City sells bond issue to finance plant work

By GEORGIA TYLER
Staff Writer

Moving toward compliance with state regulations on wastewater disposal, the Hereford City Commission Monday night approved a $500,000 revenue bond issue.

After hearing from a Southwest Securities financial advisor, Mark McLiney, commissioners adopted a resolution authorizing sale of the bonds, described as "revenue anticipating" bonds, to Hereford State Bank.

In other business, the commission:
-- Adopted a resolution permitting condemnation of a dangerous building located at 337 and 339 Adelito.

-- Approved a miscellaneous service agreement with Oiler Engineering of Lubbock.

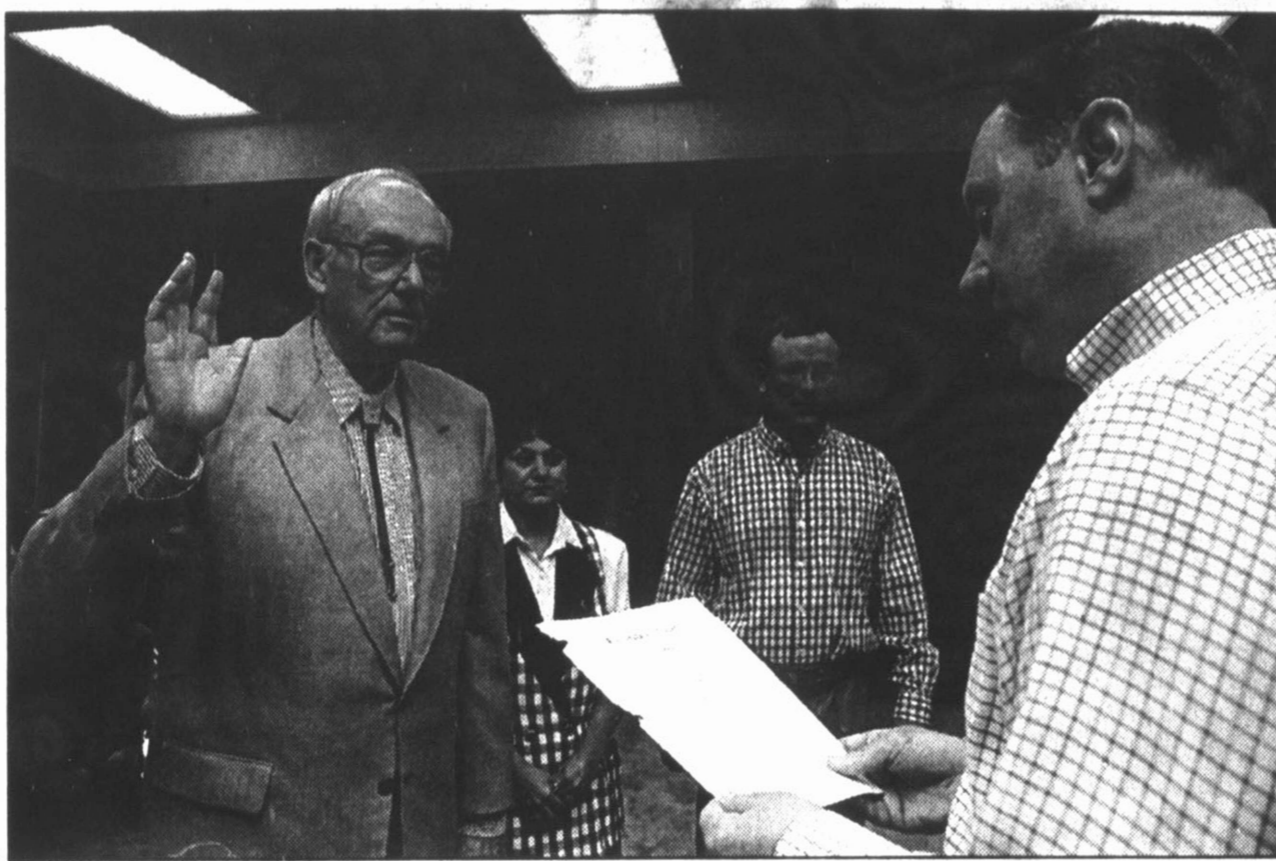

-- Heard a report from Mike Hatley, executive director of Hereford Economic Development Corporation.

