ACROSS THIS BRIDGE, which is near the place where thousands of longhorn cattle crossed the Canadian River on their way to market, will go the cars of tourists and others in future years. The bridge will, it is hoped, be the main missing link in a proposed international highway, stretching from the Big Bend country of Texas to Regina, Canada. (Staff Photo)

Boys' Ranch Meeting Furthers IPHA Plans

Visions of a national highway stretching from the bottom of Texas to Canada drew 50 persons from towns all the way from Dalhart to Odessa for a meeting Thursday at Boys Ranch.

There, where the dreams of other men are fulfilled daily as former problem boys grow toward decent manhood, they made their plans, then went out to look at the Canadian River bridge which was, for many years, the chief stumbling block in the path of their plans.

Not so many years ago, the plans might have sounded almost too dreamy, but now hard work, time and a certain amount of money put into the project should have tourists streaming along the pavement from both directions, with thousands of them going through Hereford on Highway 51 and on to Big Bend National Park, or going north through Hereford to parks in Colorado, the Dakotas, or even into Canada.

Even with the completion of the bridge it will not be possible to get the final national highway designation. The design of Dimmitt said at the meeting. It is one of a group who recently made a trip over part of the proposed route, going into the Dakotas before ice and snow made it seem best to return while they still could.

In part of the territory to be traversed by the route, there are two possible ways for the highway to go, and these problems must still be worked out in the individual states, Singer said.

When two gaps in the road are completed, one of about 37 miles in Colorado and another of 20 miles in North Dakota, Singer feels that the states can get together to ask for the National Highway designation. This will give a road some 1,800 miles long in the United States.

Latest estimated time for the formal dedication of the bridge, which will be held up until the road is ready to open, is about September 1.

Tentative plans for a barbecue and rodeo at Boys Ranch on dedication day were made, and John Nichols, ranch superintendent, was put on the bridge dedication committee.

Tentative plans for a barbecue and rodeo at Boys Ranch on dedication day were made, and John Nichols, ranch superintendent, was put on the bridge dedication committee.

Julius Cox of Boise City, Okla., a member of the Oklahoma Highway Commission, was present at the meeting, and assured the group that Oklahoma was definitely interested in the proposed Federal designation, and told them the method which would be followed in getting the designation.

After some discussion as to a means of raising money to publicize the highway, G. E. Mullins, Deaf Smith Chamber of Commerce manager, made a motion that the highway committees of the various Chambers of Commerce handle that work. It was finally decided to give the job to a committee. JuniorSenior Banquet Has Garden Motif

In the setting of a "Garden In The Rain," approximately 250 persons attended the Junior-Senior Banquet Friday night in Shirley School gym.

Toastmaster Joe Easley, president of the Junior class, gave the welcome, J. B. Wills gave the invocation and Terry McRight, president of the senior class, gave the response.

Guests were entertained by the Hereford High School sextet consisting of Margart Alston, Donna Cayler, Patsy Childers, Patsy Jackson, Jo Williams and Barbara Winget, accompanied by Dixie Young at the piano. They sang "Stardust," and "The World Is Waiting For The Sunrise." Main entertainer for the evening was Larry Kelley, an Amarillo Junior High School student.

E. W. Solomon, a member of the senior class, pronounced the benediction. At the closing of the banquet, David Stanton led the group in singing the school song.

The theme of "A Garden In The Rain" featured red roses on a large archway through which guests passed to enter the gym. The entire gym was surrounded by a "rock wall" covered with roses. Stage was set with a garden surrounded by a white picket fence, a rock wall and trellises with a rainbow in the background. A love seat on which Bobby Veigel and Sue Kirby were seated, completed the picture.

A picnic supper was served from tables in a backyard arrangement. The tables were covered with white and centered with red roses on green holders. The arrangement was backed by a small picket fence.

Place cards and memory booklets had pictures of a garden with a couple under an umbrella. Miniature plastic umbrellas and watering cans in pastel colors were used as favors.

Guests included the senior class and members of the High School faculty and their husbands and wives.

Zimmerman, Scott Wagoner Elected

School Race Record Vote

A record-breaking total of 1,511 people went to the polls Saturday to name Ira Scott, Don Zimmerman and Robert Wagoner as school trustees.

The election picked up pace throughout the day, showing a total vote of around 300 at the noon hour, then gained momentum as the hours passed. The polls closed at 7 o'clock still packed and jammed with voters.

Complete election returns follow:

Scott	1,053
Zimmerman	1,040

The new board members will work with holdover members Herbert H. Miller, who was elected with Mrs. Earl Plank last year; and Howard Gault and J. L. Woodford, whose terms are scheduled to last until 1955.

Wagoner replaces himself on the board, while Zimmerman and Scott will take the places vacated by Carl McCaslin and A. J. Schroeter.

Of the last three school board elections, voting this year was by far the heaviest. There were 1,430 votes cast in Hereford, and 81 were cast in the polling place at Dawn School, making the total of 1,511. In 1951 there were only 573 votes cast in the school board election; this dropped to 381 votes cast in 1952, and jumped suddenly to a high of 1,261 last year.

In the voting last year, the Hereford box showed 1,173 votes cast, and the box at Dawn received 88 votes.

Hotel Will Remain Open Pending Sale

Hotel Jim Hill will remain open during any interim period which it undergoes preceding completion of sale, according to announcement today by C. T. Guseman, board chairman. The foreclosure sale will go ahead as scheduled on Tuesday, April 6, however.

"Arrangements have been made with Dick Ross, present operator of the hotel, to continue operation until final disposal has been made," Guseman said, following conversation with Reconstruction Finance Corporation officials. Possible closing of the hotel was previously anticipated in case RFC, to protect its $199,000 loan, should take over the property for future re-sale.

Club meetings, rental leases and other scheduled events will continue as planned and along lines on which the hotel is now being operated, according to Ross, who said no hitch is expected in the operation before final settlement is made.

The situation will be temporary and was made on this basis in order to keep the hotel open and operating until change of ownership can be effected through actual sale.

Intersection Collision Damages Two Cars

A fender was damaged on one car and about $75 damage done to another in an accident at the corner of Fourth and Miles about 10:15 o'clock Saturday morning.

James M. Gillentine, driving a 1950 Tudor Chevrolet, had stopped at the stop sign on Fourth Street, then pulled into the intersection without seeing Mrs. John Jacobsen Jr., 209 E. Sixth, who was going south on Miles.

The front of the Chevrolet Gillentine was driving collided with the left front fender of Mrs. Jacobsen's car.

About $75 damage was done to the 1950 Chevrolet, a body shop estimated. There was no estimate available on the damage to the other car.

Trees Along Creek Sprayed For Worms

Trees along the creek in the valley, which have become a breeding ground for bag worms, are being sprayed by the sponsorship of the American Legion during the city-wide tree and shrub spraying.

Olie Olson, who is in charge of the work for Krause Landscaping Service, reports that citizens of Hereford are co-operating 100 percent and if everyone co-operates, there will be little need for spraying in Hereford next year.

Air Reserve Unit To Organize Tuesday

An Air Reserve flight, which will be a unit of the reserve squadron in Amarillo, will have an organizational meeting at 8 o'clock Tuesday night in the High School auditorium.

At that time, a commanding officer for the flight will be elected, and other organizational details worked out, according to Sam Nelson.

"We need both officers and enlisted men who are interested in building up points for retirement and promotion," Nelson said.

The unit here will be part of the inactive reserve, so summer training will not be compulsory, though members of the unit will be allowed to go on active duty at their own option.

Officers who join the organization will be allowed to join the officers club in Amarillo. It is possible that non-coms will have similar privileges at the NCO Club in Amarillo.

Nelson also pointed out that, since this unit is on inactive reserve, it will not have an M-day assignment.

Specialists Will Conduct Irrigation School Thursday

Two top-notch irrigation specialists will be in Hereford Thursday to conduct an irrigation school for area farmers.

Deaf Smith County Agricultural Agent Hugh Clearman has announced that Bob Thurmond of Lubbock, irrigation specialist, with the Texas Extension Service, and Ivan Wood of Denver, agricultural engineer with the Soil Conservation Service, will both speak at the one-day school.

The meeting will start at 10 o'clock Thursday morning in the District Courtroom, and will continue there until noon.

During the afternoon, those attending the school will go out in the country near Hereford to do moisture tests, check on well drawdown, and do other field work.

School Subjects
Subjects to be included in the school are: efficient use of water on various crops, after application, checking wells for efficiency, and other topics which relate to the general problems of irrigation and irrigation water pumping, Clearman said.

classroom knowledge, but the knowledge they have gained by studying methods used by hundreds of farmers and tabulating results. It will be well worth the time of every irrigation farmer in the county to hear them."

Hereford Marines Training In Pacific

Two Marines from Hereford are participating in Operation Flag Hoist, an amphibious training operation on the island of Iwo Jima.

They are Pfc. Samuel L. Griffin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jasper J. Griffin, and Pfc. Jimmie L. Lawhon, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Lawhon.

Pfc. Griffin is aboard the heavy cruiser USS Toledo, while Pfc. Lawhon is aboard the heavy cruiser USS Rochester.

Marines who first landed on the island found that landslides had uncovered the caves where thousands of Japanese were sealed in during World War II when the United Nations forces were fighting for the island.

The caves were resealed because corroded ammunition made the caves extremely dangerous.

ENGAGEMENT of Peggy Nixon Miles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Nixon, Hereford Route 1, has been announced. She is to wed Thomas Francis Yarborough of Lubbock on Easter Sunday.

BRUSSELS (AP)—A court of appeal ruled here that an employee could not be fired for using an ill-mannered expression upon leaving her work. She was fired, the court said because she "used an expression which incontestably denoted a lack of education, but which cannot be accepted as a sufficient cause for breach of a contract without warning nor indemnity, particularly since nothing indicates that this expression referred to her superiors."
The court ruled that "on Saturday night, after a whole week of work and with the prospect of the rest and freedom of the Sunday one can hardly blame an employee for translating into words the feeling of relief he might feel at the time."

"Your board signed the agreements providing for this service some three months ago and we do not know at present how much longer we must wait to get it. The matter is entirely in the hands of the General Telephone Company in Friona and Bovina."

The statement sheet of the co-op shows the telephone plant in service as costing $386,424.28. At present, the long term debt of the co-op to Rural Electrification Administration is $823,237.41.
As a token of the amount of business done by the co-op, it was shown that, up to December 31, 16,405 toll calls had gone through the various exchanges.

Some Reasons For Beef Price Are Explained

Why the wide gap between farm and over the counter prices of beef? That's the $64 question these days and a Texas Agricultural Extension Service meat specialist blames it on a sharp drop in the use of animal by-products and higher costs of delivering the final product to consumers.

Actually, says Roy W. Snyder, the price of beef is "down," but perhaps not as much as we think it should be.

He explains that prices for inedible products from the meat packing industry — hides, fats and bone — have slipped in recent years from $28.00 to the present $12.00 or $13.00 per 1,000 pounds of live beef animal. These by-product profits formerly paid the major part of dressing and processing costs.

When a pound of beef crosses the counter other costs are added to the final product, he says. There is labor, paper, string, rent, plant maintenance and the necessary utilities and equipment. Such costs are higher than ever before.

