ONE POSTPONED Pair Acquitted Here by Juries

Two Hereford men were acquitted by juries in trials here Wednesday afternoon with County Judge Homer Henslee presiding.

Vincente Torres was acquitted on a charge of aggravated assault. Members of the jury were Mrs. Bruce Carter, John Robinson, N. D. Bartlett, Mont E. Baker, Buddy Evans and Jessie E. Odum.

Man Arrested on Charge of Rape

Jose Pesina, 57, was arrested and charged with statutory rape Saturday morning. City police made the arrest at Pesina's home on north Ave. D.

SEVERAL COPIES of a petition were put into circulation the early part of this week, mostly in the rural parts of the county, and if the required number of signatures are obtained, an election will probably be held in conjunction with the July 26 Democratic Primary to determine whether the people of Deaf Smith want a county road engineer.

Ten per cent of the number voting for governor at the last preceding general election in Deaf Smith is required to sign the petition, according to Optional County Road Law of 1947.

Under this provision, 274 signatures must be obtained, since 2,741 voted Nov. 6, 1956, in the last general election.

THE PETITIONS are to be turned over to the Deaf Smith County Commissioners' Court, and an election must be called not less than 30 days and not more than 60 days from the date of filing.

If the required petition signatures are obtained, and a majority vote is for the optional county road law, a county road engineer shall be appointed by the commissioners' court, according to the law.

THE LAW PROVIDES that if, after two years the people do not wish to stay under the provisions

REMEMBERING—Retiring Postmaster Jim Lipscomb talks over the past 18 1/2 years in the Hereford Post Office with five men who were working there when Lipscomb took office.

AFTER 18.5 YEARS SERVICE

Lipscomb Retires Friday From Postmaster Office

When Jim Lipscomb retires as Hereford's postmaster Friday after 18 1/2 years of service, he can look back on 18 1/2 years of continuous business and population growth.

However, Lipscomb, 62, doesn't plan to sit back and loaf. He'll go right back to work, this time on his farm 12 miles northwest of Hereford.

"I WAS A FARMER before I started in the Post Office and I'll go back to being one. You never run out of work on a farm," he said.

Dimmitt Man Shot By W. W. Jones

W. W. Jones, 41, former Hereford city policeman and now Dimmitt city marshal, was involved in a scuffle at Dimmitt Thursday which resulted in the death of Bill Morris, 31, a sign painter.

Morris was shot once during the fight when Jones' pistol discharged. Sheriff Jack Cartwright of Castro County said no charges will be filed against Jones.

irrigated farm and grows grain sorghum, wheat and cotton.

Lipscomb's replacement has not been named as yet.

When he was appointed postmaster by President Franklin Roosevelt on Aug. 16, 1939, there were only three clerks in the old Post Office building in the 100 block of Main.

Other departments also reflect Hereford's growth. There are now six city carriers covering 35 miles per day as compared with one regular carrier and one part-time man walking eight miles in 1939.

In 1939 there was one daily rural route, three tri-weekly routes and one Star route, totaling 210 miles. Now there are five daily routes and one Star route covering 330 miles.

The Post Office was moved from its 40 by 78 feet building to the 7,200 square feet building on June 22, 1940.

IN 1939 Hereford's population was about 2,500. It is estimated at 7,500 now.

Lipscomb has lived in Deaf Smith County almost all of his life. His dad, A. J. Lipscomb, filed a claim here in the early '90's. Jim's mother went home to Wood County to give birth to Jim in 1896 because there were no doctors in this area then. She came back to Deaf Smith County as soon as she was able to travel and Jim has been here ever since.

Looking back at the past 18 1/2 years, Lipscomb considers the expansion of city and rural routes the biggest accomplishment of the Post Office here.

"Every block that can qualify is getting city delivery now and all those tri-weekly routes are daily now," he said.

"No, I don't recall any major problems, unless it was operating on the budget we had for the first few years. You always have trouble, but there are good spots, too."

As a tribute to his administration; the employees at the Post Office gave him a surprise farewell dinner Thursday night in the Hotel Jim Hill. They also gave him and his wife a complete barbecue unit.

BRIEF SPEECHES were made by Owen Stagner for the rural carriers, Elmer Patterson for the office employees and Marvin Knox

Secretary Benson has the authority to set supports anywhere from zero to 90 per cent of parity. Under his flexible price support system, he could have justified a reduction in the rates.

Benson also announced Friday that three other feed grain crops, oats, rye and barley, would be supported at 70 per cent of parity.

Rates of the other crops will be 61 cents per bushel for oats, the same as last year; 93 cents for barley, compared with 95 cents

Herd Scoring Attack Is Well-Balanced

HEREFORD'S WHITEFACES, District 1-AAA champions, will carry a well-balanced scoring attack into the Region I basketball tournament at Lubbock Friday and Saturday.

Excluding a game played against Dimmitt here last night, the Herd had tallied 1,441 points in 23 games for an average of 62.6 per game. Their opponents had totaled 1,235 points for a 53.2 average.

The Whitefaces have six players who have scored more than 100 points this season.

Captain and forward Jim Cursinger leads all scorers with 430 points and an 18.7 game average. Senior guard Fred Lookingbill ranks second with 260 points and senior center and co-captain Terry Higgins has dunked 197 points.

The Hereford-Dimmitt game was scheduled late Wednesday. Results were not available at press time. The Whitefaces had beaten Dimmitt, District 1-AA winner, twice during the season, 54-53 and 53-51.

Coach Cuby Kitchens is trying to schedule another practice game before the tournament starts but as of Saturday morning had not found an opponent.

In the Region I tourney Hereford meets Snyder of District 3-AAA at 8:30 p.m. The other two teams Kermit of 3-AAA and Graham of 4-AAA, collide at 7 p.m. All games will be in the Texas Tech coliseum.

Region's Price Not Released

Secretary of Agriculture Benson Friday announced that grain sorghums will be supported at 70 per cent of parity in 1958, the same as last year. The price will amount to $1.83 per hundred weight on the national average.

In Deaf Smith County, where grain sorghums are a prime money crop, the loan price probably will be $1.73 per hundred, based on freight rates to shipping ports.

Last year the loan price was $1.86 on the national average and $1.76 here. The three cent reduction stems from expiration on the farm bill which provided the extra three cents on a tie-in with non-compliance corn crops.

THE PRICE SUPPORTS on the 1958 maize crop will be in effect until Jan. 31, 1959. On the 1957 crop the final date was extended until Feb. 28 of this year because of lateness in the harvest.

Faust Collier, county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation manager, said Saturday he had not received any orders on the loan prices for this area.

The announcement was welcomed by farmers and businessmen alike in the county. Last year approximately 135,000 acres of grain sorghum were grown in this county and about 400 million pounds were harvested.

Farmers had been delaying plans for spring plowing while they awaited announcement of the 1958 price supports. Planting of crops is usually done in December and January.

Under his flexible price support system, he could have justified a reduction in the rates.

Benson also announced Friday that three other feed grain crops, oats, rye and barley, would be supported at 70 per cent of parity.

Rates of the other crops will be 61 cents per bushel for oats, the same as last year; 93 cents for barley, compared with 95 cents

PETE COWART

Named State Park Chiefs' President

Has city. But from there, she will repeat her 1954 type of traveling and just go where her whims take her.

Everything she will wear during the extended vacation will be packed in two suitcases. She thought at first she might be able to put all her needs in one, as she did in '54, but found while packing this week she would have to take along two.

What does a woman need for such a venture? How can such a frail (less than 100 pounds) little female tend to so much weight?

TRAVELER'S CHECKS, top coat, rain coat, two wool suits, a silk suit, nylon sport dress, nylon cocktail dress, costume jewelry to complement wardrobe, traveler's checks, 30 pairs of nylon stockings, four pairs of shoes, two sets of thin nylon underwear, traveler's checks, one set of heavy nylon underwear, one brush nylon pair of pajamas.

One pair of summer nylon pajamas, traveler's checks, housecoat of nylon, nylon net bedroom slippers, nylon net wool net socks for sleeping in (she says one freezes in bed at night without them), one set of accessories (hat and purse), traveler's checks, two wool sweaters, several scarves (to add color to "drab looking suits"), two girdles, a camera and 12 rolls of film, traveler's checks, two nylon slippers, a bed pillow, passports, visas, medical certificates (for re-entering the country), medical supplies, extra pair of glasses and an extra set of false teeth (which wasn't supposed to have been listed).

Considering such a long trip of so many miles and days, the list seems rather small to today's modern family which usually packs a couple of suitcases, and an overnight bag for a weekend at the lake.

Mrs. Eubanks says she was taking with her approximately $3,000 in traveler's checks, for expenses along. This does not include what she will need for random traveling in Europe. She figures her expenses will amount to $20 per day, plus fares.

Need A Ride To Lubbock?

Tuesday is the deadline for obtaining seats on a chartered bus to Lubbock Friday for the Region I basketball tournament.

Snyder has won 16 games while losing 12 this season. Graham has the best record of any other team in the tourney with 23 wins and four losses. Kermit has won 13 and lost 11. A complete story on the three teams will appear in the Thursday Brand.

