Tuggle and Yosten Open as Successor To Bezner Motor

Tuggle and Yosten Motor Company officially opened Thursday morning as a new Muenster business concern succeeding Lambert Bezner Motor Company.

However it has added another partner since last week's announcement naming Aubry Tuggle and Henry Yosten. Jack Tuggle, service man for several years at Endres Motor Company, joined the pair during the past weekend.

With the exception of the car dealership the new concern will operate about the same as its predecessor. It will sell parts and accessories, and maintain a service department. It has also taken over the Bezner Motor Company stock of used cars and will continue selling used cars. The company has made agreements to handle Gates V belts and Phillips petroleum products but has not decided at this time what brands it will feature in tires, batteries and other automotive needs.

Employees assisting the three partners are Mary Ann Walterscheid and Ronald Fette.

Recommended and inspiring reading for those who have visions of civic improvements is an article in this month's Town Journal about the extraordinary park at Marshall, Mo. It offers swimming, golfing, tennis, baseball, croquet, shuffleboard, horseback riding, boating, fishing and picnic facilities along with lots of beauty. It's so far ahead of other parks that people come there from areas far around, including other cities, for recreation or just for family gatherings amid its beautiful and well equipped surroundings. Needless to say the town reaps handsome dividends in the way of enjoyment and it also fares quite well commercially on the extra dollars spent by people who come primarily for recreation.

The significant thing about that park is that it did not cost a lot of money and still isn't costing much, also that it got started under handicap of the usual objections that meet such an undertaking.

Back in 1933 the mayor of Marshall got plenty of criticism when he spent $10,000 of precious depression money for the patch of trees, hills and grass. People said they did not need a park. Likewise they thought it was foolish to start a WPA project for a lake and swimming pool. They began changing their attitude, however, after a group of volunteers put in time to build playground equipment, benches and other facilities. The spirit kept catching on until the whole town was enthusiastic.

It should be pointed out, however, that the project did not just grow haphazardly. Those who started it had the vision to plan ahead, and the leaders of today show the good judgment to keep it in good repair as well as to plan and supervise activities which enhance the park's attractions. There are scheduled ball games, contests of various kinds, band concerts and dances. Those things are under the direction of a man who serves as recreation superintendent for the city during summer months and as the school's athletic director during the school year.

At first guess a person would say that it takes a lot of people to support all that, but such isn't the case. Marshall, Mo., has a population of about 8,850, the average of who pay a little over a penny a day in taxes to keep up their recreational wonderland. Revenues from the various facilities make up the balance needed to keep the place in first class trim and repair.

The story of that achievement can serve as a blueprint for similar achievement here, if people of Muenster decide they want it. Of course it would have to be on a much smaller scale. It would be futile and extravagant for 1,000 to attempt what is acknowledged to be exceptional for almost nine times as many. But there is no reason why an undertaking our own size could not be developed and maintained with equal success.

Right now we are talking about a swimming pool, and we are also worrying about the expense of building it. Well, we can't do it as a WPA project but there's nothing to keep every willing citizen from donating some of his sweat to the cause. Very likely it's possible also to have some materials donated. The job can be done for a lot less than the figures we have heard quoted as the normal cost of a pool.

That's something to think about. And the sooner the better, even though we have to admit that by starting today we could not hope to get much more use out of it this year. One of our drawbacks now is that we have been forgetting about the pool until the swimming season is here and then admitting that we're running out of time. Well let's do something this time and have it waiting for next summer, maybe get a few swims before the fall chill hits.

Something else to keep in mind is that the pool should be figured in a long range plan of a park that will be a credit and a joy to Muenster. Actually we have a start now. The city park is a scenic and accessible spot with ample room for the facilities to make a wonderful recreation center. What's more it isn't far

General Meeting Of NTPA Demands Higher Milk Price

Officials of the local NTPA plant and ten local members of the North Texas Producers Association were among some 1200 persons attending the organization's annual meeting at Arlington Tuesday.

The group unanimously approved a resolution presented by James W. Crouch, president of the Tarrant County Dairy Association, recommending whatever action is necessary to have the base price of milk raised to $5.60 per hundred pounds. The present price is $4.49 per hundred for base milk and $2.79 for surplus.

Members also adopted a resolution condemning the practice of some distributors buying milk outside the state, thereby creating a surplus in the North Texas area.

Featured speaker was Russell Waltz of Seattle, Wash., president of the National Milk Producers Federation. He criticized Agriculture Secretary Benson for reducing federal support of dairy products to the minimum allowed by law, 75 per cent of parity, stating that less than a half billion of the $12 billion worth of

Phillip Metzler's Good Eye Injured By Sliver of Steel

Phillip Metzler of Lindsay is in Baylor Hospital, Dallas, with his left eye in critical condition following major surgery Saturday to remove a piece of steel from the eyeball. Doctors at the hospital said it would be several days before they could determine if he will have vision in the eye and to what extent he will be able to see.

