VOL. 49 BROWNWOOD, TEXAS, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1930 NUMBER 46

NOTE IN FAVOR PRESENT ROUTE HIGHWAY NO. 10

It was definitely decided at a meeting of the directors of the Highway No. 10 Association in Brownwood Wednesday afternoon that the route of that highway should remain as now designated and not include Menard in the list of control points. Menard had a petition before the group asking that the road be rerouted to include that town.

Because of bad roads the Menard delegation was unable to attend the meeting and in a telephone conversation Hilton Burks was asked to present their request before the directors.

After the matter had been presented by Mr. Burks R. A. Thompson, director from Dallas suggested that no definite action be taken on the Menard question at present and that they be given a chance to appear before the body. He stated that in his opinion there was nothing that should be considered very closely.

Ed McRae of Fort Worth declared that he believed that no hasty action as to the situation should be taken and that the matter should be considered for some time before anything was done.

Questions were asked by J. W. Hutt of Rock Springs said that he did not believe the association had the power to act on the matter now as the route had already been chosen and designated by the State Highway Commission and that in his opinion there was nothing that could be done other than to retain the present road without even considering any change.

Judge Gilmer, county judge of Edwards county, stated that when the highway was designated several years ago Menard then fought the designation as it was made and that to his certain knowledge they had attempted several times to have the route changed to include their town on the road and had not been successful.

Motion by Loeffler
A. E. Loeffler of Junction, who was acting as chairman turned the meeting over to F. S. Abney and made a motion that the original route be retained. Discussion followed before the vote was taken.

During the discussion Mr. McRae said that speaking for the highway committee of the chamber of commerce of Fort Worth he could say that that city would be behind any route chosen. He said that the most important consideration in the act would be the route which would be the easiest to finance.

Our organization is ready to support the route that has the best means of financing the road, but until this is determined I am in favor of letting the route stay as it is at present.

Next Representative Speaks
M. Bethel of Hext was the next to address the directors. He said that an impression had been gotten by some of the directors that if the route did not pass through Menard that he declared that he would support a road through a part of the county. But Mr. Bethel states that this was not a fact as he had been assured by the county judge that support would be given the citizens of the Hext section if the highway passed through that part of the county only. He said that three years ago the Highway Commission designated the route as now shown and that he believed that it should remain the same so far as the Association was concerned.

Mr. Bethel made maps showing the distances and routes with minute logging of the roads along two proposed routes from Brady to Junction. He showed the difference in distance and stated that it was approximately 14 miles farther by Menard than the present designated route.

Following Mr. Bethel's remarks a vote was taken and it was voted unanimously that the route should remain as set.

The directors discussed was it the proper time to present the matter before the highway commission. It was decided after some discussion that the executive committee should be left to decide the time for the presentation.

Would Defer Request
In the discussion R. A. Thompson said that he believed that the association should wait until some of the counties along the route made improvements to their roads. He said that in reality Brown county was the only one which was in a position to present to present the proposition and that he believed action there should be deferred until McCulloch county voted on their bond issue. He stated that this would have much weight in the grant if most of the counties were either ready to improve or had improvements already started. He stated that there was no hurry as the Federal good roads body did not meet again until next spring, so rushing the matter through the Texas Highway Commission would not bring immediate federal designation and aid.

FRUSTRATE PLOT TO KIDNAP OWNER LOS ANGELES TIMES

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Frustration of an alleged plot by a well organized gang to kidnap Harry Chandler, owner of the Los Angeles Times and president of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, was claimed by the district attorney's office and police today.

Revelation of the purported plot against Chandler and other prominent citizens here, whose names were not disclosed, came last night on the heels of the arrest of Robert Gilhouse, 23, who police said admitted he and two others abducted and robbed W. R. Finch, manager of a Beverly Hills telephone office, September 15.

District Attorney Buron Pitts said while Gilhouse had no connection with the plan to abduct the publisher, the youth learned of the plot through contacts with gang members in robberies.

Chandler said first intimation he was marked as a victim of the gang was received ten days ago. Officers said tip came from underworld sources. Two detectives were assigned to accompany Chandler.

Pitts said his office and police received information concerning the arrival here of professional criminals from the east. He asserted the investigation revealed, among other things, that plots had been made against several prominent citizens of Los Angeles.

"We believe the police department and our office have taken necessary precautions to prevent execution of these plans," Pitts said.

In a statement last night Chandler said he had received other warnings of similar plots and had taken no unusual precautions as a result of this one. He said he had received no communications from the gangsters and had no knowledge of any move being made to carry out the plot.

Authorities revealed two Los Angeles citizens had paid ransom to the gangsters behind the kidnap plot to avoid carrying out of threats. Gilhouse and his two companions were accused of kidnaping Finch. Police said they took him to an isolated place, tied him to a tree, rifled the safe in the 21st street, later released Finch telling him they did not wish him to die.

Police said Gilhouse's companions were under surveillance, and their arrest was expected momentarily.

The press banquet which will be given at the new Hotel Brownwood in the advance of the formal opening of the hotel will be held tomorrow night, November 14, and not on the 21st as was stated, through an error, in Wednesday's Bulletin. Manager Wallace has sent invitations to all members of the Heart of Texas Press Association to be his guests on the occasion and most of the editors of this district are expected to be present.

MARTIAL LAW ESTABLISHED IN LIMA, PERU

LIMA, Peru, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Three hundred foreign refugees from the Andean mining fields, jammed like cattle into a three-car railroad train, reached here today from Malapaso, where two Americans were killed in a labor riot yesterday.

They came into a city whose transportation facilities were paralyzed by a general strike, bringing a vivid story of armed clashes in which at least a dozen workmen were killed and more than a score injured.

The engineer of their train told how the rioters, having wounded John W. Chapman of Chicago, a mine employee, dashed in his head with rocks, of how, having killed E. L. Tripary, an American storekeeper, they beheld his body.

LIMA PERU, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Martial law was established in the departments of Junin and Lima today in an effort to put down wide spread disorders of a distinct anti-foreign complexion.

A force of 200 infantry was sent to the Cerro De Pasco copper mining region where 15 men were killed and 25 wounded in riots yesterday growing out of dissension between American and British mine operators and native employees.

Two Americans were among those killed. One, John W. Chapman, was from Chicago; the home address of the other, E. L. Tripary, was not disclosed. An Austrian also was among those killed. All foreigners in the neighborhood, including about 350 Americans and British subjects, evacuated in special trains for Lima, 125 miles distant.

Meanwhile another serious threat developed at Lima and Callao, the port of Callao. A general strike was ordered by the general federation of workmen as a consequence of a dispute between the British cotton mill firm, Duncan, Fox & Co., and employees.

The government decree establishing martial law stated that all workmen desiring protection would be assured full guarantees of safety while remaining at their posts. The decree outlaws the general federation of workmen, and states that all those, including foreigners, who incite the workmen to strike will be arrested and expelled from the country.