CUNNINGHAM SAID the minimum number of passengers necessary to charter a bus is 29.

If that number is not reached, money will be returned to those who have purchased seats.

The bus or buses will leave at 2:30 p.m. Friday from the high school.

Pinning a Rose On Mrs. Davis IT'S: HER POINT OF VIEW

By BETTY BABIONE

MY, IT DOES seem that I now have mental lapses more often than ever, and have surely had plenty of 'em in the past. Anyway, before I forget this again, I want to pin a rose on Mrs. W. C. Davis.

Now I would be the first one to agree that neither this column nor the character of Parly Limer, which I assume for writing same, amounts to a hill of beans. So I feel rather flattered that it was an idea expressed in this column which prompted Mrs. Davis' recent letter to The Editor. It was a gracious but firm rebuttal to the blast I gave the subject of selling Christmas Trees the minute December rolls around — hope you read her viewpoint, as well as mine.

But today I am not handing out roses for graciousness or firmness. I do, instead, commend Mrs. Davis for not being afraid to let the world, in general, know that she has an opinion and for having the gumption to let me, in particular, know that she disagrees with my point of view.

You stop to think of it, and you might see that too few people even form an opinion of what they read in the newspaper, much less use the right to express what they feel or think.

Maybe I'd best leave the subject before I get off on another of my typical tangents. (P. S. to Mrs. Davis: since your December letter was not mailed until February 1, I assume that you, like me, are sometimes forgetful, too).

NOW, IN the way of small talk, I wager there are very few who have not entered into conversations on at least one of the following topics this week: "As the World Turns" (apparently the favorite television soap opera among Herefordites — and my, isn't it getting exciting?!). "Tradin' Britches" (obviously a clever sales idea on the part of Charlie Seeds and his crew down at the Ford place). "Peyton Place" (both the book and the movie). "The District 1-AAA Basketball Champion-

CALCUTTA, largest city of India, will be reached by the Hereford traveler April 6. After two days there, she will leave for Nepal, and its capital, Kathmandu. April 10 she will be in Benares and the 11th and 12th in New Delhi, where she will see the tomb of Mahatma Gandhi among many other sights.

Two days will be spent in Vale of Kashmir, after flying by the lofty peaks of the Himalayas. Here she will live for two days, April 13-14, on a houseboat and travel about on the river and lakes.

Another week will be spent in India, seeing Agra, Fatehpur Sikri, Jaipur, and Madras.

CEYLON will be the next country on her agenda, arriving in Colombo April 21. Here she will visit Kanda, and the sacred city of Ceylon, last capital of the Sinhalese.

April 25-26 will be spent in Bomba, second largest city in India. Leaving by evening plane, Mrs. Eubanks will arrive in Cairo, Egypt, early the morning of April 27. Here she will see the Citadel, Mosque of Mohamed Ali, Tombs of the Cadiffs, City of the Dead, and the world's greatest museum. A side trip to Luxor will also be had to see the temple of Karnak. While in Cairo, Mrs. Eubanks will be staying in the New Shepherd's Hotel.

On May 2, Mrs. Eubanks will be taken to Jerusalem, where she will see the Garden of Gethsemane, the Mount of Olives, the Holy Sepulchre, Mosque of Omar and Dome of the Rock, the Walling Wall, Stations of the Cross and nearby Bethlehem.

Two days will be spent in Lebanon and Syria. Here she will visit Beirut, capital of Lebanon, Baalbek and Damascus.

Istanbul, Turkey, will be the next country visited, May 10-12. Here she will see St. Sophia, the Blue Mosque and take a boat ride on the Bosphorus.

From the mighty Acropolis at Athens, Greece, she will have a view of the rather modern city while amid the famous temples of the ancient city.

MAY 15 SHE will arrive by an afternoon flight in Rome. From here, Mrs. Eubanks plans to embark on a seven or eight month tour of Europe, all the way into the Arctic Circle.

She said she planned to visit every country in Europe, with one exception — Russia.

A series of national and world famous festivities are on her personal itinerary while here. She plans to visit the World Fair at Brussels, Belgium, and many other such events.

"I enjoy traveling and seeing all the different people and sights," said Mrs. Eubanks before leaving. "But there are three things one must have for this sort of thing. Traveler's checks, traveler's checks and traveler's checks."

for the city carriers. A Petersen served as toastmaster and Bill Lenderman, chamber of commerce manager, gave the main speech.

Also attending were Gordon Jordan, Amarillo postmaster; Red Weatherskad, district manager; Mel Bernisch, assistant district manager, and Al Pfannmiller, inspector.

Five men who were working at the Post Office when Lipscomb took office are still there. They are Petersen, Stagner, Patterson, E. W. Young and E. Ramey.

WHEN LIPSCOMB told district officials of his plan to retire, he received the following note from Weatherskad: "We know you have earned a well-deserved rest, but are sorry to lose you from the organization. Under your direction, the post office at Hereford has become one of the outstanding postal installations in our district."

Not since 1949 has the local office had lower than a 90 per cent rating on inspections.

Lipscomb says he hopes to get in some fishing, "but, I'll plot that up when the time comes. You get ulcers if you try to plan too far ahead," he noted.

"I would like to express my appreciation to everybody in general, those in the office and the carriers and the customers. I've never worked with any more cooperative people," he said.

REMEMBER WHEN?

By CHARLIE SEEDS

The giant silver dirigible was named the Hindenburg. She was the largest in the world, and this was her maiden voyage over the ocean from Germany. She arrived at Lakehurst, New Jersey, and began gently to teeter toward the earth. The ground crew moved out to moor the ship. Passengers gaily waved toward the people on the ground.

Suddenly there was a great explosion. Flames burst out from the tail of the ship as it tipped toward the ground. The blunt nose tilted up, hung suspended for a moment, then crumpled toward the field. As it crashed, crew and passengers were hurled from the ship by the impact.

The sudden, terrible horror of that moment was caught by motion picture cameras in one of the most famous newsreels of all time. This was the end of the Hindenburg... and it marked the beginning of the end for the zeppelin as a means of flight.

Remember the year? When you bought a car in those days, you expected to get a good trade-in allowance for your car and to pay a fair price on the new one. A buyer didn't go for gimmicks or confusing talk.

The year was 1937. You can go back to that way of dealing by seeing us. Take a drive in a new 1958 FORDS... then check our price on the car, with the extras you want, and our higher trade-in. The man who assured Renfro of the agreement, past president of the Dalhart Chamber of Commerce Pete Priestly, said an option has been secured on a site on Fort Worth & Denver right-of-way in the city.

Renfro reported he had about 1,200 acres of Dalhart area in potato production assured, and expected to expand the figure by at least 600 more.

Hereford High in Yields

Hereford, along with Lockney and Muleshoe, figured prominently in the U. S. Department of Agriculture's publication, the Agricultural Situation, in an article written by Joe E. Mullin, Agricultural Estimates Division, entitled "Vegetable Growers Open New Areas."

The article explained the reasons for such success in truck farm crops in this area.

"In the triangle formed by Hereford, Lockney and Muleshoe, and in several scattered sections, onions, lettuce, carrots and tomatoes are now widely grown using ground water for irrigation. In 1957, there were over 15,000 acres of vegetables in western Texas," the article stated.

Mullin wrote "The most outstanding example (of irrigation farming) is in the High Plains of West Texas. Here climate favors production both summer and fall."

IRRIGATED SECTIONS in the West enjoy advantages for vegetable production more humid areas lack, Mullin said.

"Control of soil moisture by irrigation issues maximum production, permits the more efficient use of fertilizer, and improves quality. Moreover, low humidity also reduces the incidence of certain plant diseases," Mullin stated in his article.

Hospital Board To Hire Bill Collector

The Deaf Smith Memorial Hospital board of trustees Thursday night voted to hire a full-time bill collector on a trial basis to collect past due bills owed the hospital. Originally a part-time collector was to be hired, but hospital manager T. E. Seigler told the trustees one could not be found as yet, but that he had a man in mind who would possibly take the job on full-time. The hospital had $24,648.73 charged to its annual financial report as loss on bad accounts. In 1956 the figure stood at $23,295.84.

THE BOARD also voted to purchase an ice making machine. Manager Seigler told the members he could obtain a 500-pound a day ice making machine for $1,221, or rent it for $62.54 per month for two years and at the end of the 24-month period pay another $1 and take over possession. The board found the hospital's needs amounted to $64 during the past month of January, and usually over $100 during the summer months. Manager Seigler told the board the Hereford Medical Auxiliary had turned over $3,308.95 from its Christmas Card Project, which will be used to refurbish the Obstetrical and Children's Dept. of the building. He said the amount should be enough to completely pay for all their needs.

Local Camp Fire Girls Entertain Bovina O. E. S.

