Flood confronts reality, but sees opportunities

By Donald M. Cooper Hereford Brand Managing Editor

A few weeks after he took office, John F. Kennedy was asked if he had found any big surprises as president.

The biggest surprise, Kennedy responded, was to find out that things were as bad as he said they were when he was a candidate.

After 13 months on the Deaf Smith County Hospital District board, new board president Ernest Flood has found the assumptions reached by the Community Health Improvement Partnership (CHIP) are correct. Flood served as chairman of the group, which spent more than a year assessing all aspects of the health care system in Deaf Smith County.

"The CHIP conclusions have been verified. I want to stress this is positive," Flood said. "We went through a lot of demographics with CHIP and I didn't necessarily believe all of them."

But Flood, who was elected to the hospital district board in May 1999, said the CHIP conclusions have proven correct.

Deaf Smith County is small and Hereford Regional Medical Center will not be able to provide some of the specialized services that a hospital in a more populous area can.

"We won't be able to provide some of the services that would increase our patientload, but there are still many opportunities out there for the hospital," Flood said. "Things are changing so fast in health care that we don't know what opportunities will be there tomorrow."

In order for the hospital district to take advantage of the opportunities as they present themselves, Flood said it is critical there be stability in the hospital administration.

"We need the stability to utilitize all of our technology and become a true regional hospital," Flood said. He said he believes HRMC should work more closely with the small rural hospitals in Dimmitt and Friona.

"Our numbers in Deaf Smith County just don't support a lot of specialty services. But if you can stretch our geography south and southwest, work-ing together with Dimmitt and Friona, it becomes feasible," Flood said.

One of his goals, not only as board president but also as a member of the board, is to work to

INDEPENDENCE DAY

Declaration described principals for revolution

By Donald M. Cooper Hereford Brand Managing Editor

Independence Day!

Every July 4, Americans celebrate the nation's birthday — or at least the day on which the 2^{nd} Continental Congress adopted the Declaration of Independence.

The purpose of the Declaration was to establish the principles upon which the Congress had acted two days earlier when it approved Richard Henry Lee's motion to declare the 13 American colonies' independence from Great Britain. The Declaration was designed to influence public opinion and gain support both among the new states and abroad especially in France, from which the new "United States" sought military assistance.

Although Benjamin Franklin, John Adams, Thomas Jefferson and Robert R. Livingston made up the committee charged with drafting the Declaration, the task fell to Jefferson, regarded by his colleagues as the strongest and most eloquent writer. The document is largely Jefferson's work, although the committee and Congress as a whole made a total of 86 changes in his draft.

As a scholar well versed in the ideas and ideals of the French and English Enlightenments, Jefferson found his greatest inspiration in the language and arguments of John Locke, the English philosopher who had justified England's "Glorious Revolution" of 1688 on the basis of man's "natural rights."

Locke contended that government is a contract between the governed and those governing, who derived their power solely from the consent of the people. Locke also contended the purpose of government is to protect every person's inherent right to property, life and liberty.

Jefferson's theory of natural law differed because it substituted the inalienable right of the "pursuit of happiness" for "property," emphasizing that happiness is the product of

Poll: Americans say they value First Amendment, with some reservations By Will Loster

Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON — Free speech is a great American principle that should be protected — except when it protects the airing of views people find offensive, a majority in a new poll says. On press freedom, half said U.S. news media have too much freedom, while the other half said the press has about the right amount or not enough freedom, said the poll by the Freedom Forum's First Amend-ment Center.

"It appears many Americans are having second thoughts about the First Amendment," said Kenneth Paulson, executive director of the center. "They treasure it as part of this nation's heritage, but they become uncomfortable when it allows others to speak out in offensive ways

The survey, released Friday to coincide with the July 4 weekend, explores America's commitment to the 45-word First Amendment: "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances." stabilize the hospital and "give it the chance to address fully the op-portunities that are out there. We don't know what we can do because of the turnover, both in the admin-istration and on the board," he said.

"(Former HRMC administrator) John (Studsrud) resigned at my very first meeting as a member of the board," Flood said. "We spent more of the next year trying to find a fulltime administrator, so we couldn't focus on really providing direction for the hospital.

"We have a good administrator (James Taylor) in place now and the service contract with TORCH (Texas Organization of Rural and Community Hospitals) is good for us because it will allow us to turn our attention to studying what is out there and provide services to the people of Deaf Smith County," Flood said.

"The turnover on the board has been a major disappointment for me. We've had three people (Jeremy Grant, Steve Lawlis and Mark Collier) resign in the 13 months I've been on the board," Flood said. "And, I'm disappointed that only the incumbents ran in the spring.

"I'm no different that anyone else. If I hadn't been called about CHIP, I might just have sat back and let others do it. ... I am glad we do have some individuals who have been wanting to put something back into the community.

"I'm very optimistic about the future. We have competent, qualified, caring people. We (directors) need to work on our end to better serve the hospital employees. We need to help them do what they want to do and that's provide good service to the people," Flood said.

ing a cigarette. Most are just hardworking people who use the drivethrough window as an accommodation," Freeman said.

With drive-through window service available for anything from fast food to dry cleaning, many of the employees said what you see depends on the service you offer.

"Some people come through and buy plain hamburgers and ice cream cones for their dogs," a McDonald's worker said. "It's always a hoot when you see someone holding an ice cream cone for the pooch.'

Most employees are more likely to remember the odd orders than the odd people.

"We only get a brief glimpse of the person, unless they are regulars," Patricia Serrano said.

"But we remember things like people ordering a pizza at a burger joint," said Mr. Burger owner Anselmo Serrano.

"Some of the more memorable things that come through the drivethrough are the things that go on with the cars themselves," Patricia said. "We're forever having to push a car out of the driveway after it's died and won't start again. Occasionally, we even get to watch as a car catches fire in the parking lot."

"At our other store, we once had a semi come through and it hit the iron bars. If the bars hadn't been anchored, it would have crashed into the building. Another weird thing happened when a lady in a brandnew BMW pulled up to the concrete parking ties and her bumper got hooked on the spikes that are supposed to hold them in."

Older workers, who have worked in several drive-through jobs, say the bigger the town the weirder the things get. Some of workers said it was unbelievable how much junk people cram into their cars.

"Some people can't open their doors without all kinds of stuff coming out," Patricia said.

Most of the workers who readily dole out burgers, dry-cleaning and cigarettes say pretty much the same thing: "A lot of normal people come through, but when the odd one does come through, we remember them."

also said public libraries should block access to potentially offensive sites on computers used by children.

About half in the new poll said art should not be put in public places if it may offend some members of the community, and public speech that offends members of a religious group should not be allowed. Two-thirds said public remarks that racial groups find offensive should not be allowed.

Sentiment that the press has too much freedom tended to fluctuate over the past year. Just over half thought the press had too much freedom when the poll was taken last year in the aftermath of President Clinton's impeachment fight. The ratio who thought the media are too free dropped to four in 10 by last September.

