Clelland survey 63, one mile southeast of Thrifty. Seventy-five to 100 barrels daily is the estimated production from the Caddo lime at 1-548 feet.

The Irving well is the first in Brown county successfully treated with acid in the Caddo lime, and is located three miles southeast of the old Fry shallow pool.

A. A. Douglas et al, Fort Worth, No. 1 Jacobs, subdivision 87 Kerr county school lands, three miles south of Brownwood, is drilling ahead after spudding last week. Geology on the tract was prepared by J. F. Al Schuler of Fort Worth.

Increased gas production was reported after 1,000-gallon acid treatment of J. C. VanBebber et al No. 1 C. M. Carter in the southwestern corner of Brown county Sunday. ## Numerous Arrests Are Made Recently By County Officers

Charges of theft by false pretext filed against Edwin H. Suggs and Jack Rurlock were dismissed this week after money they had received from persons in this territory for fictitious correspondence courses was refunded. The two men were arrested in Cisco Monday and brought to Brownwood by members of the sheriff's department.

C. C. Hudson, 54, Bangs, was arrested Saturday on charge of a statutory offense against his 13-year-old stepdaughter, Ida Mae Townsend, and is being held in Brown county jail to await action of the grand jury.

Earl Hill and Lee Goss, arrested at Santa Anna Saturday for theft of chickens from Tom Hill of Grosvenor, perfected bonds of $500 each this week. The chickens were returned to the owner. The grand jury will investigate the case.

Being held in county jail for federal officers is Phillip Haville, arrested several days ago for Austin officers who were investigating the report that Haville had taken his stepchild from the child's mother without her consent.

Mrs. Haville, formerly Lola Lee Knight of Brownwood, is reported to have found her 4-year-old son in Austin after a three-weeks' search. ## CREDITABLE SHOWINGS MADE BY ENTRANTS FROM DISTRICT 8 IN REGIONAL LEAGUE MEET AT ABILENE OVER PAST WEEKEND

Brownwood, Abilene, Are Only Two Cities Eligible to Send
 Two to State

In the stiffest competition seen in regional interscholastic League meets in the past several years, Brown county entrants made gratifying showings in contests held in Abilene last weekend. Brownwood and Abilene emerged as the only two cities represented in the meet that met the qualifications necessary to send two entries to state contests later in the spring.

Brownwood's two representatives will be Marion Watson and Lillian Duncan of Brownwood high school, who will participate in the short-hand finals held at Austin. District eight, includes Brown, San Saba, McCulloch, Mills, Mason, Comanche, Coleman and Hamilton counties, came through with a total of 19 place winners in the regional meet. Brownwood High school's one-act play entry, "The Women Folks," was awarded fourth place. Brockenridge's prize-winning entry, "Nine Lives of Emily" will represent region 2 in the state contest.

Winners from this district and places they won in other literary events are as follows:
 Short-hand: Nina John Brady, first; Marion Watson, Brownwood, second; Lillian Duncan, Brownwood, third. Typewriting: Margorie Brunelwood, Comyn, second. In the shorthand and typewriting contest the first three winners will be eligible for the state contest. In other events only first place winners are eligible.

Texas Retail Sales Better Than Average For National Scale

Retail sales in Texas continue to make a far better showing than in the Nation as a whole, according to the Bureau of Business Research of the University of Texas. Aggregate sales, as measured in dollars, during March of a representative group of department stores, dry goods, and apparel stores, men's and women's specialty stores were only slightly below those of the corresponding month last year and exceeded those of February by almost the normal seasonal amount, the report said.

Reports from 106 retail establishments showed total dollar sales during March of only 2.4 per cent below those of the like month last year, while the increase over February was 21.6 per cent. The fact that Easter came in March last year whereas this year it came in April lends further optimism to the current showing.

ON TEXAS FARMS

Cotton Acreage Allotment Well Under Way

Complete farm cotton acreage allotments have been released for 69 counties by the state AAA office at Texas A. and M. College, according to Geo. Slaughter, chairman of the Texas Agricultural Conservation Committee.

The state office is releasing the allotments at the rate of 8 to 10 counties a day, Slaughter said.

The allotments include the cotton acreage quotas for each farm as provided under the new farm act plus the additional 4 percent provided by the recent amendment which added approximately 350,000 acres to Texas' cotton quota.

General allotment, which includes feed crops, are complete for 13 counties, and the state office is equipped to figure and release these at the same rate as the cotton allotments, according to Slaughter.

Meanwhile state AAA workers announced that they had certified 146,963 applications for grant under the 1937 Agricultural Conservation Program for payments totaling $24,850,327.85. The total number of applications is expected to reach 200,000, and total payments will be approximately 37 million dollars.