The general federation of workmen threatened to extend the general strike to other Peruvian cities if its demands on the British concern were not fulfilled. Workers on the central station of Peru, the strike which leads to Cerro De Pasco, voted to adhere to the strike. It was not known if this would strand the special trains bearing refugees from the region affected by the mine riots.

Fred M. Dearing, United States Ambassador, called on Ernesto Montagne, Peruvian foreign minister, and is understood to have discussed the situation with him, making formal request for protection of Americans in the mining zone. Semi-officially, the Peruvian government sent word to the State Department today that American lives and property would be fully protected during the current troubles there.

Ambassador Dearing at Lima asked such assurance on learning of the outbreak. He reported one American, John W. Chapman of Chicago, and possibly other foreigners were killed during violence at Mal Paso yesterday.

Dispatch of eighty soldiers to Canete to quiet the situation where some 15 Americans were said to be in grave danger also was reported.

Butter and Egg Market Tumbles New Low Level

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Butter and egg future delivery contracts collapsed amid an almost frantic rush of selling on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange today. Prices fell to levels never before reached in the history of the exchange.

Eggs for delivery this month sold at 19 7/8 to 20 cents a dozen, one cent lower than any previous mark. December eggs closed at 20 cents off 1 1/4 cents a dozen, November and December butter closed below 30 cents a pound, the final quotations being 29 1/2 cents or 1 1/4 cents lower.

Reservoir Contract Given Standard Co.

Award of the contract for the construction of the dam on Pecan Bayou eight miles north of town was made this morning shortly before noon. The Standard Paving Company of Tulsa, Oklahoma and Fort Worth, Texas were the successful bidders, their bid of $590,000.00, submitted last week, having been accepted.

The members of the water board met in an executive session Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock and after three hours deliberation adjourned until this morning at 10 o'clock. The successful bidders were the lowest of nineteen bids ranging from the above named sum to more than $880,000. The six lowest bids were taken into consideration in selecting a contractor to build the large structure.

D. W. Ross, resident engineer said today that there was only a 1-2 per cent difference between the six low bids with all averaging approximately $600,000.

Start in Few Weeks
J. L. Gray, president of the Standard Paving Company with his office in Fort Worth who is her today said that it would be two or three weeks before any work would be started. He stated that the loading of machinery and equipment would be started Saturday and that it would be arriving in Brownwood during the week. It will be ten days or two weeks before the machinery is gotten onto the job and ready for operation.

Use Local Labor
Mr. Gray stated further that as far as practical he was planning to use Brownwood and Brown county labor only and that besides skilled labor which he would bring with him all others would be local men. He said that he had a system of employment which would assure men that they only would be given all jobs possible.

"All labor and supplies which are possible will be used locally. It is the intention of our company to cooperate with local industry as far as possible and to make all possible purchases from local concerns as well as hiring local men, he declared.

The company will install a down-town office immediately and will also maintain a small office at the place of the construction. Other than above stated Mr. Gray could not say anything concerning the project. He was accompanied here by Mr. Ira Miller an official of the company.

New Hotel Coffee Shop Is Opened

The coffee shop of the new Hotel Brownwood was opened for business this morning and during the noon hour had a large number of customers. The coffee shop is the first department of the hotel to open for business officially, and its start this morning will be closely followed by the opening of the hotel itself, Saturday morning.

In the invitations Mr. Wallace has invited the newspaper men to be given the press party and party to be given in the room garden of the new hotel at 7 o'clock. A program is being planned today and a large number of newspaper men are expected to be present.

BAPTISTS ARE BUSY IN MEET AT AMARILLO

AMARILLO, November 13.—(AP)—Dr. M. M. Wolf of Houston, presenting the report on Christian Education, told members of the Baptist General Convention of Texas today that a necessity exists for adjustments in the curricula of the church institutions in order to "meet modern educational standards."

"If Baptists are going to stay in the field of education at all, they must seek to give to those committed to their care a training second to none," he said.

"Our standards must be so high that none can, with justice, reflect upon the quality of the work done. Baptists therefore will need to recognize the necessity of our schools making adjustments in curricula to meet modern educational standards. It would be foolish to ignore utterly the trends in modern education. Certainly Southern Baptists are interested greatly in getting men to think for themselves and we are not concerned primarily whether the thinking shall be branded new or old, but only that it shall be true."

"Education that is worthy to bear the name Christian must be more for its students than to reform them, or to amuse and polish them or to make them expert technicians in any field. It must teach its students to believe heartily in a divine power, to determine plans for their lives, to teach them the duty and necessity to think always for themselves and teach them to do the will and work of God."

Vote Down Change
The convention voted down the proposal submitted by Rev. Roy S. Holloman of Bryan to amend the constitution to make members of the state executive committee ineligible for re-election until after they had not been on the board for at least one year. The board is comprised of six members, divided into three divisions so that not more than one-third shall retire at any one time.

The Rev. Holloman argued that his plan would permit more general representation. Dr. J. B. Tidwell of Waco led the opposition and the vote showed a preponderance against the change.

The second day of the convention was devoted to education, with reports made of the affairs of the various Baptist schools: San Marcos Academy, College of Marshall, University College, University, Deatur College, Wayland College, Baylor University, Baylor College and Howard Payne College.

The Rev. W. E. B. Lockridge of Terrell told the convention that the Bureau College of Greenville had been in thirty-nine years unprepared to make a detailed report and submit recommendations. He said the recent illness of Dr. E. W. Provence—president of the institution—had prevented a report.

Rev. Lockridge said Dr. Provence probably would be incapacitated for a year and that the board of trustees would meet tomorrow for the purpose of discussing the situation. He said the financial affairs of the college were such that they could neither go on nor close without money.

AMARILLO, Tex., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Educational problems and reports from many Baptist schools occupied today's program for the Baptist General Convention of the convention. The convention last night temporarily rejected a plan to organize the state into 17 district conventions to meet in November, in advance of the general convention, which under the proposal would convene in January each year.

Dr. Lee R. Scarborough, Fort Worth, president of the convention, was empowered to appoint a committee of 17 to consider the idea and report back to the 1931 convention.

The convention rescinded its work of a report on "plans for better enrollment of associations and churches," advanced the plan to operate and 17 district presidents would form a cabinet with the general secretary of the convention.

Dr. W. R. White, general secretary of the convention, favored the plan estimating it would mean a saving of $120,000 in expenses of delegates to two separate conventions.

The convention rescinded its former action in electing Rev. J. H. Pace, Beaumont, secretary and named Robert H. Coleman, Dallas.

Dr. J. F. Kimball, Dallas, gave a report on Baylor hospital and professional schools at Dallas and Hall County, Dallas, reviewed work of Buckner Orphan's Home, Dallas. Trustees for correlated Baptist schools included:

Baylor University, Waco; Wall-Bassett, Carr P. Collins, Marshall; Crane, Tom Crumley, Charles B. Moore, J. M. Penland, Earl B. Smyth, Cullen F. Thomas, George W. Truett, all of Dallas; George W. Carroll, Beaumont; J. R. Collier, J. M. Dawson, Baker Duncan, John S. Fisher, J. T. Harrington, W. H. Jenkins, J. P. Nason, Pat M. Neff, Mrs. R. R. Spencer, Joseph W. Hale, all of Waco; D. E. Graves, Gatesville; Earl C. Hankamer, Sour Lake; A. E. Kerr, Houston; H. L. Kokernot and H. K. Martin, Salt Antonio; and Dal E. White, Lancaster.

