

Large Margin Defeats New Constitution

23 Per Cent Of Voters Decide Issues

By BOBBY TEMPLETON
Brand News Editor

About 23 per cent of Deaf Smith County's 8,348 registered voters turned out Tuesday at local polling places to defeat all eight constitutional propositions by almost a three to one margin. The vote reflected the general feeling across the state as the propositions were downed by approximately the same margin.

Voters across the Panhandle turned out in rather light numbers as other area counties defeated the proposed constitution by an average of about four to one. Generally, the vote reflected an all or nothing position as individual propositions each polled similar for and against results.

EARLY IN THE ELECTION counting, state leaders for constitutional revision such as Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby of Houston and Speaker of the House Bill Clayton of the Hereford legislative district, conceded that the proposed constitution was lost. Strong oppositions to the document mounted late in the campaigning especially when Gov. Dolph Briscoe announced his disapproval about two weeks ago.

Clayton was probably the strongest advocate for revision as he was on a four to five speeches a day tour across the state to gain further support for the constitution which was written by legislators over a three-year period at a cost of almost $5 million in tax money. His main argument, as that of State Sen. Max Sherman, was that more rural and West Texas influence was put into this constitution than in any that might be proposed in the future.

In two separate speeches in Hereford, Clayton expressed this feeling and predicted that any revision move in the future would be controlled by the big cities.

The Constitutional revision was the first time in 100 years that voters have had a chance to revise the state constitution as our present one was approved in 1876.

THE TOTAL NUMBER of voters to appear Tuesday was 1,935 according to figures released by B.F. Cain, county clerk.

Proposition 1 (Separation of powers, legislative, and executive) received the largest "no" vote with 1,463 against and 454 for.

The propositions drawing the greatest interest in pre-election debate included (See CONSTITUTION, Page 2A)

★★★ School Is Out Friday ★★★

Friday is a holiday... for students of Hereford Public Schools, that is.

Teachers will take the day from classroom work to attend a District 16 Texas State Teachers Association meeting in Amarillo.

There will be only one full week of school during the month of November for Hereford students.

School will be dismissed Friday, Nov. 14 at the end of the second six weeks of school while teachers will be observing an in-service day. The third six weeks of school begins again on Monday, Nov. 17.

Thanksgiving holidays will be observed by dismissing school at 2:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Nov. 26 and resume again at regular time on Monday, Dec. 1.

Police Here Conduct Junk Car Campaign

Do you have a junk car that you don't particularly want and that is just adding another eyesore to Hereford's landscape? Well, the city wants it and will even voluntarily haul it away for you. The Hereford Police Department is presently conducting a junked car campaign during November and have announced they will tow away cars at no expense to the owner.

Patrolman Ken Carley said this week a special push is being mounted this month to enforce a state statute which forbids junk cars, those that are without legally required inspection stickers or current license tags. It also is illegal to openly possess a car that is inoperable, wrecked, dismantled, partially dismantled, or discarded. To keep within the bounds of the law, such cars should be parked inside a building like a garage or otherwise kept invisible from a street or alley.

Carley said the police department was accepting calls from owners of any junked vehicles as well as from anyone who notices an unsightly vehicle. "The purpose of the campaign is to aid city residents in getting rid of junk cars."

While the emphasis of the campaign is being conducted in November, the police department will tow away vehicles throughout the year.

"We are primarily trying to inform owners of cars that the police department will haul off cars free of charge," he said. "We just ask the owners to sign a release for use to legally come in and remove the vehicles."

No fines are established for possession of junked vehicles, but those not willing to have a car removed will first receive a registered letter of warning, from which time they have 10 days to remove the specified vehicle. If this isn't done, then the police have a right to come in and remove it.

Hearing may be held before the Hereford City Commission for those who might have a legitimate reason for having a junked vehicle such as restoring it. Junked cars also are in violation of city ordinance No. 942, which specifies that these vehicles are considered public nuisances and therefore forbidden if located in a place of public view.

The ordinance states that junked cars located in any place visible from a public place or right of way are illegal if they are... "detrimental to the safety and welfare of the general public, tending to reduce the value of private property, to invite vandalism, to create fire hazards, to constitute an attractive nuisance creating a hazard to the health and safety of minors, and are detrimental to the economic welfare of the city, by producing urban blight with which is adverse to the maintenance and continuing development of the city..."

Persons with knowledge of junked vehicles may call the police department at any time and leave a message for officer Carley. The number is 363-2323.

The one-sided defeat of the proposed new Texas Constitution really came as no surprise to most people Tuesday. There were just too many conflicting statements about the complex document. When voters can't see "all the cards on the table", they will usually reject the proposition. It's been proven again and again in many elections over the years.

Grain Harvesting Ends; Beets Progressing Well

By JIM STEIERT
Brand Farm Editor

With the exception of a few "clean up" efforts, grain harvesting operation in Deaf Smith County for 1975 have drawn to a close, with perfect weather playing a key role in the early conclusion of the harvesting.

BEET HARVESTING also continues to make good progress in the area, with the second half of the campaign expected to pick up steam as farmers turn attention from grain to beet fields.

Local elevator spokesmen indicate that this year's corn crop will go down as a good one, while the milo crop will rank only "average", although grain quality is high.

Gene King of Easter Grain reported that milo yields in the Easter Area will average 6,500 to 7,000 pounds per acre.

"The milo is the best quality grain we've had in a long time," said King.

CORN YIELDS in the Easter area were estimated to average 8,000-8,500 pounds per acre as the corn harvest was drawing to a close during the final week of October.

Test weights on both corn and milo have been excellent throughout the harvest season, with milo testing from 57-60 pounds and corn ranging from 54-57 pounds.

A few peak corn yields of 10,000 pounds per acre were reported during the course of this fall's harvest.

Bill Cornett of Dawn Co-Op reported that he had expected a better milo crop than actually came across the scales at his Dawn facility.

"THE GRAIN looked like it would be excellent from a yield standpoint, but the weight just wasn't there when the milo moved across the scales. I'd say we had an average milo crop, although the grain quality was real good. The corn in the Dawn area actually did better than the milo, averaging a yield of around 7,500 pounds per acre, compared to an average of about 7,000 pounds per acre for milo," said Cornett.

A spokesman for Pitman Grain in Hereford indicated that only a small trickle of grain is now being received at that facility.

He estimated overall corn yields in the Hereford area in the 7,000-8,000 pounds per acre range.

Although farmers have reason to be optimistic about the early conclusion of the grain harvest, a downturn in the market Monday put a damper on their optimism.

FARM LEVEL prices weakened substantially Monday, with milo losing 10 cents and corn and milo prices both off sharply.

Wheat prices generally showed the greatest drop, with widespread rains across the wheat belt over the weekend given as one reason for the decline.

Embargoes currently in effect at Houston because of a large number of rail cars waiting to be unloaded also are taking support away from the grain market.

A rapid harvest across the nation plus some vessel delays at the ports have caused the embargo.

The ideal weather which proved such a boon to the local grain harvest has also played a key role in the rapid conclusion of the first half of the area beet harvest.

BOB GIN, agricultural manager of Holly Sugar Corporation's Merrill E. Shoup plant here reports that beet harvesting is already 50 per cent complete.

"With harvesting now picking up speed as more farmers turn their full attention to the beet fields, harvest could be better than 90 per cent complete by the end of next week," said Ginn.

Although the local plant had been regulating the amount of beets being (See HARVESTING, Page 2A)

Collections Above 82 Per Cent In United Way Fund Campaign

The United Way of Deaf Smith County's campaign drive reached a total of $49,268 Tuesday, representing 82.7 per cent of this year's goal of $59,600.

Raymond White, UW board president, said workers were "encouraged at Tuesday's report session...it will take another week or two to wrap up the drive, and we feel the goal is attainable."

White pointed out that the drive was about 10 per cent ahead of the pace of last year, when the campaign fell short of the goal. The fund drive was set for October, but drive chairman Speedy Nieman announced that a number of drive packets were still being worked and that several firms had asked for another week's time to turn in employee contributions.

Tuesday's report meeting indicated that about $10,000 was turned in the past week. The total announced the previous week was $39,800—which was about 66 per cent of the goal.

"With the prospect cards still being worked, and adding up contributions made last year that haven't been turned in this year, we feel our goal of $59,600 is in sight," Nieman stated. "We just need a little help from our friends," he added.

The drive chairman urged individuals who were not contacted through a business firm to send contributions to The United Way, Box 1371, Hereford.

The campaign drive is divided into eight divisions, with chairmen heading up each area. The division composed of utilities, Armour Food, and Holly Sugar are leading the way this year with a total of $17,294. Several utility companies are still to be reported, as well as Holly employees. Armour employees accounted for more than $12,000 of this total.

The wholesale division is next with $9,951, followed by the public employee division with $5,557. There are still a number of drive packets to be returned in these two divisions. The professional division has a total of $4,874, and the agricultural division (including feedyards and individuals) has a total of $4,391.

The financial division had reported $3,067 in contributions; the retail division

$2,701, and the out-of-town management division had a total of $1,431 this week.

The United Way funds are used to support nine agencies in the community—Campfire Girls, Kids, Inc., Scouts, Big Brothers-Big Sisters, Children's Rehabilitation Center, Red Cross, Salvation Army, Council on Alcoholism, and the USO. Approximately 71 per cent is allocated to youth programs, and about 91 per cent of the funds remain in the county.

Commission Approves Three Water Wells, Four Zone Changes

The Hereford City Commission Monday night approved four rezoning requests, voted to seek bids for three water wells and disannexed a small piece of property belonging to the Hereford Independent School District. The city commissioners were meeting in regular session at the city hall.

All the zone changes were routinely considered after approval and recommendations were handed down by the city's Zoning Commission. No one appeared in favor of the requests except in one case, but no significant discussion resulted.

REPRESENTATIVES APPEARED for the request to rezone Lot five, West Acres Subdivision of Block Four Welsh Addition, from District D, residential, to District E, central business. However, there was no opposition and the commissioners approved it without lengthy discussion.

A request, presented to rezone portions of lot one and two of the Whitehead Addition from District C, multi-family, to District D, restricted, received some discussion, but nothing consequential. It too was accepted without any dissenting votes.

The other rezoning requests approved are as follows: Parts of Blocks 53, 54 and 55 of Evans Addition (Pitman Property), from District A, single family, to district C, multi-family; and Lot 13, Block 3 of Green Acres Estate Unit IV, from District C, multi-family, to District A, single family.

CONCERNING THE WATER wells which were approved unanimously, City Manager Dudley Bayne presented a report on the city's use of water during the summer months when more is consumed than in other seasons. The well water production report indicated that the 22 wells, presently operated by the city, pump about 11 1/2 million gallons a day for area needs.

The average daily use during the months of June and July was pegged at about 5.8 million gallons a day, which Bayne described as pointing toward the need of more wells to tide the city residents over during droughts.

Most of the city's wells are small volume producers, but combined with new wells should satisfy the needs here. The use of water this year is lower than that of last year with this year's peak day reflecting less than during the peak day last year.

All the wells will be drilled and built on property owned by the city. For one of the wells, a 50 feet by 50 feet tract of property was purchased for $6,500 from Paul Conway. The purchase was approved after the City Commission met in closed session for a few minutes as authorized under state open meeting laws.

WHILE THE PRICE for the land may seem steep, Bayne explained that Conway was giving up any water rights to the land in selling it. A well presently exists on the land, but the city will have to rebuild it to meet state requirements.

The bids for the wells will be let out soon and opened at 2 p.m. Monday Dec. 1 at city hall.

All the wells will be located close to existing water supply lines and no new reservoirs will be necessary, Bayne said.

The property disannexed by the city was a four-acre tract in the North part of Hereford near the edge of the city limits. The HISD recently purchased the land for use by the Hereford High School Future Farmers of America as a farm where livestock may be raised.

City ordinances prohibit raising of certain livestock within city limits and so the land had to be severed from the city to meet the school's needs. Precautions were discussed in reference to possibly reannexing the land at a future date.

All city commissioners were present including Mayor Jim Sears, Paul Abalos, Emory Brownlow, Frank Barrett and James Boyd. The next regular meeting is scheduled for Monday, Nov. 17.

delivered to its plants, due to warm weather, farmers are now being allowed to deliver all of the beets they can during the plant's regular hours.

Sugar content of the beets has continued to rise during the course of the current campaign, and is now averaging 15.8 per cent.

Beet yields continue to average 16 tons per acre.

All-Schools PTA Group Forms Here

About 75 persons gathered Tuesday night at the Deaf Smith County Library to form a local organization similar to traditional Parent-Teacher Associations (PTA) according to Mrs. Mary Parker, who was one of several original organizers.

The association, which has not been officially named yet will be functioning after a by-laws committee meeting at County Commissioners Courtroom at the Courthouse tonight. It will be presided over by County Judge Sam Morgan.

Five foundation goals were established with the primary one being to promote improved communications between teachers, administrators of schools, parents, students and the community as a whole. Mrs. Parker said. Another primary decision made was not to affiliate with any national organization such as PTA.

"We think it will be better to form a local organization concerned with local affairs," Mrs. Parker said.

No officers have yet been selected, but Edward Allison has been designated president pro-tem and Mrs. Karen Payne volunteered to serve as secretary.

The next meeting will be called in about three weeks.

Red Cross Answers Local Needs

The American Red Cross has been a symbol of neutral help around the world in times of war, natural disaster and individual distress. However, few are aware of the needs that are met locally by the Deaf Smith chapter of the ARC.

IF THE UNITED WAY reaches its goal this year, Mrs. H.H. Miller, who directs the local Red Cross chapter, said they will probably purchase a baby mannequin. She said it is desperately needed in order to teach the Red Cross training course. It will cost approximately $155.

The local Red Cross chapter will be granted $10,000, approximately 17 per cent, of the United Way campaign goal of $59,600.

Of this sum Deaf Smith County's faction of ARC will utilize $5,274 and forward the remaining $4,726 to the national organization. Mrs. Miller said approximately $500 is being shifted from the local fund to the national fund.

The reason for this, according to Mrs. Miller, is that the national Red Cross does so much nation wide and their expenses are so great. The money is used to keep field directors overseas and send communication from Washington, D.C. to overseas and communications from overseas to the United States. The national funds are also used to make loans to overseas service men.

MRS. MILLER POINTS out that only 6.4 per cent of the ARC budget is directed to management and general administration. This figure is comparatively low for such an extensive and wide-spread, non-profit organization.

On a national basis, the Red Cross financial regime is broken down as: services for military personnel and veterans—46.9 per cent of funds; disaster services—26.9 per cent; blood program—4.8 per cent; community health and safety programs—6.3 per cent; youth and community service—4.5 per cent; international relations—1.7 per cent; membership and fund raising—2.3 per cent; management and general administration—6.6 per cent.

ON THE LOCAL LEVEL, Mrs. Miller reported that the Red Cross gave authorized first aid instruction to 111 local residents during 4,152 hours this year. The service was free of charge. Volunteers John Gilliland and John Watson are the only two advanced first aid instructors here who give instruction. They conducted nine classes this year and trained more instructors.

