

Commissioners Eye Need for Additional Jailer

By JIM STEIERT
Managing Editor

Deaf Smith County commissioners approved the purchase of a vehicle for the sheriff's department and also voted to advertise for an additional correctional officer for the county jail during a regular session Monday.

Commissioners also appointed a new county librarian and heard a report on a phone system for the courthouse, as well as taking up numerous other items of business.

Only two bids, both from Orval Watson Ford of Hereford, were submitted to the court on a car for the sheriff's office.

Bids, allowing $850 trade-in on a 1978 Plymouth operated by the sheriff's office, included $7,391 for a 1981 Mercury Marquis equipped with a police package, and $7,345.28 for a 1981 model Ford LTD equipped with police package.

Chief Deputy Dean Butcher informed commissioners that he has operated Mercury vehicles on three previous occasions in a police capacity with good results, and requested that commissioners consider purchasing the Mercury.

Commissioner James Voyles moved to approve the purchase of the Mercury, and the motion was seconded by Commissioner Austin Rose, meeting with unanimous approval.

Butcher reported, as he was called on to explain the duties involved.

Commissioners considered the matter and voted to advertise for employment applications from prospective corrections officers.

B.F. Cain spoke on behalf of the Hereford Lions Club and explained that the civic organization has discontinued its wrestling matches at the Bull Barn, and therefore has some 897 chairs and 90 tables owned by the Lions Club available for sale to the county.

Commissioners were offered the tables and chairs at a cost of $10 each for tables and $3 each for chairs.

Cain added that a number of table service sets owned by the Lions Club would be conceded to the county, and that Lions Club-owned concession items at the Bull Barn would be available for use as the county sees fit.

Voyles moved that the county purchase the tables and chairs with revenue sharing funds at a total cost of approximately $3,000 and the motion was seconded by Commissioner J.F. Martin and unanimously approved, subject to the approval of the Lions Club board of directors.

Commissioners reviewed applications for the post of county librarian and unanimously approved Dianne Pierson, who has served as acting librarian during past vacancies, as the county librarian effective Monday.

Jeannie Watts of Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. appeared before commissioners to discuss a "Horizon system" of telephone lines for the various offices in the county courthouse.

According to Ms. Watts, the system would allow for transfer of calls between offices by dialing a two or three digit number, and would also allow for a central phone answering system in the courthouse, so that callers could be connected with the proper offices and make contact in the event the office they dialed was unattended.

Ms. Watts explained that a demonstration van from the telephone company will be in Hereford Nov. 3 and commissioners made plans to view the system prior to taking any further action on the telephone system matter.

Commissioners also approved changes in the text of the CETA contract here after hearing a report from Loretta Kindsfather and James Barrington, CETA administrator with the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission.

A request from the Dawn Volunteer Fire Department to receive an old generator unit used at the county jail and recently replaced with a new unit was reviewed by commissioners, although no members of the Dawn VFD were on hand to explain their request.

Commissioners appointed county auditor Alex Schroeter to check on procedures for auctioning the generator and other surplus county equipment at their last regular session and Schroeter reported at Monday's session that the district attorney had recommended the commission use a sealed bid auction procedure and advertise for bids.

Coleman moved that the county advertise for bids on the generator and other surplus equipment, and the motion was seconded by Voyles and approved unanimously.

County fathers also approved a motion for each precinct to pay $20 per month to Wanda Spain, secretary to Judge Glen Nelson for work she does on behalf of the various precincts each month in the form of typing, radio monitoring and other activities.

"We have to get someone to do this work and Mrs. Spain has always agreed to do it and has been very efficient about it. She needs to be paid for the work," commented Voyles in introducing the motion.

Commissioners approved a culvert project in the vicinity of Big Daddy's Truck Stop allowing work crews from that business to cross Progressive Road with a drainage culvert, and to replace the pavement at that location.

The work is to be done at no cost to the county with the firm providing its own labor.

Commissioners also approved a list of six individuals who will serve as scale operators at a warehouse operated by Pacific Molasses in Precinct 1.

McGuire Speaks of New Unity Among Teachers

By ALLISON RYAN
Women's Editor

Willard McGuire, National Education Association president, told Hereford school teachers that their job today requires ingenuity and hard work to meet the challenges of the 1980's.

McGuire spoke to the teachers at the Texas State Teachers Association dinner and workshop meeting Monday night at the Hereford High School cafeteria.

"Our task as teachers is important for the education of today, for education is the foundation on which our republic was built. As teachers, we face many challenges, but I am optimistic because I can sense a new unity among teachers," McGuire said.

He told the teachers that together they could shape the future of America, but the job would not be easy. He cited the criticism education has received through the media.

"Critics of education and teachers who don't care tear down the system, but they don't know how to fix it. They can tell us what is wrong, but they can't give us a solution," he continued.

McGuire mentioned several organizations which support teachers and are looking at ways to solve problems. He said strong support comes from the 10,000 local associates of NEA, 53 state level agencies as well as the legislature at both the state and national level.

"National Council for Accredited Teacher Education is working on setting standards for schools and the future teachers they educate. Students who graduate from a college that is endorsed by NCATE prove they are teachers of the highest quality. No test can decide if a teacher is good or not. It can tell if that teacher can read or write, but it does not determine the special qualities or sensitivity of a teacher that is needed in a teacher-student relationship," he continued.

"A young person graduates with a Bachelor of Arts degree to serve society as a teacher and for the media to say a teacher cannot read or write is preposterous," McGuire stated.

McGuire, who has taught in Minnesota for 24 years, encouraged teachers to work against the anti-teacher and anti-education climate that is evident in today's society.

"There are many questions that need to be answered, but too many people are willing to gamble with our public schools," he stated.

McGuire spoke briefly on school financial reform, stating that property taxes are inadequate.

"Teachers are also property owners and taxpayers and we, too, know a tax reform must be made. Right now we are working on federal education funding with federal support and local control," he said.

"Excellence in education and the development of an inquiring mind is our responsibility. We are obligated to go beyond anything we have done before, but we cannot forget literature, art and music," he continued.

McGuire said in order to achieve these standards the involvement of everyone is needed including parents, students, teachers, leaders and politicians.

"We are educating tomorrow's leaders. We must do no less for if we fail, then we fail ourselves and generations yet unborn," he concluded.

Law and Order, Schools Among Price Priorities

By JIM STEIERT
Managing Editor

State Senator Bob Price of Pampa brought his re-election campaign to Hereford Monday and told members of the Deaf Smith Republican Women's Organization that "we must come to grips with situations as they face us now, because they may not be changed in the near future."

Price, who served eight years in Congress as the representative of the 13th district, is seeking his second term as the state senator for the 31st district.

He commented on a wide array of issues he feels are of vital concern to the state, and also trained his guns on the Carter administration and some of the issues he feels the Democratic administration has mishandled.

On the state scene, Price commented on matters ranging from law enforcement through education, water importation agriculture and bilingual education.

"Whether on a national or a state level, we must have law and order in order to have a viable society. Crime is taking $100 billion a year out of our economy. I have always felt we should provide the equipment and the people to apprehend the sophisticated criminal," stated Price.

"We need stronger sentencing of criminals, especially in the more vicious crimes, and better rehabilitation programs in prison," he continued.

Price opined that the trend toward centralized tax appraisal and collection districts may ultimately prove more fair to state taxpayers.

"I have always kind of resented having several different local taxing bodies all setting their own rate. I feel that bringing one central taxing body into being will make taxes more equitable. Central taxing may be a change for the better. It's time property owners have a say in when we raise taxes," Price remarked.

The incumbent state senator stated "There is a need to turn attention on schools that offer students training in a vocation."

