Alaska Oil Sits, People Freeze

There is something heroically foolish about an attitude of ecological morality that says, "We must take care of the caribou at all costs; never mind what happens to people."

Amid the great fuel shortage that our country is now enduring, and while the great oil fields discovered at great cost off the Alaska north slope sit idle and unused, and while people suffer from lack of heat, the caribou in Alaska take their young to visit the pipeline camps to see how humans live.

But the 789-mile Alaska Pipeline, from Prudhoe Bay to the Arctic Ocean to Valdez on the Gulf of Alaska, almost due south, is not being built. It "might" bother the caribou, say the self-appointed ecologists. But that — as a cause for the delay of this great project, which would undeniably benefit people — does not ring true. For one thing, a 500-mile pipeline between Haines and Fairbanks already exists, in the same territory of the proposed Alaska line, and nobody has alleged that the caribou suffer from it.

Arguments have even been raised over the precise width of the right-of-way for the Alaska Pipeline. How ridiculous can you get? If you were to find a human hair long enough to stretch across the floor of your living room, and you did lay the hair across the floor, how much effect would it have on the atmosphere of the room? The width of the proposed pipeline, in proportion to Alaska, is far less than the width of a hair across your living room floor. But, because of this and similar useless debate, the $3-billion project languishes, while we look desperately about for ways to meet the fuel crisis. The seven oil companies concerned in the project make no outcry, hoping for a return of sanity and enterprise that made this nation great; indeed, the kind of enterprise which made possible the discovery of the oil. It is a manufactured crisis that passes all understanding.

"We Can Kill You All"

In mid-March, in a suburb adjoining our nation's capital, five armed thugs unsuccessfully attempted to rob a vending machine company. During an hour long melee between the hoods, the police, and twenty hostages, one gunman was killed, two more gunmen and four of the terrorized hostages were shot, and thirteen of the hostages were hospitalized, three of them critically wounded. Newspaper reporters wrote that "the scene inside the offices and warehouse where the hostages underwent their ordeal was unbelievable . . . teeth were lying on the floor . . . the interiors of the three rooms and a hallway were chipped and scarred by gunfire . . . one robbery detective said. This is the worst robbery I've ever seen!"

The robbers pistol-whipped and shot their victims without restraint; many suffered from wounds by flying lead from ricocheting bullets, and it was a miracle more were not killed.

The reason? One of the gunmen said: "We can kill you all . . . There's no death penalty." Isn't it time for our lawmakers to take prompt action, before more innocent victims suffer?

SAM, STILL MEASURING BY THE FOOT?

Let's Go Metric

In August of last year, the Senate passed legislation moving for U.S. adoption of the international metric system as our primary system and comparable action is anticipated in the House. From a number of viewpoints this is a most responsible decision.

In the first place, we are now the only industrial nation on earth not on or moving to the metric system. It is estimated that with metric-sized products we'll open up as much as $10-billion additional foreign trade and heaven knows with our trade imbalance we can use it. Continuing to use our customary system places us in a technological trap of our own making and this is insane in a world where all are moving to a single technology. Although the move will be expensive, evidence is such that failure to change will be more costly in the long run.

Domestically a shift to metrics will create some confusion for both the public and business, but in the long run we'll probably learn it better than our present system. After all, how much sense is there to a system that asks you to relate 12 inches to a foot, three feet to a yard, 36 inches to a yard, 1,760 yards to the mile or 5,280 feet to the mile? With metrics we measure simply — for length the meter is divided into decimeters (1/10th), centimeters (1/100th), millimeters (1/1000th) — all you do is move a decimal point! The system is so much more logical than our own.

The changeover will also encourage us to update our standards and specifications for products, offering us an unprecedented opportunity to improve them and cut out the unnecessary variety which increases cost.

