

Carriker and Albert face Senate rematch

by Elaine Schad

In one respect, the race for the District 30 State Senate seat has mirrored the presidential campaign, with one candidate painting the other as a liberal who tries to pass himself off as a conservative, while the other accuses his opponent of being too conservative, to the point where he's out of the political mainstream.

Just three months after they first ran against each other, Steve Carriker, D-Roby, will again face Bobby Albert, R-Wichita Falls, in the Nov. 8 general election. Carriker, who currently holds the seat, defeated Albert in a special August election. He is completing the final two months of the unexpired term of Sen. Ray Farabee, who resigned.

The 30th Senatorial District includes 30 counties in western and north central Texas, including Cooke, Montague and northern Denton counties.

Carriker, 37, said his experience as a three-term member of the Texas House of Representatives qualifies him to hold the District 30 seat. He criticizes Albert for his lack of political experience. "He has no background in public service, and offers very little in credentials," Carriker said. "He continues to define himself as being out of the political mainstream of the 30th District."

Albert, 35, cites his experience in owning and operating a Wichita Falls small business for 15 years. "I feel we need to take a more businesslike approach to running the Legislature," he said.

Albert accuses Carriker of aligning himself with the national Democratic ticket, citing his election to the Democratic National Committee in 1984. He also cites various publications which he said target Carriker as a liberal voter in a conservative district. "It's not Bobby Albert but a list of other people who identify him as a liberal," he said.

Carriker denies Albert's claim, saying he has a record of being fiscally conservative, but moderate. "I've voted against more spending bills than voted for, and against tax bills," he said.

Albert said Carriker accuses him of being out of the mainstream because of his pro-life position. "If anybody wants to know, I'm just right of John Wayne," he said.

Albert said he is favor of passing state laws requiring parental notification for those under 16 who want to obtain an abortion. He is also against any state funding for abortion, and would be in favor of laws requiring AIDS victims to notify their spouses that they have the disease.

Carriker claims Texas lawmakers can constitutionally do no more in restricting abortion in the state, saying he was not going to "demagogue" about the issue.

Both men feel a priority for their district in the next session of the Texas Legislature will be education reform. "We've seen property taxes double," Carriker said. "The state is going to have to step in and assure we have adequate education, while assuring that the property owner can afford to pay his taxes."

Should the state lose its appeal in the landmark Edgewood vs. Kirby court case, which deemed unconstitutional present state funding formulas, Albert said Texas have a good chance of losing control of their schools. "You could find school districts such as Denton and Gainesville consolidating with Dallas," he said.

Even a more vital issue to Texans, however, is reform of the workers' compensation laws, which are currently keeping businesses from moving to the state because of the high premiums employers must pay, Albert said.

Carriker said District 30 should encourage new business, but not be dependent on just the oil and gas industry. He would work to obtain more processing businesses within the district, so the wealth can stay there.

Both men agree rural health care is a major issue in their district. Both said they'd work with federal legislators to better equalize Medicare reimbursements to rural hospitals.

Of the 30 counties in District 30, there are 20 medically underserved, Carriker said. He'd be in favor of using state money to leverage foundation money to train doctors willing to serve in rural areas. Albert would like to see a cap placed on medical malpractice suits. He would work to free up loan programs for family practice doctors willing to locate in rural areas, and would use community colleges for startup programs for rural nurses' training.

She said that the community has reached $7,540, an amount equal to 75 percent of goal. She also expressed her gratitude to all the generous people who participated.

Mattie Swirczynski also thanked Jack Flusche and Celine Dittfurth for their special help and encouragement. She said, "All the volunteers are also due thanks for giving of their time and energy."

Bridge compromise possible!

The Red River Bridge issue is nearing the last stage of compromise efforts by Jim Stack, District Engineer, between Nocona and Muenster.

On Sept. 28, Jim Stacks had appeared before the Highway Commission in Austin to report that the effort was stalled because the two factions could not reach a compromise. In a last ditch effort to save the program, the Muenster group had decided to reach out to the Nocona group one last time, offering to meet with their group to hammer out an agreement on sites. Over the last 10 months, the Muenster group had requested a meeting on four different occasions, and the Nocona group leaders declined. They declined this latest effort as well. Certain Nocona leaders said that compromise was out of the question when approached by Gary Fisher and Urban Endres seeking meetings to discuss compromise.

With the advent of the meeting in Austin, the prospect that the matter would die for the next 50 years became a reality. Mr. Stacks indicated that the likelihood of the Department ever opening the bridge question for further study was slim once this current effort failed. Nocona reported their Spanish Fort bridge site was "set in stone." Muenster leaders felt the bridge was just about lost.

Because such effort had gone into this current effort for a bridge, Mr. Stacks had asked both groups to meet with him one more time before the matter was closed. On Oct. 13, he met with the Nocona group and hammered out a compromise with them. The results of this meeting were discussed on Oct. 27 at 5 p.m. after press deadline at the Chamber of Commerce office.

The final question is a matter of "do we want the bridge or not?" and "what, if any compromises are we willing to make?" says the Muenster Industrial Board which has assumed the bridge project.

At this point, Muenster plans to accept the compromise site south of Courtney, Oklahoma. They accept reluctantly because of the anticipated high cost to taxpayers. Acceptance is also contingent on establishment of connecting roads and other contingencies to be taken up with the Highway Department.

According to the Nocona News, the Red River Brigade agreed unanimously to a project involving:

- +Construction of a bridge from Courtney, Okla., southward to a point approximately 1.5 miles west of Illinois Bend.

- +Construction of a new Farm to Market Road from Illinois Bend to where FM 2953's pavement ends northeast of Lake Nocona.

- +Construction of a new Farm to Market Road from Capps Corner to Bulcher in Cooke County.

- +With the stipulation that an extension of FR 2953 north to Spanish Fort be included in the project.

They joined interests in Oklahoma, interests in Saint Jo and a group Dist. Engineer Jimmy Stacks describes as "those who just want a bridge somewhere" in reaching an acceptable agreement.

Additionally, both the Texas Highway Dept. and the Oklahoma Department of Transportation have targeted the Courtney agreement as the best site to solve as many of the needs as possible — on both sides of the river.

Criminal activity strikes at area cattle farm

Cooke County Sheriff John Aston has reported an incident of cattle deaths on the Don Steadham farm near the Freedwood Community that occurred sometime during last Wednesday night. Steadham found the cattle when he saw them lying near a fence as he drove along a Farm-to-Market road Thursday morning, Oct. 20.

Four cattle, a red cow and a black cow and two calves, valued at approximately $1400, were killed by single gunshot wounds to the heads. Each was mutilated by stripping flesh about four inches wide on each side, shoulder to hip. Also the hind quarter of the black cow was cut off.

Steadham said entrance was gained through a seldom-used gate that was wired with eight or nine rounds of wire; and the culprits left the same way, replacing gate and wires as they found them. He also said no blood was noted at the scene near any of the animals.

Steadham said, "This is a situation difficult to explain. If they wanted choice cuts of beef, they sure missed the opportunity."