"Public support for freedom of the press is mercurial," Paulson said. We also have a strong sense that the public's support for freedom of the press is directly tied to what they see on television." While nine in 10 said people should be allowed to express unpopular opinions, support for that view dropped sharply when the question became more specific. Most (78 percent) disagreed that people should be allowed to burn or deface the American flag in a political statement, and four in 10 disagreed that musicians should be allowed to sing songs with lyrics that might be considered offensive.

Three in 10 in the poll said Americans have too little religious freedom, possibly linked to the question of allowing more religion in public schools.

Two-thirds said teachers or others should be allowed to lead prayers in school and over public address systems at school sporting events. Sixty-one percent said public officials should be allowed to post the Ten Commandments at public school.

The poll also found about six in 10 thought the government should be allowed to place restrictions on the amount of money an individual can contribute to someone else's political campaign.

civic virtue and public duty. The concept of the "pursuit of happiness" originated in the Common Sense School of Scottish philosophy.

Jefferson stressed the contractual justification for independence, arguing that when the government of King George III repeatedly violated natural law, the colonist not only had the right but the duty to revolt. The Congress deleted a few passages of Jefferson's draft and amended others; however, only two sections were rejected. The two sections killed by the Congress were a derogatory reference to the English people and a passionate denunciation of the slave trade. Jefferson later said the slave trade section was deleted because of objections from delegates from South Carolina and Georgia, which wanted to continue the importation of slaves.

The rest of the 1,337-word document was accepted on July 4 and signed by John Hancock, acting as president of the Congress. After the declaration was adopted, it was first read aloud July 8 in Philadelphia.

At 6 p.m. July 9, Gen. George

Washington ordered it read aloud to the Continental Army, which was

PALO DURO CANYON

(James B. Waits)

Part of the twilight flickers through the canyon junipers and a luminating presence of the full moon is felt; A twinkling star gleams through darkness of night and the horizon begins to melt. Long throughout the night, sounds fill the air with echoes of the mighty locust wings; Old eagles perch atop the jagged cliffs when nocturnal creatures sing.

Daylight opens a canopy of colors to everything below, as life begins to wake with accelerating force; Unapproachable beauty abounds with colorful rocks and the river wanders aimlessly with no course. Rising steam floats gently over the thickets of mesquite, heat evaporating what dew that falls; Odorous scents created by alluring vegetation contrasts the barren soil that scales the canyon walls.

With trails of dust left by pounding hooves, horses traverse this landscape with no pain; This is the Palo Duro, a canyon full of life in our vast West Texas plain.

Sometimes Dad was tired, from working all day. But us kids didn't know, we just wanted to play. And Mom didn't have to ask twice, for Dad's help on anything. He was always willing to fulfill the bond of the ring.

Sometimes, dads don't get the credit they should in the deal The backbone in the corner, with the quiet nerves of steel.

I once asked my Daddy, when he was tired and wore out Why he played with us kids until it's "lights out." He looked at me and smiled, with a twinkle in his eye And told me a story I'll remember 'til I die.

He said, "Son, if I pass up the chance to play with you kids "Or help Mom in the kitch or help Uncle Sid. "I'll know in some way, I failed to do my best "That I came up short, when put to the test.

"Not all men in life have a family at home "Down the road all alone, these men seem to roam. "So when you grow up and you become a dad, "Have a family at home, that makes you feel glad. "Just remember, love dissolves tiredness, of this there's no doubt. "So always play with your kids, until it's 'lights out."

Schmidly is picked by Tech

LUBBOCK (AP) - Texas Tech University officials named David Schmidly, a long-time college professor and administrator, president of the university on Friday.

Schmidly, vice president for research and graduate dean at Texas Tech, will replace Donald Haragan, as president starting Aug. 1.

Schmidly, the 13th presi-dent of Texas Tech, has served as a Texas Tech administrator for almost four years. He also is vice president for graduate studies and vice president for technology transfer. He is still involved in conducting research and published a book on marine mammals last spring.

Haragan, when he an-nounced his retirement from the presidency last year, said he wants to return to the classroom. He has been the president of Texas Tech since August 1996. Haragan, a 31year higher education veteran, also will continue to work on initiatives began during his presidency, including the Honors College and Study-abroad programs.

Schmidly, 56, will earn $236,000 as president. He currently earns $182,826.

ERNEST FLOOD. Assessing his responsibilities as the new board president of the Deaf Smith County Hospital District.

OMMENTS

Supreme Court sends message

The Supreme Court's reaffirmation yesterday of Miranda v. Arizona sends a valuable message about the importance of stability in law. Not all of the seven justices who voted to retain Miranda would have supported the opinion when it was handed down in 1966. Indeed, some are known sceptics of the landmark holding, which requires police to warn suspects in custody of their constitutional right not to incriminate themselves and to have a lawyer. Yet by a strong 7 to 2 vote, with Chief Justice William Rehnquist writing for the majority, the court declared that it would not reverse the ruling that "has become embedded in routine police practice to the point where the warnings have become part of our national culture." In reaffirming Miranda, the court acknowledges that it has been - despite the controversy that still surrounds it - good for law enforcement,

Hello, Hereford:

"...and the rocket's red glare, the bombs bursting in air, Gave proof through the night that our flag was still there."

h! yes, the star-spangled banner yet waves, with or without a July 4th celebration.

The Deaf Smith Chamber of Commerce has drawn some flak lately for its decision to preempt the annual city-wide Fourth of July Celebration and Fireworks Show, choosing instead to feature the fireworks display as a concluding event in the week-long Town and Country Celebration three weeks ago.

In all fairness, the chamber board would probably agree that moving up the fireworks show was a bad idea, and says as much in a letter to the editor, today.

But critics have chewed the fat over this issue in the coffee shops, on the streets and over the airways — complaining not so much about the fireworks, but mostly the chamber's perceived obligation to host a true red, white and blue blowout at Veteran's Park.

As I see it, this little patriotic skirmish is made up of three camps: a small group of those who have sincerely enjoyed and at-tended every formal July 4th tribute this town has ever thrown; a small group of those who always have their mouth open and their hands in their pockets, and who always know what's wrong with it and are never around to help fix it; and a much larger group of those who flat don't care.

But while we're sharpening our sabers, polishing our muskets, and mustering "Old Glory": It apparently never occurs to anyone (other than chamber volunteers and board members, of course) that some other group could step up to the firing line for a change and volunteer to organize this community's July 4th celebration.

And there lies the rub.

If this community wants to have a stars and stripes celebration, then let's charge those who want it most with the freedom to organize and the courts and defendants alike. The Washington Post

Miranda ruling upholds fine, necessary tradition

Is there a television-viewer or moviegoer in all of America over the age of six who is not familiar with the gist of the "Miranda" warning? ...

After more than 30 years, the recitation by police officers of the Miranda warning to those who are about to be arrested has become as American as apple pie. ...

In refusing to overturn the 1966 landmark Miranda decision, the court rightly upheld a fine and necessary American tradition of justice. It is a tradition that is grounded in the 5th Amendment's admonition that "No person shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself." ...