Quick action on this legislation would be a service to America's economic future.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:
 Wish to comment on last week's "Letter to Editor," on "Organic Living." I for one sure would like to see this column in your newspaper. I am truly interested in keeping our soil fertile and therefore bring about healthier people. I have for years used kitchen refuse in our garden instead of dumping it and have taken to organic gardening. When people see our garden they explain their garden troubles and say, "How do you do it?" Organic gardening enriches the soil in addition to keeping it loose and rich to produce almost anything all year long. We certainly feed ourselves better and remain in better health besides practicing true ecology by using the organic method of gardening.

Dear Editor:
 Not too long ago a person wrote in wondering why Muenster people go out of town to shop.

To give you one reason — like last Friday night the 4-H and F.F.A. girls and boys showed their calves that they raise. There is a sale at night in the Gainesville Livestock, (at no charge), some use this money for future calves or for college savings.

 Who buys these animals? — Well the business people give a good price and usually sell back to a Meat Packing Co. and really are not out of a lot and I'm sure can be taking off income tax.

Well you could count the Muenster business people on one hand — like Muenster Milling Co., Muenster Bank and Buster Herr. They sell feed to the people but what about the ones that sell to feed and clothe the family — they weren't there.

Show you one example — one Valley View Future Farmer got 90c while Muenster's high was 48c to 50c. Think of the business places Muenster has compared to Valley View.

Right on Muenster you'll never get better at this rate. I'm going shopping out of town — anybody with me?

NOTES FROM THE LIBRARY

By Bettie Luke
This article will deal with books on automobiles.

"The Wonderful World of Automobiles, 1895-1930" edited by Joseph J. Schroeder Jr., is really a picture book of all the different early cars, some priced as low as $475 in 1910. Quite interesting.

"Early Cars" by Michael Sedgwick even pictures clothes worn for motoring in 1902, certainly a necessity.

"Racing Cars That Made History" by David C. Cooke shows pictures of cars that won in the famous races.

"The Complete Book of Hotrodding" by Robert E. Peterson shows pictures of the different engines to make hot-rodding practical.

"Dragging and Driving" by Tom Mac Pherson is of interest to young people. In 1940 Santa Anna, California, provided a runway and coaxed hot rodders to abandon dragging on public roads.

Come and read with us.

Car Registration Deadline Saturday

AUSTIN — For all practical purposes, Saturday (March 31) will be the last day to register motor vehicles for 1973, Robert W. Townsley, director of the Motor Vehicle Division of the Texas Highway Department, said today.

Townsley noted that the law set the final registration date as April 1, which this year falls on Sunday when county tax offices are closed.

The 1973 license plates must be displayed on vehicles registered in Texas starting Monday, April 2. So they must be acquired not later than Saturday, March 31, to avoid penalty.

Crime Rate Drops In Texas in 1972

Major crimes are on the decline in Texas, according to a new Department of Public Safety report.

Col. Wilson E. Speir, DPS director, said the number of crimes last year was 2.2 per cent below 1971 — the first measurable decline since 1954.

Translated into crime rates, the 1972 figure was six per cent below the 1971 rate per 100,000 population.

The decrease, Speir said, was only the fourth since DPS began compiling its Texas Crime Report 30 years ago.

Decreases were noted in murders, aggravated assaults and thefts. Small increases were observed in rapes, robberies and auto thefts — with a larger increase in the burglary category.

The urban crime rate overall was down 5.7 percent, with the rural rate off 5.8 percent.

Crime clearance rates remained at 26 per cent. Clearance rate for murder improved from 86 per cent to 89 per cent, with further improvements noted in robberies, aggravated assaults and thefts.

Many factors are responsible, said Speir.

The DPS chief cited improved law enforcement effectiveness through training, education, more personnel and better facilities, as well as improvements in other parts of the criminal justice system and "a growing awareness and concern on the part of the public that crime must be impeded."

The crime statistics break down to one major crime every five and a quarter hours, a rape every three hours and 45 minutes and a robbery every half hour.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Stelzer of Post arrived Wednesday night to visit until Sunday with her father Ed Eberhart and other relatives in Muenster, Lindsay and Gainesville.