The cattle deaths and thefts were investigated by the Cooke County Sheriff's Dept. The fear of cult involvement seeped through the community when residents recalled a tragic incident many years ago. But Sheriff Aston said there was no evidence to lead in that direction.

Sheriff Aston also said there are no leads and no suspects, but he appealed to anyone having any information to report to the authorities and to Cooke County Crime Stoppers Association. He pledged that all information will be kept strictly confidential.

Muenster hospital sponsors candy X-ray

Joan Walterscheid, director of nurses at Muenster Memorial Hospital, has announced that several members of the nursing staff will accompany McGruff on visits to children of both schools, Muenster Public School and Sacred Heart School, to distribute Trick or Treat plastic sacks.

The children are urged to carry these, then bring their "loot" from their traditional doorbell ringing to Muenster Memorial Hospital for checking.

"Their welfare is our concern," say hospital personnel. "We will X-ray Halloween candy for detection of metal objects on Monday, Oct. 31, from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m."

McGruff says, "Please Trick or Treat Safely!"

Good News!

In times past there were false prophets among God's people, and among you also there will be false teachers who will smuggle in pernicious heresies. They will go so far as to deny the Master who acquired them for his own, thereby bringing on themselves swift disaster.

Their lustful ways will lure many away. Through them, the true way will be made subject to contempt. 2 PETER 2: 1-2

Hornettes, Chris Klement win '88 district championships

The Muenster Hornettes and Hornets entered 12 runners in the district cross country run at Nocona Hills Saturday evening and qualified all 12 for the regional finals at Arlington on Nov. 5. Senior Chris Klement captured the gold medal in the boys' competition with a time of 17:17 over the 3-mile course. The girls won their third consecutive meet of the year, scoring 28 points to outdistance the 46 points second place finish by Paradise.

Freshmen Tina Klement placed third overall with a time of 13:50 for the 2-mile course. Winning first and second were seniors Melissa McKinney of Alvord and Julie Dodd of Prairie Valley, with times of 13:18 and 13:26 respectively. Sophomore Amy Hoenig was fifth overall with a time of 14:33, followed by freshmen Amy Dankesreiter and Tonya Knabe, who were 6th and 9th with times of 14:43 and 15:07 over the tough hilly course. Senior Tara Walterscheid rounded out the scoring with a 10th place finishing time of 15:13. Marcia Vogel was 11th with a 15:32 and Sheila Huddleston 16th with a 16:44.

In the final team point totals, individual runners are excluded from the finishing order, so team runners move up. The top five finishers are added together and the sixth and seventh runners are kept in the orders to bump other teams' runners back and act as a tiebreaker.

Following Klement in second place was Robert Hobe from Paradise. Muenster's Yancy Culp was third with a 17:34 clocking. Steven Fisher finished 11th with a 20:05 and Steven Youngblood was 14th with a 23:34. Brian Reiter was 15th with a 23:40 and the Hornets won second place behind Paradise to earn a regional berth.

The top five individuals and top two teams from each district advance to regionals. At the regionals, the top three teams and top 10 individuals advance to the state meet, which is annually held at Southwestern University in Georgetown. This year it will be Nov. 12.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

This November, Texas voters will choose five justices to the state Supreme Court, plus the Chief Justice to fill six out of nine bench seats.

The selection of previous judges has created a "plaintiff's" paradise. It costs a lot of money to run for a seat and two-thirds of that money comes from lawyers with cases pending before the court.

The court actions now go beyond just the interpretation of laws and create a major impact on business and on health care organizations. For example, a decision in Moore v. Lillebo, 722 S.W. 2d 683 (Texas 1986), turned around a ninety year holding by the Texas Supreme Court and allowed recovery for mental anguish with no proof of injury. The present court expanded a ruling of implied warranties and deceptive trade practices which applies to all types of business. There are numerous rulings that have escalated insurance costs to a point that many businesses are reluctant to relocate or expand in Texas. The courts have expanded the field of who can collect for damages and why. Also, the court's actions enlarge the liability potential for anyone contracting for goods and services. Just take a look at your increased cost of car, health, property and liability insurance. Since October of 1983, more than thirty-five rural hospitals have discontinued obstetrical service. The primary reason is the cost of malpractice insurance premiums.

I wanted to get a carnival sponsored by the Kiwanis Club for the Germanfest to have rides for visitors at a reasonable cost. After examining their insurance rates, I can understand why their rides are expensive.

We as voters have an opportunity to change our future. We must demand that our third branch of government does what the constitutional framers intended, INTERPRET the law. The judicial branch has no legal or inherent right to legislate regardless of its opinion on the Legislature's position. Please support the following candidates for the Texas Supreme Court: Tom Phillips (R), Paul Murphy (R), Nathan Hecht (R), Raul Gonzales (D), Jack Hightower (D), and Eugene Cook (R).

Sincerely,
Herman W. Carroll

New laws are needed for Workers' Compensation

by Elaine Schad

Jimmy and Gayle DeBord said they haven't been able to meet their bills with the $231 weekly workers' compensation check DeBord has received since becoming permanently disabled from a January accident while working at a Muenster cheese plant.

If a total overhaul of state workers' compensation laws isn't accomplished in the next legislative session, Texas will continue to lose the battle in attracting new businesses to the state, and Texas workers will continue to be shortchanged, said an official with the Texas Association of Business.

The DeBords are interested in reform, and were visitors to a "Jobs for Texas" traveling job laboratory that stopped in Gainesville recently. The bus will travel to 60 Texas cities by December to make people more aware of the need for workers' compensation reform, said Mona Miller, TAB regional manager.

The Texas Workers' Compensation Act was adopted in 1913. The act intended to provide sure, prompt and reasonable income, and medical benefits to work-accident victims, or income to their dependents, regardless of fault. Despite amendments, the act is outdated, Miller said.

Employer premiums rank 10th highest of 50 states, but ranks 40th in benefits paid to injured workers, according to 1987 statistics. Texas workers' compensation premium rates have increased by 80 percent since 1985, according to TAB data.

"Gainesville lost a company to Virginia because of workers' compensation costs," Miller said. She said another company, associated with J.C. Penney Co., decided to locate in North Carolina instead of in Collin County because annual premium workers' compensation costs there will be $28,000 compared to $300,000 in Texas. "The majority are saying they are not going to expand to Texas because of the premium costs," she said.

The traveling jobs laboratory is being sponsored by the Texas Safety Association, Inc., Texas State Chamber of Commerce, Texans For Equity in Workers' Compensation, and the Texas Chapter of the National Federation of Independent Business. It will be in Fort Worth at the Worthington Hotel Nov. 9, 10 and 11.

THE ECONOMY AND YOU

NEXT PRESIDENT FACES TOUGH FOUR YEARS

By Richard H. Fink

America's next chief executive officer will not have the most enviable job description. Come January, our newly elected president, whether he be Michael Dukakis or George Bush, will have to face some downright ugly economic problems which no administration has yet dealt with.

A rise in major bank failures and the impending banking crisis, the growing federal budget deficit, the changing demographics in the Social Security system, and the federal government's pileup of unfunded liabilities all point to one dark fact: the federal government has systematically overspent for the last 20 years, and the bill has to be paid—starting now.

