Unemployment rate fell in November

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's civilian unemployment rate fell one-tenth of a percentage point to 7 percent in November, the Labor Department reported today, matching the record low rate of Ronald Reagan's presidency.

Payroll employment rose 180,000 in November, and the U.S. economy has now created 10 million new jobs in the three years of recovery since the depths of the last recession.

Manufacturing employment, considered by analysts to be one of the keys to continued economic growth, rose by 30,000 in November. It was only the third increase in factory job growth in the past 11 months.

Unemployment fell by 151,000 people as the total number of jobless in the United States fell to just over 8.1 million in November, the department said.

The 7 percent figure matches the rate reached in August of this year. Unemployment in October was 7.1 percent.

Despite the improvement, the department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said the decline was relatively insignificant, and noted that the unemployment rate was only slightly below the level of a year ago.

Civilian joblessness in November 1984 was 7.1 percent.

Retail stores did not do as much pre-Christmas hiring as expected, as employment in retail trade actually declined by 37,000.

The cautious hiring by retailers and other employers may have reflected uncertainty due to a record high debt burden being carried by American consumers, who cut purchases sharply in October to send personal spending into its biggest tailspin in 25 years.

Joblessness rose last month among blacks by 0.9 percentage points to 15.9 percent.

Teen-age joblessness fell 1.7 percentage points to 18.4 percent. But black male teen-age unemployment rose 5 percentage points to 46.1 percent.

According to a survey of households, civilian employment rose by only 60,000 as the size of the labor force declined by more than 90,000 people.

Nonetheless, there were strong job gains in the service-producing sector of the economy, including 121,000 new jobs in business and health services.

Jobs gains in services totaled 154,000.

On the manufacturing side, "I think it is important to note ... that no further factory job loss has occurred in the last two months," Janet L. Norwood, commissioner of statistics, told a joint congressional committee in a prepared statement.

State joblessness down to 6.9 percent

DALLAS (AP) — Texas' unemployment rate dropped to 6.9 percent for November, bringing the state's level of joblessness back in line with the national rate of 7 percent, federal labor officials said today.

The state percentage of unemployed fell dramatically from 8.1 percent in October, but a labor statistics official warned against putting too much emphasis on month-to-month figures. He called last month's 8.1 percent figure "an aberration."

"You cannot analyze with certainty any kind of statistical figures from month to month. You have to look at trends," said Bryan Richey, southwest regional commissioner for the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The November figure of 6.9 percent is still 1.2 percent higher than the unemployment level for November of 1984, and Richey said Texas continues to have "widespread relative weakness in the state's economy."

The job growth in Texas has "not kept pace," he said with the steady growth experienced nationwide. Statewide, only 16,000 new jobs have been added during 1985, Richey said.

In Texas, he said, "Manufacturing is doing nothing, and the weakness is very widespread. Obviously a lot of it is linked to oil and gas, but there have been widespread layoffs in electronics."

He said Texas seems to be stuck around the 7 percent level, just as the rest of the country has been for most of this year.

The new monthly figures show the number of unemployed in the state totaled 549,000, down from 645,000 in October. There were 452,000 out of work in November of 1984, Richey said.

TEA reports 91 percent of state's juniors passed language portion of test

AUSTIN (AP) — Ninety-one percent of state's 11th-graders passed the English portion of the new high school graduation test, the Texas Education Agency reported today.

Eighty-eight percent of the 191,000 students who took the exam in October passed the mathematics portion. The results surpassed the expectations of state education officials.

Beginning with the class of 1987, students must pass both parts of the exam to get a high school diploma. The requirement is part of the 1984 education reform package approved by state lawmakers.

State education officials had predicted a 25 percent failure rate. Although figures were not available on how many students passed both portions, the 91 percent and 88 percent pass rate indicated a strong showing overall.

"But we can't look at this test and say we're doing a great job in education," said Jon Brumley of Fort Worth, chairman of the State Board of Education.

The TEA staff presented the results to the board today.

"We are extremely pleased with these initial results, especially in light of our prediction that 25 percent would fail," said W.N. Kirby, state education commissioner.

High school juniors who failed either portion will have three more chances before graduation. A 70 per-

Honored By Realtors

The Hereford Board of Realtors held its annual installation banquet Thursday night with Marn Tyler, left, being named as the new president and Betty Gilbert, right, selected as the "Realtor of the Year." About 90 persons attended the banquet at Hereford Country Club. Paul A. Phibbs of California was guest speaker for the event.

Betty Gilbert honored as 'Realtor of Year'

Betty Gilbert was honored as "Realtor of the Year" during the installation banquet of the Hereford Board of Realtors Thursday night at Hereford Country Club.

Mrs. Gilbert, 1985 board president, was cited for "activities that presented her as a role model" in the real estate business. The plaque presentation was made by director Carol Sue LeGate.

Marn Tyler was installed as the board's new president for 1986. Other officers include Charlie Hill, vice president; Carolyn Maupin, secretary-treasurer; and directors Kay Cotten, Glenn Phibbs and Carol LeGate.