There is nothing onerous about requiring police to recite those few, familiar, all-American words when taking someone into custody. The warning merely serves to put the accused on notice that, even under arrest, they have certain rights and are entitled to insist that those rights be protected.

In announcing that the justices "decline to overrule Miranda ourselves," this conservative court came down squarely on the side of fairness in the criminal justice system. What could be more American than that?

Dad's 'war' with Big Re

ig Red liked everyone except my father, or at least that's what my Uncle Bo said.

My father's feud with my grandmother's favorite rooster, a big Rhode Island Red, started not long after my parents were married. Dad was between jobs, something that wasn't uncommon in 1940, and he and Mom stayed with her parents on their farm about 4 miles north of Nashville, a small town in southwestern Arkansas.

In exchange for room and board, Dad helped Grandpa and Bo, my mother's brother, on the farm, repairing fences, milking cows, plowing the fields and even gathering eggs in the hen house.

That's when Dad and Big Red clashed.

The hen house, which sat a ways back from the house, had a chicken wire fence around it and the chickens could be locked inside the house at night. But during the day, the gates were open and the chickens roamed all over the place.

My grandmother usually went to the hen house every evening to gather the eggs, but one afternoon Dad decided to do it for her, thinking he was doing her a favor. Maybe ' Big Red didn't like a stranger taking eggs out of the nest, but whatever the big rooster's rea-son, he let out a scrawk and charged after Dad, pecking at his legs as hard as he could.

My father was surprised by the sudden rooster attack and he just slapped at the angry bird, but that only seemed to make Big Red madder. After a few minutes, and one or two dropped eggs, my father decided to quit the fight and he ran as hard as he could for the house, just beating the rooster through the screen door on the back porch.

"I swear that was a sight," Uncle Bo told me years later, "looking out there and seeing your daddy running as hard as he could toward the house and that big of red rooster right behind him, pecking at his heels."

That was the first shot in the war between my father and Big Red, a war that would continue for several weeks.

Every time my father stepped off the back porch, here would come Big Red, squawking and ruffling his feathers, to attack my father. If my father had been inclined to wear shorts that Indian summer, he would have given them up because a big, angry rooster can peck hard enough to draw blood.

Uncle Bo would laugh and a tell how my father would always look in all directions to see if Big Red were lurking around the premises before leaving the house. Then he would walk swiftly to wherever he needed to go, keeping an eye peeled for his feathered nemesis.

"One thing I never figured out," Uncle Bo said. "But Big Red never bothered your father when he was out front. D.W. could come out the front door and Big Red wouldn't pay him any mind at all. But let him come out the back, and that rooster'd be all over him."

My father apparently grew tired of having to defend himself against a bullying rooster, especially when his mischievious brother-in-law found the whole man-fowl war to be so amusing.

My Uncle Bo loved to laugh, and he had an laugh that was infectious, so when he laughed when the rooster attack sent my father running for cover, everyone laughed and laughed loudly.

Everyone, that is, except my father.

My father is a patient man who rarely loses his temper, but the rooster was really, really getting under his skin.

One afternoon, after Big Red chased him into the house for what was probably the hundredth time, Dad walked through the house to the front porch, where my mother and grandmother were shelling blackeyed peas.

"Miss Ola, I'm going to shoot your rooster," Dad told my grandmother.

"Well, you just go ahead," Grandmother said. She knew my father was a gentle man, a man who wasn't prone to violence.

A few minutes later, the quiet afternoon was shattered by the blast of a shotgun. This time when Dad stepped off the back porch, he was ready for Big Red and he stopped the rooster attack with a single shot from my grandfather's 12-gauge shotgun.

He put the shotgun back in the closet where my grandfather kept it, then went to the front porch and sat on the swing next to my mother.

"Donnie, I can't believe' you just shot my rooster," Grandmother said.

"Yes, Miss Ola, I did, and I'm glad of it," my father said.

pay for it. Volunteers?

One of our chamber's greatest strengths is also one of its greatest weaknesses - it has always stretched itself too thin by trying to be everything to everybody in this community.

And because of that penchant toward unselfish service, community events like the July 4th celebration quite naturally find their way to the chamber's lap.

Hereford, like so many other communities across the nation that had grown comfortable with observing July 4th on a smaller scale, beefed-up its effort in 1991 to celebrate the birthday of the United States following Operation Desert Storm and the Gulf War.

Under the direction of United States Air Force veteran Wes Klett, then a Hereford newcomer and later elected as President of the Deaf Smith Chamber of Commerce, organizers planted seventy-two trees honoring local Desert Storm veterans at Langley Park in Hereford. The 1991 holiday observance also featured a parade recognizing local veterans of all wars, a city-wide block decorating contest and a full day of entertainment at Veteran's Park that concluded with a fireworks show the largest to have ever graced the Hereford skyline at the time.

That 1991 celebration, riding on the patriotic fervor of the day, as a party most of us won't soon forget. The tribute to returning Gulf War veterans and the novelty of such a far-reaching and well-organized schedule of events made that Desert Storm July 4th very memorable and meaningful.

But while the crescendo of that celebration has been emulated, it has never been equaled.

And the effort to duplicate the original has, in years since, become harder and harder to justify.

Declining attendance and mounting difficulties in procuring entertainment and manpower support for the event have understandably dampened the resolve to keep the event going.

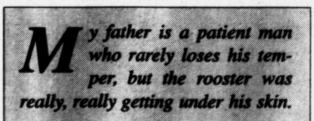

Beyond those complications, there has also been the revolving commitment to underwrite the 30-minute firework show's $8,200 price tag. Under the provisions of a three-year contract, the city and county have been paying $2,500 each, and the chamber has always shouldered the remaining $3,200.

The projected costs for another go-around exceed $9,000.

Maybe its time to consider a smaller, less costly tribute. If not, then maybe its time to give the Deaf Smith Chamber of Commerce a rest and let another group carry the flag for a while.

My father is a Korean War veteran. My grandfather served in World War I. I think they would both say the love and pride that shines differently through each of us for this great diverse nation and its patriots is perpetual - still radiant and generally celebrated

Insurance firm settles bias case with the state

AUSTIN — American General Life & Accident Insurance Co. on June 21 agreed to pay Texas a $305,800 fine and provide T restitution and other relief to African-American Texans who bought small "industrial life" insurance policies and paid higher premiums than other consum-

Remedies for alleged racebased pricing are available to Texas purchasers of nearly 46,000 active industrial life and similar burial-type policies plus an estimated 148,000 policies that no longer are in force, the Texas Department of Insurance said.

The number of policies exceeds the number of affected consumers because some people bought more than one policy.

In addition, an estimated 168,000 Texans of all races are entitled to relief because they bought industrial life and other small burial policies and paid more in premiums than the policies will pay in death benefits.

Remedies for affected Texans are part of a nationwide settlement that will cost American General $7.5 million in fines and $206 million in restitution and other relief. plus attorney fees and other expenses.

Independently of the settlement, American General agreed to make a $2 million donation to the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Texas policies af-fected by the settle-ment constitute about percent of the 9.1 million policies nationwide covered by the agreement.