He pointed out that the state's schools are "churning out millions of students and 80 percent of them are coming out with no meaningful job skills."

Price called for better teacher salaries, citing the loss of numerous teachers from schools due to poor pay scales.

"We need more discipline in the classroom. Often the problem is because the kids have a poor attitude. Discipline problems are not the fault of the teacher but the way we bring kids up," stated Price to applause.

"My opponent is a teacher and says he should be the senator for this district, and yet the Classroom Teachers Association has endorsed me," Price remarked.

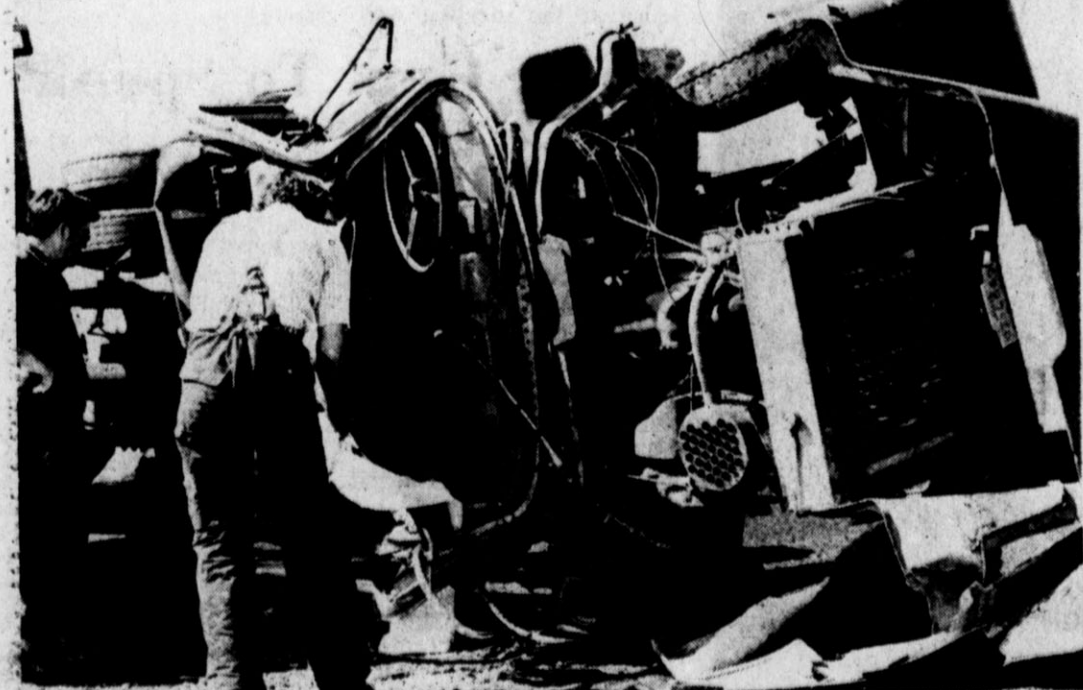

Price was questioned about his opinion on the bilingual education program in the state's schools.

"I feel that it's important that we have it and we must deal with it in this session of the legislature," said Price.

"We can't afford an army to stem the flow of illegal aliens coming across our border, and the federal government has already demonstrated that it will not deal with this problem. We have got to come to grips with this situation as it exists. The children are here and many of their parents are not capable of teaching them English. We have second and third generation alien children here. I would much

Collision Aftermath

Hereford emergency personnel carry 58 year old Lois Myers of Beaver, Oklahoma to a waiting ambulance in top photo while examining the aftermath of a dumptruck-pickup collision on East Highway 60 Monday afternoon in bottom photo. According to the DPS, the woman was stopped at the 15th Street intersection with Highway 60 and apparently failed to see an oncoming westbound dumptruck driven by Juan Tijerina, 27, of Hereford. The truck struck the woman's Chevy Luv pickup, resulting in massive damage to both vehicles. Tijerina was treated and released from Deaf Smith General Hospital and Ms. Myers remained in good condition there this morning. (Brand photos by Bob Nigh)

Americans Win Nobel Prize

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Two Americans — James W. Cronin of Chicago University and Val L. Fitch of Princeton University — won the 1980 Nobel Prize in Physics today for nuclear research that contributed to the "Big Bang" theory on the creation of the solar system and earth.

They were cited by the Swedish academy of Sciences "for the discovery of violations of fundamental symmetry principles in the decay of neutral K-mesons."

Cronin and Fitch made their Nobel winning discovery by studies of a new type of elementary particles using a proton accelerator at Brookhaven National Laboratory where they headed a research group. Their studies scrutinized the validity of three related symmetry principles in physics.

"The new truth reached by the discovery of violations of the laws of symmetry in nature recently also has been incorporated as an important ingredient in cosmological speculations. The aim has been to try to understand how a universe, originally very hot and symmetric, could avoid that matter and antimatter almost immediately annihilated each other. In other words, efforts have been made to describe how the matter we are made of was once created in a Big Bang and how it could survive the birth pains," the Academy of Sciences stated.

Troops Storm Hijacked Jet

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Army sharpshooters cut through the rear door of a hijacked jetliner in southeastern Turkey early today, stormed in shooting, rescued more than 100 hostages and captured five Turkish hijackers who smuggled pistols aboard in hollowed-out Korans, the semi-official Anatolia news agency reported.

The hijackers and some of the passengers were reported slightly injured in the assault, which began at 5:25 a.m. and ended a minute later, about 11 hours after the quintet took over the Turkish Airlines Boeing 727.

The hijackers, who posed as Iranian followers of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini and his Islamic revolution, were flown to Ankara.

Anatolia said they included two journalists, an escaped convict who had been serving a 20-year sentence for left-wing terrorism and an engineering student. No information about the fifth man was given except his name.

The journalists were Yilmaz Yalciner of an Ankara economic weekly, reportedly a member of an Islamic fundamentalist organization, and Coskun Aral, an employee of a Paris photo-news agency, Anatolia said. It said the ex-convict was named Mehmet Ahlak and he was a member of the leftist Turkish People's Liberation Army.

Parents Blaming KKK for Blast

ATLANTA (AP) — The day care center blast that killed four toddlers and an adult was an accident, authorities say, but some anguished parents believe a bomb was responsible, and some blame the Ku Klux Klan.

"We're tired of our children being killed," said the Rev. Joseph Lowery, head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

An angry, disbelieving crowd of about 200 people gathered Monday night at a west side church where Public Safety Commissioner Lee P. Brown answered questions about Monday's mid-morning explosion at the Gate City Day Care center, where 82 pre-schoolers were playing.

UN Marking 35th Year

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The United Nations, being sorely tested by the war between Iran and Iraq, marks its 35th anniversary this month amid continuing doubts about its effectiveness and credibility.

Even U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim, in a bleak anniversary year report, has complained of an "erosion of the authority and reputation of the United Nations as a responsible international body."

Waldheim noted that "decisions of the Security Council and resolutions of the General Assembly often go unheeded, so that problems which should have been brought under control persist, proliferate and pose continual threats to international peace. This also has a debilitating effect on the United Nations itself."

Clayton Anxious To Tell Story

HOUSTON (AP) — The fifth week of the Texas Brilab trial opened today with Texas House Speaker Billy Clayton expected to take the stand later in the week to defend himself against bribery and extortion charges.

A powerful state political figure, Clayton has said he is anxious to tell his side of the story from the witness stand.

Clayton and Austin attorneys Donald Ray and Randall Wood are on trial in a Houston federal court, charged with extortion, racketeering, bribery and conspiracy.