May 15 Final Date on Work Sheets and Applications

May 15th has been set as the final date for filing work sheets, Form SR 101, in county offices in order to make farms covered by such work sheets eligible for applications for payment under the 1938 Agricultural Conservation Program. This means all producers intending to apply for payment under the 1938 program must execute a 1937 work sheet covering the farm on or before May 15th. There will be no 1938 work sheets but all farms must be covered by 1937 work sheets in order to be eligible for a 1938 Agricultural Conservation Payment.

May the 15th has also been set as the final date for filing application for determination of grazing plete, hoppers have emerged in record numbers in most of the counties where damage is expected. Only in the Panhandle are the hoppers still in the egg stage. The recent cold wave did little to reduce grasshopper numbers.

County agricultural agents, county grasshopper control committees, and farmers are ready to combat the insects. Experience has shown that control is simplified when poison mash is scattered around the places where hoppers hatch out before they multiply and spread to fields. A similar program last year saved Texas farmers 6 million dollars and returned more than a hundred dollars for each dollar spent.

Control measures will begin around May 1 in the counties where the hatch is most advanced. Reppert said.

Fourth of Texas Farms Have No Milk Cows

Almost one-fourth, or 121,000 of Texas' farm families, have no milk cows, according to E. R. Eudaly, dairyman of the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service.

This means, the dairyman pointed out, that Texas needs an additional quarter million dairy cows if farm families are to have sufficient milk for home needs, and also that dairy production for home use can expand considerably in Texas and in the South in general without competing with commercial dairy areas.

Eudaly based his statement on census figures and estimates of the Bureau of Agriculture Economics which show that 24.2 percent of Texas farm families do not have a milk cow and that over the 12 Southern states as a whole, only 71 percent of the farm families keep cows for milk.

There is an average of only 2 milk cows per farm over the cotton belt as a whole as compared to an average of nearly 4 for all farms in the United States and more than 10 per farm in Wisconsin, Texas, with an average of 3.2 cows per

Lehman Explains AAA Cotton Payments

The 1938 Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act, as amended, establishes a 1938 cotton acreage allotment or marketing quota for all farms engaged in the production of cotton in all or any of the years of 1935, 1936, and 1937.

The Act, as amended, allows: Any person who desires to receive a Cotton Price Adjustment on their 1937 cotton production to do so even though they are not engaged in farming in 1938. The Act requires that the 1938 cotton acreage allotment, not be overplanted in order to be eligible to receive the CAP payment. A 1937 producer not engaged in farming in 1938 would be considered as to have complied with the required regulations of not overplanting their 1938 Cotton Acreage Allotment and would be eligible to receive CAP payments.

A producer engaged in farming in 1938 that does not overplant his cotton acreage allotment, established under the 1938 program, would be permitted to sell all cotton produced tax free and would be eligible to receive CAP payments on their 1937 cotton production even though they overplant the total Soil Depleting Acres Allotment for the farm and do not earn the 1938 Conservation Payment. All 1937 cotton, eligible for CAP payments, under loan on July 1, 1938 will be considered to have been sold, for the purpose of CAP payments, on June 30, 1938. This cotton will be eligible for payment at the rate payable on that date, or the difference in the average price of 7-8 inch middling cotton in the ten designated spot markets and 12 cents on June 30, 1938.

Grasshopper Control Fight Under Way

The fight to combat the worst grasshopper infestation in history is under way with the arrival of 37 carloads of bran and 14,800 gallons of Sodium arsenite from federal sources, according to R. R. Reppert, entomologist of the Extension Service of Texas A. and M. College and state grasshopper control leader.

Texas has been assigned 7000 tons of bran and 140,000 gallons of sodium arsenite by the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine, which administers the government's grasshopper control program. This material will be matched by farmers who will receive allotments of poison mash through county agricultural agents and county grasshopper control committees.

Entomologists have known for over six months that more than 100 Texas counties would suffer a severe hopper infestation, and federal entomologists have helped the Texas Grasshopper Control Committee make advance plans to hold down crop damage.

farm, leads all the cotton belt states except Oklahoma in this respect. The dairyman does not believe that AAA programs tend to force cotton farmers into dairying in competition with commercial dairying centers. "There were 5,562,900 dairy cows in the 12 principal cotton producing states in 1932, before the AAA," he said. "On January 1, 1938, there were 5,996,000 an increase of 334,000 milk cows. This is an average increase of 39,000 dairy cows per state, or an average increase per state of 5,996 for each year since the AAA came into existence.

"Nutritional specialists of the Extension Service tell me that the average farm family of five needs two good milk cows for home use. Thus in Texas alone we could add 242,900 dairy cows without increasing our commercial output to any noticeable extent."

The MARCH OF TIME

A New BANNER Feature by the Editors of TIME, The Weekly Newsmagazine

Senator Tom Connally's timely speech at the West Texas Chamber of Commerce meeting in Wichita Falls this week made on the day of the signing of the largest naval appropriation bill in peacetime history of the United States, gave added emphasis, if such be needed, to the wisdom of the Administration and Congress in providing the large sum. The half billion dollars appropriated for the Navy Department is a huge expenditure, to be sure, but one that is well worth the spending.