American' General said it did not sell the policies with racebased premiums but acquired them when they bought smaller companies that had originally issued the policies.

American General said it continued to charge the discriminatory premiums without realizing African-Americans were paying more than others for the same coverage.

Texans can sue HMOs

The U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals last week upheld Texans' right to sue their HMOs for medical malpractice.

The court ruled that a federal law, the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, did not preempt a Texas statute that allows malpractice actions against HMOs.

"This decision is very good for consumers. It reaffirms the state's ability to regulate HMOs and the quality of medical decisions that HMOs make," said Texas Attorney General John Cornyn.

In another benefit to consumers, the court upheld the state's authority to stop HMOs from penalizing doctors for advocating medically necessary treatment, the attorney general said.

Fireworks display to move back to

Dear Editor:

The Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce wishes to thank everyone who participated in the June Town & Country Jubilee Celebration. Changing the date and combining several activities proved to be quite a success. Most of the agencies involved enjoyed a great deal of participation and success with their individual functions and events. The weather was perfect, and those attending from out of town were most appreciative of the earlier date. The arts and crafts participants indicated very favor-able results from the date change, as well.

The Board of Directors has reviewed the results of the date change and will set the date for next year's Jubilee activities at the next regular scheduled meeting. It is our full intention to promote positive participation within the entire community. The Board has agreed that returning the for the Jubilee was fantastic. It is our sincere hope that this will continue to be one the highlight events for Hereford. Your continued support of the Chamber and its activities is very much appreciated.

Remember our hearts belong to Hereford because the people of Hereford make our town special!

DAR appreciated Korean War coverage Dear Editor:

There is no doubt in my mind that the coverage in the end Hereford Brand (June 24) about the Korean war events, and the personal accounts of the war by local and area Korean War veterans for the beginning of the 50th anniversary commemoration of that war, will be found to be one of the best in the nation.

The pictures, maps, Associated Press story and the commentary in the editorial section could not have been better chosen.

Therefore, it is with a great deal of pride that I prepare to send copies to the Department of Defense in Washington, D.C., and the Texas state regent, TSDAR.

Los Ciboleros Chapter NSDAR also wishes to thank you for the assurance that the series of personal accounts of the war by local and area veterans will continue until all have been repinted. We have been amazed at the large number of responses we have had from these veterans. We ask their patience as we conduct interviews and prepare their accounts for printing.

The Department of Defense has scheduled the 50th Anniversary of the Korean War Commemoration to be observed until Veterans Day 2003. We will continue to plan commemorative events, as well as awareness and educational activities until then. We thank you and your staff for the extra effort needed to produce this fine tribute to our local and area Korean veterans.

We thank this wonderful community for its traditional warm response to worthy activities like this one.

INSIDE

Election years undoubtedly offer the voting public and high-browed, would-be candidates an excellent opportunity for voicing their opinions.

Any group which can collect enough voices to rattle a candidate's cage can make an issue of something. In return, the candidates can find someone else to lay the blame on.

Views on gun control, gun laws, hate crimes, gas prices, industrial bailouts, agricultural commodity prices and all the rest can be arranged to fit the agenda of any audience.

Smooth, polished politicians with well-paid speechwriters make sure the current audience hears what they want. After all, the point is to win the voters, not to keep vacant promises.

Angry moms want a guarantee that their children will not be gunned down by criminals with illegal weapons. Hunters and Constitution fanatics want to be sure their perceived rights don't get abolished. Big companies want tax breaks and high profits, while the married couple wants marriage tax breaks and lower interest rates.

Of course, politicians cannot address the issues facing individuals, so they have to make the individual fit a mold. Unfortunately, the resulting condition is far worse than simply fitting a square peg into a round hole. Many times the needs of individuals fit neither the peg or the hole. Voters can safely assume that when politicians speak of median family incomes of $74,000, they are not addressing issues be-ing faced by single-parent homes with a yearly income of $25,000, regardless of the increasing numbers in this group. But then, understandably, fewer participants from the $25,000 single-parent bracket cast ballots and provide campaign funds. These individu-als have better things to do with their money than purchasing $500 per-plate meals.

There is a reason behind the politicians' madness

If politicians don't address the ever-rising gas prices, then drivers of the gas-guzzling sport utility vehicles may actually consider delaying the purchase of the newest 6-mileper-gallon, gas-guzzling road tank, and so decrease the profits of the automakers which decrease the pronts of the automaters which contribute heavily to various campaigns. The concerns of the driver of the 15-year-old family sedan never enter the pic-ture. But drivers of the old road-truisers seldom contribute to "the cause."

Politicians certainly want their constitu-ents to think they are of the utmost indi-vidual importance and so lend a willng ear to senior itizens living on ixed incomes and low-income stu-dents who have been told education is the way out of poverty. Say what they may, the politicians may very well listen to the elderly and the students, but when laws are made, they seem to pay more heed to the desires of the big insurance companies and high-priced educational institutions. After all, the seniors won't be around for long and many students fail to cast a ballot.

Unfortunately, the voters in these huge minorities cannot always say, "Don't blame me, I didn't vote for them." All too often, they can end their complaint by saying, "I didn't vote."

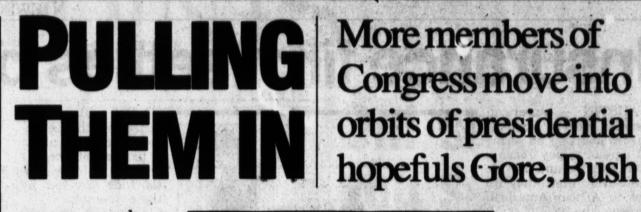

There's no getting around the subject. Politicians are going to be swayed by heavyhanded, deep-pocketed campaign supporters. It happens. If changes are to come about, then the public is going to have to take a firm stance and hold elected officials to their word.

Underdogs do have a voice and there are enough underdogs to rattle the cages of the elected officeholders. Not only do the underdogs have the ability to rattle cages, they also hold the controls necessary to make the changes.

As long as the underdogs choose to let moneyed big wheels drive the election, then laws will continue to be made in their favor.

As election day nears, consider what the candidates really stand for and make your voice be heard. Don't throw away the opportunity by not voting, or by voting blindly. Your vote is as important as big industries' multi-million-dollar contributions

In matters large and small, the presidential campaigns of the Democratic vice president and the Republican Texas governor are influencing, sometimes even shaping, legislative conduct. But in different ways.

Gore and congressional Democrats have aligned themselves closely on major issues to push a mutual agenda issues like prescription drug coverage for older Americans and a so-called patients' bill of rights.

Bush generally has kept his distance from Republicans in Congress, although on several occasions he has gently chided his party's Capitol Hill division.

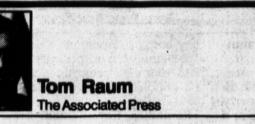

Increasingly, Republicans who control Congress appear to be attempting to accommo-date Bush even if he doesn't

The Senate voted this month to give the next president the ability to make unilateral cuts in the nation's nuclear arsenal, while in effect keeping current restrictions in place on President Clinton.