Combining satire and solemnity, members of the Nateena Camp Fire girls presented a program for the Bovina O. E. S. and guests at the Masonic Hall in Bovina on Thursday night. The program opened with the individual girls introducing themselves and giving their Indian names, used in Camp Fire, along with the interpretation of the name. Short talks were given by each girl regarding some phase of Camp Fire work, and the Wobelo candlelighting ceremonial was then held. For sheer nonsense, the girls entertained the 100 guests gathered in the Hall with pantomime versions of "Sugartime" and "Little Darling." Barbara Langley, Sharon Seay, Donna Williams and Cheryl Edmonson were the "McGuire Sisters" for the first number, while Judy Crume, Sharon Tinnin, Ann Cunningham, Nancy Boyer, Beverly Roberts and Susan Stapp gave their satirical version of "The Diamonds" in the second tune. Preceding the program, the girls enjoyed a covered dish supper in the Hall along with the other guests and members. Mrs. Mary Stapp and Mrs. Abie Crume accompanied the group to Bovina, and Mrs. Crume gave a short talk regarding Camp Fire.

Walking blood bank members have their names and other vital information recorded on cards in the hospital office. When a donation is needed, the cards are screened, and the donor informed of his need. Mims suggested a new drive for donors. The last was made in 1950. Walking blood bank members have their names and other vital information recorded on cards in the hospital office. When a donation is needed, the cards are screened, and the donor informed of his need. Mims said the population of the area did not warrant a blood bank, and the walking blood bank was perfect for an area of this size. IN CORPUS CHRISTI Mrs. Jaek Roberson spent last week in Corpus Christi vacationing. She accompanied her daughter and family, the Rev. and Mrs. Russell Pogue and children of Wellington who were interested in some fishing.

How Can I?

Q. How can I keep parsley during the winter months?
 A. If a good-sized flower pot is kept filled with growing parsley in the kitchen during the winter months, it will always be ready and convenient for seasoning and garnishing.

 Q. How can I clean black broadcloth?
 A. Rub it with powdered fuller's earth, and put it away in a box or drawer for a few days. Then brush and shake it well.

 Q. How can I prevent woolen garments from scratching the skin?
 A. This can be prevented by adding a few tablespoonfuls of glycerine to the last rinse water when washing them. Also be sure that

DANGEROUS VICTORY
 OKLAHOMA CITY — John Reinert, 17, won the blue ribbon for his butterfly collection at the state fair.
 He credited his girl friend, Larecca Carpenter, with getting him interested in insects. However, John wasn't too happy about getting the blue ribbon. In winning, he edged out Larecca, who won second place.

UNEXPECTED SUPPORT
 CLEVELAND — Children who fear the school year may be extended to a year-round operation to meet classroom and teacher shortages have an ally — the teachers.

 A poll at a recent school officials' convention revealed teachers look forward to a three-month summer vacation as eagerly as their pupils.

GARDEN GOSSIP

Mrs. Manjeot Demonstrates Arrangements

Springtime beauty comes late to the Panhandle, thanks to the cold winds in February and March in this area. Right now Hereford gardens are bare and there isn't a great deal to do outside, except for planting of seeds and certain bulbs. Now is a good time for ambitious gardeners to force pussy-willow or fruit blooming trees by placing a few limbs in water indoors and allowing to open in a warm sunny place.

In anticipation of the time when the city will be abloom with blossoms in full glory, Mrs. A. L. Manjeot presented a program on "Flower Arrangement in the Home" at the February meeting of the Hereford Garden Club Friday afternoon in the home of Mrs. O. G. Hill Sr.

THE ART OF HOMEMAKING, one of the greatest arts, requires more talents, more time, more effort and more hard work than any other, but it is also one of the most rewarding of arts. More and more people are beginning to realize that flowers and kindred materials used correctly in the home mean much more than a pretty decoration. Each different arrangement, each type of flower, each lovely color has its own way of speaking to tell of the happiness and hospitality of members of the household.

Mrs. Manjeot, national judge and instructor, demonstrated flower arrangements in every room of the Hill home, pointing up the principles governing placements complementary to the home.

"Just as a large and formal mansion would call for large and elaborate flower arrangements, the small cottage would call for small simple arrangements. The area and room should be carefully studied and selected, remembering that back-furnishings all become a part of the whole, and that colors, mirrors and pictures are very important in the overall picture. Keep in mind that the flower arrangement used is to create a completed picture. The setting is also important. A room done in period furniture would require an entirely different arrangement from that chosen for a room furnished in informal modern furniture, just as an arrangement for a child's room or den needs a completely different arrangement from that selected for a living room or bedroom," she said.

Mrs. Manjeot outlined basic factors that should be used as a guide in flower arrangements in all homes. 1-The predominate color of the room will determine what color of flowers will be most effective. 2-The greater the contrast—the greater appeal to the eye—dark flowers in a light setting or light flowers in a dark corner. 3-Flowers should be used to enhance the unity of the room. In the room where a single flower arrangement is used, the arrangement should be in proportion to the room itself—not a large arrangement in a small room or vice-versa. 4-It is better to have too few than too many flower arrangements in one room. 5-Give special consideration and intelligent application of color. 6-Study background furnishings (copy or pick up colors of an object such as a bird in a picture) and other accessories. 7-Remember that accessories should be 1/3 or 1/5 the height of the flower arrangement. If large-play back. If small-play forward. 8-The floral design spirals from the bottom and creating a harmonious whole picture should be kept uppermost from the very beginning."

BUD TO BLOSSOM CLUB

Satin Slippers

When satin slippers are wet, do not dry them on the shoe trees, as this will stretch the fabric. Stuff them with tissue paper, not too tightly. The paper will absorb the dampness and the slippers will dry quickly and hold their shape.

Ironing Linens

It is not necessary to starch linens. If ironed properly the linen will have a natural stiffness. And always iron it very damp, wrong side first, then finish on the right side.

FLOWER DESIGNS — At top, companion hearts, on a reflector filled with yellow sweetheart roses and yellow carnations are combined with blue sweet peas to tell the romantic story of St. Valentine's Day in the refreshment table centerpiece. Flame-tipped yellow candles in crystal candelabra highlight the scene in a mellow glow of light which spreads off the table laid with a yellow cloth with overlay of lace. At left, pussywillow, forsythia, daffodils and magnolia leaves show how the knowing eye and practiced hand combine the flowers with a green pottery container to herald the coming springtime. The little Hummel figurine (Springsong) adds the right touch to complete the picture. The green in the pottery container matches the lamp bases and other accessories on nearby tables in the bedroom. Below this arrangement is called "The Traveler" expresses a universal theme evolved from material from four different places. The driftwood is from Colorado, the dried magnolia leaves from Alabama and the feathered yellow carnations from California. The container is a copper bowl from Korea. (Staff Photo)

Miss Gay Morton Becomes Bride of Norman Taylor

Mr. and Mrs. Grady Morton have announced the recent marriage of their daughter, Gay, to Norman Ray Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Boye Taylor of Bovina.

Vows were exchanged on Feb. 8, in the home of the Rev. Bob Jackson of Abilene, pastor of the Capps Baptist Church, with the pastor officiating.

An improvised altar in front of the fireplace was arranged with white stock and blue tinted carnations for the double ring ceremony.

The bride's sister, Joy Morton, was her only attendant. She wore a beige cotton satin sheath dress with a white carnation corsage. Lynn Isham of Bovina served as best man.

The bride chose a two piece fall-suit in winter white with a small brocaded satin hat to match. She carried an heirloom silk handkerchief and an orchid surrounded by white feathered carnations on a white Bible.

The bride's mother wore a gray suit with a white carnation corsage and the bridegroom's mother wore a pink crepe dress with white carnation corsage.

Following the wedding a reception was held in the Jackson home for the wedding guests who included members of the families and close friends. Barbara Taylor of Bovina and Jean and Joan Morton, twin sisters of the bride, assisted with the hospitality.

The couple is now at home in Bovina where he is engaged in farming after a short wedding trip to points of interest in Texas.

The bride is a graduate of Hereford High School and attended Texas Woman's University at Denton. Taylor graduated from Bovina High School and has completed two years of service in the Army.

The next meeting will be in the form of a "Friendship Day Affair" in the home of Mrs. Urlin Streu on March 4.

BETA SIGMA PHI CHAPTER STUDIES ART OF EXPRESSION

"Language most shows a man; speak that I may see thee," was the theme of the program dealing with "Expression" when a meeting of Kappa Iota chapter, Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, was held in the Friendship Room of the Hereford State Bank Tuesday evening.

Mrs. M. G. Duvall, program leader, used poetry as an example of perfect expression to bring out the thought that for a man to improve his expression or delivery of speech, he must seek, ask and think. He must interest himself in things about him, become well informed and maintain deep seated convictions. She named Mahatma Gandhi as an example of this kind of speaker.

She named Abraham Lincoln and Franklin Delano Roosevelt as examples of speakers who used their power of speech to influence people, and cited the late Will Rogers whose speech became his personality.

Mrs. D. R. Johnson, president, conducted a short business session when a nominating committee for new officers was appointed. Those to serve include Mrs. Harold Beauchamp, Mrs. Jimmy White and Mrs. T. D. Deavenport.

Members decided to collect clothing for distribution among school children by the Parent Teachers Assn.

Hostesses were Mesdames Guy Cornelius and Clyde Russell.

chestra accompaniment. MRS. LLOYD WARREN, chosen Queen of Hearts by the Exemplar Chapter, wore a red tulle formal with fitted bodice and long full skirt. She was attended by Mrs. Norman Moore who wore a royal blue net formal accented with silver.