The accident happened Saturday morning while Metzler was hammering on a piece of farm machinery during a repair job. The sliver of steel was chipped off with such force that it went almost completely through the eyeball, near the pupil. Surgery was performed Saturday night and the patient was reported resting "fairly well," and will be hospitalized at least two weeks. He is in Room 738. Mrs. Metzler is at her husband's bedside and family members visit him daily.

The injured eye is Metzler's good eye. He has only limited sight in his right eye as the result of a previous accident several years ago.

Mrs. Joe Lehnertz, Mother of the Year Gets Plaque at VFW State Convention

Mrs. Joe Lehnertz, as VFW Mother of the Year for Texas, was the honored guest at the banquet held Saturday night at the Texas Hotel in Fort Worth in connection with the organization's annual state convention.

She was queen for the night at the veterans' top social event, receiving a plaque from the VFW and a bouquet of two dozen red roses presented by her granddaughter, Terry Jane Lehnertz, from the citizens of Muenster. She was wearing a carnation corsage given by the Muenster VFW Post.

Her selection for the year's honored title was due principally to the fact that eight sons and a daughter have served in the armed forces. They are Jimmy of Muenster, Earl of Gainesville, Eugene and David of Houston, Giles of Tyler, Quentin of Wash-tuca, Wash., Floyd in the Navy in the Philippines, Donald in the army in Washington and Dolores, now Mrs. B. G. Shively, of Ottumwa, Ia. Another son Claude, still attends school in Muenster. Two of the sons, Jim and Giles were at the banquet.

Mrs. Lehnertz declined to take credit for the honor she received. "The credit should go to the children" she said. "If they had not been in the service I wouldn't have been chosen for this honor."

Her advice to mothers who have children in the service was not to worry but to say a prayer and trust the Good Lord to take care of them. When she got lonely for them during the war she said, she said a prayer and wrote a letter. With five in service she had little time for worry.

At the same banquet Arthur Kramer Jr., of Dallas, president of A Harris & Company received the state organization's 1954 Citizenship Award for his "contribution to American citizenship".

Principal speaker was James W. Cotran past national commander of the VFW. He urged delegates to press for passage of legislation outlawing the communist party and instituting universal military training.

Refuting those who claim that legislation to outlaw the party will just drive the reds underground, he said "that's where they've been all the time. They are not a national party, they are just a group avowed to overthrowing the government."

Cotran said universal military training is the only way to have a large reserve force which the country may need to win a war or to deter aggression.

John E. McKelvey of Electra, former senior vice commander was elected the new state commander. A bomber pilot in World War II, he is remembered here as banquet speaker at the district VFW convention held here early in May.

Muenster members of the VFW and Auxiliary who attended the banquet honoring Mrs. Lehnertz were Andy Yosten and Messrs. and Mmes. Jimmy Lehnertz, Pat Hennigan, F. A. Kathman, Arthur Felderhoff, Ray Swirczynski, Francis Wiese and Ray Wilde.

Father Anthony To Observe Silver Jubilee on July 7

Windthorst plans to close up the town next Wednesday, July 7, and take part in a celebration honoring the Rev. Anthony Schroeder, O.S.B., a son of the parish, on the occasion of his silver sacerdotal jubilee. He is a former pastor of Sacred Heart Church and a brother of Mrs. Robert Knabe of Muenster.

The day's program will begin at 9 a.m. with a solemn high mass in which the jubilarian will be assisted by his cousins, Rev. Mark Berger of Subiaco and Rev. Henry Schroeder of Houston as deacon and subdeacon. They officiated in the same capacities at Father Anthony's first mass 25 years ago.

Among relatives and friends at the celebration will be Father Anthony's father, William Schroeder of Windthorst, and his eleven brothers and sisters, along with a large number of nieces and nephews. Two of his sisters who are nuns will be there. They are Sister Tarcisia of St. Louis, Mo., and Sister Anacletus of Morrilton, Ark. Three of his nieces are nuns. His mother died in 1947.

Parish to Sponsor Picnic on Fourth

Final preparations are under way this week for the annual July 4th community picnic sponsored by Sacred Heart Parish next Sunday afternoon in the parish park.

The event, a benefit for the new Sacred Heart Church, begins about 11 o'clock Sunday and continues through the rest of the day into the night.

Its big feature is the dinner which will be prepared at the parish lunch room and carried to the picnic grounds. The lunches will be available beginning about noon.

The customary concessions will be in operation to provide entertainment for both oldsters and youngsters.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Swirczynski and children spent Monday night and Tuesday here with his parents enroute to their home in Fort Worth after vacationing in Bode, Iowa, with his sister and family, the Clarence Erpeldings.

Mrs. T. W. Cole and children Ronald and Carra Lou of Grand Prairie spent the past week with her mother, Mrs. Carra Pagel.

Population of 1093 Revealed in City's Census and Survey

The estimate of 1000 persons in Muenster has been substantiated with plenty to spare. An unofficial count as Faye Fette completed her rounds Wednesday evening added to 1093. This represents a gain of 193 since the official U. S. census was taken in 1950.