After accepting the president's gavel, Mrs. Tyler said, "It is truly an honor to be selected as president. My goal for '86 is to have the best Board of Realtors we've ever had. With the support of this wonderful group of Realtors, I know we can accomplish this goal."

Paul A. Phibbs, who heads a consultant firm in Dublin, Calif., was guest speaker for the event. He conducts seminars and workshops for trade and professional associations and serves as a keynote speaker for banquets. He is the brother of Glenn Phibbs of Hereford.

The importance of setting goals was the topic for Phibbs' address. "Everyone wants progress but no one defines it," said Phibbs. "I believe progress comes from clearly defined goals."

Phibbs told his audience that too many people are afraid of goals.

Britain signs research pact with U.S.

LONDON (AP) — Britain signed an agreement with the United States today to participate in research on President Reagan's controversial "Star Wars" space-based missile defense program.

The agreement was signed by U.S. Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger and British Defense Secretary Michael Heseltine, who appeared at a joint news conference at the British Defense Ministry.

Weinberger said British participation in the program, formally known as the Strategic Defense Initiative offered a significant opportunity to expand the frontiers of scientific research.

"I am particularly pleased that the first of these agreements can be signed with the United Kingdom because I think that emphasizes both the closeness of our alliance and the special nature of our relationship which is a very vital thing, I think, to both our countries," he said.

Heseltine said the agreement offered "a very significant opportunity for British industry and for British research capability to be associated with a major and exciting program at the frontiers of human capabilities in many of the technologies of tomorrow."

Police slow to respond

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — The 2½-hours it took for police to respond to an emergency call from a woman bound and handcuffed to her bed "could have led to tragic circumstances," Police Chief William Banner said.

Rosandra Rene Williams, a Nueces County correctional officer, said she managed to dial the 911 emergency number after an intruder broke into her home, but said she waited 2½ hours for the police to arrive.

The delayed response was "a human failing that could have led to tragic circumstances," Banner said.

Banner announced Thursday that a police lieutenant would be suspended for two days without pay and two dispatchers would receive written reprimands about carelessness.

He declined to identify the officers.

Ms. Williams told police a man entered her apartment about 5 a.m. Saturday, handcuffed her to her bed, taped her mouth and taped her feet together.

Ms. Williams, 20, told the Corpus Christi Caller-Times she called the 911 emergency number about 6 a.m. but a police patrol unit did not respond until 8:46 a.m.

$7 million car deal sealed

CARROLLTON, Texas (AP) — Robert Roethlisberger gazed over a sea of metal-flaked seafoam, flames and fantasy before nodding decisively and murmuring, "Looks good."

And then one by one, the 85 Rolls-Royces that had been trucked 2,000 miles from Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh's defunct central Oregon commune rolled off the auto carriers and into Roethlisberger's Dallas-area car dealership Thursday.

Lured by curiosity and a fascination for the Indian guru's connection to the immense fleet of luxury automobiles, Roethlisberger traveled to Rajneeshpuram last week to seal a $7 million deal for the cars.

Former mental patient sentenced

SHERMAN, Texas (AP) — A former mental patient has been sentenced to 60 years in prison for killing a woman with a shotgun blast of fishing weights in belief she had cast a voodoo spell on him.

A seven-man, five-woman jury rejected David Joe Benson's insanity plea and deliberated three hours Thursday before returning the guilty verdict against the 24-year-old drifter from Marshall.

Benson was convicted in the death of Sueann Chapin, 50, of Sherman. Mrs. Chapin, the wife of a former Sherman city councilman, was shot in the back of the head on Oct. 17, 1984, while strolling along the Red River, east of the Denison Dam. She died Jan. 25.

Benson was arrested near the scene in a park area just east of Denison Dam a short time after the shooting. He did not know Mrs. Chapin, and apparently fired at her in a random act climaxing years of mental anguish, according to testimony.

Death threat might reduce violence

AUSTIN (AP) — While nearly two-thirds of Texas prison inmates favor the death penalty for some crimes, they aren't convinced that executions deter crime, says a survey conducted by the inmates' newspaper.

Only about one in four prisoners believes the death penalty generally deters criminals, the survey found.

But a slim majority of the inmates who responded said a death penalty threat for prison murders might help reduce the violence behind the walls of the Texas Department of Corrections system.

The Echo newspaper, published at Huntsville for state prison inmates, recently asked its inmate-readers to send in responses to questions about the death penalty. The results of the unscientific sampling were published in its latest edition.

Award is message to media

CHICAGO (AP) — A $5.05 million libel award to the manufacturers of Viceroy cigarettes against CBS Inc. and a news commentator will tell the media they "cannot trample over people's good names," a tobacco company official says.

But Walter Jacobson, the commentator whose broadcast prompted the lawsuit said Thursday's award to Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corp. shows the cigarette industry "will stop at nothing to stop us from telling the facts."

"It's a sweet victory," said Ernest Peeples, senior vice president and general counsel for Brown & Williamson after the award. "I think it benefits the press as well. Because they know that if somebody strays out of bounds... they are responsible."

"The press cannot trample over people's good names without having to answer now and then."

The U.S. District Court jury deliberated about an hour and 45 minutes before levying the damages against Walter Jacobson, a commentator on WBBM-TV, and CBS Inc., which owns the station.