The bleak economic situation will certainly not help the next president's popularity rating. On one hand, capping the growth of federal spending will not be an easy task to accomplish in a Congress laden with special interest bedfellows. Washington could turn into an even nastier partisan combat zone.

On the other hand, if the president fails to take strong measures to curb spending, he will undoubtedly be held responsible for the double-digit inflation and rising interest rates that could well result or, worse yet, a crippling taxation that will result in high unemployment and recession.

The Congressional Budget Office (CBO) currently estimates that the 1990 budget deficit will reach $160 billion, far above the $100 billion target set by the 1986 Gramm-Rudman-Hollings deficit reduction law. The next president will feel this fiscal pinch immediately. He could well be told by the National Economic Commission—and big spenders on Capitol Hill—that tax increases are necessary to meet the deficit targets.

Fortunately, there is hope for a reasonable solution that would not involve bullying the president into raising taxes. By simply pointing to the potential of the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings law's automatic spending cuts, the president can effectively block tax increases and force Congress to balance the budget by 1993 by controlling the growth of federal spending.

Next year's budget battle lines will be drawn when the new president submits his budget for 1990. Assuming CBO's deficit estimates are accurate, the president will have to propose budget figures that will reduce the deficit by $60 billion.

Congressional tax increase proponents will seize the opportunity to argue that raising taxes is the only way to reduce the deficit. But politicians who argue that the deficit will fall only if they are given more money to "solve the problem" are selling out on the American people.

The next president must expose the deceptive tax-increase/deficit-reduction argument for what it really is: a cover-up for a Congress obsessed with paying off its supporters before paying off the nation's debts. If we want to assure a much less threatening economic future for today's young people, we must choose a president who is willing to battle Congress on its budgetary blunders. We must be prepared to support him if he takes strong action to affect Congressional spending reform. However, we must be prepared to fight him if he joins Congress in continuing to mortgage America's future with the growth of spending and taxation.

Albert gets drug test

WICHITA FALLS ... In support of an initiative sponsored by Drug Free North Texas, Texas State Senate candidate Bobby Albert recently took a voluntary drug screening.

Albert stated, "Public officials should lead by example. We should provide an example for our youth and community. If those of us who seek and hold public office are not clear of mind, our society is in trouble."

"The two reasons that I am running for the State Senate are my two boys, Rob and Brian. I am concerned about their future and the future of Texas when cheap and dangerous drugs are in our streets and in our schools. I want my boys and all our children to have the opportunity to succeed in life and to realize their God-given potential," Albert stated.

"We need to do more than just say no to drugs," said Albert. "We need tough penalties for drug users. The message to those who peddle and use this poison must be clear: If you are going to do the crime, you are going to do the time."

Carriker gets TCA group's endorsement

The Texas Consumer Association has announced that it has endorsed State Senator Steve Carriker for re-election to the 30th District Senate seat.

"We are proud of Senator Carriker's record, for it represents a strong commitment to the consumers of Texas," said Annette LoVoi, president of the Texas Consumer Association. "Senator Steve Carriker is committed to the issues we stand for, and we enthusiastically endorse his re-election."

The Texas Consumer Association is an all-volunteer citizen organization working for positive legislative policy that represents the interests of mainstream Texans. Some of the organization's accomplishments include:

- Preserving Texas' Homestead Law;
- Fighting high interest rates;
- Limiting telephone rate increases; and
- Establishing an independent Public Utility Counsel office.

"We look forward to having Steve Carriker in the Legislature to champion the needs of ordinary people," LoVoi concluded.

Lindsay seeks superintendent

by Elaine Schad

The Lindsay School District is beginning its search for a new superintendent to replace Henry Schroeder who is expected to retire at the end of this school year.

The school board this week approved a job description for the position, and is accepting applications until January. Those applying should contact the superintendent's office for a job description.

In an unrelated matter, the board heard about the county tax abatement program from Carl Smith, executive vice president of the Gainesville Area Chamber of Commerce.

Several taxing entities in Cooke County have already approved a set of guidelines that would grant tax abatements of up to five years, and even beyond if the county deems necessary, for new or expanding manufacturing research, regional distribution, regional service, regional entertainment or other basic industry facilities. The first to use the new program was Borden Chemical, which plans a $20 million expansion and has been granted a 75 percent abatement over 12 years by the City of Gainesville.

Although the board has not made a final decision, it may be to the advantage of the school district to adopt the guidelines considering Lindsay's industrial base, said Superintendent Henry Schroeder. If the guidelines were approved, the district would still have the option to approve or reject any abatement on an individual basis, Smith said.

In another matter, the board approved a policy concerning major incomplete classroom assignments. The new policy states any student in grades 7 through 12 who has not completed within two weeks of the end of a semester, a major incomplete assignment which carries a great deal of graded weight, that student will automatically receive no credit for the course. Schroeder said the policy was made because of some students who failed to complete major assignments such as term papers, essays and book reports. Some of those students, in the past, would still at times manage to pass despite receiving a grade of "0" in the assignment. The new policy would result in no credit, regardless of whether the final grade was a passing one, he said.

In other business, the board donated Knight Drive to the City of Lindsay on the condition the city provide maintenance and upkeep. The district received a letter of appreciation from the Gainesville Boys and Girls Club for donating a surplus scoreboard and football pants to their program. The board also appointed a textbook committee composed of Schroeder, Gilbert Hermes, Sara Lester, Charlotte Murrell, Jim Anderson and Mary Holland.

Lindsay ISD proposes increase in school's student transfer fees

by Elaine Schad

A group representing parents of transfer students in the Lindsay School District gave their opinions about how the district should proceed with proposals for establishing transfer fees at the school board's regular October meeting.

The board is considering a change in the current fee structure, which now charges $250 per family for students approved for transfer into the district.

School officials say a different fee structure is needed because it is costing the district more to educate students. The Lindsay ISD last year lost $80,000 in state aid due to state funding formulas, and expects to lose more next year, officials said. While the board had to increase district property taxes by 8 percent this past year, it's still not enough to offset these losses.

The district also built a new elementary building last year to accommodate increasing enrollment. Since almost half of the district's students are transfers who pay no Lindsay ISD property taxes, officials feel some increase in transfer fees are needed.

The main argument concerning the transfer issue has come from parents whose families have been active members of the Lindsay community, even though they do not live within the boundaries of the school district, said Lindsay Superintendent Henry Schroeder. Many of these families have had generations of students attending Lindsay schools, and don't think they should pay the same fee as families who have no connection with the community, he said.

"We just want people to know that the Lindsay ISD recognizes that it could not possibly have the schools we have now, especially the high school, without transfer students," Schroeder said. "It is to our benefit to have transfer students, and we're certainly not trying to run off transfers," he said.

Schroeder said it will probably be February or March before the board decides on transfer fee revisions. It has been proposed that the board increase the fee by $100, from the current $250 per family to $350 per family.

The board has a lot of options in the matter, and could consider a scale of fees, Schroeder said. Fees could be scaled with members of the community or children of Lindsay alumni charged one rate, children of teachers charged a different rate, and new transfers yet another rate. "I checked with the TEA, and as long as the fees are not discriminatory against minority groups, the board has all kinds of options as long as the rates are based on good reasoning," Schroeder said.

