Large crowd attends Cooke County Electric Co-op's annual meeting

A spirited crowd of Cooke County Electric Cooperative members braved thunderstorms April 3 for lively entertainment, a report on Cooperative business and a slide show on the power plant that supplies much of their electric power.

Lucky winners in the prize drawing took home 38 items that included a cordless electric lawnmower, a VCR, a jet stream convection oven and an automatic home bakery. Exiting into the teeth of a big rainstorm, each member took home a rain gauge.

General Manager Phil Slater and Board President Ray Powell each described 1994 as a strong year for the Cooperative, with continuing additions to the customer base and excellent service to members. Highlights of the year included payment of nearly $400,000 in capital credits to members and former members and complete retirement of the Cooperative's last REA loan.

Slater reported that the CCEC had received loans totaling $2,191,000 from the REA dating back as far as 1938. During 1994, the last of those loans was completely repaid.

Currently the cooperative owns plant, equipment and facilities that cost more than $21 million to purchase and is in a 100 percent equity position, Slater reported.

In the President's report, Powell stressed the importance of excellent service and customer loyalty to the Cooperative. He asked, "How many of you remember being without electricity in your homes?" More than 100 persons raised their hands. "I think it is most important that we tell our children, our grandchildren and (other) young people about the times we had no electricity," he said. "We would never have been able to get electricity into the rural areas had it not been for the REA."

During the business session, three directors were re-elected. They included Powell, a resident of Bonita; Jesse Haralson, who lives near Lake Nocona; and Robert T. Lewis Jr., who lives northwest of Gainesville.

The main speaker Monday was Clifton Karnei, General Manager of

All of San Miguel's power is sold to its two customers: Brazos Electric Cooperative and South Texas Electric Cooperative. Cooke County Electric Cooperative is one of 20 Brazos member-cooperatives. Before the meeting, Cooperative members and guests were delighted by the First Edition, a singing the San Miguel Electric Cooperative, a power supply cooperative that operates a 400 megawatt power plant and lignite mine near Jourdanton, Texas, which is south of San Antonio. The facility, which cost more than $400 million to construct, has annual revenues in excess of $100 million.

Karnei spoke about the massive scale of electricity production in the plant, which burns 20 million pounds of fuel per day. The plant produced 2.7 billion kilowatt hours of electricity during 1994. Average cost of power to the plant's wholesale customers was 3.6 cents per kilowatt hour.

MMH announces newest Golden Eagle contributors

Muenster Memorial Hospital is pleased to announce the receipt of a Golden Eagle contribution in the amount of $10,000 from King and Holly Koch for the Obstetrics and Nursery Department Fund. This donation, said Mrs. Koch, is made in appreciation to Muenster Memorial Hospital. We will always be grateful to the many people whose dreams conceived a high-quality medical facility in this small town, and to those more recently who have refused to let the hospital close. We thank each one of you -- your staff, Home Health, the physicians, your Board and this fine community.

GEORGE LUTKENHAUS, a Lindsay High School senior, signed a letter of intent to participate in the University of North Texas men's track program Wednesday morning. George, the son of Walter and Kathleen Lutkenhaus, and the grandson of August J. and Armella Lutkenhaus of Muenster, has numerous district, regional and state honors in football, basketball, track and cross country. "Ever since George ran his first mile race, he decided he liked running and has been working to improve ever since," said his mom. George is pictured with his mother and Lindsay Coach Charlie Meurer. City Council adopts emergency plan

by Dave Fette

Items of discussion and action at the Monday, April 3, City Council meeting included:

- Lifeguards and pool manager were hired for the summer.

- The council declined to accept donation of a dock on Weinzapfel Lake since it would have to be moved to the city right-of-way and they didn't want responsibility for liability.

- An Emergency Management Ordinance for Muenster was explained briefly by Milton Knauf and adopted.

Ordinance Number 201 was adopted to make all phases of Muenster's Emergency Management Plan official. It provides for the appointment of an emergency management coordinator, grants necessary powers to those who will fill the various offices and carry out the various phases of the Emergency Management Plan. Also, it authorizes cooperative and mutual aid agreements between Muenster and cities or counties and prohibits unauthorized warning and all-clear signals. A fine not to exceed $500.00 will be levied on violators.

Muenster's Emergency Management Plan is on file at City Hall. Milton Knauf is the Emergency Management Coordinator. See chart on page 2 with those people who are expected to take charge in the event of an emergency and their duties. Also on file at City Hall is a list of successors should any of those first assigned be unable to fulfill their responsibility during the emergency.

- Cooperative agreement between the Muenster Police Department and Cooke County was adopted.

Monthly bills totaling $37,530.68 were approved for payment.

- $6,000.00 semi-annual contribution to the Muenster Public Library was approved.

- The regular May City Council meeting will be held on May 1. A special meeting will be held on Monday, May 8, after the election to seat the new council.

- A request to extend a city water line to the west from Cherry Lane along FM 373 and Picnic Grounds Road to furnish water to residents outside the city limits was tabled. Out-of-limits customers currently pay double the normal rate for city water and this proposed extension would cost the property owners over $12,000.00. The city would pay $11,000.00 more. Discussion included talk of annexation of the area and also property west of Ash Street.

- T.U. Electric customers will soon not be able to pay their bills at City Hall. The company that collects payments for T.U. Electric has initiated a 35-cents-per-bill fee to pay at such central locations. The customers would have to render 35 cents separately and in cash along with the bill payment. The city staff and council judged this too much hassle. T.U. Electric bills should now be paid by mail.

- Mayor Pro-Tem Art Hennigan and Mayor Bill Miller conducted a discussion concerning the mayor's demands for immediate access to public records to get approximately 150 sheets of copies of past city audit reports. The council agreed that future requesters must provide a list of the requested documents and allow 10 days to dig out and provide copies of the documents.

For further enlightenment, see last week's Civic Outlook and this week's Letter to the Editor.

The order for the city officers' election is formally announced for May 6, 1995 at Muenster Public School. Absentee voting by personal appearance will be conducted each weekday at Muenster City Hall from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., April 17, 1995 through May 2, 1995. Positions to be filled are Mayor, Alderman Place 3 and Alderman Place 5.

EMS rates increased at Commissioner's Court meeting

by Janet Felderhoff

Those who need the service of an ambulance in Cooke County will find that fees have increased for base charges, both for emergency and non-emergency ambulance. Emergency will be raised from $185 to $250 per run and non-emergency will go from the present $145 base charge to $160. Cost per patient mile will be increased from $3.50 to $5.00. The new rates were adopted at the April 10 Cooke County Commissioners Court meeting with all commissioners and the county judge present.

This is the result of a five-point plan presented to Commissioners Court by Bob Harbin of Cooke County EMS, to offset tax monies being used to run EMS. He anticipates that their revenues will be increased by $140,000.00.

"We are stuck with one of two things," Harbin remarked. "We either raise charges or we accept the fact that it is going to take more tax monies to run EMS."