The commission at a meeting earlier this month approved a 10 percent increase in fees for city services, effective June 1 and appearing on city bills in July, to raise funds for improvements in the infrastructure of Hereford.

The increases, projected at 10 percent per year for three years, will produce revenue to pay for the bonds approved Monday night. The city expects to issue additional bonds in the future to finance infrastructure improvements.

The wastewater treatment plant is the most immediate concern because the city must deliver an application for renewal of the permit by 5 p.m. on Aug. 8.

Oath of office

Hereford Mayor Bob Josseland, left, takes the oath of office for a new two-year term, administered by Mayor Pro Tem Roger Eades, right. At back are Silvana Juarez, who was re-elected to a new two-year-term, and Tom Coneway, newly elected to the City Commission. After Josseland took the oath, he administered it to Juarez and Coneway.

State Senate, House conferees may be at impasse on tax bill

AUSTIN (AP) - A committee of five senators and five representatives hit an impasse Monday in their effort to reconcile differences between two proposals meant to lower local school property taxes by raising some state taxes.

Sen. Chris Harris, R-Arlington, said the lawmakers can continue discussing differences between the plans - as they have done for the last week. Or, he said, they could start looking for a compromise.

"There may not be one," Rep.

Paul Sadler, D-Henderson, chairman of the conference committee, said.

The House and Senate both have passed plans to lower local school property taxes by raising state taxes. The House plan would cut the taxes by about $5 billion every two years. It raises nearly $3.8 billion in state taxes to pay for it.

The Senate plan would lower the taxes by about $2.5 billion every two years. It raises about $800 million.

Both plans rely on additional state funds to make up the difference. A major sticking point for the committee is a House-approved proposal to tax all business property at the state level. That would bring all business property tax revenues to Austin, from where it would be distributed to the state's 1,044 school districts.

Currently, local districts tax the business property in their areas. That means some districts get more revenue from their local school taxes than others because they have more business property to tax. To level that out, the state forces about 90 districts to share their income with districts that have little business property to tax.

Sadler says the House plan does away with that forced sharing, known as Robin Hood.

Sen. Florence Shapiro, R-Plano, on Monday said the House plan actually expands the Robin Hood system.

Fine powder said to link McVeigh with explosives

DENVER (AP) - In the first evidence tying Timothy McVeigh to explosives, an FBI agent said the only use for a fine powder found on the Oklahoma bombing suspect's pants, T-shirt and earplugs is to detonate a bomb.

FBI chemist Steven Burmeister said Monday he was "not aware of any other way" the explosive powder known as PETN would show up on McVeigh's clothing other than by his having touched a detonator cord.

Pointing out that McVeigh, 29, scribbles notes in court with his right hand, Burmeister testified the PETN was found in the right pocket of McVeigh's black jeans while an unidentifiable trace amount was in the left pocket.

Traces of the material were found on clothing McVeigh was wearing when pulled over on an interstate north of Oklahoma City about an hour after the bombing, he said. The powder also showed up on earplugs in his pocket, Burmeister testified.

McVeigh faces the death penalty in the federal building bombing that killed 168 people and injured 500 - the worst act of terrorism on U.S. soil. Burmeister was scheduled to return to the stand today for additional cross-examination.

In addition to trying to connect McVeigh to PETN, the prosecution also demonstrated the explosive power of ammonium nitrate, a fertilizer that McVeigh is accused of buying in large quantities from a farm supply store.

In 1993, the FBI had exploded several cars in the New Mexico desert using 1,250 pounds of urea nitrate, similar to ammonium nitrate, as a test of what to look for in such bombings.

One juror gasped and victims winced as a fireball from the test sent tires flying and destroyed three vehicles. The amount of urea nitrate used was one-fourth the amount of ammonium nitrate believed used in the Oklahoma City bomb.

Prosecutors charge McVeigh packed the explosives in a rented Ryder truck in retaliation for the fatal FBI raid on the Branch Davidian complex near Waco, Texas, two years beforehand.