Double ring ceremony unites couple

Melanie Kay Richey, daughter of Wendell and Rita Richey, and Mark William Hesse, son of Mrs. Ethel Hesse and the late Leo Hesse, were married in Sacred Heart Church on Oct. 22.

Father Victor Gillespie officiated for the Nuptial Mass and double ring ceremony on Saturday at 5 p.m.

The bride is a 1987 graduate of Muenster High School and attended Cooke County College for one year. The groom is a 1984 graduate of Sacred Heart School and received an Associate degree from TSTI in 1986. He is employed by General Dynamics in Tool Design.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father and given in marriage by her parents.

For her wedding, she chose a formal gown of white spun silk over satin, enhanced with re-embroidered Alencon lace, pearls and sequins. The fitted bodice was designed with a sheer sculptured yoke with jewel neckline. Elizabethan sleeves were adorned with lace and pearls. Scalloped, re-embroidered silk lace and ruffles encircled the full skirt, which fell from an elongated waistline to slipper length in front and into a sweeping chapel length train. Her fingertip-length veil of illusion was gathered to a wreath of white silk roses and delicate pearls. Her bridal bouquet was a cascade of white roses, white stephanotis, white and royal blue double ruffle forget-me-nots, seed pearls and English ivy. For sentiment, she added her late great-grandmother's handkerchief and borrowed a pearl ring.

ATTENDANTS

Tracey Walterscheid of Ennis, a friend of the bride, was maid of honor. Other friends of the bride, Terri Whitley, Kristi Pagel and Laura Hess, all of Muenster, were bridesmaids. Dee Walterscheid of Muenster, bride's niece, was junior bridesmaid. They wore royal blue full length satin dresses with lace top, scooped neckline and long fitted sleeves, and a bow at the back of the skirt. Each carried a miniature bouquet similar to the bride's.

Nieces Alisha Walterscheid and Tiffany Richey of Muenster, Mandy Jo Felderhoff of Gainesville, and Katie Cox of Corinth were flower girls. They wore royal blue dresses and carried white baskets of white and royal blue flowers.

Chisam Cain, bride's cousin, and Brent Falcone, bride's nephew, were ring bearers. Bert Hesse of Muenster was his brother's best man. Troy Yosten, Nick Hess and Neil Hesse, all of Muenster and friends of the groom, were groomsmen. Craig Richey and Todd Richey, brothers of the bride, Kenny Hesse and Keith Bayer, cousins of the groom, all of Muenster, were ushers.

Mass servers were Jordan and Jeremy Bayer, groom's cousins.

Musicians for the wedding were Ruth Felderhoff and Christy Hesse, presenting Clarke's Trumpet Tune and Pachelbell for the processional and recessional; and "The Rose," "Time in a Bottle," "Surround Me With Love," "Wind Beneath My Wings" and "All I Ask" for vocal solos.

Brenda Richey, bride's sister-in-law, and Tina Cox, groom's sister, gave the liturgical readings. The groom's godparents, Bernard and Agnes Hesse, presented Offertory gifts at the altar. Eucharistic ministers were Judy Hartman, Lorena Taylor, John and Lanie Bartush, Art and Frances Bayer and Regina Pels.

Church altars were decorated with white silk gladioli arrangements and royal blue bows; heart-shaped floor candelabra; and ivy trailing on the communion rail. White bows marked family pews.

RECEPTION

A reception, dinner and dance followed in the Sacred Heart Community Center. Dinner was catered by Rohmer's Restaurant. The bride's sisters, Stephanie Felderhoff and Robynn Richey, presided at the guest book. Guests danced to music by Mike Otts.

The three-tiered white wedding cake, over a lighted fountain, was decorated with blue flowers and hearts, and had royal blue streamers leading to four heart-shaped cakes. It was cut and served by Janis Hesse. The groom's cake was horseshoe-shaped and was cut and served by the groom's sister, Marge Devers.

The bride's table was covered with white linen with net overlay. Royal blue and white flowers and gold candelabra completed the decor. Satin puffed hearts with royal blue streamers formed a wall decoration.

Guest tables held royal blue fans, white and blue flowers on white tablecloths. Clusters of blue, white and silver balloons floated about the hall. An arrangement of royal blue and white flowers and wedding bells was suspended from a central point. Aileen Knabe and the bride's aunt and uncle, LaQueta and Bill McCollum, arranged decorations.

The rehearsal dinner was held at The Center Restaurant. Special guests were grandmothers of the couple, Mmes. Gertrude Bayer and Eula Grace Cain.

When the couple returns from a trip to Maui, Hawaii, they will be at home in Denton.

Third Grade News...

Here is what happened in 3rd grade this week.

In art class, we are learning how to make pop-up ghosts and witches. This month we have already won three popcorn parties for perfect attendance. We are saving Scott products and might win a computer for the class. The entire 3rd grade made a "Bookbest";

we used dragon-shaped paper to write a book report. The dragons were hung in the library to get other students to read.

We have a substitute teacher, Mrs. Julie Felderhoff, because Mrs. Jump had her baby and is in the hospital. That is what is going on in 3rd grade.

Health BACK TALK

by Dr. Troy G. Murray

A Spasm of Activity

Muscle spasms that appear in the area of the back are painful and debilitating affairs. They are not, however, conditions in and of themselves. A spasm is a symptom related to a vertebral subluxation. If a person were to "strain (his) back" lifting a heavy object, for example, he most probably threw some vertebrae out of alignment. In response to this unnatural alignment of spinal bones, the body "freezes" any movement in the area by putting surrounding muscle tissue into spasm. This, in effect, prevents movement which may further harm the misaligned bones. The first step in relieving the pain of muscle spasm is to have the bones properly re-aligned. The chiropractor seeks to do precisely that by manipulating the bones back into their proper position. Relief from muscle spasms may soon follow.

Those muscle spasms not related to a "strained back" are usually more severe and related to injury or disc, muscle or skeletal disease.

Many have suffered from such discomfort for a long time under the delusion that nothing can be done.

MURRAY CHIROPRACTIC CENTER, 504 E. Broadway, offers the proven chiropractic applications that will go to the source of your problem, relieving such discomfort and returning you to a long sought-after state of well-being. Tel. 665-7656. Hours: Mon., Tues., Thurs., Fri. 8:30-12:00 and 1:30-5:30.

ON THEIR WEDDING DAY
OCT. 25, 1938

Sickings observe 50th

Surrounded by their children and spouses, grandchildren, relatives and friends at a Sunday morning Mass in Sacred Heart Church, Mr. and Mrs. B.J. Sickings began the observance of their golden wedding anniversary, celebrating 50 years together.

The Mass of Thanksgiving was offered by Father Victor Gillespie at 10:30 a.m. Mass servers were the Sickings' grandsons, Bart, Adam and Jeff Sickings, and Shannon and Cory Schad.