The trial could decide the political future of Clayton, a rich West Texas farmer who served 20 years in the Legislature, was seeking an unprecedented fourth term as speaker, and had hopes of running for governor in 1982.

The government claims that on Nov. 8, 1979 Clayton accepted a $5,000 bribe, with a promise of $500,000 more a year if the state employees health insurance contract could be reopened for bids and the business went to Prudential Insurance Co.

The conversation of the meeting was secretly taped by FBI informant Joseph Hauser, who now is serving a 30-month prison term for insurance fraud.

Also at the meeting was

L.G. Moore, regional director of the International Operating Engineers Union. Moore also was indicted by a federal grand jury and will stand trial later.

Defense attorneys ushered witness after witness to the stand last week to testify that Clayton was not the type of legislator who accepted bribes. The witnesses, including State Comptroller Bob Bullock, said the state House of Representatives had been run fairly and honestly under Clayton.

U.S. Attorney A.J. "Tony" Canales, who is leaving office soon, took over cross-examination from his assistant Ron Woods.

No explanation was given for the change in the prosecution's battle plan. Canales, however, was far more aggressive in his questioning of defense witnesses than Woods had been.

Hauser posed as a representative of Prudential throughout the 10-month Brilab undercover operation that covered many states and involved political and labor leaders.

The heart of the government's case is hours of tape recordings made by Hauser and two FBI undercover agents.

rather educate a person where he can work and hold a job and help out by paying taxes in our society. Personally, I would like to see a return to something like the Bracero program to help with this situation," stated Price.

The incumbent senator also called for providing for agricultural trade teams to sell domestic products to foreign markets, rather than allowing federal government to handle foreign sales.

"The big difference in the Democratic party and a Reagan administration is that the Democrats believe in tremendous storage of grain in a reserve. The administration couldn't get that reserve legislatively so it did it through presidential edict when the Russians invaded Afghanistan. The reserve is nothing but a lid on the American producer and the amount of grain he can sell outside the country," stated Price.

Price also claimed that he substituted his own bill for one authored by Bob Simpson concerning matters pertaining to water importation for the High Plains and preserved the right of private ownership of water rights during the last session of the legislature.

He also listed a number of items of legislation which he introduced, and remarked, "I don't think a representative should necessarily be judged on how much legislation he gets passed. Maybe it should be on how much bad legislation he kills. It is a crime how the state legislature spews out bad bills down there."

Price listed a number of issues which he predicted will likely surface in the next session of the state legislature.

"Liberals will probably be working for a state income tax. They will also be seeking legislation to do away with the Right to Work Law in Texas. Redistricting advocates will gerrymander to suit the big cities," Price related.

Turning his attention to the national political scene, Price commented on the presidential election.

"To elect Carter means a continuing deterioration of our national defenses. The country has already slid into a position of weakness, but this will be turned around if Reagan is elected," Price claimed.

"We have a vacillating foreign policy under Carter. Our country has turned its back on Central and South

Iraqis Move More Armor

BASRA, Iraq (AP) — Iraqi forces threatening Abadan moved more armor and artillery across the Karun River but appeared to be preparing for a siege rather than an assault to overrun the Iranian oil city and its giant refinery.

As the Iraqi war to win complete control of the Shatt al-Arab estuary went into its 23rd day, Iraq's official Pars news agency said the invaders put two more pontoon bridges across the Karun northwest of Abadan, giving them three crossing points on the approaches to the threatened city.

A British reporter who visited the area said he saw tanks, amphibious vehicles and artillery moving across one of the bridges "in a leisurely manner" and that the Iraqi troops were relaxed and confident. He said the Iraqis were shelling Abadan and the Iranians were replying with "inaccurate" fire but were getting no air support.

Iraqi officials claimed their forces advanced three to five miles toward Abadan, but the Western reporter said it appeared that the Iraqis were planning a siege of Abadan and Iranian-held parts of the port city of Khorramshahr, on the west side of Karun River's juncture with the Shatt al-Arab.

"I wouldn't be surprised if they just sat back," said the reporter, a military specialist for a British newspaper. "They don't really have to 'take' anything."

Khorramshahr and Abadan are the two big cities on the Iranian side of the Shatt al-Arab, Iraq's waterway to the America where Communism is seething. The Carter administration's foreign policy is a joke around the world," he continued.

"The freedom of the free enterprise system has been destroyed in the Carter administration more than at any time during the past 10 years," Price charged.

"Welfare dollars will continue to come out of your pocket and my pocket until we get people in office who will vote down all of these expenditures," he concluded.

Day Care Board Holds Meeting

George Warner presided for the first time as chairman of the Hereford Day Care Inc. board of director at its meeting Monday at Dickie's Restaurant. Directors reviewed the monthly financial report, approved minutes of the September meeting, and discussed possible expansion during the meeting.

Day Care administrator Bettie Dickson reported that the two centers here averaged 144 children per day for the afternoon snack time, which includes those children who attend the centers after school. Mrs. Dickson also told the board that an increase in social security tax requirements and increased utilities costs had necessitated a change in the 1980-81 budget. That figure was upped some $1,500 to a total of $179,391.50 for the coming year.

In other business Mrs. Dickson reported that the new sprinkler system is virtually complete at the center on Norton Street.

Board members present at the meeting were board secretary Ellen Collins, Bob Gentry, Sheila Thames, James Self, and Bob Nigh.

Rotary Governor Visits

Wayne Sturdivant, district Rotary governor, left, addressed the Hereford Rotarians Monday at their regular noon meeting at the Hereford Community Center. Sturdivant, of Amarillo, spoke to the Rotarians on "Pride in Rotary" and conferred with John Hays, right, president of the local club and other club officers on the local Rotary chapter's service activities this year. Prior to his Monday appearance, Sturdivant visited the Hereford Rotary Club's antique car show at the Bull Barn Sunday. (Brand photo by Denise Smith)

Assaults, Thefts Reported to Police

Hereford police investigated complaints of assault and theft following incidents here Monday.

The Leisure Family Grocery at 801 East First reported a heavy-set individual entered that business and after he left 6-10 pairs of jeans were found missing. The jeans were valued at $14.95 per pair.

Officers investigated an assault stemming from a family disturbance at 712 Ave. G and assault charges are pending in that incident, while assault charges were filed in a second incident which occurred at the Pizza Hut, where a woman claimed a man struck her.

Another matter pertaining to that incident in which charges of assault and threat to do bodily harm are pending has been turned over to the district attorney's office for review.

An officer on patrol this morning discovered a broken plate glass window at the Burger Bungalow on North 25 Mile Ave.

Burglars apparently took $282 in that break-in and then committed acts of criminal mischief in Bowling's Bowl in an adjacent structure.

The St. Thomas Episcopal Church reported that thieves broke in and took a tape player and the window of a door inside the building was also broken out. Total loss was estimated at $50.

Ambassador Visits

Bob Krueger, right, special ambassador at large was in Hereford Saturday as part of a tour of the Texas Panhandle and stopped in at The Brand for a brief visit and a review of the top news going into the Sunday edition. Krueger was a guest speaker at the State Democratic Women's Club convention in Amarillo Saturday night. His primary role as ambassador-at-large is serving as U.S. coordinator for Mexican affairs.

Graining Peppers

Florence Traweck, left, and Mary Waldrop, members of St. Thomas Episcopal Church, are preparing various goodies for their upcoming "Christmas Bazaar," scheduled Oct. 31 through Nov. 1. Here, the two women are graining peppers which will be used in the kitchen nook booth of the bazaar. In addition, there will be a children's booth, Christmas tree booth, Christmas item booth, and the kitchen nook with gifts consisting of needlepoint, paintings, knitting, and homemade dolls. The setting for this event will be the Cresson Community Center which has a great deal history associated with it as the building used to be the school for the community.