Howard Payne College, Brownwood; W. H. Andrew, Stephenville; W. B. Anderson, D. S. Camp, Douglas Coalson, Jewell Daugherty.

3 FACTORS FAVOR BROWNWOOD AS PECAN CENTER OF SOUTH

Three factors, already established or now about to become effective, offers the opportunity to Brownwood to become the greatest pecan center in Texas, if not in the South, thinks H. G. Lucas, president of the National Pecan Marketing Association with offices at Jackson, Miss., who spent a few days at his home here recently.

The three factors which can make Brownwood the pecan center of the South, he pointed out, are the completion of the Brown County Water Improvement District No. 1 water project; location of the United States pecan experiment station which has already been made here, and the Heart O' Texas Pecan Growers Co-operative Association, local of the national association, which is in operation here.

The early completion of the water project is now assured, he said. Experiments made in Arizona and California with pecans under irrigation has proven that water is one of the greatest factors in the development of superior nuts and young trees planted and irrigated come into bearing and attain mature growth several years earlier under irrigation, said Mr. Lucas. Mr. Lucas, who experimented in his own large pecan orchard here for many years, also stated that heavy valley land in the water district has no superior as a pecan growing soil and with irrigation could be made to flourish with pecan trees of the highest grades and varieties.

The government experiment station has already been established here with Mr. Hamilton in charge and plans are being made to make extensive experiments here. Mr. Lucas has turned over a whole section of his orchard for experiments and much progress is expected to be made here in the near future.

The Heart O' Texas Pecan Growers Co-operative Association offers a market to pecans grown here and is an inducement for growers to raise more pecans and of a standard variety, he continued.

Mr. Lucas says that the opportunity for Brownwood is offered to the people of Brownwood by these three factors as never before and the people can make Brownwood the pecan center of Texas and the South if they will.

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 12.—(AP)—A mysterious explosion which rocked an entire neighborhood, completely destroyed the interior of the Van Ness Drug Store and brought terror to hundreds of persons, was under investigation by fire officials today. Artist and Model for 1930 Red Cross Poster

Mrs. Lawrence Wilbur, shown in her New York studio, painting the poster which is used in the 1930 Roll Call of the American Red Cross, to urge every one to join as a member this year.

A SYMBOLICAL figure is selected each year to represent the American Red Cross and its service to the nation, for wide distribution in poster form during the organization's annual appeal for members, at the period of its Roll Call, Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day.

A poster competition is held in which prominent artists of the United States participate, and a committee selects the painting which shall carry the Red Cross message for that year.

Lawrence Wilbur, a distinguished artist, with studio in New York, is the creator this year of the magnificent figure representing the spirit of motherhood and of the Red Cross, hovering over the world. The phrase "The Greatest Mother" was first applied to the Red Cross during the World War, by the soldiers on the battlefield and in hospital.

All of the great poster artists of America have at one period or another since 1917 presented their conception of the spirit of the Red Cross. An early poster by Howard Chandler Christy, entitled "The Spirit of America," and one by Harrison Fisher, depicting a Red Cross nurse, are on exhibition in the original in the Red Cross museum in Washington, together with other originals.

The first creation of "The Greatest Mother" was by A. E. Foringer and was considered the most appealing poster ever used by the Red Cross. It showed a spiritua, mother figure, holding in her arms a wounded soldier, on a stretcher.

Many artists have used the figure of a Red Cross nurse, until these two ideas—the spiritual "greatest mother," and the symbolical angel of mercy, the Red Cross nurse—have visualized to the American public, all of the service that the Red Cross is organized to extend.

Three hundred thousand of Mr Wilbur's posters will be distributed in November to remind the public of the annual roll call for members of the Red Cross.

FREQUENT TILTS MARK OPENING CONNOR TRIAL

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 12.—(AP)—Frequent tilts between District Attorney Walker Tynan and members of the defense counsel featured the opening session today of the trial of J. D. Connor, alleged $75,000 extortionist, on an indictment charging him with robbery by assault with firearms in connection with the holdup of a grocery store here.

Dismissal of an indictment against T. B. Edmondson, charged jointly with Connor in connection with the holdup, was ordered by Judge McCrory after defense counsel had advanced a motion for severance of the indictments, and trial of Edmondson before Connor on the grounds that they believed Edmondson would be acquitted and they desired to use the evidence in defense of Connor.

Tynan leaped to his feet with a motion for dismissal of the indictment against Edmondson and Judge McCrory acted on the motion immediately.

J. D. Connor is well known in this section as he is a graduate of Howard Payne college and former superintendent of schools at Rising Star and Rochelle and was at one time engaged in the automobile business at Coleman.

Connor and T. B. Edmondson, former automobile dealer at Rising Star and interested with the business in Coleman with Connor, were arrested in Mason in August and at that time charged with the extortion of $75,000 from R. W. Morrison, San Antonio rail head and banker. Since that time other violations have been alleged by police and now Connor faces six charges. The trial today is for the robbery of a grocery store in San Antonio in May.

Report Attempted Jail Break
According to a story in the San Antonio Light today, a pistol and several hacksaw blades were found between two mattresses outside Connor's cell recently and the story says that Sheriff Alfonso Newton is making investigations and states that he is about ready to make an arrest in connection with an attempted jail break which had been rumored before the finding of the saws and pistol.

"Since Connor and Edmondson have been arrested they have been kept apart, on different floors of the jail. Connor has not talked to any of the officers, and since his incarceration has been maintaining a 'hard-boiled' attitude, says Jailer Donaghue," says the Light story. Also the story states that Connor has been removed to the death cell from the fifth floor of the jail since the discovery of the pistol and saw blades. Since Connor has been in jail one attempt has been made to secure his freedom, the story continued. That was when a fellow prisoner, Robert Pringle, who had been offered $2,000 by C. G. Gauthier, jail guard, $2,000 to allow Connor to escape, according to the allegations in a complaint which was filed against Pringle in September.

JACK QUINN, VETERAN SPIT BALL PITCHER WANTS ANOTHER YEAR

ROARING CREEK, Pa., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Jack Quinn, veteran pitcher unconditionally released by Connie Mack, is going to keep right on pitching in the major leagues if he can find a berth.

He is not through pitching, he said, "Not by a long shot."

Jack, one of the few spit ball artists still left, was found in a cabin in the River Hills where he followed his favorite sport of gunning for small game.

"I still think that I am good for another year," said Jack, as he poked the embers at a log fire. "I believe I can win the quota of games allotted every good Major League pitcher, which is about 15. I'm going to look around in the Majors and get another year which will give me a record of real service that any player can be proud of."

"I've been kicking around the country since I was twelve years old when I started out with a battered suit and two hands and a stout heart," said the veteran twirler, "and I guess I can keep going. I've been in baseball so long I hate to give up the game. I don't know what I will do if I don't answer the spring training call."