Multi-media instruction was made possible because the United Way goal was reached two years ago. A film which cost about $225 was purchased and is used in the classes.

ALSO, ANATOMIC ANN, a mannequin which cost about $224, was purchased from United Way funds and is used in advanced first aid and cardio pulmonary resuscitation.

Gilliland, chairman of the first aid committee, has given three demonstrations with Anatomic Ann at schools, three to womens clubs, two to classes at the hospital and one to some LVN's at the Dimmitt Hospital.

Last May, Gilliland and Watson trained three multi-media instructors for this chapter, two for Castro County, one for Bailey County and one instructor for emergency care and personal safety for Parmer County.

During the past year 17 victims of disaster, such as fire, were given emergency messages between local military personnel and their dependents. Red Cross procedure provides that local chapters are responsible for disasters involving less than five families. However, should five or more family units be stricken by catastrophe, the national affiliate assumes expenses.

THE RED CROSS made possible 135 emergency messages between local military personnel and their dependents. Retail cost of this communication service totaled in excess of $2,700. Half of this incurred expense was funded by the National Red Cross, which is actively responsible for military needs.

FREE LESSONS in swimming and water safety were provided by the Red Cross last summer for 463 Hereford children and 25 adults. The extensive program utilized 17 instructors and 10 aids who contributed 540 hours.

"YOU NEED the American Red Cross," according to Mrs. Miller, "and the Red Cross needs you."

Building Surpasses $3 Million

Construction in Hereford has maintained a dramatically high level during 1975 over this time last year with building permits showing $352,850 in new or remodeled structures erected during the month of October. This represents a fairly accurate sign that this area is well on its way toward a stable and prosperous economy since building during the previous three-months has amounted to $1,502,184, as compared with only $284,400 during the same three months last year when the economy here reached its lowest point.

The October building permits brings the 1975 total to $3,338,301, which is $1,368,051 more than the first 10 months of last year. The 1974 total for the whole year amounted to only $2,215,000. That total was topped this year during August when permits alone totaled over half a million dollars for the month.

THE SAME RECORD was established during September when permits amounted to $581,500, the highest monthly total so far this year. Other monthly totals are as follows: January, $140,450; February, $76,330; March, $186,750; April, $377,195; May $330,001; June, $490,820; and July, $234,551.

The trend in 1974 was a strong January and a peak in June when permits totaled $427,250, the highest monthly total that year. However, the last half of the year resulted in a slump culminating in November when building was down to $41,100.

As shown in this year's figures, the construction market is heading toward the year's end with steady growth and solid amounts. Although unlikely, this year could even break the 1970 yearly record of $5,196,150 and more reasonably could surpass the 1973 total of $4,232,202. The total for 1972 was $3,152,500 and in 1971, the permits totaled $3,596,880.

AS IN THE PAST MONTHS, the October total was due mainly to new single-family residential structures. Six were built for an estimated value of $209,950. The individual values and their builders were: $29,500-Gene Latham; $29,500-Latham; $26,000-Jim Clarke; $26,000-Clarke; $44,950-Robert W. Damon; and $54,000-Boggs Construction Co.

Two duplexes were built for $56,000 each by Mike Ferguson, which also contributed significantly toward the total October building permit figure.

Other building values and their builders are as follows:

—$4,000-Charles R. Hinton, addition to house.
—$400-Justo Cepeda, residence move-in.

—$300-Harley Davis, carport —$500-Ide Mae Uckert, carport.
—$300-Bonnie Wilson, addition to house.
—$4,000-F.D. Holbert, mobile home move-in.

Girlstown Reaps Gifts From Area

Girlstown already had three mother cows, three calves and a pair of heifers, but didn't have the "male lead" they needed to start a cow-calf operation. Saturday they got him—a three-year-old Hereford bull—from Kenneth Frye, who farms near the Frio Community.

Frye also donated a mother cow to go with the young bull. His donations brought Girlstown's new beef-cattle herd to 10 animals. Receiving the gift for Girlstown at Frye's farm were sisters Joan and Betsy Toney and Girlstown Administrator Marshall Cooper. They made the trip from Whiteface Saturday morning with the Girlstown pickup and stock trailer.

Frye also gave Girlstown all the field-fresh cauliflower and cabbage that he, Cooper, the Toney sisters and a pair of helpers could cut and sack Saturday morning at the Frye vegetable farm.

And after the cow, bull, cauliflower and cabbage were loaded, Dimmitt Chamber of Commerce Manager Elvon DeVaney drove the Girlstown pickup to Dimmitt, where La Mantia, Cullum, Collier & Co.

vegetable processors added 500 pounds of carrots.

Then Cooper and the girls stopped at the Castro County sheriff's office, where they picked up the first 100 pounds of a 1,000-lb. donation of sacked pinto beans. A second trip would be needed to get the rest of the beans and boxes of donated clothing that were waiting at the sheriff's office in Dimmitt, Cooper said.

"We're trying to get our cow-calf operation started, and we hope that the girls eventually can have some show animals out of it," Cooper said.

"Leroy Johnson of Dawn gave us two mother cows last year, and they both calved," Cooper said. "Then the Cowbellees donated two heifers.

"And we had one cow and calf just walk up one day. We called the sheriff, and tried to find the owner, but gave up after a month. That's how we got our third mother cow."

"I would have given them the bull a lot sooner if I had known they needed one," Frye said. "I imagine a lot of people would be willing to give a head or two to help the girls get their herd started."

LAE Club Studies Service Center

Al DesMarteau, director of mental health services in this county, was the guest speaker at a meeting of La Afflatus Estudio Club members Tuesday afternoon in the Emmett Hale home.

Introduced by Miss Della Stagner, DesMarteau explained that the operation formerly known as the Mental Health Mental Retardation Center here has been changed to "Hereford Family Service Center." The organization was described as "a comprehensive service center for mental health concerns in Deaf Smith and Oldham Counties primarily."

Two staff members handle cases, which stem mainly from referrals, however DesMarteau stressed that no individual is turned away. Currently serving 20 individuals, the center charges a fee based on ability to pay. Financial support is given by the local hospital and state and Federal government offices.

The local complex is the first link in a chain of mental health services bonded with the Amarillo Psychiatric Pavilion and the Vernon State Hospital. The speaker stated that he was available to give social seminars on any subject for local clubs and organizations.

Also addressing LAE members was Gwen London, representing Deaf Smith County Library. Mrs. London described the new library program which plans to incorporate volunteer workers. Club members expressed an interest in helping with library activities.

Standard reports were called for by the president, Mrs. Marlin Gilliland.

Those in attendance were Miss Stagner, Miss Madeline Bell, and Mmes. A.H. Cook, Gilliland, B.F. Markham, Sam Morgan, Ira Ott, T.W. Robertson, A.B. Higgins, C.R. Whiteside and Cecil Braly.

Introduced as Officer of the Month for November was Chuck Winn, assistant probation officer. Frankie Scott, Texas highway Patrolman, was recognized as the Officer of the Month for October.

The club sponsors the award each month with the selected law enforcement officers attending luncheons during the full month. Then each is presented a plaque at the final meeting.

Johnnie Price, president, reminded members of the physical fitness institute held Monday night.

Tubb said he personally favored the constitution principally because it contained more benefits for rural and West Texas interests than any future proposed constitution might.

Members discussed specific items such as property tax valuation methods, annual sessions, and control of legislators' salaries.

The filmstrip, prepared by the Texas Farm Bureau, reviewed the items retained from the old constitution, and those items which were new. Refer to the front page of this issue for results of the election here.

Tubb urged all registered voters to get out and exercise their right to cast a ballot.

Higgins, Celaya Honored By SWPS

Two Hereford employees were among 94 from the Southwestern Public Service Company's Panhandle Division honored Tuesday night at a service awards dinner in Amarillo.

Joining the quarter-century group with 25 years' service was Ted Gerald Higgins. Higgins was presented an award by Roy Tolk, chairman and president of the electric company, who made all the presentations. The first period was honored in the Southwestern program in five years, and this year's first-time awardee from Hereford was Savas Celaya. This was the last of four service award dinners held throughout the company's territory.

Whistling Wings

By Jim Stoirt

THE FIRST WEEK of duck season has been quite successful for most area hunters, according to the report's I've had, and we enjoyed some fine pass shooting after ducks Sunday afternoon on a lake near Hart.

There are plenty of Mallards in the area, and I was surprised to see large numbers of pintails coming in so early in the season.

The ducks appear to be in excellent shape with the Mallards as fat and sassy as ever. With conditions this good early in the season, waterfowlers could look forward to an outstanding season that should get even better with the advent of some cold weather.

This year's 100-point system gives gunners a liberal bag limit of large ducks, if they select their targets carefully. Even though the points system has been stressed elsewhere, there's no harm in reviewing it here.

CANVASBACKS AND red-heads are included among the 100 point ducks while 70 point ducks this year include Mallard hens, hooded mergansers and wood ducks. Mallard hens are the only 70 pointers local gunners will need to concern themselves with.

Mallard drakes are 20 pointers in the High Plains Mallard Management Unit of Texas, which includes most of the Panhandle, so local gunners can really put some fine meat in the game bag by taking five of those beautiful corn-fed green-heads.

A hunter can bag 10 ducks by concentrating his shooting on the 10 point species, which include gadwalls, mergansers, pintails, scaups, shovelers, and blue-winged, cinnamon and green-winged teal.

Again, in this category, a gunner can really load up on some fair-sized ducks by concentrating his efforts toward bagging pins and gadwalls. ALL OTHER SPECIES of ducks are 25 pointers, and among the most common of remaining ducks that would be encountered by local waterfowlers would probably be the American Widgeon or Baldpate as he is more commonly known.

In other areas of the state, Mallard drakes count 25 points, but this need not concern local gunners hunting in the High Plains Mallard Unit.

In duck hunting, anywhere from one to ten ducks may be taken, and the daily bag limit is reached when the point value of any bird taken reaches or exceeds 100 points.

Possession limit is the maximum number of ducks which could have been taken legally in two days.

THE WHOLE points-system concept of duck hunting may seem a bit mind-boggling to the beginner who's not that familiar with his ducks, but once you put it into practice it's practical and about as fair a system as you could come up with. Species which have built up a good population get more hunting pressure concentrated on them, with a low point rating, and species which are in trouble or need a little help get higher point ratings to discourage pressure. The system works, and followed carefully, it results in more ducks in the game bag for a lot of waterfowlers.

Prospects are still excellent for an outstanding pheasant season next month. Nesting success during the spring and summer was high, and in my own travels, I've seen a plenitude of beautiful roosters.

Of course, everyone knows that they'll probably all disappear on opening day, but part of the fun of this sport is anticipation anyway.

Cage Preview Set Friday

With the Whiteface gridders having an open date this week, basketball fans will have an opportunity to get a sneak preview of the Herd cage squad Friday night.

Coach Barry Arnwine has announced that an intersquad game is set for 7:30 p.m. Friday in La Plata Gym. While he had not determined the teams Wednesday, Arnwine said he would attempt to divide the squad as evenly as possible.

The scrimmage will be held under game conditions with varsity and junior varsity players on both teams. Arnwine welcomes back five lettermen this season, but only three in the gym. Mike Hull, 6-6 senior postman, is the lone starter in workouts, while Dave Charest and Archie Crim are still playing football. James Mays, 6-0 guard, and Paul Trollinger, 6-2 forward or post, are the other two lettermen.

The Herd mentor, starting his second year as head coach, sees good prospects for this year's team, "but we are weak on experience at the guard positions." Some of the top prospects expected to be in action Friday night include Steve Cornelius, Barry Muller, Mike O'Rand, Murray Hazlett, Bill Frazier, Mike Oglesby and Kenneth Mercer.

Hull was the third leading scorer last season with a 9.5 average, and he was the top rebounder. The team was only 1-7 in district competition last year and 9-22 on the season.

James, Romero To Battle Saturday

Hereford Lions Club Officers announced that next week's star-studded card at the Bull Barn would start at 8:00 p.m. rather than 9.

Hank James, self-styled "king of the black wrestlers" returns after a year's absence to meet old rival Ricky Romero. James is from Benton Harbor, Michigan, stands 6'7" and weighs 245 pounds. The six foot Romero weighs in at 226, fairly light in the modern mat world.

In the semi-main event, Dory Funk Jr. will wrestle gigantic Frank Goodish, a lean 310 pounder who stands 6'5".

Funk, former world heavyweight wrestling champion, is a panhandle rancher who stands 6'3" tall and steps in at an agile 240 pounds. The famed Funk spinning toe hold will be tested against Goodish's feared bear hug. Goodish has immobilized several opponents with his hold.

In a recent match he severely injured Johnny Starr, and damaged the rib cage of Scott Casey on another occasion.

In the opener, the highly-conditioned Poffo brothers meet Ricky Romero's younger brother Mario, and Scott Casey. Casey, who missed several contracted bouts because of damage caused by Frank Goodish, has turned his eyes upwards towards a chance at the bearded giant.

When queried as to the differences in sizes in his match, Dory Funk Jr. recalled being in the ring with such mammoth wrestlers as Andre the giant, man mountain Muke, and gargantuan Chris Taylor. He is hoping to pull out of a victory against the vicious wrestling hippie, Goodish.

Action at the Bull Barn starts at 8:00 p.m.

BASEBALL

By Pete Fritchie

WASHINGTON, D.C.—It was, in one sense, poetic justice that the Cincinnati Reds win the World Series. They had been denied in recent years and some were saying they didn't win the big game.

But the Red Sox were the sentimental favorites because they had not been expected to do so well this year, had knocked off the world champion Oakland A's in three straight and were a rags to riches story.

The Sox would have won the Series, too, if Denny Doyle hadn't thrown wild in the last game, in the sixth, to first. That error meant two runs because a homer followed, after the side should have been retired.

One also wonders about Bill Lee tossing a blooper pitch up to a homerun hitter like Tony Perez that late in the final, crucial game—and with a man on base. Just as Red Sox relief pitching couldn't hold the second game for Boston, it failed in the final game.

And so the major difference between these two fine teams was probably in the bullpen. The Reds had the better one and that made the difference when all is said and done.

Turkey Shoot Slated

The Hereford Gun Club will hold a turkey shoot Sunday afternoon at the airport from 2-6 p.m.

Five shot rounds will be fired at clay pigeons. Cost per round will be $2.50.

Five man groups will participate in each round with the winner receiving a turkey as a prize.

Shells will be available at the site. ATA members are invited to compete.

Jack Edwards, Congressman (D-Ala), on pay raise:

"While I feel raises are deserving I equally feel Congress should not profit by its own vote."

Stanton Wins Pair, 9th Grade Game Today

The traditional rivalry between Hereford's two junior high schools was highlighted on the gridiron this week, with Stanton Junior High capturing victories in the 7th and 8th-grade games Tuesday.

Stanton will be hoping to sweep the series when the 9th-grade teams tangle at 2 p.m. today in Whiteface Stadium, and La Plata will be out to salvage some glory in the "big" game.