Budget: System in which the outcome of the income depends on the outgo for the upkeep.

Vivid memories of the havoc wrought by the floods following Hurricane Buelah still plague many Rio Grande Valley educators.

At a recent administrators' meeting, the speaker ended a positive statement with, "You can be sure this will happen, come —," then paused and quipped, "Can you say 'hell' down here?"

From the back of the room came the quick reply, "Yes, you can say 'hell,' but you sure better not say 'high water!'"

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Vogel are proud parents of a daughter, Marcia Kay, eight pounds 13 ounces, born at Muenster Hospital Thursday, March 22, 2:56 p.m. She's a sister for Scotty, a granddaughter for the Paul Sickings and Lawrence Vogels and a great-granddaughter for Mrs. Hilda Reiter.

Sgt. and Mrs. Ray Rumley of McConnell AFB, Wichita, Kansas, announce the birth of Rhonda Michelle Tuesday, March 20, 10:30 a.m. She's an eight pound six ounce sister for Stephanie Renee, age 2. Grandparents are Mrs. John C. Miller of Gainesville and Mr. and Mrs. Victor Staatz of Wichita, Kansas.

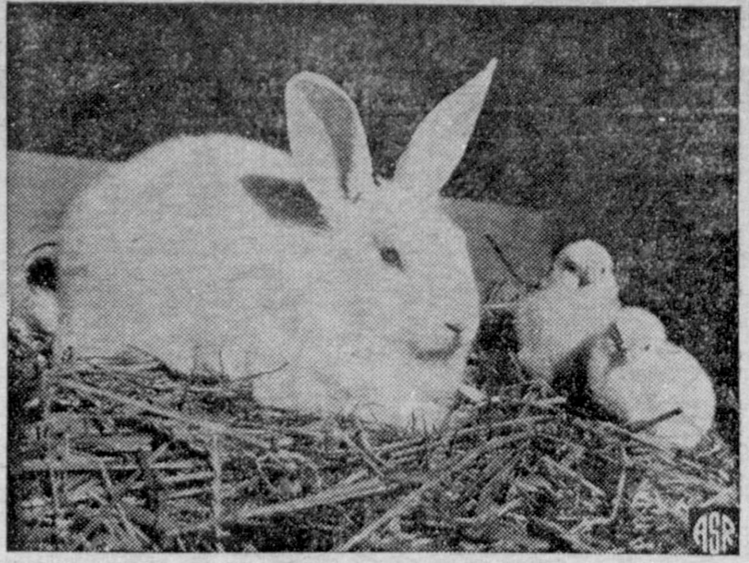

Back from Hereford

Mrs. John Herr is back in Muenster after a three-month visit in Hereford. She left in December planning to spend Christmas holidays. Snow and ice held her over the New Year holidays. After that she helped her sister and husband, the Elbert Vances move into a new home and then Mrs. Vance suffered a heart ailment and needed help. She's up and around again and back at her business work part time. Mrs. Herr also visited other relatives including her sister, Mrs. Gertrude Neil who is up and around recovered from a broken leg and other injuries sustained in a bicycle accident last October.

Father Bede Mitchel was in Fort Worth Wednesday to conduct funeral services for a long-time friend, James Parnell.

Vernon Braddock, Greenbriar Ranch foreman of Van Alstyne, stopped in for a visit with the Leonard Endres Tuesday. He is their nephew.

Keep Them Down On The Farm

Giving baby rabbits, chicks and ducks for Easter is cruel and in many states and cities illegal. The American Veterinary Medical Association (AVMA) urges parents not to give children living animals as toys.