Burmeister said explosive material was found on both of the T-shirts McVeigh had on: a dark blue baseball-style shirt and, over that, a short-sleeved white T-shirt with a picture of a tree dripping with blood and the Thomas Jefferson quotation: "The tree of liberty must be refreshed from time to time with the blood of patriots and tyrants."

On the earplugs, Burmeister found PETN and two other substances - nitroglycerine and EDGN - a combination he said "suggests a dynamite."

Burmeister escaped the most scathing criticism in a recent Justice Department report critical of the FBI lab, but others were accused of bungling tests or slanting their findings in the bombing case in favor of the government.

McVeigh's attorneys earlier accused an FBI scientist of mishandling and staging the collection of the fragments of the Ryder truck used in the blast.

McVeigh's attorneys also raised suspicion about the handling of McVeigh's clothing after his arrest near Perry, Okla., about 78 miles from Oklahoma City. McVeigh's yellow Mercury Marquis was initially pulled over for a missing rear license plate, but he was found carrying a pistol and booked on gun charges.

Marsha Moritz, who checked McVeigh into the Noble County Jail, said his clothing was kept in an unlocked area of the jail, along with a copy machine and mattresses where trusted inmates slept.

Janie Rendon and Connie Gilbert were named as the Hereford Independent School District Elementary and Secondary Teacher of the Year, respectively, at the school district's Employee Appreciation Banquet Monday.

Rendon is a bilingual teacher at Tierra Blanca Primary School. Gilbert is a science teacher at Hereford Junior High.

The teachers were presented brass school bells on an engraved wooden base.

Rendon dedicated her award to her mother, who passed away this week. "What I've become, what I am today is due to her."

"Like my mother said, 'You need laughter in your life. You need to go on. That's what I'm going to do,'" Rendon said.

Gilbert expressed much appreciation to her colleagues at Hereford Junior High.

"It's a real privilege to live and work in Hereford, Texas," Gilbert said.

These winners will compete in the Region XVI Teacher of the Year award, HISD Interim Superintendent Nena Veazey said.

The campus principals presented flowers and marble apples on engraved wooden bases to their campus Teacher of the Year.

Veazey and School Board President Dave Charest presented service pins to 10, 20, 25 and 30 year employees and plaques to the district retirees.

Assistant Superintendent of Support Services Terry Russell presented plaques to the Support

New directors join board of DSCHD

Mal Manchee, Chris Leonard and Chip Guseman took the oaths of office as newly-elected directors when the Deaf Smith County Hospital District board met Monday night in the board room at Hereford Regional Medical Center.

County Judge Tom Simons installed the new trustees. Mal Manchee, re-elected to the board, was also retained as president by the board of directors. Boyd Foster was elected as vice president, and Larry Watts was re-elected as secretary.

In other business Monday night, the board approved purchase of a digital duplicator, approved employment of a security guard at the hospital, heard an update on purchase of land just north of the hospital, heard a WorkSmart presentation from Gary Phipps, discussed longrange planning proposals, and approved financial, operations and other routine reports.

Manchee presented plaques of appreciation to Jo Beth Shackelford and Scott Keeling for their service on the board. Both had retired from the board without seeking reelection.

Jim Robinson, Hereford Regional Medical Center administrator, reported that paper work was near completion on the purchase of land across the street, where an Allsup's was formerly located. The district is awaiting a formal notification from the Texas Natural Resources and Conservation Commission on a clean closure where gas tanks were removed, and on a request to close 4th Street between the hospital and the acquired property.

Robinson reported that he had contacted three consulting firms about longrange planning evaluations for the hospital. The board authorized him to set up a time for the companies to make presentations to the board.

The administrator asked the board to consider approval of a security system for the hospital from 7 p.m. to 7 a.m. He reported the hospital had experienced several problems with crowd control in the emergency room and in the hospital hallways. In addition, he added, the majority of the staff at night was composed of females.

Robinson recommended that the hospital contract with Burns International for an uniformed, unarmed guard at a cost of $8.10 an hour. A higher rate would be in effect on holidays. The board approved the request.

Rodney Bailey, chief financial officer, requested that a new Risograph digital duplicator be purchased. He estimated the hospital could save more than $5,700 a year in equipment and supplies costs over the current copier system. The board approved the purchase.