Stanton scored a 36-22 victory in the 8th grade clash Tuesday afternoon, after the 7th-grade Dogies had recorded a close 12-6 win over the Mavericks in the first game.

Herd Idle, Hoping For Lubbock Loss

The Hereford Whitefaces have an open date this week, healing up and getting prepared for what could be a title game with Monterey next Thursday night in Lubbock.

And, Coach Fred Upshaw was particularly happy about the open date Tuesday afternoon, because he was getting short on healthy quarterbacks. Sophomore Kelly Kitchens, directing the attack after Mike Dudding sustained a broken leg in the Lubbock game, injured an ankle Tuesday and was taken to the hospital for x-rays. The injury was not as bad as was first expected, and the sprained ankle is expected to heal before next week.

The big game in 4-AAAA this week pits Lubbock against Monterey Thursday night. The Westerners could clinch the playoff berth with a victory, but a Monterey win would leave a number of possibilities. Plainview plays at Coronado Friday in the other district contest.

Monterey and Lubbock are 2-0 in district, while Hereford is 2-1. Lubbock still has Plainview to play next week, the night after the Thursday encounter between Hereford and Monterey. The race could end in a three-way tie if Lubbock loses to Monterey and beats Plainview, and Hereford downed Monterey. A coin flip playoff spot in that case.

If Lubbock loses both remaining games, Monterey could claim the crown again with a win over Hereford. Or, Hereford could tie Monterey for the title with a victory and advance to the playoffs.

At the Whiteface Booster Club meeting Tuesday night, Coach Upshaw reviewed the 10-9 loss to Lubbock High, noting that "we didn't play too well and the big problem was a lack of consistency on offense." At the same time, he said "you have to give Lubbock credit—they moved the ball when they had to in the fourth quarter, and we didn't."

Hereford had the ball only three times in the final period, and didn't make a first down until the last two plays of the contest. Lubbock took the ball on their own 20 with a little over 4 minutes left and recorded four first downs in moving to the Hereford 18. Then came the game-winning field goal, a 35-yarder into the wind. "That was some kick, maybe they deserved to win," commented Upshaw.

The Herd boss still has hopes. "We're not out of it yet, and this is the message we're carrying to the boys. We had to beat Monterey before last Friday's game, and we still have to beat them."

At the booster club meeting Tuesday night, Coach Helen Reed introduced members of the varsity volleyball team. The team plays Plainview here Monday night, with the junior varsity game starting at 6:30 in the La Plata Gym. The varsity game follows, and a Hereford victory will give the district title to Hereford again this year.

"We have a great bunch of girls and they have been working hard," reported Coach Reed.

Rating System Has Herd 2nd

Hereford's close defeat, at the hands of Lubbock High dropped the Whitefaces a couple of spots in the Harris Rating System this week. The Herd is ranked No. 130 on the list of 4A teams with a power rating of 130.4.

Despite the loss, Hereford was still ranked second in the district. Monterey was in the No. 77 spot with a rating of 137.7—only a touchdown higher than the Whitefaces. Plainview had a 129.6 power rating and Lubbock High a 129.5 grade. Bryan was rated as the top AAAA team. Odessa Permian, 5th, was the only West Texas team in the top 10. Midland High was ranked 12th, Abilene Cooper 13th, and Midland Lee 18th. Palo Duro was down the list in the 58th position, and Pampa was 84th.

Perryton was the top rated AAA team in the area, carrying a 134.7 rating for 25th place. Pecos, in far West Texas, was ranked 7th among AAA teams, while Lubbock Estacado was rated in the 14th spot.

In Class AA, Post was ranked 14th and nearby Olton was rated 15th. Floydada was in the 18th position, with Childress and Littlefield rated 24th and 25th.

In Class A, Seagraves was ranked 2nd in the state behind De Leon. Clarendon was rated 12th, and Sanford-Fritch, where former Hereford coach Don Cumpton is the head master, rated 17th.

Groom is the second-rated team in the state in Class B, behind Big Sandy. Following is a list of the top 10 in each class, along with ratings of area teams of interest:

Raemakers Posts Perfect Slate

The top winner this week in the Brand football contest was Henry Raemakers who predicted a perfect slate of games by missing zero of the 26 possible games. He is from UMBERGER and is the first this season to return a no-miss record for one week. His prize was $15.

The second and third places had to be decided by the tie-breaker scores as 12 persons missed two games each. Coming in second was Charley Hill with a 29 tie-breaker score and third-place winner was Randy Farr with a close 30 tie-breaker score. Hill is from Dimmitt and Farr lives in Hereford. They won $10 and $5 respectively.

Others listing only two misses included Paula Gamez, Mrs. Ruth Hackleman, Don Clark, Tom Rambo, Teresa Adams, Steve Hodges, Max Goforth and Roy Shipp.

The tie breaker was based on Hereford's 10-9 loss to Lubbock last week. This is the ninth week for the contest and the competition is getting stiff for the season's prizes of $100 for first place, $35 for second place and $15 for third place. A list of the season totals as of last week were published in last Thursday's issue of The Brand. A similar list will be published a week before the final week of competition.

Entries for this week's football game contest should be turned in no later than 5 p.m. today at The Brand office.

Horse Club Picks Officers, Holds Playday

Members of the Tierra Blanca 4-H Horse Club met Saturday for playday activities and election of officers.

Selected as new club officers were Debbie White, president, Lee Ann Hughes, vice president, Becky Hughes, secretary-treasurer, and Sharon Sisson, reporter.

Adult leaders include Marcie Hughes and Mary Lou Aven, methods chairman, records chairmen Marcie Hughes and Pat Hager and reporter, Dee Ann Sisson. Playday activities were held at the Poarch Arena.

In the western riding class for beginners, Chrystal Finley was first, Michelle Hughes, second, Kelly Poarch, third, Greg Patterson, fourth, Mac Hager, fifth and Robbie Phillips, sixth.

Tubb Thumps Panel Pals

Booster club president Mack Tubb missed only two games out of the 26 contest matches to lead the Fearless Forecasters last week.

All four panelists missed the Pittsburg win over Cincinnati, but the only other mistake for Tubb was in picking Amarillo to upset Palo Duro. Publisher Speedy Nieman and Coach Fred Upshaw each missed five games, and news editor Bobby Templeton had seven wrong picks.

Results of the ninth week of the contest left Nieman and Templeton in 4th for the lead, each with a .697 percentage. Tubb, who was in last place just two weeks ago, now trails the leaders by only six games.

Of the 234 games to date, Templeton and Nieman have correctly picked 163 of the winners. Tubb has picked 157 of 234, and Upshaw has 153 right and 81 wrong.

This week's contest games were listed in Sunday's Brand.

Turn in your entry before 5 p.m. Thursday. See if you can beat the panelists, and try for one of the weekly cash prizes!

Tech Meets TCU Next

"The sun don't shine on the same dog every day," Texas Tech coach Steve Sloan commented after the Raiders' close win over Rice last Saturday.

"We've lost a couple of close ones, and it sure was nice to be on the winning side for a change," Sloan explained.

The Raiders travel to TCU for a Southwest Conference clash Saturday at 2 p.m. It will be homecoming at TCU with more than 20,000 fans expected to view the game. Tech is 4-4 on the season and 2-2 in SWC action. The Frogs are 0-8 and 0-3.

The game will mark the 32nd meeting between the two schools. TCU leads 18-13 in a series begun with a 28-16 win at Fort Worth in 1926. The Frogs have a 8-7 edge in SWC competition, which began in 1960 with a 21-7 TCU win at Fort Worth.

Graves Leading Rusher In Loop

Hereford's Carlee Graves rushed for 131 yards in the 10-9 loss to Lubbock High last week, and the effort moved him to the top of the list among District 4-AAAA rushers.

Hereford continued as the top offensive team in the district, but also stayed at the bottom of the defensive statistics. Graves has 603 yards on just 79 carries, for a league-leading average of 7.6 yards. Victor Lugo of Lubbock and Lester Fennell of Plainview were still slightly ahead of Graves on yards-per game, since they have had eight games to Graves' nine.

Graves was averaging 67 yards a game rushing, while Lugo and Fennell were averaging 71 and 69, respectively. In Friday's game against Lubbock, Graves had 133 yards going into the fourth period. He carried the ball only one time in the fateful fourth quarter, losing two yards.

Terry Brady ranks fourth among district backs in rushing with 564 yards on 142 trips with the pigskin. Jim Perry of Coronado has 576 yards, also in nine games, while Lugo has 568 and Fennell 554 in eight games.

Scott Gardner of Monterey has passed for 1,073 yards in eight games, hitting 76 of 169 tosses for a 44.9 percentage. Kelly Kitchens has the top completion average among league quarterbacks, hitting 17 of 33 for a 51.5 percentage and 255 yards. Mike Dudding was hit 5 of 12 for 205 yards, including four touchdown strikes. Mike Crim also had over 200 yards passing for the Herd before switching to a line-backer's post, hitting 19 of 57 for 284 yards and a 33 per cent completion record.

Richard Bowles of Monterey is still far ahead among the pass receivers with 734 yards on 43 catches. Archie Crim is fourth with 14 receptions for 261 yards, and Dave Charest is next with 13 for 186. Hereford's Roy Martinez had just 9 catches, but they went for 245 yards—an average of 27.2 yards per reception.

Hereford's other rushers include: Dudding 59-352, Crim 53-228, Harkins 20-141, Martinez 32-128, Kitchens 18-60. Dudding is now out for the season with a broken leg. He returned home Tuesday from the hospital.

Gerald Ford, President: "For too long, the nation has been without an energy policy and I cannot approve a drift into greater energy dependence."

Where Are You On Friday Night?

Fourteen students, of Mrs. Margaret Bell's sophomore English nonfiction class, took a poll asking students of Hereford High "What do you do Friday night?"

The poll, conducted by the class, was given to various students at the school. Of 215 students answering the question, "What do you do on Friday night?", five answered stay at home; six watched television; 83 go to the football games, 12 ride around, six go to the movies; one went to the drive-in movie; zero visited relatives; 36 do different things; 14 go to a party; 16 go to a dance; 24 have dates; three go out of town; zero do homework; four work; zero read a book; and two go parking.

The questions for the poll were decided by a consensus. Each person suggested a question, the class then voted on 16 questions to be used.

As an addition to the poll, each group thought of a question and looked up an unusual word in the dictionary to be asked. These additional questions were asked to find out how the student body of Hereford High think and act.

Some of the questions and responses were:

If you had one wish what would you wish for? "More wishes." "To have a date with Rick again." "To get married." "To finish school." and "To burn the school down."

What does mahjong mean? "Love." "It means year." "It's a bad word." and "It's a sweat hog." The word MAHJONG actually means a Chinese game played by four people.

This poll taken under fun and lax condition, is still able to show us the feelings, thought, and actions of students at Hereford High School.

FBL Career Day

The Business Department recently sponsored a Career Day led by Future Business Leaders. There were 13 different speakers from the community representing a variety of occupations and professions. The speakers spoke on the qualities employers like and dislike in job applicants—who they hire and why they fire. They also discussed job interviews.

The Business Department leaders are: Mrs. Betty Oglesby, Mrs. Regina Douglas, and Miss Ann Warwick. Speakers were: Jake Webb, Southwestern Public Service, introduced by Sandra Artho; Kenneth Duncan, Arrowhead Mills, introduced by Karen Fox; Sharra Hammett, Hereford Clinic, introduced by Anastasio Madrid; Cleo Corlis, Pennneys, introduced by Dennise Evans; Jerry Hodges, Pitman Grain, introduced by Melinda Watts; and Steve Stip, Tago Industries, introduction made by Teresa Rhoton.

Others were Yocum, Yocum Decorators, introduced by Jana Ray; Bill Allen, Certified Public

Accountant, introduction made by Cathy Walker; Val Clawson, Ideal Food Store, who was introduced by Mike Oglesby; Paul Graves, Furr Food, introduced by Kiska Hodges; Phillip Shook, Tierra Blanca Elementary, introduction made by Charla Dickson; Perry Ray, Park Avenue Barber Shop, introduced by Gilbert Carrasco; and Jan Chrisman, Montgomery Ward, introduced by Jamie Durham.

Some of the topics that were discussed were: What are the reasons for rejecting job applicants? What are employers reasons for hiring one applicant over another? How do they find employees? What skills do they expect to have to reach an employee? In what areas do employees need improvement? How could the public schools better train employees? What are the main causes for having to fire an employee?

The speakers also gave their ideas of what takes place during a typical job interview and their personal advice for students seeking employment.

Courts Erected

Hereford High's tennis facilities are soon to be expanded and improved with the addition of four new tennis courts and the resurfacing of the present courts.

The new courts will be open to the public as well as to the Hereford High tennis team. Steve Thomas, coach of the team, said that many tournaments are to be held on the new courts, including an 8-team AAAA tourney in March. The new courts will also be the site of the annual city tennis tournament.

The courts, being financed by the school, city, and county will be built on the north side of the present facilities. The eight courts have such features as a good lighting system, wind screens on the south and west sides, and a new "Plexipave" surface. This surface is slower than the cement surfaces on the present courts, giving the player more time to react to shots coming his way.

Band Gets First

The Big Red Band from Hustlin' Land went to UIL marching contest Tuesday, October 28, at Kimbrough Memorial Stadium in Canyon.

The band marched onto the field and played the "Fry Fanfare." They then did a step two drill to "I Saw the Light." After that they did a slow-fast drill to "British 8th." The band then performed a step two drill again to the "Noblemen of Kyle", then a circle drill to "Round and Round". They marched back to concert position—playing "Electric March". At concert position they featured the twirlers with the tune "TSOP". After the feature they marched off the field playing "The Thirteen Original".

This is the 17th consecutive year the band had made a superior rating at marching contest. To get sweepstakes the band had to make a superior rating in concert and sightreading also. This contest will be in May.

Pep Squad Is Active

Pep Squad is a very active group this year, with Miss Kima Marsh, sponsor and seven captains which are as follows: Maria Johnson, Jean Brady, Doris Turner, Cindy Hinkins, Minerva Flores, Kimberly Hinkins and Carla Polk.

There are 78 girls in the group this year, and each and everyone has a part. The Pep Squad car float won best all round car this year. They also did an outstanding job at the half time participation during homecoming.

A new addition was added to the organization. New suits were made for the homecoming event and will be worn during the year.

The girls are also selling buttons for the games every Friday before school begins.

They also plan to have a "Sock It To Me Day", in which everyone that would like to participate could wear crazy, funny socks to school that day.

Pep Squad is also used a group activity, so girls who wish to be in drill team or try out for cheerleader may do so by being in pep squad one year.

FCA To Sell Light Bulbs

Fellowship of Christian Athletes will sell light bulbs either Saturday, Nov. 8 or Nov. 15. The money raised will help finance future projects that will be undertaken later in the year.

Money raising projects are to raise money to send some of the athletes to one of the FCA National Conferences. Such conferences are held in Fort Collins and Estes Park, Colo. Professional athletes and coaches attend these conferences.

The purpose of FCA is for the athlete to reach a one to one relationship with Christ.