A baby rabbit, chick or duck is not likely to survive in the home atmosphere, AVMA points out. A young child's enthusiasm over the new pet often results in unknowing cruelty as legs are broken and wings crushed. If the animal dies or is injured, it is a traumatic experience for the child. If the animal survives, it generally ends up in an animal shelter. Because such a large number of rabbits, chicks and ducks are left at animal shelters during the post-Easter season, it is impossible to place them all and many have to be destroyed. Even if the animal should reach maturity, many local ordinances would prohibit a family from keeping it.

Parents should remember that these are outdoor animals. They cannot be housebroken and may cause serious housekeeping and health problems. Many are disease carriers. The National Center for Disease Control in Atlanta and other public health authorities warn that children and adults in close contact with these animals may be exposed to salmonellosis, a severe gastro-intestinal infection. Salmonellosis is rarely fatal but often requires medical treatment including hospitalization. In addition to the family, other pets in the household may become ill.

Because of the problems surrounding "Easter pets," many communities have passed laws prohibiting the sale of these animals, including rabbits, ducklings and other fowl.

Easter and the coming of spring should be a time of joy and rebirth, not a period of physical illness, psychological trauma and the needless deaths of young animals.

AVMA urges parents to leave rabbits, chicks, ducklings and similar animals on the farm and give their children stuffed toys or chocolate "bunnies" instead.

Fashion Foul-Ups

The new wide, flared pants are fun to wear but make both women and men vulnerable to the same types of accident as the maxicoats of a couple of seasons ago. Safety experts caution against getting these pants caught in car, train and bus doors, escalators, revolving doors and bike chains and spokes. They also emphasize that heels get easily caught in hems - frequently causing severe if not near fatal falls. For safety's sake, make sure the new wide pants are fitted properly with the hem falling no lower than the ankle bone and exert caution when entering or exiting from vehicles.

Texas Approches Number One Title In Cattle Feeding

"Texas cattle feeders are continuing to gain a tighter foothold on the title of the Number 1 cattle feeding state in the nation," points out Dr. Edward Uvacek, livestock marketing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

On Jan. 1, the number of cattle on feed in Texas was up 16 percent over Jan. 1 of last year. The new record high of 2.2 million head was also 16 percent of all the cattle on feed in the nation.

Nationwide, marketings totaling some 7 million head are expected during the January-March quarter with 18 percent coming from Texas feedlots. "This further illustrates the increasing importance of Texas as a cattle feeding state," points out Uvacek.

Texas marketings during the first quarter of 1973 are expected to be up 33 percent compared to the same period last year.

Total feed cattle marketings in Texas during 1972 reached the 4.3 million mark compared to 3.7 million head in 1971.

As far as the 23 major cattle feeding states are concerned, there were 13.9 million head — 9 percent more than a year ago — on feed as of Jan. 1, notes the specialist. Expected marketings in the first quarter of 1973 are projected to be up 7 percent for the 23-state area.

Cattle and calves placed on feed last October, November and December in Texas were up 12 percent over that period a year ago.

"The Panhandle of Texas continues to be the prime cattle feeding area, boasting two-thirds of all the cattle on feed in the state," adds Uvacek.

Sign on the bulletin board in front of church: Come early and be sure of getting a back seat.

On a curving road in a rural area two cars crashed head-on. While the two motorists were exchanging license and registration numbers, one man said to the other, "You seem a little shaken up. How about a drink?"

The drink was accepted gratefully. After a few swallows the other driver said to his host, "Aren't you going to have one yourself?" "Not now," said the host. "Not until after the police have been here."

SIX FLAGS ON THE GROW — Six Flags Over Texas will feature Good Time Square, an all-new section for 1973. Shown in the artist's rendering above, the five acres include two major rides, a miniature circus, a games area and new restaurant facilities. Built at a cost of some one and one-half million dollars, it is Six Flags' largest expansion program in several years. Good Time Square reflects the architecture of a Texas town at the turn of the century.

SEASON BEGINS

EXCITING NEW ATTRACTIONS ADDED TO SIX FLAGS LINEUP

Arlington, Texas — SIX FLAGS Over Texas' biggest expansion program in several years has added a completely new entertainment area and two major rides to the theme park's growing list of attractions.