As Senator Connally pointed out, the building of an adequate navy does not involve a threat of aggression, nor does it imply a desire for war or the ambition of conquest. It, rather, is the expression of a desire of the government of this country to protect what we have. America must have a strong navy to assure peace, to assure protection for the residents of this country against the possibility of invasion and despoliation from other nations.

Events of the past few years have demonstrated the necessity for ample peacetime protection. Austria today would be an independent nation had it been equipped to protect itself from invasion from abroad. China would not have suffered the humiliation and distress which has been its lot, had that nation been prepared to repel a foreign force. The same is true of Ethiopia. And there is no security from the constant threat of destruction from within, as has been the experience of the Spanish government. To be sure, no such condition exists here, but it is not without reason to assume that such a situation might be invited if we are not on guard.

England long has pursued the course that the best protection for its shores comes through maintaining an adequate navy defense. It has proved highly successful there. And yet America has more the need for a large navy than has any other major country. That is because attack could come from either the Pacific or the Atlantic ocean, and in these days of quick maneuvers, a fleet could not be moved from one coast to the other to prevent destruction and disaster. For that matter, the moving of a fleet would be an invitation to attack on the defenseless shore.

The cost is heavy, and it will be heavy, so long as there is unrest in the world. If what we have is not worth protecting, then we should save the money. But if we believe that we should take care of our own country, should guard it against the possibility of attack, should keep and preserve it for Americans, than we must pay the cost.

Brownwood has done no finer thing in many a year than the little courtesy shown this week by the Business and Professional Women's Club to Miss Mayes Malone, Brown County Home Demonstration Agent. It was the just recognition of a worthy work; a tribute entirely earned, and fittingly bestowed.

Most of us have long appreciated the work Miss Malone is doing among the women and girls in the rural communities, but it is not often that we call to mind the fact that the service rendered here is of such character that it is outstanding even in this highly specialized field of endeavor.

There would be no way to estimate the value of the work done by Miss Malone to the individuals she has helped, or to the communities she has served. We only know that she has pointed the way to a more happy life, a more useful citizenship. It is even more comforting to recall that in so doing she has by her work and by her character and by her essential usefulness found a place in the heart of every citizen of Brown county.

The Business and Professional Women's Club, ever alert, is to be commended for the thoughtfulness of the remembrance and the pleasing manner in which the deserved honor was bestowed.

"May Day is traditionally associated with happiness of children" writes W. W. Rollings, Jr., student of journalism at the University of Texas. The quotation is from an editorial, one of several submitted to Texas newspapers on the occasion of Child Health Day, May 1. All of the editorials are thought-provoking, timely, ably done. We quote in full that of Juliet Knight:

"Health is more than a negative absence of disease. It is a condition where every part of the body and the mind function abundantly to maintain a state of well being.

"It is to maintain that good health that our intelligent citizenry see their dentist twice a year, see their doctor as often as necessary, exercise, sleep with windows open, have themselves protected against communicable diseases, and pursue a middle-of-the-road course in the use of sedatives, tobacco, and such stimulants.

"Children have not yet the judgement to work objectively for good health, so there must be provision made to help them. May Day—Child Health Day is such an occasion. The celebration of this day is sponsored by the various State health departments as a culmination of a year's activities in child health protection and a planning of the ensuing year's activities.

"Texas is one of the several states which actively support this day. Dr. J. M. Coleman is State Chairman of this work. His efforts can be fruitful only if every community back him and sees that his ideas take form.

"May Day-Child Health Day is dedicated to the health of thirty-six million American children. Its principles and aims are embodied in the 1938 slogan, 'Better Children for Our Nation - A Better Nation for Our Children.'

"Much remains to be done before this slogan is a reality. One baby out of every eleven born in America dies in the first year of life. This waste of life is most often a result of ignorance. The May Day-Child Health Day officials are attempting to educate the parents of Texas to the tremendous problems which beset our children and to a solution for these problems.

"Their endeavors cover a large field. Their program is broad enough to arouse the interest and cooperation of many groups. Their appeal is, of necessity, primarily to parents and to teachers. These men and women are the adults to whom the child turns first, from whom they learn their first impressionable habits and tendencies. They are the Texans who primarily safeguard the health of our children, and it is their cooperation which is needed to make May Day - Child Health Day the success it should be if we are to safeguard our child health."

Fireside Chat...

WASHINGTON—A few hours after telling Congress that there was no Depression and that he meant to cure it, President Roosevelt last week told the country in his twelfth "fireside chat," delivered from the diplomatic room of the White House. Concerned almost entirely with fiscal matters and delivered in a flatter, more perfunctory manner than usual, this was one of the dulllest and longest (1,800 words) of the President's "firesides." Excerpts:

Dictatorships. "Democracy has disappeared in several other great nations—disappeared not because the people of those nations disliked democracy, but because they had grown tired of unemployment and insecurity, of seeing their children hungry while they sat helpless in the face of government confusion, government weakness, weakness through lack of leadership in government. Finally, in desperation, they chose to sacrifice liberty in the hope of getting something to eat."

