VOLUME IX

MUENSTER, TEXAS, COOKE COUNTY, FRIDAY, JULY 27, 1945

NUMBER 36

In his daily syndicated article of homespun philosophy Albert E. Wiggam claims that men can live more successfully without women than women can without men. He bases his view on the fact that in 1935 40,000 unemployed men of Argentina established a community for men only and managed to be self supporting without charitable help. "You can scarcely imagine 40,000 women doing this," he concludes.

Obviously he did not imagine enough. Otherwise he'd have realized that there are thousands of convents scattered over the world, with a membership considerably in excess of 40,000 which manage to get along well without the help or companionship of men, just as there are monasteries that get along without women.

It's a lot of hokey that women need men and vice versa, but it must be conceded that as a general rule either sex seems to do considerably better with the cooperation and companionship of the other.

Something worth watching for is the outcome of a lawsuit at Asheville N.C. filed by a textile company against the CIO for damages sustained during a strike last February. At the same a contract was in effect between the company and CIO providing there would be no strike, slow down, sit down, picketing or any of the other well known coercive methods of organized labor. But the strike was called anyway and as a result the company listed losses in spoilage, protective expense and needless plant charges and overhead for which the strikers were directly responsible.

Now the question is will the courts sustain the company's claim? There have been plenty of cases of employers held liable when unions presented their claims for alleged losses. Will just apply the other way? If so industry may have a defense against labor racketeers of the future.

It's an old custom for union dictators to press the demands at just the time when idleness incurs a tremendous loss on the employer. That puts industry on the spot. But this case if decided against CIO may set a wholesome precedent.

Labor has come of age in this country and should be expected soon to recognize a few responsibilities along with all the rights it demands. Conversely, it's time for the courts to recognize that the employer is entitled to a few rights with all his responsibilities.

Apparently as an aftermath to the controversy over a 25 per cent raise for congressmen, someone comments on the injustice of paying only $10,000 a year to men whose income in private business was $100,000 a year or more. A good point, but it applies the other way too. Congress has quite a number of men who never made a success of a private business venture. To pay them more than they are worth might be considered another injustice.

It has been argued many a time that we could expect more efficient administration if the salaries of key government positions were increased sufficiently to attract more capable men. As it is men of exceptional ability, the very ones we would rather have in charge of public affairs prefer the greater opportunities of private enterprise.

There is a solution to this problem. By eliminating a lot of tape and getting rid of a few million surplus personnel the government can manage substantial increases for essential people and still save hundreds of millions on the total payroll. Give us a streamlined efficient government. We'd appreciate the decreased interference as much as the decreased expense.

It seems as though two Russian pencil pushers got even with William L. White for his uncompromising remarks in "Report on the Russians". They even went him one better in securing our own government's official stamp of approval on the article, which is a lot more than White was able to get from the Soviet Union. And, adding insult to injury, they chose White's own section of the country as the object of their belittling remarks.

The remarks, however, aren't what peeve the midwesterners most. As typical Americans they are willing to laugh off a foreigner's absurdities about their favorite stopping ground. But they don't like the idea of an OK on such obvious misinformation by a tax supported agency in this country — especially an agency whose only justification for existence is to guard against misstatements and adverse propaganda.

Parochial High School Being Remodeled
Workmen began this week on enlarging and remodeling Sacred Heart High School building which has grown too small for the number of scholastics anticipated for the coming year. There were seventy four students last term and with 37 graduating from the 8th grade at the close of the past school year, attendance is expected to jump to 100 for the next term. When completed, the building will have ample room for 100 students. The four rooms are being enlarged to 30 by 23 feet and the overall length will be 65 feet. Design and materials used will follow as closely as possible that of the present structure. One room will be the library and typing room, the three others classrooms. Thirty new steel desk chairs have been purchased and everything is expected to be completed by the first of September, or shortly thereafter so that the opening of the new school year will find everything in order.

This improvement, Father Thomas, pastor, says will take care of high school needs for the present and the next several years. After the new church is completed, plans call for the erection of a handsome high school building, one that can take its place beside a beautiful new church and the present fine grade school building.

Propose Vote On Permanency Of Camp Howze
Every Property Tax Paying Citizen Of County Is Eligible

Members of a special committee appointed by President Emmett Curtiz of the Gainesville Chamber of Commerce, will seek approval by the board of directors for a mail referendum to determine the sentiment of Cooke county citizens on a proposal to seek establishment of a permanent military installation on the present site of Camp Howze.