Burleson Worries About Landing on Other Planet

By TEK EASLEY

AP Special Washington Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Omar Burleson (D-Tex.) is concerned about what American scientists and military men will do when they land on some distant planet, assuming that they do get there. Especially if a Russian is already on hand to welcome them.

The legislator from Abilene, who holds a high place on the House Foreign Affairs Committee, is chairman of a subcommittee dealing with the relationship of scientific developments to foreign policy.

at 7:30 p.m.

Saturday, Feb. 15, Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Collins and Bruce accompanied Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Shelton on a business trip to Lubbock. They visited with Mr. and Mrs. Dewight Troyer in Littlefield that night.

Several Walcott people attended the dedication services in Hereford for the new Church of Christ, Sunday.

Mrs. N. E. Tyler underwent surgery in Deaf Smith County Hospital Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Vasek of Stamford visited in the Walter Neinst home Tuesday.

A number of residents from Walcott attended the Hereford Whitefaces' basketball games Friday and Tuesday. These games with Levelland and Dumas clinched their winning the district title.

In spite of freezing drizzle, snow and cold wind Walcott School held classes each day last week. Several of the students have had colds and coughs.

Mrs. T. L. Collins was a Sunday dinner guest in the home of Mrs. J. F. Ward of Hereford. They attended the dedication of the new Central Church of Christ. Others who accompanied them were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Rader and Mrs. J. M. Payne. They visited in the O. R. Sanders home later in the afternoon.

"This matter of sovereignty or jurisdiction in outer space may have practical significance sooner than we think," said the quiet-speaking, friendly Texan. "Questions which seemed fantastic a short time ago now begin to make some sense."

A lawyer and a former FBI agent, Burleson, through his subcommittee, is directing a study on relations of earth men of different nationalities when they meet in outer space. As the opening witness for the subcommittee's study he called the State Department's top scientific advisor — Dr. Wallace R. Brode. Accompanying Brode was Loftus Becker, the department's legal advisor.

Becker discussed such questions as the making of territorial claims on the moon and the ownership of a satellite that returns to earth in a country other than the one in which it was launched.

"That's the sort of thing we are looking into," Burleson said. "Once the subject arose regarding the oceans, and nations got together and agreed there should be freedom of the high seas. Outer space is different, however, because it goes on to infinity where oceans are fixed and of limited dimensions."

One of the objectives of his committee, Burleson added, is to make itself an official body to which scientists may come for discussions to impart their ideas of what this government should do in regard to international relations and, on the other hand, to learn more about this government's diplomatic policies.

"We don't intend to make diplomats out of the scientists," he said, "but we would give them an awareness of the general policy of our government. They would have this in mind when they participate in international scientific parleys."

Burleson said some top American scientists, including Dr. Stanley Livingstone of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, had told him they found Russian scientists forthright, cooperative and honest at a recent conference in Canada. And he said he was told that while the Russians avoided politics, they were obviously aware of the "party line" set by the Soviet government.

AROUND THE CAPITAL:

Speaking of scientists, Texas Tech's dean of engineering, John R. Bradford, has been here for talks with the Atomic Energy Commission.

He was laying groundwork for Tech's proposal to get the AEC to put up at least half the cost of a $150,000 atomic reactor at the Lubbock school. The reactor is wanted for use in the training of nuclear science students. While here Bradford had lunch at the Capitol with Rep. George Mahon, of the Lubbock district, and Mrs. Mahon.

Elmore Torn, of Taylor, Tex., who once waged a successful campaign to publicize black-eyed peas in Washington, is now trying to get the one-cent postal card brought back. From a hospital bed in Taylor, where he was recovering from a fractured foot bone, he wrote Postmaster General Summerfield urging revival of the one-cent card. Torn suggested that a requirement that postal cards be handwritten would eliminate a lot of commercialization of the cards.

"When we are spending billions of dollars in foreign aid, and millions in furthering the people-to-people programs in our relations to our international neighbors," he said, "I do not think it amiss to allow a cost of some hundreds of thousands to make a person-to-person communication vehicle available to our own nationals."

Dawn Musettes Study Composers

Mrs. N. R. Miller served as hostess for the Dawn Musettes Tuesday afternoon when a program on American composers was presented.

Aaron Copland, one of America's foremost composers, was the subject of a discussion given by Audri Miller who stated "Copland opened a piano studio and when not even one pupil showed up, he turned to composing as a means of making a living. Since his first pieces were considered too modern he went to Paris where he worked with Debussy and later rose to fame." She also told of Loren Hollander, young concert artist.

Lucy Beth Miller told of the life and works of Edward McDowell whose compositions were inspired by nature. The McDowell Colony in New Hampshire is a monument to his greatness.

Special piano selections from the works of McDowell were played by Mrs. Carl Wimberley, Gail Miller and Mrs. N. R. Miller. Selections to be played in the Junior Music Festival to be held in Hereford soon were played by Robert Galley, Jan David Miller, Glen Polan, Robert Caraway, Billie Neal, Nan Neal, Linda Tooley and Alice Ann Caraway.

During the business session plans were made for the group to sponsor a spring recital on March 23 at the Dawn Baptist Church.

Others attending the meeting were Kenneth McClung, Buddie Stewart, Phyllis Ann Wimberley, Wayne Polan, Mrs. Ray Polan and Mrs. Orval Galley.

Dawn Music Club Studies Civil War

The Dawn Music Club met in the home of Mrs. N. R. Miller recently for a program featuring American music.

Mrs. R. L. Johnson discussed "Euterpe Builds Her American Home" and she stated, "The Civil War produced hundreds of songs that could be arranged in proper sequence to form an actual history of conflict. One of the remarkable features of the development of music in America is the rapidity with which the inland cities have become music centers. Historically the most interesting songs are Tenting on the Old Camp Ground, Tramp, Tramp, Battle Hymn of the Republic and Dixie.

Mrs. Ray Stewart, Mrs. Ray Polan and Mrs. L. W. Tooley accompanied by Mrs. Carl Wimberley sang Listen to the Mockingbird, Dixie, Battle Hymn of the Republic and Tramp, Tramp, Tramp.

Mrs. Carl Wimberley played a piano selection entitled "March Wind" by MacDowell.

Mrs. N. R. Miller played "To a Water Lily" by MacDowell as a piano selection.

The group joined in the singing of the hymn of the month, "Breath on Me, Breath of God," to conclude the program.

Present were Mesdames R. L. Johnson, Carl Wimberley, Roy Polan, L. W. Tooley, Zed Stewart and H. H. Miller. Mrs. L. A. Smith was a guest.

A complete round of ammunition is the necessary materials for firing a weapon once.

Is This The Answer To Good Roads and Lower Taxes?

Would Full-Time Manager Save Tax Payer Money?

Circulation at the present time of a series of petitions calling for an election on "Optional County Road Law of 1947" indicates that residents of Deaf Smith County will be voting on the proposal in the July primary. The optional plan is one which touches every person in the county and, for this reason, should be carefully weighed and studied by each voter.

In a nutshell, the proposal calls for employment of a full time road supervisor who would take care of all road administration, employ workmen and recommend purchases of necessary road machinery. He would be hired by the Commissioners Court and would be accountable to the same group. The law specifies that the supervisor be a "qualified, licensed professional engineer;" it also places a maximum of $7,200 per year on his salary, which is set at discretion of the Commissioners Court.

Those who favor the proposal declare that the supervisor would save many times his salary in the purchase, maintenance and operation of road equipment. Opponents of the plan state that the system would only increase county expenses by duplicating the work of the commissioners. There are, as usual, strong arguments on both sides of the question.

Because many people are already confused, The Brand presents the following figures from 1947 to 1956, inclusive, in order that voters may have available material upon which to base their decision.

During the 10-year period, the four precincts in Deaf Smith County have disbursed a total of $1,439,288.67 through the Road and Bridge Funds and, with a few minor exceptions, the majority of the money has been spent on road maintenance. Broken down over the 10-year period, it reads as follows: Precinct 1, $382,355.30; Precinct 2, $386,789.48; Precinct 3, $324,977.07; Precinct 4, $345,166.82.

Purchase of equipment, which is included in the above figures, totals $216,826.08 for the 10-year period and, by precincts, reads: Precinct 1, $51,081.99; Precinct 2, $61,643.30; Precinct 3, $44,095.06; Precinct 4, $60,005.73.

Like other things, roads and road maintenance, are today costing the county more than they cost 10 years ago—and the average figure per year would not begin to cover present day costs. A conservative estimate shows that well over $100,000 is being spent each year on salaries, fuel, repairs and supplies through the Road and Bridge Fund of Deaf Smith County. New equipment, of course, comes extra.

In 1957, a total of 37 of the 254 counties in Texas had procured engineers, either through the 1947 law or through additional budgets on a local level. Most of these counties included Texas' larger cities such as Dallas, Ft. Worth, Amarillo and Lubbock. Several of the smaller counties, finding themselves in financial troubles, also investigated and voted in the Optional County Road Law of 1947. No immediate reports on experiences of these counties appears to be on file in the area.