Although the Senate bill would help whoever wins in November, Bush has made a specific campaign proposal for deep cuts in the U.S. nuclear arsenal, now about 7,200 warheads, whether Russia goes along or not.

Bush's proposal would be illegal under current law.

Sponsors of the bill said the Bush campaign did not ask for the change, and campaign officials refused to comment on

Because he served in both the House and the Senate, Gore has many friends and acquaintances on Capitol Hill and frequently goes visiting.

Furthermore, with the con-stitutional role of Senate president, Gore has the authority to vote to break Senate ties.

This authority was exercised with a flourish last week as Senate Democrats "summoned" Gore off the campaign trail to rush back to the Capitol in case his vote was needed on a White House-backed bill on hate crimes.

The vote wasn't even close. The bill passed 57-42. Instead of casting a tie-breaking vote, Gore found himself presiding political grandstanding. Bush doesn't have as many close relationships with members of Congress as Gore does. His top congressional allies are Sen. Paul Coverdell, R-Ga., and Rep. Roy Blunt, R-

He said Bush's positions on many issues naturally coincide with those of Senate Republicans, even though "we got at cross purposes on Kosovo. Sometimes that's hard to avoid."

Coverdell said the Bush campaign checks with him "from time to time" but that mostly it's just to find out what's going on.

PRIVATIZATION Ideas are old hat, not latest creation

M ost ideas proposed as new in the U.S." political arena have been nurtured for years in academe and think tanks, and even put into practice. It is that way with Social Security privatization as well.

Americans find it hard to believe that Sweden, Australia, Chile, Britain, Mexico, Poland, Hong Kong, Argentina, Hungary and Kazakhstan have already to some degree privatized their pension systems.

Sweden? To many Americans it remains a cradle-tograve welfare state not likely to test a capitalist idea. But in that country, the prospect that its system was unequal to the task easily overwhelmed ideology.

ogy. It isn't that way in the United States, where partial privatization has become a political issue, sometimes described by opponents left and right as a risky experiment with perhaps dire consequences.

But many of the arguments pro and con now offered as new have been thoroughly thrashed out and even put to the test in other nations. And in many instances, popular acceptance has bridged political divisions.

Under a conservative government and amid controversy, Britain partially privatized more than 15 years ago. It now has the backing of the Labor government. In Australia, the Labor Party ignited the reform.

In an analyses just released, economists Goran Normann and Daniel J. Mitchell liken Sweden's challenge to that of the United States and other industrialized nations: Raise taxes, cut benefits or test privatization.

They did. Workers there can invest 2.5 percentage points of the 18.5 percent of benefits. The government continues to guarantee a minimum pension fund to protect the poor, funded by general tax revenues. And retired and older workers continue to receive retirement income based on the old system.

Normann and Mitchell both have long experience in the issues, Normann as head of an economic consultancy based in Stockholm and Paris, and Mitchell as a senior fellow at the Washington-based Heritage Foundation.

Privatization has been a Heritage specialty for two decades, while Normann has experienced firsthand his country's tax-financed, pay-asyou-go entitlement program, similar to the U.S. Social Security program.

INSIDE

In their view, there is much to learn from the experience of Sweden, Britain and other countries — an alternative to studying all the issues from scratch as if they were brand new and without lessons.

By learning from the experience of others, Americans can also determine what to avoid in customizing a plan suitable for their country. Such as avoiding government control of how funds are to be invested.

Unlike Sweden, they write, American legislators should avoid allowing the Social Security Trust Fund to purchase private-sector assets, claiming that governments that do so succumb to political temptation.

While the political rhetoric between now and November might lead you to think privatization ideas are original, even daringly seminal, they emerge from a huge treasure of research and experience here and abroad.

Whether or not personal retirement savings accounts are adopted in the United States, most would agree they should be thoroughly studied and discussed, utilizing that treasure of research and experience ...

Instead of treating the issues as if they were at the frontier of experimentation and discovery.

Cancer survivor looks to prove critics wrong in 2000

FUTUROSCOPE, France (AP) - Lance Armstrong's bid for another victory at the Tour de France began at a futuristic theme park dotted with space-age buildings and virtual reality stands.

But the 28-year-old Texan was looking for inspiration from the past.

It was at the same venue last year - Futuroscope Park - that Armstrong, on the Tour's next-to-last stage, won a time trial to virtually wrap up his incredible victory, just three years after being diagnosed with testicular cancer.

On Saturday, he's once again faced with a time trial, and Armstrong knows another win might leave his rivals, some of whom branded his 1999 victory a fluke, psychologically scarred before the real road racing begins.

"I'm coming here with the ambition to win," Armstrong said on the eve of the 87th Tour de France. Ominously for his rivals, he says his stamina has gotten even better in the last 12 months.

As the holder of the yellow jersey, Armstrong was to start last in the individual race of 10.3 miles, and so he knew exactly what is needed.

Armstrong won all three time trials last year, and with Britain's Chris Boardman, the one-hour world record-holder, ruled out through illness, he was among the favorites on a flat track that is not considered technically demanding.

The stakes for everybody were high.

A poor performance on opening day could leave a rider trailing by a couple of minutes by Saturday night. The road racing begins on Sunday with a 194-kilometer (120-mile) trek from Futuroscope to Loudun in northwest France. It ends on July 23 in Paris.

Armstrong is hoping to again prove his critics wrong. Some said he only won last year because the likes of Mario Pantani and Jan Ullrich didn't participate. Both are back this year, and will push Armstrong all the way.

"I don't see any out-and-out favorites," French rider Richard Virenque said. "The race will be very open, and much will depend on how everybody fares on the first week."

Virenque was at the center of the 1998 doping scandal that turned the tour into a fiasco. Organizers expelled his team, Festina, after it admitted to systematic doping. Riders staged a sit-down protest, and six teams withdrew.

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) -The Texas Rangers seem to have snapped out of an offensive slump that threatened to bury them in the AL West before the All-Star break.

Rafael Palmeiro and Royce Clayton homered, and Kenny Rogers pitched seven strong innings to lead the Rangers over the Seattle Mariners 13-3 Friday night.

Texas has won four of five after losing 12 of 15 to tumble into last place in the division.

"We've got a lot of guys swinging the bats well right now," Rangers manager Johnny Oates said. "That's the closest thing we've had to a laugher in a long time."

Palmeiro had three hits, including his 382nd career homer. His solo homer in the fifth inning moved him into a tie for 39th on the career list with Frank Howard and Jim Rice.

In the last six games, Palmeiro is 13-for-27 with three homers and 12 RBIs, raising his average to .294.

"He had a slow month, but he's turned it around," Oates said. "It's come at the right time for us. He was as frustrated as I've ever seen him, but right now he's hitting the ball very hard."

Royce Clayton drove in three runs for the Rangers. Chad Curtis, Mike Lamb and Rusty Greer all drove in two runs for Texas.

Greer hit a two-run double in a seven-run seventh that broke open the game. Seattle lost for the second time in 10 games as Texas registered its largest victory margin of the season.