Led by Father Victor, the honor couple, Bernard and Adeline Sickings, were accompanied by the original bridesmaid, Bonnie Hess, and the best man, Joe Sickings, and his wife, Hilda. Following them were the honor couple's children and families, Lorraine and Willie Joe Matthews and children, John, David and Charlotte; Betty and Bill Schneck and Lisa, and a friend, Guy Albanese; Jim and Gloria Sicking and Shawn and fiancée Lauren Oswald, and Jamie and a friend, Missy Dillingham; Judy and Jerry Gill; Melvin and Sheila Sicking and Cari, Jenni, Mitzi and Jodie; Wayne and Amy Sicking and Tammy and Tonya (two sons were Mass servers); Herbie and JoAnn Sicking and Jessamy, Clint and Lynn (one son was a Mass server); Donna and Don Schad and Amanda and Diana (two sons were Mass servers); Allen Sicking; Denise and James Landers and Amber (their children, 15-month-old twins Whitney and Justin, were at the nursery).

The liturgy was planned to include all grandchildren. Tammy Sicking and Tonya Sicking gave the First and Second Readings. Jessamy Sicking, Jodie Sicking and Amanda Schad presented Prayers of the Faithful.

Those participating in the Offertory procession were John Matthews as narrator; and the following, Shawn Sicking with a Bible; Lynn Sicking with a rosary; Diana Schad with a sewing basket; Amber Landers with a loaf of bread; David Matthews with tools; Clint Sicking with a wooden toy tractor; Cari Sicking with a potted flower plant. All these indicated work and hobbies of the honor couple.

Charlotte Matthews, Lisa Schneck and Jamie Sicking carried the Offertory gifts of bread and wine.

Ruth Felderhoff and Christy Hesse provided liturgical music. The entrance hymn was "On This Day." For the Offertory procession, the song was "The Greatest Gift." The Communion song was "Only A Shadow." For the meditation following Communion, two granddaughters Jenni Sicking and Mitzi Sicking presented a flute and clarinet duet. The recessional was "Holy God, We Praise Thy Name."

RECEPTION

A family dinner followed in the KC Hall for more than 100 guests. Upon entering, all family members were presented name tags, done in beautiful calligraphy by Gloria Sicking.

Dinner was catered by Lou Schad and Mary Hundt. Jim Sickings gave the blessing. After dinner, Lorraine Matthews read the family history, telling that her parents were married on Oct. 25, 1938 with Father Frowin Koerdt officiating at a Nuptial High Mass at 8 a.m. The church choir, accompanied by organist Anthony Luke, sang the Latin Missa Tertia.

The bride wore a white lace over satin princess dress and an illusion veil held by a white satin halo. She carried white carnations and fern.

Her bridesmaid was her sister, Bonnie Yosten, wearing royal blue taffeta and a wreath of pink carnations.

Joe Sickings stood up with his brother as best man.

The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Yosten, hosted a wedding breakfast in their home, and the table was set with blue willow china, and the tiered wedding cake.

The dinner at noon in the bride's home included guests, the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Sicking, and all brothers and sisters of the wedding couple and their baptismal sponsors.

Bernard and Adeline Sicking made their first home on a farm six miles south of Muenster.

They are parents of 10 children, all living. There are 26 grandchildren. One, Billy Schneck, is deceased. All were present for the celebration except for Shelly Schneck who was ill.

During the after-dinner program, each child stood to relate favorite memories.

A special part of the program was added by one of the guests, Aunt Georgia Sicking, widow of Frank Sicking of Fallon, Nevada, on her first visit to Texas. She is a noted, published poet; and presented some of her original Cowboy poetry and some by other authors. Her attendance was a special treat for Adeline who was meeting her for the first time.

A video of 175 family snapshots was arranged by JoAnn Sicking, for viewing with background music of Randy Travis' "Forever and Ever," and John Denver's "Some Days Are Diamonds" and "Country Roads."

Jim Sicking offered toasts to his parents; and Charlotte Matthews cut the cake made by Betty Rose Walterscheid. Its keepsake layer held a "Treasured Memories" porcelain figurine, a gift from the Schnecks.

Guest tables were decorated with gold-sprayed horseshoes, welded together in book-end design with a decorative "50" numeral. These were made by Sheila Sicking and John and David Matthews. Each family member received these as keepsakes.

There was a garden scene arranged in one area, with tables, chairs, hanging baskets and ferns, planned and designed by Sheila Sicking, Amy Sicking and Denise Landers.

Focal point of the decorations was a quilt - special gift to "Mom and Dad" assembled by Judy Gill. All squares were originally designed and crafted by all the daughters and daughters-in-law. On a large block in the center was an embroidered family tree, made by Judy Gill incorporating all children whose names were sewn on red apples; spouses' names on yellow apples and grandchildren on green apples. It was bordered in Country Patch design.

On the head table, Donna Schad displayed old wedding pictures in antique wooden frames. Amy Sicking made all the silk corsages for all the ladies in the family to match their dresses; for all the men she made white silk boutonnières touched with blue.

For her golden anniversary party, the 50-year bride chose a light blue satin two-piece, street-length dress. Her white orchid corsage had touches of gold.

During the afternoon of their golden anniversary party, an Open House celebration was held in the Knights of Columbus Hall from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. The anniversary cake was cut and served; toasts were offered; Aunt Georgia Sicking recited more poetry and guests had a great time reminiscing.

Out-of-town guests included Richard and Anna Kremer and family of Sherman and Georgia Sicking of Fallon, Nev. and her daughter, Sue Jarrard of Cedar City, Utah.

An additional surprise for the honor couple was arranged by their children who knew they planned having dinner out on their actual anniversary date of Oct. 25. When Bernard and Adeline Sicking arrived at Rohmer's Restaurant, they were greeted at the door with wine and roses and a special dinner. Surely no song would have been more fitting than "When You Come To The End Of A Perfect Day!"

THELMA and JOE RUSSELL

Joe and Thelma Russell observe golden wedding

Joe and Thelma Russell, former Muenster residents, were the surprised honorees at a party and dinner planned by their children to observe their golden wedding anniversary.

The event was held at Bayou Inn on Lake Dallas on Oct. 16. Hosting the party were their six children and spouses, Ronnye and Cindy Russell; Debbie and Wayne Cler; Pam Beaver; Carol and H.D. Hoover; Robert and Rita Russell; and Phillip and Roxie Russell.

A special golden anniversary cake was baked and decorated by Betty Rose Walterscheid. A special surprise gift was a framed family portrait.

Joe and Thelma Russell were married on Oct. 22, 1938 in Muleshoe, Texas. He is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. J.S. Russell, former residents of Muenster and Myra. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Bounds of Muleshoe.

They moved to Muenster in 1955. Joe worked as a plumber here for 30 years before moving to Woodbine, Texas. They are members of Woodbine Baptist Church.

The couple is semi-retired and he works part-time at Uniflex of Muenster. They have 18 grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Mrs. Victor Hartman returns home

An autumn vacation trip traveling with her daughter, Edna Tompkins, and visiting in particular with a granddaughter and family, Judy and Sammy Hernandez and children, was a never-to-be forgotten pleasure for Mrs. Victor Hartman.

For almost three weeks, sightseeing took them many hundreds of miles from home in several states and the District of Columbia.

Margaret Hartman and Edna Tompkins flew from DFW on Sept. 10. They were met in Washington, D.C. by Judy (Tompkins) Hernandez. Included in the first day's sightseeing were the Pentagon and the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception. The splendor of the National Shrine was a fitting first impression for their trip.