The new section—Good Time Square—covers nearly five acres adjacent to the Park's Boomtown area.

Largest of the new rides is The Infernal Electrical Bumping Machines, a "giant size" version of the traditionally popular "bumper cars." The SIX FLAGS installation boasts fifty cars, which is approximately double the number usually found on such rides.

Another new ride, Crazy Legs, has seats which spin on the tips of long, arching arms that rise and fall as the entire ride turns in a huge circle.

Across the Square is Doc Snooker's Magnificent Main Street Exposition, featuring sixteen games of the type which have been the most popular attraction at major fairs through the years.

General Manager Robert W. Freeman said,

"We spent several years working on the concept and design for the games area. The whole project reflects the wholesome style of entertainment which has become a SIX FLAGS trademark."

Another highlight of the new section is the Dragon Bros. Circus, a fascinating miniature circus representing more than 10,000 hours of meticulous work by the late P. K. Schmitter of Irving, Texas.

Mr. Schmitter, a technical illustrator who passed away in July, 1972, built the elaborate model as a hobby. The project occupied his spare time for more than eleven years.

The circus, with more than 4,000 tiny performers and spectators and nearly 2,000 miniature animals, fills a large building.

Still another entertainment feature is Doc Snooker's Medicine Show, a re-enactment of the humorous, razzle-dazzle sales pitch of the old time patent medicine peddler.

The entire section is designed to reflect the architecture and charm of a Texas town at the turn of the century.

There were 51 exhibitors in the Southwestern telephone Equipment Show which opened Sunday. General sessions began Monday morning.

Ladies' luncheon and entertainment was at noon Monday and the Independent Pioneer dinner was that evening. Annual membership meeting of Texas Telephone Association was held Tuesday.

A highlight of the convention was a specially prepared multimedia presentation "Upbeat" by AT&T which took 25 film projectors working together to present with four-track stereo sound.

Alvin Fuhrman was a co-chairman of the convention committee. He also served on the Independent Pioneer auditing committee and on the TTA nominating committee and attended the TTA directors luncheon Tuesday noon.

The Fuhrmans also attended a dinner given by Southwestern Bell honoring Texas Telephone Association directors and their wives. A night in the "Old West" was the banquet and dance theme for the closing Tuesday evening.

Experts Offer Tips On Saw Care, Safety

Many people neglect their hand and power tools through failure to sharpen or lubricate. One tool frequently overlooked is the chain saw.

The popularity of the chain saw is increasing due to its ability to handle a wide variety of tough jobs, the chain saw is inherently more complex than a crosscut saw or even an electric drill. It has many elements of an automobile, outboard motor or tractor—including fuel, ignition, and electrical systems. The saw's rotating elements approximate a propulsion system and it has lubrication and cooling systems.

Experts say the high-speed cutting chain on the saws can be severely blunted or damaged by such objects as nails, stones, hard wood, wire and even hard earth.

Researchers for one of the nation's leading chain saw producers, Allis-Chalmers, offer these tips on how to keep your chain saw in top operating condition and how to correct problems should they occur.

Preventive Maintenance

1. If chain has been stored, check for excessive moisture and foreign particles. Replace oil or change if contaminated.
 2. Check chain tension. Too much tension stretches the chain and might result in breakage under sudden impact or pinch. Too little tension causes excessive sprocket wear.
 3. Inspect air cleaner and fuel filter for dirt.
 4. Check chain cutter teeth and sharpen them if they are dull.
 5. Check the built-in sharpening stone for excessive wear. Keep a spare stone on hand.
 6. Inspect spark plug for dust and gap. Adjust plug gap, if necessary.
 7. When storing saw, wrap it in newspapers to keep out dust. Plastic is not recommended because it may seal in moisture and corrosives.
- Here are some common chain saw operating problems and what to do about them:

Safety with the chain saw in hand takes some thought. Allis-Chalmers engineers advise using safety glasses when the chips fly. Safety glasses are best under all circumstances. Any side cut throws chips towards the operator.