Mail Invitations To Hotel Opening

Opening of the new Hotel Brownwood for business is now tentatively scheduled for Saturday, November 21. It was planned to be open for business Tuesday, but because of unforeseen delays the business opening was deferred. The coffee shop will open sometime during the week.

It was planned to open the coffee shop Tuesday, but because of the delay in the shipment of silverware for use in the restaurant the opening had to be postponed and as soon as the silver arrives that part of the hotel will be opened.

The press party to be given by Bruce Wallace, manager of the hotel, has been sent for Friday night, Nov. 21. Invitations are being sent today to newspaper men over the territory within a radius of 100 miles of Brownwood. All newspaper owners in this section will be invited to attend the party just prior to the opening.

The invitations for the formal opening on the 21st are also being mailed today. There will be more than 600 invitations sent to people in all sections of the state inviting them to attend the big opening which will formally start the hotel business. Arrangements for an orchestra will be made during the week. Several well known orchestras are under consideration and one will be chosen.

The furnishings of the new Remond Drug Store to be operated in the building have arrived and are being placed in the store. They are very modern and include all late additions to fixtures and fountain. It is thought that the store will be opened for business this week.

Curtains and draperies are being installed this week and other minor matters of finishing are being completed. The whole construction work will be completed soon and all workmen on the building will be dismissed.

GAS COMPANY CASHIER HELD UP BY BANDIT

BARTLESVILLE, Okla., Nov. 13.—(AP)—A robber today held up O. K. Rinkle, cashier of the Bartlesville Gas and Electric Company while the cashier was on his way to a bank and escaped with $7,017.62.

The holdup occurred in the heart of the Bartlesville business district between the gas company's office and the Union National Bank, less than a block apart.

Of the total taken $2,483.22 was in cash.

Few spectators saw the highwayman draw a revolver and order Rinkle to "stick 'em up." Officers had discovered no clue to the robber's identity this afternoon.

The money taken represented part of the Gas Company's monthly collections.

RANGE PROSPECTS IN TEXAS ARE BRIGHTER NOW THAN IN MONTHS

AUSTIN, Nov. 12.—(AP)—General October rains made range prospects in Texas "brighter than they had been in several months," said the monthly report of the United States crop reporting service today.

"While the condition, figures is below any recent year," the report said, "prospects are that the ranges will continue to improve through November. Hay and roughage are adequate for local needs in most areas. Cottonseed products are plentiful and prices much below last year. Cattle have maintained flesh and are entering the winter in fair condition.

"Wheat pastures are in excellent condition. In the western growth region an unusually large acreage of small grains has been sown primarily for grazing purposes, and moisture conditions have been ideal."

Range condition was reported 77 per cent, 10 per cent above the condition on October 1. Condition of cattle improved four points, and on November 1 was 79, compared to 83 a year ago. All districts were said to reflect the improved condition, only a few ranges reporting overstocked condition.

Sheep and goat raisers were rated 82 per cent of normal, an advance of 17 points during October. Moisture conditions throughout the Edwards plateau region "seldom have been better than at the present time," the report said.

Evening Of Frolic Is Fatal To Youth

ABILENE, Texas, Nov. 12.—(AP)—An evening of frolic, ending in the accidental discharge of a shotgun, brought death early this morning to Aubrey Dodson, eleven year old Hawley youth. Injured at seven o'clock at his home, the boy was brought to a hospital here where doctors amputated his right arm just below the shoulder. He died at this morning.

The gun was discharged as several children were playing in a room of the Dodson home. The parents are Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Dodson.

MAPLE APPEAL IS DENIED BY COURT, TO DIE

AUSTIN, Tex., Nov. 12.—(UP)—The Court of Criminal Appeals refused to interfere today in the death sentence imposed against Jess J. Maple at his own request but from which his attorney seeks an appeal. Maple is to die November 18th for slaying a Houston police officer. A second officer, shot by him, died later.

The court held that the record sent up from the trial court showed that the sentence was pronounced while Maple and his counsel both were in the court. And shows no appeal. If the record is wrong, the court says, the procedure to correct it would be by motion in the trial court.

Argument before the court here last week, Maple's attorney said that the original record showing a notice of appeal had been changed and that he did not have notice of the change until he saw the record in Austin last Wednesday. The district attorney's representative replied that while the record had been changed, it had only been changed to correct a mistaken entry by the clerk and that, as changed, it showed the real proceedings.

Since entering the death cell at Huntsville penitentiary, Maple is said to have changed his mind and now desires the appeal.

If the motion (a mandamus) to halt the execution and submit the appeal is granted a notice of appeal duly entered of record and a subsequent effort of the accused to withdraw the appeal in the court below, the question of authority would be presented, that is, whether the control of the procedure would rest with the appellant or with his counsel.

"In the present instance the effort is by ex parte affidavits to impeach the record in the trial court which is regarded by this court as sufficient to consider to confer jurisdiction of the appeal. The record cannot be impeached."

The opinion was written by Chief Justice W. C. Morrow.

WM. TURNER, JR. CASE REVERSED

AUSTIN, Nov. 12.—(AP)—Conviction of William Turner, Jr., North Carolina State College student, for desertion of his wife, a Brownwood girl and student at Southwestern University, was reversed and remanded today by the state court of criminal appeals. Turner had been sentenced to a thirty-day jail sentence and a fine of $25.

The state alleged Mrs. Turner was in "necessitous circumstances."

Since entering the death cell at Huntsville penitentiary, Maple is said to have changed his mind and now desires the appeal.

If the motion (a mandamus) to halt the execution and submit the appeal is granted a notice of appeal duly entered of record and a subsequent effort of the accused to withdraw the appeal in the court below, the question of authority would be presented, that is, whether the control of the procedure would rest with the appellant or with his counsel.

"In the present instance the effort is by ex parte affidavits to impeach the record in the trial court which is regarded by this court as sufficient to consider to confer jurisdiction of the appeal. The record cannot be impeached."

The opinion was written by Chief Justice W. C. Morrow.

W. L. Turner, Jr., was arrested at Raleigh, N. C., on January 17, 1930, on a capias carrying a charge of wife desertion in Brownwood. The special deputy sent to serve the papers was his father-in-law, M. T. Bowden, of Brownwood.

but failed to prove the allegation the court held as the sole ground for the reversal.

Mrs. Turner, daughter of a Brownwood furniture dealer, married Turner while he was studying at Texas Tech and Rice Institute. He left for Boston in August, 1929, was stricken with appendicitis in New York and underwent an operation. After getting out of the hospital, he sought to return to his home in North Carolina, where he was arrested for wife desertion a few months after entering the school.

The indictment charged he deserted his wife at the time he left for Boston. Turner declared he left to get an education and had no intention of deserting her. Both were under twenty years old.

Mrs. Rose Bowden Turner brought habeas corpus proceedings in a suit in district court here in November, 1929, against the parents of her husband, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Turner of Brownwood, asking for the return of her husband, whom she charged was being held away from her.