Also, he says, the highest price tag is attached to meat cuts in greatest demand. The economy minded housewife buys the cuts other people do not want. At present, such cuts come from the forequarter. However, Snyder concludes, fore-careful and skillful preparation in the kitchen.

Around the Capital

San Antonio's mayor pro-tem, Ralph V. Easley, here for the Highway Conference, took time out from serious business matters to talk with Rep. Kilday (D-Tex) about the fate of an old army cavalry horse.

This is the story: Newspapers recently reported that a 27-year-old horse, once the favorite of the late Gen. Jonathan Wainwright, was at Fort Riley, Kans., and was going to be destroyed because of age.

When this was called to his attention, Easley took it up with the Texas Mounted Rangers of San Antonio, an organization that co-operates with police, civil defense and other officials in Bexar County.

The Mounted Rangers said they would like to bring the aging horse back to San Antonio, Wainwright's hometown, and put it in pasture for its remaining years.

Kilday took the proposal up with military officials in the Pentagon, and it was agreed the San Antonio men could have the animal. Easley says he expects someone will get it soon.

Dr. William L. Howse, faculty member of Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary at Fort Worth, recently was "Chaplain-for-the-Day" of the House of Representatives.

This was arranged by Rep. W. Grapentine. Substituting for the regular chaplain, the Rev. Bernard Braskamp, Dr. Howse delivered the opening prayer.

Asking that God guide and direct the lawmakers, he added: "Our Father, Thou hast told us that if a man lack wisdom, let him ask of God who giveth to all men liberally and upbraideth not."

Dr. Howse is here doing special research in preparation for a book he plans to write in connection with religious education. Lucas arranged for Dr. Howse to have a study room at the Library of Congress.

Texans In Washington

By Tex Easley

AP Special Washington Service

Washington (AP) — Delegates from all over the country at the President's Highway Safety Conference heard what Guadalupe County, Tex., is doing to cut down on accidents caused by farm equipment moving along public roads.

County Agent Henry New of Sequin, speaking during a panel discussion, told delegates that red reflector tape is being glued on the back of tractors, combines, discs, and all other farm machinery that may get out on the roadways in Guadalupe.

He told how 4-H Club youngsters and others are being called on to canvass the county, sell the tape and paste it on the back of vehicles and equipment in broad outline. The tape is bought in large quantities, holding the cost for an average piece of machinery to 40 cents or less.

St. Augustine, Fla. claims to be the oldest city in the United States. The United States produced about 121 billion pounds of milk in 1953. About 400 million acres in the United States are classified as cropland. About one U. S. civilian job holder in nine works for a federal state or local government. A full-size electric eel can discharge up to 600 volts and about 1,000 watts of power, but it is not clear how it generates electricity in living cells.

County Residents Urged To Help Easter Seal Drive

Despite their crutches and wheelchairs, crippled children of Deaf Smith County can spend many happy days if we will all join together in the Easter Seal Campaign which is now in progress.

We can make sure that even more crippled children will be aided, if we will mail in our contributions to the Deaf Smith County Chapter for Crippled Children, Box 1502, Hereford.

Over 3500 letters and seals were mailed to residents of Hereford and Deaf Smith County, and you are urged to use the seals and to send in your contribution.

"It is the privilege of voluntarily helping others—crippled children and adults through our help, we enable them to live more useful, happy lives; and in addition, we offer them in this way the priceless gift of encouragement."

Residents are urged to give greater support than ever before to this year's Easter Seal Campaign to meet rising costs in providing vital services for the more and more crippled children who desperately need them.

harvested may climb 300 to 500 million bushels higher than a year ago.

The storage situation in Texas looks dim compared to recent years, says W. S. Allen, extension engineer. As a means of determining whether the average farmer can profitably erect additional storage buildings, Allen advises producers to consider their acreage and crop prospects, check the availability of space in local commercial elevators and consult with local officials of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation.

Existing buildings and new structures must meet certain requirements to gain the "approved" rating, says the engineer. They must be weather proof, constructed to keep out rodents, insects and birds and permit insect fumigation. They also must be reasonably safe from fire and wind damage, permit sampling for determining grain quality and be reasonably safe against entry by thieves. In addition, in the Gulf Coast region, consideration must be given to ventilating or turning equipment. Such equipment should also be looked into for other areas, adds Allen.

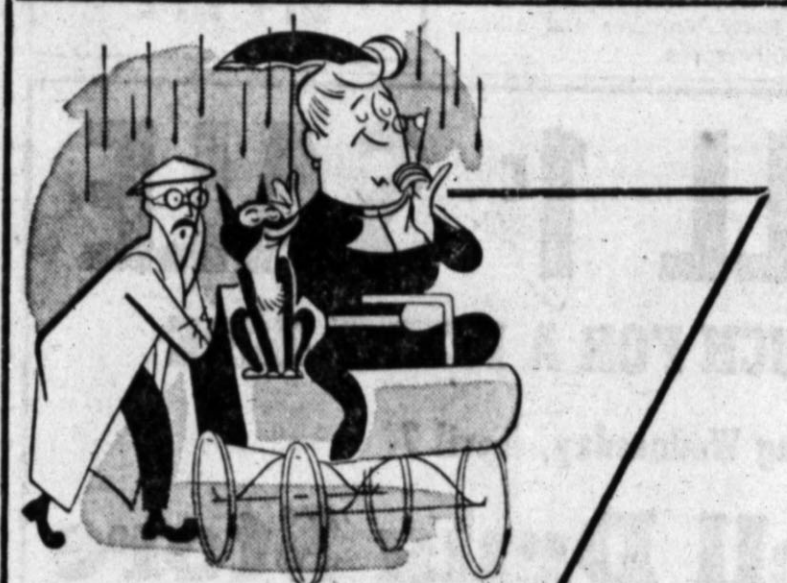

The type of building — metal bin or large general structure — is another long-term aspect. Metal bins, for example, usually are readily available and easily erected. If several bins are planned Allen reminds producers to arrange them for accessible loading and unloading.

The general type structure may be used for grain storage while the "pinch" is on but then converted to other farm needs when storage pressure is eased.

Loans for such bins and buildings have been extended for another year and offer up to 80 percent of the cost of new facilities. Carrying four percent interest, the loans may be paid in four annual installments extended over a five-year period, Allen explains.

A net increase of about 30 million bushels of on-farm storage capacity was financed under these loans during 1953.

George Washington called Connecticut the "Provision State" because its residents contributed more war goods to his army than any other during the Revolution.

GRASS ROOTS

A nice rest the past several weeks. For the Hereford Brand subscribers at any rate. Seed potatoes and fertilizer have pretty well filled the gap that I usually fall into when I write this thing. Potatoes are pretty well planted out now and with fertilizer movements slowing down to manure, I guess I had best limber up and see what comes out of some "poor man journalism."

Would seem ridiculous to be warning about a cold spell with the weather outside the way it is. Nevertheless there are the old weather prophets that say there will still be a hard freeze before Easter. Last year broke me from predicting weather. It will be a long time before I forget the looks of those potato vines the morning of April 14th.

Regardless of the weather from here on in, by the time your mind is made up it will be clover seeding weather. If you want a soil building crop to be turned under this Spring, Hubam is the ticket, but if you want the crop for a longer period of time, Madrid will be the best bet. Which ever one fits into your program you can't miss by planting these deep-rooted, soil building legumes. I am a little "leery" about Alfalfa seeding as yet, but it would be a good idea

TRANSPLANTING HASN'T WORKED

Wild Turkey Situation Still Bad In East Texas Wildlife Refuge

PALESTINE — The Biologist for the Gus Engeling Wildlife Management Area said 1954 will be a crisis year for wild turkeys transplanted in Anderson and Henderson Counties in East Texas, particularly within the management area.

He reported that only "about a dozen" wild turkeys remain of as many as one hundred of the big game birds that ranged the refuge in the winter of 1951-52. The original stock in this area, as brought here from South Texas, comprised 68 hens and 60 gobblers released over 60,000 acres in Anderson and Henderson Counties.

The Biologist explained that the Engeling project status paralleled the wild turkey restocking failures encountered in East Texas during the last 10 years.

He said cause of the negative results has not been definitely determined but contended that predation or illegal harvest were not primary factors. He said technicians still trying to determine the actual reason but meanwhile suspect that the drought, worst in the area within 50 years, was the primary drawback.

Drouth Possible Villian "We have not raised any young turkeys for two years," said the Biologist. "We are inclined to blame the drought, since it upsets so many conditions including the food supply. All ground nesting birds require a certain amount of moisture for hatching their eggs. It is likely that the hot sun kept the moisture in the sandy soil below the minimum required."

The Biologist said the ten thousand acre Engeling project, in the face of the bad turkey luck, now provides an ideal setting "to try to pin down the problem." "We are making special efforts on this particular subject to spot the factors related to the turkey failure."

He said the remaining dozen turkeys are being given extra protection and special rations with the hope that "we may get back some of our seed stock by the winter" and added: "If we can hit the jackpot for a couple of summers we can still win out."

The Engeling Area is one of several key Game and Fish Commission projects in strategic state regions, all designed to aid wildlife restoration. The biologist said other phases of the Engeling project "are working out according to schedule" and that the transplanted deer are thriving.

No Taste Here

MARTINSBURG, W. Va. (AP)—The City of Martinsburg took advantage of human nature when beginning fluoridation of its water supply. To avoid complaints from persons imagining a new taste or odor in the water, officials withheld for one week the announcement that there were no complaints.

On The House

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Take home six and the seventh is free is the new policy for motherhood at a hospital here. Same thing goes for the 14th, 21st, 28th and 35th children in a family. The hospital says it's just a way of recognizing the fact large families are becoming more popular. Average cost for having a child at this hospital is $110. Several families have benefited in the few weeks the program has been in effect.

Mayor - JP In Bug Tussle Thinks Marriage Business Should Boom

Bug Tussle, Tex. — Mayor of Bug Tussle, Tex., defended their little North Texas town for a lot of reasons, but the new mayor believes nobody ever met the challenge he did.

A former Oklahoma woman now living in California wrote Mayor J. B. Fink: "I went to school in Bug Tussle, Okla., and then I read a story about Bug Tussle, Tex. It is just like you. You stole Eisenhower from Kansas and now you are trying to steal Bug Tussle from Oklahoma."

That sent Fink to his references. He couldn't find a Bug Tussle, Okla., in the postal guide or on Oklahoma maps. The woman failed to pinpoint her Bug Tussle. "It is my firm opinion," said Fink, "that if there ever was a Bug Tussle in Oklahoma it was named by a Texan who somehow got stranded in Oklahoma and named the community just to keep from getting too lonesome."

Fink took over the No. 1 spot in Bug Tussle last Sept. 17 when ill health forced R. B. Tompkins to retire. Fink's wife is the former Louise Williams, who was born within shouting distance of the general store.

One Genuine Native

Fink said his wife is a "genuine Bug Tussle native, and I'll wager no other man can make that claim."

The mayor is also a justice of the peace. He's up for re-election this year and figures it won't be any tougher than past years. "Never had had any opposition," he said.