Already, as part of the five-point plan, Cooke County EMS has resumed out-of-county transfers. Re-instituting the ambulance prescription plan is another possibility. Accepting assignment on Medicare patients is a choice and a necessity if the subscription plan is re-instated. Utilizing a collection agency is also part of the plan.

Cooke County resident Dick Slavin asked Commissioners Court to come up with an RFP to see what service Cooke County could get at what cost. "Because the people outside of Gainesville cannot be well served by this ambulance, it's not necessarily their fault. It's just the way it is. My only request is please take a look," said Slavin.

Another resident, Horace Hickerson, said that he had an occasion to need an ambulance. "When I was riding the ambulance in I wasn't thinking about taxes," he said.

District Attorney Janelle Haverkamp reported the findings from an audit of drug forfeiture funds. This audit was done in compliance with a state law. There was an audit done for the 1993 and 1994 calendar years.

Cooke County Auditor Gloria Parrish and Pat Rigby of the DA's office conducted the audit which accounts for money seized and how that money was dispersed.

"Basically, the audit accounts for the money we have seized and how we have dispersed that fund," said the DA. "Proceeds gained in the commission of a first or second degree felony or in the commission of a drug offense can be seized by law enforcement agencies and then dispersed solely at the discretion of the prosecuting attorney."

When Ms. Haverkamp took office in January 1993 there was $26.52 in the seizure account. At the end of December of 1994 there was $3,528.33 in the account.

"In the past it (money from the fund) has been used for funding a drug education program for the high school, for office expenses and also for assistance in preparing appellate briefs when for reasons of time we are not able to do it, explained Haverkamp.

As required, she also submitted a budget as to how the $3,528.33 would be spent. Commissioners Court unanimously approved the audit and the proposed budget.

District Judge Jerry Woodlock will soon have a new CD ROM computer for use in legal research. The initial starting cost for equipment is around $2,800.00. The subscription for the second year is $780.00 for a subscription service compared to the thousands now spent on legal books.

In accordance with the Texas Historical Commission's recommendation, Commissioners Court decided to: 1) have all maintenance work requests forwarded to the Commissioners Court via the maintenance court. Any routine repair work that doesn't change the appearance, decoration or cause alteration can be handled by the maintenance court; 2) Any work outside of routine maintenance must be in accordance with the Cooke County Courthouse Preservation Plan; 3) All non-routine work requests must be submitted to Commissioners Court for consideration by the Courthouse Preservation committee.

August Boto suggested that the policy be included in a one page addendum to the employees' policy handbook. Commissioner Virgil Hess suggested that the policy be printed in bold type and placed inside a plastic protector and placed permanently on the bulletin board of every office. These suggestion were also adopted as part of the policy.

David Huffman, who owns the land on both sides of County Road 279, petitioned the Court to close the road. He said that because of trash that accumulates along the road the property value would be enhanced by its closure, that the road is dangerous and that a much safer access on County Road 280. He said that there have been three wrecks there since he moved to the location in 1980 and that he has many times had to pull people out of ditches. A decision to close the road was made.

In other business during the meeting:

*Reappointed James Boone as Constable of Precinct 1 after accepting his resignation at the last regular meeting. Boone has a year and eight months remaining on his term. He promised that he would not run for that office again without seeking the required re-certification.

*Named Robert Eggleston, Jim Robertson, David Huffman, Robert French, and Paul Hesse to the Citizens Advisory Committee for Information Technology Acquisition.

*Approved nominees Frances West, Kim Lewis, and Judy Day.

*Proclaimed the month of May as League of Women Voters of Gainesville Month.

*Approved bonds for Cooke County Sheriff's jailers David Nelson Bush and Scott A. Otto and deputies Lawanna Wisian and Todd Michael Henshaw.

*Approved minutes of last meeting.

*Approved monthly bills.
*Approved monthly reports.

Letters to the Editor

My very dear friends,
 Shortly the Alleluias will ring out the joyful news that Easter is here.

I want to be on time to wish each and everyone who reads this message a "Happy, joyful Easter."

How blessed I am that through the courtesy of Mr. David Fette, Editor of the Muenster Enterprise, I can through the latter reach hundreds of friends around the world.

Nowadays this is not being conceited. It is a tremendously happy thought.
 A few words about myself. I am just fine, "busy as a bee" most of the day - pleasantly busy, not feverishly.

My day starts usually at 5:00 a.m. and ends at 11:00 p.m. Private or Community prayers and services, spiritual reading or meditation, an hour or two of correspondence and recreation make the days, weeks, months and years pass by swiftly.

Of course I take out time for eating. The dinners and suppers are taken in our spacious dining room around large round tables in company of four or five fellow Sisters or on occasion with lay people. News are exchanged etc. It is delightful most of the time. Once in a while it may be sad because of the news of that sort. Many of the friends who read this message have sat around the round tables and experienced the above.

Sometimes there are programs after the meals. At this time we are looking forward to several of these events. There will be a First Profession, Golden and Diamond Jubilees. I am glad that I can be a spectator. It is a lot easier than being involved, although those were unforgettable events in my life - the First profession, Perpetual Vows, Silver Jubilee and Diamond (60 years). I have no ambition to reach the real Diamond Jubilee.

A word about our weather. We are presently having cool and toward evening very cold weather. The days are mostly sunny. In spite of this unfavorable weather, nature at our place has assumed the beauty of paradise. The woods are filled with dogwoods and the mighty have put on their spring dress.

I would like to mail this message today, Friday, March the 31st.

And so, till my mid-summer message, "Good-bye" my dearest friends!!!

Lots and lots of Love and Prayers your ancient friend,
 Sister M. Theresina Grob, OSB

Dear Editor:

In answer to the Civic Outlook, I have never tried to prevent material from being released to the public covering any City records. In the case in question over 125 copies were made. I have never pressed for a 10 day notice, but instantly is not always practical with this amount of material. We do have other citizens who are not on a fishing trip through the files, who need help at times. Another thing I am against is any person walking in off the street and starting to go through records and file cabinets on their own. This is how records disappear completely or are misplaced.

The City secretary and office employees in City Hall are quite willing and able to help anyone who wishes information or copies.

I believe citizens who depend on the Civic Outlook editorial for information would do well to look elsewhere. This misinformation article is printed in place of a comic strip.

I hope our incoming mayor will show better leadership and judgment than has been shown in the past two years by our mayor and his advisor-caretaker.

To the Editor:

It is interesting to note that the Heritage Foundation of Washington, D.C. has recently confirmed what two parent families have known for some time, but who hesitate to speak up for fear of being labeled a racist.

The study reveals that missing parents are largely to blame for juvenile crime. To quote the study - they found that illegitimacy and lack of parental attachment - not poverty or racism are the major culprits in the making of a juvenile delinquent.