As we see the proposal, it boils down to a method of operation as concerns a specific $150,000-per-year business. One advantage of the county-wide plan would appear to be unification of equipment to serve the entire county as compared with four sets of equipment to be operated with one set in each precinct. Salaries and operating costs are, of course, the most expensive part of roads and road maintenance; these might also be sharply cut. On the other hand, we do have good roads under the present system and, like all residents—both rural and urban—we want to continue with good roads throughout the county.

The proposal, when you ball it down, amounts to much the same as that faced when Hereford gained sufficient population to move into the City Manager bracket. The voters felt that efficient planning and execution of duties justified the employment of a full-time manager, who would effect savings greater than his salary. Without question, the expenditure of $125,000 to $150,000 on road structure within the county represents far more outlay than that of most business firms in the county and few of these firms, including co-ops with directors, choose to operate without a manager.

The fate of the county commissioner is another question which is almost certain to follow adoption of the county option plan, should it be successful in passing. With a large portion of his responsibilities gone, his salary might, like many other boards, be shifted to a "per-meeting" basis of pay.

All in all, the question is a big one. It should be investigated and carefully pondered by each individual voter. Some effort should be made to find out how the system is working in other counties, along with information about the availability of supervisors.

If, as some people think, our present county road system was designed for wagon and buggy days long ago outmoded by the horseless carriage, it is time we made some changes. If we think it is modern, economically efficient and basically sound, let's leave things as they stand. One thing for sure no plan is a "cure all" for troubles on a wholesale basis. Deaf Smith County is in good financial shape and we do have good roads.

If we can have just as good or better roads for less money, it is a good deal.

Our 1958 Champs

The old adage about the importance of "Not whether you won or lost, but how you played the game" may be true in theory and in practical application but, according to high school students, it's a heck of a lot more fun to win.

The fact is also attested with attendance records which are topping 1,000 these nights when Hereford's District 1-AAA Whiteface basketball team hits the courts. The whole community, in fact, is taking the game quite seriously—and justly so.

Hereford is unusual in that it consistently backs its losing or mediocre teams from year to year. It is, likewise, unusual in that most of the fans do not expect a winning team each season. But, when the school does come up with a team of championship calibre, then things begin to hum. And such is the situation right now.

Furthermore, who could honestly criticize the circumstance? Everyone likes to win. That's human nature. If, like wheat crops, they miss a few years, it adds to the fun of the thing when you do get across. As things stand, 1958 is a banner basketball year. Let's make the most of it while we can.

Goals of the Modern American Woman

SURVEY SHOWS:

Housewives Are Happy And Self-Satisfied

IITHACA, N. Y. (AP)—The modern American housewife is — other reports to the contrary — happy, self-satisfied, well adjusted to her life, content to let her husband rule the roost and puts the welfare of her family ahead of any career ideas she may harbor.

A study of nearly 600 married women in upstate New York cities, conducted by Cornell University's Department of Sociology and Anthropology, knocked out some widely held ideas of woman's discontent with her modern lot.

Overwhelmingly, the women reported that they enjoyed cooking "interesting" meals and denied they hated housework.

They also confessed they thought of themselves as interesting people and that they did not feel their education was going to waste.

Among the more interesting results of the survey were answers to series of questions about goals in life, likes and dislikes. While 472 out of 521 women said one of their main goals was being a good wife and 455 checked "raising children properly," only 121 noted down out-side-the-home goals, only 180 chose "being a religious person," only 136 noted "being creative, using your own talents and abilities," 117 "being a person who is interesting to other people." And — lowest number of all — 63 chose "being successful in a job, or business or profession."

Well over half the women said they believed a person had a right to use birth-control and that a woman could be happy without children of her own. While 218 women said that a sex life is naturally less important to a woman than to a man, 243 said the opposite and 105 were not sure. And 169 women were of the opinion that "a woman doesn't enjoy sex life as much as a man does," while 243 women denied it — and 87 were not sure one way or the other.

To the critical question on how satisfied they were with their life, 378 reported they were very satisfied; 225, fairly satisfied, and 17, not very satisfied.

The study included married women between 25 and 49 years of age in financial brackets ranging from poor to $25,000 a year.

Some of the questions were designed to chart women's attitudes on feminine emancipation. Most women, regardless of educational background, felt it was "all right" to become a lawyer, an electrical engineer, to travel long distances alone, take part in politics, have interest outside the house — even to remain unmarried, if she wishes. It was noted that more women who were college graduates advocated feminine independence than their less well educated sisters, who tended generally to be more conservative and traditional in their attitudes.

A majority of the women studied felt that the husband's roles in the home were primarily that of breadwinner, as a "regiment in reserve" in disciplining the children and handy-man — taking out the garbage, mowing the lawn and coping with the storm windows. All of them held up the ideal of family "togetherness."

The study showed that the most contented of housewives are the young, highly educated, emancipated women. The most discontented were the young, poorly-educated but emancipated women. "I'm guessing that this discontented young woman is out of tune with her environment," commented Prof. Robin M. Williams Jr., one of the investigators. "She thinks she has a right to do anything but can't do anything and thus is caught in a real conflict."

The survey confirmed the long suspected existence of one group of married women with special problems: young mothers with small children.

"Frequently," said Williams, "they feel isolated, overwhelmed by the house, their duties and a sense of 'hopelessness.'"

About Our Schools

Central Principal Gives His Report

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third in a series of reports and recommendations by administrators in the Hereford Public Schools.)

By L. C. THOMAS
Central School Principal

There has been some improvement this year in our situation at the Central School over 1956-57. The curtain that was added to the stage in the gymnasium and the chairs that were placed out there have helped to make our assemblies more effective. Also, the paint has improved the appearance of the room.

There is much to be desired in the cafeteria. I think the plans that have been made to build a kitchen onto the gymnasium and to move the entire cafeteria out there would be a solution to the physical setup. There is a fine spirit of cooperation between the faculty and the children with the workers. The food is prepared and served in an appetizing manner. We think that good health habits are being taught from the experiences the children have in the cafeteria.

Our custodians are doing good work. Due to the age of the building, it is difficult to keep clean, but each morning the entire building is in excellent shape. I HAVE NEVER had better cooperation with teachers. We have our weak spots but with the spirit we have here and the desire of each teacher to do her best for the children, we are having a good year and most of the children are making good progress.

We have had good crowds at the

QUESTION OF THE WEEK

Some Think Sack Dress Will Come To Hereford

Do you think the "sack" dress will ever be worn in Hereford? What do you think of the "sack" style?

MRS. GUY HUDSON—I hope not! I just don't like it at all.
DALE LITSCH—Yes, I believe it will be worn. People here go along with trends pretty good and accept new ideas. It's new and it's different. I have never seen anything like it. It's all right, I guess, and it's just a trend for style.
MRS. E. R. WALKER—Yes, I think they will be worn in Hereford. It is becoming to some.

DONALD ZIMMERMAN—I hope not! I hope it never comes to Hereford. Seems to me some designer tried to start a trend that is entirely obsolete. I don't think people will go along with it much. I really don't care for it. They can accomplish some change in designing better than that. If a law were passed to make people wear those things, I think there would be a revolution!

LOUISE FERGUSON—Oh, maybe some, not to a big amount. I don't think it will be a big style. Personally, I don't care for it.

TROY ROWLAND—I hope not! Personally, I don't like it, of course it really doesn't matter to me what they wear. I just don't like the looks of it.

MRS. J. J. CULP—I just couldn't say myself, as for me, it wouldn't be worn. I just don't like it so I have never paid much attention to the style.

JOHN ORSBORN—I suppose it will. I don't like it because I just don't care for the styling of it.

Panhandle Paragraphs

WHEELER TV SYSTEM IS PROGRESSING

Installation of the Wheeler TV System is coming along very well, Lee Guthrie, owner of the system said this week. Of course the weather is a big factor this time of the year, and no progress has been made the past few days. However, about 50% of the steel cable, and 20% of the black coaxial cable has been strung, he said. Approximately a dozen tie-ans have been made in the south part of town, and more will be made as soon as weather permits. Guthrie said when the black cable has been strung on "your street" tie-ans will then be possible.—THE WHEELER TIMES.

TWELVE YEAR OLD DEBT IS PAID

The City of Shamrock has finally collected a debt of $5,471.74 owed it by Shamrock General Hospital since 1946. The money was loaned to the city-owned hospital to purchase X-ray equipment and provide operating expenses 12 years ago, a Texan reporter was told at the regular meeting of the City Council Monday night when announcement was made the debt had been paid in full by the City Hospital Board. The board, named by Mayor Seibert Worley when he took office two years ago, was given more rigid control of hospital finances than previous boards had had, and payment of the 12-year-old debt gave indication the plan is succeeding.—THE SHAMROCK TEXAN.

SOIL FERTILITY DAY IS HELD

The 10th annual Floyd County Soil Fertility Day was held at the Plains Theatre here on Friday of last week. County Agent Cecil Lewis was program chairman for the event. The day's program included talks by a number of outstanding agriculturists in the state. Vic N. Johnson, vice-president of the Federal Land Bank at Houston, was one of the featured speakers, who discussed "What To Expect in Agricultural Financing."—THE LOCKNEY BEACON.