Fink figures that by being JP and running the Bug Tussle store, he might get in some marriage business. "A marriage license from Bug Tussle would be a fine souvenir," he said.

During his first term as a JP, "I married one couple," he said. His wife was right proud of him. "He didn't scare a whit," she said. "But that little thing of a girl he married was mighty nervous."

Fink is having the faded "Bug Tussle" sign on the front of the store re-painted this spring in a one-man "clean-up paint-up, fix-up" campaign. "I owe it to my tourists," he said.

Fink has his opinion of how Bug Tussle got its name. "I don't think it was because of rasslin' doodle bugs," he said. That's the popular legend.

"They had an ice cream social here one time," he said, "Bugs hung so thick on the lights they just swayed back and forth in the breeze and people just naturally said 'look at them bugs tussle.'" "And it has been Bug Tussle ever since."

Check-Up On Farm Storage Use Suggested

COLLEGE STATION — Texas farmers are advised to survey their individual situations before deciding whether to build approved "on the farm" storage facilities for this year's grain crops.

The extent of storage problems ahead will be governed largely by the size of forthcoming crops, say USDA officials. Based on the average expectancy, however, they believe total grains and oil seeds

Market Found For Used Gum

Galveston — Eileen Templin has created a market for chewed chewing gum.

Miss Templin models pictures from gum, then paints them and sells them.

Miss Templin began saving her gum 17 years ago. She chewed a piece of gum to a frazzle while reading a letter, then nervously began to roll it in her fingers. The idea was born then.

She has perfected a home-made chemical that she uses to disinfect the gum and make it immune to temperature extremes. After washing and treating, the artist begins to ply her trade, so to speak. She uses her hands and a finger nail file. After the initial problems were solved Miss Templin found chewing gum was scarce. She began educating her neighborhood.

She took three young subjects, all inveterate chewers, and promised them a brand new stick of gum for all their second-hand stuff. It was a natural. Her offer spread and in no time she was rolling in the stuff, so to speak.

Miss Templin says her 28-square inch "Scarlet O'Hara" portrait required 22,000 pieces of chewing gum.

Timely Tips

1. Fresh fish requires special care. When brought from the market, it should be used at once or stored in the refrigerator. It should be stored with ice, either in a moisture-proof bag or wrapper, or a tightly covered dish. Storing in a covered container will prevent fish odor from penetrating other foods.

2. Frozen fish will keep as long as it remains solidly frozen. If it thaws, use it at once. Do not refreeze for longer storage. It is not necessary to thaw fillets, steaks, and dressed fish before cooking, but additional cooking time should be allowed. Thawing is necessary for the cleaning and dressing of whole or drawn fish.

SMOKE WAS THE WORST problem at the Hereford Office Machine Company fire shortly after midnight Thursday morning. A hole chopped through the roof served the double purpose of letting some of the smoke out so firemen could work inside, and allowing a place to get water in where it was needed the most. Of undetermined origin, the fire started between the kitchen and bedroom which are in the back of the building, and did most of its damage in the closet and the roof. A second hole in the roof was necessary before all the flames were extinguished about an hour after the blaze was reported. Leon Jones, owner of the office machine company, was not at home when the fire started. An estimated $2,500 damage was done. (Staff Photo)

Broadway Production Story Reviewed At Bay View Club

Mrs. Cecil Massey presented the program at the Bay View Club session Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. J. W. Kirby.

Mrs. Howard Gault, leader, discussed the program subject "Outstanding Productions On Broadway Today" and told something of the musical play "Paint Your Wagon" which was reviewed by Mrs. Massey, guest speaker.

As an introduction, Mrs. Massey gave a brief outline of preliminaries that go into the making of a Broadway production, and told of the enormous cost on producing "Paint Your Wagon." She told of the writer, Allen Lerner, and the composer of the music, Frederick Lowe, and of Cheryl Crawford, the producer, mentioning and describing the three main characters of the play.

She said, in part, "Paint Your Wagon" deals with the life and death of a town in California in 1953. It is a very human story told in song and dance and has to do with a gold miner, forever in search of gold, his daughter and her lover Hullo. Throughout the three long acts the theme of the play, "That man must follow his deepest ideals and dreams," dominates the struggle made by each succeeding group of men who were responsible for the "Gold Rush."

Mrs. Lee Benefield, president, directed a short business session following the program. End of the year reports were heard and the forthcoming Seventh District, Texas Federation of Women's Clubs convention to be held in Dalhart, April 19-21, and the General Federation convention which will be held in Denver, Colo., in May, were discussed.

Contributions were voted for the local Camp Fire organization, and to the Latin American Scholarship Fund, a General Federation project.

Members of the club in attendance were Mesdames Phillip Barkley, Lee Benefield, Colby Conkwright, H. G. Conkwright, C. J. Crump, Leo Forrest, Howard Gault, E. W. Harrison, George Heard, A. M. Jones, W. S. Kerr, Paul Mathers, John McLean, R. B. Miller, Eugene Naugle, J. W. Spradley, J. C. McCracken, Ansel McDowell, James W. Witherspoon, and Miss Francis Turrentine.

Plans now call for election of officers early in April and a ladies-day program arranged, but perhaps these players are getting out their clubs and balls for a warm-up ahead of time.

On the bridge leading to the course this group above, considers the business of getting things started for the coming season. Left to right are Mrs. J. M. Posey, Mrs. Bud Posey, Mrs. C. T. Guseman and Mrs. Frank Cogdell.

MRS. POSEY who began to play the game in 1928 and except for about 10 years, when there was no course here, she has enthusiastically kept it up. She likes everything connected with golf—the companionship among players, the friendly competition and the outdoor exercise it provides. She was city champion in 1950 and 1952, and was runner-up in the 1953 tournament, losing out to Mrs. J.

A. McWhorter, who beat her on the last hole. Her husband is a golf enthusiast too, winning the men's championship in 1950.

MRS. BUD POSEY took up the game when her husband came to Hereford as pro for the Hereford Golf Club a couple of years ago. Now, golf has become a hobby. She played in the 1952 city tournament and in the Ladies Pioneer Day Tournament, winning the first flight. She was runner-up in the women's division of the Pioneer Day Tournament in 1953.

MRS. C. T. GUSEMAN liked golf even before she started to play and has found nothing like it to bolster the morale. She likes the feeling of personal achievement that comes with the game and the continuous challenge it affords to do better next time. Mrs. Guseman has played in two city tournaments and has won a trophy each time.

MRS. FRANK COGDELL thinks her game is pretty terrible right now because she hasn't played as much the past year as in former years. Rather than become a golf widow soon after she married, she decided to take up the game and play with her husband. Now she is as much an enthusiast as he is. Aside from the actual enjoyment while playing, she likes the association with the other players and to strive for improvement which serves as a challenge every time out.

MRS. EMMETT SHERMAN, decided to play golf because her work provided little opportunity for outside activity. She discovered a tonic for nerves and a wonderful source for relaxation in golf. The game is fascinating to her because the once-in-a-while good shot makes up for all the poor playing in between. Golf is her favorite game to play but she likes to watch basketball. In golf the companionship and exchange of game problems that go along with the game make up an absorbing few hours that she thoroughly enjoys.