Though the combined census and survey is not finished, it is believed that the figure is very nearly correct. Some people who were not at home still have to be contacted, but they have been included in the count and the official figure will stand at 1093 unless mistakes are discovered on the estimate of people not seen.

It was also pointed out the number is somewhat higher than the number of people actually living here. The non-residents counted in are students and service men who still consider Muenster their home.

Other information on the survey is incomplete and totals have not been run up. Mrs. Fette was able to state, however, that local dental expenditures run into big figures and a dentist is most frequently mentioned in answer to the question about the town's needs. Recreation and industry also continue to appear frequently as recommendations for civic improvement.

One item on the survey which probably will not come up to expectations is the number of workers available here. Mrs. Fette said that not many are looking for something to do. Of those not in business or on a payroll most are either over-age or busy with house work.

Most Comic Books Are Far from Funny

WASHINGTON—In Wyoming, a mother caught her six-year-old boy busily rigging up a bow-and-arrow "death trap" just like the one the villain in the comic book had used to kill his enemy.

In Florida, an Air Force sergeant worries about his younger sister, who became "fanatically obsessed" with terror comic books—and now has "horrible nightmares from which she awakens screaming with utter chilling fright."

In Kentucky, a third-grade school teacher asked her pupils to bring her the comic books they had been reading. She was "simply appalled" to learn that about half her seven, eight and nine-year-olds "were being fed a repulsive mixture of crime, horror and sordid sex."

Those are but three stories among the hundreds of letters which have been written to the Senate juvenile delinquency subcommittee since its public hearings on comic books in New York City last month.

Subcommittee Investigates

Without exception, the letters urge subcommittee chairman Robert C. Hendrickson, R., N. J., to continue investigating the comic book business.

"It is likely we will again visit New York—the heart of the comic book industry—to pursue this subject," Senator Hendrickson said today.

From a California housewife's letter:

"We had a sad case in this community. Members of a family believe if it weren't for obscene literature, their young daughter—shot to death—would be living today." The girl, said the letter, was killed by a young man who "had feasted" on lurid publications.

Worried parents have written of their efforts at home censorship.

"My wife and I are trying to raise our two children to abide by codes of decency," stated a Nevada architect, "but we cannot be policing every nook and cranny where such material (as trashy comic books) can be found."

Disney—Nothing Else

From Maine, another father wrote: "We have had to set up a censorship board in our family. Disney's little animals—fine. But nothing else."

Letters also have been received from doctors, women's clubs, ministers, farm bureau spokesmen and news dealers.

A target of several angry notes was William Gaines, New York publisher of comic magazines, who testified before the Hendrickson group April 21.

An Indiana mother enclosed a letter she had written Mr. Gaines. It read:

"Doesn't your conscience keep you awake at night?"

Mr. Gaines had testified to the legislators:

"I was the first publisher in the United States to publish horror comics. I was responsible . . . I started them . . . I am proud of the comics I publish . . . my only limits are the bounds of good taste."

What's Good Taste?

At that point, Sen. Estes Kefauver, D., Tenn., of the subcommittee held up one of Mr. Gaines' comic books and pointed to the cover.

"It seems to be a man with a woman in a boat, and he is choking her to death with a crowbar. Is that good taste?"

"I think so," said Mr. Gaines.

Senator Kefauver then displayed a comic book cover showing a man holding an ax in one hand and a woman's head in the other, asking if that too were "in good taste."

"Yes for the cover of a horror comic," replied Mr. Gaines. "I think it would be in bad taste if he were holding the head a little higher so that the neck would show with the blood dripping from it."

'54 State Fair Will Show Model Home

The "House Beautiful Pace-setter House for 1955"—an all-electric model home—will be built for exhibition at the 1954 State Fair of Texas, Oct. 9 through 24.

The house is being designed for "a typical Texas family," with air conditioning, two kids, two cars and activities ranging from serious correspondence to sunbathing.

The three-bedroom house is a joint project of the General Electric Company, the University of Texas, House Beautiful Magazine and the State Fair. The house is being designed by five students of the University under direction of Harwell Harris, dean of architecture.

Incorporating the latest innovations in home-building, the model home will be completely furnished and landscaped. All interior decoration will be supervised by decorators on the staff of House Beautiful Magazine, which will feature the home as its "Pacesetter House" in one of its editions in the spring of 1955.

The house will have a living room, dining room, music room, reading alcove, two bedrooms and a play room which will become another bedroom when the hypothetical children get older and want separate rooms for themselves. There is also a sun-bathing garden and a play yard for the kids. The entire house is designed as a unit to provide for a variety of family activities.

A penny will hide the biggest star in the univers, if you hold it close enough to your eye.

Dolores Gremminger And Robert Howell Say Vows Saturday

Miss Dolores Gremminger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Gremminger, and Robert Howell, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Howell of Fort Worth, exchanged marriage vows Saturday night in Sacred Heart church at 7:30. The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Joseph Weinzapfel of Dallas, a cousin of the bride, who also officiated at the nuptial high mass.

Escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an original model gown of embroidered nylon tulle over silk taffeta. The fitted basque bodice featured a deep portrait neckline outlined in satin flowers, short sleeves and very bouffant carpet length skirt over many layers of net over taffeta. Her long mitts were of the embroidered tulle and came to points over her hands. Her circular imported illusion veil fell from a seed pearl headdress and her flowers were white glads centered with a deep purple orchid.

Attendants

Mrs. Robert Mayer of Pilot Point attended her sister as matron of honor, and Miss Gretchen Rasch of Houston, cousin of the bride was bridesmaid. They wore identical waltz length gowns of wedgewood blue nylon illusion with wide multi-ruffled skirts and strapless fitted bodices with cover-up ruffled stoles of the same material. Their small hats, pumps and mitts were of matching blue and they carried arm bouquets of white glads.

Anthony Luke, organist, and members of the church choir presented the wedding music. Baskets of glads and potted fern adorned the sanctuary.

Gene Seets was best man and William Arthur Whitfill Jr. was groomsman. Jimmy Bradford and Charles Parr were ushers. All are of Fort Worth.

Mrs. Gremminger attended her daughter's wedding in a mauve silk dress with white accessories and Mrs. Howell wore a navy blue sheer with navy and white accessories. Both had white gladiola corsages as did Mrs. Oscar Henderson, grandmother of the groom.

Reception

Immediately after the wedding a reception honoring Mr. and Mrs. Howell was held on the lawn at the Gremminger home. Mrs. Maurice Pagel, sister of the bride, presided at the guest book, and Misses Floradell Endres and Dorothy Niver served the wedding cake after it was cut by the bride and groom. Miss Jackie Kraus poured punch.

The long refreshment table was covered with a lace cloth and held the four-tier cake flanked with blue and white candles, the crystal punch service and arrangements of white glads and Bells of Ireland.

After the reception the newlyweds left on a short wedding trip not revealing their destination. For traveling Mrs. Howell wore a navy silk shantung dress with white accessories and an orchid corsage.

They will make their home at 3309 Hughes in Fort Worth.

Mrs. Howell is a native of Muenster and a graduate of Sacred Heart High with the class of 1950. For the past two years she has been employed in Fort Worth as a secretary for Universal CIT. Her husband is a native of Fort Worth and a graduate of Laneri High and attended Arlington State College at Arlington. He is employed by Texas Electric Company in Fort Worth.

Rehearsal Dinner

Members of the wedding party were entertained with a dinner in the Main Cafe Friday night following the wedding rehearsal. Guests included members of the bridal party, family members, Rev. Louis Deuster and Rev. Joseph Weinzapfel and close friends of the couple.

Out Of Town Relatives

Among out of town relatives at the wedding and reception were Messrs. and Mmes. O. R. Howell, Oscar Henderson, Charlie Prine, Gordon Porter and daughter Phyllis, Harold Blanton and Eddie Henderson, Mrs. H. V. Allen and Mrs. Ted Mallila, all of Fort Worth, relatives of the groom.

Rev Joseph Weinzapfel of Dallas, Mrs. Catherine Morbitzer and son Dennis and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Morbitzer and daughter Rena of Fort Worth, Mrs. Margaret Rasch and children Hans and Gretchen and Bill Foley of Houston, Mr. and Mrs. John Zihlman of Arlington, Mr. and Mrs. B. CAN WASTE BE STOPPED?

Here is something every taxpayer needs to know: What happens if Congress does not authorize raising the statutory limit on the national debt? The government will have to cut out wasteful expenses and get by in the 1954-55 fiscal year on its estimated income of $62.6 billion. That's all. Nothing else happens. The national debt would bump up against the $275 billion legal limit, and that would be the end of operating our federal government on borrowed money—at least until the present $275 billion debt had been whittled down. What is meant by wasteful expenses? Just what it sounds like. The requested 1955 fiscal year budget is for $65.6 billion. If only $62.6 billion in income is anticipated, that means, to balance the budget, cuts must be made totaling $3 billion. There is more downright waste than that in today's federal spending. That's actually less than 5 per cent of the budgeted expenditures. Hundreds of documented incidents could be cited of waste of tax money by loose spending and bad management.

Governor Cuts Waste

Governor Francis Cherry of Arkansas, when he took office 18 months ago, made a thorough study of wasteful spending practices in that state. He went back 18 years and studied the pattern of government spending in Arkansas. He found that in the fourth quarter of each fiscal year the various departments splurged—they spent on an average of 30 per cent more in these fourth quarters than in any other three month period during the fiscal year. Governor Cherry knew why. It was an "open secret," a tradition in the political management of the government. If a department had an unspent balance at the end of the fiscal year, the department head could hardly go before the legislature's budget committee and ask for a bigger appropriation for the fiscal year ahead. But if all his money had been used up by the end of the year, he could ask for the bigger appropriation. So in the last three months of each year he "unloaded." Governor Cherry estimated there had been about $500,000 of wasteful, needless spending each year. This was just one small item of waste which now has been stopped. Millions were being wasted in loose-spending highway construction. And these were many other incidents of waste which have been corrected.