BOND ELECTION CALLED MARCH 4

City Councilmen have approved proposals to call for a bond election March 4, to determine if city taxpayers want to vote $65,000 in bonds to pay for improvements to the city waterworks and the swimming pool. Voters will be given an opportunity to express their opinion on two proposals: 1. For or against the issuance of $40,000 in bonds for drilling a new water well, pump and other improvements for the city water department. 2. For or against issuance of $25,000 in bonds for modernizing the swimming pool, such as adding a health department approved filtration system, heating, and other needed pool improvements.—THE PANHANDLE HERALD.

The BOOTLEG Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his bindweed farm reviews the economic situation this week, without any noticeable change in it.

Dear editor:

I don't know anything about the economic situation, I know when hard times are here and when they've left, but me and the economic experts have never been able to figure out exactly when they're coming or when they're fixing to leave, at least not to the point where we could make any money with our inside dope, so all this talk about a "readjustment" or a "minor recession" leaves me on the outside.

However, there is pretty general admission at the top level in Washington that a mild recession has hit the country, in some spots at least, although I've seen times so hard a mild recession like this one would look like a prosperity boom, but what has me puzzled is a statement I read in a copy of a frozen newspaper which a north wind blew in during the cold spell last week and which I read just before I started a fire with it.

According to it, "the feeling of the administration is that business will pick up in the mid-year period and be booming again before the end of the year."

Now I'll tell you. Maybe Washington can depend on its feelings to tell how the year is going to turn out, but the system won't work on this farm out here at Bootleg.

I've never started a crop year yet that I didn't feel that this year I'm really going to make something, but after years of experience I've found that a man's feelings in January and February are mighty sorry barometers about what's going to take place at selling time later on in the year.

Understand, there's nothing wrong with these first-of-the-year feelings, they're necessary if a farmer is ever going to get any planting done, but they don't have any more bearing on the outcome than wishing for rain if it's dry or for dry weather if it's raining. What I mean is, how a man feels about his crop prospects before he gets his seed in the ground has mighty little loan value at the bank.

I'm like Washington, if we have got a mild recession, I feel like it'll end by mid-year, but it's pretty hard to feel your way into better times or into outer space or a good crop year. Sometimes you can't even work your way into it, although this is hearsay with me.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

It's A Great Life

"We certainly" appreciate the public's response," said Principal L. C. Thomas of Central School in reference to a deluge of clothing which appeared this week as the result of an appeal to keep needy children warm.

Mr. Thomas, standing beside a small mountain of clothing, pointed out that much of it was new, no doubt purchased and brought to the school in answer to the appeal.

Like Mr. Thomas, many others of us are humble when we pause to give thanks for the big hearted generosity of people. For a brief time we are prone to forget the world's evils, the Sputniks, the ever-growing toll of traffic fatalities; even the murders, sex crimes and banditry which appears in the day's news.

Most people are basically good. Their response to such occasional call is sincere and spontaneous. Hereford and West Texas may be above the general average on this score, but when we view the answer to United Fund drives and other appeals in our large cities, we find them little different from most other Americans.

As human beings, we often malign and criticize the human race; our pastors, our newspapers and our magazines head the van guard in this All-American pastime. When everything is said and done, though, we do have a wonderful country, and some of the finest people the world has ever known.

Bible Words for Today

PSALM 139:7—"Whither shall I go from thy spirit? Or whither shall I flee from thy presence?"
PSALM 23:6—"Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life." (King James Version)

A father, writing to a son serving overseas in the armed forces, closed his letter with these words: "Remember, my son, no one is ever far from God." It seems that this faith must have been in the mind of the psalmist when he put down these words: "Whither shall I go from thy spirit? or whither shall I flee from thy presence?" As an old saint of God put it: "O Lord, help me to understand that you won't let anything come my way that you and I can't handle together."

The man of faith finds strength and courage even in life's darkest hours because God is with him. "Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life..."

About Our... Mushrooms, Onions Aid Omelet

P. T. A. meetings and have had excellent programs. We have had unusually good cooperation from all of the parents.

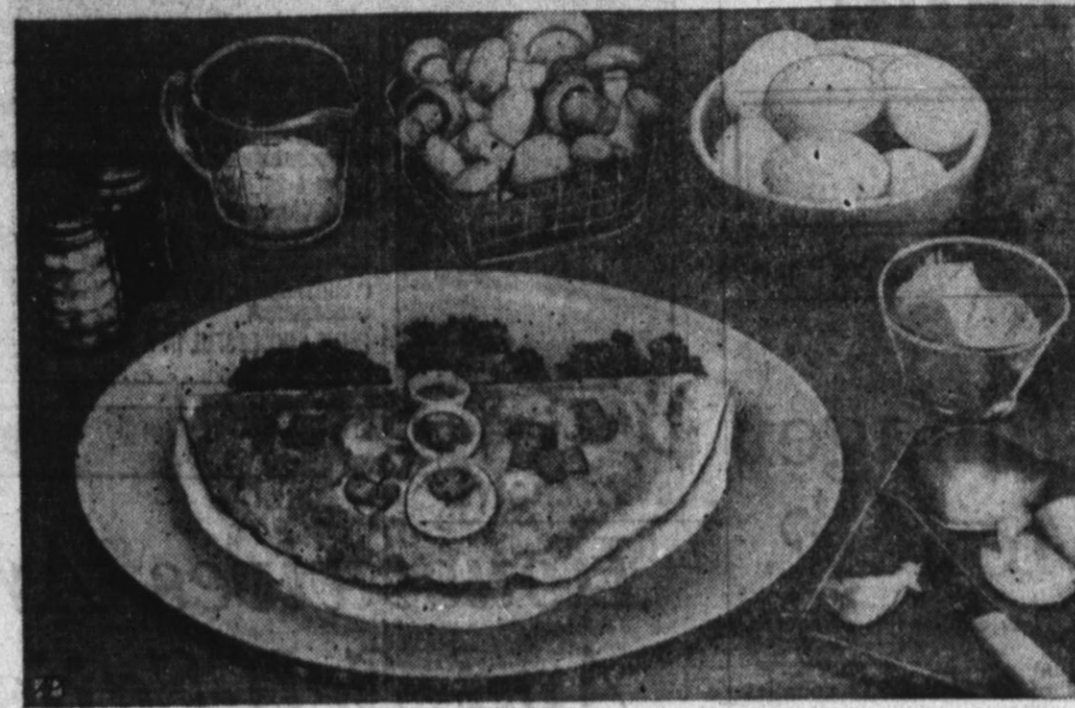

Our heating system is not satisfactory but with a few repairs it would be much improved. It seems to me that all of the valves on the radiators at the cut-offs should be replaced. It is impossible to cut the heat out of some of the rooms because of these valves. There are a number of leaks in the pipes that go through some of the classrooms. We have had to put containers under some of these to catch the water. Some of the vents on the radiators need to be replaced. A mechanic should examine the heating system while the heat is on this winter.

It is next to impossible to have a meeting of any kind in the gymnasium when it is cold. The heaters are so noisy that you can not talk against them. We had approximately one hundred people at our last P. T. A. meeting and had to cut off the heaters because we could not hear the speakers. Our meetings in the gymnasium could be improved very much if this situation were corrected. A shower for the boys and one for the girls is badly needed in this building.

I would like to recommend that a person be hired to act as an attendance officer. I am sure the daily attendance would be higher and the progress made by some of the children would be better.

I would also like to see our music department expanded to where a music teacher would spend half of her time at our school.

LENTE FARE—Plain omelet with a filling of mushroom and onion.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

What's better to taste than the true flavors of the foods that go into a dish—simple and unadulterated? This recipe for mushroom and onion filled omelet belongs in that class. Served with crusty rolls and fresh butter it makes a mighty satisfying luncheon dish.

MUSHROOM AND ONION OMELET

Ingredients: 1/2 pound medium-sized mushrooms, 1 medium-sized onion, 3 tablespoons butter, 1/4 teaspoon salt, freshly-ground pepper, 4 portions plain omelet.

Method: Wipe each mushroom with a damp cloth; do not wash or peel. Slice very thin vertically so caps and stems are attached. Peel onion and quarter; slice into thin vertical strips. Melt butter in an 8-inch skillet, that has a tight-fitting cover, over low heat. Add mushrooms and onion; cover and cook about 5 minutes, turning mushrooms several times. Uncover; sprinkle with salt and freshly-ground pepper to taste; continue to cook over slightly increased heat, stirring several times, until juices evaporate and mixture begins to brown—about 5 minutes.

Make 4 individual omelets; spread one-quarter of the mushroom mixture (a generous 1/4 cup) over one half of each omelet; fold other side over and slide onto heated plate. Makes 4 servings.