On Nov. 26 ruling, the jury found that Jacobson libeled Brown & Williamson in a 1981 commentary in which he said the cigarette maker was trying to lure children with advertising equating smoking with alcohol, sex and drugs.

Nicaragua recalls ambassador

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — The Sandinista government claimed Thursday that a surface-to-air missile supplied to rebels by the United States brought down an air force helicopter, and recalled its ambassador from Washington for consultations.

Victor Hugo Tinoco, the acting foreign minister, said the government sent protest notes to the United States and Honduras and asked for an urgent meeting of the U.N. Security Council.

The helicopter crashed near the Honduran border Monday.

Nicaragua's ambassador to the United States, Carlos Tunnerman, was recalled to Managua to discuss "this delicate situation," Tinoco said.

Fourteen soldiers aboard the helicopter were killed.

Aquino may be only Marcos opponent

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Opposition leaders say the two leading candidates to challenge President Ferdinand E. Marcos in a special election have agreed on a united ticket, and indications were that Corason Aquino would run for president.

Salvador Laurel, a former senator who also announced his candidacy for president, apparently would be the opposition's vice presidential candidate in the Feb. 7 election.

Laurel said Thursday that he and Mrs. Aquino would announce Sunday "the official candidate of the united opposition." Opposition unity behind a single candidate is considered crucial to any hopes of defeating Marcos, who has been in office for 20 years.

Eddie Derr of Walcott has been elected chairman of the newly organized Rural Community Fire Protection Advisory Council at its first formal business meeting in Lufkin last month, it was announced by Bruce R. Miles, Director of the Texas Forest Service.

The 13-member council, formed to advise the Texas Forest Service concerning its state fire protection programs, had earlier held two orientation meetings in August and October.

Derr is superintendent of the Walcott Independent School District and is a member of the Walcott Volunteer Fire Department

Following the Nov. 16 meeting, Derr stated, "Being a fireman in far West Texas, I am very familiar with the Texas Forest Service's assistance in providing both equipment and training in groundcover fire suppression to fire departments all over the state. What I did not know much about were other TFS programs, many of which are carried on in the forest region of East Texas.

"I, and other members of the council, are duly impressed with such examples as their reforestation program including not only tree planting, but with their two nurseries capacity to grow more than 20 million tree seedlings a year, and their Forest Products Lab, the only one like it in the South."

In commenting on the new council's first working session, Pat Ebarb, head of the TFS Fire Control Department, said: "The talent and enthusiasm of the members of this group and the work they have set out to accomplish has already exceeded my high expectations."

Ebarb said some of the areas the council has elected to work on, include:

-Legislative impact: creation of a system of educating legislators and their staffs concerning TFS programs.

-WEPS training: additional training on use of the Water Expansion

Pump System, which was invented and developed by TFS personnel and works by combining compressed air with water and a sudsing agent to expand the suppression ability of plain water by ten times.

-Centralized Purchasing: creating a system whereby large quantities of a few basic fire suppressant items, such as helmets, boots, hoses and bunker gear, could be purchased and then resold at discounts to rural fire departments.

-Public Fire Education: creating a system to assist schools and volunteers in presenting fire safety educational programs.

Derr said the council plans to meet at least quarterly and set the next meeting for February 14-15, 1986. Time and location will be announced later.

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor:

I am a member of the minority who has often wondered just what it would take to get a response from the citizens of this town in mass concerning the various outrages we have put up with during the last few years. I believe the situation involving the student dissidents at Stanton Junior High School should be the one thing that we cannot tolerate in this community. It is evil to play on the emotional instability of children to gain publicity or notoriety for causes probably related to creating more trouble for the public institutions here. Perhaps there are some things wrong at the school that need to be corrected, but not in this manner. Children should not be taught in the United States of America that the right way to reach a goal is to defy all rules of behavior and to show their disrespect for authority so blatantly.

I work in personnel management, and a great number of the applications received are from young people who quit school in junior high to get married or for some other reason. They are paying a high price now for not completing their basic educations.

Education in this country is offered for everyone, and sometimes the school situation is not ideal, but the opportunity is there without much restriction other than regular attendance, the respect for rules necessary to the function of any educational institution, and the desire to obtain the best education possible for what is available.

If the forces behind this picketing honestly want to help these children, they might instead instill the desire for education and stress that most of us have to put up with a few things that aren't right in order to reach a much greater goal.

Looking for blame for the shortcomings that we all have to some degree and finding it in someone or some thing outside ourselves, is a cop-out, young people. Remember that, and if you are truly wronged in some way, take your parent, make an appointment with the proper school official and I feel that you will accomplish much more.

You are being used, and I would resent that from anyone who probably doesn't care for you personally. If I were your parent, I would see that the forces behind this harmful situation are told in no uncertain terms that they had better leave my children alone.

Sincerely,
Rachel Ireland Henslee

Trees plentiful

AUSTIN (AP) — More than 300,000 Texas-grown Christmas trees will be available this year, an increase of approximately 100,000 from last year, State Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower said Wednesday.

"Because these trees grow right here in Texas, close to the people who buy them, they're truly fresh, and they're cheaper than an 'imported' variety," Hightower said.