The challenge is to stop the factors that create these often vicious criminals. AFDC nurtures these factors and fosters illegitimacy where in reality the children involved are programmed for failure. Today the current welfare program pays for, fosters and encourages this vicious illegitimacy cycle.

It takes a lack of love and a lot of abuse and conflict to produce a kid who in his early teens is capable of vicious crime. Any thinking person should realize that poverty wears three faces, poverty of spirit, poverty of the mind and a lack of money. In this case it is clearly a poverty of spirit which government agencies are powerless to change.

The schools, the churches and primarily the two parent families together with community effort are the resources that can help children grow into compassionate, caring adults.

What we need from government is a president who can inspire today's youth to rebuild America's families and communities as President John F. Kennedy once inspired young people to serve others overseas.

Our schools are called on to assume responsibilities that rightfully belongs to the parents. This single parent government sponsored AFDC program is creating havoc with our nation's future. We have a moral decay that is literally creating a hell on earth and must cease immediately if we are to survive as a nation.

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

Dear Community,

It may come as a surprise to you, but the most important celebration of the Church's liturgical year - the holiest night of the year - is not Christmas but the Easter Vigil Service. That is because our Christian faith revolves around the Resurrection of Jesus. Which other religion can claim that its founder was raised from the dead and is still alive today? Not Buddha, Mohammed or even Moses. Moreover, Jesus promises us, we his followers will one day be raised from the dead as well! What a promise!

During this Holy Week we celebrate Christ's suffering, death, and resurrection in a three day period called the Triduum: Holy Thursday, Good Friday and Holy Saturday. On Holy Thursday we recall the Last Supper and Christ's example of service through the washing of feet. On Good Friday we recall the sufferings and death of Jesus and venerate the cross, the symbol of his great love for us.

At the Easter Vigil service we "keep vigil" to greet Jesus as he rises from the dead. We begin with a light service. We'll gather outside of church to bless the Easter fire, a symbol of Jesus Christ, the light of the world. And from this special fire, we light the Paschal or Easter Candle and our own candles as we process into a dark church. We then listen to the story of salvation history through the Scripture readings and sing a joyous Gloria for the first time since Lent began.

After the Gospel account of the resurrection and homily, we will baptize six new members as a sign of them dying to sin and rising with Christ. They are Sammy and Amy Hellingier children of Rene and Ralph Hellingier, Tara Abbott, granddaughter of Doug and Phyllis Martin, Ronda Hacker, Ina Faye (Mrs. Donnie) Fisher and Kristi Hesse. Another group, already baptized in their respective churches, will be invited to make a profession of faith and come into full communion with the Catholic Church. They are Rene and Leslie Hellingier, Toni York, Lorinda Whitecotton, and Jimmy Hancock.

A very important part of the service is when we light our candles once again and along with the candidates for full communion, renew our baptismal promises. All our Lenten sacrifices have prepared us for this moment when we recommit ourselves completely to Jesus Christ. Both groups will then receive the sacrament of Confirmation and First Eucharist.

After the service, everyone is invited to a reception honoring the newly baptized and confirmed in the Sacred Heart Community Center Cafeteria. As you can see, it will be longer than the usual Sunday Mass in the same way that a Thanksgiving dinner is longer than a regular meal. That's because it's so special!

I invite you to all the Holy Week Services at Sacred Heart Church, but I especially invite you to attend the Easter Vigil service at 8 p.m. Saturday. The mixed choir, under the direction of Pam Fette, will lead the singing, so it promises to be a very uplifting time of praise and worship to our risen Lord and Jesus!

Muenster Historical Commission welcomes two new members

by Juanita Bright
 Members of the Muenster Historical Commission welcomed two new members at their April 5 meeting in the court chambers of city hall. In joining the commission, Sydney Reynolds and Jack Murdock graciously agreed to assist the commission in reactivating the committee for identification and designation of historically significant buildings in Muenster by serving as co-chairmen.

A unanimous vote of the Commission identified the Fischerhaus and Sacred Heart Elementary School Building as the first to be eligible for an official designation. Upon submission of authentication and documentation similar to that required by the State of Texas for a state designation of historic significance, these two buildings will be marked with a permanent plaque identifying them to our citizens and visitors as being historically important to all of us.

Local artists are invited to submit designs for the plaque which will be cast in an all-weather-durable substance. The Muenster Logo (pictured above) must be included in the design. All ideas are welcome and can be brought to City Hall or mailed to Commission Chairman, Bertha Hamric, P.O. Box 103, Muenster, TX 76252. Entries must include the name, address, and phone number of the artist.

There are many beautiful and historically significant buildings in Muenster. The Commission encourages everyone to look around and help identify old buildings that are architecturally or historically significant and important to us. December 8, 1995 is the tentative date chosen for the formal presentation of the historic plaques for the Sacred Heart Elementary School Building and the Fischerhaus.

The Centennial Muenster History Book continues to receive rave reviews. The community is justifiably proud of that achievement (and the Muenster Enterprise Staff for their superb job in putting it all together).

Recognizing the unfortunate omissions, the Historical Commission is collecting material for a supplement to the centennial history book to be published at or shortly after the turn of the century. Families who neglected to submit their stories for the Centennial edition are encouraged to get their stories written and photos attached while "Grandma, or Grandpa or Aunt Susie" are still around to provide details and anecdotes. All materials for the supplement of the Muenster History will be kept on file at City Hall until publication date.

Bernice Sicking, chairman of the genealogy committee, announced the availability of an extensive microfiche and microfilm genealogical library at the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints in Gainesville. The church librarian will be available to help access the desired information and, if necessary, draw on the resources of the world famous genealogical library in Salt Lake, Utah.

Bertha Hamric, Chairman of the Museum Committee, reported the Muenster Museum is opened on request. When entertaining out-of-town guests or former residents, be sure to share with them a journey through your museum and Muenster's past.

The Muenster Historical Commission invites all interested parties to join in their learning about and preserving the history of Muenster. It's an exciting adventure!

Call Bertha Hamric, Celine Dittfurh, Bernice Sicking, Sydney Reynolds, Jack Murdock, or Juanita Bright for more information. The Historical Commission meets for one hour the 2nd Tuesday of each month at 8:00 A.M.

Hall supports term limits legislation

Rep. Ralph Hall (D-Texas) voted in favor of all four term limits bills considered by the House of Representatives last night, but the House fell sixty-one votes short of passing what was considered one of the key planks in the majority's Contract with America. A two-thirds vote was necessary for passage of a constitutional amendment.

Four separate bills were considered, with the closest failing by a vote of 227-204. This bill would have limited House members and Senators to a maximum of twelve years of service. The legislation received bipartisan support and bipartisan opposition. Forty Republicans opposed the bill, while thirty eight Democrats voted for it.

"In light of overwhelming public support for term limits, it's frustrating that we couldn't pass a bill and give the Senate a vote on this," Hall said. "We were able to gather two-thirds support for the Balanced Budget Constitutional Amendment, and I'm disappointed that the votes weren't there for a term limits amendment."