They learned from historical notes that the present site for the proposed shrine was blessed on May 23, 1920 and the cornerstone was laid in September of that year. By 1926, the Crypt Church was completed and services have been held there continuously since 1927. Work continued on the Upper Church, which accommodates 2,000 worshippers. There are also many chapels. The National Shrine serves America also through its treasures of art as well as its ministries. It has one of the most extensive collections of mosaics in the world.

Interest in the National Shrine, however, had reached much deeper, and much farther back into the nineteenth century. In May 1846, 19 Bishops met in Baltimore, Maryland and petitioning the Pope in Rome to proclaim Mary, the Mother of Jesus, as Patroness of the United States of America, under the title of "The Immaculate Conception."

In 1914, the Bishop and Rector of the Catholic University of America, with approval from Pope St. Pius X, interested the hierarchy and people in building the National Shrine honoring Mary as their patroness. Services provided by the Shrine included a comprehensive schedule of Masses, Sundays, weekdays and Holy Days plus administration of the Sacraments, and guided tours by arrangement. There is ample free parking and even a cafeteria open for breakfast and lunch.

The second day of the trip for the Texans and their relatives began with Mass and then packing a picnic lunch, to drive into the Shenandoah National Forest, and to see the Blue Ridge Mountains. "Truly beautiful," said Mrs. Hartman, "and we saw people feeding deer."

A day later, they went to the Civil War battlefields in Manassas, Virginia. They visited the sites of the first and second battles of Bull Run. They took a walking tour of the first battlefield, saw the famous Stone Bridge and also the Stone House which served as a hospital and refuge for the wounded during the two Civil War battles fought at Manassas. That house was built before 1828.

Later in the day, they went to the Christmas Shop in Gainesville, Virginia. In the next several days they went sightseeing in Warrenton, enjoyed seeing beautiful homes and visiting craft shops. "A treat was having lunch at Cina Jade in Warrenton," said Mrs. Hartman.

One day they drove through the Amish countryside and around Lancaster, Pennsylvania. They visited with an Amish resident and bought fruit and vegetables from him in Leola, Penn. "I enjoyed the conversation," said Mrs. Hartman. "His name was Amos Zork and he has a sister living in Garland, Texas." "He showed us beautiful crafts made by his daughter which she will sell" ... "Later we saw an Amish man working in the field, and several Amish buggies on the road."

They enjoyed sightseeing in the Appalachian Mountains and at Mount St. Mary College in Emmetsburg, Maryland.

On a Friday they departed early in the morning to visit in Silver Springs, Maryland with Vincent Becker. The temperature read 53°; and they recalled Texas temperatures in the upper 90's, at the same time. One of Vincent Becker's work partners said he formerly worked with the railroad in Muenster. Mrs. Hartman and Mrs. Tompkins were startled to hear that he knew the depot agent in Muenster named "Tommy Tompkins."

Eight bad minutes... Sacred Heart loses district match 52-14

"The score is no indication of how we played," said Sacred Heart's head coach John Sims. "We made mistakes and they cashed in on every one of them."

"We played 40 good minutes of ball game, and eight minutes of bad." Lexington scored touchdowns in the final minutes of the first half.

Injuries and illnesses caused missed practices the week before the game. Quarterback Darrell Dangelmayr missed workouts and played on a bad ankle. Running back Glen Swirczynski received a bad sprained ankle during the Liberty game and played only four defensive plays at Lexington. "Defensive quality wasn't near as good as the week before," said Sims, "because of missed practices."

Things started bad for the Tigers when Lexington took the opening kickoff and returned 86 yards for an early touchdown. The PAT was good and Sacred Heart trailed 8-0.

The Tigers made a comeback, picking up five first downs on an 86-yard drive, including 4 well passed balls from Darrell Dangelmayr to Chad Fleitman, Curt Bayer and Ryan Hess. Chris Hess went the final 5 yards to hit paydirt and Dangelmayr added 2 points to tie the game 8-8 with 8:37 remaining in the first quarter.

The ball changed hands several times during the remainder of the quarter, with Curt Bayer recovering a fumble and the Tiger defense holding the Patriots on a critical 4th and 1. The Tigers picked up yardage moving inside the 20-yard line before losing the ball on an interception early in the 2nd quarter. The defense held again, taking over at the Lexington 40-yard line. Again, the Tigers marched inside the 20 getting to the 3-yard line before losing the ball, this time on downs.

Lexington broke some big plays when they had to and wore the Tigers down in the remaining 7:35 left in the first half. A 66-yard touchdown pass and PAT gave the Patriots a 16-8 lead. The Tigers fumbled the ball back two plays later, setting up another Lexington score, 24-8. Sacred Heart threw an interception their next play and Lexington scored again with 8 seconds remaining, giving them a 32-8 halftime lead. Lexington struck again on their first possession of the 3rd quarter, moving the ball 48 yards to take a 30-point lead.

The Tigers did shine on their next possession, starting on their own 34-yard line. Lexington picked off a pass inside the 10, but a defensive holding call gave the Tigers the ball on the 1-yard line, where Chris Hess carried it, giving Sacred Heart 14 points to the Pirates' 38.

Darrell Dangelmayr recovered a Pirate fumble on their next possession but the Tigers couldn't move the ball, giving it up to Lexington, who moved into paydirt extending their lead to 44-14. Sacred Heart lost the ball two plays later on an interception, setting up Lexington's final touchdown. With 1:09 left, the Patriots struck, making the final blow to the tune of 52-14.

"The younger kids got in some playing time late in the game," said Coach Sims, "and Lexington kept in their starters and scored again."

Statistics prove the game wasn't as one-sided as the score indicates. The Tigers gained 201 yards in 39 carries, and 37 yards passing. Lexington totaled 242 yards in 42 carries and 177 in the air. Curt Bayer was leading rusher with 117 yards on 16 attempts. Dangelmayr completed four passes for 37 yards, with 2 catches to Chad Fleitman for 28 yards.

Sacred Heart will play host to the Oakridge Owls Friday night. "It will be another tough physical ball game," stated Sims. "They're a well-coached, well-disciplined team and larger than we are." Oakridge runs a 52-defense and the Wishbone and have 6 running backs that are interchangeable. "We're quicker and faster," concluded the coach, "and can probably throw the ball better, but we have to play better defense."

Playoff situation
Sacred Heart must win the next two games - Oakridge and Tyler Street - to possibly earn the fourth playoff post. A win over the two Class 2A teams should be impressive enough to the TAPS Playoff Board. "Losing to Lexington really hurt," said Coach Sims. "Now it will be a battle." Game time is at 7:30 p.m.

Lucky ladies lead

Finishing the eighth week of the regular high school football season, The Enterprise Contest continues with close competition.

Tina Bindel was the winner this week, guessing 22 right, as did Janet Pagel and Shirley Anne Noonan of Nocona, but Tina was closest to the tie-breaker with an 18-point score difference, compared to Janet's 23, placing her second, and Shirley's 29-point difference.

One contestant picked 21 right and seven picked 20, while six entries had 19 correct choices.