He said Texas has more than 60 commercial Christmas tree growers, who offer two varieties — the Virginia and the Eldarica pine.

Israel has expressed interest and West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl has promised a Cabinet decision by Christmas. But France, Norway, Denmark and Australia have refused to participate.

The United States and Britain had been negotiating the accord for several months. Britain had pressed for a definite commitment from the United States for substantial research contracts as part of the $26 billion U.S. program.

UNEMPLOYMENT

The nation's foreign trade deficit was $11.5 billion in November after hitting a record $15.5 billion in September. Factory job losses so far this year are about 300,000.

The Labor Department reported these jobless rates among various population groups:

- Adult men, 6 percent, unchanged from October.
- Adult women, 6.4, unchanged.
- Teen-agers, 18.4, down 1.7 from 20.1.
- Whites, 5.9, down 0.2 from 6.1.
- Hispanics, 10.7 percent, down 0.6 from 11.3.

percent to 100 percent of juniors passing the test.

"I think it shows that students can do the work if they are motivated," said Linus Wright, superintendent of the Dallas school district. "They realized this was a serious test and they responded."

Dallas saw about 80 percent of the students taking the test pass the math portion, and about 83 percent pass the language arts portion.

In the affluent Highland Park district, 100 percent of the students who took the test passed both parts.

Amarillo reported 92 percent on the language arts, and 90 percent on math. In El Paso, 89 percent of the juniors passed the math portion and 90 percent the language arts portion.

In Port Arthur, 79 percent of the juniors taking the mathematics portion of the test passed, and 80 percent mastered the language arts section.

San Antonio reported that only one of eight school districts fell below the predicted 75 percent.

"We wanted the students to realize that this test was important and we're happy," said Harlandale Superintendent Yvonne Katz.

Keith Cruse, director of the Texas Education Agency-administered tests, attributed higher-than-expected scores to school district's preparation of students — cram courses ranging from distribution of sample tests to tutoring.

But some administrators and students said the high marks came because the test was too simple.

"I don't think it was anything that any 11th grade student couldn't do," said Reggie Farmer, a Bay City high school student, after taking the test in October.

"What do they think we are — total morons?" echoed Mike Oates, also of Bay City.

The overall unemployment rate, combining the 1.7 million members of the armed forces with the civilian job force, declined to 6.9 percent in November, down one-tenth of a percentage point from October.

"It's hard to see an end to the declines in manufacturing employment," said Allen Sinai, chief economist at Shearson Lehman Brothers Inc. "The pressure is still on." Manufacturing employment declined in eight of the first 10 months of the year.

By the end of 1985, more than 10 million new jobs will have been created in the current economic recovery, nearly 80 percent of them in the service sector.

Mediocre economic growth has kept joblessness from moving lower this year, and many economists predict slow growth will continue through the first half of 1986 before showing some improvement. The main reason is the sagging manufacturing sector, which now accounts for just one of every five U.S. jobs.

The gross national product rose at an annual rate of 1.1 percent for the first six months of the year, while picking up to 4.3 percent in the third quarter.

Easy, fun sewing projects let children create gifts

In a few weeks, children will be out of school for the holidays, their energy boosted by seasonal spirit. A good way to channel that enthusiasm is to inspire them to create something—ornaments, small gifts, home decorations—by sewing.

Children are fascinated by a sewing machine. With supervision, even a 6-year-old can use it successfully. Kids love to handle and cut colorful fabrics, especially holiday fabrics with a glittery sheen.

"Choose simple projects that will provide good results fast," says Becky Williams, education director at White Sewing Machine Company. "Children need quick gratification. Encourage them to present what they've made, as gifts to relatives or friends, to foster pride in their work. Children love the attention they get with successful sewing projects."

Keep a few tips in mind as your child gets started, Williams advises. Make sure all the equipment is working—the machine is stitching smoothly, the scissors cut cleanly, the needle sharp - or you'll create nothing but frustration. Provide a few fabric selections, and let your child choose. Don't overwhelm the child by turning him or her loose in a fabric store, only to have you veto a bad choice.

"Even very young children will delight in the different choices of texture, pattern, and color," Williams says. "You can foster creativity even in 4-year-olds by including them in the final selection process for fabric for their own clothes when you sew." Show children the correct way to operate the machine, and encourage them to practice on scraps. Make sure they understand the instructions, and then stand back.

"Be available, to supervise and answer questions, but don't hover over your child, directing every move," Williams says. "Children will enjoy creating something themselves. Let them."

FOR THE TREE

A colorful fabric ornament makes a quick and pretty gift. A child can also hang these in a doorway or window, to enjoy the family's admiration.

Start by helping your child choose fabric. In a fabric store, point out a few calicos and small prints, in coordinating colors, for a set of charming country ornaments. For a more sophisticated look, pull a few bolts of December's party fabrics, such as gold, silver, red, or green lame. Don't overlook Christmas fabrics, printed with holly, Santas, elves, or perky teddy bears.

If you have a collection of scrap fabrics, this step can take place at home, cutting the cost of these ornaments to almost nothing.

