NUMBER 33

Another case of down-playing significant news by the nation's media has just come to light. This time there was scant mention or none concerning one of the most important events of international business news in years. It was an event which favors the interest of our country and results in a setback of Soviet interests.

Judging by impact on current world history, this report should have been told on the front page of every US newspaper and should have received similar treatment from radio and TV networks. But it was either ignored or overlooked. At any rate it has escaped the notice of this column until it appeared in the July 3 Human Events under the headline "Reaganauts Elated by Pipeline Decision."

The story refers to a revival of conservative enthusiasm following the President's sudden about-face from the administration's former policy of cooperating in Russia's 3500 mile gas pipeline. In spite of Reagan's known opposition to the giant undertaking certain business and political interests were manipulating US support. However, they were forcefully over-ruled on June 18 when the President laid down the law on East-West trade matters at the National Security Council.

The principal objective of his statement was to delay...and possibly block...construction of the pipeline from the Arctic region of Siberia to Western Europe. The big pipe is widely regarded as a means to lull NATO countries to sleep and make them dependent on Russian energy to the extent that they can become subject to the Soviets' economic and political arm-twisting. The project also stands out as a business bonanza yielding huge quantities of Western currency to subsidize the crippled Soviet economy.

That is only a part of the Red scheme. The plan includes financing of the pipeline by West Europe, in return for a plentiful supply of gas, and extensive trade with US to provide equipment for building the line. As usual, the equipment would be funded by international banks with endorsement by the US Government, meaning that we taxpayers would pay off in case of default.

The prospect of business profits and detente relations with Big Red appealed to many Americans, including people high in government. They were spreading the word that anti-Soviet economic sanctions might be lifted, giving the pipeline a green light.

Instead, the President, with support of conservative leaders in government, advised the National Security Council that he has decided on the opposite course. He extended regulations banning US business from exporting oil and gas equipment to the Soviets, and furthermore expanded the ban to include all American subsidiaries and foreign companies that produce oil and gas technology under American license.

The effect is that some 60 American companies, including such major firms as GE and Caterpillar, can't sell USSR the equipment needed to build the pipeline. Furthermore it means that several European countries

Further setback of harvest caused by week's rains

Rain this week, a total of 2.26 inches, has reduced the harvest situation from bad to worse. Already rated as the poorest crop on record, it is being abandoned by some who do not expect the remaining grain to pay for combining. In some areas, however, farmers are expected to keep trying.

Along with the poor crop as a starter, the growers have had troubles with wet land, and lately the growth of weeds and grass has added another problem. Moisture from the green vegetation transfers to the grain in the threshing process.

A number of growers have tackled the problem by mowing and windrowing, permitting the grain and weed mixture to dry before picking up with a combine. But the latest rain is discouraging further effort. Those who are still inclined to try can probably return to the field by next weekend, if favorable weather continues.

Rainfall lately seems to be heading for a record. Total measures for ten weeks, as recorded by Steve Moster, are 8.59 inches in May, 6.06 in June and 2.26 in July up to 9 a.m. Wednesday. That adds to 16.91 inches as compared with 25.80 inches for the year to date. It means that local farmers have been getting the surplus of rain during the season when the normal measure is hardly sufficient to delay the combines.

A compensating factor is that temperature has been considerably below normal.

320 students register for swim classes

Muenster's Red Cross swimming program is in full swing, when weather permits. Following an interruption by rain Tuesday the staff was faced with condensing this week's instruction into five days.

The program opened Saturday with registration of 309 students under direction of Serena Wright and Kathy Hartman. Additional sign-ups Monday increased the enrollment to 320.

That number is divided into two groups, one attending this week and the other to attend next week. Also each day is divided into three class periods, starting at 9, 10 and 11 o'clock.

Students are assigned to four instruction levels, as determined by skill tests at registration.

The classifications, beginning with children completing kindergarten, are beginners, advanced beginners, intermediates and swimmers. The goal is for each child to successfully complete its assigned level of instruction during the program. On achieving that the first three levels are awarded buttons and certificates and the swimmers receive a swim suit patch and a certificate.

The Learn to Swim program was scheduled to get the benefit of an advanced lifesaving class June 28 to July 3. Persons who completed those 21 hours of intensive lifesaving instructions, along with their teachers, are all eligible to teach in the younger children's program.