The light bulbs that will be sold door to door where obtained from Southwestern Public Service.

Officers for this year's Hereford FCA Chapter are Mike Dudding, president; Kirk Spain, vice president; and Dennis Evans, secretary-treasurer. Coach Rick Stewart is the adult advisor and reported they have 43 boys in the chapter this year.

First Film At Hereford High

Hereford High School enjoyed a break in the school day routine on October 23rd when the student body attended a film in the HHS auditorium.

The film, which was a full length feature, was shown for the benefit of the English classes, and brought a crowd of 960 students. The movie was science fiction and dealt with the introduction of a previously unknown form of life which had the potential to destroy life on earth.

Want To Play With Fred?

Biology II Plans Trip

Class began this year with a new biology course. Biology II has started to help students further their studies in biology. Tommy Rosson is teacher of the class and hopes to continue the program in years to come.

To enter in the course a student must be a senior, and have had chemistry and biology I. Topics for study in the class are: ecology, physiological adaptation, microbes, plant growth and development.

Having studied local ecology for the first 10 weeks of school, in the Hereford Nature area, important relationships were established between plants and animals. For instance: specific food chains and food webs could be deduced as a result of the study.

They plan to take field trips later in the year. On the trips the class will go the Canadian River and the Lake Marvin area. They intend to study wild turkey and beaver. Studies will also include aquatic pond life. These field trips will be taken over weekends. Other plans for field trips include a weeklong trip during the Easter Holidays to the Big Bend National Park to study ecology and wild-life. Also, during this trip they will visit the McDonald observatory, which is the largest in the southwest. Plans also include study of the desert habitat of the Chihuahuan Desert.

In their other topics of study the class will find out how hormones affect the growth of plant life, how microbes grow and obtain nutrition, and how animals are adapted to live in their environment.

VOE Officers

Vocational Office Education (VOE) is a class that trains students to perform office duties. The student is placed at a job where she is trained as a general office clerk. It gives students an opportunity to learn more about office procedures, learn to be responsible of their duties and gives them a chance to deal with the business world.

Office Education Association (OEA) is a club that consists of the students in VOE Co-op and VOE Lab. In order to be in this club it is required to be a member of VOE. It is affiliated with national and state OEA.

VOE Co-op Office Education

Association has elected new officers and they are: Alice Hernandez-President, Debbie Moore-Vice-President, Rosemary Reyna-Secretary-treasurer, Cheryl Bridwell-parliamentarian, and Diana Valdez-reporter.

Laurie Fisher, a member of HHS is serving this year as reporter historian for Area Four Division of OEA.

Alice Hernandez, Debbie Moore, and Laurie Fisher attended an area meeting at El Paso, October 10th and 11th. Mrs. Wartes supervised the young ladies during this meeting.

Forensics Club Places Third At Muleshoe Meet

HHS Forensic Club placed third in team sweepstakes at the Muleshoe Invitational Forensic Tournament recently.

Cindy Moore was the only individual to place in the competition, placing third in prose speaking. Other individuals that advanced to the finals but did not place were President Kim Cockran and Russ Odum in prose speaking, Rose Valdez in poetry, Scott Formby in informative speaking, and Bill Hardin in persuasive speaking. Amarillo High forensics team won the meet with a team total of 137 sweepstakes point. Second was won by Friona with 104 and then Hereford with 92.

Also competing in the event were Marc Strange, Lyle Bonner, Jamie Durham, Nicky Stipe, Hason Clark, Mike Culp, Marc Lyle, Angela Hartman, Karl King, Susan Wong, Bubba Bridges, Terri Seiver, Scott Ward, Sherry Kellye, Linda Fortenberry, Shelby Austin, and Deanne Finely advanced to semi-finals in poetry.

Intramurals

The intramural program for the 1975-76 school year is now underway. Boys and girls in high school are eligible to compete. There are team sports, individual and doubles sports. There are sports such as football, basketball, handball, tennis, cageball, etc. Football, tennis, and table tennis have already started.

Teams are composed of 12 people; nine who are not involved in athletics, and three athletes.

Games are played in the morning starting at 8 a.m. At the end of a team sport a championship is played in front of the student body. The students are charged a quarter to watch. The money is used to buy new equipment for intramurals. Coach Barry Arwine is the sponsor of intramurals.

The happiest person in this community is probably the one who has helped the most people, in some way.

FHA To Sell Books

Nick Harris, sale representative for Educational Marketing Service in Lubbock, made a short presentation October 28 at high school.

Harris was directly involved with the FHA program. Future Homemakers of America will be selling the new "Holiday Cookbook". The new cookbook contains 197 pages with over 500 recipes for Holiday gatherings or just meals. The cookbook also has a washable cover and a special binding for easier managing.

Harris went on to add, it is also approved by the home economics teachers all over the nation. Before ending this presentation, Harris gave examples of do's and don'ts when selling cookbooks and handed out brochures for the FHAers selling them.

These cookbooks will be one of the new projects the FHA program of HHS will be conducting in order to raise funds for the state meeting held in April and the annual Sweetheart banquet held in February 14th.

Another project sponsored by the FHA was a Halloween Party for the children of the Day Care Center. A Thanksgiving party for adopted grandparents will also be sponsored.

The biggest event of the year is stated by Mrs. Dorothy Prowell as, "Will be the country fair to be held in April, in conjunction with the Bicentennial."

Drill Team Performs During Games

The Hereford High School Drill Team performs at all football and some basketball games. They will also be performing at some area college basketball games. The members attended a summer camp to get ideas for the routines for the upcoming year. They have two uniforms in which they perform.

Members for the 75-76 school year are Renee Payne-captain, Tami Lawson-lieutenant, Barbara Poindexter-lieutenant, Cindy Manning-corporal, Debbie Shambroon, Melinda Watts, Diane Banner, Terry Hetzel-president, Laurie Close-vice president, Elizabeth Phillips, Mona Marquez, Caroline High, Laura Clark-secretary, Patty Johnson, Lynette Andrews-treasurer, Lisa Lyles, Debbie Albright, Gayle Yosten, Gene Ann Shipley, and Cindy Acton-manager.

The drill team sponsor is Miss Donna Kisher. They perform to songs such as "I Saw the Light", "TSOP", "Proud Mary", "Love Will Keep us Together", "Rock Around the Clock", and the "Fight Song".

It cost approximately $200 for summer camp fees and uniforms. The members must have a good grade average to be in drill team. They practice on Thursday nights.

College Night

College night brought out enthusiasm in HHS Students. The meeting started at 7:30 p.m. with each college conducting their meeting in different classrooms.

Colleges invited were: West Texas State University, Texas Tech University, Amarillo College, South Plains Jr. College, Wayland Baptist, Angelo State University, West Texas State University Upward Bound, Texas Women's University and Sul Ross State University; Navy, Marines, Army, and Air Force were also represented.

Each college and three 30 minute sessions, discussing such things as financial aid, housing plans, student activities, scholarships, and varsity sports. Film slides were presented in some of the classes showing students and parents the advancement of facilities being used at the college.

Senior and junior students from HHS were invited as well as seniors from Friona and Dimmitt.

FHA Officers

Scribbles and Scratches

By KERRIE WOMBLE
Women's Editor

IT WAS BROUGHT to my attention this week that The London Times is focusing on places faraway from its foggy realms. "A Quiet Revolution in Amarillo, Texas" by Frank Vogl is an article and concerning the beef industry which appeared in an October edition of the British publication.

The closing paragraph of the story stated, "What is happening in Amarillo and its environs, such as nearby Hereford, is radically changing an industry and bringing this part of agriculture back right into line with the most advanced of modern technological industries."

Sometimes one has to read an article written halfway across the world in order to learn something about your own territory. According to the informative clipping, "A quiet revolution is taking place in the management of the thousand-million dollar American beef business. It is a revolution that is moving ahead at such speed and with such a total lack of publicity that at first it is difficult for the layman to appreciate fully."

NOW THE LOCAL CowBelles might disagree with the byline journalist who has doubts concerning the promotion of the mammoth beef business, but I suppose the 'Belles haven't reached the London populace in their campaign (yet).

However, the writer does cite some interesting statistics which might not be common knowledge and should be.

"There are 57 million cattle fattened in this area each year and about 60,000 head are auctioned each week."

Although Angus, Hereford and other breeds of cattle are shipped to this area via truck and train, a good number of beeves are produced by regional breeding ranches which range in size from small acreage to 70,000 acres or more.

"BREEDING CATTLE is a tough and hard business," the article surmised. "At one ranch of 7,000 acres, just two men run a whole operation, but without

Flea Market Wares Sought

Items for Easter Lions Club's Flea Market tomorrow and Saturday should be brought to the former John Deere building, 1403 Park Avenue, today from 2-4 p.m.

Merchandise can also be collected from your home by contacting Clarence Behrends, 276-5534, or Don Tindal, 364-0069.

Organized to raise funds for Easter community, the sale will be open from 9 a.m.-6 p.m. Friday and from 9 a.m.-3 p.m. Saturday at the John Deere location. A variety of wares and booths will be displayed for the public.

To keep nylon rope or cord from unraveling, heat the cut ends with a match until the plastic starts to melt.

Make your Thanksgiving and Christmas entertainments more enjoyable by freezing foods ahead of time. Most cakes and breads baked and then frozen improve in flavor. Fruit pies are better frozen before baking.

machines, run by computers, in this highly mechanized atmosphere, the cowboys on their horses, who still move the cow around, dip and brand them, seem distinctly out of place."

The cattle are fattened to approximately 2,150 lbs. and then moved to the slaughterhouse.

VOGL TOURED Iowa Beef Processors, Inc. on the outskirts of Amarillo and termed the plant "the world's largest beef packing and processing plant." Using an assembly line technique, approximately 212 cows are slaughtered there each hour, passing through various stages in the plant. They are tested for diseases and graded before being carved into assorted cuts of beef.

The Times story continued, saying, "Today it costs about 35 cents a pound to raise a calf to about 600 pounds and then about 50 cents for every additional pound, when all costs are included, to get the cow to a size ready for slaughtering. "Right now beef prices are rising and cattle producers and feedlots can reckon with a clean profit of possibly up to $500 or even more for each cow."

THE POINT OF the entire story was to spotlight the streamlining and integration of the grain and beef businesses.

The English writer commended the revised system wherein a centralized industry does everything from growing feed to fatten the cows, to slaughtering and packaging beef in boxes ready for delivery to the supermarkets.

This efficient method of staging the different steps of the beef industry in a single region may be taken somewhat for granted by Texans, but it is impressive when you take a fresh perspective and realize that agriculture coupled with the beef industry are a concrete base for the Panhandle.

Plants Use Artificial Light

Don't give up indoor gardening just because your house doesn't let in enough light for plants.

Everett Janne, a landscape horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, says plants will grow with artificial light in the form of fluorescent lamps.

"Fluorescent lamps give off little heat and are excellent for plants because they can be placed near enough to give off high light intensities," notes the Texas A&M University System specialist.

The standard cool-light lamp is most popular for growing plants, but special bulbs are now available that are designed to meet the light requirements of plants.

Janne recommends using a lamp with two tubes of at least 40 watts each. Suspend the light fixture about a foot above plants and keep the plants lighted for about 14-16 hours. Two lamp fixtures will light an area four feet by four feet.

"As the plants grow, adjust the lights to allow at least eight inches between the plant tops and the light tube," recommends the specialist.

If the temperature in the room falls below 60 degrees F., Janne advises providing supplemental heat that can be controlled with a thermostat.

For the avid indoor gardener, specially equipped units with lights and plant trays are available from garden shops and hobby centers.

Fashion Cindy Cavness Named Director

Some of the holiday dresses have bare shoulders and skirts which swing out from short bodices. Others are made of jersey-like material with long sleeves and cowl necklines.

Short sleeve pants suits are worn with long sleeve blouses or sweaters. Some sweaters have turtle necklines.

No excuse is as good as a satisfactory performance.

Cindy Cavness Named Director

Cindy Cavness daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H.A. Cavness, has been named Director of Hotel & Restaurant Management Curriculum for Northwood of Texas announced Randy Roten, Director of Operations.

A native of Hereford, Cindy worked her way through Trinity University in San Antonio in the food service industry, spending three years at the revolving Hemisfair restaurant, The Tower of the Americas.

Upon graduation, Miss Cavness returned to the Panhandle of Texas to a management position with the Big Texan Steak Ranch in Amarillo.

Her move to the Dallas-Ft. Worth area accompanied her employment with the Marriott Hotel Corporation. She spent nearly two years at the Marriott Hotel on Stemmons in Dallas.

Miss Cavness' new position at Northwood will allow her to combine her food service experience which her formal educational training, as her B.A. degree in Education. In addition to teaching the H & R courses at Northwood, Cindy has taken charge of the school cafeteria. She will work closely with the Admissions Department as its West Texas coordinator.

Northwood Institute of Texas is one of four Northwood College campuses in the United States with the others located in California, Michigan and Indiana.

Scrapbook Made For HD Club

A scrapbook to record activities of Palo Duro Home Demonstration Club was presented to the chapter president, Mrs. Mickey Brisendine, by Mrs. Wendall Bain Monday night in the home of Mrs. Ted Coleman.

Mrs. Coleman was called upon during the business session to report on recent Council actions. Members voted to accept recommendations for Council committees.

Joyce Shipp, County Extension Agent, was guest speaker and presented tips for recycling out-of-date clothes. Each Palo Duro member brought an item of apparel and received hints for "reviving it."

These bars were served to those members present, who included Mmes. Mike Hall, Lynn Fisher, Wallace Hill, Mickey Brisendine, Lynn Brisendine, Charles Thomas, Bain and State Norvell.

Mrs. Arthur Clark will be leading a program on toile painting at the next meeting, Nov. 17 in Community Center.

Church Class Starts Today

A reminder has been issued by the Rev. William A. Lang, minister of St. Thomas Episcopal Church, that an 'Inquirers' Class will be held at 7:30 p.m. tonight at the church.

Any interested persons are welcome to attend. Following an informal format, the weekly course is designed to acquaint individuals with the beliefs of the episcopalian faith. Question and answer periods will be held during the 4-6 week series.

Genealogy Society To Meet Here

Hereford's newly-formed Genealogy Society will meet to appoint a nominating committee to elect officers at 7 p.m. Monday in Deaf Smith County Library's Heritage Room.

Chairman pro tem is Mrs. Baxter C. Lambert. Acting temporarily as secretary is Mrs. Garth Thomas.

Those attending the upcoming meeting are asked to bring lineage sheets to their ancestral background. Anyone interested in genealogy is welcome to attend.

The society was organized about two weeks ago during a meeting attended by 17 individuals.

Summerfield 4-H Members Have Election

Summerfield 4-H Club opened their first meeting of the year with the 4-H song, motto and prayer Tuesday. Election of officers was also held.

Serving as president is Bruce Edwards; vice president, Beverly Edwards; secretary-treasurer, Renee Dobbs; recorder, Frances Broxson; council delegate, LeAnn Dobbs.