Judge E. J. Miller rendered a verdict in favor of the plaintiff, instructing the defendants not to use influence in keeping the husband from the wife.

HOUSE-CLEANING IS DUE

REPORTS FROM AUSTIN indicate that Mr. Sterling is being besieged by an army of applicants for positions under his administration as Governor, and that he is becoming somewhat fretful as a result of the nagging of friends and acquaintances who are either seeking jobs for themselves or for others who have enlisted their assistance.

This sort of thing occurs every time there is a change in administrations. It is taken for granted that each new Governor is under obligation to select an entirely new organization for the handling of the state's business, and in the arrangement of appointments the incoming Governor usually pays the political obligations incurred during the summer campaigns.

It has always seemed to us that such a procedure is not only conducive to inefficiency in the state's service, but is wrong from the standpoint of political propriety. It makes every minor employe in every department of the government in Austin a small-time politician, scheming and working for the election of this candidate or that in order to retain his job for another two years; and that sort of thing destroys efficiency.

If Mr. Sterling wants to effect a genuine reform in the methods of handling the state's business, and at the same time to rid himself of annoying importunities of friends who seek favors at his hands, he should announce that present employes will be retained except such as may be removed for adequate cause.

ENCOURAGING NEWS

MOST OF US, as Will Rogers is wont to say, know little except what we read in the newspapers, and what we have been reading about the nationwide business depression, gangster wars and other dreadful things has had the effect of discouraging us to a point of distraction.

But there is an abundance of good news, if we would but read it. Conditions have been bad, but not as bad as some of us have imagined, and all the evidences one can see now point to a slow but steady improvement.

General Motors President advises that salary and wage reductions are not in order, and that employes who have been idle are being returned to work. "The broader margin that exists between the daily wage and the necessities of life," President A. P. Sloan, Jr., is quoted as saying, "the more the individual has available to purchase additional products and enjoy and profit by his leisure hours. This development of purchasing power creates wealth which in turn reacts throughout our whole industrial situation."

As to conditions nearer home, we read that there is a better outlook for fall crops. Texas farmers, says a veteran observer of agricultural conditions in this state, are rapidly forgetting the season of 1930 with all its difficulties and losses, and are preparing their land for 1931. Abundant rains have given more relief than all the activity of the Federal Farm Board, and farmers are more cheerful than they have been during the past twelve months period.

Cattle, two million dollars worth, are being moved out of West Texas to the Corn Belt feedlots, according to information from San Angelo, the movement being at the rate of a trainload daily.

Texas leads the nation in onion shipping, and carlot shipments of garden truck are rapidly increasing. Valley truck crops are much earlier than usual, and are being moved in an orderly manner. A carload of registered polled Herefords have been sold from the Gill ranch in Coleman county to a Honey Grove man. Thousands of acres of farm land, hitherto not very useful but fertile and potentially productive, is being terraced at various points in the state.

So the news of the day reads, and it is heartening news. There will be more like it during the coming weeks; and in the meantime there has been a definite improvement in local business conditions, the volume of retail trade having increased noticeably during the past two or three weeks. These items of information aid us in recovering from whatever it has been that are not opinions and not forecasts, but are facts that ought to influence our opinions and our forecasts and has afflicted us so sorely.

THE CHALLENGE OF PEACE

PEACE HATH her victories no less renowned than war, and peace has her battles that require all of the patriotic and valorous service of every loyal citizen. A dozen years have passed since the armistice was signed and the actual fighting of the world war stopped, and America has been at peace so far as armed conflict with other nations is concerned; but America is not at peace. Foes as determined and as deadly as any who were found upon the battlefields of France are systematically attacking the government and the free institutions maintained under the government; and the challenge to the patriotic spirit of the American people today is no less imperative than during the two years of desperate warfare against the Central Powers.

The problems of America's present-day warfare in defense of its fundamental principles of freedom and liberty are not military, but social, economic, political and spiritual. Machine guns are not being used by foreign soldiers to slay Americans on the battlefields, but are in the hands of American citizens who are ruthlessly defying the established laws of their own land. There are generals and colonels and lieutenants and buck privates in the ranks of the organized law-breakers of the country; and they have friends in the high places of the government, who have been corrupted by money earned through lawlessness.

Insidious influences have been active in breaking down the sound traditions that have surrounded the home and the school and the church. Unrestrained greed has been permitted to upset the orderly processes of business. Combinations of capital have been permitted to entrench themselves in legalized positions, so that the dollar instead of being a measure of value in the normal processes of barter and exchange has become the symbol of ruthless and crushing power. Individuals have been compelled to waive many of their rights and associate themselves with other individuals in the array of class against class as each has fought for self-preservation.

We need to think about these things, frankly and fearlessly, on this day when we celebrate the establishment of peace throughout the world. The trends of public thought and action now so plainly visible must not be ignored, if America is to survive. Nations as great as this have fallen because of the unrestrained activities of the same kind of enemies now operating in every town and hamlet in the United States, and gaining strength every day because the significance of their enemy is not fully recognized. Armistice Day comes, therefore, not so much as a reminder of a great victory in the world's greatest war, but as a challenge to the spirit of patriotism that made that victory possible. The appeal today is not for an army of men who are willing to die for their country, but for a nation of men and women who are determined to live in such manner that their country and its institutions may be protected and preserved.

JOURNALISTIC COURAGE

THE ALARMING DECADENCE of the American press is often deplored by somebody whose campaign for public office or whose impractical ideas for solving all the world's ills have not been joyously supported by the newspapers, but isn't often that one finds a newspaper man mourning for the good old days when editors were he-men and the business office, was merely a necessary evil in a publication plant. That makes the complaint of the Garland, Texas, News noteworthy:

"It is a deplorable fact, but true, nevertheless," declares the Garland editor, "that present day newspapers are not as outspoken against public enemies as in the days of Henry Watterson and Charles Dana and editors of their ilk. They are more swayed by advertising patronage than by their unselfish devotion to the community or the nation. This is occasioned by most of the larger papers being owned by companies, whose demands are for dividends rather than for glory; and among the smaller papers by the necessity for earning more in order to meet increased operation expenses, and the consequent necessity of placating big corporations that they may secure this income."

Most of us are prone to confuse facts and opinions, and what the Garland editor here states is in the latter classification rather than the former. Some of the big corporations have experimented with newspaper control, by the outright purchase of newspaper properties in some instances and by under-cover subsidies in others; and it has never been satisfactory to the corporations. The experience of most newspapers, in their contacts with corporations who are actually or potentially advertising patrons, has been that the larger the corporation, the less it seeks to control the policies of the press and the less it asks of free publicity and similar favors. The real source of worry to the average editor, who would like to have his paper exert a helpful influence in his community and at the same time is under compulsion to adopt policies which will not be ruinous from a business standpoint, is the advertising patron in the city of publication, whose patronage is essential to the newspaper and who expects, in return for it, the privilege of influencing the newspaper's policies and opinions on everything from prohibition to the most recent of Einstein's brainstorms.