Wage and Hours. "I am again expressing my hope that the Congress will enact at this session a wage-and-hour bill... to insure a better distribution of our prosperity."

Profits. "It is essential in our economy that private funds must be put to work and all of us recognize that such funds are entitled to a fair profit... I try not to forget that what really counts at the bottom of it all is that the men and women willing to work can have a decent job to take care of themselves and their homes and that the farmer, the factory worker, the storekeeper, the gas station man, the manufacturer, the merchant—big and small—the banker who takes pride in the help that he can give to the building of his community—that all these can be sure of a reasonable profit and safety for the earnings that they make—not to-day nor tomorrow alone, but as far ahead as they can see."

"I believe we have been right in the course we have charted. I propose to sail ahead. I feel sure that your hopes and your help are with me. For, to reach a port, we must sail—sail, not lie at anchor; sail, not drift."

Pan-American Speech...

WASHINGTON—Between telling Congress how he proposed to end the Depression and telling the country what he had told Congress, Franklin Roosevelt last week sandwiched in a warning to European dictators meddling with South America. Said he in a Pan-American Day broadcast to South America, at which his immediate audience consisted of 20 Pan-American diplomatic missions in Washington.

"The 30,000,000 citizens in the American republics are not different from other human beings. We have the same problems, the same differences, even the same material for controversy which exists elsewhere. Yet, we have undertaken contractual obligations to solve these normal human differences by maintaining peace; and that peace we are firmly resolved to maintain. It shall not be endangered by controversies within our family; and we will not permit it to be endangered from aggression coming from outside of our hemisphere."

Pardon... WASHINGTON—Dr. Francis E. Townsend last week arrived in Washington to serve a 30-day sentence for having walked out on a Congressional committee trying to investigate his $200-per-month pension plan in May 1933. He was planning, he said, to work on his autobiography during his incarceration.

But just as Planner Townsend was about to give himself into the hands of a U. S. Marshal to begin his term, word came that Franklin Roosevelt had pardoned him. Apparently not in the least crestfallen at losing a month's privacy and martyrdom, Dr. Townsend said: "It is complete vindication and an act of contrition on the part of Congress."

Compensation...

WASHINGTON—Favorably reported to the Senate last week by Wyoming's mild Senator Harry H. Schwartz, member of the Senate Committee on Claims, was "A Bill for the relief of Richard D. Krenik," a farmer of Graham, Wash., awarding him $450 because WPA blasters working near his farm, on the Payallup River Flood Relief Project No. 632, did with their dynamite so adroitly and jolly 250 turkey eggs in his incubators and under his hens that only 40 hatched, and of these 40 points, themselves none too strong, 29 died soon after.

"Inexcusable Blunder"...

TAIERCUSABLE, China—Japanese forces suffered their first major open field defeat in half a century last week when Chinese troops pushed northward through bombed, shelled and ruined Taierschung, chasing the Japanese 20 miles to Yih sien. Chinese artillery was then moved up into the surrounding hills to shell Yih sien heavily until half this ancient city was in flames.

Wave after wave of Chinese troops bravely assaulted the heavy walls of Yih sien from three sides, breaking and receding under Japanese planes started dropping ammunition and food into Yih sien. Since the Chinese knew that powerful Japanese rescue forces were on the way from Tsingtao and Tientsin, Yih sien had to be captured quickly if at all.

The grand total of Japanese losses at Taierschung was conservatively estimated by neutral foreigners at between 7,000 and 10,000. The Chinese Generalissimo's headquarters estimated that the Imperial Japanese Government had now massed half-a-million men to wipe out their defeats, smash through to Suchow.

Best reconstruction from the battlefield of the Taierschung fighting was sent by Correspondent A. T. Steele of the Chicago Daily News. "Overconfidence and contempt for the Chinese army had much to do with the Japanese defeat. The Chinese set a trap with Taierschung as the bait and the Japanese bit hard, by advancing on the village through a corridor lined with Chinese divisions. By thus exposing their flanks the Japanese committed an inexcusable military blunder, but they had gotten away with it before and thought they could do it again. They failed to take cognizance of the new Chinese fighting spirit. The Chinese showed that they are learning to cope with Japanese superiority in offensive weapons by abandoning positional warfare in favor of mobility."

Japan's Emperor Hirohito conferred all last week with army, navy and other leaders, while news of defeat was withheld from Japan.

ese masses and screaming headlines announced that Japanese bombers had finally killed or at least gravely wounded China's Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and his brother-in-law, T. V. Soong. Then two mail bags, which were to have been carried on a plane which Mr. Soong was to have taken last week, suddenly exploded in the Hong Kong Post Office, injured several native clerks.

