Hospital Board Chooses Alternative Plan

Can Save Hospital Large Percentage Of Premiums

"Under the No-Fault system, Workmans Compensation, lawyers get 25 percent of all money the injured person receives when injured on the job," said Jim Martin when he spoke to the hospital board Tuesday night at the regular board meeting. "Under the Non-Subscription Care anyone injured here at the hospital or nursing home will stay here (Muleshoe) and receive the best of care possible, wages and etc., thus eliminating the need for lawyers and going to court," Martin continued. "It would be like a slap in the face if an employee of this facility went to a doctor or hospital out of town."

soon as possible. The board voted unanimously to accept Murphy's recommendation.

Joyline Costen, Betty Ramage, Loma Embry and Joy Stancell from Volunteer Plus, a newly organized organization, also met with the board. The question of the vending machines was once again brought up and they were all turned over to Volunteer Plus. In regard to the Memorial Fund and Donations, Bob Finney said "I would like to see the board appoint a separate committee and see if we couldn't find a workable solution."

Mrs. Embry ask where these funds would be used, some people have a specific area they want the money used. "Use them in the area requested," Finney said. Board president, Buck Campbell stated that he thought the board should have the final say as to where the money goes.

The ladies were asked to submit the names of three members of Volunteer Plus to form the committee and report back to the board.

Campbell called the regular meeting to order and the minutes were approved as read.

In other business, bids were reviewed for the surgical equipment, the board had previously voted to purchase. One bid was

Local Hospital Featured In Progressive Farmer

The following article was taken from the Progressive Farmer Magazine. The Magazine was mailed to the Journal with their permission to use any way the Journal saw fit.

Hammered by the twin blows of an oil bust and an agricultural depression, Texas suffered more rural hospital closings during the 1980's than did any other state. Between 1980 and April of this year, 65 of the state's hospitals shut their doors.

The Muleshoe Memorial Hospital nearly became a statistic in the crisis.

This hospital, in a county about 70 miles west of Lubbock, has barely 5,000 people. In 1987, the company that managed the hospital declared bankruptcy. The 31-bed facility was forced to close.

But the community of Muleshoe decided that the closing would not be the final chapter in the hospital's history. In Muleshoe and all across the country, hospitals, with support from their communities, are staging determined comebacks.

Civic leaders in Muleshoe lobbied and got the Texas Legislature to authorize a special hospital district for tax purposes. Local volunteers maintained the hospital building and facilities in operating condition. They kept Muleshoe's operating license current.

The community also adjusted to the loss of four of its six doctors. Dr. Bruce Purdy stuck it out.

"We used my clinic as an emergency room at night," Purdy recalls. "It was a struggle, but we did whatever was necessary to provide medical care."

"We told people up front exactly what their taxes would be if they approved the hospital taxing district," says Bob Finney, a local banker who is chairman of the five-member hospital board. When the ballots were counted after a record vote, 97 percent were marked "yes" in approval of the special tax.

Often perceived as shabby and outdated, rural hospitals nevertheless are a critical part of a modern medical care system. But the past decade was tough on these hospitals. From 1980 to 1990, 281 closed. Most were small, for profit, and in the south.

The so-called medicare differential is cited as a major ailment. The medicare program for the elderly reimburses rural hospitals at a lower rate than it does their urban counterparts. That's true even though rural hospitals must contend with equal or higher costs.

Congress has designed a program to ease this strain on rural hospitals. This year, medicare will repay the average rural hospital only 90 percent of the costs incurred while treating senior citizens.

Strip away the medicare problem, however, and rural hospitals would continue to close. Some rural conditions the Government cannot fix:

1. Young people are moving away. The rural population is growing older. Hospital care for the elderly is more frequent, more specialized, and more intensive.

2. Residing residents all too often bypass their local hospital for one that they perceive as providing better service.

"Communities need to do more than give lip service to their health care facilities. They need to use them not just as first-aid stations," says Byron Dockter. He is president and chief executive officer of the West River Regional Medical Center in Hettinger, N.Dak.

3. Rural folks are generally poorer than those living in urban areas. The cost of

Veterans May Bid On Forfeited State Land

Texas veterans have until August 31 to submit bids on approximately 800 tracts of forfeited state land being offered with special low-interest three percent financing. Non-veterans purchasing a tract will pay four percent.