In spite of this, however, and of other influences that are likewise vexatious, we are persuaded that the press as a whole has maintained its integrity and its independence, and that it is exerting today a more helpful influence upon public thought and action than in the days of such personal journalists as Watterson and Dana and Pulitzer and others. The old stalwarts of the profession, whose memory is honored in every newspaper office in the country, knew nothing of conditions such as those prevailing today. Even the best of their newspapers was no better than the average daily publication of today. And after all is said and done, if it is a fact that there has been an actual decadence in the standards that guide the newspapers of the country, it is merely a reflection of a decadence that has occurred in the standards of American citizenship during the past forty or fifty years, during which the complexities of life have been multiplied many fold and every industry and profession has been compelled to adjust itself to new conditions in order to preserve whatever measure of influence it might have had under the old order of things.

GENERAL BLISS PASSES

ONE BY ONE the outstanding military heroes of the World War are passing on. General Tasker H. Bliss, 76-year-old former chief of staff and at one time commanding general of the American army during the world war, died Sunday, after a prolonged illness. He was the only army officer on the supreme war council, and is the fourth of the five members to pass away, Colonel House being the only survivor.

General Bliss spent half a century in the American army, following his graduation from West Point, and was a veteran of four important campaigns, including the world war. He became a statesman as well as a soldier, and his period of service beyond the age of retirement was extended by Congressional action in order that the country might have the benefit of his wise counsel in the post-war period when there were so many serious military problems to be solved by the government and people. He returned to civilian life three years ago, but retained active association with the army and its interests until his last day.

General Bliss was a fine type of American citizen. As a professional soldier he was by instinct a defender of his country rather than an aggressive pursuer of its enemies. There was nothing of the jingo in his makeup, and he sought peace rather than war at all times. America will honor his memory, and his fifty years of active service will enrich the traditions of the American army throughout the future.

PRE-SHEARING LOANS ON WOOL AND MOHAIR BY MARKETING BODY

The American Mohair Producers Cooperative Marketing Association is now in position to make pre-shearing loans on wool and mohair, according to information received from Chester Harrison, active vice-president of the Citizens National Bank.

The following statement was made by Mr. Harrison Thursday: "The American Mohair Producers' Co-Operative Marketing Corporation is now in position to make pre-shearing loans on wool and mohair. The loans will be made at the rate of 6 per cent interest to mature when the wool or mohair shall be delivered next spring and without any membership fee or charge other than the cost of recording chattel mortgages and obtaining County Clerk's certificates which will not exceed one dollar."

"The owners of sheep or goats must give mortgage on the wool or mohair and sign an agreement to deliver same at Brownwood to be sold to the Co-Operative Marketing Association. The loans are based on one dollar per head on sheep and fifty cents per head on goats. Such loans may be obtained by making application through Chester Harrison at the Citizens National Bank, Brownwood, Texas."

CISCO WOMAN'S SUFFERING OF SEVERAL YEARS NOW ENDED Mrs. Stubblefield Declares Argotane Has Done Her More Good Than Anything Else.

"Argotane has certainly worked wonders in my case," said Mrs. Stubblefield, 1907 Ave. V, Cisco, Texas, recently. Mrs. Stubblefield is the wife of a well known employe of the Texaco Oil Co., and has many friends and relatives in this section of Texas.

"For several years," continued Mrs. Stubblefield, "I suffered with indigestion and dyspepsia and during the past two years especially I have tried everything with no results until I got Argotane. My stomach would cramp and bloat something terrible after eating and sometimes even liquid diet did me the same way. My suffering was awful and I got so I was actually afraid to eat anything. A few months ago my nerves seemed to give way and I have been unable to get sufficient rest and sleep.

"My daughter induced me to try Argotane and now after taking two bottles I can truthfully say I feel better than I have in many years. My sleep is sound and restful and, Oh, it is such a relief to be able to eat what I want without suffering those terrible pains afterwards. I feel very grateful and am only too glad to tell others about the medicine that has done so much for me. Genuine Argotane may be bought in Brownwood at the Camp - Bell and Peerless Drug Stores. ARMISTICE DAY IS CELEBRATED IN BROWNWOOD

Attorney General-elect James V. Allred in a patriotic address here Tuesday morning at Armistice Day celebration by the Brownwood American Legion and Auxiliary reviewed the history of the American flag through generations since its founding, including wars which were fought around its folds and from which it emerged victorious because of the spirit of the men behind its leadership.

He spoke of it as an infant giant, a Messiah of democracy, which was unfolding before the world and had been a symbol of all that was fine and good since its first use during the revolution. He reviewed the glorious past of the flag, its present and the future which is in store for the whole nation. He told of the growth of this country from a group of tiny struggling colonies to its present place as the leading nation of the world.

Mr. Allred spoke of the flag as not always being a symbol of peace and said that it was followed by a trail of wars through all its history. He spoke of Paul Revere, the Minute Men, Valley Forge and the surrender of Cornwallis as the background for the founding of American tradition and a background for the American flag. He next touched lightly on the war of 1812.

Early Texas Hardships

He told of the early settlers in the piney woods of East Texas and of their hardships and told of the heroic deeds which they did to win Texas from the wilderness and of the battles of San Jacinto and the Alamo.

He spoke briefly of the Civil War and of its influence, saying that this greatest strain on the history of an otherwise great nation had practically been obliterated and forgotten.

He next related the incidents of the Spanish-American war and of the battles of San Juan Hill and Manila Bay. In each decade in the progress of the American flag and American people he told of the suffering, the heroic efforts for the survival of freedom and the triumph of the people.

The great World War, the ending of which this occasion was commemorating and which had had direct bearing on the lives of practically every person present at the address, was next discussed. The speaker told of immortal battles of this conflict and of the unknown suffering of the men in the trenches and on the battlefields of France. He told of the present suffering in hospitals, and of the dead in France and in this country, and those who were ruined for life because of the great struggle.

Scores Hoover and Mellon
Allred scored President Hoover and Secretary Mellon for their stance on the compensation acts and the president's veto of a bill this year for the giving of additional aid to the families of the men now in hospitals.

He said that he did not believe the glory which was all that the United States received from the war was worth the price paid, but that great war had been paid that the present army in camps and hospitals should be cared for through the assistance of the government.

Mr. Allred was introduced by James C. White, who in his short address said that he was not in the great war, but in the army only during the war. He gave his idea of Armistice and its present meaning. He spoke of the battles and victories which this day celebrates and said that there were many battles during peace time and that at present a great war was in progress in this country.

Mr. White spoke of the economical and social war now in progress in America and stated that even the bulwarks of the church itself, the foundation of America, were on the brink of falling because of the attitude of the American people. He spoke of the lower moral standing and of the general attitude of America toward lawlessness. He said that at present Americans were being killed with machine guns, but not in the hands of German soldiers but in the hands of other American citizens. He spoke of economical conditions, political corruption and social degeneration in this country. "With such as this going on about us we need real and not imitation patriotism to combat and fight this great war which is now in progress in America," he said.