The committee was appointed after L.A. Wilke, chamber manager, reporting on his recent return from Washington, said military authorities had told him that Gainesville and Cooke county want a permanent camp, it would be well to file a resolution to that effect with the War Department.

Under the proposal adopted by the committee when it met Friday afternoon, each property tax paying citizen would be asked to indicate whether or not he or she favors the Chamber of Commerce passing resolutions requesting the War Department to establish a permanent camp.

The citizens would vote on a postcard ballot and would mail it to the Chamber of Commerce, after having signed the ballot.

Whether or not the election will be held in this manner had not been definitely decided this week and another meeting of the committee, to take place soon, is to determine if this procedure will be followed.

The election hinges on the board's approval of an appropriation from the postwar fund of the chamber, to finance the cost of the referendum, estimated at from $20 to $250 for postage, stationery and labor. There are an estimated 7,000 property tax paying citizens in the county, it was learned from the county tax collector's office.

Members of the committee present at the session included a group of Gainesville men and Mayor J. M. Weinzapfel of this city.

STATE AND COUNTY TAX COLLECTIONS OVER $320,000

Approximately 96.51 per cent of state and county taxes for the year 1944 have been collected, according to Tom Hayes, county tax collector.

State and county taxes assessed for that year amounted to $314,376.93 and of this amount $303,424.48 have been collected. This does not include delinquent taxes collected, which would, added to above figures, give a total of more than $320,000 for the year, or 102.6 per cent.

These figures represent an increase over the year of 1943, when taxes amounted to $268,156.33 or 95.71 per cent were collected.

This percentage of collection is good, Mr. Hayes believes, who adds that total tax collections for 1945 are expected to be higher, due to an increase in the state tax rate and an expected increase in county tax valuations.

Tax rate for the county has not yet been set but the rates for 1943 and 1944 were the same, though the state rate in 1944 was some higher in 1943.

State auditors have praised the tax collector's office for the completeness of records kept, making their work more expeditious.

CLEANING METAL LAMP BASES

When it comes to keeping metal lamp bases clean, Miss Myrtle Fahsbender, director of Home Lighting for Westinghouse, has found from experience that the following directions give the best results on all except chrome: Dust base with a soft dry cloth. Apply thin coat of wax. Let stand a few moments, then rub off wax with a soft dry cloth. Liquid polish is taboo as it frequently removes the lacquer finish. A metal base that has corroded must be replated.

F. E. Schmitz Motor Co. Opens In Lovely New Building

Former Muenster Man Started In Gainesville 6 Years Ago In Small Way

The F. E. Schmitz Motor Company, Plymouth and DeSoto Dealers, opened officially for business in the firm's new and modern home at 325 North Commerce Street in Gainesville, Friday, July 20.

The new structure is erected on the site formerly occupied by Snow Laundry which burned some time ago. It covers 10,000 square feet of floor space and extends through an entire block. The front is attractively designed with large plate glass sections trimmed with black tile.

The show room covers 2,000 square feet, with the floor of asphalt tile, and is illuminated with fluorescent lights. The parts department, 25 by 32 feet, carries the most complete stock of Chrysler factory-engineered products of any automotive business in Cooke county. Completing the front portion are two modernly equipped offices, one for the bookkeeping department and a private office for Mr. Schmitz.

The large workshop which covers 4,250 feet of floor space is equipped with the latest mechanical tools, and skilled mechanics with years of experience have the facilities to put any make of car in running order.

In the rear of the building is the body department, 35x34 feet, fully equipped to look after the body needs of cars and trucks. Enroute as a new piece of equipment for the shop is a $3,500 frame-straightening machine, the only one in Cooke or adjoining counties, it is said.

Tiled rest rooms have been provided for men and women.

Frank E. Schmitz, 32, adopted son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Schmitz of this city, has spent most of his life in the automotive business. He was connected with Herr Motor company here for a number of years and was then employed by the J. B. Townsley Motor company in Gainesville for three years.

He started in business for himself in May 1939 in a small building on North Dixon street in Gainesville, his firm being known as North Texas Motors. Floor space was small and for special tools, he said he had only a screw driver, a tire pump and a lug wrench. In November of the same year he started branching out, bought equipment, improved facilities and operated a up to date service department.