Others, motto and song leaders, Sherry Edwards and Tomi Sue Lookingbill; telephone committee, Sharon Chisum and Tammie Allen.

Also during the business meeting, the group drew names for the Christmas party Dec. 1 and the club decided to meet each Monday through the month of November to work on cooking projects for the cooking contest scheduled in December.

Club leaders are Doris Dobbs and assistants Jackie Edwards and Janet Bronson.

Magazines often feature attractive mailbox ideas in rural areas. With a little planning and effort, you will probably come up with an original idea.

Women's Division Officers

Four of the officers to serve with president Mrs. Eugene Sparks for the Women's Division of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce are pictured around her. Standing, l-r, are Mrs. J.W. Robinson, vice president, and Mrs. O.G. Nieman, parliamentarian; seated are Mrs. Joe Railey, membership; Mrs. Sparks, and Mrs. Richard Ottesen, public affairs. Not pictured is Mrs. Bill Johnson, secretary, and Mrs. Herschel Black, fine arts chairman.

$100 Donated To United Way New Officers Elected For Women's Division

The Women's Division of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce voted to contribute $100 to the United Way drive when the executive board met Tuesday at noon at Hereford Country Club. This is twice the amount the organization contributed last year.

New officers for the year 1976 were also elected during the business session conducted by Mrs. O.G. Nieman, president.

Mrs. Eugene Sparks was introduced as president. She had previously been elected by the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce. Other officers elected include: Mrs. J.W. Robinson, vice president; Mrs. Joe Railey, membership chairman; Mrs. Bill Johnson, secretary; Mrs. Richard Ottesen, chairman of public affairs; Mrs. Herschel Black, chairman of fine arts; and Mrs. Nieman, parliamentarian.

Retiring from the board of directors after five years is Mrs. Rex Lee. Others retiring from the board include Mmes. Waldo Baxter, Melvin Hoover and Joe Henry.

In giving a report on membership, Mrs. Railey reported the organization's membership is now up to 201 members. Three new members are Mmes. E.W. Dettman, Dallas Phillips and Ray Frye.

Other business included a report from the beautification committee which is headed by Mrs. Travis McPherson. It was reported that the Boy Scouts will prepare the flower bed in front of the Chamber of Commerce office so the committee can plant red, white and blue tulips. It was also reported that the fireplug project is coming along nicely, but other painters are still needed. To paint a plug, just call Mrs. McPherson and she will supply you with the paint and a picture to look at. The plugs are being painted with a Bicentennial theme. It was also reported that the committee would be in charge of the second annual Christmas home lighting contest sponsored by the Women's Division.

Other business included the appointment of Mrs. Baxter as chairman of the January general meeting when the "Women of the Year" will be named and officers will be installed.

Board members were encouraged to nominate a member as "Woman of the Year" by the deadline of December 1. Nominations should be taken or mailed to the chamber office in a sealed envelope. Any member is eligible to be nominated.

Homesewing Beats Cost Of Clothing

Homesewing may be one way to compensate for rising retail clothing costs, Marlene Odle, a clothing specialist, suggests.

"But the homemaker should first consider whether the sewing will be the more economical choice," she reminded.

In terms of both time and money, this specialist said that it makes sense to buy a blazer, but sew coordinating skirts and slacks to go with it, for example.

"Spending time making a garment that would cost less to buy isn't wise—homesewing really pays when quality fabric is used," she said.

"It's more logical to spend $9 to $12 per yard for fabric to make a fashionable well-constructed garment that might cost $100 to buy ready-made than to spend $2 to $4 per yard for a garment that could be bought ready-made for $10."

ORG Conducts Joint Meeting

Several chapters of Order of Rainbow for Girls were represented during a joint meeting Saturday night in Hereford Masonic Hall.

Delegates were Mrs. Glenn Dowlen Jr., past grand visitor, grand assembly of Texas, International Order of Rainbow, and Mrs. Frank McNeil, current grand visitor. The two expressed commendation of the local Rainbow chapter.

Shelly Riddle was initiated as a new member.

INTRODUCING CLASSIC 99

A breakthrough in latex wall paint! It combines the features you want most in one premium paint.

New Classic 99 from Sherwin-Williams. It's the best latex wall paint we've ever made. In fact, we think it's the first truly premium latex wall paint on the market. Because it's the first latex wall paint that combines the features you want most.

It covers better. It covers like no latex wall paint we've ever made before (and coming from Sherwin-Williams, that's quite a statement!).

It's scrubbable. It's the most scrubbable latex wall paint we've ever made. So you can use it in rooms where the walls take abuse, and scrub it clean time and time again.

It's so tough and long-lasting, you can use it on wood trim. Classic 99 is so tough and so long-lasting, you can not only use it in any room in your house, you can even use it on wood trim.

It's available in 679 colors. Unlike most so-called premium paints that give you a very limited choice of colors, Classic 99 is available in hundreds of colors.

We guarantee your satisfaction. With a paint this good, we know you'll be satisfied. "This latex wall paint is the result of extensive research and testing by The Sherwin-Williams Company. We guarantee your satisfaction in the use of this product, or your purchase price will be cheerfully refunded."

New Classic 99. Available only at Sherwin-Williams Decorating Centers, including the one near you. $11.99

At $11.99 a gallon, it's a great value. Especially if you can't afford to waste time and money on cheaper paint. Classic 99 is the best-covering latex wall paint Sherwin-Williams has ever made. And because it's so scrubbable and long-lasting, you paint less often.

MRS. MICHAEL HOWARD LUCAS
...nee Melissa Ann Henry

Couple At Home After Ceremony

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Howard Lucas were married Oct. 16 at San Angelo and are now residing at Kelly AFB in San Antonio. Nee Melissa Henry, the bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Henry of 1400 16th. A May graduate of Hereford High School, Mrs. Lucas is a freshman at Angelo State University in San Angelo. Classified as an airman first class in the US Air Force, Lucas is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Lucas Jr. of North Tonawanda, N.Y.

Quality Apples Called Bargains

Apples top the "good buy" list at Texas grocery stores as the holiday-food-buying season gets underway. New-crop apple supplies show excellent quality with bagged apples in smaller sizes "attractive buys." Mrs. Wendyne Clyatt advises. "Also, grapefruit is in better supply with quality improving weekly—while pears and grapes offer good selections at reasonable cost, she said. Mrs. Clyatt is a consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. At vegetable counters, dry onion prices are higher than last year because supplies are lower. Seasonal vegetables in the "good choice" category this week include eggplant, broccoli, brussels sprouts, turnips and rutabagas. "Most economical" items are mustard, collards, carrots, cabbage, hard-shell squash and potatoes, Mrs. Clyatt added. Dairy sections are featuring cheese—particularly longhorn and cheddar cheese, along with low-fat milk and sour cream. The specialist also noted economy buys on fishery products, advising consumers to sample the wide variety of choices in determining family preferences—for greatest savings. On the meat scene, a few turkey "specials" are available on birds over 10 pounds—and on wings and drumsticks. Fryer chickens are showing slight price increases. Pork prices remain high with only a few Boston butt features available. As a rule, store "specials" really are the best beef values, and this week's choices include chuck steaks and roasts, round, sirloin and rib steaks, ground beef and liver, Mrs. Clyatt said.

Speaker Praises Panhandle Women

"Journey to Equality" was the theme of an address given to a guest speaker Monday night to members of Delta Xi Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma Society, who met in the home of Mrs. Thomas Braddy. Claire Kochs, librarian at Panhandle Plains Historical Museum in Canyon, was introduced to the local educators by Miss Phyllis Gerdson, chairman of the personal growth and services committee. In searching the museum archives, the speaker studied the lives of numerous Panhandle women filling responsible positions. She commented that these women "had prepared themselves and had a great desire to serve." Among the individuals she cited was Miss Lillie Hostetter, a Hereford librarian who managed the first Deaf Smith County library. The county had assumed responsibility for the library facilities from Mrs. C.A.F. Parker, who coaxed her husband into allowing some shelf space at Western National Bank for the nucleus of a local library. Other outstanding women mentioned were Mrs. Sarah Askrin, a Hereford wife, mother and homemaker; "Aunt" Hank Smith, a woman from Crosby County who was the first postmistress in the Panhandle; Mary Goodnight, first white woman in the Panhandle; Phoebe K. Warner of Claude, editor and journalist; Katherine Wilson, first female city commissioner of Amarillo; District Judge Mary Lou Robinson Jordan of Amarillo; Annette Wall, first woman mayor of Stratford.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Charles Bell, who received the president's pen from Mrs. Claude McDougal, chairman of the ceremonial committee. Mrs. J.J. Durham led the reading of the chapter collect prior to the constitution review by Mrs. Merlin Kaul. Mary Hale directed the singing. Included in the business was a financial report from Audrey Powell and a summary of the Legional meeting held recently at Friona. Mrs. Alice Gerdson of Canyon was a guest. Mmes. Braddy, Earl Springer, Gary Billingsley and C.R. Higgins served hot punch and cookies to 44 members present.

Reports indicate that a practical solar system for heating, cooling and hot water supply in homes will soon be available. Mrs. Pat Seaman, a housing and home furnishings specialist, says. Currently the cost of the a solar collector—normally installed on the south side of the roof—is $6 to $7 per square foot. But this is expected to decline to $4 per square foot as the system is refined and manufacturing increases. Besides cost of the collector, other necessary components for the heating system cost around $1,000. And considered on an annual basis for both heating and cooling, solar energy is competitive with energy obtained from propane and cheaper than heating and cooling with electricity, according to research studies.

Home Systems To Become Common

Take care of number one, says the worlding, and the Christian says so too; for he has taken the best care of number one who takes care that number one shall go to Heaven. -C.C. Colton.

VOE Student
Rosalinda Suarez, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Suarez of Route 1, has been selected as Vocational Office Education student of the week. The Hereford High School senior is employed as a general office clerk at Plains Insurance Co. She is pictured with her supervisor Herman Ford.

Rainbow Girls Slate Party

Members of Order of Rainbow for Girls planned a Christmas party and hay ride during a meeting Monday night in Hereford Masonic Hall. The yuletide celebration will follow the initiation meeting Dec. 15. After exchanging gifts, the girls will go carolling on a hay ride. Correspondence included a thank you letter from Kathy Digby, who was recently hospitalized. It was announced that Mrs. Frank McNeil, past grand visitor, will be present at the next meeting for initiation of new members on Nov. 17. Recognized as guests were Mrs. J.A. McWhorter, past mother advisor and past worthy advisor, Patricia Brownlow, past worthy advisor, Mrs. L.J. Clark and J.A. McWhorter. Among those present were Janet McWhorter, worthy advisor, and Mrs. Roger Ruland, mother advisor. The only persons I really care for are those who are of use to me. -Napoleon I. Man seeks his own good at the whole world's cost. -Robert Browning.

Non-Residential Beauty Spot

The City Hall Complex in the 200 block of Miles Ave. has been chosen as non-residential beauty spot for the month of October by the Women's Division of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce.

'Give 'Em Hell, Harry!'

Audiences attending Samuel Gallu's widely acclaimed play, "Give 'Em Hell, Henry!" will hear one unusual musical number. The play is being presented Thursday Nov. 27 in Amarillo Civic Center Auditorium at 8 p.m. by Dacus-Shurr Productions of Fort Worth.

Little-known and never played is the victory song which was written and held in readiness for the "absolute" and "unquestioned" election of Thomas E. Dewey to the Presidency in 1948. The downbeat was never given when the stunned GOP realized that "The Man from Missouri" had pulled off one of the biggest political upsets in the history of the United States.

Most victory songs have a "vamp 'til ready" introduction. Not so with "Congratulations Tom Dewey." This introduction was the theme of the President's ceremonial march, "Hail to the Chief," and the lyrics, by Richard M. Sherman and Milton P. Larsen, were the most optimistic word could buy.

In "Give 'Em Hell, Harry!" the audience will hear Ed Nelson, who portrays Truman, sing and play Tom Dewey's long-buried song treasure. It will also hear him relive his 1948 "Whistle Stop" campaign and jubilantly hold high over his head the front page of the Chicago Tribune which prematurely proclaimed Tom Dewey the Presidential winner.

As Harry Truman used to say during his campaign, "I think someone is following me, but there's one place he's not going to follow me, and that's the White House." And so it came to pass!

When Margaret Turman Daniel saw a rehearsal of the play in Hershey, Pennsylvania in March this year, she stated that playwright Gallu "indeed caught the spirit of my father."

Tickets are now available at Sears Department Store in Amarillo or at the Civic Center box office, phone 806-373-6891, from noon to 5:30 p.m., Monday through Saturday.

Mail orders received now will be held and filled in the order received. Mail orders must include a self-addressed stamped envelope for the return of tickets, and should be sent to P.O. Box 1971, Amarillo, Tex. 79186. Prices are $4.50, $5.50 and $6.50.

Dealers Announced

A list of dealers who will be participating in L'Allegria Study Club's 3rd Annual Antique Show and Sale have been released by Mrs. Cameron Gault, project chairman.

The show is scheduled for 1-9 p.m. Friday and Saturday, Nov. 14-15, and from 1-6 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 16. Sixteen antique dealers from five states will display a varied collection of Hereford Community Center all three days. Included among sale merchandise will be jewelry, art glass, furniture, primitives, clocks, player pianos and china pieces.

Tickets, costing $1 each, can be bought from any L'Allegria member, Park Avenue Florist or Flowers West. The latter two firms will offer door prizes during the show.

Proceeds from the antique sale will be added to a fund to establish a Y-Center here. Past benefits of the annual project have included the purchase of a fetal heart monitor for Deaf Smith General Hospital and for improvements at Hereford Community Center.

Those antique firms expected to participate in the impending exhibition are:

Moore's Antiques of Pampa, Pandora's Box of Lubbock, Audrey's Antiques of Shallowater, Vicki's Antiques of Kansas City, Sorrell's of Hereford, Country Antiques of Plainview and Helen's Antiques of Amarillo.

Jean's Antiques of Oklahoma City, Patricia Bette's of Fort Worth, Yesteryear of Little Rock, Ark., Rosie's Antiques of Del City, Okla., Toby's Antiques of Odessa, Ann's Tempting Treasures of Oklahoma City, The Depot Antiques of Alamogordo, N.M., Old World Antiques of Plainview and The Depotique of Pampa.

Immunization Vital To Youth

Each year many U.S. children die or become disabled from diseases they needn't have contracted, Carla Shearer, health education specialist, says.

"Immunizations are readily accessible to prevent these tragedies. Diphtheria, pertussis (whooping cough), tetanus, polio, measles and rubella are diseases which can cause disabilities and even death, but they can be prevented through immunizations," Miss Shearer, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The Texas A&M University system, said. "When vaccines were first available, the incidence of childhood diseases dropped sharply. But as the effects of the diseases faded from people's minds, parents made less effort to be sure their children were fully protected—so immunization levels declined."

The Texas Immunization Law requires that all children be immunized before entering school—but it's important to protect preschoolers also. This is the parents' responsibility since these youngsters aren't in school yet, Miss Shearer said.