Graduates of the advanced lifesaving class were Pat Kohler, Patricia Reiter, Janet Reiter, Rodney Hess, Lesley Wells, Sandy Ramsey, and Cindy Tisdale. Their instructors, all with a Red Cross rating of Water Safety Instructor, were Kathi Koch, Serena Wright and Virginia Bartush.

Jaycees will install officers

Dennis Dohrer, president of the Texas Jaycees, will head the program Saturday night at the Muenster Jaycees Twentieth Annual Installation and Awards Banquet to be held in the Sacred Heart Community Center.

He will appear as the guest speaker and again at the installation of officers.

Mark Lippe, the outgoing president, will head the awards part of the program starting with a presentation to the community's outstanding citizen, who may or may not be a member of the Jaycees. Awards in the organization will go to the outstanding project chairman, the key man and the president's partner. A special presentation will be made by Wayne Klement and a travel trophy to the chapter traveling the most member miles to the banquet will be given by Chuck Bartush Jr.

Ross Felderhoff will be master of ceremonies and introduce guests; Mayor Pro-Tem Ted Henscheid will extend the city's welcome; Terry Walterscheid will give the invocation; Dale Swirczynski will lead the pledge of allegiance and Doyle Klement the Jaycee creed.

Outgoing president Mark Lippe will review the chapter's past year and incoming president Claude Klement will look to the future.

Officers to be installed are Claude Klement, president; Alan Miller, first VP; Jack Flusche, 2nd VP; Larry Kinard, secretary; Mark Klement, treasurer; Dale Swirczynski, state director; Wayne Klement, Doyle Klement, Mark Lippe, and Ross Felderhoff, directors.

A band concert reminiscent of July 4 observances of a by-gone era, was held on Friday evening, July 2 at 7:30 p.m. in the pavilion of Muenster City Park, when the Community Band was introduced for the first time. In the audience seated around the pavilion were listeners who came to enjoy a 45 minute program of marches, pop music and patriotic selections and who responded with requests for encores.
Directed by Jon Ward, music instructor at Muenster Public School, the band was organized about a month ago. Membership includes Julia Bright, Juanita Bright, Bill Luke, Lisa Walterscheid, Bev Trubenbach, Rene Stelzer, Lyle Huchton, Allen Bayer, Gracie Fuhrman, Marty Kinard, Tina Weinzapfel and Jon Ward. They will welcome more members and encourage others to come join them. More information may be obtained by phoning Tina Weinzapfel, 759-2251 or 2707 or Jon Ward.

Lindsay plans park additions

An improvement program headed by new rest rooms and pavement is in the plans for the Lindsay City Park. Discussion at the city council meeting Monday indicated that the Lindsay Jaycees and St. Peter's Parish intend to join in the projects.

The restrooms are wanted especially to accommodate the community's Homecoming and Oktoberfest crowds. Portable restrooms that have been moved in for those occasions in recent years have been expensive as well as unsatisfactory. Mayor Norbert Mages said the council has hopes of finishing the structure in time for this year's Oktoberfest.

Next item in the city's plan is paving a driveway from Pecan Street to the park pavilion and also to pave walkways from parking lot to the pavilion and onward to the tennis courts. Also in the walkway plan is a footbridge across the main creek of the park, increasing the number of walk crossings to four. Completion date for the paving is aimed for next year's homecoming.

Good News

Ecclesiastes 11:9 to 12:2
Young people, enjoy your youth. Be happy while you are still young. Do what you want to do, and follow your heart's desire. But remember that God is going to judge you for whatever you do.
Don't let anything worry you or cause you pain. You aren't going to be young very long.
So remember your Creator while you are still young, before those dismal days and years come when you will say, "I don't enjoy life." That is when the light of the sun, the moon, and stars will grow dim for you, and the rain clouds will never pass away.

These three pictures were shared with us by Mrs. Margaret Bergman Horton of San Antonio. She and her sister, Viola Bergman Arnold were born in Muenster, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bergman and lived in the family home near Myra. Her grandparents, Joseph and Lizzetta Bergman owned the flour mill at Myra and a nearby farm. Her grandparents Bergman and Schmitz were Muenster area pioneers. The above picture shows the old Schmitz home, located then on what is now 3rd Street, in the corner southwest of MBC. Buy an air conditioner with the right rating and you could rate a check.