Phipps presented an overview of the WorkSmart programs being administered by the hospital. He presented figures showing the growth of the programs during his three years as director. WorkSmart clients numbered 62 his first year, grew to 125 last year and now total 217.

The program now includes work for 11 school districts, five counties and six adult probation offices, as well as work for the DPS and DOT. He listed the many areas of work being done, including physicals, drug testing, hepatitis and TB tests, vaccinations and flu shots, mammograms, wellness and safety clinics, first aid clinics, cardiac club, and safety meetings.

In the operations report, Robinson reported the average daily census at the hospital was 15.4 for April. The year-to-date average was 15.9 compared to 17.9 a year ago. Patient days had dropped 625 for the year-to-date, but outpatient visits had increased by 926.

The home health department set a new record for visits in April with 3,005. The year-to-date total was 18,864 - an increase of 4,427 over last year. Emergency room visits, lab tests and radiology procedures showed a decrease over last year.

Dean Crofford reviewed the financial statements and pointed out that the hospital had a year-to-date gain of $91,152. Total operating revenues were down slightly in April but up by $20,000 for the year to $5,353,516. An operating loss of $626,402 was indicated before tax and other non-operating funds were added to the bottom line.

Robinson also gave the board an update on other activities, including the hospital's new designation as a trauma facility. He reported HRMC will try a new mobile MRI service, which is offered to area hospitals once a week.

Hospital board is reorganized

Formal wear for '97 Senior Prom includes kilts for Scottish visitor

BY LAVON NIEMAN
Staff Writer

A wee bit of Scotland was represented at the Hereford High School Senior Prom Saturday night.

Not only was a member of the graduating class from Scotland - foreign exchange student Carol McNaughton - but her mother and brother came for the graduation activities, as well as Carol's 18th birthday on May 12.

Brother Michael, 22, provided the most visible Scottish presence at the prom as he decked out in kilts to escort his sister to the event. Kilts are a time-honored attire worn by men of the Scottish Highlands. They are short, pleated skirts that extend to the knees.

And the senior parents who decorated Hereford Community Center for the event had an extra volunteer - Lynda McNaughton, who made a 27-hour flight to Amarillo with her son so they could be here for graduation.

Mrs. McNaughton was surprised that their flight was only 20 minutes behind schedule, and so were Frankie and Jeri Bezner who met them at the airport. Carol has been here for her senior year, living with the Bezner family since Jan. 1. She became great friends with Rachel and Jacque Bezner and said she "enjoyed learning about country life in Texas." Rachel, the Bezners oldest daughter, also graduated this year.

Graduation ceremonies were new to Carol. In Scotland, she said, seniors take a national test and receive a graduation certificate in the mail a few weeks later.

Carol and her mother were honored at a brunch Thursday in the home of Wanda Hoover. Guests included Jeri Bezner and her daughters, and Millie Barrett and Lavon Nieman.

Mrs. McNaughton said letters between her and Carol usually took no longer than a week to arrive. Telephone calls are about $10 for a 20-minute talk, she reported. Calls from Hereford to Scotland are more expensive.

Carol took her mother shopping in Amarillo so she could see a big mall. She reported that prices were considerably higher in Scotland. The most surprising moment for Mrs. McNaughton came when she saw guns on sale in a big discount store.

"I had never seen a grocery store that sold guns."

And, she was also surprised to find an item was more than the figure on the tag. In Scotland, the price tag includes the tax. She said tourism was probably Scotland's biggest industry. They raise sheep and cattle but the farms are much smaller acreage.

The animals are fed mostly hay and turnip greens, said Mrs. McNaughton. In the winter, most of the animals are kept inside a barn. She said agriculture is highly subsidized in Scotland and regulated by the government.

The McNaughtons are in the furniture business in Alyth, Scotland, a village of less than a thousand people located about one hour from Edinburgh. The business was started by their ancestors 125 years ago. It closed briefly during World War II, then re-opened. They also sell carpet, drapes and home accessories, and they hold estate auctions.