LIFE IN THE COLONIES

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — New Englanders in colonial America tended to live longer than either Europeans or settlers in the Southern colonies, according to John J. Waters, a University of Rochester history professor.

Waters says he studied demographic information contained in property ownership records from East Guilford, Conn., and found that on the average, men or women lived to the age of 64.

Some 93 percent of the town's residents married, and produced an average of six children, four of whom survived into adulthood. In fact, says Waters, if men and women reached adulthood and chances were good that they would live to know their grandchildren.

First, cut a 10-inch square of fabric. Finish the edge with an overcast or zigzag stitch (in contrasting thread, perhaps), stitch lace to the edges of the country fabric ornaments, or attach a shiny trim to the lame.

Draw the square up around a styrofoam ball; a ball 3 inches in diameter works with a 10-inch square of fabric. Finish the ornament with a tightly knotted bow of lace or trim, with a loop for hanging.

If your child has overcast the edges, fashion a same-fabric ribbon by overcasting a narrow strip of fabric.

"With close supervision, an older child can create ribbons very quickly by seaming, overcasting, and trimming. This can be done all in one operation with a serger," Williams says. "A child or teen can create a whole wardrobe of hair ribbons in a few minutes this way."

BATH MITTS

Fun, terry bath mitts can be created by a single child, or made on a family "assembly line" with children of different ages completing different steps.

The child starts by tracing a "mitt" on paper around his or her hand, and then enlarging it by 2 or 3 inches all the way around, Williams says. Pin the pattern to a double layer of terry and cut. Overcast or zigzag the edges. With right sides together, stitch all sides except the wrist edge. On an assembly line, this could be the oldest child's task.

Children can decorate their personal bath mitts with fabric paints, creating their own design, or filling in the block letters of their names, outlined by an adult. Williams suggests that the painted design adorn only the mitt edges, to leave the mitt's terry washing surface soft.

YARDSTICK HOLDER

A yardstick holder makes a surprisingly handy gift for use in a kitchen or utility room. Almost any medium-weight fabric will work, but a colorful burlap gives your child a chance to fringe the edges for a finish.

Start with a double layer of fabric, cutting a strip 5 inches wide by 36 inches long. Fold 2 inches of the top layer down. With wrong sides together, pin the layers and stitch the long ends and the bottom of the holder, leaving an inch seam allowance all around.

On the top layer of burlap only, unravel four or five threads from the fabric's edge, leaving a fringe. To make a "hanger," stitch a loop of seam binding or strong trim at the top.

Children can decorate the yardstick holder with glued-on cutouts of vegetables, animals, alphabet letters, or their own designs.

HOLIDAY PLACEMATS

"Part of what children love about the holidays are the decorations at home and the special feeling it gives the celebration," Williams says. "Decorating the house is as much fun as enjoying the festive look later."

"Let children get involved in the preparations. Take advantage of their creativity; children's work is especially appropriate at this season."

Start the holiday placemats by cutting 12-by-16 inch squares of brightly colored felt. An older child can cut three placemats at once.

Using a coordinated print, in a medium-or light-weight fabric, trace big balloon letters right on the fabric, letting your child cut them out. Pin the letters, forming the names of family members, in the upper left corner. Attach the letters to the placemat, using a zigzag stitch around the edges.

Younger children, instead of making their names, can trace holiday cookie cutters onto the print fabric, giving them easier shapes to handle.

"Let children catch your enthusiasm for sewing," Williams says. "Enjoy their efforts, and keep 'mistakes' in perspective. Most errors on these projects can be fixed with a little trim, applique and imagination."

By using animals, signs of nature

Forester predicts hard winter

LUFKIN, Texas (AP) — The signs are all there, says G. W. Valentine — Lufkin is in for a cold, wet winter, possibly as severe as the winter of 1983, if not worse.

Valentine, a forester whose hobby is predicting the weather by using animals and other signs of nature, was taught the skill 51 years ago by an uncle with more than 120 years of experience in his family. He was 94, an Indian, and very alert, Valentine said, and was known as the weatherman among the people in Cherokee County.

In 1934, the old Indian, who himself had been forecasting for 64 years, started showing Valentine the signs — how the squirrels build their nests closer to the ground when a cold winter is coming and the moss on trees "knots up."

"The squirrels will leave the hardwoods and get into the pines for more cover," Valentine said. He also said the animals' fur will be darker and thicker.

Valentine makes most of his predictions about the winter months based on what he sees in August and September.

"Anything that happens after Oct. 1 is not going to tell you much about your winter months," Valentine said.

But when you see leaves curling in the middle of August and crickets and other bugs starting to seek indoor shelter in September, you know it's going to be cold, he said.

"God has given them a sixth sense to take care of themselves," Valentine said. "They are not born in this world just to die."

American Indians were the first weather forecasters, he said, and "percentage-wise, they are better than the National Weather Bureau."

But people nowadays just aren't interested in perpetuating the art. Valentine said most of the oldtimers who did it for years are now dead and his own children do not share his fascination for forecasting.

Some other weather indicators are tree bark, corn shucks, and veins in the leaves of trees.