The Japanese cruiser Idzumo, the famed flagship which has lain at Shanghai for eight months, suddenly last week put to sea. Chinese believed this meant the Idzumo was about to lead the long-expected Japanese naval offensive to take Canton and close the ports of South China, through which munitions have continued to reach the Chinese all these months. Uneasy Chinese saw many other Japanese surface warships and submarines concentrate this week off the South China coast.

Too Correct Adolf...

LONDON—"It is matter for regret that Herr Hitler is a man of such chilly personal corditude." The House of Commons was told in an impassioned speech last week by Commander Oliver Stillingfleet Locker-Lampson, M. P., Conservative. "If he would smoke, eat and drink, Hitler might be more human and less dangerous. He might, like other dictators, be more anxious to take another person's concubine rather than his country." Instead, he is a great big bully in Europe.

This novel argument the Commander used in presenting to the House a bill to confer Palestine citizenship upon "oppressed European Jews" who might benefit from it. Jews now being mistreated in Austria would be enabled by this bill to assume "extraterritorial citizenship in Palestine," and they would then apply in Vienna for the aid of His Britannic Majesty's consular general.

When a vote was taken on whether the Locker-Lampson bill should be admitted to first reading, the House exactly divided 144-to-144, creating the first tie in the Mother of Parliaments since 1910. Amid laughter the Speaker then broke the tie by casting his vote in favor of one of the most novel pieces of jurisprudence ever introduced.

Helium...

WASHINGTON—Many a disbeliever has proved that the only safe gas to use in dirigibles is helium comes from the U. S. Under an agreement with the U. S. made last year, Germany was assured a supply of helium sufficient to operate its North Atlantic airship route, planned to commence service with the new LZ-130 in June. Then Hitler absorbed Austria and out of the welter of triumphant speeches the U. S. gathered that its helium might be used for war, held up the shipment.

Through U. S. Ambassador Hugh Wilson, Germany last week inquired when it might expect the agreed shipment of 17,900,000 cu. ft. In January Germany's helium ship "Dessau," with 486 steel cylinders aboard, each accommodating 3,600 cu. ft. of highly compressed gas, docked at Houston, Texas, ready to take back to Germany the first installment. Ambassador Wilson was reminded that Germany had gone to "considerable expense" to revamp the LZ-130 from hydrogen to helium. Last week it became known in Washington that President Roosevelt and taken the question under personal consideration after the Departments of State and Interior had split on it.

To make the sale of helium to Germany impossible in this or any other year New Jersey's Congressman J. Parnell Thomas, last week demanded repeal of the Helium Act of 1927, permitting sales of helium abroad. Cried he: "Germany is asking for three times as much helium as its new dirigible would require... would, in time of war, supply flying power for three large dirigibles... 100 blimps... 150 sausage balloons."

This was bad news not only to helium-hungry Germany but to brave, energetic, 42-year-old Commander Charles Rosendahl, chief of the Lakehurst (N. J.) Naval Air Station, who last week published a 431-page defense of airships in commerce and war. Of helium, Commander Rosendahl wrote: "... It appears that nature has so bountifully endowed the United States with helium supplies as to give us not only a virtual world monopoly but also a supply that will be practically unlimited for generations. It now remains to be seen whether we shall take advantage of this God-given situation and utilize our boundless supply of helium... in airships for our national defense and for carrying our mail, merchandise and passengers through oceanic airines all over this globe."

"Hotter Than Hell" ... NEW YORK—Hell is a tiny hamlet (pop. 1,465) in central Norway which thrives on U. S. excursionists who have fun sending home Hell-marked postcards. Situated on hilly ground, Hell (the Norwegian word for luck or slope) maintains two churches but no fire department has cool summers, bitterly cold winters, sometimes freezes over completely. PEEP SHOW

—For Ladies Only—

BY MIGNON

(Note)—While Mignon is galavanting in Washington, D. C., at the National League of Pen Women's Meeting, Douglas Meador, editor of the Matador Tribune and author of "Trail Dust" has kindly contributed a very special column. Next week a number of columnists from "round about" will contribute.

TRAIL DUST...

Tottering in the wake of a youth-spurred world, an old automobile waddles through the street with pebbles thrown from wheels of younger vehicles clattering against the broken windshield. Decay is eating through the wrinkled, tin hide and a consumptive pall covers the chapped paint. A torn, rusty fender sways like the futile wing of a monstrous bird trapped in the net of despair; fumes of burned oil cling to the faded upholstery as sinister smoke from a crematory blown into purple dusk of evening twilight. The motor, like a tired heart, pounds against metal ribs and drives faltering energy to the stumbling wheels.