Enormous Waste

Perhaps the fourth-quarter squandering practice does not prevail in Washington, but wholesale waste on a grand scale does prevail and can be stopped. It is my feeling, based on considerable study of the financial practices of the federal government, that more than 5 per cent of the $65.6 billion budget proposed for 1955 could be saved by eliminating normal political waste.

It is a waste of taxpayers' money for 2,743,801 civilians to be employed in the federal government, as reported this month by Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D.Va.). It is a waste of taxpayers' money for 7,047,000 persons to be on federal, state, and local civilian government payrolls, as reported by the U. S. Census Bureau. That's too many people in government. That many are not needed. The official figures mean that one out of every nine of the employed people of the nation are on government payrolls, not counting those in uniform.

Payroll Needs Trimming

Can the national budget be balanced? Of course it can! The 2,743,801 civilians on the federal government payroll include 408,505 "foreign nationals" working for U. S. military agencies abroad. All together these 2,743,801 federal employees have salaries totaling approximately $9 billion. If one-third of these were cut off, that would be a $3 billion reduction in the budget; and at least another billion in overhead would be lopped off which now is being spent for equipping and supplying them. And the federal payroll is only one spigot on the flowing waste that could be cut off if a genuine hard-headed effort were made.

Some politicians would say that it is "impractical" to talk of cutting the federal payroll quickly by 30 per cent. Yet it could be done in a year's time, without hindering governmental service, if a payroll reduction plan were drafted and carried out. Without a rigid plan it will not be done. The present Administration began a lopping off process, but it quickly slowed down to a trickle. At the rate of reduction during the last two months it would require exactly 25 years to cut off a third of the 2,743,801 jobs. We are not likely to get a balanced budget until the taxpayers demand more speed in cutting out the staggering waste of an overgrown, loose-spending federal bureaucracy.

Declaration of Independence is the American Credo

By Rev. G. Stuart Hogan

WE AMERICANS OWE our God-given freedom, inalienable rights, and material prosperity to a belief in God. Our ability to preserve our freedom and prosperity will depend directly upon our ability to understand and perpetuate the principles which gave it birth.

The Founders of our Country set forth these principles in the preamble to the Declaration of Independence.

THEY PRO-FESSED their belief in God who is the Creator of heaven and earth. If there is no God, then man is the mere creature of the state, and derives his rights from the state; the state can take away his rights.

The Founding Fathers believed that all men are created equal. True, men are not born physically equal nor are they equally endowed with this world's goods, but all men are created in the image and likeness of God. Each has an eternal, not merely a temporal, destiny. To attain eternal union with God in heaven, every man must be free from all enslavement by the state, and therefore has been endowed by his Creator with certain inalienable rights.

THE AUTHORS of the Declaration of Independence recognized that these inalienable rights include the right to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. The purpose of man on earth is to pursue his own happiness. But no one can be happy unless he lives in conformity with the will of God. God gives man certain rights that he may be able to live in conformity with the natural law. The state may not do anything which would impede man from attaining happiness in this life and in the life hereafter through conformity with the divine plan.

IN FACT, THE FATHERS of our Country believed that it was the function of civil government to secure these rights among men. The new government would not rule their lives as kings in all lands had done in the past. The government existed, said Thomas Jefferson, "to keep men from injuring one another, and to secure to its citizens their natural, God-given rights."

Let us realize that our rights are God-given. They cannot be recognized, they cannot be unalienable, if we deny or ignore the existence of God. The Declaration of Independence is and must ever remain, the Credo of the American people.

"ENGINE NO. 1" MAKES ITS RECORD RUN—Striking along before the push of six 4500-pound thrust rockets, this rocket sled carries its passenger, Lt.-Col. John P. Stapp, at a record-breaking trip ground speed of 421 miles per hour at Holloman Air Development Center near Alamogordo, N. M. The Northrup-built device, nicknamed "Engine No. 1, Volunteer Fire Department," is being used to study effects encountered by crews of jet planes during supersonic bailouts. When equipped with 12 rockets, the device is expected to attain a speed of 1800 miles an hour, and simulate conditions which a pilot would face at approximately 1800 miles per hour at a 40,000-foot altitude.

Soil Conservation Notes

The stockpile of ammunition for the battle against soil erosion continued to grow around Muenster this week. The weapons in the battle to save the soil are clover and vetch seed and cooperators of the Upper Elm-Red Soil Conservation District were busily gathering the valuable seed with combines.

Vetch and sweet clover are valuable tools to use for soil protection and improvement. They protect the soil with a carpet of green during the spring when hard rains come, they add tons of organic matter to the soil to give it renewed life, they add nitrogen through bacteria on the roots and they open up tight soils so that more water can go into the soil to be stored for plant use.

Sweet clover has produced a bumper crop of seed this year with yields running from 200 to 600 pounds of seed per acre. Highest yields are made when clover is windrowed with a converted binder or windrow machine, left to dry for four or five days, then combined.