TP&L will pay you to use electricity efficiently. Especially when it comes to air conditioning.

If you buy a central air conditioning system with an SEER/EER rating* of 8.5 or higher you could earn a Bonus check from TP&L for as much as $40 per ton.

Why would your electric power company pay you to buy the right kind of air conditioner?

You see, by cutting down on the peak demand (that's the time when more people are using more electricity), we can use the Texas Power and Light Company generating facilities more efficiently. That means less investment capital for us. And the lowest possible rate, for you.

So when you need to replace or add a central air conditioning system, check with the energy experts at your local TP&L office. They'll show you how to save money. And make some, too.

How to curb health costs

Americans spent nearly $218 billion on personal health in 1980. This amount represented almost 10 percent of the gross national product.

Figures such as these have prompted increased concern over the rising cost of health care.

Recently, six organizations representing health care providers, insurers, business and labor issued a joint statement. They encouraged their members or local affiliates to form health care coalitions and to direct their activities toward restraining health costs.

The groups were the American Medical Association, the American Hospital Association, the Blue Cross and Blue Shield Associations, the Health Insurance Associations of America, The Business Roundtable and the AFL-CIO.

The Texas Medical Association says individuals also can help minimize health care costs by:

--Having a family doctor. The physician will keep a permanent record of your medical history, which can prevent duplicating expensive and time-consuming tests. The family doctor also can advise you on preventing illness.

--Not waiting too long before seeing a doctor. Some people try to cut costs by waiting until they are seriously ill. This approach defeats the purpose of preventive medicine and costs more in the long run.

--Using a hospital emergency room only for emergencies. The emergency room is an expensive place to treat minor ailments. Try calling your personal physician first.

--Using the telephone. A family doctor who has examined you regularly is familiar with your health history. Sometimes the doctor can advise you over the phone about minor health problems.

--Having regular check-ups. The American Medical Association says that if you are past 35, a complete health evaluation every one to three years is a good idea.

--Asking about pre-admission testing at hospitals and short-stay or outpatient surgery programs. These programs can shorten or eliminate a hospital stay for minor surgery, treatments or tests.

--Following your doctor's advice.

20 Baptist youths plan to sample a famine

"Before you go to bed tonight, some 12,000 human beings around the world will have died of starvation or diseases related to malnutrition. "While such staggering figures of misery and suffering give many a feeling of hopelessness, a group of Muenster youth has decided to do something about it." Some 20 young people of First Baptist Church will begin a planned famine on Fri. July 23. Andy Cherry explained that the 20-hour fast will have a two-fold purpose. "We plan for those participating in the program to stay together during the fast so that while we share the experience of feeling hungry, we can also learn why hunger exists in the world, and what we can do about it," he said. Cherry explained that many factors contribute to hunger—lifestyle, population, the energy crisis and others. "We'll learn about them through audio-visuals and other materials, and discuss how we can be part of the long-range solution." The planned hunger program also has a practical side, Cherry pointed out. The youth will each contribute $6.00 of their own money—$2.00 for each meal missed—to participate in the program. They'll seek out Famine Supporters to contribute $6.00 donations. The Famine Supporters will also be asked to read a fact sheet on hunger so they too, might become involved. "We hope to be able to raise $1500," said Cherry. "The money we raise may help feed many families, or even an entire village, for a month or longer." The fund will be channeled through World Vision International to help the hungry people. The inter-denominational Christian humanitarian agency is presently supporting a number of hunger-related relief and development programs in two dozen Latin American, Asian and African countries. No single group or organization can help all of the millions of men, women, and children who are hungry in the world. But the First Baptist Church youth believe that people become hunger statistics one at a time and that they can be helped the same way. They're determined to make a difference. Individuals interested in learning more about the Planned Famine program, or in helping the Muenster youth meet their goal, can call Andy Cherry at 759-2272.

"Money Maker" Securities-They beat money market funds and inflation"

Some people think money market funds are the only way to beat the 80's. But at First Texas, they have better ways to make the most of your money. Take their Fixed- and Daily-Rate Securities. Both are proven winners you can get only at First Texas, and both outperform the funds with the high interest you need today to beat inflation. In fact, in the first quarter of 1982, the average annual yield of the First Texas Money Maker Daily-Rate Security was higher every month than the average annual yield of the money market funds. Plus, the First Texas yield also beat the 1981 inflation rate of 8.9% by 63%. That's right: 63%!