"Sycamores can tell you a whole lot," Valentine said. "They will put on an extra slough of bark when it's going to be cold." The color of the bark is also a sign, he said.

He said corn shucks will be thicker and twisted tighter on the ears and leaves on trees in open areas will have thicker veins than sheltered trees to prepare for cold temperatures.

Wasps, snakes and birds also behave distinctively, he said, when a hard winter is approaching.

Valentine doesn't claim to be able to predict whether it's going to be sunny or rain from one day to the next. Most of his forecasts are seasonal and he said he usually can't tell much about the summer.

But he believes his 50 years in the forest observing Mother Nature have left him sensitive to signs most people don't recognize.

"My profession in the forest has taught me much," Valentine said. "I am very thankful I have been allowed to be so close to nature. I am a firm believer the Lord takes care of his own."

"Therefore, I am also a strong believer in the signs handed down from our creator to help those that are not as fortunate as we in having TV, radios and newspapers."

Valentine said the old signs, however, may lose their validity as the sun's penetration of the earth's carbon dioxide layer traps heat radiation and prevents its dissipation into space. He believes it will affect the environment by creating more heat so the signs themselves may change.

"Time will tell," he said.

Ann Landers

'A Birthday'

DEAR ANN LANDERS: It would mean a great deal to me to have this poem printed in December. The child we adopted will celebrate a first birthday then.

Amidst the joy and preparation of adoptive parents, people have a tendency to forget the heartache that was suffered by the birth mother when she parted with her child.

This poem is a reminder to all adoptive parents everywhere that a very big price was paid by a selfless woman who gave up her precious baby so he or she could have a better life.—PLEASE NO NAME OR STATE, JUST GRATEFUL A BIRTHDAY

It's my child's birthday He just went dashing by His eyes are sparkling with the excitement meant only for today.

Present, kisses, hugs, cake, ice cream It all seems so natural. It's a day of looking back and looking forward.

It's my child's birthday But there is something different happening inside me. This should be a day of complete joy

A day for thanksgiving But in the midst of all this excitement

I pause because my thoughts are about someone else for a time.

It's my child's birthday I have no memories of his life growing inside me and fighting to be released

Another someone was there Another someone suffered for my joy.

It's my child's birthday But someone somewhere is feeling emptiness inside.

I'm sure she is wondering Who he looks like If he is big or small. Wondering if he laughs much.

It's my child's birthday And in the midst of this blessed day that was given to me I have a prayer.

Oh, God, that I may never forget that someone suffered so much to give life to my child. That someone loved my child so very much that she gave him the right to live. May I never forget for a moment and especially now, today, to offer a prayer of thanks for that someone, and that you, dear God, will always be there for that someone to help her through the hurts she will have when she stops to think that today is "my child's birthday." Amen.

DR. GOTT

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

Dietitian may find an answer

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am 64, obese, diabetic, arthritic, have gallstones and take Feldene, Diabinese, Chenix and Cytomel. Because of the gallstones, I can't eat cabbage and related foods. You know what I, as a diabetic, can't eat. I am allergic to yeast, rice, meat, fish and many condiments and spices. Because I take Chenix, I'm supposed to avoid members of the nightshade family (such as potatoes, eggplant and tomatoes). I was doing fairly well, but now, since discovering that I have food allergies, I can't figure out what to eat and am all messed up. What do you advise?

DEAR READER — Your dietary problems are so complicated that I'm not surprised at your confusion about where to turn next. I think the best person to sort out the situation is a licensed dietitian. See if there is such a person in your local hospital. If not, try the dietitians in a larger hospital.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I saw on TV a new procedure for emphysema patients where they make an incision in the trachea and insert a tube so oxygen goes right into the lungs. Would this help a person who is in the final stages of the disease?

DEAR READER — Perhaps. But it is quite drastic, even the most severely handicapped emphysema patient can usually be helped by supplemental oxygen delivered by a machine (or tank) through a tube leading to the nose. The technique you describe is more suited to acute respiratory insufficiency in a hospital setting — or, of course, to television.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My friend's husband has developed a brain tumor, and the doctor suggests immediate surgery to remove it. He also said that his left side will be paralyzed. I'd like to know the danger of having this surgery and what results one can expect. What is the difference between a brain tumor and a brain hemorrhage?

DEAR READER — A neurosurgeon who is familiar with your friend's husband's case is the only person who can (and should) provide the information you seek. Each patient with a brain tumor must be evaluated individually; generalizations are not appropriate. Tumors come in variety of sizes and shapes; they may be malignant or benign. They usually cause trouble by pressing on vital nerve tissue or by causing an increasing pressure within the skull. A brain hemorrhage can also cause pressure, but the blood clot from brain bleeding can ordinarily be removed more easily (and through a smaller incision) than can a tumor.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I have had a bacterial ear infection for two months. I've gone to two ear specialists and have been treated with antibiotics and antihistamines. Now I'm being treated with sulfa drugs, but the infection is not clearing up. There is fluid behind the eardrum. What can be done to get rid of the infection?