The Rangers are in the midst of an important part of the schedule with nine straight against division foes. Texas has won three of the first four.

"Any time you play teams in your division, you want to lessen the gap," Clayton said. "We had a good road trip and the All-Star break.

Rogers (8-5) won his fifth consecutive decision, allowing three runs and seven hits in seven innings. He struck out six and walked two.

The Rangers took a 2-0 lead in the first off John Halama (7-4) on Palmeiro's RBI double and Curtis' run-scoring single. Clayton's 13th homer in the second inning made it 3-0.

Small creek trout can prove big treasures estern trouting lore is full of grandiose swift rivers where long-distance casting yields hefty fish.

I have fought heavy current trying to wade some of the big rivers, even caught a few modest fish that felt like bruisers in the fast water as they tugged against a four-weight fly

When the big water is too fierce, or the fish there are indifferent, small waters can bring Feisty brook, brown, and the occasional rainbow trout live in far-less-frightening-to-wade feeder creeks that flow into Colorado's South Fork and the wider Rio Grande Trout in these feeder creeks are rarely large-but they more than make up for their lack of size in numbers and enthusiastic strikes. Even if they are smallish by big water standards, the thrill of catching them on dry flies is no less electrifying, and has salvaged many fishing trips.

On these mini-streams the casts are short, the current infinitely more forgiving of stumble-footed wading, and the water is usually clear. Trout spook from pools at the stumple-rooted wading, and the water is usually clear. Trout spook from pools at the fall of your shadow, or a splashy footstep. The fish must be stalked like jittery white-tailed deer, and a long tippet on the leader boosts your success. Too many summers pass between the times that I stop the car on the shoulder of a mountain road above a hidden treasure trove, don my gear, and descend game trails into a spruce-bordered canyon lying below the stump-studded meadow at the roadside. Beyond sight of the road, in a place that is some trouble to get down to, lies a cherished fly-fishing retreat. Inconvenient access has insulated it, somewhat, from pressure, meaning the creek is consistent in what it offers.

When I used to really keep score, these hidden waters once yielded 45 fish landed and released in about two hours. Keeping count doesn't matter so much now.

I came back to the canyon creek for a too-short visit a couple of weeks ago. Wind was gusting through the channel, just as it always has, making upstream casts a challenge.

A familiar landmark, the big blowdown spruce, was still there, sprawled where it fell across the whole of the creek. How many years has it bridged the water now? Not so many that the wood has deteriorated much.

The blowdown allows only tentative casts to the pool below it. You must avoid snagging the fly on the dead branches dangling toward the water, lest you have to wade in to retrieve your fly and spook the pool. After you work the pool you can wade close and duck beneath the mammoth lumber if you don't want to backtrack and go around on the bank to move to a nice rocky pool just upstream

Maybe another quarter mile upstream is the parallel log, the one that has been olding trout close to the bank in its shadow for ceaseless seasons. I learned something about seeing trout lying on cover at this log.

On my most recent visit, I couldn't cast against the wind and reach the log. Wading quietly, keeping my shadow subdued, I moved to the opposite bank and got upwind of the log, where I could cast cross-stream.

The breeze helped me to gently lay a No. 12 blonde Humpy with a gray yarn underbelly on top of the water next to the log. The Humpy drifted wonderfully. Midway down the log there was a flash from the stream bed and the fly disappeared in a swirl

My line was already tracing the run of the fish upstream as I lifted the graphite rod. It pumped rhythmically with a solid hook-up. A berserk brookie somersaulted at the surface and ran downstream. I gave line-and admiration. Brookies do everything flat-out. They don't know they're not the biggest trout around. I brought the olive-and-red splotched brookie to hand. He was a really good one for these small waters--ten or eleven inches of dynamite. Sliding the forceps from a vest pocket on its retracting cord, I removed the fly from the fish's jaw, then eased the streamlined finster back into the cold water. He held for a time in the current, then sped away.

Blowing on the fly to dry its harried hackles, I thought about how good that brookie was. If they grew as big as their attitudes, they might scarf down wading fishermen.

I tried the log again, this time laying the offering at the upstream end, close to the bank. The Humpy drifted enticingly. Anticipating more than seeing, I got the rod tip up just as a brown slashed at the fly. He was hard to make-out against the streambed rocks as he ran near the bottom, cross-stream, the line pulling a nice arc in my fly rod. The brown was about the size of the brookie. I worked the fish close, scooped him up and got the Humpy out of his jaw, then had the bronze and red-speckled trout back in the water quickly.

The parallel log-still a wonderful lie-had yielded two feeder creek trophies in only three.casts

Farther upstream were the familiar stairstep waterfalls--each with good pools below them. In some, no fish rose. In others, they struck with abandon, right at the edge of the fast curren

Time flies in the canyon. Afternoon light fades more rapidly than out on top. With the shadows lengthening, discretion dictated I try one more hole and turn back. No sense in risking a climb out in poor light. Leave some of the stairsteps to climb next time

The creek gave me a farewell gift -- two more rod-bowing waterfall pool browns. I gave them back-seed for another day.

Stros woes continue with 5-4 loss

Big Mac hits 29th homer of the season

ST. LOUIS (AP) - A pitcher who makes a mistake to Mark McGwire usually has a pretty good idea what's going to happen.

Chris Holt let a pitch get away from him Friday night and McGwire made another entry in the record book.

"It was a fastball in and he turned on it," Holt said after the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Houston Astros 5-4.

McGwire's major leagueleading 29th home run of the year set a record for career home runs at Busch Stadium. He began the game in a 1-forother starter-turned-reliever, held the Astros scoreless. "I get a kick out of watching those guys, they really get into it," said Cardinals manager Tony La Russa.

Holt gave up five runs on 11 hits, struck out four and walked three in 5 1-3 innings to fall to 1-6 on the road this season.

Benes (2-1) pitched two scoreless innings to get the win, and Dave Veres threw two scoreless innings for his 15th save.

After McGwire homered in the fifth to get the Cardinals within 4-3, St. Louis scored twice in the sixth.

Edgar Renteria hit an RBI single, and Jim Edmonds drove in the go-ahead run with a sacrifice fly after the Cardinals loaded the bases.

The Astros scored two unearned runs in the fourth with some help from Cardinals starter Rick Ankiel.

After a leadoff single by Chris Truby, Holt walked after failing to lay down a bunt. Truby and Holt advanced on Julio Lugo's sacrifice.

Craig Biggio grounded to third and Truby scored during a rundown when Ankiel dropped the ball. Holt scored on Jeff Bagwell's sacrifice fly.

Ankiel gave up four runs on six hits with three walks and five strikeouts in four innings. J.D. Drew scored the Cardinals' first run in the first on a sacrifice fly by Lankford after Drew and Edmonds singled and McGwire walked, loading the bases

The Cardinals scored a run in the fourth when Fernando Tatis, activated Friday after being out since April 29 with a torn groin, led off with a single and scored two outs later on a single by Ankiel to make it 4-2.