Located in 120 counties, these tracts are part of the Tex-Trax II program which gives Texas real estate agents the exclusive right to market certain forfeited properties.

"The board will consider all offers that meet or exceed minimum bids set for each tract on a first-come, first-served basis," said David Gloier, Deputy Commissioner for the Texas Veterans Land Board.

Tracts range in size from five to 30 acres. The board will offer full financing on each property. No down payment is required and the board will offer 30-year fixed-rate financing on each tract. The buyer will be responsible for the current year's taxes only.

"The terms of this sale place owning land well within the reach of most Texans," Gloier said. "For example, the monthly payment on a $19,000 tract financed at 3 percent on a 30-year note with no down-payment would be $83.00. That's a financing package that's hard to beat."

Gloier emphasized that all offers to the Texas Veterans Land must be made through local real estate professionals.

Under the terms of the sale, agents receive up to a five percent commission on each sale paid by the buyer to the closing agent.

Those wanting a complete list of the tracts or information on submitting a bid should contact a real estate professional in their area. For more information, call 1-800-252-VETS.

Three Way School Sets Lunch Prices

The Three Way Independent School District will be serving meals each school day during the 1991-92 school year. Meals will be $.90 for lunch and $.45 for breakfast. Children may also get meals free or at a reduced price.

Families presently receiving food stamps or AFDC for their children, the children can receive free meals. "If your total household income is the same or less than the amounts on the Income Chart (available at the school), your children can get free meals or reduced price meals," said Robert Kindle, Jr. "A foster child may get free or reduced price meals regardless of your income."

"To get free or reduced price meals for your children, you must complete an application and return it to the school, Kindel continued. "We cannot approve an application that is not complete."

Kindle also stated that eligibility may be checked at any time during the school year. School officials may ask you to send papers showing that your children should get free or reduced price meals.

"You may talk to school officials if you do not agree with the school's decision on your application or the results of verification. You also may ask for a fair hearing. You may do this by calling or writing Robert Kindle, Jr. P.O. Box 79, Maple, TX 79344 or call 806-927-5560.

"If your children get free or reduced price meals because of your income, you must tell the school if your household size decreases or your income increases by more than $50 per month or $600 per year. If your children get meals because they get food stamps or AFDC, you must tell the school when you are not getting AFDC or food stamps for them. You then fill out another application giving income information," Kindel continued.

School officials use the information on the application only to decide if your children should get free or reduced price meals.

You may apply for meals anytime during the school year. If you are not eligible now but have a change, like a decrease in household income, an increase in household size, become unemployed or get food stamps or AFDC for your children, complete an application then.

In the operation of the child feeding programs, no child will be discriminated against because of race, sex, color, national origin, age or handicap. If you believe you have been discriminated against, write immediately to the Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Ali Cage Returns From Spain

Ali Cage, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.D. Cage of Muleshoe, has recently returned from a university junior year abroad in Madrid, Spain. "I experienced no culture shock. There were things I had to get used to, of course. I lived with a family, a retired couple there in Madrid," says Ali.

"The schooling I had was not the most memorable part of the trip for me," Ali says. "Traveling and being out with the Spanish people, sitting at outdoor cafes, and integrating myself into the Spanish way of life meant the most to me."

"I had never been to Europe and the modern culture and progressive nature of life there surprised me."

"Having been to Mexico, I suppose I was expecting an older Mexico, but I didn't find that," she says. "I expected quaint streets and small homes, but I was surprised," she says. "In high school I read Hemingway's 'The Sun Also Rises' and I was picturing Spain somewhat in this light."

"I have no problems adjusting to the cultural differences," Ali says as she refers to the custom of eating lunch and dinner about 2 hours later than we are accustomed to in this country.

I prepared for my experience in Spain by concentrating on making my use of Spanish more proficient." Overall, Ali found the experience a totally eye-opening one.

"Reading a book like James Michener's 'Iberia' is difficult unless you are learning about Spain through your travel and living experiences."

"Once I was really traveling and living in the country, Michener's ideas became much easier to comprehend," Ali says.

"I would like to go back to Spain, but I may travel to another foreign country before doing so."