She noted that reports show immunity levels among 1-to 4-year-olds are low enough to sustain substantial spread of disease, including outbreaks.

The Texas Department of Health Resources suggests that a child start his immunization series at 2 months of age by receiving DTP (diphtheria-tetanus-pertussis) and polio immunizations.

Suggested immunization schedule:

BASIC SERIES

- 2 months-DTP and polio
- 4 months-DTP and polio
- 6 months-DTP and polio
- 12 months-measles and rubella
- 15-18 months-DTP and polio

BOOSTER DOSES

4-6 years-DTP and polio

14-16 years-Td (Tetanus Diphtheria)

Thereafter-Td every 10 years. The specialist urged parents to check their children's immunization records. If unsure about the need for immunization, call the private physician or the county health department office.

La Plata Hears Program On Arrangements

Mrs. Harlan VanderZee was hostess to LaPlata Study Club Tuesday evening when members met in her home at 136 Live Oak.

The program, "You Can Reach Out and Touch Them", was introduced by Mrs. Marvin Hall. Presenting the program was H.R. Fulton of H R Flowers of Canyon and he was assisted by Joe Frank Clark, manager of Flowers West of Hereford.

He gave the women some pointers on how to wear a corsage and how to make fresh and dried arrangements.

He said a corsage should be worn with the stems at the bottom and the flowers toward heaven.

In making a beautiful arrangement from gold shades of mums, he pointed out that most of the mums are grown in the Amarillo area and sold to flower shops.

He designed several Christmas arrangements, most of them featuring candles. He also explained how to take care of terrariums.

A refreshment plate of sandwiches, chocolate cake and peppermint ice cream was served to the following: Mmes. W.D. Askew, Jay Boston, Jack Brown, Emil Dettman, Marvin Hall, Lewis McCuistian, Ansel McDowell, O.G. Nieman, Frank Prowell, Ken Rogers, A.J. Schroeter, and Don Taylor.

Chris Hennmeter, World Football League President:

Camp Fire Girls Receive Awards

Prize-winning exhibits created by local Camp Fire Girls were exhibited for the public during a tea Sunday afternoon in Hereford Community Center.

About 190 entries were included in the collection and about 215 guests signed the registry, where members of WaTahNiKi and MaWeHaYa Horizon Clubs were official hostesses. Chairman of the Autumn Festival was Mrs. Arthur Clark, assisted by Mrs. John Reid.

Exhibits were judged Saturday afternoon by these individuals: Mrs. Bob Word, Mrs. Calvin Goodin, Rheata Peeler White, Travis McPherson and Andrew Wilkes. In addition to those entering the competition, craft projects completed by Camp Fire leaders were on display.

Those youngsters placing in the top three spots of each division are:

"Prepare as usual such appetizers as small open-face sandwiches, rolled canapes, puff shells, stuffed nuts and olives, cheese rolls, and bacon-wrapped tidbits. Dips and spreads of cheese, deviled ham, fish and avocado mixtures freeze well also.

"But before packing in freezer containers, spread appetizers in single layers on metal pans and freeze them," she advised.

Toast or crisp-base appetizers need different care, she noted. Package them separately from other appetizers.

"Use shallow containers that hold no more than two or three layers. Separate layers with pieces of moisture-vapor resistant paper. Overwrap the entire container with this paper.

"Thaw toast and crisp-base appetizers two to three hours without unwrapping. Other appetizers can be arranged on serving trays and thawed at room temperature for one hour. Store up to two or three weeks," she said.

Chalk Talk

Tonight At Tech

LUBBOCK—Dr. Daryl Jones, assistant professor of English, will present a reading of original poetry tonight at 8 p.m. in the Mesa Room of the Texas Tech University Center.

Jones' reading is one of a series of Chalk Talks presented by the University Center Programs Committee. The Chalk Talk series is designed to bring campus talent to the public at no charge for informal lectures, readings and discussions.

Jones teaches creative writing and American literature at the university. Since 1969 his poems have been published both in the U.S. and Canada. He currently is compiling a collection of his poetry and preparing a monograph devoted to the nineteenth century popular western novel.

A weekly public service feature from the Texas Department of Health Resources

Accent on Health

Fratis L. Duff, M.D., Director

There are laws regulating the handling of food in public places but the average homeowner has to rely mainly on luck and long-established practice in staving off food poisoning.

Food-borne disease epidemics don't happen too often, despite the millions of meals served each month by Texas restaurants.

One reason, says the Texas Department of Health Resources, is the training received by food handlers in restaurants. Another factor is the regular inspections performed by Department of Health Resources personnel throughout Texas.

But who inspects the home kitchen to see that foods are properly handled at home? The obvious answer is: "No one!"

One veteran sanitarian once commented to a group of food handling trainees: "If you handled food the way it's handled in most home kitchens, your place would be closed in a week." He went on to say, "The home cook gets away with bad practices because food usually is eaten immediately following preparation—there's not enough time between preparation and eating to allow harmful bacteria to grow and cause illness."

Two of the main factors in food poisoning prevention are time and temperature. While the home chef may prepare food just a short time in advance of a meal, the restaurant cook may prepare the main menu hours in advance—or maybe the day before. Food sanitation experts stress keeping food colder than 45 degrees Fahrenheit or warmer than 140 degrees Fahrenheit to inhibit the growth of bacteria. Any hot food to be refrigerated should be chilled quickly and thoroughly.

American consumers underestimate their individual responsibility for keeping food safe in the home. At least that's what a survey by the federal Department of Agriculture showed. A majority of those responding to a food safety survey thought it "not likely" for meat and poultry to carry harmful bacteria and germs. Consumers weren't aware that they should take proper precautions to keep food safely by avoiding the growth of bacteria.

Even though meat and poultry products may be inspected by trained personnel of the Department of Health Resources and designated as wholesome, precautions still are necessary by the home consumers.

Health authorities stress to consumers that meat and poultry are not sterile products and, if abused, can cause food poisoning.

The Thanksgiving and Christmas seasons are ahead, and this is a time for extra precautions since turkey and dressing, plus other delicacies may be prepared in advance, and then served more than once as leftovers. The turkey and dressing can be a source of trouble in your own home unless they are handled properly.

Proper cooking of food destroys most food bacteria, but keeping them just warm for long periods can be inviting trouble—unless they are kept above 140 degrees.

And, food inspectors of the Department of Health Resources point out that even cooked foods can be re-contaminated or cross-contaminated.

Here's how it could happen—to you.

Let's say that you cut up fresh meat or poultry on a cutting board and perhaps rinse the board and knife and set them aside. A little later you cut up some vegetables or perhaps start making potato salad on the same board. It's highly possible that you have contaminated the vegetables or potatoes from bacteria on the board which remained from the poultry or meat.

Or, let's say you bake the turkey and then place it back on the rinsed board for cutting. You can recontaminate the cooked turkey with the bacteria on the board. If the turkey then is allowed to remain at room temperatures long enough, this bacteria could increase in such numbers as to cause illness.

Health authorities stress one important point. After cutting up any fresh meat or poultry, your hands, the knife and the cutting board should be washed thoroughly with hot, soapy water before touching any food.

Most consumers understand that you shouldn't stuff a turkey the night before cooking—since the center of the tightly-packed dressing may never chill to a safe temperature. If this happens and the dressing in the turkey is undercooked, food poisoning could result from the buildup of bacteria in the dressing. Bacteria loves a warm, moist environment. Some cooking experts recommend cooking dressing separate from the turkey to insure proper handling.

Child Growth Varies

"Monday's child is fair of face... Tuesday's child is full of grace..."

Most people know that the day a person is born has nothing to do with what kind of person he is or will become, or skills he will exhibit. Dorothy Taylor, a family life education specialist, says,

"But his familiar nursery rhyme does remind parents that every child is different—in appearance, temperament, abilities and aptitudes."

Miss Taylor is with the Texas

Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"All a child's inherited characteristics, plus all his experiences, combine to produce an individual different from every other individual who ever lived or ever will live."

"Children sometimes seem to grow by taking two steps forward and one step backward. A child who enters kindergarten or a day care center matures socially. But at the same time, he may seem to move backwards a step by reverting to wetting his pants or sucking his thumb while he adjusts to being away from his mother more," the specialist said.

Ability grows with each new experience mastered. The first skills a young child learns form a foundation for learning new skills. With some children, repeated practice is needed before they have a base for moving forward. And other children need only to do something once to be able to repeat the action without error.

Miss Taylor asks parents to remember that each person is unique—he started out that way.

BRIGHTEN YOUR LIFE WITH THE GOLDEN RULE

Do unto others, the Bible has said.
As you'd have others do unto you:
And if you will follow this passage you've read,
You will find it is certainly true
That in business, your home life or simply with friends,
It is easier getting along
If you'll never be forced into making amends,
Just because you have done someone wrong.
So to learn more about this unfailing advice
That will frequently serve as a warning,
You should go to your Church, where it's only the price
Of an hour on next Sunday morning.

Do as you would be done by, is the surest method of pleasing.

Tonight's Travelogue To Feature Islands

Kiwanis Whiteface Breakfast Club will present its third program in the Travel and Adventure series at 7:30 p.m. this evening in Hereford High School auditorium.

The islands of Fiji, Western Samoa and Tonga will be the travelogue subjects as described by Vance Kabourek, a native of Czechoslovakia. The public is invited.

War dances and natives structures in Marau village on the island of Fiji will be depicted during the full color film. The spectacular fish drive, fire walking and Kava drinking are pastimes featured at Korolevu Beach Hotel. Near Raki Raki, Paul Miller raises a 30-pound cod from the open sea. By yacht, the audience will visually follow the blue lagoon cruise to the Yasawas for deep seas fishing and amateur photography.

The legendary Aggie Grey of Apia will be introduced to the public as the narration transfers to Western Samoa. Her noted hotel is skirted daily by the "new" Matue boats. The tour route will then proceed to Vailima, where Robert Louis Stevenson's historical home is situated and is currently occupied by the head of state, Malietoa and Tanumafili II. Included in the presentation will be a day in the life of a native family, swimming in jungle pools and the famous death dance.

In Tonga, Parliament is opened by "His Majesty," who will be seen inside the winter palace. In a nation where the average age is 17, eight thousand children can be seen marching in a parade held in the King's honor. Sixty per cent of this territory is under 21-years-old. Included on the travel spots will be the coastline, where pounding waves spout through blowholes in the coral, making fountains which soar 50-100 feet in the air.

Familiar with these exotic islands through extensive traveling, Kabourek is fluent in six languages. He attended schools and universities in his homeland and received his degree in Moscow, Russia.

Employed as a professional photographer, the speaker has spent time in Europe, Asia, Africa and the South Seas.

Asthma Meeting Set Today

In the United States, three to five per cent of the population suffers from some form of asthma and two or three thousand deaths a year are attributed to this breathing problem.

Health professionals at Deaf Smith General Hospital in Hereford will participate in discussions of the malady this afternoon, at 12:30.

The therapeutics seminar will originate from The University of Texas Health Science Center at San Antonio and local participants will be able to ask questions of San Antonio discussants and hear the entire proceedings from the San Antonio site.

A panel of three physicians from the UT health science center will lead the seminar on newer drugs being marketed for asthma, the action at the cellular level during an attack, and proper use of standard therapeutic agents.

Bummin' Around

Shelly Frye and Kirk Sparkman won awards for their tramp garb during a post-Halloween party Saturday night in Easter community. The project is an annual activity to raise funds for Easter.

Sale Starts Tomorrow

Bill Broxson, treasurer, of Easter Lions Club, invites the public to shop at the club's Flea Market tomorrow and Saturday at the former site of the John Deere building on Park Avenue. Proceeds will be given to Easter community fund.

Is Ag Policy Up For Grabs?

"Agricultural policy is no longer an island to itself. Everybody is getting into the act and trying to dictate what agricultural producers should do because agriculture has become a tremendous political issue."

With that, Dr. Ronald Knutson got to the heart of the matter in discussing the politics of agriculture at an Agribusiness Seminar in Houston recently.

"One of the biggest issues in agriculture today is who is in control of agricultural policy," said Knutson, an economist in marketing and policy with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "Control by the agricultural establishment is slipping into the hands of top government officials, consumer groups and labor organizations."

Knutson, former administrator of the Farmer Cooperative Service, USDA, cited three main reasons for the increasing interest in agriculture and food policy by these "outside" groups. "First, food has become a key negotiating tool in a foreign policy designed to maintain world peace. In addition, food has become vital to maintaining the value of the dollar in international transactions. Third, U.S. consumers are becoming more concerned that an increasing proportion of their income must go to food."

"The consumers' cries have caught the ear of organized labor, which in turn has provided the consumer movement significant financial support. Consumer and labor activism will have a strong effect on future agricultural policies, to say the least," said Knutson.

As far as policy issues with respect to farm programs, the economist outlined four. The first dealt with government involvement in domestic farm programs. "Our farm programs must have the flexibility to deal with the potential to overproduce. Furthermore, farm programs of the future will likely have to cover all commodities. Commodity programs appear to be on their way out. With increased consumer activism, farmers will need to be realistic in terms of what they can get from an urban-oriented Congress in all commodity areas. A unified approach among producer groups interested in farm policy will be required if any success is to be realized on Capitol Hill."

Knutson indicated the use of food as a tool of international diplomacy as a second major policy issue in agriculture. "People like the Secretary of State are determining our international agricultural policy. This represents no panacea for the farmer."

The economist likewise sees little for the U.S. farmer in the recently negotiated long-term agreement with Russia. "The stabilizing effect can easily be overestimated. The agreement's upper limit on exports acts as an automatic trigger for restricted exports."

On the issue of food aid, the economist noted that about half of the Department of Agriculture budget went to food programs during the 1974-75 fiscal year. Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz argues that these funds should be directed to programs that expand agricultural production, increase efficiency and improve quality. Yet many in Congress argue that food programs provide tools with which they can bargain for support of mainstream agricultural programs. For support from labor, farmers must concede to labor's demands for food stamps for strikers and minimum wage legislation. Yet farmers were unable to override President Ford's veto of the 1975 farm bill while consumers got an expanded food stamp program. "Of course, consumers have no objection to farm programs as long as they don't increase farm prices," emphasized Knutson. "If inflation continues, however, farm programs may actually be a noose around the producer's neck."

A final policy issue aired by the economist was the question of "who will control U.S. agriculture." The battle lines have already been drawn in some states regarding corporate farming, noted Knutson, and there is increasing concern by family farmers, consumers, the Justice Department and Nader-type groups about the future structure of agriculture. For example, a bill currently in Congress would prohibit contracting and feeding of cattle by packers. Other proposals would effectively prohibit mergers among cooperatives.

The economist stressed that in the end, how these issues are resolved will depend on agriculture's role in agricultural policy formation. "The answer to the question of who controls U.S. agricultural policy is up for grabs."

Ag Research Should Be Done In Native Areas

The best way for an underdeveloped foreign country to improve its agriculture and produce more food is to develop science and technology that fit that area's own conditions.

In other words, says Dr. Vernon W. Ruttan, president of the Agricultural Development of Singapore, agricultural research should be done on farm commodities in their own environment.