Lynda and Michael plan to return to Scotland soon, but Carol is staying to take a family vacation with the Bezners before she leaves America. She plans to attend Glasgow University and major in journalism.

Gowns and kilts at Senior Prom

There was a wee bit of Scotland evident at the Senior Prom here Saturday night when Michael McNaughton donned kilts to escort his sister, Carol (center), graduating exchange student from Scotland. Carol has been living with the Frankie Bezner family. Jacque (left) and Rachel Bezner pose with the McNaughtons. Michael and his mother, Lynda, came from Scotland for graduation ceremonies.

Veleda Study Club holds installation

Veleda Study Club held its installation of officers during the final meeting of the club year at Something Special.

Following a salad supper, members answered roll call by responding to the question, "What are your summer plans?"

Those responding were Marcella

Bradly, Juanita Brown, Frances Crume, Bettie Dickson, Mary Dziuk, Betty Gilbert, Della Hutto, Joyce Ritter, Clovis Seago, De Ann Sisson and Margaret Zinser.

Brown invited the club to her home for a summer ice cream social with the date to be announced later.

Crume installed new officers after thanking those who served last year. New officers are Crume, president; Theda Seiver, vice president; Dziuk, secretary and Dickson, treasurer.

Crume led the reading of the Club Collect then had each officer light a candle as she expanded on the collect to install them. The remaining members then lit candles, formed a circle around the new officers and the installation was closed with a prayer.

DSCHS to hold meeting, luncheon

Members of the Deaf Smith County Historical Society are invited to attend the organization's Annual Meeting and Luncheon planned for 10 a.m. June 3 in the E.B. Black House, 508 West Third.

This is an open meeting for all members of the historical society and each member is encouraged to attend this yearly event.

The annual meeting will begin at 10 a.m. with president Jeri Bezner presiding.

The agenda will include annual reports by committees and the election of directors.

Following the meeting, a luncheon will be served. Reservations may be made by calling Donna Brockman, executive director of the Deaf Smith County Museum at 363-7070. Please RSVP by May 27.

Class of 1942 will hold reunion this weekend

Hereford High School Class of 1942 is planning its 55 year reunion on Friday and Saturday of Memorial Day weekend.

Members of the class will attend the pancake supper Friday night at Hereford Senior Citizens Center.

Saturday the class will have reserved tables at the Bull Barn during the annual meeting of the Mid-Plains Pioneer Association.

Following the Pioneer Day meeting, members will meet at 2 p.m. at the Senior Center for visitation. Activities will conclude with a banquet at 7 p.m. at K-Bob's Annex. Fifteen members of the original 55-member class still live in Hereford and seven more live within a 50-mile radius of Hereford.

Jazz knocks off Rockets, 101-86

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) - This MVP stuff is all new to Karl Malone, so you'll have to excuse his behavior Monday night.

He practically snubbed David Stern. He gave the silent treatment to the fans. He made the media wait an hour for a postgame interview.

He didn't even play up to his MVP standards.

Still, the rest of the Jazz gave solid backing to Malone on the night he picked up his trophy as Utah defeated Houston 101-86 Monday night in Game 1 of the Western Conference finals.

Game 2 is Wednesday night, and much of the MVP hype should be finished by then. That didn't stop Malone from trying to put an early end to it.

In a pre-game ceremony hosted by the commissioner, Malone picked up his trophy as quickly as he could, refused to say any words to the crowd, held the trophy up, spun around and sprinted back to the Jazz bench.

The whole thing lasted barely more than a minute.

"I didn't want to draw any more attention to the MVP than had already been on me," Malone said. "They wanted me to say something, and I said absolutely not. I don't want the fans to think I snubbed them, but I didn't want to get caught up in it because this game was big for us."

But couldn't he at least have thanked the fans? Couldn't he have given the home crowd a little insight into what this accolade meant?

"Me talking could have gotten the other team revved up to play, so I made it short and sweet, I turned to every direction of the crowd so they could see it, and then I was out of there," he said.

Malone played - at least for him - a mediocre game with 21 points, 13 rebounds, five turnovers and a 6-for-16 shooting performance. But he also helped hold Charles Barkley to 12 points as part of a strong team-wide defensive effort.