"I fell in love with Spain," Ali says. "There is a vitality surging through the city of Madrid."

"I had a wonderful time in Spain. It was one of the most growing experiences for me. I'm convinced that travel is the best way to learn about a country."

Ali Cage was in her junior year at Austin College in Sherman, Texas when she traveled to Spain. She had the opportunity to meet the parents of Blanca Puyol, visitor in the home of Doyce and Janelle Turner this summer. Ali brought back a message to Blanca from her parents.

Former Local Resident Succeeds With Mail Delivery Service

from the Austin-Statesman
By Sarah Barnes

They're a small Austin company taking on the big guys in the world of overnight mail delivery.

Lone Star Overnight, which delivered seven pieces of mail on its inaugural flight March 4, is now flying 475 overnight letters daily to 20 Texas cities.

Managing partners Gary Gunter (formerly of Muleshoe) and W. Jackson Long, Jr. said they don't expect to put the majors out of business, but they do expect their Texas-only delivery to help them cut costs and pass that savings on to customers. Lone Star Overnight employs 60 people.

"The world doesn't need another overnight service," Gunter said. "We're mainly just in business to benefit people that send packages to other Texas cities."

The difference between Lone Star Overnight and the larger shippers, Gunter said, is that Lone Star concentrates on point-to-point service. By leaving Austin and going to each city directly, the company avoids shipping everything to a hub and saves on jet fuel and the expense of an evening mail-sorting shift, Gunter said.

Gunter and Long believe theirs is the first company to offer point-to-point, overnight mail service. They borrowed this regional approach from Southwest Airlines, they said, a company they both admire.

They figured if Southwest could make a go at a regional market with no hub, then it would work with packages night shipping rate to Lubbock as they do to New York, as is the case with some of the major shippers.

Gunter and Long, both 32, met at Texas Commerce Bank in Houston where they were loan officers. Both were interested in going into business because they came from families that had small businesses. Gunter's family was involved in irrigated farming and cattle, and Long's family was in the highway construction business.

They found many of their clients by making visits in-person, explaining how their overnight service works. The two discovered early on that print and radio advertising was not very effective because few companies wanted to entrust important mail to a delivery service they had never heard of.

Gunter said his goal is to

How To Reduce The Threat Of Cancer

According to the American Cancer Society, one out of every ten women in the United States will develop breast cancer sometime during her lifetime. Every year over 37,000 women die as a result of breast cancer.

According to a spokesman from the regional breast care center at women's and children's hospital in Odessa, Texas "The death rate from breast cancer could be drastically reduced if women would have mammograms done before a problem exists." By using modern state of the art X-ray equipment breast cancers can be found when they are about the size of a grain of rice and well before the cancer can be felt. A woman who is diagnosed with breast cancer at this early stage has a 90-97 percent survival rate. However, a woman who is not diagnosed until a lump can be felt has approximately a 50 percent survival rate in five years.

In an effort to find cancers at the earliest possible stage and prevent unnecessary deaths, a mobile breast cancer detection unit will be made available to local women on Monday, August 5.

The mobile unit will be parked at Muleshoe Area Medical Center, 708 South 1st, Muleshoe, Texas.

Appointments may be made by calling 272-4524. For more information you may call the regional breast care center at women's and children's hospital at 915-334-8888 or 561-9999.

Marsha Williams and Donald Davis United In Marriage

Marsha Elaine Williams of Odessa, Texas and Donald Sterling Davis of Odessa, Texas were married at the Primitive Baptist Church at 8 p.m. June 11 with Elders Kenneth Martin of Muleshoe and Bernard Gowens of Friona officiating.

Marsha is the daughter of Marshall and Ann Williams of Muleshoe and Donald is the son of Don and Wanda Davis of Odessa. It was a double ring ceremony.

The altar was decorated with two brass heart candleholders with greenery and peach bows. On the side were two brass candleholders with teal ribbons and greenery. Also decorating the church were two brass accordian fan floral arrangements with white, peach and teal roses, gladiolas, sweetpeas, greenery with peach ribbons. A brass unity candleholder with greenery and teal bows also accented the decorations.

Musical selections included "Friends", "Always", "O, Perfect Love", "The Lord's Prayer", "I'll Still Be Loving You."