An all out effort is being made to make the show an enjoyable one for the viewer. The art will be placed gallery style among western paraphernalia such as bales of hay, chaps, spurs, bridles and saddles.

There are expected to be 300 to 400 paintings displayed at the show. Only T.W.W.A. members or Invitational Artists are allowed to show in this annual event.

The George Glascock and Jim Calhoun families will also be honored at this event for their many contributions to ranching and the history of North Central Texas. These two families are much respected and renowned in Texas.

The Show will have an invitational Buyers' Preview on Oct. 24 from 7-10 p.m. The public is invited Saturday, 10 a.m. - 6 p.m. and Sunday 12 noon - 6 p.m.

This will be an exceptional art show well worth the time it takes to drive to Cresson - 20 miles S.W. of Fort Worth on Hwy 377.

Ann Landers

Being Stood Up

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Your answer to the girl who was upset with the boy who asked her out really stank. He said, "I'll call you" - and never kept his word.

In the first place, what the heck do you know about it? Has it ever happened to you? I doubt it. If a guy isn't grown-up enough to tell a girl he doesn't want to see her again, he has no business asking her out in the first place.

The exact same thing happened to me, and I was plenty hurt. I had a date with a guy I thought was terrific. We had a lot in common. The conversation was super. My parents thought he was a real gentleman - and I did, too.

We kissed goodnight, and he said, "I had a neat time. I'll call you soon." A week went by, and I didn't hear a word. Finally I decided to call him to see if he was OK. Well, he STILL didn't have the guts to tell me he didn't want to take me out again. Once more he said, "I'll call you." I waited and waited, and he never called. I would have felt better if he had told me straight out he wasn't interested instead of leading me on. It may hurt for a day or two, but it's a lot easier than hoping it's him every time the phone rings and ending up disappointed. I am still - Boiling Mad In Columbus.

DEAR BOIL: I heard plenty about that answer, and I'm willing to take my lumps. Almost every teenager who wrote pointed out that it isn't necessary for a guy to say, "I'll call you," if he doesn't mean it. They suggested instead, "Thanks for going out with me" - or something equally noncommittal. Will you settle for 12 lashes with the wet noodle?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My cousin did one hitch in the U.S. Navy and was discharged six months ago. He wears his Navy uniform to baseball games and other sporting events because he usually gets a better seat. Sometimes they even let him in for nothing. He also wears his uniform when he wants to thumb a ride.

Is he doing something illegal? What's the word on this? -- Skeptic From Saginaw

DEAR SAG: Your cousin is abusing the uniform, and if someone reports him to the naval authorities he could wind up in trouble. Inactive members of the military may wear their uniforms only when attending a military funeral, memorial service, an inaugural or taking part in a patriotic parade.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I never thought I would have to call the poison center, but it happened to me twice this year. Both times my child got into something she shouldn't have - and ate it. Thank God, the substances weren't dangerous, but I was a wreck until I made sure.

I will always be grateful to the people at the poison center for not making me feel like a rotten mother. I had a lot of guilt because I should have kept the cosmetics she ate out of her reach.

Please tell your readers that if their youngsters eat or drink something they shouldn't, to waste no time. They should dial 0 immediately and ask the operator to connect them with the nearest poison center. - Glad I Did In Hartford

At Wits End By ERMA BOMBECK

It has been 20 years since children first entered my life, and in all that time, not once have our bodies been on the same time cycle.

When I was on wash, iron, shop, cook and run, they were on perma-sleep and off. When I was on sleep and exhaustion, they were on spin-around-the-crib, damp, dry and fill.

I have never understood that. How can you live with someone all those years and never adapt to their days and nights? When I was awake, the baby was asleep. When I went to bed, the baby woke up. My husband never understood it either. He's ask, "What's the matter with that kid?" and I'd explain, "Birth lag."

The other night, the phone rang at 10 o'clock. My husband and I had been asleep in our chairs since 7:30. (We always like a nap so we won't go to bed exhausted). The call was for one of the children inquiring what the plans were for the evening. My blood sugar dropped just thinking about it. The only thing that could possibly have gotten me out of that chair would have been a fire or possibly a cab offering me a ride to the bedroom.

At that moment I looked at my husband and our eyes met in one of those rare moments of understanding. "He is going out at this time of night? That's ridiculous! What can kids possibly do at this hour?"

"If you can't remember, you won't understand it when I tell you," I said.

"We never started out that late even when we were dating! Did we?"

"Are you kidding? I was 23 before I ever saw my mother dressed. She was in night clothes when I went to school and by the time I got home, she was in her bathrobe again."

"That's ridiculous. Why do we bother furnishing them with a bed? We could just get out of ours and they could crawl in."

"You want them to store their wet towels on the floor?"

"I'm serious. You can't tell me restaurants aren't open at four or six."

"Do you remember the last time you took me to a dinner at six? They were still serving lunch. You know the trouble with us? We can't figure out how they stay awake."

Our son came through, showered, fresh, smelling wonderful, full of zip. "Don't get up," he mentioned. "Catch you later. Bye, Mom, Dad."

My husband sighed, "How do YOU spell relief?" We recited in unison, "B-Y-E M-O-M and D-A-D!"

Young People Ready, Willing To Solve National Problems

By AGNES TAYLOR
County Extension Agent
With the many problems we face as a nation, it is refreshing to see young people ready and willing to help bring about solutions to these pressing concerns. Enthusiasm and optimism have always been admirable qualities of American youth. Their vigor inspires all of us to do a better job in coping with problems.
Youthful exuberance, combined with the guidance and experience of adults, provides an unbeatable combination. The results of that cooperation are evident in the 4-H program.

4-H'ers from all economic, ethnic and social backgrounds are helping clean-up and protect the environment and natural resources. Youth work to conserve energy, assist in agricultural production and help improve health and nutrition habits of the community. In the process, 4-H'ers develop good citizenship and leadership traits and acquire skills that will help them in later life.

Youthful enthusiasm and energy combined with adult guidance and support and working together in a common purpose - that's the 4-H story today. The Extension Service supports the efforts of 4-H'ers and their parents, leaders and alumni "to make the best better."

Agnes Taylor, County Extension Agent, encourages young people who have plenty of enthusiasm and adults who may wish to volunteer their time and talents to get involved in 4-H and help "make it happen".

Information on 4-H programs and activities in the county and area is available from the county Extension office.

Knights of Columbus Approve Resolution

The Knights of Columbus supreme council has approved a resolution that urges adoption of a Right to Life amendment and rejects the 1973 pro-abortion decisions, it was recently announced in New Haven, Conn.

John Warren, representing the local KC organization, reported this week that Virgil Dechant, Supreme Knight, has asked that the resolution be read at all KC council meetings and that copies be made available to all publications.

The resolution states, in part:

"Whereas, the worst social disease of our times is epitomized in the 1973 decision of the U.S. Supreme Court which, by the exercise of raw judicial power, changed elective abortion from a punishable crime to a constitutional right, and thus effectively consigned millions of innocent unborn human beings to death;

"Resolved that, impelled by moral convictions about the sanctity and inviolability of human life, we Knights of Columbus, solemnly affirm that the Right to Life is a fundamental human right which must have the protection of law, and we call upon all right-minded persons of good will to join us in that affirmation;

"Further resolved, that we reject the 1973 pro-abortion decisions, we oppose the use of public money to subsidize abortion, we urge adoption of a Right to Life Amendment, and we call upon all public officials and all candidates for public office to take serious note of our deeply felt and firmly held position on these vital issues.

