at Oklahoma City he sprained an ankle. Limping to a phone, he learned his daughter was rallying, his wife slipping. So Mr. Whisenhunt flew back to Kansas City. There he developed, in quick succession, a toothache, ptomaine poisoning, blood-poisoning. At week's end, wife and daughter were out of bed, Mr. Whisenhunt was in.

Pump & Pells . . . WASHINGTON — Just how to lend and spend $2,816,995,000 to halt Depression II was the main subject before the Senate last week. But the pump-priming debate was soon drowned out by a poll-priming wrangle, precipitated by Montana's bitter Senator Wheeler, who announced that he had just learned that Harry Hopkins, dispenser of one-half the billions in the Relief Bill, had announced his choice (Congressman Otha Wearin) for Senator in Iowa's impending primary election. Said Mr. Wheeler: "I was shocked . . . Members of the Senate, and myself, frequently have denounced corporations which place slips in the pay envelopes saying, 'You should vote for such and such candidate.' . . . Has the Congress built a Frankenstein which will be no control? Majority Leader Alben Barkley, anxious to quell the poll-priming storm, was quick to rally to WPA Administrator Hopkins' cause, said that "Mr. Hopkins did not volunteer that statement in order to influence a vote, but simply made it in reply to an inquiry from a newspaper man. There Senate will realize how difficult sometimes it is to avoid answering a newspaper inquiry."

But soon all Washington learned just how Harry Hopkins had found himself in his predicament. Iowa's Otha Wearin was encouraged when his opponent, Senator Guy Mark Gillette, fell into bed "replete with approval." "I wrote a note against the President's Supreme Court bill last week, calling the press one day last week to announce that the Administration was behind him. Wearin was asked to prove it. Ask anybody—ask Harry Hopkins, said Mr. Wearin.

To Mr. Hopkins went the press, but he would say nothing. Then the White House by Washington newshawks were fairly well satisfied that he had been spoken to by adroit Tommy Corcoran of the President's political staff. His press agent called in a reporter, who wrote out what Mr. Hopkins said to him and handed it back for approval. "I wrote a note against the President's Supreme Court bill last week, calling the press one day last week to announce that the Administration was behind him. Wearin was asked to prove it. Ask anybody—ask Harry Hopkins, said Mr. Wearin.

PEEP SHOW — For Ladies Only — BY MIGNON

I hung out my blue dress Shook out my white blouse Washed out my black gloves Got a face pack My face and my dresses Both looked a sight But I got to the White House Tea alright.

And once there I never remembered to think how I looked, I was so enhanced by the charm and graciousness of our first lady, Eleanor Roosevelt. First I must tell you that as we passed into the great marble hall we walked single file and I felt like I have often felt when I dreamed I had wakened at church to discover I had forgotten to dress. Anyway several very polite gentlemen looked you over to see if your bumps were the result of nature's joke on you or a hidden bomb or something. But once inside we gathered in the blue room where Alice Roosevelt was married. Such a beautiful place. Again I was impressed at the flowers every place and at those chandeliers which I just knew would make lovely music if they were jingled just the least bit. They were so full of every color and yet were of crystal, I felt very noble not to sit down and just play one tiny chord on that gold concert grand. I never wanted to do anything quite so much and yet I restrained my desire. The piano was longer than any I had ever seen—as long as a rope, I'd say. And there peering from the blue satin walls were the faces of those first ladies and gentlemen of America from the beginnings of things in 1607.

Mrs. Roosevelt stood just within the door of the next room and graciously made her guests welcome. She was dressed very simply in a blue and gold street length dress were really swinging their picks, digging in with their shovels, working unasked during their lunch hour and overtime at night. Last week, the flurry of activity over it was learned that in the rubble where they were digging one of the men turned up a $20 gold piece. Another found a diamond stud. Coins, baubles, silverware were discovered—to an estimated value of $20,000 before the vein was worked out. The men were digging on a site that had been filled in with debris from the San Francisco earthquake of 1906.

Bribes . . . CAMDEN, N. J.—Charles Balaban is an amiable fellow whose drug store in Camden is a hangout for moppets of the nearby Yorkshp Elementary School. Mouth ago he had an idea for currying the favor and patronage of their parents. To Yorkshp School's 250 pupils he announced that each youngster who received an A in department on his monthly report card would get one 16-cent ice cream soda on the house. Last week Yorkshp's teachers passed out the fateful report cards. Presently, in breathless twos and threes, the first arrivals raced up to Charles Balaban's soda fountain, exhibited their A's. Mr. Balaban amiably began to set them up. Soon they came by tens, then twenties. Mr. Balaban ran out of straws, "classes, soda, ice cream. By nightfall 110 good little boys and girls and claimed their prizes. Druggist Balaban prudently withdrew his offer. Meanwhile School Superintendent Leon Nelson Neulen sniffed: "The important thing is how long they will maintain their good behavior record."