The bride was given in marriage by Marshall and Ann Williams, her mother and father.

The bride's dress was chapel length with a white crepe back. It was satin with lace overlay on bodice. The back was a low "V" cut with a large bow on a dropped waistline.

The bride wore a fingertip length veil and a circle headpiece of small white rosebuds and pearl drops. She carried a bouquet of white roses, white baby's breath, greenery. Attached was handkerchiefs from two great-great grandmothers.

For something old, the bride carried a handkerchief from her grandmother. Something new was a pearl necklace, a gift from the groom. Something borrowed was a handkerchief belonging to a great-great grandmother. Something blue was a blue garter, a gift from her sister. The bride had pennies in each shoe representing Marsha and Donnie's respective birthyears.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Suzanne Wilhelm of Muleshoe, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Kim Williams of Lubbock, sister of the bride and Pam Short of San Angelo, friend of the bride from ASU.

Best man was Darren Davis of Odessa, brother of the groom. Groomsmen were Gregg Hagelstein of Odessa and Jeremy McCarroll of Georgetown, cousin of the groom.

Flower girl was Krystal Bass of Amherst, Ring Bearer was Richard Stephens of Midland. Ring pillow was white satin heart with lace with peach and teal roses and streamers and two gold rings attached.

Ushers were Ken Wilhelm of Muleshoe, brother-in-law of the bride, Dwayne Dale of Muleshoe and Rick Dale of Lazbudie.

Candlelighters were Ellen Strayhorn of Snyder and Carol Strayhorn of Snyder.

A rehearsal party was given June 10 at Muleshoe's Primitive Baptist Church. A bridesmaid luncheon was held June 11 at a cousin's house. It was given by an aunt of the bride and her cousin, Sandra Martin and Terrie Smith. Co-ordinator of the wedding was Sandra Martin.

The matron of honor wore a tea length peach satin dress with peach lace overlay on the bodice. She wore peach dyed shoes and carried a long stemmed single peach rose with peach and teal ribbons and baby's breath. Her hairpiece was a small arrangement of peach and teal roses and ribbons on the side. Bridesmaids wore similar dresses.

Candlelighters dresses were the same only in teal. Tea length dresses were worn by the candlelighters and teal shoes matched their dresses. Hairpieces were teal roses accented with peach roses and peach and teal ribbons and pearls.

Flower girls' dresses were the same. They were peach and floor length. The flower girls carried white lace baskets with peach and teal ribbons. They dropped peach and teal love knots and wore peach and teal hairpieces.

The bride's mother wore a lime green dress with white accessories. It was a straight dress with a shoulder drape.

The groom's mother wore a turquoise green straight dress with pleated bottom and the same color shoes and accessories.

Soloists were Jeff McGuire of San Angelo and Lee Tollison of Odessa. The pianist was Thomas Strayhorn of Snyder.

It was the third generation of Davis' to marry on June 11.

All men wore silver grey tuxedos, some with peach accessories and others with teal accessories and grey shoes. The groom wore all white and white accessories.

The reception was held at Muleshoe's Primitive Baptist Church. Registering guests was Jenny McDaniel of Muleshoe. Serving guests were Staci Morehand of Lubbock, Ashley McCarroll of Georgetown, Terrie Smith of Muleshoe, Brenda McKinney and Joan Bales of Odessa.

At the bride's table was a three layer heart shaped cake, with three heart-shaped adjoining side cakes attached with teal ribbons and cherubs, peach and teal flowers. The centerpiece was a dozen peach roses with a picture of Marsha and Donnie. Nuts, peach and teal heart shaped mints were served. The table was covered with a white lace tablecloth with peach satin underskirt. Peach colored fruit punch was served from crystal appointments.

The groom's table was covered with a white lace cloth over peach satin. The centerpiece was a bouquet of the single roses carried by bridal attendants. Served from the groom's table was a sheetcake, sausage balls, fruit and finger sandwiches.

Following a wedding trip to Florida's Disney World and a cruise to the Bahamas, the couple is at home in Odessa. The bride's traveling outfit was teal and white pasley print rayon dress with white collar trimmed with lace. She wore a peach hat and gloves and a peach corsage.