"The people in my district believe that term limits would help Congress be more responsive, and I voted their wishes," Hall said. "I voted for all four of the bills in the hope that one of them would pass."

Hall preferred limiting terms for House members only. "Our founding fathers patterned the House after the House of Commons in England," Hall remarked. "The House was to be the citizen legislature, with two-year terms to allow more citizens the opportunity to serve."

Earlier this month Hall submitted a substitute term limits amendment to the Rules Committee that would have applied term limits to the House only, but the Committee denied his request for a vote on the House floor. "Considering the final vote, I doubt if my substitute would have passed," Hall acknowledged.

"The debate on term limits has raised the level of public awareness," Hall said. "Twenty-two states already have set limits, and I expect others will follow. The Supreme Court will rule on the Arkansas term limits case sometime this year - which may or may not resolve the issue. We'll have to wait and see."

Eric Williams leaves Co-op position

Eric C. Williams, member relations specialist at Cooke County Electric Cooperative, is leaving the Cooperative to join the Electric Power Research Institute.

He will be working as a customer service specialist in the EPRI Center for Demand-Side Excellence in Las Colinas.

EPRI was formed in 1972 by the nation's electric utilities. Its mission is to discover, develop and deliver advances in science and technology for the benefit of member utilities, their customers and society. It is funded by 660 member utilities and is headquartered in Palo Alto, Calif.

Williams has worked at Cooke County Electric Cooperative since September 1989 after serving for three years as managing editor of the Gainesville Daily Register.

He, his wife Sally and daughter Krista live in Denton. Sally Williams is a campaign manager for Dallas United Way.

Williams is a member of the Gainesville Rotary Club and has served in several capacities at the Gainesville Chamber of Commerce. He was chairman of the Cooke County Extension Program Council, the Montague Extension Program Council and Cooke County Crime Stoppers. He has served on the Cooke County Child Welfare Board for seven years.

"It's sad to leave a job where I was able to be so active in the community and work with so many nice people," Williams said. "I really enjoyed working for the Cooperative because of the incredible loyalty both members and employees feel for the organization. Cooke County Electric Cooperative has a reputation for supplying excellent service at great rates. The employees care deeply about doing a good job and members are appreciative."

"But I'm excited about my new job," Williams added. "I have a passionate interest in conservation and demand-side management issues. Working for EPRI will give me a chance to work with utilities from all across the United States."

Hess elected to chair advisory board

Pat Hess of Muenster has been elected to lead a statewide organization set up to supervise safety training for Cooperative employees across Texas.

Hess, manager of system-operations for Cooke County Electric Cooperative, is the new Chairman of the Advisory Committee for the Texas Job Training and Safety Loss Control Program (JT&S). His election came at the 49th Texas JT&S Conference held in San Antonio, March 22-24.

The advisory committee reviews safety and accreditation procedures, plans conferences, sets policies and recommends funding levels for JT&S, which is sponsored by Texas Electric Cooperatives, Inc., the Texas Engineering Extension Service and the Texas A&M University System. During 1994, the organization provided safety training to almost 5,000 employees in 75 distribution cooperatives.

PAT HESS

The JT&S program sends safety instructors to Cooke County Electric Cooperative eight times per year to provide classroom instruction, on-site inspections and consultation.

Hess succeeds Jim Martin, general manager of Southwest Texas Electric Cooperative.

A native of Muenster, Hess was hired by the Cooperative in 1968. He worked his way up to first class lineman and crew foreman positions before taking over as manager-system operations in 1991. He and his wife Tommie Sue have three grown children and two grandchildren.

Aggie Muster set for April 21 at St. Mary's in Gainesville

Former students of Texas A&M University will assemble in Gainesville on April 21 for the annual Texas Aggie Muster, announced Muster Chair Van Knight Jr.

The Muster activities will begin at 6 P.M. at the St. Mary's Parish Hall in Gainesville. Muster is open to all former students and their families, parents of students and friends of Texas A&M. Please contact Van Knight by April 14 to make your reservation.

Texas A&M is in its "Second Generation of Greatness." Since 1876, Texas A&M has grown from a small Land Grant College to one of the leading research and educational institutions in the world, now holding the distinction of sea and space grants as well.

The Muster tradition is more than 100 years old. More than 400 Musters will be held around the world this year. Knight said,

"wherever Texas A&M former students live or work."

During wars, Aggies mustered in foxholes, on the battlefield, aboard ships, in airplanes and in medical hospitals. In World War II, a Muster was held on Corregidor Island shortly before the Japanese captured it in 1942.

Every Muster ceremony is the same, Knight reported. Texas Aggies pay their respects to all those who are absent because of death since the last Muster. When the names of the honored dead are called from the Muster Roll, a friend of the deceased answers, "Here."

Assistance requested by VFW for cemetery project

Muenster VFW is making plans to enlarge and enhance the Soldiers' Plot in Sacred Heart Cemetery. A large monument will be engraved with the names of all of the veterans from the Muenster community to remember all those who have served and have died for our country. "It will serve as a permanent honor to those who have served and those who have died for their country," noted Marty Klement.

The VFW has established a fund for this project and will accept donations. They are also asking for assistance with the names of those who have served and should be named on the monument. "If people will send in the names of their loved ones who served, it will save us time and be much easier," said Klement. The goal is to have the project complete within a year.

To make a donation, give information or to get more information on the project, call Marty Klement at 759-2244 or Johnny Rohmer, 759-4345.

Saint Jude's trail ride planned for April 29

A 10-mile loop of road in and north of Marysville has been selected as the route of the fourth annual Saint Jude's Benefit Trail Ride to be held on Saturday, April 29. It will begin and end in Marysville - a road-ride on gravel, therefore horseshoes are recommended. Riders are urged to begin collecting pledges for the benefit soon.

After the ride, a hot dog lunch will be provided by the Emerald Riders 4-H horse club, with Kool-Aid and tea. Riders may contribute additional goodies, if they wish. For convenience, they may also bring lawn chairs.

Two prizes will be given for the largest collections: one for non-members and one for Emerald Riders.

No rain date is scheduled. Plans are to ride unless violent thunderstorms and lightning occur. If it appears the weather will clear off later, they will wait for later!

Harold Bowles will be trail boss again this year; riders are to follow his directions, with all normal rules of horse safety and etiquette being followed. Failure to comply will send both the horse and rider home. To avoid possible injury to either adults or children, unruly horses should not be brought along.

Questions or comments should be directed to Paul and Lorna Goin of Marysville, 759-2879, or Nancy Endres of Hood, 665-0252. For pledge sheets, call Lorna, Nancy or Janette Hess, 759-4581. The ride is open to anyone wishing to support St. Jude's Hospital.