Band Concert

The Armistice services at which the attorney general-elect delivered the principal address were held at Soldiers and Sailors Memorial Hall immediately after the parade that opened the program of the day's observance.

A short band concert of the united Daniel Baker and Colts Bands was given in the Memorial Hall immediately following the parade. The enlarged band marched onto the stage and there played several numbers including martial music and Dixie. Following their short rendition they left the platform which was then occupied by the speakers of the day.

Post Commander Tex Worsham spoke briefly reviewing the celebrations of 1918 and of the organization of the American Legion and of their mission to carry on in peace as they did in war.

Rev. P. T. Stanford pronounced the invocation and this was followed by a vocal solo by Mrs. Charlene B. Underwood of the Fine Arts Department of Howard Payne. She was accompanied by Mrs. Pearl Talbot McCulley, head of Fine Arts Department in that school. This was followed by a medley of wartime popular tunes which were sung by the Daniel Baker Glee Club.

Immediately following the program an exhibition of archery was given by the Boy Scouts Archery club in front of the auditorium. The terpenin derby was held on the inside and this was followed by a barbecue for all ex-service men.

The afternoon holiday activities were to include two football games and tonight a wedding and square dance will complete the day's program in celebration of Armistice.

Impressive Parade Seen by Big Crowd

One of the prettiest and most impressive parades seen in Brownwood started the Armistice Day celebration of the local American Legion and Auxiliary posts at 9:30 o'clock this morning. Starting from Howard Payne auditorium and proceeding down Center Avenue to the courthouse and then back on Fisk Avenue to the Memorial Hall, a large number of American Legion and Auxiliary members, ex-service men from over the county, students from the two colleges and the high schools with their bands and pep squads helped to form the parade.

The Young and Helms airplane floated over the city which the parade filed through the streets. Large crowds of people lined the streets, almost the distance of Center Avenue from Howard Payne College to the courthouse, to see the parade pass. The crowd began forming on the street corners several minutes before the parade and after it had passed many of the people went to the Memorial Hall to hear the morning program.

The parade was led by the colts band, playing lively martial music, and with flag-bearers carrying American flags. Following the colts band was the Daniel Baker college and in their beautiful uniforms of white and blue. The marshal of the parade came next and was followed by a float built to represent the grave of a soldier. A young lady represented the Angel of Peace guarding the grave. Next were the veterans of the World War and the dough-boy, the marine and the sailor marched side by side. Following was the car bearing the Gold Star mothers and next was the car in which James V. Allred, Attorney General-elect, speaker of the day, was riding. Other members of the Legion and Auxiliary followed and Spanish-American war veterans, Confederate veterans, D. D. C. members followed in order. Next came the students of Howard Payne college, Boy Scouts, students of Daniel Baker college, and students from Senior High school, Junior High School, South Ward school, North Brownwood school, and the big American gun of the World War, and the Fire Department.

RANGER CAPTAIN WHO DIED TUESDAY BRAVEST OF BRAVE

AUSTIN, Tex., Nov. 12—(UP)—"The bravest man ever on the Texas Ranger force" is the description of the rangers themselves for Capt. J. H. Rogers, who survived fifty years of active ranger service, to die in a Temple hospital yesterday, just as he was apparently recovering after an operation.

Rogers entered the ranger service in 1860, before he was of age. He remained actively in it except for a period during the Wilson administration when he was United States marshal, and a short period as police chief at Austin.

In recent years he has commanded the ranger company with headquarters at Del Rio on the Rio Grande. His company left the border in a body this morning to come to Austin for his funeral this afternoon.

Rogers survived two apparently mortal wounds and a third severe one at Laredo during a riot when the rangers were enforcing a small pox quarantine. He was shot in the right arm in West Texas and he was shot through the hip in a pitched battle with escaped jail prisoners in Sabine county.

In that fight, still recalled by rangers as one of the hardest they have had, Ranger Moore was shot through the heart dying instantly, ranger (now Captain Brooks) had the fingers shot off his hand and Ranger Scott was shot through the lung.

Tells of Sabine Fight

Rogers had been called to Sabine county to help recapture the escaped jail prisoners. The men were traced to a spot near the Louisiana border. As one of them went to a creek, the rangers called on him to surrender. Instead he began firing his Winchester. Three ranger bullets dropped him. A general battle then began. The escaped men were all armed. It was a foggy morning. One wearing glasses, would wipe the mist from them, then take careful bead and fire again. Another of the prisoners was shot but disappeared.

Rogers was brave enough to admit defeat at times. Once Tom Ross, noted western character, got the drop on Rogers with a Winchester. Rogers hesitated when told to throw up his hands. A rifle bullet cut his bridle reins right at his hand.

"I hate to lose that gun. The boys gave it to me," said Rogers. Ross emptied the gun of its ammunition and handed it back. The admonition not to follow him any more, however, was disregarded and Rogers trailed Ross until his death in Canada.

It was not only in encounters that Rogers shone. One of the best bits of trailing on record is his. A Mexican, Cortez, had killed the sheriff of Gonzales and the sheriff of Wedding of Miss DePree Brownwood to Mr. I. C. Prosperity at the Memorial Hall Tuesday night and the old-fashioned square dance that followed closed the Armistice Day celebrations of the American Legion and Auxiliary. The Brownwood Business and Professional Women's club sponsored the wedding and dance.

The wedding was elaborate in its setting and the costumes of the people representing relatives of the bride and groom were the feature of any program, and the concert by the Daniel Baker orchestra before the wedding was enjoyed. Miss Brownwood was represented by Miss Adelaide Lake as the bride and Prosperity was represented by Ben A. Fain as the groom.

Judge E. M. Davis acted as the best man and announced all the guests as they arrived. The stage of the auditorium was fittingly set for the affair. Mother of the bride was Mrs. B. A. Fain and in the receiving line with her were Mesdames W. G. Sawyer, J. R. Stone, A. L. Bencini and E. M. Boon. The bride's brother, John, was played by Morgan Hall and the twins were represented by Misses Frances Canon and Betsy Mayes.

First to arrive were the mother and father of the groom, impersonated by Mrs. J. W. Jennings and W. R. Roberts. Judge Davis introduced the guests with wit and comedy very entertainingly. Other relatives arriving in order were: Grandmother and grandfather of the bride, Miss Eiler and W. D. Armstrong; groom's rich aunt, Mrs. W. R. Roberts; the bride's Aunt Mary, Mrs. G. C. Skinner with her family; Uncle John Prosperity, E. H. Lake; mother's girl friend, now a widow and looking for number two, Miss Carrie Reaves; bride's rich uncle from New York, Tom Posey; uncle and aunt from Pumpkin Center, with all their children, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Hopper; Miss Marie Elizabeth Prosperity, Miss Mabel Stone; young brother of the groom, Hubert Fields; cousin Elmira, bride's relative, Miss Amy Darnon; Madam Ada Gould Astor, related to groom, Mrs. G. C. well; Mrs. Sassafras Jones, neighbor of bride's family, Mrs. Ernest Davis; Mary Jane Simpkins, Mrs. J. F. Mitchell; the lover who did not win, Bill Burtleson.