The groom wore white jeans and a teal shirt and a peach boutonniere.

The bride is a 1982 graduate of Muleshoe High School and a 1983 graduate of South Plains College, Levelland where she was a LVN graduate. She is also a 1988 graduate of A.S. U. with a B.S. in Elementary Education.

Creative Living

by: Sheryl Borden

Information on teaching children to sew and a new wheat product called SpringLife will be the featured topics on "Creative Living" on August 6 at 12 noon and Saturday, August 10 at 2 p.m. (All times are Mountain.) "Creative Living" airs on public broadcasting station KENW-TV, from Eastern New Mexico University.

Carolyn Curtis, founder of Kids Can Sew, has developed a series of patterns that actually teaches children to sew. She will explain how to set up a sewing school for children ages 6 to 16, and tell how her lines of patterns differ from commercial patterns. Ms. Curtis works in St. George, Utah.

Sylvia Schur, founder and director of Creative Food Services in New Rochelle, NY, will discuss what she calls a "revolution in the kitchen." She will talk about a new wheat product she has developed called SpringLife, and show how to incorporate it into stir-fry dishes, chili, and other recipes that normally call for meat.

On Tuesday, August 6 at 9:30 p.m. and on Thursday, August 8 at 12 noon, "Creative Living" will present information on decorating with sheets and discuss the nutritional value of peanuts.

Deborah Durham, representative of Wamsutta-Pacific Home Products, will demonstrate 5 easy-to-make decorating projects made from sheets. She is from New York City.

Tracy Moxon, a free-lance home-economist from Windsor, CO, will talk about the New Mexico Valencia Peanut, which she refers to as a "power-packed" peanut. She will also share some recipes featuring peanuts.

"Creative Living" is produced and hosted by Sheryl Borden. The show is carried on more than 100 PBS stations in the United States, Canada, Guam and Puerto Rico and is distributed by Pacific Mountain Network, Denver, CO. Viewers can request copies of materials offered on the show by sending one 29 cent stamp for each handout requested. Send the stamps, along with your name, address and booklets requested to: "Creative Living" Requests,

Dry Carpet Cleaning Technique

With the new dry carpet cleaning techniques and products available today, your carpet can always look as good as possible, without the hassles of wet cleaning.

Finally, carpets that stay clean because there's no sticky detergent residue left in the fiber. No more rusting or shadow stains that can occur when you wet clean.

No more endless waiting for carpets to dry.

It's innovative technology that makes having clean, fresh carpets easier than ever.

The Drytech system consists of a state-of-the-art machine and an advanced, dry cleaning compound called Capture. The machine dispenses and brushes Capture deep into the carpet, where it works like millions of tiny sponges, absorbing grime, dirt, grease and oil from the carpet's fiber. Minutes later, the dirt-laden Capture is ready to be vacuumed up. This provides outstanding filtration the air stream without the use of a paper or cloth filter bag.

The result is a clean, dry carpet in minutes.

Remember the last time you wet-cleaned your carpet? Was it hours or even days before it was dry enough to use the room again and replace the furniture. With dry carpet cleaning, you eliminate all the waiting.

If you've wet cleaned before, you've probably left detergent residue deep in the carpet's fiber. This sticky residue can cause resoiling and fiber damage at a much faster than normal rate.

With dry carpet cleaning methods, there is no sticky residue, thus your carpets stay clean longer.

Sometimes when you wet-clean, your carpets look really clean, but the next day a shadow stain occurs. That's wick-back...detergent and dirt residue that travel back up wet carpet fibers hours after cleaning. With dry carpet cleaning, wick-back doesn't occur.

You can even spot-clean high traffic areas without leaving watermarks, which means less work for you.

Rust can occur when you put furniture with metal feet on a carpet that's damp from wet cleaning. With dry carpet cleaning systems, problems like rust marks are things of the past.

This system of dry carpet cleaning combines all the advantages of dry cleaning in the easiest-ever way to clean your valuable carpets. In fact, it's a revolutionary advancement in carpet care.

Few persons can be as tiresome as the individual obsessed with a sense of humor.

uncompensated care, services for which no payments are made, averaged $500,000 per hospital in 1987.