Not just a better investment. A safer investment.
The First Texas Money Maker Securities are also a safer investment than the funds because both your principal and interest are backed by the strength of First Texas and a trust arrangement. So you know your money is secure. But with most money market funds, your entire principal is at risk.
Immediate access to your money.
With Money Maker Securities, you also have immediate access to your money. So if you should need your investment back quickly, for whatever reason, you can get it immediately with a cashier's check on the spot at over 70 locations statewide. Compare that to the funds. And with the First Texas Daily-Rate Security, there's no penalty for early withdrawal.

So if you want to make a sound investment with high interest, see First Texas. They can make the most of your money. And that's what beating the 80's is all about.

Minimum deposit: $2,000. Money Maker Securities are repurchase agreements which are secured debts of First Texas, collateralized by government securities. However, these repurchase agreements are not insured or guaranteed by the federal government or its agencies.

Growing Child

P.O. Box 620N, Lafayette, Indiana 47902 (317) 423-2624

One of the problems of dealing with a child's fears is how to recognize when he is scared. A young child is often unable to express feelings clearly because of a limited vocabulary. Then, too, a youngster may not recognize his own feelings as fear. He just knows that something is wrong and he feels all upset inside. So he responds by expressing his feelings in the only ways he knows - by crying, clinging, hiding, actively resisting - and by generally "being impossible."

Dealing with this kind of behavior can be very frustrating to parents. It is easy to say he is stubborn or having a tantrum. Even if the parent does recognize that the reason for such behavior is fear, it is often difficult to decide just how to cope with it, according to Growing Child, the monthly child development newsletter.

Fear is a normal human emotion - a natural means of self-protection. Certain fears appear to be inborn. A newborn infant responds with fear to the loss of support and to loud and sudden noises. All other fears are learned.

We consciously teach a child to be wary of objects or situations which are potentially harmful to him - fires, certain animals, strangers, a busy street. Some fears a child learns on his own. For instance, if he sees another child fall from a swing, he realizes that he, too, might fall. The next time he approaches a swing he will hold on tightly! Fears such as these are healthy because they tend to protect the child from real dangers.

Unrealistic fears are not unusual among toddlers either. In fact, strange or violent fears are quite common to children between ages two and six and should not alarm parents too much since they are usually a passing phase. On the other hand, such fears may be a sign that things are not going well.

You will want to help your child overcome his unrealistic fears, both for his benefit and your peace of mind. Recognition of a fear and reassurance to the child are important parts of dealing with the situation. Without this reassurance from you, a child can become more confused and more fearful.

Some of the more common fears include fear of certain animals, loud noises and sudden movements, fear of the dark, fear of going to bed or of going to sleep and fear of separation from parents. Most of these can be traced to their source; Animal fears may have their beginnings in an alarming experience with a neighbor's pet or a fright while visiting a zoo. This initial experience may lead to avoidance of stuffed animals or even those pictured in a book.

An over-enthusiastic relative who greets the child with loud laughter and smothering hugs may arouse considerable anxiety in a toddler. In fact, he may not only hide from that individual but show increasing fear of all persons outside the immediate family circle.

Fear of going to bed or of going to sleep is as much a fear of separation as a fear of the dark. A child may think that if he goes to sleep he won't find his parents there when he wakes up.

When coping with a youngster's fears it is important to remember that no matter how unreasonable, even ridiculous, his fear may seem to an adult, it is very real to him. Respect his feelings and reassure him gently that he need not be afraid.

If he shows fear of animals introduce him very gradually to their presence. Point out dogs and other animals from the car. When possible stop the car and let him watch from the safety of the vehicle. Several visits to a children's "petting zoo" will be helpful.

Don't force the child near animals. At the first visit just walk around and look. If your child shows anxiety or fear pick him up and hold him. Somehow it is harder to be afraid of something that you are looking down on. Let him watch other children pet and play with the young animals. Talk about the baby animals and about their mamas.