"You look at the stats and see that Karl had a bad game - at least for him - and it's good because we won and we know he will be back stronger," Jeff Hornacek said.

Hornacek scored 19 points, John Stockton had 16 points and 13 assists, rookie Shandon Anderson scored 11 and Greg Foster came off the bench to score nine points in the second quarter when Utah pulled ahead to stay.

Hakeem Olajuwon had 30 points but didn't score in the fourth period. Clyde Drexler scored 13 and Mario Elie 10 for Houston, which was playing just two days after finishing off Seattle in a seven-game series.

"We looked like a tired team, but I thought we would have applied ourselves more," Houston coach Rudy Tomjanovich said. "I'm very disappointed that we didn't make this closer."

The Jazz, who have won their last 20 home games, outshot Houston 44 percent to 38 percent and finished with only 15 turnovers after committing eight in the first quarter.

"There was some rust, but there was energy, too. So it all balanced out," Hornacek said.

Houston got a 3-for-10 effort from Barkley and a 2-for-9 evening for Matt Maloney. Olajuwon, who was 9-of-14 from the field and 12-for-17 from the line, was the only member of the Rockets to shoot above 50 percent.

"I played terrible," Barkley said. "I just wrote it off as a bad night. We were all terrible and I was the leader of the pack."

With Malone on the bench, Utah went on a 10-0 run early in the second quarter for a 30-24 lead. Foster scored nine points for Utah in the first seven minutes of the quarter before Malone returned with the Jazz leading by six.

"We had a four-point lead, and then all of a sudden we're down nine. That was because of their bench. They were terrific," Barkley said.

The margin stayed about the same until Stockton ended the half with a 3-point heave from 26 feet that banked in to give Utah a 49-40 lead.

Utah quickly bumped its lead to double digits early in the third quarter, then answered the pair of runs Houston made.

The Rockets trailed 79-65 entering the fourth and pulled within nine points twice before Utah finished them off for good.

Bulls surprised to be playing Miami next

CHICAGO (AP) - Tim Hardaway has an unstoppable crossover dribble and a penchant for making clutch 3-pointers. Alonzo Mourning blocks shots on defense and drives hard to the basket on offense.

Nevertheless, neither Miami Heat standout is the Chicago Bulls' main concern going into tonight's opener of the Eastern Conference finals.

The No-Knick Effect is.

The Bulls were convinced they would be playing rival New York for the conference title. They were stunned - and a tad disappointed - that Miami rallied from a 3-1 second-round deficit to defeat the Knicks and earn a trip to Chicago.

"We're the world champions, and we're the ones who are defending the title. We were ready for anybody that came along," Chicago guard Steve Kerr said. "If anything, there might be a little bit of a letdown emotionally because guys were getting geared up for that rivalry."

Miami is coached by Pat Riley, who was with the Knicks during the best years of the New York-Chicago rivalry.

Like the Knicks under Riley and, now, Riley protege Jeff Van Gundy, the Heat play very aggressively.

Too aggressively, Bulls coach Phil Jackson contends.

"Physical. Aggressive. Challenging every shot. On your arms whenever you dribble or pass the ball. Those are the things that Pat teaches," Jackson said. "Foul them on every play and see if you can get away with it. Bring the contact level up another notch and see if the referees will call it."

ESPN lands Big 12 basketball playoff

DALLAS (AP) - Big 12 Big Monday has become a big deal for ESPN.

In fact, the television network likes Big 12 basketball so much it outbid CBS for the championship game in Kansas City which will be held in March, 1998.

ESPN also said it wanted the Big 12 back for its Big Monday basketball package because of high ratings, calling them "one of the strongest" they've ever had.

The announcements were made Monday at the Big 12's spring meeting.

Missouri's Joe Castiglione, chairman of the athletic directors committee, said the "Big Monday" pairing of Big 12 teams will be on ESPN again because the network declared the games had the highest rankings since 1994 in the 8:30 p.m. time slot.

"We have a great marriage with ESPN," Castiglione said. "Our other games in the tournament will be syndicated like they were last year. We had some good news shared with us by ESPN."

The Big 12 also announced the annual football media day will be moved from St. Louis to Irving, Texas.