Janet Fisher was the only entrant to guess the outcome of the Steelers 6 field goal victory over Denver, but everyone picked Lin-say over Alvord and Lakehill's defeat to Oakridge.

Two entries had Muenster to lose to Era and 12 thought Sacred Heart would win over Lexington. Ten Cowboy fans chose the wrong winner while only one missed Notre Dame's 41-13 victory.

Mick Haverkamp took over the grand lead by missing only five this week, improving her percentage to 80.114. Chris Stoffels moved into second place with a percentage of 78.409, while Craig Stoffels, last week's leader, dropped into third with 77.841 percent after missing 10 games.

Weekly winners picked up their cash prizes at 82 Liquor, last week's tie-breaker sponsor.

Meets Petrolia for playoff showdown Muenster thwarts Era's effort 7-6

The Muenster Hornet football team gave Head Coach Bill Jump his 8th win at Muenster Friday night to pull his record to an even .500 at Muenster, 8-8. His wife, Marionette, gave him a girl Monday morning, to pull his home record to 1 girl and 2 boys. It was an exciting weekend for the Jumps, and an exciting game for the fans, especially the underdog Era's fans.

Muenster ran its record to 6-1 for the season, despite being outgained in rushing and passing yardage, and despite giving Era several chances in the final quarter to win the game. The golden Hornets went for the two-point conversion, trailing 7-6 with just over 7 minutes to play, but had the option play stuffed when James Hennigan sliced through to force an errant pitch. Hennigan had 8 unassisted tackles in the fourth quarter, and 14 for the game. Hennigan's performance was one of the few bright spots for the Muenster team.

"The brightest spot from the game was the scoreboard," said Coach Jump. "If we had played this way last year, Era would have on 6 punts to help stymie Era's offense. But midway in the final quarter, Era quarterback Clint Worthy hit Chris Massengale out of the backfield for a 30-yard scoring strike to pull within one.

During the final 7 minutes, the Big Red stopped Era on 3 fourth down attempts. With 56 seconds to play and holding the ball, Muenster fumbled it back to Era at midfield. Fortunately, the defense held.

For Muenster, Chris Klement was the leading blocker while Hennigan led the defense with an outstanding second-half performance. Safety J. Shane Wimmer also had 4 open field tackles to prevent big Era gains. The game marked Muenster's lowest offensive output of the year in both yardage and points.

The win creates several scenarios for the tight district race. First and most likely could be that Lindsay wins out, Valley View drops one to the Knights and Muenster wins out. The resulting three-way tie at 5-1 would be decided on a complicated point system in head-to-head meetings. If Muenster wins out and Valley hammered us. We are definitely a much better team and we hope that Era woke us up to the fact we must be even better if we are going to represent our district beyond Nov. 11."

The Big Red were outrushed 133 to 132 and outpassed by 104 yards to only 24, but were able to score an early touchdown and make it stand up. Quarterback Jerry Brawner faked inside to Scot Vogel and ran untouched around the right end to give Muenster a 6-0 advantage early in the 2nd period. Weldon Hermes kicked the extra point for what would prove to be the winning point.

Era battled the entire second half to successfully bottle up the Muenster offense. Punter Bobby Don Thornhill averaged 37 yards View wins out, the Big Red is the runner-up. If Petrolia beats Muenster, then Valley View must beat Lindsay to put Petrolia, Muenster and Lindsay all at 4-2 and tied for second. Muenster must win their final three games to stay in contention (for all practical purposes).

These scenarios are all based on the unlikely event of an upset being posted: Windthorst, Alvord or Era in the final three games. Based on what we've seen this year, anything can happen, and it may not be so unlikely.

Muenster will face Petrolia at 7:30 p.m. at Pirate Stadium Friday night. The key matchup will be the Petrolia offense led by all-state candidate Michael Askew against the stingy Hornet defense.

Lindsay lashes Bulldogs, 33-8

Three critical turnovers helped the Lindsay Knights take a 33-8 district victory over Alvord last Friday night.

Mike Dieter ran in from the 2-yard line in less than 2 minutes of playing time to give Lindsay an early 6-0 lead. Dieter set up the score with a 53-yard run on the game's first play.

Alvord fumbled on their second the final quarter.

Lindsay moved the ball to the 3-yard line where Alvord's defense held. The Knights took over possession on downs and moved 39 yards for the final touchdown of the night. Dieter crossed over from the 1-yard line with 1:31 left in the game. Fleitman's kick was good and the score ended 33-8.

play with Jeff Arendt recovering the ball.

On the first play of the 2nd quarter, John Fangman covered a fumbled ball. Four plays later, Dieter went in from the 4-yard line for the Knights' second touchdown. Bob Fleitman kicked the extra point and Lindsay took a 13-0 lead.

The Bulldogs followed with a long drive, taking the ball to the 11-yard line, where Craig Neu recovered another fumble. Lindsay took possession on their 20-yard line. A 57-yard pass from Fleitman to Regi Klement gave Lindsay excellent field possession. Two plays later, Neu scored on a 6-yard run and Fleitman kicked the PAT, making the score 20-0.

Lindsay scored once more the first half, set up by their fourth fumble recovery. Brad Neu's gain gave his team the ball on the 25-yard line. Several plays later, Dieter went over from the 5, giving the Knights a 26-0 halftime score.

Alvord scored their first and only touchdown late in the third quarter. With a 2-point PAT, the scoreboard read 26-8 going into rushing with 202 yards on 28 carries. Lindsay had a total of 290 rushing yards.

Bobby Fleitman completed 2 passes for 66 yards. Alvord had a total gain of 151 yards.

Little Red blanks Era, record 3-2-1

The Little Red Hornets exploded for 36 points last Thursday night and held Era on four downs inside the 5-yard line for a shutout and convincing 36-0 district win. They are now 3-2-1 for the year and 1-1-1 in district play. They face a tough Petrolia team at 6 p.m. this Thursday night at Hornet Stadium.

Kenneth Walterscheid scored two touchdowns and scoring one each were Chad Cheaney, Darren Bindel, and Robbie Riggs.

Outstanding performances were turned in by all players, but most notably Cody Truebenbach, Michael Hacker, Johnny Moster, Rodney Vogel and Brian Knabe.

Coach Tim Ratliff said, "They have improved quite a lot since we started and to climb up over .500 and still have a chance for the championship shows more character."

The Little Red finish the season traveling to Alvord and then at home against Windthorst.

Reactions to pesticide exposure

MIKE MOELLER
TEXAS DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

People's sensitivity to foreign substances varies widely. Sensitivity to pesticides is no exception. Exposure to pesticides may affect your body's intricately balanced systems sooner or later than it does others.

As a result, some people may get sick even when pesticides are used according to label directions. To minimize any possible health risks, you should minimize your exposure to pesticides.

Recent studies have shown that long-term exposure to pesticides can present health and environmental problems. A study appearing in the July 1987 issue of the Journal of the National Cancer Institute suggests a link between an increase of some childhood leukemia and parents' use of certain over-the-counter household and garden pesticides.