"Further resolved that we renew and will continue our solid commitment, both individual and collective, to finding and encouraging practical, positive and moral alternatives to the scourge of abortion-alternatives which will respect the dignity and enhance the humanity of both the mother and child."

Obstetricians Offer Advise About Toxic Shock Syndrome, Tampon Use

CHICAGO - In view of the current controversy over the use of tampons - particularly the super-absorbent variety - and their possible relationship to the condition known as toxic shock syndrome, the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists offers the following recommendations for women who are concerned about their continuing use of tampons.

Based upon the scientific information available at this time, the recommendations are:

In general, women need not stop using tampons; however, it would be prudent, at present, to discontinue the use of the newly-developed, super-absorbent tampons, until more conclusive scientific research has been conducted in this area.

To reduce the possible risk of tampon use even further, women are advised to alternate tampons with sanitary napkins or mini-pads, during a given menstrual cycle.

When tampons are used, they should be changed frequently - at least every 6-8 hours - to reduce the risk of potential infection.

If a woman is using tampons, and experiences such symptoms as high fever, vomiting, diarrhea, or a sunburn-like rash, she should discontinue tampon use, and consult her physician immediately.

These recommendations are the result of the examination of this issue by the College's Committee on Gynecologic Practice, and the physicians who are members of the ACOG staff. Overall, it is felt that the scientific data relating to this subject are still not complete; the number of occurrences of toxic shock syndrome is small at this time when compared to the number of women using tampans (at least 70 percent of the menstruating female population); and an actual cause - and - affect relationship between tampons and toxic shock syndrome has not been definitively established.

This last statement is particularly significant, in view of the fact that of the 300 cases of toxic shock syndrome reported to the Center for Disease Control thus far in 1980, approximately five (5) percent occurred in men. Of the 95 percent of women who experienced TSS, five (5) percent were not menstruating at this time.

While the ACOG recognizes that an association has been established between toxic shock syndrome, menstruation and tampon use, we shouldn't assume that this means there is a definite cause - and - effect relationship until we better understand the mechanism that creates this condition. The College intends to further examine available scientific data, and urges intensive research into this medical problem, until more definitive conclusions have been reached.

The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists represents more than 22,000 obstetrician - gynecologists throughout North America and is the leading group that speaks for those professionals who provide health care for women.

Cooperatives are our best bet for the future. Businesses that can pull together and work together can help to keep prices down, production up, and the nation in better economic shape. These hard working cooperatives accomplish what individual people cannot, which in turn, helps everyone to benefit. Let's focus our praise on the cooperatives in this community.

Marsh Wins Football Contest

Fearless Forecaster Race Narrows

OUTCOME OF THIS WEEK'S fearless predictions ran on a plain somewhere in the unbelievable Houston vs. Texas clash which ended just in time for church day morning, Rice's victory over TCU, the Houston Oilers defeat to unpretentious Kansas City, and Cincinnati's victory over the Pittsburgh Steelers. Whoever said a forecaster had to predict the unpredictable?

season-losing-tactics and my dad. I ALWAYS KNEW THAT THE MONTGOMERY genes were strong, but I never realized they were tougher than Levi Strauss. You see, my dad Dick Montgomery (better known as the old man in the family tribe) stepped into the highly touted guest spot this week and proved beyond a shadow of a doubt he and I were cast in the same mold - the uncompromising and tempered 60 per cent model - like father like son.

setting error not to be confused with his real pick. He announced the change before the clash took place so we let him have it. After all, there's nothing worse than watching a grown man break down and cry in the newsroom.

more jokes about him - he had become the staff's wonder boy - a legend in his own time. His picks were legitimate enough to cheat off of now. And last and least was me - the guy that had to crank these basically if not totally ridiculous columns out each week.

Mauri Montgomery

IN THAT SAME LIGHT, WHO SAID the guest forecasters would never fall down to the staff's less than enlightening level of play? No one could have guessed those awesome guests would ever slide into our pit (the 60 per cent range) after holding such a delightful and snobbish 70 percentile ranking up to this date. But all of the above happened this past week - thanks to head Cougar coach Bill Yeoman who never can fall asleep until 1 a.m. anyway, a well-timed TCU let down, Kansas City's play way over their heads and Houston's play with without any, Pittsburgh's use of Dallas Cowboy early-

After the guest's trickling move toward that range last week with head coach Don Cumpston's disastrous bidding to 70 percent, my dad went 17-9, thus bringing that slot to a 69 percent rating this time. In view of my dad's performance; and my robust guesses each week, it becomes readily apparent the Montgomery's shall inherit the Earth.

GRADUATING FROM THE SAME SCHOOL of thought as my dad, was Speedy Nieman. The two old men got together on this one in order to establish there really was a generation gap - they were successful. Speedy, still paranoid from other columns I've included him in such as this one, is bound and determined not to slip back into a 50 percentile showing he scrolled earlier in the year.

So the publisher, stacked up against ever present pressure, also recorded a 17-9 mark this week for 63 percent. It really should have been a 16-10 ledger, but he griped! that his UT-Arlington pick over West Texas was a type-

SPORTS

Page 8-The Hereford Brand

BIG BAD BOB NIGH, SUFFERED twofold this week after he was faced with the hard realization Okies never win.

Nigh, being a highly publicized Okie himself, went against the norm and picked the Sooners to prevail over "The University" teasippers only to be shot out of the saddle in the game and in the forecaster polls.

With his stubborn and unrelenting pride in the old home state, (he had gotten past the Texas-Oklahoma Illegal Alien Border Guard some time ago) he took a woeful 16-10 ledger but somehow retained a 65 percent ranking as the staff's big loser this week.

AND THE SCORE THAT HAD ALL of us slobbering was James Stout's incredible 20-6 tally. He was what the Great American Dream was all about - the impoverished individual finally making it to the big time through hard work and no play. Even more miraculous was his walk out of the 50 percent cellar to a lively 62 percent. No

I WAS PERHAPS THE MOST BORING and colorless individual on the staff. From week one I had posted a 60 percent ranking in this thing and what did I have to show for it now? I'll tell you what I've got - I've got a 67 percent for all that work following by 18-8 landslide this time.

Most would say that shows an increase in my previous mark at the season's opening, but I'll never get out of this pit. I'm destined to stay here until, until, well until the next week's picks when I'll move back down to 65 percent.

The thing that was funniest about the whole deal was that we couldn't beat any of our football contestants if our lives depended on it.

EACH WEEK THEY JUST LAUGHED and continued to reel off four and five game misses. This week was proof to that legacy as Karen Marsh of 213 Cherokee dropped only four guesses out of 26 with a tiebreaker guess of 24 to grasp the winning spot over 245 entrants.

Danny Rice of Dimmitt and Earl Stagner of 210 Ave. J missed only four and tied for second and third with identical tiebreaker guesses of 34.

Two other fearless contestants completing the one-sided dominance were Jerry Morgan of 512 Sycamore and George Ochs of 504 Roosevelt.

And as if that wasn't enough, 14 others missed six games apiece. DO ANY OF YOU GIVE LESSONS?

Going Into District Meet

Hereford Cross-Country Teams Post Better Marks

By MAURI MONTGOMERY

Brand Sports Editor

After the Hereford Whiteface cross-country boy's team finished 6th out of a 12 team field during the Amarillo Cross-Country meet this past weekend, and the girl's squad netted 11th in their competition, head coach Martha Emerson admitted both needed some work.

But at the same time she felt both could present some havoc among contenders as the season winds down to a completion with the district meet two short weeks away.

"It was our season goal to try and get to the regional meet and to have each individual on both squads running within 45 seconds of each other," she said. "One of those we'll have to wait for until the district meet is completed and the other we've only accomplished in part."