Not many license plates ago the automobile throbbed with an eagerness that is the heritage of youth. Impulsive strength and majestic beauty swept by as it passed with the grace of a swan on a mirrored lake. The upholstery was soft, gray plush then and the instrument panel was polished ebony trimmed in silver.

So much that is beauty is only decay in transit.

Every spring new leaves come to an old trellis of memory as I recall the atheist's flower garden with its red, red roses and blue violets beside the row of lemon trees. He lived in a small white house on a quiet street, a thin, smiling man in Manhattan as the guest of Robert ("Believe It or Not") Ripley, gave the press a chance to make free use of naughty expressions. Sample: Chided by Host Ripley for bringing Manhattan a heat wave, Mayor Stenvig replied: "Why it's hotter than Hell in New York."

Prodigy...

DETROIT, Michigan—Discovered in Detroit last week was a child prodigy with an uncanny memory, the youngest of a Detroit musician's three children—wide-eyed, curly-haired George Washington Lovett, age 4-1-2. He can sing or play tunes to grand opera, can name and date all the U. S. Presidents, bound every European country, tell the population of every large city in the world, names and distances from the earth to all the planets, the political effects of Cornwallis' surrender at Yorktown, the battling averages of all the baseball stars. He has also taught himself to read, write and use the typewriter, knows the Italian, French German and Greek alphabets, reads people's minds. Interviewed by a sportswriter, George unhesitatingly predicted the winner of the Kentucky Derby: Stagehand.

LET'S KNOW TEXAS AND TEXANS

In this column answers will be given to inquiries as to Texas history and other matters pertaining to the State and its people. Address inquiries to Will H. Mayes, Austin, Texas.

Q. What was the three-fold Spanish plan of colonization among the Indians?

A. The Presidio, the pueblo and the mission were the three coordinating agencies used. The presidio, or fort, was the military outpost to enforce temporal rules of authority and protect the village and mission; the pueblo, or village, was occupied by those who tilled the soil, raised cattle and provided food for the military and clerics; the mission was the home of the priests and religious orders for the conversion and education of the Indians and for attending to the spiritual needs of all.

Q. Why was St. Denis so long making the trip from Mobile to San Juan Batista in 1713-15?

A. He spent about a year and nine months on the Mobile-San Juan Batista trip. He left Mobile with six boat loads of men and merchandise, trading on the way with Indians for horses and cattle, which were from time to time sent to Mobile. He reached San Juan Batista with only a few companions and limited supplies. Evidently he was as much interested in profitable trading as in finding Father Hidalgo.

Q. When was San Pedro Springs, San Antonio, first visited and named by the Ramon-Hidalgo expedition?

A. The Ramon-Hidalgo expedition reached and named San Pedro Springs, May 14, 1716, under the guidance of St. Denis, who had passed that way en route to San Juan Bautista early in 1715. The advantages the site offered for a settlement and mission were noted, but their establishment was postponed for the time and the expedition proceeded to the Tejas Indian country.

Q. What route did the Ramon-Hidalgo expedition follow to the Tejas country?

A. The route was the general direction of the Camino Real (Old San Antonio Road) by way of the sites of the present New Braunfels and San Marcos, crossing Plum Creek at Lytton Springs and the Colorado River a short distance below Austin and thence across Brushy Creek in a general northeasterly direction.

Q. What names were given to streams crossed by the Ramon expedition?

A. Following their custom of naming streams when discovered and places when first seen, the Spaniards called the present Plum Creek, "San Rafael"; Lytton Springs, "San Isidro" and "San Pedro del Nogal"; Brushy Creek, "Las Animas"; the Brazos River, "Rio de la Trinidad"; the Trinity, "Rio de San Juan Bautista," and so on. This custom of indiscriminately naming streams and places has led to much confusion in tracing early Texas routes and history.

Q. Who was Angelina, for whom a Texas river and county were named?

A. She was a Tejas Indian, who early in life was taken to San Juan Bautista, where she was baptized and reared. Returning to her people, she rendered many friendly services to both the French and Spanish and served as an interpreter to the Indians for the Ramon-Hidalgo expedition.

Q. What was the cost of the present capitol of Texas?

A. The building was erected in exchange for 3,000,000 acres of land in the Texas Panhandle, the estimated value of which at the time was $190 an acre.

Q. Why were the plans changed to construct the Texas capitol of Texas red granite instead of limestone?

A. As first planned the outside walls of the building were to be of Texas white limestone, but when the owners of the red granite quarry in Burnet County offered to donate the granite, the building board decided to have something more enduring and distinctive than a limestone building, both 70 miles of railway were built from Austin to the quarry to transport the granite.

Q. Did any of LaFitte's men locate permanently in Texas?

A. A number, mostly hard characters, but some of whom proved to be good citizens, remained in Texas, most of them around Galveston Island.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Blanket

Scouts and Scouters of Blanket met Thursday night, April 21st, to dedicate the Scout Home, for their Troop, that has recently been secured. Scout officials of Blanket, Scouters Lowell Pouncey, Gaitha Browning, and Scout Executive Quirl of Brownwood, made short talks during the meeting. Blanket citizens are justly proud of the new meeting place for the local Scouts.