J.E.L.L.Y. shirts ready, field trip rated a success, meeting set

By Eric Gray

WHAT IS: The new JELLY shirts are printed and ready to go for all who are interested. They are royal blue with the JELLY logo printed large on the back and the SHYM logo small on the upper left on front. We're asking a donation of $7 for each one. They are available at the youth office in the convent.

WHAT WAS: The trip to Clymer Meadow was definitely a memorable experience. Due to many scheduling conflicts after the date was booked, only a few of those who wanted to go were able to go. The Lord supplied beautiful weather and Eric Gray, Sarah Hess, and Allison Bayer enjoyed it.

Jim Eidson, the regional land steward of the Nature Conservancy's North Texas Region (prairie and high plains), was an excellent host and instructor. He was a storehouse of knowledge and prairie stories. After a brief historical lesson of the Clymer Meadow Preserve, we went to work.

The order of the day was trash pickup and rut fixing. Trash and rubbish accumulates along the preserve's road front and must be periodically cleared, and so it was done. Also, one of the preserve's managing tools is prescribed burning: burning off all the dead grass from previous seasons. During the last burn in mid-March, a fire truck left some rather large ruts in the beautiful black soil. We filled those in, and in the process broke two dirt rakes in that wonderful thick mud, and also took some mud along with us to remember it.

Clymer Meadow is one of the only remaining blackland prairie ecosystems left in North Texas, and therefore in the world. It is a severely endangered land system formerly extending from the Red River to the Hill Country and from the Piney Woods to the Cross Timbers. It is found just outside Celeste, Texas and can be visited anytime by appointment with Jim Eidson.

WHAT SHALL BE: There will be a JELLY afternoon to Play, Plan, and Reflect on Sunday, April 23 from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. in the Community Center Main Hall. We will play games, sing songs, plan future events, and reflect on unity as community and family. If the gentlemen would please bring some treats to share and the ladies please bring a soft drink to share, that would be awesome! Bring a friend along! See you there!

GIRL SCOUTS receiving Marian Medals.

Girl Scouts presented Marian Medals March 27

On March 27, 1995 nine scouts from Muenster Girl Scout Troop 2003 were honored at St. Patrick Cathedral in Ft. Worth. Visitors learned of the history associated with the ceremony of having tea and were given several recipes for scones, crumpets and other delicacies that were often served at teas. Participants were then able to sample many of the recipes, including hot tea.

For more information on programs offered at Morton Museum of Cooke County, please call 668-8900.

Sailor prepares for overseas duty

by Marcus Myers,
Navy Public Affairs

Few people can actually describe the unique feeling of serving on board a complex naval vessel that is equipped with the most advanced technology used in the Navy today. For Navy Fireman Apprentice Jason W. Frost, the 21-year-old son of Michael and Carol Frost of Muenster, this unique feeling is a part of his everyday life.

"The most rewarding aspect of being in the surface Navy is learning the operation of the different pieces of equipment that are vital in keeping the ship going. Getting hands-on training will benefit me if I plan to enter the civilian world again," said Frost, a 1992 graduate of Sacred Heart High School.

As an engine mechanic on board the Spruance class destroyer USS Merrill (DD 976), Frost operates, maintains, and repairs the internal combustion engines used to power the ship.

Capable of reaching speeds in excess of 30 knots, the vessel's powerful gas-turbine engines and state-of-the-art combat system, a computer operated command-and-control system, make the 9,200-ton Merrill one of the U.S. Navy's most formidable warships.

Frost believes the Navy, with its high-tech equipment and highly-trained professionals like those found on the Merrill, is the ideal place for a person to get a good start on a career.

"The Navy is a good place to get a grip on life and learn responsibility," said Frost.

Along with the top-notch training Frost has received, he finds many other aspects of life in the Navy rewarding.

"The Navy allows you to take responsibility upon yourself and learn what life is all about by being on your own. Success in the Navy is totally up to the effort you make. You also learn how to work with people that are different than you. The Navy makes you feel like once you've accomplished the assigned tasks, you're ready for anything," said Frost.

Frost and the rest of the 339-man crew of the Merrill are currently scheduled to begin an overseas deployment in April as part of the USS Abraham Lincoln Battle Group.

"On the next deployment, I'm looking forward to meeting new people and seeing and learning about different aspects of life in different cultures," said Frost.

Special Divine Mercy service to be held April 23

On Sunday, April 23 at 3:00 p.m. in Sacred Heart Church in Muenster, the Reverend Sylvester Catallo will be speaking of the mercy of God in a special Divine Mercy Sunday service. Fr. Sylvester is a Franciscan priest-friar of the Capuchin Province with his residence being at Our Lady of Mt. Carmel Friary in Orange, New Jersey. He travels around the world preaching the word of God.

He received his religious training with the Capuchin Friars of the New Jersey Province in Beacon, New York. He completed his theology at Our Lady of Angels monastery in Stanton, Virginia. In May of 1954, Fr. Sylvester was ordained to the Holy Priesthood at the Sacred Heart Cathedral in Richmond, Virginia, and since that time has been assigned to a variety of ministries. He has been particularly involved with the preaching and retreat ministry in which he emphasizes traditional Catholic teachings and loyalty to the Holy Father.

Fr. Sylvester visits with both individual prayer enclaves and church missions/retreats. He is a fire and brimstone orthodox speaker with a sense of humor. He emphasizes consecration to the Immaculate Heart of Mary, the Sacred heart of Jesus, and the rosary. On Divine Mercy Sunday, he will be speaking of the mercy of

God. Included will be the recitation of the Divine Mercy Chaplet, Litany of Divine Mercy, and exposition of the Blessed Sacrament. Blessed Faustina Kowalska of Poland was promised by Jesus that on the Sunday after Easter, which He desired to be solemnly celebrated as the Feast of Mercy, that "the very depths of My tender mercy are open. I pour out a whole ocean of graces upon those souls who approach the fountain of My mercy." (Diary-699)

Artfest plans finalized during March 27 meeting

Plans for applying for a Bingo license as a cooperative effort by the Sacred Heart Preschool Parents Group and the SH Home School Society were discussed during the March 27 meeting of the preschool group. The two organizations will soon sponsor bingo at Uptown Bingo in Gainesville on Thursday evenings.

Artfest, chaired by Peggy Grewing, will be held on April 25, 1:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. Arts and Crafts projects are enjoyed by all, with the help of seventh and eighth graders.

S.H. Preschool Parents Group will provide decorations for the Staff Appreciation Banquet on April 20. Something newly installed are the ceiling fans in the computer/napping room. The date of May 23 was set for the moving-on ceremony.

Ryan Bartush demonstrated mixing colored water to make new colors. He also showed how to make different shapes, using a metal inset tray with good eye/hand coordination.

Presiding for the meeting was Gerri Eckart who also led the opening prayer. Shawna Herr gave the treasurer's report and Stacie Miller read the minutes.

The next meeting of the Preschool Parents Group will be on April 24 at 7 p.m. Stacie Miller is club reporter.