*chain tooth problems — these can occur when hard objects are hit or when teeth are sharpened incorrectly for the job to be done. Teeth usually need to be resharpened.

*fuel problems — these result when the operator uses the wrong fuel-oil mixture, gets water or particles in the fuel or uses old fuel. To remedy, use correct fuel mixture or change fuel if dirty.

*saw engine backfires or cuts out — check for a worn spark plug or breaker points, bad condenser or coil. A broken wire can also cause a short or loose connection.

Safety Tips

The Allis-Chalmers engineers stress safety first in the operation of a chain saw. They say safety glasses should always be worn along with a sturdy pair of gloves. Ear plugs are a good idea.

When starting the saw, place it on the ground and keep feet clear of the drive chain. Always keep your body clear of the saw when it is turned on.

With proper care and maintenance, say the experts, a good chain saw can provide many hours of safe, useful operation.

For safety, when starting a chain saw, place the saw on the ground. Place your foot in the handle, steady the top with your hand and pull. Do not start off your knee or "drop" start.

Cattle Business Outlook is Good Says TSCRA Head

"Cattle prices are good and although we have just come out of one of the worst winters on record, optimism is high for the spring." That was the attitude of thirteen-hundred cattlemen and their families at last week's convention of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association in San Antonio, as reported by its president W. C. Donnell of Marathon.

Headlining the slate of speakers for the overflow sessions were Mrs. Anne Armstrong, wife of a South Texas rancher and newly appointed personal counsellor to President Nixon, and Governor Dolph Briscoe, past TSCRA president and son of a TSCRA president. Both received frequent applause and standing ovations.

The cattlemen indicated strong support of Briscoe's pledge to prevent new taxation by reduced spending and his stand on stiffer penalties for crime. They also cheered Mrs. Armstrong's proposal that women seek their best buys in the supermarket instead of boycotting.

The convention passed resolutions asking the A&M veterinary school to emphasize large animal practice and research rather than the urban oriented "dog and cat practice," and to establish a diagnostic laboratory in West Texas where three fourths of the state's feedlot cattle are located.

Don King, secretary-manager, reported that the association's field inspectors accounted for $800,000 worth of strayed or stolen livestock or ranch property during the past year.

Among four new directors elected by the association is Norbert Felderhoff of Gainesville.

National Library Week

"Books, the children of the brain," as Jonathan Swift put it, are truly remarkable creations. They reflect the very spirit of man — his triumphs and tragedies, his knowledge and innermost feelings. Too often books are taken for granted, yet without them man is little more than a savage. Step into a library, and you find yourself in the midst of an enchanted world where books wait to whisk you away on a magic carpet of adventure and excitement. There are books to make you laugh and cry, to teach and intrigue. All that is needed is an inquiring mind and a desire for knowledge.

National Library Week, April 8-14, honors the most precious possession of mankind — books and the libraries that house them. And well it should, for literature has perpetuated the philosophies, sciences and artistic endeavors of man down through the ages, making progress and technological advances possible. So whenever you feel the need to expand your horizons or just relax and unwind with a good book, make a trek down to the local library. You'll be glad you did.

The price of beef has definitely affected its sale at the retail level. Beef accounts for about half of a meat market's business and, as meat is the main dish item for most American meals, it is usually given the most attention in the display case and in advertising. The house wife boycott is being felt in some cities and politicians are getting into the act.

It now appears that Washington will advocate one meatless day a week and has suggested that day be Monday. Wonder if they remember when they were common folks and usually ate Sunday's left overs on Monday.

The National Farmers Organization now say they can and will off set the beef boycott thereby keeping prices near their present level.