It is pretty hard to tone down loud and over-demonstrative relatives, but sometimes visitors can be told in advance that the child is just learning to adjust to persons outside the family. They can be asked to wait until the child makes the first move. Another approach is to pick up your youngster and hold him as you greet visitors. This includes him in the eye-level greeting and gives him the additional security of your arms. If he struggles or cries, comfort him and then interest him in something else. Young children are naturally curious and will usually overcome their fear of visitors if effusive greetings are avoided and they are allowed to proceed at their own speed.

Fear of the dark and fear of separation are sometimes difficult to separate. Begin by letting your child help you choose an attractive nightlight - a crown, a star, a happy face. Let him handle and examine the light so that he will be familiar with it. Children's nightlights should be fully enclosed in plastic and dimmer than the ordinary nightlight.

A quiet half hour of play and a warm bath before bedtime are recommended as relaxing for a child.

Reassure the child that you are near and that you will be there in the morning when he awakens. A youngster must learn trust. He needs to know that his parents will come when he needs them. Once he has been reassured you must be firm. He should not be allowed out of bed.

And-don't forget-an "ounce of prevention" goes a long way. Control your own fears and don't punish in fearful ways. If your child must undergo a potentially frightening experience, prepare him for it carefully. When in doubt about how to handle your child's fears, talk to your pediatrician or family physician. He is as interested in your child's emotional health as he is in his physical well-being.

The Growing Child newsletter follows a child's development month-by-month. For more information on the social and physical development of children from birth to six years old, write to Growing Child, PO Box 620N, Lafayette, In. 45902. Include child's birthdate when writing. A year's subscription to the newsletter costs $11.95.

Fashion FORECAST

FLEECEWEAR ADVENTURE
Comfort comes in versatile sweatshirt styles for every sport and leisure activity.

Americans who combine their fashion sense with dollars and cents are finding new values in style and comfort this season. The focus is on "sweat-shirt dressing," the vogue that's caught on with every age group. The versatility of fleecewear, discovered by joggers several years ago, has won it a place in nearly everyone's closet. Wise shoppers know to look for a label that says "American fleecewear." It's more fleecewear garments found on garments made of 100 percent Creslan® acrylic or blends of Creslan with cotton or rayon. These fleece fabrics hold their shape and keep their colors washing after washing. They resist shrinking and stretching and are wonderfully comfortable. Well-known mills such as Bassett-Walker are putting the American fleecewear™ label on their sweatshirts and warmups to assure shoppers they're getting a great American value. You'll see more and more fleecewear garments this year as Americans link adventuresome living with good looks at sensible prices.

Peggy Winn is award winner

Peggy Winn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfordean Winn, won the Miss Congeniality contest at the 1982 Teenworld State Finals this past weekend at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in Fort Worth. She also received 4th runner-up award and was in the Top 5 Talent competition.

No connection between fat and heart disease

Confusing reports about dietary fats, high cholesterol levels and heart disease shouldn't cause unnecessary worry for most Americans as long as they're eating properly, says a professor of biochemistry and biophysics at Texas A&M University.

"Hardly a week goes by that we aren't bombarded by commercials or recommendations from some institute about what we should eat in terms of dietary fats," said Dr. Randall Wood, who with Dr. Raymond Reiser, a Texas A&M professor emeritus, has studied cholesterol in the human body for 10 years.

For most Americans there is no relationship between diet and coronary disease, Wood said, and people react differently to different amounts of fat in their diets. The biochemist pointed to the Texas A&M research which suggests that most people don't react to high levels of fats in their diet.

Turn Your Kitchen Into A Gold Mine!

How To Beat The Recession

Thousands of women all across the country are now turning their kitchens into cash. Some are baking and selling chocolate brownies, others are selling giant chocolate chip cookies, others selling cheesecakes, roast turkeys, even giant 6-foot party sandwiches. Women who have had no previous business experience are now cashing in on their cooking and baking skills.

Alice and Alfred Howard wrote a book about it, and it's appropriately called, TURN YOUR KITCHEN INTO A GOLD MINE. The book is published by Harper & Row and it's available in bookstores. The Howards are well suited to write such a book. Alfred Howard was feeling the pinch of college tuition for their son, Henry, and so a second income was needed. Alice Howard said she had the answer: "let me try catering my low-salt, low-fat meals." They were delicious, and friends have long told her, "why don't you go into business with them?"