On the first day, Thursday July 24, Texas Tech, Nebraska, Texas, Kansas State, and Baylor coaches and selected players will be available for interviews at the Omni Mandalay-Harvey Hotel in Irving, a sprawling Dallas suburb.

On Friday July 25, Iowa State, Texas A&M, Oklahoma, Missouri, Oklahoma State and Colorado coaches and players will be available.

"We feel it's easy to get in and out of Dallas for the media, football coaches and the players," said commissioner Steve Hatchell. "We might make this a permanent spot for the football press day."

Last year the first Big 12 football press day was held in St. Louis, site of the league's inaugural championship game.

The 1997 championship football game will be held in San Antonio's Alamodome on Saturday, Dec. 6. Big 12 officials said the game is scheduled for 3:30 p.m. whereas it was held at noon last year in the TWA Dome in St. Louis. Attendance fell short of the 65,000 capacity in Texas' 37-27 victory over Nebraska.

"We'll be in the late afternoon this year and possibly in primetime in the evening," Hatchell said. "ABC will carry the game."

The three-day meeting ends on Wednesday afternoon with a conference of the faculty athletics representatives.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: This letter is in response to "His Wife in Maryland," who complained about the Other Woman. I am one of those so-called "homewreckers." I am a married woman, and the man I was involved with was also married. Our affair was discovered, and though we still loved one another, we chose to end it and stay with our spouses.

An affair doesn't just happen. It is a symptom of problems in the marriage. When your needs are being met outside the relationship, it is easy to find fault with your wife or husband. The fact remains, however, that two half relationships are a lot less satisfying than one wholly committed one.

"Maryland" is obviously unhappy in her marriage, and she needs to work on what is wrong and try to fix it. Focusing all the blame on the "homewrecker" is no solution. There is a reason her husband, who fools around, continues to come home to her. The wife always has a distinct advantage over the Other Woman. It is every homewrecker's fear that the wife will spark the passion that made her husband marry her to begin with. Marriages CAN survive an affair. The keys are forgiveness, re-commitment and communication. It's a long, hard process but well worth the effort.

Finally, for all those married people who are contemplating an affair, I urge you to focus on your marriage. If it is absolutely beyond repair, end it before becoming involved with someone else. You will save yourself a lot of heartache. The short-term pleasure is not worth the long-term pain. -- Lived and Learned in Oregon

Dear Oregon: You can't beat wisdom born of experience. Thank you for a splendid response. Your honesty and clear-eyed conclusions were refreshing.

Here's one more on the subject: Dear Ann Landers: How about giving the Other Woman a voice? I'm sick of reading letters from wives who whine about their lousy husbands and what bums they are as dads. If these women aren't happy, why stay married? A victim doesn't make a good role model for her children.

I was once a wife, but I'm much happier being the Other Woman. I'm no beauty, but I'm never at a loss for companionship. I travel with my lover, and he buys me gifts and treats me like royalty. Why? Because I make him feel like a king. I never bring my problems to him, there are no kids yelling in my home, and he has no responsibility here, only pleasure.

A real man would be home helping with his children, making love to the woman who blessed him with those kids. If his wife thinks I'm waiting for him to leave her, she's mistaken. I don't want any commitments from a man who obviously can't keep them.

These unhappy wives need to lay down the law. If women didn't put up with such lousy treatment, fewer men would be dishing it out. Most men cheat because they can get away with it. If they thought for a minute that their wives would leave them, they'd stop horsing around.

When are those wives going to start enjoying their lives instead of sitting home alone and whining? I say, give the men an ultimatum. If it works and the man stops cheating, the wife wins. If he continues to sneak around, she hasn't lost a thing by throwing him out. In fact, she'll get back her self-esteem, her children's respect and a lot more. -- His Lover in Albany, N.Y.

Dear Albany: You have given the wife some good advice. Here's some for you: Dump that married man and find someone you can build a life with. The road you are traveling leads nowhere. He'll use you as long as he can. Wake up, and bail out now.

Is alcohol ruining your life or the life of a loved one? "Alcoholism: How to Recognize It, How to Deal With It, How to Conquer It" can turn things around. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.75 (this includes postage and handling) to: Alcohol, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562. (In Canada, send $4.55.)