Troop Re-registrations

A good indication that the Scouters and Scouts of Comanche Trail Council are on the job for their respective troops, is the fact that troop re-registrations for the Scout year have been received recently from the following Troops: No. 4 Cisco, No. 6 Eastland, No. 29 Breckenridge, No. 32 Pioneer, No. 36 San Saba, No. 31 Breckenridge, No. 33 Lampasas, and N. 115 Rising Star. Registration for a new Troop No. 12 in Ranger came in last week. This is a mighty fine record, and we feel sure that the other troop Scouters and Scouts in the council are going to keep their records up-to-date as the men and boys have done in the above mentioned troops.

Lampasas

Twenty-five Dads and friends of Scouts with as many boys gathered in the Scout park at Lampasas, Friday night for a Pow-Wow, which was conceded by Scout officials to be the best meeting ever held in Lampasas. Each man with one boy for his buddy built a fire, over which Pigs-in-the-skin (twelvers wrapped in bacon) were broiled. After the meals were prepared and eaten, the group agreed that they had enjoyed the entire process very much. Scouts put on various demonstrations at the Council ring. This camp-fire was some distance from the small fires built for cooking the food and each person present carried a blazing faggot from his fire as they marched to the council-ring. The men declared the meeting made them feel as young as the boys who were their buddies.

Isn't this the real problem of Beer —and almost its only problem?

THERE ARE people, of course, who steadfastly and sincerely believe beer to be intoxicating, or its use sinful, harmful, or a first step toward use of "hard liquor."

Just as sincerely we hold that the weight of the evidence is overwhelmingly against them...that beer is a mild, wholesome food beverage...and that "there is nothing more promising to combat the evil of too much alcohol than the opportunity of drinking good beer."

No...it is not in beer itself, we believe, that its gravest problem lies, but in those conditions, undesirable to us all, which sometimes surround its sale.

How should that problem be handled... by brewers, by retailers, by consumers, and by the public authorities? On its handling, we believe, depends the ultimate success or failure of the art and science of brewing, with all its manifold contributions to human pleasure and happiness and to the farm and industrial welfare of this country.

In that belief, a short time ago the Brewers Foundation was organized... to align the brewing industry with forces working for the public good in this country.

Our underlying motive... to perpetuate and promote our industry... is of course obvious. But equally obvious, we hope, is the fact that our interests coincide with the public interest.

Important progress has been made. Brewer-members of the Foundation already represent nearly half the production of beer and ale in the United States; and these members are pledged, individually and collectively, to the Brewers Code, one significant clause of which is as follows:

"We pledge our support to the duly constituted authorities for the elimination of anti-social conditions wherever they may surround the sale of beer to the consumer."

Being practical men, we promise no miracles. We cannot immediately or effectively "police" the quarter-million points where beer is sold (nor, to be fair, have we legal authority in many cases to do so). Nor can we, immediately, bring about full compliance with the law among all retailers, nor honest enforcement by all authorities.

But a beginning has been made...and we do promise that you will see results from it.

How far we can go, and how soon, depends very much on ourselves...but partly also on you.

Public opinion, once aroused, can operate to bring about honest enforcement of existing laws. Restriction of your patronage only to legal, respectable retail outlets can and will operate to raise retailing standards. Public preference for the products of Foundation members* will bear witness of your approval both to members and to cooperating retailers, and will encourage them to renewed efforts.

This is, therefore, at once a statement of our objectives and an appeal for your support, without which we must fall short of our high hopes. We urgently invite your full and sympathetic cooperation.

W. R. CHAMBERS OF MAY IS CANDIDATE FOR REPRESENTATIVE

The Banner is authorized to announce Honorable W. R. Chambers, of May, as a candidate for Representative of the 125th District composed of Brown and Coleman Counties, subject to the action of the Democratic primary.

Mr. Chambers has been a citizen of Brown County the greater part of his life. His school work and active participation in agricultural and other community service has given him a wide and favorable acquaintance in the district.

While not submitting at this time, a full and definite platform on all issues of local and state importance, Mr. Chambers is especially interested in the passage of such soil conservation measures, with localized control, as will aid in protecting the lands of his district from further deterioration from the destructive effects of water and wind erosion. He believes that under proper legislation and with a right program, many farms and ranches throughout this territory that have become almost unproductive may be rehabilitated and their values restored. He is especially interested in securing an appropriation for the purchase of a site and for the set-up of the agricultural experiment station provided for by the 44th Legislature and tentatively located in the northern part of Brown County. He favors such laws and appropriations as will further promote the interests of the public schools, both urban and rural. He believes that all waste should be eliminated from the State government in so far as possible, and that through proper economies, the doing away with unnecessary duplications, and by putting the State departments and employees on an efficiency basis, a very great saving in the expense of the State government can be effected and the tax rate reduced. He favors a liberal support for the social security programs, and particularly a more equitable interpretation and administration of the Old Age Assistance law to the end that eligible persons, now denied assistance, may be placed on the rolls. He favors a continued and active cooperation with the Federal agricultural program.