She did. And, for the Howards, the rest is history. Not only is their business thriving, but their book hit TIME magazine's best seller list in the No. 5 position. The book carefully details: what to make (recipes given); what to charge (with step-by-step examples); who to sell to (private customers, gourmet food stores, restaurants and selling customers via mail order). The book teaches you how to be your own bookkeeper (how to get started in business with no previous experience) and how to expand (getting loans from banks and the U.S. Government).

Also spelled out is where to get dozens of tested money-making recipes for soups, entrees, side dishes and desserts and how to get up to 70% discounts on any extra equipment you might need when your business starts to expand. And, for women who really want to improve their cooking and baking skills, the book has a special section that lists the names and addresses of over 600 cooking schools across the country.

With recession deepening and unemployment rising, lots of folks are starting to say, "there must be a better way." There is a better way, and the answer might be right in your own house - right in your very own kitchen. For the Howards, the satisfaction goes beyond the money. As they put it, "there's nothing like being your own boss."

Energy awareness reduces monthly bills
COLLEGE STATION — Turning off the lights when you leave a room for more than three minutes saves money, say experts at the Center for Energy and Mineral Resources at Texas A&M University.
That is one of the tips offered in "Texas Energy," the center's monthly consumer publication. Among the suggestions to help renters save energy and reduce utility bills:
— Major appliances account for 20 to 30 percent of all energy used in the home. Energy can be saved by lowering the thermostat on the hot water heater, as well as by insulating the heater tank and the hot water pipes, the publication says.
— When washing dishes in the sink, fill the sink and plug it instead of letting water run constantly. If using a dishwasher, stop the machine before it gets to the dry cycle and let dishes dry in the air. Run the dishwasher only when full.
— A four-minute shower uses less water than a bath. A flow restrictor attached to the shower head can cut water flow from eight gallons a minute to two.
When cooking, preheat the oven for only five minutes or not at all, says the energy publication. For oven-cooked meals, turn heat off for the last 10 minutes. Boil or heat on the range with a cover on the food to save a third of the energy normally used.

USDA adjusts guidelines for school meal benefits

The maximum income a family can earn and still have their children qualify for free or reduced price school meals went up 10 percent on July 1.

Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Mary Jarratt said the change is a result of the annual cost-of-living adjustment made by the U.S. Department of Agriculture to help people keep up with inflation.

Under the adjustment, the income limit for free meal eligibility, which is set by Congress at 130 percent of the federal poverty line, will go from $10,990 to $12,090 for a family of four. Eligibility for reduced price meals, set at 185 percent of poverty, will rise from $15,630 to $17,210.

The federal poverty line is $9,300 for a family of four.

USDA is required by law to update the income limits each July 1. The guidelines govern participation in the free or low cost meal programs under the national school lunch, school breakfast, child care food, special milk and commodity school programs.

Following are the annual income limits which take effect for families of various sizes in the continental U.S. and the territories, except Guam:

FAMILY SIZE	FREE MEAL ELIGIBILITY	REDUCED PRICE MEAL ELIGIBILITY
1	$6,080	$8,660
2	8,090	11,510
3	10,090	14,360
4	12,090	17,210
5	14,090	20,050
6	16,090	22,900
7	18,100	25,750
8	20,100	28,600

For each additional family member add:
2,000 2,850

Thriller ends softball tourney

After postponement by rains to a second week, the slow pitch softball tournament sponsored jointly by Muenster Jaycees and Tops & Teams came to an exciting end last Friday.

The championship game went into extra innings then busted wide open in a 6-run rally in the top of the 12th for an 18-12 win by Gilbreath Tank Trucks over Express. That determined the tourney winner and runner-up and the third place was won by First Realty.

The three top teams, all from Gainesville received trophies and members of the teams received souvenir T-shirts from Tops and Teams. A Muenster team, Natural Light, was Number 4, just missing qualification for the goodies. Twelve teams were entered representing Gainesville, Muenster, Saint Jo and Sanger.

Originally scheduled as a three day event, the tournament stretched into an extra day. Following games on Thursday and Friday, Saturday's action was interrupted by rain, and make up dates were set for the following Friday and Saturday.