15 rut with eight strikeouts, then connected in the fifth to cut the Astros' lead to 4-3.

McGwire homered off Holt (3-9) for the third time in 12 at-bats to give him 551 career home runs, including 104 at Busch Stadium.

Big Mac, who broke Ray Lankford's mark, has played 215 games at Busch Stadium since being traded to the Car-dinals in 1997.

Holt said the home run was predictable.

"When he turns on a ball like that, it's going to end up in the seats," he said.

McGwire wasn't available after the game and the Cardinals had other heroes who celebrated the win that put them 15 games over .500 for the first time since 1987.

Alan Benes, who pitched two scoreless innings in relief for his second win in six days, said the bullpen kept the game close.

"We know that we have a good chance to win if we keep the score where it is," Benes said.

Local DAR chapter seeking the names of Korean veterans

Los Ciboleros Chapter NSDAR is seeking names of Korean War veterans as part of the 50th anniversary observance continues.

Information gathered on the veterans will be compiled in book form, including as much detail as possible of what has been provided. The finished product will be available through the Deaf Smith County Public Library.

If you are a Korean War veteran or have information on a Korean veteran, please contact:

Friona area: Lesta Lee Neill, 250-3363;

· Dimmitt/Nazareth: Charlotte Clark, 276-5601; and

• Hereford and area towns: Jean Beene, 364-6117.

Commemorative pins available to veterans of the Korean conflict

U.S. veterans of the Korean War are eligible for a commemorative 50th Anniversary Korean War pin issued through the U.S. Department of Defense, according to U.S. Rep. Larry Combest.

"The 50th anniversary pin is a small token of our immense appreciation and admiration of their courage," Combest said.

The U.S. began observances of the 50th anniversary of the Korean War, which is commonly known as the "forgotten war." During the 37-month war, nearly 34,000 Americans died in action and more than 100,000 were wounded.

Any veteran who served in the theater of war - on Korean soil - between June 25, 1950 and July 27, 1953, is eligible to receive the pin. Spouses or families of deceased veterans who served during these dates also are entitled to claim one pin per family.

To apply for the pin, a veteran will need to provide name, address, telephone number and dates of service. The veteran also should provide a copy of the report of separation, commonly known as a DD-214 or a corrected version of that document, a DD-215. National Guard members should provide the statement of service equiva-lent, NGB Form 22. All branches of the U.S. armed services will be recognized.

For more information, contact one of Combest's offices or visit the Combest website, http://www.house.gov/ combest / kvets.htm. Deaf Smith County veterans should contact Jessica Detten in Combest's Amarillo office, 5809 S. Western, No. 205, Amarillo 79110. For more information, call Jessica Detten at 353-3945.

Camp Alphie signs up youngsters

Special to The Brand Camp Alphie, an overnight summer camp for children with cancer and cancer survivors, is accepting reservations. The camp will be July 30-Aug. 4 at the Bishop Quarterman Conference Center near Amarillo.

Children ages 7-14 who have cancer or have had cancer are welcome to attend Camp Alphie, and each camper may be accompanied by a sibling. Camp Alphie is free to campers, thanks to individual, business and civic sponsors who underwrite expenses. Sponsoring a camper costs $250.

Established in 1988, Camp Alphie offers all the regular activities of summer camp, including indoor and outdoor sports/recreation, arts and crafts, and swimming. The camp provides special facilities, diets and trained staff to accommodate the needs of cancer patients.

INSIDE

The parents of Camp Alphie residents also receive a muchneeded dose of relaxation as they attend a free, concurrent parents' camp. While the children enjoy the outdoors, par-ents spend a week at an Ama-rillo hotel being treated to a variety of diversions, such as special dinners and visits to area attractions.

Camp Alphie board president Barbara Miller said there also is a serious purpose.

"When cancer invades a family, the focus immediately is directed to the illness and its treatment. The family unit can come apart under the strain," Miller said. The camp gives everyone in the family a break and helps them redirect attention back to the family unit.

The camp staff are volunteers and nearly all parents' camp activities are donated. Camp counselors are high school graduates and most are in college. They work on a volunteer basis and some also are canter survivors.

Because of laws governing the confidentiality of cancer patients, Camp Alphie cannot contact eligible campers without their permission. Parents of eligible campers are asked to contact Camp Alphie by writing to P.O. Box 3819, Ama-rillo 79116-3819. Preregistration is encouraged.

Camper sponsorships and activity sponsorships also are available. For more information, call Norman Stuppi at 353-8941.

Burn the flag? Ask for permission first

This past week I had the opportunity to visit with the Rt. Rev. Dr. Gideon Githiga, Bishop of Kenya.

It was a privilege to meet him while he was here and our visit gave me a deeper appreciation of this democracy we live in and the independence we are about to celebrate on the Fourth of July.

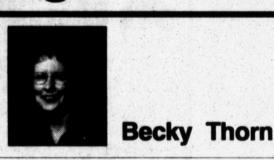

Bishop Githiga told me in detail about the political struggles in Kenya and the corruption in all levels of government. Speaking out against this corruption is one of the most important roles of the church in Kenya.

After I talked with Bishop Githiga, I thought a great deal about our American freedom and the red, white and blue flag which is the symbol of this freedom.

Recently I had the privilege of being part of a program about our flag and read an article by Tom Adkins, executive editor of the Common Conservative.

As the Fourth of July holiday is Tuesday, I felt this would be an appropriate time to include Mr. Adkins article which he had titled, "Burn that flag...just ask permission." What do we do about people who want to burn the American flag? You know...those folks who want to stomp all over it, or spit on it to make some sort of "statement."

Some say the First Amendment gives us the right to desecrate the American flag. Others want to make it illegal. This is a tough one. What should we do?

I can solve this one easily. I believe we should have a simple requirement. Let flag desecration be legal, but you have to have three sponsors who will give you written per-mission. Those sponsors should be from a panel of experts who might be considered 'qualified" to give such permission.

First, you need a signature of a war veteran. How about a Marine who fought at Iwo Jima?

The men who raised that flag over Iwo Jima did so on the bodies of thousands of dead

Americans, who gave their lives so a few could raise the flag in defiant claim of that last island in a long, bloody march to defeat the Japanese.

What did those Marines think about the flag as they watched their comrades get slaughtered? Every battle with the Japanese was horrific. Each day meant half of everyone you knew would be dead tomorrow. Your own future was a coin flip away from a bloody death in a place your family couldn't prenounce.

Or you could ask a Vietnam vet who spent years in a POW prison, tortured in small, filthy cell unfit for a dog. Or a Korean War soldier who rescued half a nation from communism, or the Desert Storm warriors who repulsed a bloody dictator from raping and pillaging an innocent country, to find people from a foreign land kiss our flag as we drove through their streets.

To every American soldier who ever fought for the United States, that flag represented your mother and father, your sister and brother, your friends, neighbors, your fellow countrymen. In fact it stands for your freedom, guaranteed by your nation.