"The boys have fallen shy of getting together and running in a pack (within that 45 second range - they've been too spread out) and the girls have been doing that, but haven't been placing high enough."

But even with those slight pitfalls, Emerson still felt this was the best HHS squad to set a long-distance pace in some time.

One of the individuals making an enlightening bid for post season competition off the potentially capable cross-country team is Rodolfo Carrasco, (who has seen places as low as fourth in previous meets and who led the HHS boy's team in the Amarillo competition with his 10th place clocking of 16:49). That 10th place time was approximately 10 seconds off his fastest time on the year - a 16:37 which he had run two meets in a row prior to the most recent affair.

Another one of the crew's viable runners, George Arroyos continues to knock off consistently better times as another one of the boys' squad's top harriers. This past weekend Arroyos clipped a 16:50 clocking in the long-distance race for an 11th place finish behind Carrasco. That time was much improved over his first showing of the year (20:05) and a 18:02 posted at Pampa earlier for a 36th place niche.

Fernando Carrasco ran a consistent 17:19 pace for a 21st finish in the Amarillo meet as the Herd's triplet in the chain of highlights. He had clocked times of 17:43, 17:16 and 17:13 in previous outings on the year for the HHS team.

Other team members taking places in the Amarillo meet were Edward Flores who churned out a 18:08 for a 42nd finish, and Chris Carter who clocked an 18:57 for 62nd. In addition to the team's efforts in the meet Eric Alexander posted a time of 19:35 for 70th and Doug Schroeter placed 72nd with a 19:36. In junior varsity competition, Kevin Kelly paced off a 20:21 clocking for 57th.

Kellie Howell, one of the dominating figures in the girl varsity's scheme of thing, if not the most dominating, maintained her ranking as the squad's leader this past weekend with a 14:14 time and 41st place. Beforehand, she had placed 17th in Levelland with a time of 15:00, 20th in Brownfield after clocking a 14:50 and 38th in Pampa with a 14:05.

Olga Alaniz followed Howell's efforts in Amarillo with a 59th showing after running a 15:00 race, Linda Sermino netted 62nd with a 15:08, Kathy Morrison clocked a 15:20 for 64th, and Patricia Salazar compiled a 65th place berth with a time of 15:23. Other members of the pack included Allyson Thomas who finished 79th with a 16:42 and Michelle Osborn notched a 80th place finish in the affair after stepping off a 16:44.

"I think the boys have a real good shot at getting second in the district meet and the girls have got a chance too if they can pull some of their times up into higher circles," Emerson said. "But we're not doing bad at all considering we only have two seniors between the makeup of both the boy's and girl's squads. I just hope we can get it all together before the district meet rolls around because we do have the talent to do something."

Hill Named 5A Defensive Player

Hereford defensive safety Norman Hill was named the Amarillo Globe New's Class 5A defensive player of the week today for his performance in the Whiteface's 14-0 decision over the Tascosa Rebels.

Hill

The (5-9, 147) senior free safety intercepted his fourth pass of the season after he pulled down a free-wheeling Kevin Leuthkahans throw to fullback Wade Hunt in the second quarter of Hereford's homecoming clash.

In addition to that feat, Hill knocked down another pass and caused one of the two fumbles Tascosa coughed up in the affair to earn HHS's highly touted "Big Lick" of the week award.

Hill has been listed as one of the 4-5A league's leading pass interceptors going into the Whiteface's first district showdown here Friday night at 7:30 p.m. against the Plainview Bulldogs.

HHS Linksters Win 1st Match of Year

The Hereford Whiteface varsity golf team managed to overcome its second-place endeavors existing in play thus far in the fall scheme of things after the squad brought in a team total of 331 to win a dual tournament with Amarillo Tascosa and Caprock this past weekend at Hereford's Pitman Municipal Golf Course.

"Sure, I was glad to win the tournament, but I was not pleased with the 331 we shot," said head coach Jerry Wilbourn of his crew's performance.

The Hereford linksters, after having only one player shoot in the 40 stroke range during first nine play, (four golfers drove in scores in the high 30's) drove in mid 40's in finishing competition in order to beat out Tascosa's 336 by a five stroke margin. Caprock came in on the tail end of the three team field after accumulating a 405 for the affair.

Tony Flores, earning a medalist spot with his round of 39-41-80 (the tourney's third highest of the day), brought in the leading Hereford tally. Greg Robinson and Frankie Garcia drove in respective rounds of 38-45-83 and 39-44-83 to post the Herd's second highest total. Scot Skinner added up a round of 39-46-85 while Micheal Craig finished out the Hereford team's high scoring on the last nine holes with a 43-43-86.

"The front nine scores were fairly good rounds and then on the back nine they seemed to lose their concentration on what they were doing," Wilbourn said. "I don't think they realize (for some reason) that those strokes count up in the long run."

The HHS squad will continue fall play (the season has only two weeks remaining and none of the matches are crucial to the district's outcome except those played in the spring) this weekend against Coronado before concluding season play in a dual tournament with Plainview and Lubbock High.

These matches aren't critical as far as the district is concerned, but they are important in that it gives us an idea of what to expect in the spring," Wilbourn added. "If we can beat every district team in this half of play, then we have a good chance of doing the same thing in the spring - when it really counts."

YOU AUTO KNOW

By Don Henslee

My 1974 Mustang is having problems. It seems to be losing brake fluid although there is no sign of leaks on the master cylinder or the inside of the wheels. What's the procedure for checking it out?

Be sure all connections are tight. Tighten brake-line fittings at wheels, master cylinder and proportioning valve. Look for a T-device called a metering valve. This device is used in addition to a proportioning valve on some models to split a main brake line into branches. Fittings should be tightened here as well. Fill the master cylinder with approved brake fluid and mash the brake pedal steadily several times. If the pedal begins to fade again, the leak probably is in the brake line. Replace it. If you can push the brake pedal all the way to the floor, the master cylinder has an internal leak and must be replaced.

Mandrell, Cash Among Winners

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Barbara Mandrell said she was only 13 when she first heard Johnny Cash sing. Eighteen years later, they shared top country music honors — and Cash called his award "every country boy's dream."

Miss Mandrell won the prestigious entertainer of the year award at the nationally televised Country Music Association awards show Monday night, and Cash was elected to the Country Music Hall of Fame.

group of the year; Moe Bandy and Joe Stampley, vocal duo of the year, and Roy Clark, instrumentalist of the year.

Two others were elected to the Country Music Hall of Fame. They are Connie B. Gay, who pioneered commercial country radio and helped launch the careers of Clark and Jimmy Dean, and the Original Sons of the Pioneers, best known for their Western-style songs like "Tumbling Tumbleweeds" and "Cool Water."

It's hard to explain how I feel," said the 31-year-old Miss Mandrell. "I'm afraid I'm going to 'fall out.'"

The pint-sized Miss Mandrell, who plays five instruments, had a hit this year with "You Can Eat Crackers in My Bed Any Time."

Cash, who overcame pill addiction in the late 1960s and went on to become a superstar with hits like "A Boy Named Sue," capped his 25-year career with election to the hall of fame.

"This was the big one, mama," said Cash after the show. "This was the one I've hoped for, dreamed for and prayed for. It was every country boy's dream."

It was not his only prize of the evening. His wife, June Carter, presented him with a shiny silver Mercedes Benz after the show.

The association's 5,000 singers, musicians and other members chose George Jones for two awards — male vocalist of the year and single of the year for "He Stopped Loving Her Today."

Jones, who overcame a drinking problem this year, was the only double winner. "You can never realize how much this means to me," he said from Sparks, Nev., where he was performing. "I have the boost I needed. It put me right on the top."