4. Hospitals are handling many more people as outpatients. Lengthy hospital stays are rarer.

For example, in 1974, the Prairie Du Chain Memorial Hospital in Wisconsin counted an average of 47 inpatients per day filling its beds. Today, the number is 19. Back then, the hospital performed 6,990 outpatient procedures. Last year, it counted 139,364.

for $46,000 and another was $44,215. With the $46,000 bid it could take up to 60 months to pay it. If paid in a short time, November, there is no penalty. It can also be delivered in 48 hours. Murphy stated that Dr. Dixon had reviewed it and was favorable.

Murphy gave a financial report for both the hospital and nursing home.

It was noted that the average daily census at the nursing home was 44.5. A number of residents have been admitted in the last three weeks, and the last two rooms had been rented Tuesday. As of Tuesday, the Health care Center had a total of 53 residents.

One other item of business, that of FmHA requirements was tabled until a later date.

With no other business the board members went into executive session.

only on the numbers--the hospital closings, the number of beds lost. The medical issue in rural America today isn't hospital beds. The closing of a rural hospital is not always a disaster.

Rural America can't always support the beds already available. Most of the hospitals that close are in counties that have other hospitals and high ratios of beds to population. Eighty percent of rural hospitals are within 30 miles of another hospital.

When Congress's Office of Technology Assessment surveyed hospital administrators who had closed their facilities, 70 percent cited competition as a key factor.

The problem of rural hospitals locking their doors may even be easing. It is true that the red ink still flows at many rural hospitals. More than a third (35) percent of them lost money in 1989. But in 1990, only 28 closed, compared with 44 the year before. Half of the 42 rural hospitals that closed in 1987 had reopened to some degree by May 1989.

Three health care issues surround rural hospitals, according to Mike Didier, administrator for the 87-bed Manning General Hospital in Manning, Iowa. Those issues are access, cost, and quality.

Rural hospitals are going down many roads in search of answers to these issues. But they are using four restructuring strategies with success: affiliation, networking, specialization and diversification.

Blackeye Pea Harvest Provisions,

Skip Row Cotton Rules Pass House

U.S. Representative Larry Combest (R-Texas) announced today's (July 31) passage of improvements he supports in the 1990 Farm Bill, including Combest's provision aiding the charitable donation of black-eyed peas, as well as another measure designed to assist farmers who employ skip row cotton planting techniques. Both measures are contained in H.R. 3029, "Food, Agriculture, Conservation and Trade Act Amendments of 1991," which was approved by a vote of 417 to 5, and now goes to the Senate.

"My legislation permits the mechanized harvest of black-eyed peas for donation to food banks," said Combest. "I urge the Senate to follow through with this common-sense solution that gives food to the needy and charitable benefits to conservation set-aside land."

Combest also worked for the successful inclusion of a provision to require the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) to allow rows skipped from planting to be credited as conserving use acreage for pay for cotton and other commodities. The measure also prohibits USDA from requiring a minimum of four normal rows or 150 inches from plant to plant in order to qualify, and restores prior rules for skip row planting.

"These adjustments to the 1990 Farm Bill reflect fairness for the producers who wisely managed land set aside for conservation," said Combest. "Skip row planting is a proven soil and water conservation method. This change will enable farmers to utilize the skip-row planting practice widely used by producers in West Texas."

August Food Marketwatch

By Mary Mahoney

Discounts on some beef, pork and poultry cuts--and numerous produce items--are in store for Texas consumers in August.

Dr. Dick Edwards of College Station, a food marketing expert with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said consumers will have a wider selection of quality products in both the meats and produce sections.

"Consumers have been expecting retail beef prices to come down for some time when large numbers of fed cattle were marketed," Edward said. "It appears that this will not happen until later in the year, since cattle supplies coming to market thus far have been well managed."

He said there will be numerous August beef specials, but the overall level of prices will not decline. Greatest discounts will be on the large family packs and full loin cuts that are priced less per pound and offer considerable savings.

"Lesser discounts will be offered on standard sized packages of round steak, sirloin, chuck and ground beef," Edwards said.

He said pork prices will begin a slight downward trend because of an oversupply that is expected to last through the fall months.