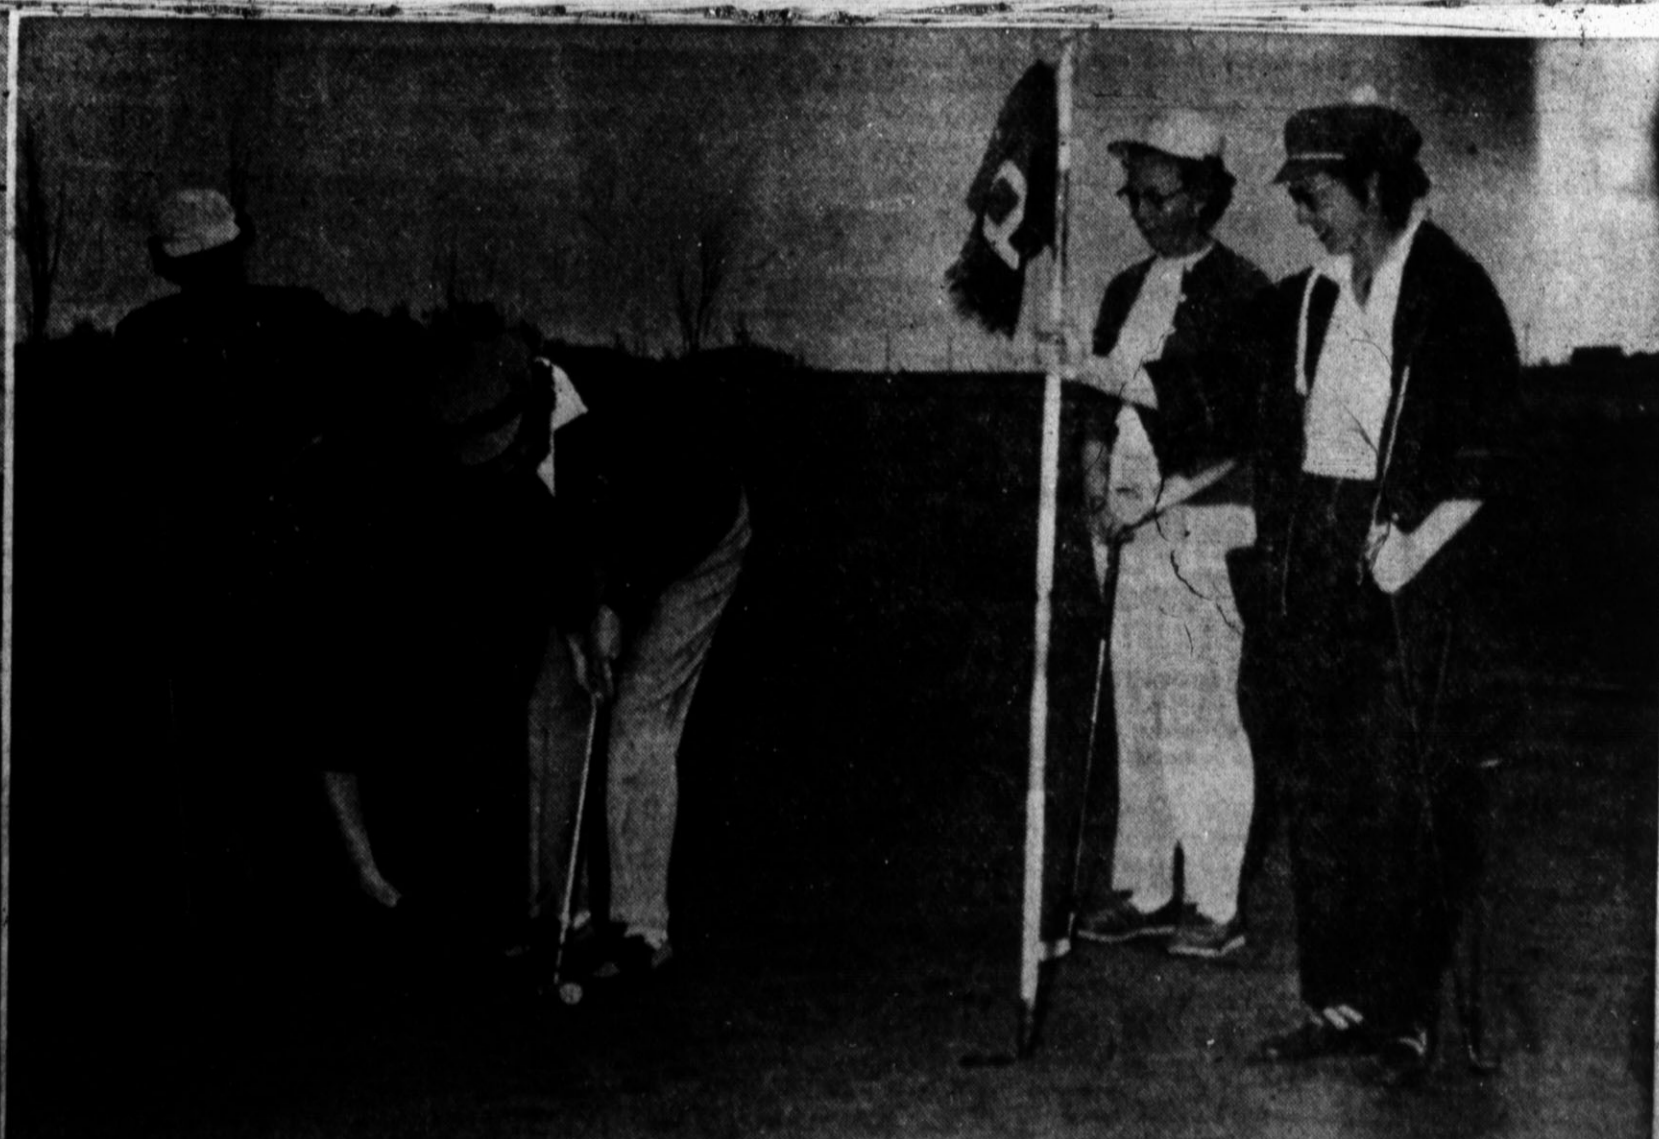

DEANNE BROWN finds any game a challenge — win or lose. A beginner at golf, she hopes to play a good deal this summer and improve her game, for she enjoys the friendly competition and comparing of scores. Deanne is a member of the Herefordettes, softball club, and also a member of the Hereford Girls Basketball team, which will resume its activities this year.

MRS. JIM LOVING took up golf seriously the past year and it has become her favorite sport. She finds fun and companionship in the game and considers it a challenge to improve her own score rather than to beat others. Since she has become interested her husband has made up his mind to play too, and now they plan to play together.

MRS. HARVEY BROCK, who began playing golf at the insistence of a friend, has now persuaded her husband to take up the game. She likes all forms of athletics, but golf holds the top interest just now. Trying to master the technique of the game provides fun, exercise and entertainment for both herself and her husband who like to play together.

The doctor says she did not have the mumps before, but had gland trouble instead, but she definitely has them this time. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Robinson.

Opera Demand Growing Music Study Club Told

"The Opera In One Easy Lesson" was the subject of the topic at the Music Study Club session held with Mrs. Bob Lawrence Monday afternoon.

Mrs. A. J. Schroeter was leader for the day. In a comparison of chamber music and the opera, she said that opera is its own worst enemy because it is hard for Americans to present the interpretations of foreign languages.

"In spite of handicaps the opera is one of the most popular forms of music and the demand is growing. All operas have the one thing in common—they are all written in song—and if you like music, you'll get a thrill in opera," she stated.

In conclusion she said, "Take your imagination with you when you go to opera for it will help you visualize the scene portrayed and help you understand the story."

State Convention Plans

Mrs. H. A. Close, president, conducted a short business session during which plans were discussed to send a delegate to the State Music Club convention to be held in Austin on April 21-24.

Baylor Law Students Hear Talks By Justice

Waco — Baylor University law students are getting some high level information on the low down of local government.

Each week, Will Wilson, associated justice of the Supreme Court of Texas, drives 200 miles to talk to the legal students on the practical aspects of city and county government and the problems they will face in dealing with local problems.

Wilson, who makes the weekly trip from Austin to Waco without salary or other financial compensation, volunteered to teach the course because his experience had indicated that the average young law graduate has little knowledge of the actual operation of city and county government in Texas.

He said their lack came in inability to cope with many problems dealing — not with federal or state government but — with municipal or county boards or commissions or ordinances, regulations, or rulings of the local government bodies.

Wilson tries to make the course as practical as possible and on his trip from Austin is often accompanied by a guest lecturer, an expert in some phase of local government, streets and roads, or public utility regulation.

The 41-year-old justice had wide experience in local and state governmental problems before he was lectured to the Supreme Court in 1950. A graduate of the Southern Methodist University Law School, Wilson was an assistant attorney general of Texas for two years and served four years as district attorney for Dallas County.

During World War II he was the commanding officer of the 355th Field Artillery Battalion on North Luzon and accepted the surrender of the forces of General Yamashita.

These recent hydrogen bomb explosion tests have had a lot of people worrying. Some figure that a test of this sort could easily result in the "end of the world." In fact, there seem to be about as many opinions on the subject as there are people. Abe Martin just about holds the Deaf Smith County record for getting excited about them, though. Abe got real interested and when they announced that a picture of the test would be broadcast over TV last Thursday night Abe immediately made plans to stay up and view the event. They showed all of the background and preliminaries, and the man finally started counting backwards for the explosion. He was going right along: "Five seconds to zero," four, three, two, then he announced "one second to zero!" A pop resounded, the lights went out on the TV and the voice abruptly stopped. Abe jumped two feet and was headed for the back door before it dawned on him that the explosion happened two years ago — couldn't have wrecked the set.

established the fact that one of the small tubes had gone out at the crucial moment. "Anyway," says Abe, "you have to admit that it picked a heck of a time to blow a fuse."

Despite the fact that it has resulted in comparatively little conversation, sale of the hotel Tuesday, April 6, presents quite a question to a lot of people. Will the hotel be closed temporarily? What will happen to the people with offices there? No one seems to know the answers. If RFC bids the hotel in to protect their $199,000 loan, the possibility is good that the hotel will be closed. If some other buyer bids in the property, it is natural that he will want to keep right on operating without any interruption. Here's a prediction. There will be some "dark-horse" bidders. However, it is entirely possible that RFC might buy the hotel to protect the loan.

Quite a few of the original stockholders are unhappy at losing their money. A sensible suggestion was made when someone said, "Why don't these boys reorganize, bid the hotel back in and let the old stockholders have the same pro-rata amount of stock, basing the investment on the new, low figure at which the hotel sells?" If the hotel sells at $100,000, $150,000 or even $199,000, it will offer a genuine good investment. The stockholders could expect a fair rate of interest back from their money on a capital investment figure of this size. It does seem logical that the fellows who lost in the deal should have an opportunity to offset the loss to some extent. If the hotel goes for $100,000, it will be a gold-plated investment.

Regardless of which, we will still have a hotel. Few of us realize how much of the community activities center around the place. Expensive, maybe, but it sure would be hard to move.

Remember a few months back when Lynn Kester published two songs which came out on a record? A recent release was made from a New York firm extolling "Europe's Brilliant Dance Duo." The notice said: "end of January through February, 1955" and listed such countries as "England, France, Holland, Germany, Italy, Greece, Egypt, Indonesia and the Philippines." Also placed on the notice in big, bold letters were Lynn's two song titles: "Tell Me When" and "I'd Rather Dream." I got one of the records and it sounded good to me. However, my wife says this is definitely no recommendation. She says my opinion of music is far, far less valuable than my predictions on the weather — and you know what that means. I do, anyway.

It looks as if Old Lynn really has something on the ball. No one is more surprised than Lynn. I was telling someone the other day that Lynn, Pick Harman and Uriin Streu used to play in an orchestra. People just couldn't imagine Pick and Uriin as musicians. However, they are. Pretty good, too. Pick plays a mean, mean trombone. Furthermore, that gang-ling Jimmie Allred can really handle a fiddle. You never can judge the latent talent some of these boys have hidden away.

Scotty Buckner called up the other day and wanted to know, "Who is the government, anyway?" He sounded a little bit hostile, but he wanted to get over the idea that the government is really the people—and that when people talk about getting something from the government, they are really getting it from themselves.

Scotty, incidentally, was valedictorian of his graduating class way back when. He was the only boy in the class, I think. I always figured that was why the kids called him "Shiek" Buckner. I know it wasn't from good looks. At least, if it was, he sure has changed a lot.

I was visiting around Friday and dropped into Don Little's Mayfair tarp company, located in the back of his business on Highway 60. This is quite a deal. They have an electronic machine that burns the seams on plastic irrigation dams in nothing flat. You can't pull it loose, either. The blade drops about three inches and gets unbelievably hot as it contacts the plastic. By the time it raises back up, it has completely cooled off. They can turn these dams out in the wink of an eye. They are doing it, too. Only a small portion of the consumption is local. Most of them go out wholesale into neighboring states. They even have orders from Mexico, Central America and other countries. It is quite a deal. Interesting, too. And if you don't believe it gets hot, ask Ervin Ward. He burned clear through his thumb one day while helping operate the gadget.

Very few people realize what an industry these boys have wrapped up down there. Understand they also make irrigation tubes for wholesale distribution. Drop in and watch them sometime.

Now that the dust storms have tapered off there has been a brisk upturn on bank business. It's the truth. Everyone is waiting to get in and borrow some money. They seem to be having quite a bit of luck, too. Despite the holidays and short hours, bankers maybe have a tougher time than we think. How would you like to make a big bunch of loans, then next day come a duster — and there goes all your collateral past the window? Nothing gives a banker ulcers faster than suddenly realizing that his collateral is insufficient. It's a matter of principle as well as principal.

Anyway, these things are maybe behind us now and we can go ahead and start planting potatoes and getting ready to put in some other crops. I don't figure it is going to rain at all in 1954. Furthermore, I don't see how the wheat keeps hanging on. It has weathered every hazard you can think of, and we still have some excellent wheat in the country. It sure proves that old saying about losing a wheat crop three times before it makes.

I have to take back anything I said about John Estes. He judged in a beauty contest at Happy the other night — and did he look sharp? He had on a two-tone bow tie. Bill Lawrence, Bruce Miller and I were the other judges. It was quite a chore. I was the only baldheaded one in the bunch and sure enough, the vote was three-to-one with me holding out for the gal that didn't win. Doc Lawrence sure had the MC going there for a while. The man was telling us how we were not obligated in any way, etc. Doc asked if we could use the braille system. The MC said he guessed so, but what in the world was it. "Oh," says Doc, "you just blindfold the judges and let us feel of them."

U.S. Rallies Free World to Block Reds in Southeast Asia

Eisenhower Bills Lag in Congress

By J. M. ROBERTS JR.
Associated Press News Analyst

WITH the comparative lull this week before renewal of the McCarthy storm, it was possible in Washington to hear a few legislative pins dropping here and there.

The excise tax bill went through, cutting government income a billion dollars below the administration request, but not cutting nearly another billion which seemed doomed for a time by the legislative mood.