Extension Service schedules estate planning workshop

The Economic Recovery and Tax Act of 1981 made several major changes to the estate and gift tax laws that can be quite beneficial to Cooke County residents. To bring county residents up-to-date on the new changes and other estate planning considerations, a two night short course is scheduled for July 12 and 13. The short course will be held at the Texas Power and Light Meeting Room in Gainesville beginning at 7:30 each evening.

Speaking will be Wayne A. Hayenga, Economist and Attorney with the Extension Service from College Station. "The new law can be a real tax saver, but plans and action must be taken to qualify for the benefits. For example, now there never has to be an estate tax due on the death of the first to die of a married couple," says Dr. Hayenga. "But, if a married couple has a simple will giving all of his or her property to the spouse, the estate tax cost on the death of the second spouse may be much greater."

Ideas of how to use trusts for both estate tax savings and income tax savings will be covered by the economist/attorney. Gift tax provisions were liberalized in 1981, also.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Eldridge and children spent the past weekend in Dallas visiting with his sister sCARolyn, his aunt and his grandmother.

Ted and Laura Belle Jackson spent a half day on Mon. the 5th cleaning family cemetery plots at the Hardy cemetery and then at the Marysville's cemetery. The Jacksons say the Hardy Cemetery is really in a mess.

If I have not mentioned it before I sure would like to do it now, isn't it nice how Jack C. Dill and son Larry have improved the looks of the old rock building in the Burg.

Fri. July 3rd and overnight visitor with the Ted Jackson was their friend Kelly Colwell son of Mrs. Gerri Colwell.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Parsons and children plus friends of Wichita Falls, Nancy Dunn and Brogdon of Gainesville and Darlene Johnston and Terrell of Newport were past week visitors in the home of their parents, the Buford Greenwoods.

Max Cunningham's girl friend Karen and his friend Robby of Irving visited with him Sun. p.m. the 4th. Max is the grandson of Mrs. Emma Steadham and is here for the summer.

Now, any person can give any other person $10,000 of property per year gift tax free, but giving property away prior to death may cause adverse tax consequences to the donors.

Estate taxes, gift taxes and income taxes are hard to understand, but Hayenga is a witty and entertaining speaker with a unique ability to relate the complex tax law to the individual audience members personal situation.

Come on out! It is sure to save you same tax dollars. The Short Course is free and open to the public. The County Extension Service is sponsoring the Estate Planning Workshop and asks that you pre-register by calling the County Extension Office at 665-4931 or 665-1966.

Crape Myrtle, "The lilac of the South"

By Ted Brice

Crape myrtle, Lagerstroemia indica, is a deciduous shrub or small tree that has been cultivated in the Southern United States for more than 150 years. The plant was introduced to the United States from Asia and has become associated in this country with Southern gardens and ante-bellum grandeur. Sometimes referred to as the "Lilac of the South" crape myrtle derives its common name from its crepe-like, crinkled and ruffled petals and the resemblance of its leaves to the true myrtle.

The flowering season begins in June or July and continues until fall. Each long panicle is comprised of hundreds of one- to two-inch red, pink, white, lavender or purple flowers. Leaves are often garnet tinged in spring, glossy dark green in summer and dull to intense yellow, orange or red in autumn.

When the leaves fall in the winter, the crape myrtle becomes a living sculpture. The trunk and branches have an attractively gnarled, twisted character with smooth bark varying in color from light straw to rich deep brown. The bark exfoliates in early summer to reveal new bark ranging in color from light pink to pale green.

Full sun is necessary for good flowering. Crape myrtle is cold hardy throughout the Southern United States. The planting site should be slightly elevated and open to allow free air movement to avoid mildew problems. For example planting near a wall is undesirable because of restricted air movement around the plant.

Crape myrtle tolerates a wide range of soil conditions, but grows best in a heavy loam that is slightly acidic (PH 5.0 to 6.5). Nutrient requirements are minimal; high fertility levels produce excessive vegetative growth and fewer flower panicles. Application of 6-6-6 or 8-8-8 fertilizer in early spring at the rate of one to two pounds per 100 square feet of planting bed may be beneficial to established plants, especially those growing in poor soils. Mulches of cedar bark or hardwood chips are beneficial in retaining soil moisture and minimizing soil temperature fluctuations during the summer.

The ideal time for transplanting container-grown crape myrtle is late spring or early summer, when new shoots are emerging. Balled and burlapped or bare-root plants are best transplanted during dormant period.