Health risks from chemical exposure depend on the type of chemical used and how often, in what quantity and how long an individual is exposed. It is widely recognized that pregnant and nursing women, infants, young children, the elderly and people with respiratory and other chronic diseases may be especially sensitive to chemical exposure. To protect people in this hypersensitive category, look for non-toxic pest control alternatives. If you decide to apply pesticides, you should wait until any chemically sensitive individuals are not present. After the application, strictly follow any re-entry requirements on the label.

The immediate effects of overexposure to pesticides may include a variety of symptoms such as headache, blurred vision, dizziness, confusion, sweating, fatigue, nausea and eye, nose and skin irritation.

Overapplication of pesticides and inadequate ventilation of a treated area are two common problems in home pesticide use. To minimize your exposure, strictly follow all label directions and regularly allow plenty of fresh air into treated areas during the time the pesticide remains effective. If you can smell a pesticide, that means it's entering your lungs. But even if there is no detectable odor, some pesticides still pose a danger to your health.

If you are applying pesticides outdoors, you should not do it on a windy day. You will not only miss your target, you will also send toxic chemicals drifting off to non-target areas. As a precaution, close your house windows before outdoor pesticide applications.

Chemical manufacturers have recently market-tested pesticides that are pleasantly scented like air-fresheners. Consumers should be aware that regardless of the scent, the active ingredient in most pesticides is harmful for anyone to breathe.

Pesticide labels use standard language, called signal words, to generally alert users to how poisonous a pesticide is if swallowed, inhaled or absorbed through the skin. Look for one of the following signal words on the front of the label. "DANGER" means highly poisonous. "WARNING" means moderately poisonous. "CAUTION" means least hazardous.

Properly and sparingly used, pesticides can be valuable and efficient tools. Even so, the Environmental Protection Agency suggests that you treat any pesticide as more highly toxic than you actually think it is. By doing this, you have less of a chance of underestimating the power of the chemicals you use in and around places where you work, eat and sleep.

County Agent's Report

by Craig Rosenbaum

Effective Oct. 1, all heifers moved from brucellosis quarantined herds must be branded with an "S." The U.S. Department of Agriculture passed this federal guideline in a stepped-up effort to eradicate brucellosis.

Brucellosis, commonly called "bangs" is an incurable bacterial disease contagious among cows during and shortly after calving. Infection can cause abortions or the birth of weak calves.

"S"-branded heifers may be sold through a livestock market or be issued permits for direct movement, but their only destination may be quarantined feedlots or slaughter.

About 29,000 heifers in Texas will be affected this year by the upcoming federal guidelines and state regulation.

Sexually immature heifers have not traditionally been considered to be a factor in the brucellosis program. However, studies have revealed that heifers exposed to brucellosis can incubate the disease and not test positive until their first or even second pregnancy.

Although vaccinations have proven successful for heifers from uninfected herds, the vaccine may not protect animals already exposed to brucellosis.

The federal government is working to tighten restrictions and provide aid to prevent the spread of the disease from state to state.

As of Sept. 1, veterinarians who vaccinate heifers against brucellosis began receiving reimbursement from the state government in 211 counties. The TAHC predicts that funds may again run short in 1989.

The Texas Animal Health Commission has budgeted $523,000 for reimbursements to veterinarians accredited by the USDA and TAHC.

Veterinarians will receive $1 per head for vaccinating heifers 4 to 12 months old and they may collect the outstanding balance from producers.

Strain 19, a brucella abortus vaccine which builds immunity against brucellosis, is recommended by the TAHC to vaccinate young heifers.

The 43 counties containing the highest numbers of brucellosis cases will continue to receive federal funds until at least Oct. 1.

Private treaty sales - beef checkoff

We all know that auction barns, packers, feedyards and dealer/order buyers are collecting the checkoff dollar. But, did you also know that every individual who buys at private treaty is responsible for collecting the $1 per head assessment? That's right, and these are the steps to take to collect the dollar. The purchaser (buyer) collects the dollar from the producer (seller) and remits it to the Texas Beef Industry Council.

The correct procedure for this is for the buyer to deduct $1 per head on the bill of sale, therefore "collecting" the dollars. It is the seller's responsibility to see that the buyer checks off the dollar. Then the buyer sends these "collected" dollars to the Texas Beef Industry Council. All dollars collected within one month can be sent in on one remittance form; however, they must be sent by the 15th of the following month.

Monthly remittance forms can be obtained from your County Extension Office or simply call the Texas Beef Industry Council, (512) 345-3531.

Japanese to be introduced to Texas products

Texas agriculture has been invited to climb aboard a 12-car train that will promote U.S. goods, services, tourist attractions and investment opportunities during a year-long trip across Japan.

TDA will have a free display booth on the "American Train in Japan," a trade and goodwill project that will visit 40-50 Japanese cities between now and July 3, 1989. Around 10 million people are expected to tour exhibits inside the train and display booths set up on station platforms.

"This is an excellent opportunity for Texas agriculture to sell itself to Japanese consumers and business leaders. The booth will be used to give Texas food and fiber suppliers a chance to show the Japanese the wide range of outstanding Texas products," said Commissioner Hightower.

"Japan and other Pacific Rim countries represent the largest potential growth market in the world for U.S. agricultural products, and Texas producers must be able to get their share," Hightower added.

The space will be available to Texas companies and product groups free of charge. The booth can be used for generic production promotions, consumer acceptance tests and direct sales to the Japanese public.

More information is available by contacting TDA's International Marketing Program, P. O. Box 12847, Austin, TX 78711, (512) 463-7624.

If the pumpkin is ripe, it must be fall!

Pumpkins are always part of a Halloween celebration. The Jack O'Lantern tradition is believed to have begun in Ireland. An Irishman named Jack was not permitted to enter heaven because he was wicked and stingy. He was so wicked, in fact, that he was repelled from hell, too, for playing tricks on the devil. So he was condemned to walk the earth forever carrying a lantern in his hand.

Pumpkins have many uses besides Jack O'Lanterns. In Europe, they are used for vegetables and soups as they are in America. In France, they are used in jam; in Italy as a filling for ravioli. In the 17th century, New Englanders made pumpkin beer.

Pumpkins are nutritious. They contain beta carotene, magnesium and some calcium, iron and vitamins B and C. One-half cup cooked contains only 38 calories.

The seeds are good for nibbling or to use for garnish on soups or salads. They also provide protein. To prepare seeds: wash carefully under running water. Spread on paper towels to dry and then place on an oiled cookie sheet. Heat for 1 hour in a 250°F. oven. Increase temperature to 350°F. for 5 minutes to brown. Store in an airtight container.

To cook pumpkin: Half or quarter and remove seeds, stringy portions and rind. Cut into small pieces. Cook, covered in a small amount of water for 25-30 minutes or until tender. Drain. Mash. To remove any excess liquid, place mashed pumpkin in a strainer for 30 minutes. One pound raw pumpkin yields 1 cup cooked.

Instead of carving your Halloween pumpkin this year, paint the outside in vivid colors. Then, when Halloween is over, carve up the inside, cook and use for some DELICIOUS tasty, treats. Better yet ... buy two pumpkins. Start cooking with one now, save the other for later. When stored in a cool, dry place, they'll keep a month.