From My Side of the Fence

by Ed Cler

It seems that some of the T.V. networks are bemoaning the fact that they mis-judged everyday folk's interest in the O.J. Simpson trial. Some of the media writers are claiming that some T.V. programs are suffering from lack of viewers, due to too many people being glued to the trial.

People that I have talked to insist just the opposite is true. Most have little or no interest in the proceedings, due to the fact that they feel too much money and time is being wasted on a super-soap, and they feel that even if Simpson is guilty, he will never be convicted.

I, for one, believe the media are trying to tell us what we like, even though we don't. Many folks resent the fact that some interesting programs have been put off the air so that full time coverage can be afforded the Simpson trial.

In a lighter vein, I heard a story yesterday, while visiting in The Colony, about a preacher whose parish was not too rich. The church was in dire need of painting, and after consultation with the elders, an agreement was reached where by the parish would pay for the paint, but feeling their preacher only worked on Sundays, he should do the painting.

Well, the kind gentleman agreed, and after getting started and painting for some time, he found he also had time to think as he worked.

Noting that the rectory would look much better if it too were given a coat, he began to thin the paint so it would go around. He then decided to include the garage, so the paint was thinned a bit more.

Just as he finished the last side of the church, a terrific, thunder storm blew in and the deluge that followed, washed most of the thin paint off the boards leaving the church looking streaked and ugly.

As the preacher looked at this awful sight there was a loud roll of thunder, and a deep voice was heard to say, "Repaint, and thin no more." - Boo?

City-Wide Cleanup

With the arrival of spring, everything seems brighter, full of energy and life. Nature supplies spectacular colors with multitudes of flowers, green grass, and other growing things.

Now that we have renewed energy from spring weather it would be a good time to spiff up the yards, streets, roadways and other areas of our community. Whether we like it or not thousands of visitors will soon pour into Muenster for the annual Germanfest. The impression they form during that short visit will be carried back home with them and probably be spread by word of mouth to many others.

Now is the time to show our Texas pride and put out the extra effort to leave a favorable impression of Muenster with those who visit. Although clean-up is stressed around Germanfest time, community pride should be evident all through the year. Muenster has had visitors ranging from the average person to Governor Bush and his wife, Laura, as well as other people who could be influential in this community's future.

HOLLY MULLINS

by Emily Felderhoff and Andrea Schoppa
Holly Mullins, a sophomore at Muenster High School, was selected to attend the Hugh O'Brian Youth Foundation (HOBY) Texas North Leadership Seminar. Holly, the daughter of Philip and Pauline Mullins, participated in this leadership program April 7-9, in Dallas. Holly has been chosen due to her demonstrated leadership ability and potential for continued leadership growth.

HOBY Leadership Seminars bring together a select group of high school sophomores from the state so that they can interact with groups of distinguished leaders in business, government, and education to discuss present and future issues. This unique forum provides the youths a way to learn about the American incentive system and democratic process. The seminar is designed to encourage the quest for self development and to broaden the understanding of leadership potential.

In the meeting we discussed a fashion show scheduled for March 18 and a leadership training meeting scheduled for March 27. Also discussed was a record book meeting scheduled for March 23 and a trash pick-up on March 25. The next meeting of the Muenster 4-H Club will be April 11.

Sacred Heart tennis teams qualify for state

Sacred Heart's tennis teams competed at the Eastchase Sports Complex in Fort Worth on Tuesday, April 4 in TAPPS district competition. Nine members will advance to the state tennis meet in Waco on April 28-29. The top 4 placers in each district qualify for state. Tigers advancing were doubles Jason Hess and Brandon Bayer, and Jake McCoy and Doug Novak and singles player Ian Desmuke. The girls' doubles teams of Dobe Fleitman and Nicole Endres and Stephanie and Leslie Grewing also qualify.

The Tigers had a good showing, coming within one point of a district championship. Abilene Christian took top honors at 7, Sacred Heart 6 and Masonic Home 4. Trinity Midland and Pantego failed to earn any points.

Hess and Bayer came away with a 2nd place finish in the boys doubles. They lost the championship set to Masonic Home by two games. They earlier won over Abilene and the other Tiger team.

McCoy and Novak finished 3rd winning their 1st and 3rd sets over Pantego and Abilene, but losing one to Hess and Bayer.

Ian Desmuke qualified for state at 4th place in the singles. Desmuke defeated a player from Masonic Home, lost to Abilene, won over Pantego then lost to another Abilene player.

John Klement also competed in the singles bracket, but settled for a 5th place. After losing his opening set to an Abilene player, Klement beat Masonic Home, got a bye then beat Midland to be a state alternate.

The Tigerettes settled for a 4th place team finish with 3 points behind district champions Abilene with 7, Midland Christian 5 and Pantego 4. Masonic Home earned a point with Trinity of Midland finishing scoreless.

Both doubles teams qualified for state. Fleitman and Endres won their 1st set over Masonic Home, then lost to Trinity before defeating their teammates for a 3rd place finish. Grewing and Grewing lost their opening set to a Masonic Home team, then beat Abilene before falling in the final set for a 4th place.

The Tigerettes singles players Jennifer Campbell and Jennifer Fuhrmann were unable to compete.

"The kids played very hard and were successful," commented Coach John Nasche. "This is the best we have ever done in tennis at the district level."

SH golfers advance to state tourney

The Sacred Heart High School golfers competed in TAPPS district Monday, with all members qualifying for state.

The boys team finished 2nd place behind Pantego. The Tigers were edged out of a district championship 355 to 357 at the Glenn Garden Country Club in Fort Worth.

Jason Hess tied for 1st place medalist with a score of 78 with Blake Langford of Fairhill Academy, Scott Frost shot a 90, Douglas Novak 93 and Neil Berres 96. The fifth man, Matthew Fuhrmann shot 111.

"I'm very proud of the boys. They played very competitive golf for the conditions," said Coach Jon LeBrasseur. "If they drop their scores a little, they'll have a chance for the state title."

The girls district tournament was held at Sleepy Hollow Country Club in Dallas. Kelly Rigler was the lone Tigerette competing and tied for 9th place individual with a score of 57. The girls competition was cut short due to weather. Rigler also advanced to the state tournament which will be held Apr. 24-25 in Waco.

Whoopers ready for migration to Canada

Endangered whooping cranes soon will begin departing their Texas winter home for their nesting grounds in Canada, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials said.

Lee Ann Linam of TPWD's endangered species program said the first whoopers generally depart the Aransas National Wildlife Refuge on the Gulf Coast the last week in March or early April to begin their 2,500-mile migration north to Wood Buffalo National Park in the Northwest Territories.

A total of 133 whooping cranes, including 118 adults and 15 young, the only wild breeding population in the world, spent the winter on the Texas coast. State and federal biologists anticipate all 133 whooping cranes will journey northward to breeding grounds.

Last spring, 133 whoopers migrated north from Texas. Three whoopers unexpectedly spent the summer on Aransas NWR.