Distinguished Guests.

The distinguished guests then came in and the orchestra played special songs for each as the butler announced them. Chief Justice of Supreme Court and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Shaw; "We"—Lindy and Anne, Mr. and Mrs. James McCartney, with the orchestra playing "We Flew Over"; Dan and Mildred Moody, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Wilkinson, orchestra played "Eyes of Texas"; officers of United States army, Generals Turner and Carter, Colonel King, and Major Williams; America's distinguished Democrat, Al Smith, Dr. B. A. Fowler, while the orchestra played "Sidewalks of New York"; Premier Ramsay MacDonald, looking for peace treaty and cancellation of England's debts, D. D. McInroe; first Gentleman and Lady of the land, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hoover, Dr. and Mrs. Ascheroff, the orchestra played "Hail, Hail the Gang's All Here."

The guests had arrived and the wedding ceremony started. Brownwood High school glee club, directed by Mrs. Harold Scott, sang the pre-nuptial chorus and Mrs. Charlene Underwood, accompanied by Mrs. McCulley, sang the solo. The ushers were E. Martin Boon, Clay Parks Carey, Gerald Scott, Allen Davis and Tate Carson. In the wedding party the bride's maids were: Misses Mary Kathryn Boon, Helen Abney, Elma Peity and Martha Johnson. Ben Fain, the groom, came in with Dr. A. L. Lobstein, as the best man and Marjorie Scott acted as maid of honor. Bessie Fain was ring-bearer and flower girls were Jean Evans, Jane Queen, Rosemary Kimberlin and Mary Wilson Bailey; the bride, Miss Adelaide Lake, came with her father, Harry Knox, Sr.

Early Justice of Peace.
District Attorney Walter U. Early acted as the Justice of Peace and performed the wedding ceremony, asking Mr. Prosperity to pay all of Miss Brownwood's debts and see that she prospered from this time on. The whole ceremony as conducted by Mr. Early was very amusing and furnished much entertainment.

After the ceremony had been performed the whole wedding party led in the grand march and then the square dance started. A large crowd was present to see the wedding and stayed to watch the dancers and to dance.

The whole Armistice Day program was carried out very successfully, say members of the Legion and Auxiliary, and they are well pleased with the interest and enthusiasm displayed. After the morning program the crowd saw an archery contest put on by local Boy Scouts and then a large crowd of ex-service men were served a barbecue dinner at noon. In the afternoon many went to the two football games and were then ready for the evening program.

Many Make Visit to Reservoir Site

Following the invitation extended by the water board through the columns of the Bulletin Saturday 675 Brownwood people visited the new dam site during the day Sunday. There was a constant stream of automobiles going to and from the site, eight miles north of town. A total of 235 automobiles made the trip.

The visitors all stopped their automobiles near the reservoir location and walked from there to the place where the center of the dam will be extended across the valley.

There were many who went into the valley and on to the banks of the bayou itself where the dam will be located. Visitors were struck with the magnitude of the proposed dam.

Has Invention To Safeguard Planes

E. B. Garner of 501 Mayes street, Brownwood, states that he has invented a special wheel to safeguard airplanes against accidents. If the engine of a plane goes dead, Mr. Garner says, the wheel which he has designed can be turned on, beginning work immediately, and will keep the plane in the air indefinitely.

Republican Party May Split on Prohibition

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12—(AP)—President Hoover's law enforcement commission convened today to continue work on its prohibition report as republican vets and drags came to grips on the liquor question as a possible issue in the 1932 presidential race. As usual, the meeting of the enforcement commissioners was executive, and Chairman Wickersham stood on his announcement of a few days ago that all reports speculating on the commission's findings were "guesses" the party would split if it favored repeal, Representative Beedy, republican, Maine, came out in favor of making prohibition an issue in the 1932 elections. "I believe," the Maine member said, "that the matter of prohibition should be thoroughly discussed in the 1932 campaign and that it would be much better if the people of the country would have the right to voice their opinions." Beedy is an ardent prohibitionist and has opposed on the floor of the house repeal of the 18th Amendment. Beedy said he thought it advisable to settle the prohibition question in the next general election and that it would be a "helpful thing for everybody concerned." Replying to Fess, Wadsworth said: "We want our party to be right on the next fundamental constitutional issue that has arisen since the days of the Civil War and we will fight to make it right, split or no split." Beedy urged a new chairman be selected for the republican national committee, if Fess "is so blind or so intolerant he cannot analyze the desires of millions of voters in the progressive northern states."

C. C. DISCUSSES PECAN OFFICE

Only a few matters were discussed by the directors of the Chamber of Commerce at their regular luncheon Wednesday. Proposed change in bus schedules was sought by Mr. Robertson of the Robertson Bus Lines. He stated that at present his company operated five buses from Brownwood to Fort Worth and return daily and he wished to discontinue two of these schedules if all Chamber of Commerce secretaries would sanction the change.

He stated that during a period of 61 days between September to November 1 a complete check had been kept on the two schedules each way. He said that on the bus leaving Brownwood at 5:30 each morning there had been only 23 passengers hauled during that period. The other bus, which leaves Brownwood at 6:50 each night, had hauled only 60 passengers from Brownwood during the period checked. Coming to Brownwood, he showed that on the morning bus, arriving here at 10:20 there had been 65 passengers left off at Brownwood, which leaves Brownwood at 12 midnight there had been only 25 passengers brought to Brownwood. Because these two lines do not pay and as there will remain three schedules he wished to discontinue the two lines. The Brownwood Chamber of Commerce sanctioned the move proposed by Mr. Robertson.

Hilton Burks reported a conversation last week with H. G. Lucas concerning the construction of a pecan office here by the government. The proposed building would be leased by the Federal Government and four departments would have offices there. It was suggested that local stock be sold and that the building be constructed if the government would take a substantial lease when it was completed. Mr. Lucas, according to Mr. Burks is ready to give the required two acres of land on which the building would be constructed. It was decided that the matter be discussed with pecan officials when they came here to inspect proposed property sought by them. A committee of three was appointed to investigate the matter and do all possible to secure the location of the building in Brownwood. This committee is composed of E. J. Weatherly as chairman and Ben Fain and J. H. McKee.

as to whether the fact that policemen were in the court room at the opening of the trial with guns ready had prejudiced them against Connor and also asked if the publicity which had been given Connor had affected them. All denied that they were affected or prejudiced, according to the story carried in the Light.

The first intimation as to the nature of the defense plans was gained in the defense motion for continuance. It was declared in the motion that Connor would rely on acquittal upon an alibi defense.

Number of out of county witnesses have been called by the defense and it is possible that a delay may be sought if some of these witnesses do not appear.

Connor is transferred from the jail to the courtroom under heavy police guard, it is said. He is placed in the back seat of the sheriff's car with a deputy on each side and the police emergency car following close behind. In the courtroom he is guarded by four deputy sheriffs heavily armed and four uniformed policemen guard the court room.

Since the finding of the pistol, ammunition and saw blades, police fear that an escape jail delivery may be made.