Leo Hesse finished harvesting 10 acres of Madrid clover and estimates that it shelled out 7200 pounds of combine run seed. Tony Trubenbach harvested about 10 acres of Madrid clover on the Felderhoff farm south of Muenster with yields at 400 pounds of seed an acre, and Leonard Hartman has just finished combining 20 acres of sweet clover on the John Hartman farm.

Others are getting their clover windrowed in the early morning while it is damp to keep the seed from shattering. Tony Wimmer has 22 acres of Madrid in the windrow. Al Walter has 20 acres of clover in windrows on the Rudy Hellman farm south of Muenster. Joe Hess has some 20 acres of Biennial white clover in windrows and Al Hess is working on 10 acres of Madrid. Charlie Fisher is busy getting some 30 acres of Biennial white clover in windrows and Oscar Walter has 5 acres of Madrid windrowed on his farm east of Muenster.

In the vetch seed department

S. H. Hilburn finished combining some 12 acres of vetch and had 2900 pounds of vetch seed. Paul Fisher has completed harvesting his vetch, Paul Endres is combining vetch that he seeded in his pasture land at Valley Creek. Earl Robison and Jimmy Cole are also in the midst of vetch seed harvest.

Bermuda grass waterways need mowing to remove taller growing grasses and weeds so the Bermuda can make better growth. Dan Maples has mowed and sprayed two waterways on the Buckner Orphan Home's north ranch. Frank Hacker has mowed his waterway on his farm south of Muenster. Hubert Felderhoff & Sons mowed their waterway on the Etter farm northeast of Muenster, and J. W. Fleitman used a silage cutter to remove the weeds and tall grass from his Indian grass waterway.

"Only the New Holland could handle my corn and sorghum!"

Says Dr. Chas. F. Webb, Quinia Farms
R. 1, Oakfield, Tennessee

The New Holland Forage Harvester chops and loads up to 20 tons of silage per hour.

"Until last year, I harvested my silage mostly by hand using an old-fashioned binder. Then I decided to try a forage harvester. Three makes were demonstrated to me, including the New Holland. The corn and sorghum in my silage crop was unusually large—stalks ran as high as fifteen feet and up to two inches in diameter at the butt. Of the three forage harvesters, the New Holland was the only one that would make a round without stopping continuously to unclog the machine.

"I bought the New Holland and harvested approximately 45 acres, which averaged about 40 tons per acre, without any difficulty.

"I am particularly pleased with the reversible feature on the header and the large throat clearance at the fan enabling the machine to avoid clogging up and other delays. I am also pleased with the turning feature of the discharge spout as I use both trailers and trucks to haul silage."

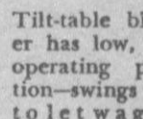

Ask your New Holland dealer The New Holland is a compact machine designed for smooth operation... yet many owners report high capacity, too. Ask us for a demonstration on your own farm.

Model 621 Windrow Attachment

With this attachment you can harvest up to 18 tons of grass silage an hour. Extra-long spring fingers give positive pick-up. Overhead reel assures steady feeding.

Model 680 Forage Blower

Tilt-table blower has low, 22" operating position—swings up to let wagon pass. It can move up to 30 tons of grass and 40 tons of corn silage per hour. Wheels are retractable.

Model 610 Power Take-Off Harvester

This model has the same outstanding features as the self-powered harvester. It operates with full efficiency from any 3-plow tractor equipped with power take-off.

THE OLD WOODSHED . . . OR THE GARAGE WILL DO

The new-fangled "behaviorist school" of youth training under whose teaching you let a child do just as it pleases as a matter of "self-expression," has no friend in Federal Judge Edgar S. Vaught. Like a great many of the older generation, the Oklahoma judge is a firm believer in old time discipline in the home where all discipline should start.

Judge Vaught, addressing Governor Johnston Murray's seminar on growing juvenile delinquency last week, made it clear he does not join with those who think a "psychiatrist is better than a shingle" in teaching youngsters how to behave like people rather than little fiends. "I am a great believer in the old home with discipline," he said. "I also believe in the woodshed. In fact, I was a good sized boy before I knew a shingle was something used for building roofs.

This federal jurist will find a loud chorus of "amens" from the ranks of wiser parents, and from many of the school, police and social workers who come into contact with youthful wrongdoers.

The old "woodshed" was not a place of torment or of cruelty. It was not even a definite place or type of building, but rather an institution where it was taught, with appropriate fatherly gestures, that a child was expected to be polite, obedient, respectful of its elders and of the rights of others. There was learned the fundamental lesson that wrongdoing is bound to bring punishment and is not something to be passed off with a shrug or a laugh or wisecrack by either youth or parent.

A lengthy lecture or quotations from Dr. Whoozit's book on "Child Training without the Rod" is not now and never was a very sure way of impressing little Willie with the penalties of misdeeds. If the child understands the stuff at all, he is likely to laugh inwardly and feel he has gotten away with something, and can get away with it again.

A good right hand placed firmly on the youthful anatomy where it will do the most good . . . or a hairbrush, shingle or house slipper similarly applied . . . is, however, bound to make an impression. It is not something for the youth to laugh off lightly, or easily forget.