OMELET TIPS
Professional makers of plain French omelets usually use a cast-aluminum skillet for their creations. Omelet cooks agree that the skillet should be well-seasoned—that means that the pores of the metal are impregnated with salad oil. Some experts never wash their omelet skillets; some wash them occasionally. If you cover your omelet skillet with a film of salad oil in between using it, you'll find this treatment helps to keep the eggs from sticking. Wipe out the film of oil with a paper towel before cooking the omelet. The skillet should be heated slowly before the butter in which the omelet is to be cooked is added.

ed. The pan should then be hot enough to make the butter hiss but not brown.

For a plain omelet, add water rather than milk to the eggs in the proportion of 1 teaspoon per egg.

Beat the eggs for the omelet with a fork so that the yolks and whites are combined but the eggs are not overly frothy.

Omelet experts use moderate heat, shake the pan back and forth with the left hand and stir with the tines of a fork, kept as flat as possible, then roll up the omelet with the fork. A 7- or 8-inch pan may be used for individual 2-egg omelets with 1 tablespoon of butter for the cooking. Professionals usually use a 9-inch pan with 3 eggs for individual omelets and 1 tablespoon of butter for the cooking.

Lent Recipe Comes From Canada

By CECILY BROWNSTONE Associated Press Food Editor

FORTY-BELOW WEATHER, in my Canadian childhood, sometimes meant that lunch and supper dishes were made exclusively from provisions in what my mother called the "larder." On those snow-bound days my sisters and I would often beg for Salmon Patties — brown and crisp on the outside, flavorful and soft inside.

But much as we liked salmon, I suspect that one reason we welcomed the patties was because of the inexorable rule in our household that they be served with the tiny sweet gherkins we were mad about. Other accompaniments to the patties were old-fashioned pan-fried potatoes, creamed green peas, buttered carrots. For dessert, that old Canadian winter standby — cut-up oranges and bananas — would probably turn up.

Nowadays you might enjoy serving salmon patties with Tartar Sauce and a salad. If you have an electric skillet, you can cook the patties right at the table.

My mother used to use dry bread crumbs in the salmon patties she made but nowadays fresh bread crumbs seem to be in favor and so here's a rule using the latter.

SALMON PATTIES

Ingredients: 4 eggs, 4 cups (8 slices) fine fresh bread crumbs (crusts included), 1 can (1 pound) salmon, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, 4 tablespoons minced parsley, 4 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1 medium-sized onion (chopped), flour, 3 to 4 tablespoons butter.

Method: In a medium-sized bowl beat eggs enough to combine yolks and whites. Stir in bread crumbs. Add salmon including liquid in can, salt, mustard and parsley; mix well, breaking up salmon. (It is not necessary to remove bones — they provide calcium.) Melt 4 tablespoons butter in a small skillet; add onion and cook slowly, stirring often, until transparent and tender but not brown; stir into salmon mixture. Rinse hands in cold water and shape mixture into flat patties, using about 1/4 cup for each. (Mixture may be quite soft.) Spread about 2 tablespoons flour on a large piece of waxed paper; place patties on flour to coat, using a wide spatula or pancake turner to turn. Melt 2 tablespoons butter in a skillet (about 10 inches); add half the patties or as many as the pan will hold without crowding. Fry slowly until hot through and browned on both sides. Add 1 or 2 tablespoons more butter if necessary to fry remaining patties. Makes 14 to 16 patties.

LENTEN AND FRIDAY COOKBOOK

A recently published cookbook, "52 Fridays, Meatless Menus and Recipes" by Ethel M. Keating (Bruce) is worth looking into for ideas for Lenten meals. Although the author emphasizes fish, she has developed such fine recipes that this book is definitely worth having for all-round use. Her excellent recipes include ones for vegetables, breads and desserts and they are written in a fairly detailed manner except for an occasional omission of a pan size.

Lent Recipe Comes From Canada

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Forty-below weather, in my Canadian childhood, sometimes meant that lunch and supper dishes were made exclusively from provisions in what my mother called the "larder." On those snow-bound days my sisters and I would often beg for Salmon Patties — brown and crisp on the outside, flavorful and soft inside.

But much as we liked salmon, I suspect that one reason we welcomed the patties was because of the inexorable rule in our household that they be served with the tiny sweet gherkins we were mad about. Other accompaniments to the patties were old-fashioned pan-fried potatoes, creamed green peas, buttered carrots. For dessert, that old Canadian winter standby — cut-up oranges and bananas — would probably turn up.

Nowadays you might enjoy serving salmon patties with Tartar Sauce and a salad. If you have an electric skillet, you can cook the patties right at the table.

My mother used to use dry bread crumbs in the salmon patties she made but nowadays fresh bread crumbs seem to be in favor and so here's a rule using the latter.

SALMON PATTIES

Ingredients: 4 eggs, 4 cups (8 slices) fine fresh bread crumbs (crusts included), 1 can (1 pound) salmon, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, 4 tablespoons minced parsley, 4 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1 medium-sized onion (chopped), flour, 3 to 4 tablespoons butter.

Method: In a medium-sized bowl beat eggs enough to combine yolks and whites. Stir in bread crumbs. Add salmon including liquid in can, salt, mustard and parsley; mix well, breaking up salmon. (It is not necessary to remove bones — they provide calcium.) Melt 4 tablespoons butter in a small skillet; add onion and cook slowly, stirring often, until transparent and tender but not brown; stir into salmon mixture. Rinse hands in cold water and shape mixture into flat patties, using about 1/4 cup for each. (Mixture may be quite soft.) Spread about 2 tablespoons flour on a large piece of waxed paper; place patties on flour to coat, using a wide spatula or pancake turner to turn. Melt 2 tablespoons butter in a skillet (about 10 inches); add half the patties or as many as the pan will hold without crowding. Fry slowly until hot through and browned on both sides. Add 1 or 2 tablespoons more

SALMON PATTIES, a Canadian favorite, fit into Lenten meals.

Anne, the more reserved sister, hides her love for Captain Richard Bates until she finds him wounded in the Marine hospital. The youngest of the girls, teen-age Evelyn, is also caught up in wartime flirtations but is happy, as the war ends, that she has waited for her childhood sweetheart, Tommy. # Frustration Has A Pleasant Flavor

By MADALYN BALDWIN

TOKYO — An American wife who stopped in Honolulu on her way home after a three-year tour in Japan, so an oft-told story here goes, walked into a supermarket and promptly forgot all about her airplane — which flew off without her.

Whether or not the story is true, the woman who has kept house in Japan finds the thought of doing her weekly shopping in one store a bright impossible dream.

To shop in Japan you go from store to store to store, some of them blocks or miles apart. The shops are small and specialized. One sells meats, another fruits and still another vegetables. Canned goods and staples are found somewhere else.

We buy our corn flakes at the sake shop, which for some reason sells only sake (Japan's mild rice wine), beer and corn flakes.

However, Tokyo boasts some of the world's great department stores. You can buy almost anything offered in American stores and a great many things Americans can't buy.

Clothing made for Japanese is not proportioned for oversize foreigners. Most American men and women have their clothes made by excellent tailors, whose prices are reasonable.

Some Western style housing is available although rents are high. Utilities are costly, partly because of a unique Japanese custom of charging more per unit of gas and electricity as the number of units consumed goes up.

Every family has an English-speaking maid. This may seem a luxury but in a country where telephones speak no English and dozens of smiling men selling everything from goldfish to bamboo clothesline poles knock at your back door daily, a maid is a necessity.

Most wives prepare meals similar to the standard American diet. Rice tends to replace potatoes but Japanese dishes, with a few exceptions, have limited appeal for the average family. The American palate adjusts slowly to raw fish, dried seaweed and soy bean soup.

For the family with children the American School in Japan offers fine educational facilities in both elementary and high school. Thirty-nine nationalities were enrolled this year, giving youngsters a chance to know children from all over the world. There is no tension and international friendships are the rule. Israelis and Egyptians are teammates on the basketball team. The cost, including books and fees, is about $450.00 per year for each child.

Most children living overseas, have no difficulty making friends. They rapidly learn enough Japanese to get along easily. Adults who have any ambition study Japanese and manage simple transactions in a short length of time. Many Japanese know a little English and are delighted to find someone to practice on. The language barrier is there, however, and can be extremely frustrating in many little ways.

It would be untrue to say that family life for Americans is the same as in the states. It is not and many adjustments have to be made. The budget is stretched to the breaking point to maintain the standard of living to which Americans are accustomed. On the surface, many costs appear lower, mainly because of the abundance of cheap labor. But rent, utilities and the "luxury" items Americans have come to regard as necessities more than make up the difference. There are inconveniences and frustrations involved in living in Japan, even as in the United States or anywhere else. But there also are innumerable things that make life pleasant and interesting. Life in Japan has a special fla-

ON THE HOUSE

By JOHN O.B. WALLACE

AP Newsfeatures

One of the most frequent questions we are asked at this time of the year concerns the common household problem of excessive humidity and window condensation.

From time to time we have provided answers to these questions and have made suggestions for corrective measures, but we have requests for more detailed information on this problem. Here, then, is an effort to supply this detailed, specific information:

The chief cause of excessive humidity in the house is the flow of vapor from such activities as cooking, laundering and bathing. Condensation of water vapor on inside walls and windows can damage paint and woodwork. Floors also can be affected by vapor.