Then came a call to the Army and the necessity of disposing of his business. However, before the call for induction came, the ruling regarding men who became 30 years of age went into effect, and he was ready again to start over in the same line of business. He opened again, this time in a building at the corner of Rusk and Main street, where he operated until he had the opportunity to buy larger quarters.

In September, 1944, he purchased the lot on which the Snow Laundry had burned, and started making plans for the modern structure which he opened officially on July 20.

Mr. Schmitz is married and has one daughter. They live at 507 South Dixon street. He is active in work of the Knights of Columbus and is grand knight of the Gainesville council.

Experienced Personnel
 Frank Savage who has 27 years of experience in the automotive business is in charge of the part department where thousands of dollars worth of parts for Plymouth, DeSoto, Dodge and Chrysler cars are stocked. His assistant is David Sturm who has two years of experience in this work.

The mechanical department is headed by Ellis Stockwell, who has 20 years of experience in Gainesville shops as well as in his own. Another skilled workman in the shop is Andrew A. Weinzapfel, formerly associated with Buick Motor company in Evansville, Ind., and Detroit, Mich. He has 20 years of experience and moved here last month. Kenneth Robertson is another employee and Rex Edwards, Negro, is the firm's porter.

Miss Julia Vandiver is the firm's bookkeeper. Her experience covers a period of 12 years, 7 in Oklahoma and 3 with another Gainesville business before joining the Schmitz personnel.

Mr. Schmitz invites the public to visit him and inspect his new business house and equipment.

Used Fats Are Badly Needed

With the national stockpile lower than at any time in two years and demand at peak levels, all local homemakers are asked to salvage and turn in every drop of used fats, according to F. W. Underwood, district representative, CCC's office of supplies.

Ordinarily the army has been collecting two pounds of used fat per soldier per month to add to the national backlog but with millions overseas and many millions more scheduled to go, this source can no longer be counted on as great contributor to the national deficit.

This means more responsibility has been shifted to homemakers already faced with the wartime responsibility of saving 250 million pounds of used fats this year.

Your Health

Austin, Texas. — "Environmental sanitation is the public health term for clean, safe housekeeping whether it applies to a private home and its surroundings or to towns and cities. Among other things, it insures safe drinking water, proper garbage and sewage disposal, the safe service of wholesome food including milk, rat and insect control, and general cleanliness of the premises. However, for environmental sanitation to be effective, it is essential that not only public health officials but the citizens living in their respective homes or operating establishments serving the public cooperate wholeheartedly with the local sanitation policy," declared Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

"Consider, for example, the seasonal housefly hazard. It has been determined that 120 eggs are laid by a single female at one time and that a generation is produced every ten days at summer temperature. Thus, the possibility of reproduction during the warm months of a single fly runs into many millions. While the housefly does not bite, it is dangerous because it breeds and feeds upon both filth and food.

Again, rats are the source of several diseases of man including plague, typhus fever, infectious jaundice and trichinosis to mention some of the more important ones. Homes can be made comparatively ratproof by removing rubbish and garbage accumulations, and by closing avenues of access. Approved poisons and traps should be employed when a real problem presents itself.

"Removal of containers of stagnant water such as tin cans and barrels will do much to eliminate the mosquito for householders. The householder needs to devote more seasonal attention to mosquito eradication than he is to day if this is to be properly controlled.

Keep Spoiled Foods From Poultry Says County Agent

Don't let turkeys and chickens eat spoiled foods, B.T. Haws, County Agent for the A. and M. College Extension Service, warns producers. Birds which eat decaying foods are subject to a disease called botulism, or limberneck. The warning is timely because the disease already has appeared in turkey flocks in many parts of Texas. Turkey raisers especially are cautioned to watch for this common ailment and deal with it promptly. The symptoms, which appear a few hours after the diseased material is eaten, take the form of physical weakness. Affected birds are wobbly and may lose complete control of the use of their legs. Wings usually droop, and the neck may become limp. Along with these conditions, a sick bird may go into a coma in the later stage of the disease. Body feathers of chickens may become loosened, but this symptom is not usual in turkeys. Haws quotes Dr. J.P. Delaplane, poultry pathologist for the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, that the disease is caused by poisons which are produced when the botulism bacteria are present in decayed plant or animal materials. That means, he explains, that spoiled or moldy feed always should be avoided and that carcasses of dead chickens or turkeys should be disposed of promptly. Haws urges that all food which might contain the botulism organism be kept away from turkeys and chickens. This is the surest preventive of the disease. But if an outbreak should occur in a flock move the birds immediately to a new feeding ground. At the same time any feed suspected having become moldy should be replaced with fresh feed. If necessary fences should be built to keep birds from old range which is suspected of being contaminated.