Former folk singer Emmylou Harris was voted female vocalist of the year.

Other winners were: Coal Miner's Daughter, the soundtrack from the movie about the life of country singer Loretta Lynn, sung by Sissy Spacek, album of the year; "He Stopped Loving Her Today," song of the year for writers Bobby Braddock and Curly Putman; the Stetler Brothers, vocal group of the year; the Charlie Daniels Band, instrumental Among those in the crowd at the Grand Ole Opry House was Amy Carter, the president's 13-year-old daughter. She was the guest of country music singer Tom T. Hall, a friend of the Carter family.

No record company dominated the balloting. CBS Records won five awards, MCA Records won three and Mercury and Warner Brothers won one each.

Zain Wants Bill To Lower Age

WASHINGTON (AP) — Harry Zain is probably not anybody's idea of what a lobbyist is supposed to be like. He doesn't have a big expense account, wear shiny shoes, smoke cigars or slap people on the back.

In fact, he is a mild-mannered, modestly dressed young man who works full time as a typist in a word processing office and haunts Capitol Hill during his free time.

But according to his own account and others, Zain may be one of the most persistent lobbyists in Washington. So far, he is also one of the most unsuccessful.

Zain wants Congress to pass a bill lowering to 12 the age at which girls may marry. He says this would "put sobriety" into young people.

He says he has visited 96 of the 100 senators about it, calling on at least 60 of them in their homes.

As yet, though, no senator has even introduced the bill, although Zain says some have expressed interest and he hopes to get it introduced soon. He does not identify the senators.

Zain, 26, came to Washington in 1978 from Charleston, W. Va., where he ran unsuccessfully for the state legislature and in 1975 was jailed three times on charges of trespassing in the West Virginia University Hospital while protesting abortions.

Earlier this year, Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., complained to Senate doorkeepers about what he thought was overzealous buttonholing by Zain near an inside entrance to the Senate chambers.

Zain said nothing came of this and he has had no trouble with the doorkeepers. He said Dole has been "very gracious" to him.

The doorkeepers say Zain is one of the most active lobbyists on Capitol Hill, regularly stalking senators through hallways and anterooms. They say some senators question his lobbying practices but accept the literature he hands out.

Zain said he went to a public library and looked in city directories to find the home addresses of senators whom he had been unable to contact at the Capitol.

Among those he tried to reach at home were Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., who lives across the street from Zain, and Sen. Paul Sarbanes, D-Md., who lives in Baltimore.

Zain said Goldwater told him to come to the office and Sarbanes wasn't home. He said he talked to both at the Capitol later.

"I always try the office first," Zain said. He added that some aides have been "very, very discourteous," although the senators have been more polite.

After he went to the home of Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., in suburban McLean, Va., Zain said, Thurmond told him, "Mr. Zain, please don't come to my home. If you have business, please come to my office."

"I'm making progress, even though it's not so visible," Zain said.

Ship Identified as El Constante

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — The wreck of an 18th century ship discovered earlier this year off the Louisiana coast still carrying its cargo of gold and silver has been identified as the Spanish vessel El Constante, which sank during a hurricane in 1766.

And the same storm probably wrecked two other ships in the El Constante's fleet, which may still be lying somewhere nearby in the Gulf of Mexico, experts said.

There's a "distinct possibility" that the Santa Barbara and El Corazon de Jesus — The Heart of Jesus — can be found in the same area, said Gordon T. Watts Jr., a noted underwater archaeologist.

Gov. Dave Treen and officials of the state Department of Culture, Recreation and Tourism announced the El Constante's identity at a news conference Monday.

A partial history of the ship had been pieced together from colonial records in Mexico, Spain and sources in the state museum.

It was one of six in a fleet bound from Veracruz, Mexico, to Spain in September 1766, when the hurricane blew up in the Gulf of Mexico.

A secondary source published in 1853 indicated the fleet carried more than 15 million pesos worth of gold, silver, copper, indigo, dyewood, sugar, hides, cacao, pottery and spices.

Asked to estimate the value of the precious metals that were on the six ships, Steve Perry, assistant secretary of the culture and tourism department, said, "It is of untold value today."

At modern day prices, the 40 pounds of gold recovered thus far is worth $350,000. Officials say the artifacts and archaeological information "are the most exciting find" in the state's history.

The remains of the El Constante were discovered earlier this year by a shipper in 15 to 18 feet of water about 1 1/2 miles off the coast of Cameron Parish near the Rockefeller Refuge.

From underwater examinations, Watts said it appeared the ship was 140 to 144 feet long and was a "fairly sizeable ship" for that era.

Watts said that about one-fourth of the hull of the ship appears to be intact. "There is no reason that the site can't be excavated in an archaeologically accepted way," he said.

Only a small portion of the metals and artifacts has been brought up from the shipwreck, officials said, adding it probably will take four or five months to excavate the site.

A private firm is doing the excavation but the state controls how it will be handled. Since the initial finding in July, the wreck has yielded Mexican Indian ceramics, iron cannon balls and ship fittings.

Cure for Inflation Habit May Have Severe Withdrawals

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Inflation is such a bad habit, it has been observed, that it's got people worried sick. And they may get even sicker when they think about the consequences of kicking the habit.

Almost all students of the economic disease are agreed that a period of severe withdrawal is likely to accompany the cure, and a good many wonder if Americans will be able to cope with it.

They point to the interest Americans have in a continuation of rising prices: the value of privately owned homes, the big personal debts, the regular cost-of-living wage increases, and even the jobs.

Consider some of the fears of a return to price stability: HOMES: To many people it is the source of their financing. Inflation has added enormously to home values, and millions have plans to tap those values for the kids' tuitions and their retirements.

Should inflation be restrained to 2 percent a year it might mean the growth in housing prices would be curtailed. Interest rates might fall. More homes might be built. Demand-supply ratios might change.

If houses fail to continue appreciating at 10 percent to 14 percent a year, as many single-family dwellings have for several years, it might produce a situation more critical than is immediately apparent.

An owner might have put $10,000 into a $50,000 house, but he enjoys the double-digit inflation rise on the full amount. That is, a $10,000 rise in market price represents a 100 percent return.

Meanwhile, he has a fixed-rate mortgage well below the inflation rate, which means in effect that he earns money on his loan. Interest on the loan is almost always split with generous Uncle Sam.

INCOME INCREASES: Millions of Americans, including Social Security beneficiaries, enjoy annual cost-of-living adjustments, most commonly based on the consumer price index. The index is a faulty measure.

As many recipients of such increases understand fully, major factors in the annual increases are housing prices and mortgage rates, which affect only a small percentage of people.

DEBTS: There's been criticism about the propensity of Americans to take on debt, though many people have done so only in self defense. To have debt is to have tax deductions and an inflation hedge.

Will those who have been paying back in cheaper money — in many instances just 50 cents or 60 cents on the dollar — be happy when they have to pay back in full measure?

EMPLOYMENT: For every 100 private sector employees, there are 25 in federal, state or local government, according to the Tax Foundation, which also notes that public employees are also paid more.

Growth of government is blamed for inflation. With almost every private sector American having a friend or close relative on government income, will they be happy if government shrinks?

And if it does shrink, will Americans be happy at the prospect of a possible, though not inevitable, reduction in government services?

Like the fellow at the bar, many Americans might be inclined to have another drink and think it over before taking the pledge.

The Roman naturalist Pliny the elder believed that earthquakes were protests from Mother Earth against wicked miners who stole her gold and silver.

Actors Returning After Long Strike

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — At long last, television viewers may soon be delivered from the weeks and weeks of reruns that were forced to remain on the air while the longest actors' strike ever paralyzed stage sets.