Ruttan spoke Oct. 30 as the first guest in the 1975-76 Texas A&M University Lecture Series.

The series, started in 1963, provides an opportunity for the academic community and the public to hear authorities discuss a broad field of social, political and scientific topics.

The Agricultural Development Council headed by Ruttan is a small foundation established about 20 years ago by John D. Rockefeller III. Its general purpose is to encourage and promote professional efforts in bettering economic and human problems of Asian agriculture.

In his talk, "Technology and Food for a Hungry World," Ruttan paralleled his on-the-spot technological development ideas to the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and its network of field research units located at strategic sites around the state.

Instead of taking research findings at the main station in College Station and trying to apply them to West Texas conditions, for example, the field units in that area will do most of the research. The same principle, he said, should be applied by the highly advanced nations when they try to help developing countries.

The speaker said the old

"know how, show how" agricultural aid programs of President Truman's day did not work out so well because U.S. science and technology often did not adapt easily to conditions.

Ruttan also emphasized that the agricultural improvement process in developing countries should shift from "resource based" farming to a "science based" system.

He pointed to Argentina's early 1920's corn yields, which were about twice those of the U.S. Corn Belt. But now it's the other way around because U.S. corn farmers are now science and technology oriented (fertilizers, improved varieties, etc.), while Argentina farmers still rely mostly on natural soil fertility.

"It has been science and technology that have boosted our yields, not our resources," Ruttan said.

What is the overall implication for developing countries? Ruttan said such nations can now select the agricultural improvement path that will best suit their own situations after observing what the U.S. and other advanced countries have done. Progress can even be faster than that of the U.S.

He said there are now 10 agricultural research institutions in the tropics and semi-tropics in Latin America, Africa, India, Italy and the Near East because there is recognition of the importance of developing a science and technology strictly for those regions.

Shortcourse Is On Tap Tonight

A fertilizer shortcourse will be held in the County Exposition Building in Dimmitt tonight (Thursday) at 7:30.

Two soil chemists and two agronomists will be featured speakers.

The event is of special interest to area farmers in need of a refresher course on plant nutrients, forage and grain fertilization and soil testing.

Fertilizing corn and sorghum and the value of soil testing will be discussed by Dr. Charles D. Welch, head of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service Soil Testing Laboratory at College Station and Jim Valentine, head of the Extension soil testing laboratory at Lubbock.

A practical look at plant nutrient carriers will be taken by Dr. James Supak, Extension agronomist, and fertilizing small grain will be discussed by Dr. Frank Petr, Extension area agronomist at Amarillo.

The shortcourse is designed to help area producers in planning their fertilizer programs, and is sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, and the Panhandle Economic Program for Castro, Deaf Smith and Farmer counties.

Production Of Honey Slightly Off

AUSTIN--Early indications are that Texas commercial beekeepers will produce 5,978,000 pounds of honey in 1975, according to recently released statistics.

This compares with 6,100,000 pounds produced last year.

Commercial apiaries had 98,000 colonies this year, 2,000 less than in 1974. Average yield remained at 61 pounds per colony, the same as for the past two years, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White said.

"Conditions varied considerably during the peak honey producing period. Plentiful moisture benefited nectar plants but at the same time, reduced bee activity," Commissioner White explained.

In the Panhandle area, beekeepers sustained above normal losses from spraying

EPA Regulation Could Delay Ag Construction

Certain new agricultural and industrial operations may be required to submit lengthy environmental assessment reports to the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) nine months prior to construction if proposed regulations are put into effect.

According to Dr. John Sweeten, agricultural engineer in waste management for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the proposed EPA regulations would subject new feedlots and certain other agricultural "point sources" to the Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) Program established under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969.

Agricultural related industries classified as point sources include major irrigation projects, fish farms, meat packing and fertilizer plants, grain mills and dairy, seafood, fruit and vegetable processing plants.

The EIS Program, which has been applied mainly to federally-sponsored projects such as dams, airports and interstate highways, would require new feedlots and other operations to go through a 14-step procedure before their application for a water pollution abatement permit would be considered by the EPA.

"Anyone who wanted a permit for a proposed feedlot would have to fill out an environmental questionnaire at least nine months before starting construction and return it to the EPA," says Sweeten.

"Then, he'd have to submit a comprehensive environmental assessment report which would be reviewed by the EPA. If EPA determines that the operation could have a significant impact on the human environment, the agency would draw up an Environmental Impact Statement and advertise for and receive public comments concerning the proposed project.

Comments on the proposed regulations are invited by EPA. Such comments should be sent to the Office of Federal Activities, U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, Washington, D.C. 20460, no later than Nov. 24.

As Technology Increases—

Agriculture's Sowing Seeds For Bumper Crop Of Careers

New developments in agriculture create more than just new products and new markets for farm commodities. They also open up new career opportunities.

Take Richard Percy and Judy Green, for example. Both are involved in work at Texas A&M University stemming from a relatively new development in cotton: glandless plants.

Richard, a graduate student, is involved in plant breeding studies on glandless cotton and hopes to continue similar lines of research with a private firm after graduation.

Judy's field is food technology, and she's helping develop new uses for protein extracts from glandless cottonseed.

In contrast to standard varieties of cotton, the new breed is free of the pigment glands that have long deterred full use of cottonseed protein for human food. And, even though a new process separates the glands from the protein in regular varieties, the new glandless is still highly desirable because of the shortcut it offers.

"Already, about 50,000 acres of glandless cotton are being grown in Texas alone," Richard says, "and farmers so far have been getting a premium price for their glandless cottonseed.

"Another benefit we hope to turn up for farmers is built-in insect resistance for some of the glandless strains," Richard notes.

Dr. Carl M. Cater of A&M's Food Protein Research and Development Center says his researchers work closely with the scientists who are perfecting improved varieties of the new cotton.

"This one development is opening up career choices that didn't even exist a few years ago," Dr. Cater says, "and, as the technology of glandless cottonseed progresses, there'll be even more opportunities."

Couple the technological revolution with the growing interest in a more natural lifestyle and you begin to see why agricultural enrollment is growing faster than Iowa corn.

The 1975 graduating class at the University of Maryland, for example, had a record 240 graduates picking up sheepskins in agriculture. And most of them didn't come from "down on the farm," but from the metropolitan area of Washington, D.C.

Job placement for ag graduates is running about 95%, according to officials of 14 Midwestern universities.

And the pay scale averages $9,200 a year—second only to that of graduates in engineering.

Some 260 different careers for ag college graduates are listed by the U.S. Labor Department, and there are considerably more in the agricultural support industries.

If the technological explosion produces other innovations as promising as glandless cottonseed, it could boost demand for agriculture grads even more.

As Judy Green puts it: "The exciting thing about my work is that we are able to see now an entirely new source of high-grade human food products from a plant that already is the most important source of fiber. There's really a hungry world waiting for cottonseed protein."

With the world waiting, scientists are looking for new ways to grow more, use it better, and distribute it faster.

Agriculture is a lot more than farming. It's a career harvest.

Proof of increased beef supplies can be seen in Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service statistics, which show a total cattle slaughter of 464,000 head during August, 49,000 more than the previous month and 122,000 over a year ago.

As expected, grass-fed (also known as baby beef, light beef or short-fed) beef has maintained its importance in Texas markets due to the fact that the number of cattle and calves going through Texas feedlots has not returned to the higher levels of previous years.

Grass-fed beef refers to cattle that are grass-fed for 12 to 24 months, attaining a weight of 600 to 900 pounds. The cattle are then marketed directly off grass. Usually, the meat grades Good or below.

Grass-fed beef provides high quality protein and is slightly leaner than higher grades of meat. It may be less flavorful than heavier, fed beef and should be seasoned carefully. Some meat tenderizer helps improve the texture.

Ground beef, always a favorite with housewives, is featured in Cheesy Beef Casserole. This casserole freezes and reheats beautifully, say Texas Department of Agriculture home economists. A bonus

USDA, EPA In Agreement On Fire Ant Control

Federal participation in the imported fire ant control program will be resumed immediately under terms of a "memorandum of understanding" announced Oct. 28 by the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) and the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

The agreement—signed by USDA Under Secretary J. Phil Campbell and EPA Deputy Administrator John R. Quarles, Jr.—came as a result of recent technological advances in formulating the pesticide mirex, the principal chemical weapon used to destroy fire ants.

"Limited tests of a new bait have shown very promising results," Quarles said. "They indicate the new bait could reduce the amount of actual toxicant applied per acre by approximately 75 per cent per treatment. It is hoped that this new bait would reduce potential harm to the environment. The agreement, however, does not include an acreage restriction.

The agreement will also provide a closer working relationship between the two agencies, thereby benefiting residents of the fire ant infested areas," Quarles added.

According to Under Secretary Campbell, the new bait would give USDA a more effective program because it would provide greater flexibility.

"This, in turn, would be of tremendous help to southern homeowners and farmers now plagued by fire ants," Campbell said. "If this new bait proves effective under actual field conditions—and it meets EPA's environmental safety criteria—we would hope to eventually return to three treatments within a two-year period and controlled applications over coastal counties."

Fire ants—which entered the U.S. on cargo shipped from South America to Mobile, Ala., in 1918—infect very painful stings on people and animals, even leading to death in extreme situations. In addition, they build large earth mounds in fields and yards, interfering with farming operations and outdoor activities.

Over 133 million acres are known to be infested with fire ants in both suburban and rural areas in the nine southern states of Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina and Texas.

USDA has conducted cooperative programs with these infested states since 1957, and has been using mirex bait since 1962. Subsequent scientific studies of the effects of mirex upon the environment led EPA to impose restrictions on its use beginning in 1972. Effective July 1 of this year, USDA suspended its participation in these programs on the grounds that it desired a more effective program.

Also, in September 1973, EPA convened a hearing to examine all aspects of the benefits, costs and possible health effects associated with the use of mirex. This hearing is still pending. At its conclusion, the EPA Administration Law Judge will make his recommendations to the EPA Administrator regarding future registrations of mirex. Quarles stressed that the outcome of this hearing will not be affected by the "memorandum of understanding" announced Tuesday.

Under the terms of the agreements between the two agencies: —USDA would resume participating in the cooperative federal/state program for the balance of what is termed the "fall program", using the "4X" mirex bait formulations that has been approved since the early 1960's—subject to the present EPA environmental safeguards.

—EPA would consider issuing an experimental permit for the new bait formulation, designated as "10:5", for the purpose of conducting more extensive field tests upon which to base criteria for regulating the type of serial applications that might be allowed. Such tests would have to conform to the present restrictions against using "4X" bait over aquatic and heavily forested areas. —EPA would consider permanent registration of the "10:5" bait, provided the experimental trials prove successful in destroying fire ants while also meeting EPA criteria for protecting the environment. At the same time, EPA would also consider possible approval for three applications for "10:5" bait over a two-year period. This would result in a 50 per cent reduction of the actual toxicant used per acre over the two years, if acreage treated in the past remains constant, as compared to what is now permitted for the "4X" bait.

Beef Supplies Boosted With Grass-Fed Cattle

AUSTIN—Consumers can expect to find plenty of beef at meat counters throughout Texas in October, according to Agriculture Commissioner John C. White.

Proof of increased beef supplies can be seen in Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service statistics, which show a total cattle slaughter of 464,000 head during August, 49,000 more than the previous month and 122,000 over a year ago.

As expected, grass-fed (also known as baby beef, light beef or short-fed) beef has maintained its importance in Texas markets due to the fact that the number of cattle and calves going through Texas feedlots has not returned to the higher levels of previous years.

Grass-fed beef refers to cattle that are grass-fed for 12 to 24 months, attaining a weight of 600 to 900 pounds. The cattle are then marketed directly off grass. Usually, the meat grades Good or below.

Grass-fed beef provides high quality protein and is slightly leaner than higher grades of meat. It may be less flavorful than heavier, fed beef and should be seasoned carefully. Some meat tenderizer helps improve the texture.

Ground beef, always a favorite with housewives, is featured in Cheesy Beef Casserole. This casserole freezes and reheats beautifully, say Texas Department of Agriculture home economists. A bonus this recipe offers is that it makes enough for two meals.

Cheesy Beef Casserole

- 2 lbs. ground beef
  - 1 Tbsp. oil
  - 1 medium onion, chopped
  - ¼ cup celery, chopped
  - ¼ cup parsley, chopped
  - ½ cup bell pepper, chopped
  - 2 Tbsp. beef broth
  - 1 pkg. brown gravy mix
  - 2 cups water.
  - 10 oz. pkg. noodles
  - 1 Tbsp. butter
  - ¼ cup ripe olives, sliced
  - 1 lb. Cheddar cheese, grated
- Brown beef in oil; add onions, celery, parsley and bell pepper. Cook until softened. Mix beef broth and gravy mix with water and add to meat mixture. Cook noodles, drain, lightly butter (using 1 tablespoon butter) and toss in sliced olives. Add grated cheese, reserving 1-½ cups for topping. Mix all together and spoon into two 2-quart casseroles. Top with cheese. Bake in 350-degree oven until cheese is melted.

INSUR-MATION

At what age am I able to start receiving benefits from the Individual Retirement Act? Are the earnings taxable? Will I be able to borrow on this account?

Under IRA you may begin to receive benefits at age 59½. If you become disabled, these funds are available at time of disability. The funds are available to beneficiaries at time of death. As with most savings instruments, there are penalties if the funds are withdrawn prior to these three circumstances. The interest earnings are not taxable... you are earning interest which is tax free, as opposed to money in regular savings accounts. You cannot borrow on the account or use the money as security in obtaining a loan. IRA's purpose is to assure your retirement security with money that is well protected and available only in the appropriate circumstances.

bicentennial briefs

Farming was so much a part of the Early American life style that Congress was slow in setting up a standing committee on agriculture.

Commerce and manufacturing were already being served by Congressional committees before the need for one on agriculture was recognized.

One senator from Maine, in fact, questioned whether any issues would arise in agriculture which would call for study by a Congressional committee.

In 1820, the U.S. House of Representatives established a standing committee on agriculture and the Senate followed suit five years later.

A bill establishing a Department of Agriculture was signed by President Abraham Lincoln in 1862 and Isaac Newton was named commissioner of agriculture. Twenty-seven years later, Congress elevated the Department to Cabinet status in recognition of agriculture's importance to the nation's economy.

Generation Gap
American farmers today produce over 40% more crops on 6% fewer acres than their fathers did.

ZIMMATIC

For Rent

You're doing without a Zimmatic center pivot. Saving your hard-earned capital for other improvements. Don't want to borrow right now. But it's costing you money every year you wait. Two ways. First, you're losing the extra crop production you get under irrigation. Second, inflation is at work. Boosting prices, dropping the value of your dollars. Why not rent a Zimmatic under our new lease plan? Let the system pay for itself and put some extra money in the bank for you at the same time. Our rates are reasonable. You can include freight, installation, pump...

other "above ground" items in one flexible package, tailored to your needs. Why wait to irrigate? It's just costing you money. Call us today for details on our new lease plan.