Whoopers leaving the Texas coast now will travel through Central and North Texas, Oklahoma, Nebraska, South and North Dakota and the Canadian provinces of Saskatchewan and Alberta. They may remain overnight in wetland areas along rivers, lakes or ponds and may feed briefly in grain fields and wetlands. The trip is expected to take about three weeks.

Anyone spotting a whooping crane in Texas is asked to report the time, place and other details to the department's endangered species program at 1-800-792-1112 or (512) 912-7011 or to other wildlife officials.

Adult whooping cranes are white with black wingtips and a red forehead. In flight, the bird's long neck is held straight forward and long, black legs extend beyond the tail. The adult's wingspan may be more than 7 feet, and when standing, they are as tall as 5 feet. Juveniles have white and rusty brown body feathers and black wingtips.

Linam encourages Texans to help safeguard this unique bird. Disturbance of the bird during feeding or roosting can lead to injury or harm.

"Despite its recent population increases, the whooping crane, whose only natural population winters in Texas, is still a highly endangered Texas treasure," she said. "It is only through the cooperation of Texas residents that we can effectively ensure that it will continue on one of the greatest wildlife comeback stories in history."

The department has materials to help identify whooping cranes and several other species similar in appearance. For more information, contact TPWD, 4200 Smith School Road, Austin, Texas 78744, or call 1-800-792-1112 or (512) 389-4800.

AS WHOOPING CRANES begin their migration north, many are expected to pass through the area. If anyone spots a whooper, they are asked to contact the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. Could this crane spotted near Lindsay be a whooper?

Mrs. Johnson was happy to find that we listen better than the average 4th grader.

Which isn't too shabby. Especially when you consider how quickly her class responded to our photographer. We said "smile" and they were all teeth. And when Angela Johnson suggested saving paper by not sending return envelopes to bank draft customers, we were all ears. We were also pretty excited when Spud Hammerbacher expressed interest in our new solar energy test project. After all, it's suggestions like these that are helping us build a brighter future. Which has us grinning from ear to ear.

Dull knives cut farmers' mower performance during haying season

Don't be caught unprepared this spring when haying season hits high gear. By checking and replacing key parts on your mower-conditioner, you can improve efficiency and reduce downtime.

"When most mower-conditioners come out of mothballs, they often aren't given enough attention to do a proper job," contends Mike Cooper, product and pricing analyst, Ford New Holland Parts and Service Operations, New Holland, Penn. "Knife sections are one of the most important, and often overlooked, maintenance considerations."

With all the tough wear and tear they're put through, knives should be the most frequently replaced part on mower-conditioners, he adds. When selecting replacements, it's important to note that cutting edge, material, thickness, and quality all affect knife performance.

• Cutting edge. Three basic cutting edge options are available for use on mower-conditioners: over-serrated, under-serrated and smooth. The most widely used cutting edge today is the over-serrated. Because it sharpens itself, this cutting edge performs well in most crop conditions and is properly suited to abrasive soils. Over-serrated and smooth knives work best in tough, stringy grass, says Cooper.

• Material. High-quality knives feature double-hardened cutting edges and back edges. For increased durability and resistance to rust during the off-season, some farmers prefer chrome-plated knife sections. These high performance knives have a mechanical chrome coating that offers increased strength and longer wear life.

• Thickness. Thickness of knife sections impacts mower-conditioner performance in two ways. Since the knife sections, guards and knife clips are dimensioned to within .005 to .020 of an inch, even a minor difference in knife thickness can disrupt the cutting mechanism. For mower-conditioners that require thinner knife sections, Cooper recommends replacement parts that are induction-hardened — on the back edge as well as the cutting edge — for increased wear life. Thicker knife sections wear longer and are less likely to break, but using knife sections that exceed recommendations will increase the load on knife drives. Mixing knife sections of different thicknesses is not recommended.

• Quality. Usually, you get what you pay for in selecting replacement knife sections, says Cooper. Buying cheaper, lower quality parts doesn't always save you money, especially when you consider increased downtime.

Selecting the best type of knife for the job also depends on soil and crop conditions. Factors such as crop density, stringiness and moisture all decrease cutting performance and the service life of knife sections.

"Most complaints about mower conditioner performance can be traced back to improper maintenance of the cutting mechanism," says Cooper. By replacing worn or bent knife sections, farmers may avoid the hassles of reduced operation speed, increased cutting load and increased horsepower requirements.

AG QUOTE: George W. Bush, governor of Texas, said at the Texas Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association Convention, "Environmental policy can be balanced when we remember that those who live off the land are those who want to protect the land the most."

ICA fights livestock tax notion in Austin

The Independent Cattlemen's Association of Texas (ICA) is stepping up its efforts to keep a tax on livestock from becoming a reality.

The new levy is being considered by state lawmakers in Austin as a way to help balance the state budget. That, say ICA leaders who have made fighting the proposal their top priority during the current legislative session, is unjustified.

"Paying your fair share of taxes is one thing, but shoving a livestock tax down our throats to pay for state and federal mandates is not only unfair, it's absurd," said ICA Executive Director Charles Carter.

Carter said ICA is working closely with lawmakers and other state leaders at the State Capitol as part of an active lobbying campaign aimed at killing the proposed tax. ICA's most recent salvo came as its members packed a hearing room where the House Agriculture and Livestock Committee was meeting to discuss the issue and a related proposal that would give the commission new powers to levy administrative penalties.

"For the last 25-plus years, no one stepped forward to compensate producers for millions of dollars in lost revenue they suffered to comply with laws and regulations many felt unnecessary and burdensome," said ICA President Jim Selman, testifying before the committee. "Hundreds of producers have been driven out of business trying to comply with untested regulations and mandatory federal mandates."

"We have spent millions getting where we are today. Let's not throw more money down the drain by asking producers to pay additional fees for regulatory programs they don't want," said Selman, who ranches near Gonzales.

The notion of a livestock tax grew out of a directive from the Legislature in 1993. At that time, the Legislature ordered the Texas Animal Health Commission to develop recommendations on how the state could impose "user fees" on a broad range of animal species, including cattle, poultry and exotic livestock. The fees would be designed to produce the $8 million spent annually by the commission on animal health services such as brucellosis testing, a federally mandated program.

ICA has long maintained that the objective of the commission is to protect the general public, not to provide services to cattle producers. Thus, the public, not only producers, should pay for this benefit. The majority of the commission's budget currently comes from the state's general revenue fund, with all Texans' tax dollars sharing in the cost to help ensure wholesome food products for consumers.

During his testimony, Selman also questioned the need to grant the Animal Health Commission authority to assess administrative fines. "Why do we need more government programs, more regulatory bureaucracy, more state agencies threatening producers to jump immediately or face unrealistic daily fines?" said Selman.