Fish Instinct . . . SEATTLE—U. S. fishermen consider that by God and by treaty they hold sole rights to the Bristol Bay area of the Bering Sea, where annually is netted more than $40,000,000 worth of salmon. February last, provoked by the increasing swarm of Japanese vessels of the coast, Alaska Delegate Anthony J. Dimond told a House Merchant Marine & Fisheries Committee: "I am gravely apprehensive . . . that there will be armed conflict in the Bering Sea." Tokyo's Foreign Office promised that Japanese vessels would leave salmon alone, would net crabs only, beyond the 3-mile limit.

That Alaska's Anthony Dimond was no alarmist became apparent last week. From the captain of the schooner "Sophie Christenson" came a radio to home offices in Seattle: "Bering Sea covered with Japanese fishing boats and nets. No cutters around. We have God-given instinct to shoot straight. Please ship dozen high-powered rifles, plenty of ammunition."

As the "Sophie Christenson" operator prepared to comply, U. S. Coast Guardsmen said four cutters were watching Japanese & U. S. fishermen, apparently did not find Japanese encroaching. Snapped a Coast Guardsman, "If there's any shooting to be done, we'll do it."

Rich Rubble . . . SAN FRANCISCO—Bosses of a WPA project in San Francisco were recently puzzled, then incredulous finally fascinated by the behavior of the men working for them, who

LET'S KNOW TEXAS AND TEXANS

WILL H. MAYES, AUSTIN, TEXAS

In this column answers will be given to inquiries as to Texas history and other matters pertaining to the State and its people. Address inquiries to Will H. Mayes, Austin, Texas.

Q. In what way did conflicting claims arise between Spain and France as to ownership of the Texas territory?

A. When Cortez discovered and conquered Mexico in 1519, Spain claimed the entire territory bordering the Gulf of Mexico, but did little to extend its discoveries north beyond the Paauc River or to assert its ownership. When La Salle, in 1682, made his way from French-occupied Canada down the Mississippi to its mouth, he laid claim to the entire valley and everything beyond for France and named the country Louisiana. Thus both Spain and France claimed vast territories without any definite bounds between.

Q. How did La Salle happen to establish a fort on the present coast of Texas?

A. Returning from France in 1687, he was looking for the mouth of the Mississippi to make his way to where he had left his companion, Touhy, in 1684, with a view to establishing a fort on the river's point there, but missed the river's mouth and finally landed in what is now Matagorda Bay. The erection of Fort St. Louis on Garcitas Creek gave France an additional claim to Texas, formally made by La Salle, and disturbed the Spanish claims.

Q. To what did La Salle turn his attention after building Fort St. Louis?

A. He first set about finding forts to locate the place where he had left Touhy and his companions in 1682. He was in search of these when he was assassinated near the present town of Navasota.

Q. Did any of La Salle's men reach Touhy and the Mississippi?

A. A few of those with La Salle when he was killed, including the priest who wrote the record of the trip, finally reached Touhy on the Mississippi, but were careful to conceal from him the news of La Salle's death. Touhy started a escape of the French colonists left on the coast and on the way learned of the death of La Salle from Indians. Lacking aid and guides and hearing of the approach of De Leon, he turned back near the Neches and returned to Canada.

Q. What three different motives, international in character, prompted the settlement of Texas?

A. The Spanish developed new countries for exploitation, especially in mining, treasure seeking, and quick acquisition of wealth; the French sought largely the extension of trade territory; the English and most other Europeans and Americans were home-seekers and home-builders—frontiersmen in the fullest sense. Many frontiersmen, however, regardless of nationality, were individualists actuated by various motives.

Q. What was the issue at San Jacinto that was deeper even than the injustices that Mexico had imposed on Texans?

A. It was a contest between aggressive Anglo-American development of civilization and listless Spanish-American satisfaction with luxurious ease, as was exemplified in the active attack of the Texans while Santa Anna and his forces were indulging in the comforts of the siesta.