DEAR READER — Many ear specialists (otolaryngologists) would choose, at this point in your illness, to remove the fluid and infection. This can be accomplished quite simply by introducing a small tube through the eardrum and vacuuming out the middle-ear chamber. If you have had repeated ear infections, the specialist might — at the time of surgery — place tiny plastic vents through the drum to permit continued drainage of infected material. The pressure-equalizing (PE) tubes also prevent painful pressure buildup behind the eardrum, thereby making you more comfortable and protecting the hearing mechanism from further damage.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My problem is a sluggish bowel. There's just no "oomph," as if nobody's home — no gas, no gurgling. Enemas and suppositories don't help. The only time I've had regular comfortable movements in the last three years is when I was on an antibiotic. When the medicine stopped, so did my bowels. I'm on medicine for high blood pressure and have had some abnormal bleeding. What ideas do you have about this? This is not the sort of problem TV shows are made about.

DEAR READER — Your unpleasant problem may be the result of intestinal hypomotility — a sluggish bowel. But I'm more intrigued by the possibility that the disorder may be the direct result of the high-blood-pressure medicine you are taking. Ask your doctor about this and request that he refer you to a gastroenterologist for definitive evaluation.

Christmas Musicales scheduled

The public is invited to attend a Christmas Musicale at 2 p.m. Sunday at the Dawn Baptist Church. A love gift offering will be taken for the benefit of the Dawn Community Association.

Ruby Wimberley will serve as organist-accompanist and Arless Stewart, pianist-vocalist. Hazel Stewart is the music director and chimes will be played by Pam Wilson.

Escorting guests will be Kari Smith and Jeri Ann Parker.

MOOSE ON THE MOVE

THUNDER BAY, Ont. (AP) — Lake Superior blocks a natural migration of moose from Canada's Algonquin Park in Ontario to Michigan's Upper Peninsula.

Now, U.S. and Canadian wildlife officials have arranged a trade that will repopulate the area with moose for the first time since post-Civil War timber operations drove them out.

The trade involves 150 wild turkeys from Michigan for 30 adult moose from Canada.

Heisman trophy to be awarded

NEW YORK (AP) — The stranglehold which running backs held on the Heisman Trophy was loosened last year when Boston College quarterback Doug Flutie took the prize. This year, the runners figure to get their hands back on the award, courtesy of Bo Jackson.

Jackson, Auburn's stellar tailback, is the favorite to collect the Heisman on Saturday. The Downtown Athletic Club presents the trophy every year to "the nation's outstanding college football player." Since no interior lineman or defensive specialist has won it, and receivers rarely get any consideration, quarterbacks and running backs really are the only ones in consideration.

Jackson is the frontrunner thanks to a quick start in which he rushed for 1,233 yards and 11 touchdowns in six games. He was slowed by injuries, removing himself from losses against Tennessee and Florida with leg problems. But he finished the season in style with a 142-yard game against Alabama despite playing with broken ribs.

For the year, Jackson ran for 1,786 yards on 278 carries (a 6.4 average) and scored 17 touchdowns.

If he wins, Jackson would be the second player from Auburn to win the Heisman. Quarterback Pat Sullivan took it in 1971, the last time anyone but a running back was honored until Flutie last year.

If Jackson doesn't win, the only other running backs considered to have a chance are Lorenzo White of Michigan State and Thurman Thomas of Oklahoma State. White was the nation's leading rusher with 1,908 yards but is only a sophomore. Thomas was fourth in rushing, behind Jackson and Paul Palmer of Temple.

White and Jackson each had 17 touchdowns and 102 points, second in the nation.

The leading quarterback contenders are Chuck Long of Iowa, Robbie Bosco of Brigham Young and Vinnie Testaverde of Miami, Fla.

Long led the third-ranked Hawkeyes to the Big Ten title and a Rose Bowl berth. He completed 231 of 351 passes for 2,978 yards and 26 touchdowns, placing him third nationally in the NCAA's complex passing efficiency ratings.

Testaverde and Bosco were sixth and seventh in the ratings, respectively. Bosco threw for 28 touchdowns, seven more than Testaverde, but Testaverde has guided the Hurricanes to No. 2 in the rankings.

In 8th grade boys' basketball tourney

Stanton, La Plata suffer defeats

La Plata and Stanton teams suffered first-round losses in the Hereford eighth grade boys' basketball tournament Thursday at the La Plata Junior High School gym.

In the first game of the tournament, La Plata fell to Canyon Purple, 33-23. In game four of the tournament, Stanton lost to Canyon White, 37-32.

The La Plata "B" team also went down to defeat, 29-5 to Plainview Blue in the tournament's third game. In the other first-round game, Plainview Red defeated Dimmitt 44-16.

Today's schedule in the winner's bracket is Plainview Red versus Canyon Purple at 7 p.m. and Canyon White versus Plainview Blue at 8:15 p.m.

The loser's bracket contests are La Plata versus Dimmitt at 4:30 p.m. and Stanton versus the La Plata "B" team at 5:45 p.m.

The consolation game of the tournament is scheduled for 9 a.m. Saturday, with the third place game at 10:15 a.m. and the championship game at 11:30 a.m.

Canyon Purple opened the tournament by jumping out to a 9-2 first quarter lead over La Plata, and held a 16-13 halftime lead in beating La Plata 33-23. Russell Backus was high scorer for La Plata with 12 points.