"Neither the Animal Health Commission, livestock producer groups nor any other group have requested these proposed changes," he added. "Today, the commission is achieving its goals set by both federal and state governments. They have been able to reduce their agency size, budget and overhead through good leadership by the commissioners and staff, but more importantly, because of producer cooperation and teamwork. Let's not dampen this success and cooperation in the coming years."

Carter said ICA will maintain its strong opposition to a livestock tax and administrative penalties as the proposals make their way through the legislative process.

ICA represents nearly 7,000 cow-calf producers in Texas.

Terraces: Why Parallel?

To be accepted, today's terrace systems must be as modern as the equipment which farms the land, as valuable as the soil they protect, and as desirable as we have the know-how to make them. Until the past few years, most terraces were built with a prescribed grade that resulted in highly irregular spacing between ridges and a greater number of point rows. Although they have done a good job, many of the older systems are not acceptable in today's high-speed farming.

Parallel terraces are used so that we may make the land more farmable. Terraces with good farmability are: 1. parallel wherever possible, 2. spaced to fit the equipment used in the area, 3. planned and built with a cross-section which does not make farming difficult, and 4. planned to provide access to all parts of the terraced field.

Another objective is to improve the topography of the land. Many fields are moderately eroded and should have been terraced years ago. Therefore, the field is now cut up by small rills and gullies and the general topography is no longer smooth. We will improve the topography if we apply terraces which are fairly straight and smooth, staking the terrace lines straight across the minor rills. After the terraces are built, there will be some soil movement in the terrace interval, both by equipment and by water; however, any soil which moves in the future works for us rather than against us.

Grassed Waterways Control Runoff Water

No matter how many soil conservation practices you have on your farm, heavy rainstorms often bring more water than the land can absorb. When this happens, the surplus water runs off with considerable force and causes serious erosion.

Controlling runoff water from cropland is a major problem on most farms. Terraces collect water from a large area and concentrate it in a small area where the erosive force is multiplied many times. For this reason, it is very important that waterways are built and established to grass before terraces are built. Like other soil and water conservation measures, grassed waterways must be properly designed if they are to be successful. They must have ample capacity to handle peak runoff water to prevent damage to waterways or surrounding land.

The best location for waterways are in the natural watercourses or depressions in the field. Many times these depressions can easily be made into a good waterway with little or no shaping before grass is planted or sodded. Natural watercourses which are badly gullied must be filled and shaped to provide the desired capacity to confine the water and remove it from the cropland at a safe velocity.

Grass waterways will pay off quickly if you will only put them to work. In addition to controlling soil erosion, they can easily produce additional grazing or several tons of hay per acre as an additional bonus when properly managed.

A Sodbuster's Sentiment

The farmer was the first man, and all historic nobility rests on possession and use of land.

It's War!

Once bitten, twice shy? No way, Jose!

When a swarm of fire ants stung their way up the leg of D. L. Turner of Marshall, Texas, they didn't know they were biting off more than they could chew!

Along with a white-hot trail of pain and pustules, they bit off a declared war that led D. L. Turner to a product he calls aaNKILL 44TM, and that's had news for those bad-tempered creatures.

Now, eradicating them is tops on Turner's mind. "Little devils," the 47-year old mutters, as he drenches a mound with a bucket of his aaNKILL 44TM ant killing potion.

Snuffing out fire ants is a matter of passionate interest from West Texas to Georgia, and northward to Virginia.

There are about 157 chemicals registered for control of fire ants, none of which works consistently, safely. Turner's aaNKILL 44 is new, "it works," says Turner, "and it's not toxic."

His hatred of fire ants is downright and definitely personal. When their mound is stepped on, fire ants greet the intruder quickly and en masse. While holding onto him with their powerful front jaws, the reddish ants, which are roughly a quarter-inch long, strike again and again with their backside stingers. About 26,000 bite victims seek medical help annually. And, over the years, about 50 people have died. Fire ants' venom actually is, by weight, more powerful than cobra venom.

Finally, there is Marshall's Mr. Turner. He was making a comfortable living as a carpenter before killing fire ants became his obsession. After he stepped on the ant mound in his yard, he tried every insecticide he could buy. He smothered, flooded and torched the mounds. Still, new ones kept popping up.

In desperation, he attacked one huge colony with a fire extinguisher one day. That "froze" the ants long enough for Mr. Turner to dig a pit beside it and install a piece of Plexiglas that allowed him to watch his tormentors at work. "I didn't have the foggiest idea what I was doing," says Mr. Turner, who then began experimenting with various homemade ant killing brews. Nothing seemed to work until one day, out of frustration and convenience, Mr. Turner scrambled out of his pit and relieved himself on the mound. The ants were stunned, and Mr. Turner decided he was onto some thing.

After experimenting with cattle urine, he moved to household ammonia. Both killed ants. A little turpentine seemed to improve results, and soon Mr. Turner had mixed-in sugar, assorted mint oils and enough food coloring to turn the unrelentingly pink as a strawberry milkshake.

The concentrate, which he calls aaNKILL 44, fetches $40 a gallon in stores and by mail. And Mr. Turner claims to have sold about 10,000 gallons of the stuff, which he mixes up in big plastic tanks in a warehouse in the woods outside Marshall.

To promote it, he crisscrosses East Texas these days, placing "Fire Ant Free Zone" signs big as tombstones over mounds he has treated.

Native to Brazil, fire ants arrived in the U.S. early in this century as stowaways in the port of Mobile, Alabama. Although cold weather has pretty much deterred their invasion of Northern states, Southern repair crews are constantly being called out to replace electrical transformers, telephone cables and air conditioners ruined by the marauding ant hordes. Attracted to electrical current, they munch through insulation, gum up switches and, by their sheer numbers, cause electrical circuits to arc and short out.

Thriving on oils of all types, fire ants invade honeybee hives, suck the life from bird and reptile eggs and swarm over newborn livestock and wildlife. And when they aren't boring through fields of corn, potatoes or sugar cane on their own, they sometimes tend herds of plant-sucking aphids, an other insect pest. "The ants go out and milk these things," says Mr. Lockley. "It's like a dairy farm."

Once the ants put down roots, getting rid of them is a major feat. A colony can include half a million insects and a network of tunnels that stretches several feet in all directions. A mound isn't dead until its queen is killed, and, at the first sign of danger, many ants will rush out to repel the invader while others carry the queen and her eggs to safety. It doesn't help that fire ants can fly. Root them out of one mound and an airborne queen is likely to start another nearby. They can even mate in flight.

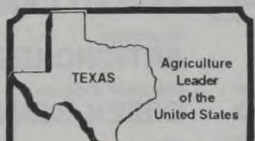

People in Marshall, an oil and agricultural center in the thick piney woods of East Texas, have tried to take their infestation in stride. They even put on an annual Fire Ant Festival.

Nothing seems to give him more pleasure than mixing up a batch and demonstrating its power. And as if to prove his contention that the product is harmless to humans, he gulps down a mouthful.

"Just right," he says, with a satisfied smile.