Mr. Chambers is strong mentally and physically. He is mature and has sound judgment. He is a student and will bring to bear on legislative problems, a strong intelligence and wide information. He knows the needs of his district, and if elected, promises the very best service of which he is capable. As the primary election draws nearer, from the stump and through the press, he will discuss and amplify his views further on all issues in which his constituency is vitally interested. (Pol. Adv.)

Texans to Observe Child Health Day

"Texas, this May 1, has cause to celebrate its annual May Day—Child Health Day as an expression of better child health this past year over the state," declared Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, this week.

Throughout the length and breadth of this state on May 1, children will gather in celebrations, games, and exhibitions of special ability which have been developed. The children themselves are celebrating another year of life, in most cases, we hope, a year in which there has been increased health and enjoyment.

"Today we celebrate the fact that the material mortality rate during the past year was lower than any previous year in the history of the State of Texas. This means more mothers living to care for the children of Texas, to encourage them and assist in providing them happiness. The fact that diphtheria has continued its retreat and that the death rate from this disease is the lowest in the state, together with the lowest death rate from typhoid, in history is to be celebrated," Doctor Cox added.

"These facts we accept with true pleasure and joy in that we may have had some share in the reduction of these rates. A great deal remains to be done and the battle is only begun. It is my desire that all agencies interested in the child, every county and every community within this state may work unceasingly during the ensuing year, day by day, that May Day—Child Health Day 1939 will afford us many more things which we may celebrate," Doctor Cox concluded.

Telegrams Read
Telegrams were read from Miss

Hildred Horton, state home demonstration agent and vice-director of the Extension Service; Miss Maurine Hearn, district agent; and Miss Carrie Reaves of Boulder, Colorado, expressing regret that they were unable to attend the banquet.

"As a representative of the Chamber of Commerce, I bring you the assurance that that important civic organization fully appreciates Miss Malone's work among the people of this county and properly values the service she has rendered through a period of years as she has labored tirelessly to aid the rural residents in their efforts to improve their economic positions, to increase their facilities for convenient and comfortable living, and to add to their happiness and contentment." Mr. White stated.

"Under her direction the work has moved along so smoothly and so successfully that the Chamber of Commerce not only has been relieved of all anxiety about it, but has been able to point to it with pride as one of the established and indispensable activities affecting the welfare of the county, and its people.

"We are privileged to think of Miss Malone as an individual who has grown up in our community and who has found her place of service in it. I am persuaded to believe that even the great record of achievement she has created during her long service as director of our home demonstration work—a record that it not excelled in the entire Southwest and one which inspires us with a feeling of pride in our home town and county—would have been paralleled if she had been directed to employ her talents in any other field of endeavor. For after all, it is the heart and the mind that directs the hand; and her courage, her keen intelligence and her inherent resources for resisting discouragement and overcoming difficulties would have enabled her to achieve marvelously in any profession to which she might have dedicated herself.

"Every day she has served, every mile she has travelled, every word she has spoken, every home she has visited, every improvement in the homelife of our people which she has inspired, have contributed to the erection of a vast monument in the hearts of this people."

Miss Malone has seen home demonstration work in Brown county grow from a stage of struggling ideas into a concrete, vital force in the life of the community. She began her work in this county March 1, 1921, and is the only agent in Texas permitted by the Extension Service to work in her home county.

Expressions of appreciation for her work heard during the evening included:

"All our homes are better places in which to live, thanks to Miss Malone."—Mrs. Phillips.

"I do not know of a program that has progressed as much in so short a time as the work directed by Miss Malone. The money spent for home demonstration work is the best money spent in Brown county."—Judge Nabors.

"No citizen has rendered greater service. There are few homes that have not been made better by her work and her far reaching influence."—City Attorney McGaughey.

"She is an institution."—J. Edward Johnson.

Out-of-town guests at the banquet included: Mrs. D. H. Bullion, Indian Creek; Mrs. J. W. Phillips, chairman of Brown county council, Byrds; Eleanor Lappe, May; Jewel Patterson, home demonstration agent, Brady; Mrs. Annie Windham, Byrds; Mrs. Will Vanderveer, Jr., May; Mrs. Mayfield Gibbs, May; Mrs. Herbert Glenn, May; Mrs. M. A. Rice, Brady; Mrs. E. R. McQuaid, May; Mrs. H. M. McDaniel, May; Mrs. C. C. DeHay, Indian Creek; Mrs. O. T. Jarvis, May; Mrs. D. S. Pumphrey, Mercury; Charles P.