The scene need not be the woodshed, now long extinct. The garage will do just as well, or the basement, or even the home living room. It's the quick and certain punishment that counts. Given a return to that sound practice around the home, a goodly part of the youthful mischief which can later lead to real juvenile delinquency will be stopped in its tracks, to the good of the family, the community, and the child itself.

It has been wisely pointed out that a man's age can be measured by the degree of pain he feels as he comes in contact with a new idea.

Only a vain and egotistical male will say that women are the weaker sex. They live eight years longer than men, they represent 20 percent of the labor forces of the nation; they own 40 percent of the homes, 50 percent of the railroad stock, and have 70 percent of the wealth. They spend 80 percent of the money that goes for food and buy 67 percent of the clothing. They have 99 percent of the beauty of humans and the only time they cause trouble is when some foolish man doesn't do what he is told.

A bride-to-be was showing her friend a list of guests to be invited to the wedding.

After her friend had read the names she looked puzzled.

"What's the matter?" asked the bride-to-be.

"Isn't it rather strange," queried the friend, "you have only put down the names of married couples."

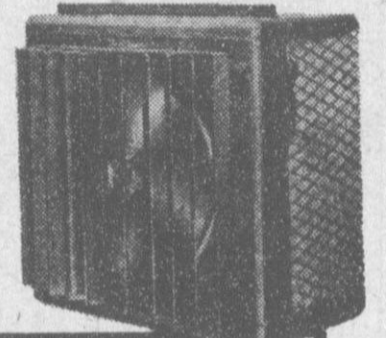

"Yes, that was Jack's idea. Don't you think it's rather clever? He says that if we invite only married people the presents will be all clear profit."

Some people have the idea they are worth a lot of money just because they have it.

RED CHAIN with MO-FAT CREEP FEED

Your pasture may be tops, nevertheless beef calves creep-fed on RED CHAIN Mo-Fat Creep Feed will weigh 50 to 75 pounds more at weaning at 7 months than those on forage alone. Such calves preserve their baby fat and finish and invariably sell for 1 to 2 cents more per pound. By creep feeding you can boost your beef income per acre and keep your cows in better condition.

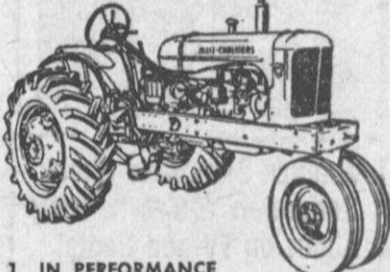

THE ADVANTAGES OF CREEP FEEDING

1. Calves learn to eat grain and roughage earlier . . . they grow faster and thriftier.
2. Creep-fed calves are heavier at weaning.
3. Creep-fed calves bring higher prices.
4. Brood cows keep in better condition.
5. Nuggets save feeding labor.
6. RED CHAIN Mo-Fat Creep Feed Nuggets provide extra proteins, minerals, and vitamins to boost range efficiency.

Cyril and Mark Hermes, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Hermes, and their cousin, Gilbert Hermes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clem Hermes, returned home Sunday night from Subiaco, Ark., where they attended summer camp. They returned with the group of boys who attended from Münster.

Mrs. Joe Bezner was in Dallas Friday for a final check-up on her leg, broken last winter. Her son, Joe, went with her and they visited family members there before returning home.

John Schmitz of Dallas visited here Sunday with his brother Joe Schmitz and attended the parish picnic in the afternoon.

The Francis Dieters of Dallas are vacationing here with family members until after the July 4th holidays.

The Joe Bezners Jr. and children spent Sunday in Dallas as guests of Mr. and Mrs. I. B. Stanford and little daughter, Judy and Barbara Bezner remained for an extended visit.

BIRTHDAY OBSERVANCE

Diamond Fuhrmann was pleasantly surprised on his birthday when his wife entertained with a party at their home. Gifts, visiting and refreshments were on the evening's program.

Guests: the Pete Blocks and family, the H. S. Fuhrmanns and LaVern, the Ray Hess family of Münster, the John Kuntzes of Valley View and the honoree and his family.

from another spot which has been designated as a detention reservoir site. A short road would bring the two practically together.

Within the foreseeable future we have prospects of boating, fishing and swimming. And there's plenty of room for other attractions such as children's playground equipment, tennis, horseshoes and a building to serve as a pavilion, shower house, rest rooms and other possible purposes. All that, along with a nice landscape job is within the means and energies of Münster, and it will be attained if we make up our minds that we want it.

All of us are deeply concerned about the future of our town and our children. We talk about providing more opportunity to make a living but we must remember that it's equally important to provide opportunities for enjoying life.

If we'll take care of our recreational needs we can think less about other needs. If it's fun to live here more of our own will stay and more others will come to help with the other developments.

Father Anthony - - -

the 12 children of Mr. and Mrs. William Schroeder was born at Tours, Texas, on June 2, 1902. The family moved to Windthorst when he was a lad and he attended school there, later entering Subiaco Monastery in Arkansas. His was the second fulfilled vocation to the priesthood in the parish.