J.R. Ewing was back in his hospital bed, Ponch was patrolling California's highways and "M-A-S-H" was treating Korean War casualties as more actors returned to Hollywood studios and crews put in long hours to make up for time lost during the lengthy actors' strike.

"It feels great to be back to work, back with the gang," Mike Farrell said Monday as he returned to the 20th Century-Fox set of "M-A-S-H" with Alan Alda, Harry Morgan, Loretta Swit, David Ogden Stiers, Jamie Farr and William Christopher.

Also returning to the sets were "Dallas" stars Barbara Bel Geddes, Linda Grey, Steve Kanaly, and Mary Crosby and "CHiPs" hero Emik Estrada.

But actors had to cross the picket lines of striking musicians to get to the sets. The American Federation of Musicians has struck all major studios in an effort to win residuals for reruns of filmed TV series and movies.

Many Screen Actors Guild members pledged during their 11-week strike not to cross musicians' picket lines. But last week when SAG authorized members to return to work pending the outcome of a mail-in vote on a new three-year pact, a number of actors reversed themselves.

A spokesman for the musicians said they were disappointed the actors were no longer honoring their pickets, but said they understood the decision to return to work.

The American Federation of Television and Radio Artists already has voted 368-232 in favor of the new contract at its Los Angeles, San Francisco and Washington, D.C. locals.

Plans To Buy Big-Ticket Items Increased

By KRISTIN GOFF
AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Consumers' plans to buy homes, autos, major appliances or other big-ticket items increased markedly in September, according to a recent survey conducted for the Conference Board.

Other reports released this past week also show that retail sales are picking up from extremely low levels earlier this year. The Commerce Department reported that retail sales in September rose 1.6 percent to $80 billion, following a revised 0.6 percent gain in August.

But the outlook for retail sales may not be as rosy as second glance as it seems at first. Another bout of high interest rates could make borrowing for major purchases more difficult and certainly more expensive.

Even if interest rates decline again between now and the end of the year, as many people believe will happen, the cost of some essentials — notably food — is headed upward. And that will put an added strain on budgets.

All this makes for a very uncertain outlook for retailers heading into the Christmas season, the biggest single selling period of the year.

Even in reporting a more favorable outlook among consumers, Conference Board economist Fabian Linden warned "inflation could abort the recovery and that is the critical issue at the moment."

The consumer survey of 5,000 families conducted for the Conference Board, a business research group, showed plans to make major purchases in the six months ahead rose 11.5 points to 97.2 between August and September. That index measures changes in buying plans by comparing responses against an index of 100 in the 1969-70 period.

While the index in September showed a very sizeable gain from its low this year of 76.2 in May, buying plans are still lower than in September last year. At that time the index registered 119.4, meaning that plans to make major purchases were greater than in the base 1969-70 period.

In other business developments this past week: —The government reported that the amount of consumer credit outstanding rose by $15 million in August after a $609 million drop in July and a record $3.4 billion drop in June.

—New home sales fell 4.9 percent in August to an annual rate of 623,000, the government said.

—Members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries postponed indefinitely a meeting on price policy which was to be held Nov. 4 in Baghdad, Iraq, presumably because of the war between Iraq and Iran, both OPEC members. The loss of an estimated 3.7 million barrels a day of oil production from Iran and Iraq didn't produce panic in oil markets largely because there was a surplus of supplies prior to the outbreak of the war. But some analysts said prices could rise if the war didn't end soon. Some major OPEC countries reportedly increased production to help offset the loss of Iranian and Iraqi production.

A Woman's Place is At Home

A woman's place is at home! The Supreme Court has so decreed. The Supreme Court will deny it.

But it's true. A woman's place is in her home and she should stay locked in!

Females are told from their earliest teens until the day they die — do not leave the house unescorted at night. And there is no way that any Equal Rights Amendment can undo what the courts have already done — Return criminals to the streets so that women must remain locked indoors. Crime last year increased 9.1 percent. Crimes against women increased 13.2 percent. After every heinous sex crime police announce that "known sex criminals are being rounded up for questioning."

Public admission that "known sex criminals" have the freedom of the streets.

In the city any woman homebound from work after dark is likely to be stopped by police — if they see her before the night-stalkers do.

So rigid is this unwritten curfew for women that the law assumes any woman on the street after dark is a prostitute or is asking to be raped.

Historically, our country did all it could do, culturally and constitutionally, to provide "freedom for all."

Now, because of curtailment of police powers and the leniency of our courts, half our population has its freedom abridged. The female half of our population is told it must stay indoors once the sun goes down.

The inequity is worldwide. Three years ago German women, resentful of this unofficial curfew, held a public demonstration under the banner: "Take back the night!"

— Since then similar marches in Italy and Britain and Canada — and at least one in Chicago — have vented the righteous anger of women over this flagrant sex discrimination.

Yet the woman raped is still told by the policeman, "You shouldn't have been out alone at night."

The woman raped is required by the court to "show legitimate reason" for being where she was when it happened.

Women are arming themselves with weapons, legally and otherwise.

If that seems an uncivilized response — there is no longer anything "civilized" about the asphalt jungle.

However ...

It is in the courts that women lost their equal rights and in the courts that those rights must be re-won.

They can start by scorekeeping on the leniency of the judiciary.

THOUGHTS

The "mixed multitudes" were probably the offspring of marriage between Israelites and Egyptians and perhaps all were not of pure Israelite blood. In the wilderness they wanted meat.

"And the mixed multitude that was among them fell a lust; and the children of Israel also wept again, and said, Who shall give us flesh to eat?" — Num. 11:4

When the Israelites complained in the wilderness because they had no flesh to eat, the Lord sent quail in the evenings from the direction of the sea. Peloubet says they were on their spring migration northward and probably came all night. They would be easy to catch as they were exhausted by their flight. They were spread about the camp in order to dry them.

"And there went forth a wind from the Lord, and brought quails from the sea, and let them fall by the camp ... And the people stood up all that day, and all that night, and all the next day, and they gathered the quail: ... and they spread them ... round about the camp." — Num. 11:31-32

The "candlestick" for the tabernacle was really a lampstand, as it held seven richly adorned lamps of beaten work of pure gold (Exod. 25:31-37). Jesus refers to a lamp and lampstand when he urges the "light of the world" to let their light shine before men.

"Neither do men light a candle, and put it under a bushel, but on a candlestick; and it giveth light unto all that are in the house." — Matt. 5:15

The Newspaper Bible

HAS GOD FAILED? NO!

Oh, Israel, my people! Oh, my Jewish brothers! How I long for you to come to Christ. My heart is heavy within me and I grieve bitterly day and night because of you. Christ knows and the Holy Spirit knows that it is no mere pretense when I say that I would be willing to be forever damned if that would save you.

God has given you so much, but still you will not listen to Him. He took you as His own special, chosen people and led you along with a bright cloud of glory and told you how very much He wanted to bless you. He gave you His rules for daily life so you would know what He wanted you to do. He let you worship Him, and gave you mighty promises.

Great men of God were your fathers, and Christ Himself was one of you, a Jew so far as His human nature is concerned. He who now rules over all things. Praise God forever!

Well then, has God failed to fulfill His promises to the Jews? No! (For these promises are only to those who are truly Jews.) And not everyone born into a Jewish family is truly a Jew!

Just the fact that they come from Abraham doesn't make them truly Abraham's children. For the Scriptures say that the promises apply only to Abraham's son Isaac and Isaac's descendants, though Abraham had other children too.

This means that not all of Abraham's children are children of God, but only those who believe the promise of salvation which He made to Abraham.