Deep soil watering is required periodically during dry periods in summer when the plant is actively growing and producing flowers. Insufficient watering may prevent flower formation and result in premature leaf drop. Crape myrtle requires little pruning to maintain its naturally graceful form.

However, tip pruning to remove old flower clusters will promote more abundant flowers and renewal of new wood. Small, twiggy growth should be thinned out from underneath the canopy to keep the trunk clean and allow free air circulation.

Crape myrtle can also be trained into single-stemmed, tree-like plants by removing all but the strongest stem while the plant is young. Spanish moss may be found growing on crape myrtle. It should be removed to allow better circulation.

The crape myrtle is virtually insect free and has few disease problems. When planning additions to your landscape include the beautiful crape myrtle for beauty as well as maintenance free.

Stuffed Mushrooms Top Cucumber Slices

An appealing hors d'oeuvre is made by stuffing fresh mushroom caps with a dilled-onion cream cheese mixture, and presenting them atop cucumber slices. The cucumber makes a unique base instead of bread or toast, and the texture is a nice contrast to the meaty mushrooms. Mushrooms, by the way, are now being grown in 28 states, which makes them readily available for a wide variety of uses.

DILLED CREAM CHEESE STUFFING

12 ounces medium-sized fresh mushrooms
1 package (8 oz.) cream cheese, softened
2 tablespoons finely chopped fresh dill
1/4 teaspoon onion powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
Dash ground white pepper
2 tablespoons milk
20 cucumber slices

Rinse mushrooms and pat dry. Separate stems from caps; set caps aside (use stems in soups, stews, etc.). Combine cream cheese, dill, onion powder, salt and white pepper; mix well. Gradually add milk, stirring until well blended. Spoon about 1 teaspoon cream cheese mixture into each mushroom cap or swirl with a pastry bag fitted with a star tube. Dot remaining cheese mixture in the center of each cucumber slice; place mushroom on top.

YIELD: About 20 stuffed mushrooms

Planting and care of hanging baskets

by Ted Brice

There are two types of hanging baskets, the wire type and the plastic type and they may vary in size. But the average is 10 to 12 inches. For the wire type you will need unmilld sphagnum moss that is not needed for the plastic basket. For the wire basket attach the three hanging wires so that they cover a wire coming from the bottom of the basket, not just the circular wire at the top. For the plastic basket attach the three hanging wires in the hole provided and wrap over the top and around the same wire. For the wire basket place the unmilld sphagnum moss loosely in a three gallon bucket and cover with water and push the moss down to get it thoroughly soaked. Wring out a hand full of the moss at a time and pat the moss down in the bottom and then on the sides of the wire basket. Let the unmilld sphagnum moss extend over the top of the basket. Hold up the basket and inspect it to be sure that the sides are completely covered. Then place a clay-pot saucer or aluminum in the bottom of the basket which will partially overcome the drying out of the basket after it is hung.

The following applies to both the plastic and wire types of baskets. Fill in one-third of the basket with potting soil. Select the plants and set them out in a space representing the basket. Don't overcrowd the plants as you set them out. Remember they need room to grow in the basket. If the plants are in pots, set them in the basket to see how they will look. At this point you can tell if the soil level is enough. Never plant the plants any deeper than they were growing at the nursery. Add any potting soil that is needed to bring the soil level to within one inch of the top of the basket. Let the soil slope to the center of the basket in order to retain some water. Plant the center plant first then work out to the sides planting the other plants. After planting, water slowly until water runs from the basket. Hanging baskets need to be watered daily and fertilized every two weeks with a light solution of water soluble fertilizer.

Some plants for hanging baskets that require 80 percent shade and no more than two hours of morning sun would be, Fibrous Begonia (try Fiesta White, Galax Pink, Jewelite Red), trailing Strawberry, Wandering Jew, Chlorophyllum, Geranium (ivy-leaved or trailing), Ferns and Ivy. The following plants may be used with some afternoon sun; Boston Fern, Dwarf Ageratum, Lantana, Geranium, Coleus, Marigold, Petunia, Chrysanthemums and the Shrimp Plant.

Hanging Baskets can be used to brighten up the smallest place to the largest. They can be hung from the eaves of the home as well as from tree limbs. Let's add some beauty to our home with hanging baskets.