Sick birds should be moved to a cool, shady place and their crops flushed out with warm water. They also may be given large doses of mineral oil.

Federal Crop Insurance On Winter Wheat

Federal crop insurance on winter wheat will be offered for sale soon in every winter wheat producing county, according to J.T. Biffle Jr., Chairman of the Cooke County AAA Committee.

During recent weeks, Federal Crop Insurance Corporation representatives, AAA Committee men, and other sales agents have held meetings in every county to set up sales and administrative organizations.

This will be the first opportunity since 1943 for Cooke County farmers to obtain all-risk insurance on winter wheat.

"We expect to contact every wheat grower so that he will have an opportunity to take advantage of this non-profit insurance which protects his crop investment", Mr. Biffle said. "Farmers wanting information before they are contacted by an agent should get in touch with their county AAA office."

Under the winter wheat insurance, farmers have a choice of two contracts, each for 3 years. One offers coverage up to 75 percent of the average yield — the other up to 50 percent. The amount of coverage varies with the stage of the crop's development. Premiums are payable annually by cash or by premium notes.

Any person with an interest in a winter wheat crop may apply for crop insurance through the county AAA office or a sales agent appointed by the county AAA committee.

The deadline for receiving applications in Cooke County is August 31, 1945 or before the crop is seeded, whichever is earlier.

Car Dealers Need Authorizations

Approximately one-third of the warranty car dealers in the Fort Worth district, of which Cooke county is a part, have applied for authorization under the new amendments making applications mandatory, according to the district Office of Price Administration.

If the remaining dealers file their applications after July 15 they may suffer serious delay after the August 1 deadline, it was said.

Any warranty sale, made after August 1, without proper code number being shown on the certificate of transfer, will be in violation of the regulation and will result in the sale price being reduced to an "as is" basis, it was explained.

Price panels will be required to forward any certificate of transfer not showing the code number to the district office on the date they are received. This precludes any local price panel action, and places the case in the hands of the enforcement division of handling officials explained.

NAVY TO GRANT 30 DAY LEAVES TO MEN OVERSEAS 24 MONTHS

DALLAS, TEX.—Commanding officers of ships and stations outside the continental limits of the United States are now permitted to grant leave of 30 days in the United States to officers and men of the Navy who have not been in the United States for 24 months, as a result of instructions just issued by the Secretary of the Navy.

Whether or not leaves are granted will depend upon the personnel needs of the individual ship or station. Granting of leaves is solely within the discretion of commanding officers. The degree to which this policy may be carried out will depend upon whether or not eligible personnel may be spared from their duties.

The instructions stipulate that the number of personnel absent on leave from any ship or station at any one time shall not exceed five percent of total personnel, and that replacements for men on leave will not be furnished.

Travel time will be allowed in addition to the thirty days of leave.

It is estimated that between 8,000 and 12,000 officers and men may receive leaves monthly as the result of this policy.

MOOS OF THE MOMENT

BY UNCLE BOB
of the Kraft Dairy Farm Service

"The mower the merrier," said the dairyman as he started clipping his pastures. Mow the weeds, udderwise your milk pail may prove to be udderly empty. (After reading that over the idea is offered that maybe what Uncle Bob needs is a good long rest.)

The sound of the mower in your pastures about this time of year is music to your cows, sure enough. Ragweed, goldenrod, thistles, burdock, dog fennel, bitterweed and other pests are now ripe for another clipping.

Clipping pastures at the right time not only keeps weeds from seeding and therefore spreading, but actually increases the food value to the cows. Tests showed about a 50 per cent increase in the amount of forage when a pasture was clipped.

Grass gets a healthier growth when weeds are kept down. If you let weeds go you may have to get a posse out to find your cows about this time next year.

How to get more milk and lower cost of production by lengthening the grazing season is the main subject for discussion in the July-August Kraftman, published for Kraft patrons. You surely won't want to miss the articles on fall and spring grazing pastures. If you are not getting the Kraftman regularly, write Uncle Bob at 500 Peshigo, Chicago 90, Ill., and I'll mail you a copy.