Stanton led Canyon White 12-6 at the end of the first quarter, but fell behind in the second quarter, 20-14. Canyon White then went on to record its 37-32 victory.

Scorers for Stanton included Benny Gonzales with 12 points, Jason Walterscheid with 10 points, and Mason Morgan with five points.

In its 29-5 loss to Plainview Blue, the La Plata "B" team's leading scorer was Brian Wagner with three points.

Dallas school's high failure rate blamed on apathy

DALLAS (AP) — Twelve-year-old Monica Torres is failing five of her six courses at Edward H. Cary Middle School, and she says she doesn't care. Instead of attending class, she sneaks away to "hang around the 7-Eleven and a bunch of other stores."

Like Monica, three out of every four students at Cary are failing at least one course, and like her, many are apathetic about it.

Teachers and administrators say youngsters aren't motivated to learn and contend that is why the failure rate for Dallas secondary school students has hovered around 50 percent since the Legislature raised the minimum passing score from 60 to 70 last fall.

According to statistics released by the Dallas Independent School District, 55.9 percent of all high school students are failing at least one course, and 57.6 percent of all middle school students are failing.

Cary has the highest failure rate among Dallas' 52 secondary schools, with 76.7 percent of the students failing at least one class.

Cary's racial makeup is close to the district average, with a 749-student enrollment that is 40 percent black, 20 percent white and 31 percent Hispanic. About 40 percent of the students qualify for free lunches under the government subsidized program for children from poor families. Some of the students are bused in from West Dallas under the desegregation court order.

"I hardly care; I don't care," Monica said during her lunch period Wednesday. "I failed 'cause I was absent too much. I get my friends, and we leave (the campus) and go walking around. We go to the 7-Eleven and a bunch of other stores. We don't come back."

Monica said she hates school and would rather "be home watching cable (television) or going partying or having fun."

Marina Lara, 13, is failing homemaking because she doesn't do her homework.

"Oh it's easy; all we have to do is an hour of work at home, and our parents are supposed to sign this thing that says we did it," she explained. "I just kept forgetting. It doesn't matter. I don't care."

Marina says she's making good grades in all her other classes and suggests that many students continue to fail because "they don't think education is important."

"There's a lot of jobs you can get without an education," she says, when asked what she will do after leaving school. "You can be a truck driver. You can be a cashier lady. The people who want to have a job in an office or something, they want to get an education."

Luther Johnson, a science teacher at Cary, said parents no longer teach children to respect teachers or education.

"They are not taught how to behave in class. They (students) are not placing an emphasis on academics. They are interested in fun and games," he said, adding that television is one of his greatest adversaries.

"The only thing that keeps their interest is the things they see on TV," he said.

Johnson also said that teachers are seeing fewer parents at PTA meetings and are not getting the kind of support from families they used to receive.

"Parents need to be more involved," he said.

Some students such as Duane Eddy, 14, who is failing math, blame teachers for "picking" on them.

"Like this morning, they've got this new thing where if you're talking too loud or running in the hall, they tell you and they have a conference with your parents," he said. "They don't say anything about the good things you do, just the bad."

However, Kimberly Montgomery, 14, who passed all her classes, disagrees.

"I don't think there is anything more the teachers could possibly do (to make school more interesting). They've tried everything."

Kimberly says schools have become too lenient, allowing students to behave badly and escape punishment.

"They don't have rules like they used to," she said. "(Teachers) can't discipline students like they did in the old days. I think if teachers could whup kids, they probably would do their work."

Her friends nodded in agreement, saying that fights often break out in the hallways and students often use drugs or get drunk at school without being punished.

Principal John T. Thornton was at a school function and unavailable for comment.

Dallas school Supt. Linus Wright said apathy among students is widespread.

"At every school I visit, I hear the same thing, that there is a lack of motivation (among students)," the interest in school that there used to be. Part of the problem has to be environmental, and the other has to be at the school. The partnership between parents and schools has broken down. It broke down several year ago, and we've got to rebuild it."

High tech education urged

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas colleges and universities must concentrate on training scientists and engineers in preparation for the high technology problems of the 21st Century, the Select Committee on Higher Education was told.

Human resources must become the primary aim of higher education in the state instead of natural resources such as oil and gas, said committee member Norman Hackerman, former president of the University of Texas at Austin and of Rice University.

In stressing the need for research, Hackerman said Thursday the state has no choice but to push for advanced technology in Texas universities and colleges.

"We cannot wrest from the planet all the things we need," he said.

"In order for this region to remain viable we have to have a very important resources, resources such as this state enjoyed for 70 years with oil and gas. The obvious problem is that these resources are not renewable

"There is one resource that is renewable, which in technology is the leveraging proponent, and that is human resources," Hackerman said.

Hackerman said development of human resources should be the main interest of the committee "so that it in effect provides for this region those capabilities and technology which make for economic viability and competitiveness."

Hackerman said universities are the sole source of scientists and engineers "and that is why we must maintain an adequate supply of scientists and engineers."

"Without that, we do not have the slightest chance of remaining in the economic race," Hackerman said.