Bride-elect honored

Rebber bride-to-be is honoree

The home of Millie Barrett was the setting for a bridal shower May 10 in honor of Connie Jo White, bride-elect of David Rebber.

The couple will exchange marriage vows on June 6.

Greeting guests were the honoree; Kimberli White, her daughter; Joyce Wells, mother of the prospective bridegroom; and Mae Dell Durham and Jewell Wells, his grandmothers.

The guest register was attended by Sheri Renfro, cousin of the prospective groom.

Refreshments consisted of quiche, fresh fruit, muffins, coffee, tea and mimosas.

A lace tablecloth covered the serving table which was centered with a floral arrangement of white iris, roses and ivy. Crystal and silver appointments were used.

An afghan was the gift from hostesses Millie Barrett, Nelda Louder, Joann Berend, Sandra Saul and Gerry Taylor.

Computer art display

Jana Horton, a computer art/graphic design major, began doing computer art in a class she took with her mother at West Texas A&M University. Jana says this kind of art work is the first process in producing movies like "Toy Story." Her creative and imaginative work, produced with a 3-D rendering program, is now on display at the Deaf Smith County Library, 211 E. Fourth.

Greene will serve as judge for piano playing auditions

National Piano Playing Auditions were set to begin today and continue through Wednesday at Christ's Church Fellowship, according to Evelyn Hacker, chairman.

Students prepare memorized pieces and perform before a judge. They are expected to transpose, sight read and play scales and cadences.

The judge for this year's auditions is Jeannine Greene of Plainview. Greene received her B.A. from Wayland Baptist University and the M.M. from Baylor University.

She had a private piano studio in Plainview from 1956 to 1981, at which time she accepted her present position on the music faculty at Wayland Baptist University.

Greene has been church pianist at First Baptist Church of Plainview since 1956.

She is a member of Music Teachers National Association, Texas Music Teachers Association, Lubbock Music Teachers Association, Plainview Music Teachers Association, Suzuki Association of the Americas, Plainview Community Concert Board and Plainview Musical Arts Club.

Teachers who are entering students are Johnny Walters of Friona, Frances Parker, Cheryl Betzen, Susan Shaw and Hacker, all of Hereford.

Cultural FCE meets prior to summer recess

Cultural Family and Community Education Club held its last meeting prior to summer recess recently at the Hereford Community Center with eight members and one guest present.

President Nell Pope presided over the business meeting following a luncheon.

Volunteer hours for the month were reported by each member.

Members were reminded that Tasting Bee recipes are to be turned in by the next Council meeting.

In attendance were guest Tonie Vaughn and members Marilyn Smith, Edna Marnell, Perry Keyes, Jewell Hargraves, Fannie Townsend, Virginia Sumner, Byrdie Fellers and Pope.

Bud to Blossom Club has brunch

The Bud to Blossom Club met in the home of Patricia Robinson for a brunch and meeting.

After the business meeting, an open discussion was held on possible ways to expand the club and include those who work outside the home. These individuals might be able to attend night meetings or Saturday meetings to learn the benefits of gardening.

The program was a video titled "Gardens of the World" hosted by Audrey Hepburn.

One guest, Donna Smith, was in attendance along with members Mildred Fuhrmann, Wilma Bryan, Ursalee Jacobsen, Phyllis Brown, Lou Hall and Robinson.

Pancake supper Friday at HSC

Hereford Senior Citizens Association will sponsor its annual pancake supper from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. Friday at the Senior Center.

Cost is $4 per person. Children 5 and under eat free.

Serving begins early enough for those who plan to attend the graduation to have time to eat before going across the street to Whiteface Stadium.

All local residents, as well as visitors in town for the Pioneer Celebration, are invited to eat and visit.

Your GIFT reached people like never before.

YOUR DONATION TO YOUR UNITED WAY MADE A LASTING IMPACT IN THE LIVES OF THE NEEDY AND IN THE HOPES OF YOUR COMMUNITY. THANK YOU FOR BEING ONE OF OUR HELPING HANDS.

Reaching those who need help. Teaching us all.