The cut was hailed in business circles as a spur to retail sales, coming on top of numerous indications that the recent unemployment cycle was slowing down, and produced greater optimism.

The presidential tariff program landed in Congress with somewhat less of a thud than had been expected. The fight was yet to come, but initial reaction was a good deal less bitter, on the whole, than it might have been.

The big bill overhauling the tax system was well under way, and so were committee hearings on the farm bill.

The whole mass of appropriation bills still were to come from committees. A preliminary debate flared up in the House over the military "new look" which led to speculation that the defense appropriation fight would be a bitter one.

Controversial Measures
Taft-Hartley revision, health and security programs, foreign aid, housing—any of them could produce long fights.

Only about two months remained before the coming elections would produce a strong demand for adjournment.

The question was whether President Eisenhower would get even a major part of his program enacted.

His attitude is that it is the program, not personal differences in approach to national problems, upon which the voters will base their decision next fall.

But he is being criticized for not really going to bat. He displays reluctance to get into the political logrolling necessary to really break the legislative logjam.

He seems to be on the verge of taking a licking on his housing program, due both to the economy wave in Congress and the new look being taken by both Congress and his administration at government in social work.

But the housing program seems to have been one way the administration was willing to help business, if you leave the social aspects out of it entirely.

Idea of March
There are some indications the business upturn for March took place as the administration predicted. But if it didn't, the President is almost certain to have an opposition-controlled Congress for the next two years.

That possibility will become more certain if things get worse before election and Eisenhower sticks to his belief that it is still too early for the government to bring its big recovery guns to bear on the problem.

The administration may be overestimating the relative political value of the legislative program. Great numbers of people, among them many who voted for Eisenhower, are not so sure now that they wanted quite so much decentralization of government as is involved in parts of the program.

Even if Congress finally stamps the farm program as good business, it's going to gail a lot of farmers. The same applies to the trade program and every interest which it threatens, regardless of how much it may fit the general welfare. A lot of people are going to protest whatever is done about Taft-Hartley, and many other issues.

Varied Factors
But the political damage which may be done in special fields of opinion will hardly compare with the general damage of a demonstration that the administration is impotent.

Eisenhower has organization support in the House. In the Senate, Knowland pursues his own course as often as not, lessening his organizational strength for the time when he is willing to go to bat for the administration.

Business

Spring Pickup

How was business in March? People who usually make good guesses are saying that March probably saw an end to the sharp slide in business activity that began last summer. The worst, they say, appears to be behind us, and things should level out or start getting a little better from now on.

This viewpoint is by no means unanimous. The CIO Executive Board maintains that unless "positive steps" are taken by the government now, "there is danger that we may have a full-blown depression," despite President Eisenhower's assurance that slambang emergency measures are not needed.

Pro and Con
Controversy and disagreement on the state of the nation's economic health were very much in the air as March—fagged by Eisenhower as the crucial month—made its exit.

March business was better for some folks than for others. It was good for contractors and building trades workers caught up in one of the biggest winter-spring construction booms in history.

It was not so good for new car dealers who encountered balky customers at every turn, or stockholders of big railroads operating in the red because of curtailed freight business.

And it could hardly be considered a good month for the estimated 3,070,000 adult Americans who wanted work but couldn't find it.

Favorable Straws
Favorable straws in the wind included:

The magazine Steel said the first faint signs of an upturn in steel production are evident, with new orders picking up. After polling its members, the National Association of Purchasing Agents said: "It is apparent from our March survey the industrial business decline has abated and is leveling out."

There were encouraging reports of shrinking claims for unemployment compensation, and of large-scale rehiring of workers by farm equipment plants. But actual production figures in many lines were unimpressive.

Meanwhile retailers braced themselves for a big Easter shopping crush (two weeks later than last year). It was hoped that lower federal excise taxes scheduled for April 1 on such items as jewelry, luggage, cameras, sporting goods and furs would stimulate consumer buying.

In Short . . .

Released: By Russia, 238 Spanish prisoners, including some from the Spanish Civil War 17 years ago, from Red prison camps; negotiations are continuing for more than 400 Spanish POWs still in the Soviet Union.

Slain: Nine Arabs in a Jordan village by raiders who crossed the Israeli frontier, presumably in retaliation for an earlier raid on the Jewish village of Kissalon.

FIVE YEARS OF NATO

Gruenther: His Sphere Is Europe
FIFTH ANNIVERSARY of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization is this Sunday. The original pact was signed by 12 nations, later increased to 14 with Greece and Turkey. The United States has supplied all of NATO's supreme commanders in Europe. The first was Gen. Eisenhower who left in May, 1952, to campaign for the presidency. He was succeeded by Gen. Ridgway, who in turn was succeeded by Gen. Gruenther. SHAPE (Supreme Headquarters, Allied Powers, Europe) is at Fontainebleau, outside Paris. From a paper organization five years ago, NATO has grown into a formidable array of land, sea and air forces equipped with ultra-modern weapons. Thus far, it has fulfilled its purpose: to preserve peace by bolstering West Europe's defenses against the threat of Soviet aggression.

Resolute Policy Aimed at Geneva

By JAMES D. WHITE
Associated Press Far Eastern News Analyst

WELL in advance of the Geneva conference, the United States has blueprinted its determination to block Communist domination of Indochina and all Southeast Asia by "united action" if necessary.

Crime

Fewer Executions

There were fewer persons put to death for crimes in the United States last year than in any other previous year—although four of the 1953 executions were of international concern.

There were 62 executions last year—20 fewer than the previous low set in 1950. The Federal Prison Bureau, which compiled the statistics, reports that accurate national records go back only to 1930.

Among the 62 executions were atom spies Ethel and Julius Rosenberg and the kidnapers of Bobby Greenlease—Carl Austin Hall and Bonnie Heady. Those were federal executions under the espionage and "Lindbergh" kidnaping laws.

Of the other executions, 51 were for murder, seven for rape.

Juvenile Delinquency

Last week the medical director of the National Assn. for Mental Health suggested a program to end the "current hysterical excitement about juvenile delinquency."

Dr. George S. Stevenson said the frenzy of fault-finding and exposes is symptomatic of the public's unwillingness to deal with the problem squarely and to pay the full price of cutting down delinquency.

The problem, said Dr. Stevenson, could be effectively dealt with by relieving the social and economic "inequities which create the difficulty" and by providing adequate child guidance services to "enable detection and psychiatric treatment of emotional maladjustments."

Instead of this rational approach, said Dr. Stevenson, here is what happens: "The parents blame schools, schools blame parents, both blame the police and government officials. Nobody seems to want to get to the root of the problem and take realistic steps to solve it. It's easier and less costly to find a scapegoat."

James D. White

The call for "united action" had been approved earlier at a White House conference and, it is understood, the British and French had been informed.

Dulles made clear that he meant action by the United States and its allies, in contrast to previous speeches in which he spoke of possible retaliation by the United States.

The declaration climaxed a series of administration and congressional statements clarifying the policy which this country will pursue at Geneva. There on April 28, Dulles will meet with the other Big Four foreign ministers and invited delegates from Red China, North Korea and 14 United Nations countries.

Old Pressures

Blocking the way to success will be the same cold war pressures responsible for years of deadlock in Asia and Europe. These will clash again, more nakedly and bitterly than ever.

Chances are small that this conference may do more than rephrase the deadlocks which begot it. Both sides appear to hold positions basically unchangeable to each other on both Korea and Indochina. Yet both sides grow stronger daily. And both sides know it.

If Geneva ends in deadlock, each side will try to convince the world that the other is at fault and responsible for what ever follows. Russia and Red China deliberately have built up popular hopes of great things to be wrought there "for peace." If these things are not done, they will blame the West, mainly the United States.

To Ask Red Accounting

As one indication of American expectations, Dulles has said that having Red China at Geneva will force her "to account before the bar of world opinion"—for aggression in Korea and for supporting a breach of the peace in Indochina.

Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov is expected to produce something at Geneva designed to look very much to the French like a reasonable settlement in Indochina. Dulles' problem here would be to show it up for the trap it is likely to be.

At the Berlin conference which set up the meeting in Geneva, Molotov was maneuvered into disclosing that his big objective these days is to wreck the European Defense Community and the North Atlantic alliance. France's exhaustion in Indochina makes her interested in a face-saving way out, and Molotov could demand a price of French neutrality in Europe, which would mean the end of EDC.

Political Aspects

Yet there is just a possibility that Russia wants things quieter in Indochina for another important reason. The Russians believe Communist control of Indochina would open the way to all Southeast Asia. Lenin and Stalin told them so. The Russians also read maps, which show clearly that any Communist enterprise in Southeast Asia is going to be influenced by China. China is one-fifth of the human race, and it has been remodeled for five years by Chinese who are nationalistic as well as communist.

So the old question comes up: how powerful does Russia want China to become? Russia may be willing, if the Geneva conference fails, to see the most powerful Chinese army in history swarm into Southeast Asia. On the other hand, Molotov has to consider that China claimed hegemony over all Southeast Asia for centuries and that Red China never has abjured this claim.

Science

In the Beginning . . .

In theory, the universe grew from one small glob of neutral matter. It became heated and radioactive to form all the elements, including the common ones and the heavy, highly radioactive ones which soon disappeared. The universe, by this theory, resulted when the glob of matter blew apart, forming all the stars and planets.

Scientists today are creating atoms which died a few days or months after the birth of the universe four or five billion years ago.

Highly Radioactive

These atoms and elements have not existed anywhere from radioactive that they disappear quickly, giving off rays and changing into something else.

Before World War II man knew only 92 elements—such things as oxygen, carbon, iron, copper and lead. Uranium was No. 92.

Created Long Ago
These atoms and undoubtedly other still heavier elements were created when the universe began. Dr. I. Perlman, professor of chemistry at California, told the American Chemical Society at Kansas City.

One form of element 99 was obtained by bombarding uranium with nitrogen. A few hundred atoms were created. It is so radioactive that half of it disappears every 7 1/2 minutes. In a few hours, almost none is left.

At Arco, scientists created atoms of 99 and some of element 100 in an atomic pile. Neutrons (heavy atomic particles) were added step-by-step to plutonium, building up its nucleus and atomic charge to fashion the long-dead atoms.

They made atoms of 99 with a half-life of 20 days—in 20 days half is gone; in another 20 days, half of that. The atoms of element 100 had a half life of 36 hours. They were presumably born and died soon after creation.

There is no practical use for these long-dead atoms except in extending knowledge of atomic structure.

H-BOMB: It Can Destroy Any City

WITH THE President at his elbow, Lewis D. Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, declared at a White House conference this week that an H-bomb big enough to wipe out any city in the world now can be made.

"Any city?" he was asked. "New York?"
"The whole metropolitan area," Strauss replied.

Strauss said he saw no reason for concern over the unexpected force of the March 1 hydrogen test. "It was a stupendous blast," he said, "but at no time was the testing out of control." He said the power of the explosion had been about twice what scientists had anticipated—a margin of error not unusual in testing "a totally new weapon."

Talk with Russians?
Eisenhower said there was some possibility the Russians might be getting ready to talk about international control of atomic energy. The President said he welcomed this possibility.