"This situation will provide consumers with a wide range of particularly on vegetables for salads. "The most popular salad ingredients are still lettuce and tomatoes, both now in abundant supply. Those wishing to add fresh yellow squash or cucumbers will find these items also discounted," Edward said.

"Consumers also will find green beans, cabbage, broccoli, egg plant, cauliflower and okra on special," he said. "But the king of August produce will be sweet corn, and prices of $1 a dozen ears should not be hard to find."

Edward said cantaloupes, honeydew melons, watermelons, nectarines, plums and peaches still will be available, but he advised to shop for these early since supplies will be reduced as the month progresses.

"Making a big splash during August will be grapes and pears from California and blueberries from Michigan and New Jersey," he said.

Other sale items during the month will be salad dressings, pasta salads that are served cold, soft drinks, tea, lemonade and all types of ice cream products.

Canning and freezing supplies also will be discounted for people wanting to take advantage of the ample stocks of fruits and vegetables presently being featured. However, canned good also will be on special late in the month to clear space for the new crop foods.

A mid-August blitz is expected on school supplies, with these being among advertised specials. Seasonal merchandise also to be greatly reduced will be lawn care items, lawn chairs, coolers and sunglasses, Edwards said.

Note to the college graduate: The world is all wet; don't burn up all your energy trying to set it on fire.

A THIRSTY LAND

Men have a thirst and a longing for goodness and righteousness. Even the most parched soul is touched by acts of kindness, forgiveness, and love. Jesus said, "Whosoever drinketh of the water that I shall give him shall never thirst; but the water that I shall give him shall be in him a well of water springing up into everlasting life."

May all who are thirsty for a oneness with man and with God find satisfaction and fulfillment by attending church

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

G.T.E. To Aid Economic Development In Texas Cities

A new computer software program to help spur economic development in Texas, and the training needed to use the system, have been presented to 18 cities in the state by GTE Telephone Operations-Central Area.

"Forte" puts cities on the same technology level as the industries they are trying to attract," said Andrew F. Brown, director of economic development for GTE. "It's the information management tool they need to develop strategies that match the region's strengths for attracting new development and encouraging expansion."

Forte' programs, and the training for city and/or county staff to apply it, have been established in Brownfield, Colleyville, Denton, Garland, Grapevine, Keller, Lamesa, Levelland, Lewisville, Littlefield, Mount Vernon, Plano, Rowlett, Sachse, Southlake, Sulphur Springs, Winnsboro and Wylie.

"Forte" is a 'hands-on' economic development tool that conducts a computer study of community factors which can lead to increased economic investment," Brown continued. "The software lists hundreds of industries and provides details on their geographic locations and projected trends, linking various cities in Texas more closely with potential developers around the country."

The Forte' studies will provide such information as an assessment of a city's or county's growth potential; the area's advantages for attracting new investment; demographic and marketing data; retention of local jobs; sources of alternative financing; and the prospects for start-up ventures in specific industries.

"Forte" offers more than 10 built-in databases--from industrial growth forecasts to a census of manufacturers--as well as the ability to install county-specific information," Brown noted. "The customized proposals available from Forte' will give Texas cities an edge in the global economic marketplace. And, of course, any industries these cities are able to attract, or influence toward expansion, will have a beneficial effect on the whole state."

"GTE is the only local telephone company with a national economic development strategy," Brown said. "GTE recognizes jobs are the lifeblood of the communities we serve. Forte' will greatly enhance these cities' ability to attract new jobs and retain those they already have."

Brown said GTE chose cities in Texas for the Forte' program because these cities are committed to economic development, have professional capabilities and a willingness to incorporate new and creative methods toward enhancing their appeal for increased investment.

In partnership with the cities, GTE provided the Forte' software, training for city personnel to use it and financial assistance toward upgrading the cities' computer hardware to accommodate Forte'.

GTE also has formed a partnership with economic development organizations to establish Forte' in Idaho, Indiana, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Virginia and Washington State.

"The communities selected vary in size, economic base, growth status and potential," Brown said. "We believe this software can serve as a positive strategic planning tool for all types of communities and economic circumstances. Our distribution of Forte' reflects GTE's commitment to economic development within the communities and states where we operate."

GTE Central Area was formed in March 1991, effective with the merger of GTE Corporation and Contel.