At The Library Book Portrays Human Tragedy

"Freedom At Midnight" by Larry Collins and Dominique Lapierre and "The Greek Treasure" by Irving Stone are the two books being featured this week at Deaf Smith County Library.
"Freedom At Midnight" is a powerful novel in which the authors have re-created the majestic and tumultuous end of an exciting era when 400 million people claimed their freedom from the greatest empire history has ever known only to find that the price of freedom was partition, war, riots, and murder.
"The Greek Treasure" is an unforgettable human story. The reader will relate to Sophia and Henry, the main characters in the book and their dramatic and fascinating life-style.
The library is open free to the public from 9 a.m.-9 p.m. Monday and Thursday; from 9 a.m.-6 p.m. other weekdays and until noon Saturday.

FREEDOM AT MIDNIGHT
By Larry Collins and Dominique Lapierre

Their subject is the eclipse of the British Raj and the birth of an independent India and Pakistan; the violent transformation of that fabled India—the land of maharajas with their palaces, vices, jewels and harems, their gold-capparisoned elephants and their glittering private armies; the India of Kipling's army, with its centuries of legendary heroism, its skirmishes along the Khyber Pass of the Northwest Frontier against the fiercest warriors on the globe, the Pathans, its young British officers commanding troops of the dozen races and religions and castes; the India of tiger hunts and pigsticking, of polo and memsahibs, of dazzling balls and luxurious clubs; the India of astrologers and sadhus, holy men and strange customs; the India that was the heart and soul of an empire—into the new India of Gandhi and Nehru, precursor of the Third World.

Their story begins in London on New Year's Day of 1947, when a black Austin brings to the door of 10 Downing Street the man Prime Minister Clement Attlee had selected for the task of cutting England's ties to her proudest possession, her Indian Raj.

The choice could not have been more ironic. It fell on Lord Louis Mountbatten, the great-grandson of Queen Victoria, the empress in whose name the empire had been assembled. The story ends just over a year later, at Alahabad, India, on Feb. 12, 1948, as a man leans from a small boat to pour into the Ganges, the ashes of India's murdered liberator, Mahatma Gandhi. Between those dates the world had changed.

An age, the Age of Imperialism, had passed and another had begun. An independent India had been born on a day cursed by the stars; the largest Moslem nation in the world, Pakistan, had come in to existence; ten million people had been uprooted and perhaps a million killed in the greatest migration in history.

At the center of their narrative are major figures of a drama; Nehru, the sensitive politician who prepared for greatness as India's prime minister in a British jail; Jinnah, a Moslem who drank, ate pork and rarely entered a mosque, yet who led 45 million Moslems to nationhood, proclaiming "We shall have India divided or India destroyed." Mountbatten drawing up the plans for India's division, predicting as he did so that one day the Indians would "bitterly regret the decision they are about to take." Gandhi, the gentle prophet of a revolution, who stirred the masses of the most populous area on earth without raising his voice, and humbled the British empire by refusing all nourishment except water and bicarbonate of soda.

Weaving together the lives of people great and small, of statesmen, revolutionaries, politicians, ordinary men and women caught up in the triumph and tragedy of a world in upheaval, Collins and Lapierre have illuminated one of the great dramas of our time.

of a nation found utterance at last. They take the reader from the frenzied debates in the imperial grandeur of the Viceroy's palace to villages destroyed by massacres and riots; from the sordid slums of Calcutta to the funeral ghats of the Holy City of Benares; from the palaces of bewildered maharajas to the baking roads on which millions of refugees sought a new destiny; from the garden in which Gandhi pledged a fast unto death to bring his countrymen back to reason to the bazaars in which his assassins searched for the weapons with which to kill him; from Delhi's jubilant celebrations of independence to the cruel awakening of a divided sub-continent.

To this vast and powerfully dramatic subject, the authors have brought those gifts which have already made their previous books bestsellers in almost every country.

Hundreds of interviews including over thirty hours of tape recorded conversations with India's last viceroy, thousands of pages of archive material, much of it never before made public, four years of work and countless miles of travel have culminated in a book as exciting as the event itself, a book which catches the reader up in the passions and the excitement of a great moment in history unfurling in all its detail; a book as romantic, crowded, thrilling, and vast as India herself—Freedom at Midnight."

THE GREEK TREASURE
By Irving Stone

Rarely does the reader find in a novel that delightful joining of a love story, an adventure story and the beginnings of a new and fascinating science; archaeology, all combined in a wide panorama, a monumental tale. Sophia Engastromenos, a classic Greek beauty in the tradition of Phidia's marble sculptures, was 17 years old when an extraordinary fate overtook her.

Henry Schlemann, 47, who had become an American citizen in order to secure a divorce from his Russian wife, wrote to Sophia's relative in Athens, Bishop Vimpos, asking him to find a Greek girl who could be "the hand of God on my shoulder" in his search for the ancient city of Troy and the royal tombs of Mycenae.

Henry Schlemann had made three fortunes, two in Russia, another in the California gold rush. But was he also a fool? Or worse, crazy? He had determined to give the rest of his life to unearthing a Troy which the scholars of the world said did not exist. He knew precisely where Troy was because Homer in "The Iliad" told him where it was. The scholars maintained there never had been a Homer!

He also insisted that he knew where the royal tombs of the Mycenaean civilization were located because Pausanias, in the first guidebook about Greece, A.D. 170, told him so. Yet all of Greece knew that there were no royal tombs at Mycenae. Gold seekers, treasure hunters had been digging on the acropolis there for hundreds of years.

Archaeologists in the universities in 1870 rarely left their libraries. Henry, who had no formal education past his fourteenth year, was determined that he and his wife-to-be would go out with picks, shovels and wheelbarrows and dig down into the earth until they found the cities which had existed as far back as 2000 B.C.

He made it plain that Sophia would excavate with him at the mouth of the Dardanelles in Turkey, and in the southern part of Greece. But what kind of marriage was she letting herself in for? Would she be wasting her one and only life following a man declared by everyone to be sunk deep in fantasy.

The adventures of Henry and Sophia are among the most dramatic and fascinating that ever happened to two human beings. There was constant danger and frustration. Schlemann, despite his tremendous discoveries, was called every ugly word in the 18 languages he spoke and wrote: imposter, thief, fraud, idiot, trouble-maker, wastrel. But he also had defendants, chief among them his wife, Sophia, and Prime Minister William Gladstone of England.

Sophia became a trained archaeologist. She suffered from the blazing sun, the bitter cold, the chilling rain, her husband's impetuous nature, the calumny heaped upon them; but survived to go back to work the next time there was a historic site to be uncovered and great treasures to be taken from the earth.

When crushing graham crackers for use in a recipe, remember that 15 crackers make 1 cup of fine crumbs.

AWARDS: Female Star of the Year Award (National Association of Theater Owners) to Ann-Margret, the award presented at a gala banquet in New Orleans. Robert Frost Memorial Award (California Friends of Robert Frost) to Richard Thomas for exceptional merit in his first published work, "Poems by Richard Thomas." Department of the Army's Certificate of Achievement (Tripler Army Medical Center in Honolulu) to Jack Lord for giving his time and talent to help the hospital's "No Greater Love" program for hospitalized veterans and children of program-an missing or killed in action. Person of the Year Gold Key Award (Avenue of the Americas Association) to Barbara Walters "in recognition of her unique contribution to sustain and develop the cultural and communications image of New York City."

SOAP BOX: So far, NBC this season is the lowest of the three networks in terms of ratings for nighttime shows. But in the field of daytime programming, it has moved strongly into the number one slot. Why? Because of the 60-minute soap opera. Last April, NBC stunned the other two networks by extending "Days of Our Lives" to an hour. Later, and the changes have come with "Another World." And the network has paid off handsomely. "There is more conflict and therefore more dramatic impact," explains NBC's

Success sours for 'Rhoda'

Business is booming for Rhoda's window dressing firm, but out of the sweet smell of success comes a sour smell of hanky panky when Rhoda suspects her partner, Myrna Morganstein, is sales-pitching their clients something other than pretty business windows, on "Rhoda," Monday, Nov. 10 (7:00-7:30 p.m.) on the CBS Television Network. Marty Cohen directed from a script by Linda Bloodworth.

Crushed at the news her window sketching ideas are not the bait that has been pulling in business, Rhoda sets out to prove her creative sketches can ring her cash register on their own merit.

Lin Bolin. "With 3-minute scenes stretched to 10 or 12 minutes, viewers also get to know the characters better." The ratings prove her point, which is why, effective Dec. 1, CBS will expand "As the World Turns" from 30 to 60 minutes. If you can't beat 'em, join 'em.

IDLE CHATTER: These shocking personal items, accidentally sent to us in an unsealed envelope, are bound to cause a lot of flap... Wayne Rogers, formerly of "MASH," admits that his singing before an audience still makes him very nervous, "but it sure starts the old adrenalin running!" (And most of the patrons as well)... Bea Arthur, "Maude," says she doesn't need to count sheep these days because "I'm so tired at night I fall asleep the minute I hit the bed!" (No wonder her husband hates "Maude")... Cameron Mitchell, "Swiss Family Robinson," says that since he began chewing whole garlic cloves all day 10 years ago, he hasn't had a single cold (And not many friends, either).

CONFIDENTIAL: Mark your calendar well. On Wednesday, Dec. 3, NBC will present a program which will be extraordinary for two important reasons: First, it almost certainly represents the furthest possible reach any producer can make in the desperate search for still another kind of detective series. And second, it was made under the peculiar influence of one of the largest egos in show business! This 90-minute movie-pilot is titled "The Art of Crime." It was formerly called "Roman Gray," after a main character who, when he is not solving crimes, is a New York City Gypsy antique dealer. Jill Clayburgh and Jose Ferrer are the guest stars, but it is Ron Lieberman who plays the Roman Gray role. Do you remember Ron? He was in "Sugar Cops" and "Slaughterhouse Five." And if you do not remember him, be sure you never let him know it. According to two members of the crew who shot "The Art of Crime" on the streets of New York, Ron has an ego considerably larger than his talent. Early in the shooting, Lieberman began to get jealous of the treatment afforded Ferrer, so when he noticed that members of the crew were all calling Jose "Mr. Ferrer" while calling Lieberman "Ron," the actor became so incensed that he demanded everyone refer to him as "Mr. Lieberman." All of those present went along with the request—with one exception: Ferrer. When Lieberman pointedly demanded that Jose call him "Mister," Ferrer responded with a suggestion which broke up the crew but is best left out of print.

rating as well as last season? C.Y.H., Boston Mass. A. Yes. Even better. Ratings for 'Major' are the highest in its history. Sellers like it, the show is not only out-rating NBC's cancelled "Family Hotel" but CBS's "Cher" as well! At this rate, Lee may actually end up being worth six million dollars to ABC.

PERFECT HARMONY? Q. Is Lawrence Welk as calm and even-tempered as he seems on TV? W.O. Bangor, Me. A. No. TV's most famous headliner has quite a temper. Says wife, Fern, "If Lawrence feels his trust has been betrayed, he can get into a towering rage. He believes his temper is his worst fault and if he's one he has always worked the hardest to overcome."

TALL DARK AND HANDSOME Q. I loved Dr. Kiley (James Brolin) getting married on "Marcus Welby." Is he married in real life? E.M., Baltimore, Md. A. Yes. James Brolin is married to the former Jane Cameron Agee. They have two children, Josh, 7, and Jess, 3. Apparently the 6', green-eyed Brolin made quite a few hearts flutter when, as Dr. Kiley, he was married Oct. 21. Odds are, he will flutter many more as Clark Gable in "Lombard and Gable."

SILLY FILLY Q. Is Goldie Hawn as light-headed as she seems on screen? J.S., Little Rock, Ark. A. No. "I know I sometimes seem silly on the surface," admits Goldie, "but I'm not really. It's true I like to laugh. I think it's healthy. But the real inner me is a serious person. For example, I hope one day to have a chance to work with young people to help them live up to their potential."

NOT SORED—HOT MAMA Q. I don't like "That's My Mama." Is the show really popular? D.M., Ft. Worth, Tex. A. Yes. But mostly with black viewers. According to Nielsen rating figures, the show ranks number three in popularity with blacks but a low 37th with whites. This is not the usual situation with successful series that star black actors. For example, "Sanford and Son" ranks number 2 with both blacks and whites.

Obviously, "That's My Mama" would not still be on the air if it did not have an unusually strong pull for black viewers.

OLD HAND OR NEW Q. Was "The Waitrons" the first dramatic role for Richard Thomas? L.R., Sioux City, Iowa. A. No. Richard appeared in several excellent roles before he began playing John-Boy. In fact, although he is only 24 years old, the newly married Thomas has been in show business for 18 years! He made his first appearance at age 6 in the Broadway production of "Sunrise at Campobello."

MONEY MACHINE Q. Is Lee Majors' series, "Six Million Dollar Man,"

rating as well as last season? C.Y.H., Boston Mass. A. Yes. Even better. Ratings for 'Major' are the highest in its history. Sellers like it, the show is not only out-rating NBC's cancelled "Family Hotel" but CBS's "Cher" as well! At this rate, Lee may actually end up being worth six million dollars to ABC.

PERFECT HARMONY? Q. Is Lawrence Welk as calm and even-tempered as he seems on TV? W.O. Bangor, Me. A. No. TV's most famous headliner has quite a temper. Says wife, Fern, "If Lawrence feels his trust has been betrayed, he can get into a towering rage. He believes his temper is his worst fault and if he's one he has always worked the hardest to overcome."

"Walking Tall"

"Walking Tall," the "steep" film about the crime-busting crusade of Southern sheriff Buford Pusser, which earned a theatrical gross of more than $50 million and became one of the top 15 movies of all time, returns to television as the ABC Television Network's "The ABC Sunday Night Movie," Nov. 9 (8:00-10:15 p.m.). (Rebroadcast.)

Joe Don Baker stars as the now-deceased lawman, whose refusal to surrender to the system first brought him to national attention in 1968, when a television news report recounted the true story of his fight against corruption, a fight that led him to an ambush in which his face was almost destroyed and his wife murdered.

Elizabeth Hartman is also starred, as Pusser's wife, and Rosmary Murphy is starred as Callie Hacker, a vicious woman operating a crooked gambling den. Washington Post critic Gary Arnold said, "You'll never forget it... a powerhouse... emotionally charged from beginning to end," and Newsweek called the movie "a fast-paced slick piece of action entertainment."

The story follows a Pusser from the day he returns to his Tennessee home after a tour as a wrestler. When he spots a crooked dice thrower at a syndicate-owned gambling joint he breaks up the place and winds up broken himself—left to die in a ravine.

After 200 stitches place him back together, Pusser wreaks the hamstringing operation, wins a jury trial when he is charged with assault, and starts a successful campaign for sheriff.

After his election, his incorruptible police-as-law enforcer leads to a confrontation his principles would not allow him to dodge.

(Buford Pusser was killed in an automobile accident in 1974).

"Walking Tall," Phil Karlson directed film which was distributed by Cinerama releasing.

Other in the Cast:
Sheriff Al Turman Gene Evans