Strauss, just back from the Pacific proving grounds, had witnessed the March 26 test, which was announced this week, but had not been present for the shattering explosion on March 1.

Bit by bit, the awesome power of that blast is being revealed. From all indications, that test—involving an actual usable H-bomb—packed a wallop 600 to 700 times greater than the A-bomb which virtually obliterated Hiroshima and killed 60,000 Japanese in the closing days of World War II.

Strauss said all tests to date have been successful in that they have revealed information scientists set out to obtain. The hydrogen tests are continuing and another, perhaps greater blast, is anticipated later this month.
Ever since details of the March 1 test began leaking out, demands have been heard in Congress for the President to let the public in on the real scope and significance of that explosion. The most Eisenhower would say a fortnight ago was that the effects were surprising even to the American scientists who conducted the tests. He declined to say more until he had had a briefing from Strauss, who returned to this country Sunday.

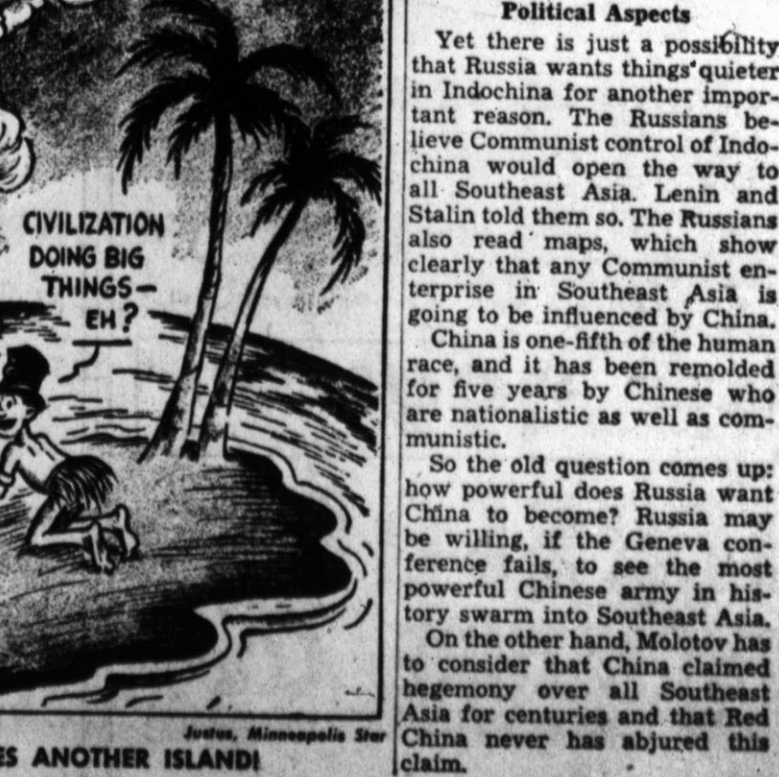

agents had tried to steal samples of the radioactive ash that fell on the fishing boats. There were other reports that U.S. counter-intelligence agents had thwarted them.

Britain—Prime Minister Churchill told Commons the American H-bomb tests were essential to free world defense and refused Laborite demands that he ask Eisenhower to have them called off.

Churchill called the H-bomb the "greatest possible deterrent against the outbreak of World War III."

The Labor party and many British newspapers had taken the position that the H-bomb tests foreshadow self destruction of the human race. There had been claims that American scientists didn't know the ultimate power of the weapons they were setting off.

Churchill retorted coldly that "from our own scientific knowledge" there is no foundation for these rumors.

Artistry Of Food, Flowers Program Presented At Club

Hereford Garden Club members heard a program on the Artistry of Food and Flowers at the meeting held Friday afternoon in the home of Mrs. John Jacobsen Jr. Mrs. S. S. Williams was assistant hostess.

Mrs. Rex Tynes stressed the program theme, "The Awakening of Spring," in her discussion, explaining the art in planning a table and a menu, and advocating a consideration of colors in the room, in table appointments and in the food.

"Do not use heavy foods on a table set with light textured linen, or fine china and glasses laid with coarse, patterned cloths," she commented. She showed slides of tables used in Southern Methodist University festivities. She further illustrated her talk by arranging a breakfast tray for guests, and displayed a birthday cake made in the shape of a lamb.

Arrangements for the day were made by Mrs. M. T. Rutter, who won first place with yellow and gold flowers with a fairy princess figurine.

Mrs. John Jacobsen Jr. placed second with lavender and yellow hyacinths and apple blossoms, with accents of rabbits. Third place was won by Mrs. S. S. Williams with an all yellow arrangement of jon-quils and forsythia. Judges were Mesdames Lee Roy Wilson, Jack Roberson and E. Ramey, assisted by Mrs. J. E. Livingston of Shreveport, La., a visitor.

Convention Plans Laid
During the business session members made plans to attend the District 1, Texas Garden Clubs Inc., annual convention which was held in Odessa Monday and Tuesday.

Plans were also discussed for the next meeting which will be on April 9, and will be in the form of a pilgrimage to Palo Duro Canyon for a study of wild flowers. Mrs. R. L. Criswell was welcomed as a new member.

Refreshments were served from a springtime table decorated with the lamb-cake and the fairy princess. Mrs. Rex Tynes poured. Those present were Mesdames O. H. Herring, J. H. Lomas, A. L. Manjeot, Ralph McCullough, E. Ramey, Jack Roberson, M. T. Rutter, Rex Tynes, S. S. Williams, Lee Roy Wilson, John Hacker, E. E. Fridley, Jeff Gilbreath, R. L. Criswell and E. D. Kelton.

Q. How can I keep omelets puffy?

A. By adding baking powder, in the proportions of one teaspoonful to six eggs, to the yolks.

Two Initiated By Rebekahs

Members of the Rebekah Lodge held an initiation service at the IOOF Hall Tuesday night. Initiates were Mrs. Carrie Mae Doak and Mrs. Glessie Shelton. Sandford Smith was re-instated.

Mrs. Ursalee Jacobsen served as initiation noble grand, Mrs. Charlotte Calvert as vice grand, Mrs. Aline Lomenick as chaplain and Mrs. Lydia Hopson as past noble grand.

Special guests were visitors from Rebekah Lodge No. 114 of Clovis, N. M. They included Mrs. Fern Davis, noble grand; Mrs. Myrtle Freeman, vice grand; Mrs. Faye Lambert, Mrs. Dorothy Abemathy and Mrs. Lou Jones, all past noble grands.

The refreshment committee included Mesdames Alta Davis, Lavine Malone, Earline Manning, Allie Fullwood, Catherine Russell and Ann Willier. Approximately 50 members attended.

Mrs. G. E. Mullins Speaks At Club

Mrs. G. E. Mullins was guest speaker at the L'Allegria Study Club meeting held Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Wm. D. Lawrence. Mrs. Ed Line was in charge of the program for the day and introduced the speaker who spoke on "The Far East" in general, and the Malay Peninsula where she lived with her missionary parents for six years, in particular.

Mrs. Mullins told of the people, their customs and habits of dress and described the islands that make up the group. She displayed cloth and souvenirs presented to her parents by the people when they left Malay.

The next meeting of the club will be in the form of a guest-day tea in the home of Mrs. J. R. Higgins on April 15.

Members of the club attending were Mesdames Darrell Blanton, Bill Dameron, James Edmonson, F. C. Glendenning, Hilton Higgins, Francis Hill, V. C. Hopson, Walter London Jr., L. H. Lookingbill Jr., Floyd Ross, Ed Line and the hostess.

Q. How can I set the crust of custard pie?

A. Custard pie should be first started to bake in a hot oven to set the crust. Then the heat of the oven should be quickly reduced so that the custard may cook slowly.

Q. How can I remove varnish from fabrics?

A. Saturate the fabric with turpentine, rub between the hands, and sponge with alcohol or chloroform.

Q. Should clothes be dried quickly when laundering?

A. Clothes dried slowly will always be whiter than those that are dried in a hurry.

Beauty at Home

By Lynn Carter

Q. Please suggest a good, quick skin-softening treatment.

A. One old, but good, treatment is just to coat face and throat with a little olive oil, and then rub briskly over this with some ordinary table salt.

Q. What is the best way to lipstick a mouth which has a rather heavy lower lip?

A. An optical illusion can be created if you use a lighter, brighter shade of color on the upper lip than on the lower. This makes it appear fuller and calls attention away from the heavy lower lip.

Q. What can be done for hair that has become rather streaky from over-dyeing?

A. Probably your best solution is an egg shampoo.

Q. What makeup aid will help a skin that is sallow?

A. Try a foundation with a rose beige or rosy brunette tone.

Q. How can I exercise to develop my shoulders, arms, and bust?

A. Stand erect, feet together, hands locked on top of head. Bring elbows together, until they touch in front of face; then force them back vigorously, attempting to make them touch in back. Keep head and chin up and back straight throughout. Ten times, rapidly.

Q. How can I encourage new hair growth on my scalp?

A. Hot-oil massages are good. Just before the shampoo, rub hot olive oil well into the scalp — then shampoo. In cases of extreme dryness, allow the oil to remain on overnight before shampooing.

Q. What makeup procedure is best for the square type of face?

A. Taper the eyebrows off toward the ends, and place rouge high on the cheekbones and blend it into the lower circles of the eyes. Dress the hair back and away from the temples, close to sides of your head.

Q. How can I mix an egg shampoo?

A. Combine the separately-beaten whites and yolks of two eggs. Add one cup warm water. Moisten the hair with warm water, and massage the eggs into the scalp. Rinse in warm, then cold, water and dry.

Q. What can I do about my eyebrows, which always seem so very "wild and woolly"?

A. Faithful and regular brushing with a small soft brush is your best answer to this little problem.

Q. My foundation makeup always seems to dry on my face, which is very dry. Is there anything I can do about this?

A. You can try leaving a thin film of your cleansing cream on when you apply your foundation.

Q. How can I bleach superfluous hair on my arms?

A. Use some peroxide with a few drops of ammonia added. Apply with cotton, as much as the arm will hold, then wash off when dry.

How Can I?

By Anne Ashley

Q. How can I successfully transplant a plant to a new flower pot?

A. Soak the new pot in water over night, in order to fill all the pores. Otherwise the water given the plant will be absorbed by the pot and have a tendency to wilt the foliage.

Q. How can I remove mud stains from black silk?

A. After removing the surface soil, rub the spots with a cut potato. The potato leaves a starchy deposit that can be brushed off when dry.

Q. How can I clean silver jewelry?

A. One teaspoonful of ammonia to a teaspoon of water, applied with a rag, will clean silver or gold jewelry.

Q. How can I prevent staining the fingers and clothes when using the bluing bottle?

A. The empty hair tonic bottle which has the top that permits only a few drops to come out at a time will make an excellent receptacle for bluing, and it will avoid the trouble of staining the hands.

Q. How can I remove vegetable stains from my hands, and soften and whiten the skin?

A. Rub over the hands with the skins of used lemons. This will remove all stains and restore the hands to a soft, white condition.

Q. How can I remove kerosene stains from carpets?

A. By sprinkling buckwheat flour over them; let stand awhile, then sweep up carefully; repeat, if necessary.

Mrs. M. F. Cherry and Mrs. Leo Forrest were hostesses the afternoon of March 26 at an informal tea honoring their daughter and sister, Mrs. J. H. Sears, a newcomer to Hereford.