As a young man he was outstanding in athletics and turned down an offer from the Saint Louis Cardinals who wanted him for pro baseball, in favor of the priesthood. He was ordained in Little Rock, Ark., on Dec. 16, 1928, and became pastor at New Blaine, Ark., the following Jan. 26. He returned to Subiaco as secretary - treasurer and athletic director of Subiaco Academy in September 1929 and a few months later assumed additional duties as procurator of Subiaco Abbey. Meanwhile he continued as missionary pastor at New Blaine until 1940 when he became pastor of the Subiaco parish. Five years later he became pastor at Altus, Ark. From there he came to Münster in August 1949 as pastor and remained here until Oct. 1951 when he returned to Altus as pastor.

VFW Softballers Win 2, Mid-season Loop Record is 6-3

In two games during the past week the Münster VFW team improved its percentage and held on to fourth place standing in the Cooke County softball league with a record of 6-3 at the midpoint of the schedule. They lambasted Callisburg 19-4 last Thursday night and coasted past Cox-Hamon 6-3 Tuesday night.

Loop leaders after the Tuesday game were Bezner (8-1), Gainesville VFW (7-2), and TP&L (7-2).

The big game of the week was the Saturday night classic in which Gainesville VFW, behind Sid Felker's hot pitching nosed out the Chicks 4-3. He had the advantage over Rich Mosman all the way but alert fielding by the Chicks kept the score tight until Mosman walked in the winning run in the seventh.

Münster's game with Callisburg was a slugfest of 16 hits including 3 triples and 4 doubles aided by 8 errors for the local Veterans while Callisburg got three scattered.

The bombardment started in the first adding up to 7 runs before Pitcher Fox retired the side. Another big inning was the fourth, which netted 5 tallies.

Cain, pitching for Münster got 2 strikeouts while allowing 1 walk. Fox had no strikeouts and walked one.

The contest with Cox-Hamon was just a little less of the same as Münster boys blasted out their 6-3 on 11 hits, 5 errors and 2 walks. Cox-Hamon put a total of 8 on base on 3 hits, 3 errors and 2 walks. Reiter wielded the heavy club, accounting for 3 Münster hits.

Though pitching a steady game Cain was deprived of the satisfaction of a strikeout, while the losing Fleetwood whiffed 4.

Things were different in a practice game with Bowie here Friday night in which the visitors wrapped up an easy 10-2 win. The difference was in errors as Bowie cashed in on 5 hits, 8 errors and a walk while Münster had to go it on 5 hits, no errors and a walk.

Next games on schedule for the Münster boys are Sinclair on July 2 and National Guard on July 7.

Stopping his car near a mountain shack in the Ozarks, a tourist called to an old woman sitting on the porch, "How far is it to the nearest town?" "Pa figgers it's 10 miles thar and 12 back," she answered. "Which is on account of him walkin' straighter goin' than comin'."

Schoolboys Rally In Last Inning to Conquer Krum 8-7

The Münster Schoolboys kept their fans in suspense a long time Sunday but came through with a rally in the last frame to edge out the Krum team 8-7. It was the fourth game in the North Texas Summer Baseball League and improved the boys' standing to 2 wins and 2 losses.

Münster took the lead in the bottom of the first with one run and Krum snapped back in the top of the third for a 2-1 lead. Richey's 2-run homer in the same inning changed the lead again but that lasted only until the next frame when Krum also slammed out a 2-run homer and got another run too boot.

Starting the fifth Manager Dick Cain tried to stop the visitors by replacing Fleitman with Walterscheid on the mound. But Krum wasn't impressed and pushed over 2 more in the first of the fifth for a 4 run lead which Münster promptly cut down to a 7-5 count.

Walterscheid retired the visitors in short order in their next two innings and Münster cut loose with a barrage on its last chance at bat, bringing in the third and deciding run before making an out.

agricultural products in storage are dairy products.

He also called attention to a National Milk Producers program to handle their own surplus and run their industry instead of letting distributors run it for them.

A program along this line is already in operation in the NTPA. Surplus milk from the membership of some 3000 members is being processed into cheese, condensed milk and powdered milk in the Münster plant. During the first 5 months of this year the plant handled 22,692,571 pounds of milk and marketed their products for $838,101.

That volume far exceeds the previous yearly volume in the local plant. The top figure previously was about 15,000,000 pounds a year. During the Spring rush milk receipts here reached as high as 256,000 pounds a day. Now they average about 100,000 pounds. Officers of the NTPA are Troy Kern of Cooper, president, C. O. Norton of Weatherford and Nick Roff of Cleburne, vice presidents, and J. O. Woodman of Arlington, manager.

Münster people attending the meeting were Rudy Hellman, Bill McLean, Roy Belleville and Messrs. and Mmes. Paul Fisher, Tony Wimmer, J. A. Klement, Ray Sicking and Leo Mosman.

Too many people are thinking of security instead of opportunity. They seem more afraid of life than death.