More "hay days" on the farm this summer will mean more "hey-day" for your cows next winter. Weather conditions have been somewhat unsettled and grain prospects are uncertain so I hope you will be sure that your hay supply will be sufficient to take your cows through the winter.

The extension services are generally agreed that a cow needs from one and one-half to two tons of high quality hay per year, when you have sufficient grain, silage and concentrate to round out the animal's diet.

It's pretty hard right now to forecast exactly what quantity of grain will be available next fall and winter. So, if you can get an additional ton of hay per cow put away, you may save yourself some worry and some extra cost, too, next winter.

Most of the hay I saw in recent weeks looked pretty good and indications seem to point to a fairly sizeable crop, at least where I've been traveling. I hope you can take advantage of good yields and get a big supply on hand.

Here's a good idea which comes from a squirrel: it buries nuts, for winter food supply, and you can "bury" some silage for your cows' winter food supply.

This is a good time to check your silo, make sure it is sound. And it's a good time also to make space for an additional supply of silage.

If you are not building another silo, there are quite a few types of temporary silos which will hold the extra cow feed you may need next winter.

Trench, box-type, native lumber, slat fence, baled straw and other such temporary structures give very satisfactory results. Remember, if you use one of these, be sure that it is built so as to prevent air from getting into the silage and to keep the right amount of moisture in.

For help on this point and for instructions on how to build this additional storage space, I suggest you write for Circular 346 "Temporary Silos," Extension Service, University of Missouri, Columbia, Mo.; Circular 320, Extension Service, Oklahoma A & M College, Stillwater, Okla., or Bulletin B-84, Texas A & M College, College Station, Texas.*

NORA JANE HOUSE RALPH L. BEZNER MARRIED JULY 12

Miss Nora Jane House and Ralph L. Bezner were married in a quiet ceremony performed at Saint Mary's rectory at Gainesville on July 12. Rev. Cletus Post, priest-in-charge, read the double ring ceremony in the presence of immediate relatives and close friends of the couple.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John House of Era and Mr. Bezner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bezner of Lindsay.

A power blue dress with white accessories was worn by the bride and her flowers were a shoulder corsage of white gardenias. Miss Elfrida Bezner, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor, wearing a black costume with white accessories and a corsage of pink gladioli. Eugene Schmitz of Gainesville was best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Bezner went on a short trip and have returned to Gainesville to make their home. He is employed there following a recent discharge from the army air corps. Mrs. Bezner has been employed at Boyd and Breeding Studio.

Captain Flusche by his superior planning and early continous supervision, maintained service to all units at all times.

During the three-day period of retrograde movement of the division in December amidst chaotic conditions, service was maintained to all units, and was one of very few units to maintain a current status at the Liege Army Postal Depot. Capt. Flusche by his personal inspection, satisfied himself on Christmas Eve that every parcel and letter had been processed and was on its way to the front line troops.

MUSIC FOR MILLIONS

Margaret O'Brien, that 7-year-old wonder actress, is here again. With Jimmy Durante, New York City and a great symphony orchestra form the background of this comedy of faith and love. Mike, (Margaret O'Brien) is a little lady who travels alone to New York where her sister, Barbara, (June Allison) is to meet her at Grand Central Station. But Barbara isn't there and Mike knows only that her older sister pooped wrote the article and what's the idea of releasing such bunk as reliable information to a foreign nation. Now they're angry. In the first place they don't like the idea of engaging foreign scribblers for any article which is to have an official OK. If we must have propaganda let's at least have it prepared by Americans, who are likely to impart an American flavor to it. Neither do they like such inexcusable carelessness in passing an article which, prepared by foreigners, should have been subject to especially close examination. OWI goofed off in a big way on that job.

Music For Millions, which tells about Mike's adventures, is filled with music, laughter, romance, drama and action — entertainment for millions. See it at the Relax next Sunday and Monday July 29-30.

Confetti---

After all the howling we learn that the two Soviet writers instead of investigating the subject made the mistake of consulting a few magazines and books, apparently unaware that the sources of their information is twenty or thirty years old. That's the reason for the ridiculous statement that eight midwestern states are barren and undeveloped and almost completely devoid of industry. With this explanation OWI makes a hasty flip out of the frying pan into the fire. At first midwesterners were annoyed — and a little amused too. They wanted to know what nincompoop wrote the article and what's