Close friends called between the hours of 3 to 5 o'clock to meet Mrs. Sears and share in the party.

Accent of spring was provided in table decorations with coral and deep pink sweetpeas and larkspur. Other suggestions of the spring season were bouquets of jonquill and forsythia placed about the entertaining rooms.

Creamed chicken looks pretty and tastes good with a topping of diced avocado. Use this topping for creamed eggs or creamed ham, too, if you like. The bland avocado is particularly good with the ham.

Husbands Are Entertained By Kings Daughters Class

Kings Daughters Class of the First Baptist Church entertained husbands at a covered dish supper at the church March 26.

The Easter theme was used in decorations. Appointments featured shades of yellow, pink and green and Easter bunnies. Bob Lawrence gave the invocation.

After the meal a program was presented. Clarence Caywood sang "The Easter Parade," accompanied at the piano by Sandra Jo Caraway, and Gene Dickson sang "Here Comes Peter Cotton Tail," accompanying himself on the guitar. Clarence Caywood and Gene Dickson then sang "Sweet Violets," with Sandra Jo Caraway accompanying, and Johnny Whiteside gave a reading.

Mulled cider is delicious to serve with a snack on a cool night. Heat the cider with brown sugar to taste and a dash of cinnamon, cloves and allspice. If you use a stick of cinnamon and whole cloves and allspice, strain the cider before serving. If you use ground spices, straining is not necessary.

"I Could Write A Sonnet...

About Your Easter Bonnet...

And of the Girl I'm

Taking to the Easter Parade"

Sonnets don't have much to do with charge accounts and credit. Bonnets do, though, and so does Easter. And if Irving Berlin had stuck to the facts, he would have given credit to credit!

Today's Hereford customer is so accustomed to charging the family's Easter outfit that it is seldom paid for in the month when it is first worn. Not only Easter clothes, say Hereford merchants, but many other things are being sold this season. Spring housecleaning means new curtains, rug replacements, and all sorts of household goods. And then there are the families who struggled through just one more winter with that old car. They're looking around at the new models.

Whether its cars, clothes, or whatever your need may be, Hereford merchants are happy to oblige with credit conveniences for all customers who are dependable. As one merchant points out, "A credit transaction can be even better than a cash transaction -- for both customer and seller! The customer gets merchandise or services he might have had to wait for, and the seller makes a sale he might otherwise have lost."

So don't feel hesitant about applying for credit at one of Hereford's stores. They want to sell you. And don't feel self-conscious if they ask you for a little information about yourself. This is only the reasonable precaution that every merchant must take in order to stay in business and accommodate credit customers.

New School Trustees Face Grave Challenge

By necessity, this editorial must be written well in advance of the school trustee election Saturday. Perhaps this is a good thing.

Frankly, we are all aware of the fact that our school politics have gotten out of hand. We are very much like a big family with a home, a comparatively good income -- and a dozen different ideas on how it should be spent. To say that the situation is our fault would be wrong, for a similar situation exists in many other communities over the state and nation.

The situation is due, to a large extent, to the ever increasing school enrollment. It is also due to changes in educational methods which the people do not understand, and which administrators have not explained -- or justified. Both of these circumstances have resulted in high and, sometimes, burdensome taxes. Like residents of other American hamlets, towns and cities, the people of Hereford and Deaf Smith County are restless and generally discontented following the rapid pace demanded for victory in World War II.

All of these things seem to have mushroomed into an explosion centered around our schools. It has crept, like cancer, into other elections, into civic clubs -- even into fraternal and church organizations. Hereford, once noted for its unity in community affairs, is fast following the sad pattern of communities less fortunate. Personalities have been openly attacked. Accusations have bandied back and forth. The situation, we all agree, is bad. Worse, however, is the fact that our dearest possession -- our public schools -- are in a position to suffer the greatest loss.

In addition, most of the people we encounter are unhappy over the outcome. They want to see the school situation drop these controversies, and concentrate on having good schools. If changes have to be made to accomplish this end, they want changes. The people have only one place where they can tell this story. That place is at the polls.

Like you, we have no way of knowing now the outcome of the election. We do know, however, that the three persons selected are challenged with the most difficult task any office holder in this community has possibly ever confronted. The future of the entire community, in a large measure, rests in their hands. To overcome the present situation, they will be called upon to cast aside pet peeves or personal prejudice; they will, at times, have to forget friendships -- even pride. They will be required, at all times, to consider and to carefully evaluate school problems in terms of Abraham Lincoln's oft-quoted phrase "of the people, by the people . . . for the people." These kinds of people cannot be hired for money any more than they can be bribed by flattery or misled through false logic. They have to be elected -- at the polls, by a citizenship interested in the welfare of all.

We don't know who these people are, but we sincerely hope that by the time this newspaper reaches you they will have been named as trustees of the Hereford Rural High School District.

Industrial Growth Is Bound To Come

Today marks completion of Industrial Week in Texas. The occasion, except for a few displays, club programs and newspaper publicity, attracted little interest in Hereford. Texas-wide, however, the story is different.

In recent years, Texas has made gigantic strides as an industrial center. The trend, we predict, will continue. Texas has much to offer in the way of raw materials, labor, transportation, housing, fuel reserves and reasonable taxes. Hereford, too, has an abundance of these attractive industrial assets and may, in time, follow the general Texas trend.

The coming of industry presents problems. The same was true, however, with the influx of agriculture into the open ranges of the cattle country. Many of our own people resent industrial growth, just as the cattle barons of 50 years ago opposed the settling of nesters in this very community. Consequently, Hereford's showing this week was comparatively meager. This area is basically and primarily agricultural. How long it remains such will depend upon several factors, including demand for products, national trends and the attitude of our citizenship.

In the final analysis, however, Hereford will be the home of several industrial plants. Like the coming of agriculture, this accomplishment may take half a century in the doing, but it is bound to come. Location, resources and a generous supply of water will, in the long run, make the difference. Agriculture will, of course, continue to contribute greatly to the income and welfare of the community, just as the cattle industry today contributes a lion's share in our economic welfare. The ultimate coming of industry will no more spell doom for agriculture than agriculture did for our cattle. All three factors will be consolidated, working hand in hand.

"This editor thinks we Americans have set such a fast pace of life that we are losing the art of gracious and wholesome living; we are on the move day and night to keep up with our business and social obligations; to keep just one jump ahead of the tax and bill collectors, and one lap ahead of that monster we know as communism." GARNER, IOWA, LEADER & SIGNAL & HERALD.

"The administration's policy is geared to peacetime prosperity, which is the only kind of prosperity that can be maintained on a sound and permanent footing. If it means temporary sacrifices real Americans will take them in stride." BELLINGHAM, WASH., HERALD.

QUESTION OF THE WEEK

Even Biggest H-Bomb Couldn't Preclude Possibility Of War

Considering the latest H-bomb's power, do you think it will help prevent war, or just cause Russia to work harder to make a bigger one?

MRS. LEROY AVEN
"I believe that Russia may try to make a larger bomb but I don't believe that we in the United States have anything to get panicky about. I think that we are ahead of them in atomic research, but of course, I think that they will try to do everything in their power to catch up with us. I don't believe that there is any reason for us to worry because I think that Russia more or less realizes our power."

MRS. R. L. HARMS
"Of course I believe that Russia will try to make a bigger H-bomb. It works just like anything else. Let someone get something and the other fellow always wants something bigger and better."

JACK MITCHELL
"I believe it will help prevent war because I believe a bomb of that size will scare the Russian people as a whole. I think that the government officials will be forced to go along with the majority of the people and they will not try to make a bigger one."

MRS. J. F. BASS
"I think that Russia will try to make a bigger bomb. I believe that we are just getting ready to go into war. When you listen to the news all you hear is how many bombs they are making and where they are dropping them. I almost hate to turn on the radio and have to listen to it."

MRS. A. A. HARE
"I think that the latest H-bomb will go a long way to prevent war with Russia. If they do try to make a better bomb it will probably take them several years to complete it and we will have that much more peace. Russia has to be pushed or scared into anything, you can't seem to reason with them. So I think that this bomb will go a long way to establish peace in the world."

We saw one of those license plates from New Mexico that the sand had taken all the paint off of. Don't believe a feller could have done a much better job with a can of paint remover, as there was hardly enough color left in the corner to give a clue if the raised letters hadn't told us the car came from the Sunshine State.

It's real nice of the weatherman to try to pacify us by telling us all the advantages of having 60 tons per square mile of our neighboring state's fine top soil added to our farms and grass lands but personally we had just as soon they were able to keep it at home and let us go on with what we had last year.

Sheep may look pretty stupid but a ewe usually knows just how to maneuver her wobbly little lamb around to the lunch counter for that first milk that puts "Juber" into his heels in a hurry. In a few hours he will be able to follow her out to pasture and in a day or so will be racing with the others up and down the irrigation ditches like a bunch of children.

Before we did away with our wooden cellar door a few years ago we had several lambs that would jump off the board at the top and slide all the way to the bottom on their feet. They were wiser than human beings who wind up with torn wearing apparel or a pair of tweezers.

Austin — All of Governor Allan Shivers' proposals are moving along in the legislature. Passed by the House Revenue and Taxation committee was the governor's tax measure, levying on beer, franchise taxes and natural gas.

To raise about $25 million a year the tax is designed to pay for increased salaries for teachers and state employees and for stat buildings. Before passing the committee by a vote of 16 to 4, the tax bill was changed in one particular; instead of a gathering tax, it is an increase on production, from 5.72 to 9.06 per cent of market value at the well.

Also in the House, the appropriations committee reported favorably a bill to spend $10,718,000 for buildings. In the Senate, the story was the same: Shivers' proposals were being pushed through to enactment. Finally passed by the upper house was a bill to outlaw Communists.

This measure, which was approved unanimously, provides up to 20 years in prison for members of the party or its branches.

Only One Opponent Also finally passed was a bill to increase the pay of state employees by $120 per year. Senator Jimmy Phillips of Angleton had opposed the measure, which won by a vote of 24 to 5.

Phillips was also the opponent of an $11 million program for state building, but he was the only one to vote against it as the proposal finally passed, 25 to 1.

Also approved by the Senate was the Aikin $24 million proposition to give teachers a pay raise. Vote on this measure was 27 to 1, the opposition coming from Senator William H. Shireman of Corpus Christi.

Shireman's opinion was that the Senate ought not to vote on the additional expenditure for teacher pay prior to the passage of a tax bill in the House. Said the senator: "We don't want to write a hot check, like we did last time."

In the last session of the legislature, a pay raise bill for teachers was passed, but it died because no revenue bill was provided to pay the cost.

Some Debate To Come

There is yet to be some debate before the legislature makes its final decisions. For example, Representative Joe Burkett of Kerrville protested the proposed 60 percent increase in corporation franchise taxes.

Difference of opinion also arose in the House in the shape of a bill presented by Representative Charles Murphy of Houston. This bill provides an alternative to the teacher pay raise proposition offered by the governor.