Q. Were the Ales Indians, near Nacogdoches and San Augustine, members of the Hanal or Caddo confederacy?

A. Though much like them in appearance and customs, the Ales Indians were not closely confederated with other Texas tribes. They were indolent and inferior, eager to accept gifts, but irresponsible to civilizing influences.

Q. During what period were the Cherokee Indians most active in Texas?

A. From 1818 to 1838, during most of which time they were friendly and helpful to the colonists of east Texas, due especially to the influence of Sam Houston, who had lived among them and knew how to get along with them.

Q. What two Indian tribes were found by Cabeza de Vaca and his companions on Galveston Island and the adjacent coast country in 1528?

A. They were known as the Capoque and the Hans, the two tribes speaking different languages or dialects. Both tribes were of excellent physiques and were expert archers.

Mayo To Represent Local Lions Next Month at Meeting

Plans for a Lions zone meeting to be held at Lake Brownwood June 21 were completed recently by members of the local club. Approximately 175 Lions from Hamilton, Comanche, Stephenville and Brownwood are expected to attend the meeting. An invitation was extended to Rupert N. Richardson, of Abilene, district governor of the Lions club, to appear on the program as principal speaker.

Dr. O. N. Mayo, retiring president of the local club, was selected to represent Brownwood at the annual national convention to be held in Oakland, California, July 19-22.

An auditing committee composed of O. L. Billingsley and G. F. McKay has been appointed to audit the club's books and give a report before the beginning of the new club year, July 1.

Public Opinion

I have sown 20 crops of grain on my own land, and assisted my father in sowing 20 more; making 50 years of observation and experience in growing grain in Brown County.

I have seen yields of 40 bushels of wheat per acre to nothing.

We have sold wheat from $2.05 per bushel down to 23 cents per bushel for No. 1 wheat delivered in Brownwood.

During the 50 years we failed to make seed back 5 times or an average of one total failure each 10 years. Crops were destroyed by hail one time and by drought 4 times in 50 years.

The 40 bushel yield was made by plowing under seed wheat sown by hand with a walking turning plow and logged down with a log drag drawn by a yoke of oxen, and has not been made since with all our boasted scientific methods and machinery. And the failures were made in spite of modern methods and implements.

I have just made a careful study of the crop insurance and find nothing in it to induce any farmer to use it. There are three features that make it obnoxious and two of them make it absolutely worthless:

First, the grower is guaranteed only one half of the average yield which is 11 to 13 bushels per acre here. I am not sure which but will allow 13, of which the grower will have already paid in advance and therefore would net only 6 bushels per acre in case of total failure.

The second joker is the fact that he is to be paid in wheat which could be 25 cents per bushel at the time he fails instead of basing the payment on the ten year average price of wheat as they do the yield.

The third objection is that the terms, rules and regulations are vague and indefinite and the "saying" is all done by some one else. The growers are the goat!

Had this measure been in force for the last 50 years we would have received from the government approximately 30 bushels of wheat and paid out at least 25 bushels per acre and made 200 trips to town to see about it.

I see nothing in it except a colossal scheme to put another horde of Federal employees on the payroll for agriculture to support.

It won't be long until we will be compelled to build an annex to our court house to house the Federal employees. And all a farmer will need to know will be how to herd a Tin Lizzie to town once a week to secure orders and instructions for his next week's activities, if any.

The torch of personal liberty for which our forefathers fought, bled and died, is all but extinguished; and the individual is completely buried under an avalanche of prohibitory laws, rules and regulations that makes life almost intolerable.

I am truly thankful I was born 60 (sixty) years ago and lived in a gloriously free country.

Cotton Estimate Is For Increased Crop

The Department of Agriculture this week reported cotton production last year totaled 18,945,922 bales.

The estimate, revised the January report of 18,746,000 bales upward by nearly 200,000 bales.

The crop, largest on record, was nearly 1,000,000 bales larger than the previous record crop of 17,975,000 bales harvested in 1926.

The estimate was based on cotton ginnings to May 19, as reported by the Census Bureau. It did not take into account fewer than 1,900 bales estimated as unginned on that date.

The revised estimate placed the yield of lint cotton at 266.9 pounds per harvested acre, also an all-time record yield.

Final ginnings reported by states included: Texas, 6,183,835 bales.

(Continued from Page 1) Farmers are beginning to organize into poisoning squads and are making a determined warfare on the hoppers. Results in poisoning have been very satisfactory where the poisoned bran has been scattered according to instructions furnished by the agent's office.