In past years the government has interfered little with livestock prices. On rare occasions they did buy extra ground beef and ground pork to stimulate a depressed beef or hog market, also they have at times restricted the amount of imported meat but beyond that they have let it find its own level. In a few months the price of live cattle jumped 10c per pound. Had this increase been gradual it would not have been so noticeable and there would not have been as much opposition.

The law of supply and demand has always controlled the price of meat. When there is a surplus of cattle to be slaughtered the price goes down and when livestock is scarce the price goes up. We can't recall the price ever being high or low for a long period of time.

Miles Laboratories, makers of soybean-based meat substitutes is enjoying increased business because of meat prices because more people are trying it. They intend to sell their product nation wide next year and spend $9,000,000. in advertising.

One man who tried the product said it did to him like Gains dog food did for his dog — he could get by on it but got real excited when he could smell meat cooking.

Persons planning a trip to Europe would do well to read the April 2nd copy of U.S. News & World Report. The article explains how devaluation of the dollar has affected costs of services in Europe.

We are constantly being told that a fuel shortage is inevitable. A committee of men from various oil companies studying the anticipated shortage stated that by cutting out wasted fuel and by chilling ourselves three degrees less in the summertime, warming ourselves three degrees less in the wintertime and by turning out unneeded lights would save billions of dollars.

Hospital Notes

Beginning this week the hospital report lists only the persons who have been dismissed rather than both admissions and dismissals. The hospital administration favors this change because normally patients are dismissed only a few days after admission and it seems repetitious to name them twice.

The following were dismissed during the past week at Muenster Hospital.

Tuesday, Mar. 20: Mrs. Charles Cook, Forestburg; Mrs. Keith Meyers, Nocona.

Wednesday, Mar. 21: Brenda Voth, Muenster.

Thursday, Mar. 22: Mrs. George Jetzelsberger, Muenster; Mrs. Hazel Clifton, Mrs. H. B. Birkes and Frank Riley, Gainesville; Mrs. Leon Fuhrmann and baby girl, Myra; Mrs. N. L. Flusche, Saint Jo; Mrs. George Guntzler, Forestburg.

Friday, Mar. 23: Curtis Rohmer, Muenster; Eddy Wofford, Lindsay; Carol Wilson, Gainesville; Luther Morris, Myra; Holly Sue Wagner, Saint Jo.

Saturday, Mar. 24: Mrs. Larry Vogel and baby girl, Myra; John L. Myers, Krum; Albert Bishop, Nocona, Tom Wade and Mrs. Annie Steen, Saint Jo.

Sunday, Mar. 25: Donald Eckart, Muenster; Mrs. Ora Brock, Gainesville.

Confetti - - - interests. If he owns the adjoining land and pays the taxes he too ought to have some rights.

The trouble with ecology is that it has brought out too many nuts and too many presumptuous meddlers going to extremes. They're not content with the happy medium which is acceptable to all, but demand the complete improvement. They are the guys who say the air and water must be absolutely clean, and saddle cities and industry with the enormous expense of attaining the goal. They won't settle for the lesser goal which is acceptable to both the budget and to human health.

Experience has shown that we can live with certain levels of pollution. And we're learning now that society can afford certain degrees of improvement that will be desirable for everyone — but it can't afford perfection. Well, then, why not do what is financially possible and physically acceptable instead of butting our heads against the impossible.

Another version of this gripe applies to the auto industry. Federal requirements insist on more and more gadgets to take the pollution out of car exhaust. The price of the car goes up and up and its efficiency goes down and down — and the consumer pays both ways.

With that in mind the column issues a challenge to Washington and Detroit. Let's concentrate on more efficient motors for more complete use of the fuel. That's the best way to eliminate pollution. Then we won't need all that exhaust treating junk. That will reduce the cost of the car and the cost of operation.

And let's not forget, the fuel situation. If the shortage is as critical as some claim, and the price will be as high as some expect, this country should be most interested in the gas saving cars.