Murphy's bill would give school districts $400 more per year per teacher, but would not entail raising all teachers' pay by that amount. The present $2,402 annual pay minimum would be retained, but extra money would permit merit raises up to $800 per year for any teacher.

There are other provisions in the bill, which Murphy said would give local trustees the opportunity to decide whether they want to accept the increased state allowance along with the greater local responsibility for financing the school program.

Beer Tax in Deep Freeze

Placed in a House deep freeze was the $10 per barrel beer tax offered by Representative Joe Pool of Dallas. In its place, the House committee passed the Governor's suggested tax increase of 63 cents per barrel, bringing the total tax to $2. Rep. Joe Kilgore of McAllen presented the Governor's idea on the $2 tax.

Adjoining states of Louisiana and Oklahoma both tax beer at the $10 per barrel rate. Pool pointed out at a meeting of the House revenue and taxation committee.

Deprive Of Jury Trial?

A part of the anti-communist legislation met trouble in the form of opposition from religious organizations, three labor groups, and some members of the Senate civil jurisprudence committee. Objections to setting up a state Loyalty Board of Review, which would deal with suspected Communists, were on the grounds that it would deprive Texans of the right of trial by jury.

Senator Rogers of Edinburg, one of the bills authors, moved that the measure be sent to a subcommittee for rewriting, and the motion passed.

FIRE FROM SAND

Can a dust storm start a fire? Maybe not, but a series of them can. City Fire Chief H. B. Johnson blamed accumulated dust in a fuse type switch with a fire at 1103 Tenth street here Wednesday night. Sand caused the switch to arc, resulting in a fire which damaged the wall of a four-room frame stucco house occupied by Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Bird. The building is owned by C. C. Whiteside of Whitharal. Damage was listed at $50. The Hockley County Herald — PP —

LAKE KILLING DUCKS

An estimated 200 ducks have died during the past three weeks in the lake about six miles east of Dalhart along the road to Etter, Game Warden Jess Felts said this morning. Apparently they are dying from poison created by decaying vegetation in the shrinking lake, he said. The stricken ducks, and those still left on the lake, are known as river and pond ducks, and feed in shallow water. They include mallards, shovelers and gray ducks. Felts says the ducks likely will keep on dying until those that are left start their annual migration northward. The Dalhart Texan — PP —

BOND ISSUE APPROVED

The taxpayers of Littlefield School District approved by an overwhelming vote of 509 to 80 Saturday a $375,000 bond issue to build 35 more grade school classrooms, enlarge the vocational agricultural building, and modernize the junior high school. Beautiful weather helped get out the unusually heavy vote. County Wide News — PP —

The BOOTLEG Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm must have his mind on tornadoes, his letter this week indicates.

Dear editor: A pretty high wind was blown out here on my farm the other day and I was standin by the side of the barn with a dip net seein how many newspapers I could catch as they blew past and after I'd gotten all I figured I needed, never did like to see a man make a pig of himself, with fish or newspapers either, I got in out of the wind and started readin.

Over on an inside page of one paper I ran into an article that knocked me over, even if I was out of the wind.

Accordin to this article, a tornado hit a town in Nebraska a while back and blew down a lot of buildings and after it was over the editor of the local newspaper up there said it was a good thing, it should have happened 20 years earlier, now the town could get some modern buildings.

I want you to know I do not take such an attitude, and I hope the idea will not spread.

My barn for example is not what you'd call modernistic, it ain't exactly upright, it may lean a little to the east, the roof may leak in places, but I wouldn't be interested in encouragin a tornado to attend to it. It doesn't take a cow long to find out where the dry spots are in a barn, and I figure a barn which has leaned for twenty years can go on leaning a few years more.

Or take my house. It ain't what you'd call any style of architecture in particular, and I guess there are people who might call it an eyesore, but I can sleep as sound in it as I could in a 20-room mansion and frequently there are times when I get more sleep in it than Eisenhower does in the White House. I'll admit the front gate sags, but not any more than the shoulders of lots of men who have worked their heads off to get bronze hinges on their gates. As for me, I get sense enough to put my shoulders ahead of my gate.

Understand, I'm not opposed to progress, I like to see new buildings go up, new homes, etc., but I don't want anybody, either a tornado or the government telling me when I ought to do something about my own premises. Even a few well-placed bombs might result in eventual progress, but I doubt if there's anybody in favor of one fallin in my vicinity.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Let's Cook Something

The Lenten season gives a cue to many hostesses for home entertaining. Fish, of course, is an all year food but interests the housewife especially during the meatless season.

Today one good home cook tells what she does with fish. She is Mrs. Frank Prowell whose family favors fish on any occasion. Many of her recipes were used in college when she majored in home economics at New Mexico A&M College near Las Cruces as does this one for baked halibut with a sauce that turns a single fish into a delightful morsel to serve four.

Baked Halibut

Sprinkle the halibut, or ocean perch, or any of the frozen fillets, with onion salt and pepper, then sprinkle lightly with monosodium glutamate, which does not add to the flavor but brings out the flavor of the food, and brush with butter.

Place in buttered baking pan and bake at 350-F degrees for 25 or 30 minutes, depending on the size. Sprinkle with paprika when removed from oven and serve with lemon juice of barbecue sauce. The Prowells prefer the sauce.

Fried Shrimp

BATTER:

- 1 beaten egg
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- Dash of pepper

Drop raw or frozen shrimp in boiling water for 2 minutes. Remove shells and veins and split in half but do not cut through.

Dip in batter and then in crumbs and drop in deep fat to fry at 375 degrees. Fry until brown, then drain on paper. Serve at once.

Mrs. Prowell says she likes to serve shrimp with a tossed salad and some kind of vegetable, thus making a whole meal.

Scouring Faucets

When scouring the faucets, be careful to clean away all scouring grit from the joints, or it will work into the threads and soon wear them.

Pineapple Plant

If the top of a pineapple is placed in a glass jar with water it will soon take root. Then place in a flower pot and it will make a pretty plant.

Vaseline Jelly Stains

Vaseline jelly stains can be removed from clothing, by moistening the spots with a mixture of 1 part aniline oil, 1 part powdered soap, 10 parts water. Allow it to remain for 10 minutes, then wash with water.

Highlights..

Duval Developments
 There were several developments in the Duval County situation:
 1. Supreme Court Justice James E. Hickman appointed retired Judge A. S. Lightfoot of Bonham to the 79th District judgeship, replacing District Judge C. Woodrow Laughlin of Alice, who was removed from office.
 2. In the Senate, a resolution that state funds be denied Duval County and its two independent school districts was temporarily put aside.
 Senator Kilmer Corbin of Lubbock introduced the resolution, which was saved from oblivion by Senator W. H. Shireman of Corpus Christi, a political foe of Duval County's George B. Parr.
 Shireman said he had not been consulted about the resolution, but that killing it would permit some factions to say "you endorse what has gone on down there."
 3. Attorney General John Ben Shepperd asked District Attorney Raeburn Norris of Alice to seek an injunction preventing destruction of the Duval County School districts' records.
 Checks and vouchers have been destroyed at the end of each year, according to Shepperd's information, but he said that they should be preserved as public records.
 Norris promised appropriate action.
 4. George Parr was fined $150 for illegally carrying a gun. He paid off in cash.
 In county court, a six-man jury had the alternative of fining Parr or sending him to jail for one month to a year. When it was all over, Parr shook hands with County Attorney Sam Burris and said: "I thought you made a darn good argument."

Refuge Gas Gathering Tax
 Checks amounting to nearly $11 million were handed to an Austin attorney as the state began repaying funds collected under a gas gathering tax, passed by the last Legislature and declared void by the U. S. Supreme Court.
 Still in a suspense fund is about $15 million, which will be refunded to the gas companies as soon as legal procedure can be completed.
 Food packages will be sent to drought-stricken West Texas counties, Governor Shivers announced. The State Department of Public Welfare will ship 150 cases of food to Dawson County.
 In the same area, highway projects totalling about $3 million are being expedited with the aid of the Texas Employment Commission. Further assistance to dry West Texas may come from the U. S. Department of Agriculture, in the form of funds to work against wind erosion.
Inspection Deadline Coming
 April 15 is the deadline for your car's annual inspection and obtaining your safety sticker. Col. Homer Garrison, Jr., Director of the Department of Public Safety, reports that some three-quarters of a million Texas motorists have yet to have their cars inspected.
Traffic Toll Towa
 Col. Garrison also reported that Texas' traffic death toll in 1953 was 5.2 percent under 1952. Total deaths last year — 2,368.
 The reduction gave Texas a 6.4 death rate — lowest in the history of accident analysis in Texas. All of this is in spite of the fact that Texas motorists racked up nearly 1 1/2 billion more miles than during 1952.
 Total number of injuries dropped also. The economic loss declined by more than $5 million — to a total of $148,958,000 for the year. Total number of accidents decreased too. December again proved to be the most deadly month of the year.

SHORT SNORTS: John C. White, Texas Commissioner of Agriculture, urged water conservation in a speech at Corsicana, saying that the state should inaugurate its own program without waiting for the federal government. . . Governor Shivers said he would personally invite President Eisenhower to attend the dedication of Big Bend National Park April 25-27.

Annual Ceramic Show Planned

Plans for the annual Ceramic Art Show were made when the Hereford Ceramic Art Club met in the home of Mrs. R. C. Childers Thursday afternoon.
 The show is slated for May with Mrs. Don Root as general chairman. Working with Mrs. Root are Mesdames Franklin Miller, Glenn Boardman and V. C. Dodson, members of the publicity committee, and Mesdames F. M. Kester and O. H. Culpepper, committee on arrangements.
 During the business portion of the meeting members voted to continue the past year's project, "The class for exceptional children in Central School." Each member of the club contributes one special piece of ceramics to be sold either in the annual show or privately, and the money is used for the project.
 Mrs. R. C. Childers presented the work program giving a demonstration in applying lace in ceramic art. She showed the art of applying lace to a shoe and Mrs. Don Root demonstrated an application on a dish.
 Members attending the meeting were Mesdames Glenn Boardman, Carlos Vaughn, C. M. Cox, Phil Radovich, Don Root and the host-

THE SUBMARINE

SCRAMBLES INTO A
CAVE FOR SAFETY

REX RACES THROUGH THE CAVE --
COMING OUT THE OTHER SIDE INTO A HUGE NATURAL POTHOLE. THE SUBMARINE RADIOS THE NEWS TO A WAITING WORLD...

THERE HE IS! HIS ONLY WAY OUT IS
THE CAVE MOUTH
ON THE COAST!
IF THAT WERE SEALED--

TRAPPED IN A NATURAL CAGE!
I'LL RADIO THE AIR FORCE!

A BOMBER QUICKLY
DROPS AN "EGG" AT
THE CAVE MOUTH--
SEALING IT WITH TONS OF ROCK THAT NOT EVEN
REX CAN PUSH ASIDE...

POSSIBLY ESCAPE HERE!
WHAT LUCK!
NOW WE CAN STUDY HIM.

IF HE'D GONE
ANYWHERE ELSE,
WE'D HAVE HAD TO KILL HIM. REX
CAN'T BE SMART ENOUGH TO KNOW THAT.

REX'S POTHOLE
IS RAILED OFF