The results of demonstrations in dipping goats with wettable sulphur have not only increased the production of mohair per goat in Brown county, but also have added more luster to the hair and put the coats in better physical condition.

"That dipping goats with the wettable sulphur is not only very satisfactory but highly profitable has been demonstrated by the fact that during the early part of May, four dipping demonstrations were conducted by the county agent. Goats totaling 5,489 were dipped with wettable sulphur during these four demonstrations. Applications for eight more dipping demonstrations are on file in the county agent's office.

"Farm photography, a new phase of extension work, was introduced into Brown county May 25.

"W. I. Glass, district agent of district No. 7; Miss Maurine Hearn, district home demonstration agent of District 7; L. F. Franke, assistant editor; G. W. Ackerman, photographer, U. S. D. A.; Miss Mayesie Malone, home demonstration agent, and C. W. Lehmburg, county agent, made a tour through the county during which seven farms and ranches were visited.

"Pictures of farm homes, yards, orchards, poultry, sheep and registered dairy and beef cattle were taken at the following places: Oscar Boeniche, Mt. Zion; C. M. Bruton, Banas; E. B. Sikes, Banks; Shelton Dairy Farm, Brownwood; E. M. Fry, Zephyr; L. M. Smith, Zephyr; and A. L. Petty, May.

"These pictures will tell the story of progress made on these farms and homes during the last few years and will be used in extension news and bulletins."

SCHOOL OFFICIAL AT MAY CANDIDATE FOR BROWN COUNTY Supt

TO THE FOLK WHO ARE INTERESTED IN THE SCHOOLS OF BROWN COUNTY:

As my school duties are completed at May for the year, my principal interest from now until election time will be to see and let the people of Brown County know that each vote will be individually appreciated in behalf of my candidacy for school superintendent of this county.

To fill this office I believe that a man should be capable, worthy, willing to work and willing to cooperate with the people and with other school officials for the betterment of each school of Brown County. I was born in this county in the old Ricker Community between Brownwood and Zephyr. I attended a three teacher school until I completed the ninth grade. After which I attended Brownwood High School for two years and was graduated in the spring of nineteen twenty five.

I did some college work at Daniel Baker College but most of this work was done at Howard Payne College, and took my A. B. Degree here in 1933. I have done 12 semester hours toward my Masters Degree at A. and M. College.

I did my first year of teaching in Mills County. Since that time I have taught nine years in the schools of this county. One of which was in McDaniel Community, two at Blanket, three at Holder and have been in the schools of May for the past three years, and have been re-elected principal of the May schools.

I have been in the schools of Brown County practically all my life. Certainly my greatest interest is with the schools of this big neighborhood. Since my life has been spent in the schools of my home county and since I intend to do school work as long as I can of service to school people, there are few things which would be more pleasant to me than to think that the people of my home county would be pleased to have me as their county superintendent.

I can assure you that no one will be more grateful for your support in the coming election.

Considering these facts I believe that I am capable, worthy, willing to work and anxious to cooperate with the people of Brown County for better schools in this section of the state.

WHEN LIFE DEPENDS ON TIRE SAFETY

On May 30, Floyd Roberts shattered all track records for the 500-mile Indianapolis Race, averaging 117.3 miles an hour using Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires.

IT'S ALWAYS Firestone

FOR 19 CONSECUTIVE YEARS THE WINNERS OF THE INDIANAPOLIS 500-MILE RACE HAVE PROTECTED THEIR LIVES WITH FIRESTONE GUM-DIPPED TIRES

They said it couldn't be done — that tires could not withstand the torture of the new high speeds. Yet Floyd Roberts set a new record, at this year's Indianapolis Race, averaging 117.3 miles an hour for the 500 miles on Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires.

With the sun-baked brick of the straight-away and the granite hard surface of the turns pulling and grinding at their tires, 33 daring drivers, every one on Firestone Tires, waged a thrilling battle for gold and glory. Never before have tires been called upon to take such punishment. Never in all the history of the motor car has tire safety been put to such a grueling test. Yet not one tire failed — not one single cord loosened — because Gum-Dipping, that famous Firestone patented process saturates and coats every cotton fiber in every cord in every ply with liquid rubber counteracting the tire-destroying internal friction and heat that ordinarily cause blowouts.

Why risk your life and the lives of others on unsafe tires? Join the Firestone SAVE A LIFE Campaign today by equipping your car with Firestone Triple-Safe Tires — the only tires made that are safety-proved on the speedways for your protection on the highways.