Insulation, a distinct advantage throughout the year in all homes, can add to the problem, however, if the house is not properly vented. So proper ventilation is a must. Also to blame are construction features which do not allow vapor to escape from the house.

Window condensation can become so bad that water runs down and stains wall coverings. Most cases are mild, though, and respond to proper treatment. In cases where window condensation is stubborn, a heating contractor should be called in to check the problem.

First, don't blame the windows. They are performing strictly according to the laws of physics. They actually are giving you a danger signal that the water vapor in the air of your home is excessive.

This moisture may be doing expensive damage to paint and other parts of your house where you can't even see it. So take these steps to reduce humidity:

1. Put on storm windows or double glazing.
2. Shut off the furnace humidifier and any other humidifying devices in your home.
3. Be certain that louvers in the attic or the basement, or in crawl spaces, are open ALL YEAR and that they are large enough for the size of the house.
4. Provide a vapor barrier under slabs or floors of homes without basements. This is a very important point.
5. Run the kitchen and other ventilating fans longer and more often than has been your custom. All day long isn't too much.
6. Open the fireplace damper to allow easier escape for moisture.
7. Vent clothes dryers and gas stoves. It would not be possible to ever forget:

The musical clack of getas (wooden sandals) on pavement, particularly on a rainy night. The tinkling bell of the garbage collector as he pushes his high-piled two-wheel cart down the lane. The call of the gold fish peddler and the melancholy songs of the infinite number of sellers. The tiny shack that is beautiful because of its neatness and the good taste of the people who live there. The laughter and the sound of the Japanese language. Japan combines the best of the past with the present. Her people go out of their way to aid an individual foreigner and seem to feel a personal responsibility to create a good impression for their country.

appliances to the outside of the house.
8. Air out your house for a few minutes each day. Also air out the kitchen, the laundry and the bathrooms during their use or just following their use.
9. If troublesome condensation persists, see your heating contractor about installing an outside air intake for your furnace.

10. When buying or building a house make certain that the structure is properly vented throughout.

YOUNG MODERNS

Now Is Time To Land That Summer Job

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Now is the time for all energetic moderns to sew up a summer job. Don't be wishy-washy about it. Get busy and look just as diligently for a job now as you would when school is out, as if you were desperate for work. It's the early birds that sew up the cushy assignments, the late lookers who join the crocodile club when all the jobs are gone.

Here's a list of naggin' prodders. Maybe you'll get an idea for a job in your area.

Junior Counselors. . . Day camps sometimes prefer a semester of college and 6 months group work with children. There are openings for beginners, however. Summer resident camps like additional skills such as arts, crafts, music, dramatics, dance.

Mother's Helper. . . You'll live as a member of the family (usually at a good vacation spot) as nurse and companion to the little youngsters, helping with the work — child care, cooking, cleaning, maybe even laundry. There is usually time for fun though — swimming, hiking.

Farm Jobs. . . City kids love farm jobs and an advertisement in a farm journal can get you away from it all. Ask the family for references, and check them before you take the job. Church references are the best in cases of that sort. It may even be a good idea to ask your own pastor to contact the church reference.

Sales Jobs. . . Put your oir in now for these jobs. Try specialty shops, five-and-ten cent stores, drug stores. Ice-cream stands, gift shops are other good bets.

Hospital Jobs. . . Many hospitals like to feel they can depend on relief help when vacation periods start for their staff. Get your application in now, telling how long and how often you can be on the job.

Waitress. . . Try the neighborhood restaurants, refreshment stands nearby and resorts or national parks for these jobs.

Office Jobs. . . If you can run a switchboard or can type, take shorthand or keep books you may find summer jobs if you line up now. There are other jobs: Sorting, delivering mail, answering the telephone, filing and clerical jobs that do not require experience.

Park and Beach Attendants. . . Many beaches and clubs keep a list of young girls who can help mother at the beach watching small fry. There are jobs too for boys as lifeguards, cabana hands and at refreshment stands in park or beach.

BUILDS OWN ROAD

ST. AGATHA, Maine — Edwin Pelletier of Frenchville farms a 300-acre island in Long Lake here. Until this year, the only way to reach the island was by boat. "Sick and tired of running a ferry," Pelletier had a causeway built. It took 5,000 yards of rock and 36,000 yards of gravel. Now he has his own road, three fourths of a mile long and 18 inches above the spring high water mark. He figures it will make easier his job of raising potatoes, grain and hay. He also pastures beef cattle on the island.

INVESTMENT IN SPORTS CAR RINGS THE (WEDDING) BELL

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Looking for a husband? Don't give up. Newest gimmick in man-catching is a sports car. We are told that taking out a mortgage on a jaunty jalopy is like buying marriage insurance.

A friend, still a little incoherent from recent adventures, acclaims the sports car as the greatest matchmaker of the age.

Asked if she picked up any good tacks in the tires of her Riviera special while on vacation, she replied giddily: "That ain't all I picked up."

"I feel like a rose just waiting for the bees to gather 'round every time I park my white dream boat," she said cheerily with a gleam in her blue eyes that belied 30 manless summers (the count is her own rough estimate).

"Before I can open the door, men start asking questions. If I climb out for an instant and bend down slightly even, male bystanders start crawling around underneath the engine before I can explain I just dropped an old bus token."

Even a discreet type, my friend says, could parlay a sports car into a wedding coach. All you'd have to do, she says, is ride around until you see your knight in shining burlap, stop short as if you'd stalled, jump out of the car with a worried look on your face.

and before you know it he'll be appraising your underpinnings (the car's that is — but what difference does it make.) He may even propose she says, before he gets back on his feet.

If you've had trouble getting a man, put your chase into high speed instead of staying in neutral and waiting for the big push, she quips.

"You'd never believe men are so nuts on this subject. Study transmission, carburetors, spark plugs, just enough to keep the conversation rolling. Let him drive the car often enough so he feels he owns it and can't give it up. But let him know you go, with the car. You'll never know as much as he does about the engine, another reason why he'll fall in love with you," says my friend, happily twirling her brand new wedding ring.

"Flash," as the news item writer kept referring to Gordon, displayed his talents at the Midway's first "Happy Hour," a talent show of the ship's personnel, recently. In the audience was an official from the Secretary of the Navy, who submitted the Hereford boy's name to Welk.

"As a result of that letter," the story said, "Flash" received an invitation to audition for the Lawrence Welk show."

THE STORY went on to say, "Flash" first performed before the general public at the age of 3 1/2 when he sang on a radio show in Mansfield, Ohio. Through the years he learned to play the guitar and sang and performed com-

A NEW WAY TO SAVE

New Conservation Program Introduction for Local Area

The Deaf Smith Soil Conservation District is one of the first areas to receive appropriations and work on the new Great Plains Conservation Program, public Law 1021, according to Max Shrader, local SCS manager.

Great Plains Conservation Program is a new type of soil conservation operation which is planned to fluctuate with the needs of individual plots of land, rather than an overall program.

The total program includes cost sharing, credit and technical assistance in soil and water conservation; crop insurance; weather studies, research and education.

As a new tool of the total Great Plains Program, The Great Plains Conservation Program supplements existing activities and does not replace any of them.

Purpose of the program is to help land owners in this area carry out a plan of operations that will help to minimize climatic hazards and protect land from erosion and deterioration by natural causes.

Measures eligible for cost sharing include: establishing permanent plant cover, field or contour stripcropping, contour cultivation, improving range cover, planting trees or shrubs for windbreaks or shelterbelts, establishing waterways, building terrace systems, chiseling or plowing rangeland, improving dams or ponds for irrigation, constructing wells for livestock, installing pipe, fencing and controlling brush.

How much cost sharing a farmer will get depends on the cost of doing the needed work and the rate established by the State and County Program Committees. The maximum cost-share rate will not exceed 80 per cent of the average estimated cost of installing each eligible practice.

If a farmer has carried out all or part of a soil and water conservation plan in cooperation with the soil conservation district or through another program, he may still apply for cost-sharing help.

The farmer may apply for help on additional measures that may be needed or for changes in the earlier plan that may be advisable. Governing bodies of soil conservation districts are cooperating in carrying out the Great Plains Conservation Program.

CROPLAND - ACREAGE allotment will not be decreased by any actions taken in carrying out a plan under the program, during the period of contract.

If the land is sold while the program is underway, the contract is terminated. All rights will be forfeited to any further cost-share payments, and all payments must be refunded unless the new owner agrees to become a party to the contract and assumes the obligations.

There is no limitation on the amount of cost shares which a farmer may earn per year under this program except a limitation of $2,500 for cost shares for improving dams or ponds for irrigation.

All existing programs and sources of assistance in developing and carrying out the program plan may be used, such as the Agricultural Conservation Program and the Soil Bank.

Policies and operating procedures for the Great Plains Conservation Program were developed by a Great Plains interagency group in the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture and approved by the Secretary.

This group consists of the Soil Conservation Service, Agricultural Conservation Program Service, Agricultural Marketing Service, Agricultural Research Service, Commodity Stabilization Service, Farmers Home Administration, Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, Federal Extension Service, Forest Service and the Office of Information.