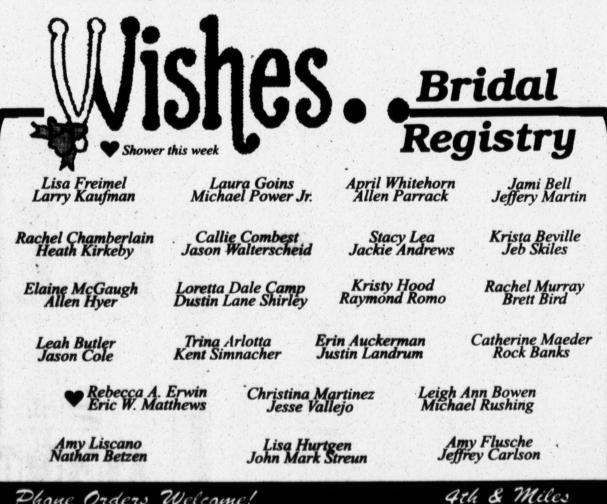

Those who fought, fought for that flag. Those who died, died for that flag. I wonder what they would say if someone asked their permission to burn a flag?

Next, you need a signature of an immigrant. Preferably one who left their family behind. Their brothers and sisters languish in the native

Tips for Life

Give people more than they expect, and do so cheerfully.

Don't believe all you hear, spend all you have, or sleep all you'd like.

Don't say, "I love you," un-less you really mean it. When you say, "I'm sorry," look the person in the eye. Be engaged at least six months before you get married.

Love deeply and passionately. You might get hurt, but it's the only way to live life completely.

In disagreements, fight fair. No name-calling.

Don't judge people by their relatives.

When someone asks you a question you don't want to answer, smile and ask, "Why do you want to know?" Call your mom.

Say, "Bless you," when you hear someone sneeze. Don't let a little squabble damage a good friendship. when made a mistake, take immediate steps to correct it.

walk, to your favorite bookstore, and get this blockbuster. Dear Ann Landers: About a year ago, you printed an essay called "Tips for Life," which I thought was wonderful. Unfortunately, I lost my it again? - N.C.

Go to a naturalization ceremony and see for yourself, the tears of pride, the thanks, Bosnia. Maybe even Haiti. You might have to move fast, as they flee oppressors who attack them with machetes or shoot at them randomly in a marketplace. I'm sure they will never question your sanity as they duck for cover.

The writers of the Declaration of Independence are long gone. I wonder what they thought of the American flag as they drafted that document? They knew such an act would drag the nation into war with England, the greatest power puddle?

In the absence of family, the absence of the precious shores of home, in the face of overwhelming odds and often in the face of death itself, the American flag inspires those who believe in the American dream, the American promise, the American vision.

Americans who don't appreciate the flag are usually those who don't appreciate this na-tion. And those who appreciate this nation appreciate the American flag.

Opaque tints change the color of dark eyes. The pattern on the lens, which is colored, overlies the colored part of your eye. The result is a natural look. MINDING YOUR OWN

It's Never To Late To Change Your Life

ifty-four years ago, I was just a little tyke embarking on the great journey called life. Today, 19,734 days later, I know many things I didn't know then.

For example, I know time accelerates as the years pass by. I know that life is short. I know that every day is both a gift and an opportunity. And I know that it is never to late to change your life.

I like to think of every day as a clean sheet of paper. We may write whatever we like on it. We can write a letter to a friend, start a book or doodle on it just to pass the time. The page is ours to use however we wish.

Life is like that. Today is a new day. It's ours to use as we choose. But remember this: If we keep on doing what we've always done, we'll keep on getting what we've always gotten.

If you want to take your life to a higher level here are some tips you can use. Remember, it's never too late.

Going Up, Please

... Don't worry about doing great things. Instead, stay focused on doing simple things in a great way. Do the routine things well, and you'll soon find you can step up to the next level.

... Try to be somebody you're not. Yes, I know this is contrary advice to all the times you were told to "just be yourself." However, I wasn't happy with who I was and what I was doing. Since I wasn't immediately successful as a small business owner, I had to try and become something I wasn't: a success. I'm not a gifted speaker, I'm trying to become one. See yourself as you wish to be and become what you're not.

... Keep moving. The rudder won't steer the ship unless the ship is moving. Whether you're trying to advance your career, build your business or acquire a new skill, you've got to keep working toward your goal. Keep moving. Will Rogers said, "Even if you're on the right track, you'll get run over if you don't keep moving."

... There's no future in the past. Our family has some great memories, but my future will not be changed by dwelling on the past - good or bad. Cast off the anchors of failure, regret, and mistakes and sail out into fresh, clear waters.

... Develop a selective memory. Remember everyone's name. Remember the kind actions of others. Remember who you are and what you stand for. Forget all wrongs and injustices. Forget all unkind words. Forget and forgive.

...You'll never get more out than you put in. No, this one has nothing to do with your social security account. I'm talking about your success in life. Whatever you do, give it your all. Expect to reap as you sow. When you put your best effort into your job you can expect to get great rewards. You can't do everything, but whatever you choose to do, do it with all your heart.

... Take the lead. When you follow someone else you're always behind. Step out in front. Take charge. You can set the pace. The world is still seeking great leaders. If you're ever going to be a leader you have to take the lead.

... There are no one-time decisions. You cannot lose weight by deciding one time to go on a diet. Every day you must decide to eat right and exercise effectively. It is the same in all areas of your life. Every day you must decide to be more successful. Each day your decisions will get easier as you near your goals. Keep deciding to do the right things.

Have you ever wondered what it judgement she feels she dewould be like to live "plain" like the Amish? Think about it. You wouldn't have to worry about what to wear or about keeping up with the latest hair fashions.

While there are some things I wouldn't mind adopting, I might have trouble leaving some of the modern conveniences behind.

In the book Plain Truth by Jodi Picoult, attorney Ellie Hathaway finds that she must immerse herself in Katie Fisher's world founded on faith, humility, duty, and honesty if she is going to help her. The small town of Paradise, Pa., is known for its landscapes and plain lifestyle. This lifestyle is shattered when a dead infant is discovered in the barn of an Amish farmer. The police investigation determines the newborn's mother is an unwed Amish woman, 18 year-old Katie Fisher. It is also determined the infant did not die of natural causes. Circumstantial evidence leads to Katie's arrest for the murder of her newborn. Ellie has just turned down the offer to become partner in a large law firm and is looking forward to her indefinite stay at her greataunt's home in Paradise. Now Ellie sees a chance to help someone because they truly need her services, and not just because they can afford to pay the fee. Ellie now must contend with a clash in cultures, lifestyles, and wills. Katie doesn't wish to be defended but stands ready for the Edwin Sharke's The Borderland: A Novel of Texas begins in February 1839. At this time the Republic of Texas was just three years old. The Republic was in desperate shape with no schools, churches, or banks, and few passable roads.

The war with Mexico continues as Mirabeau Lamar and Sam Houston, two political rivals, struggle to control the land. Lamar supervises the moving of the capital of the Republic from Houston City, located on the Gulf Coast, to the Texas River Valley and begins to build the new city of Austin. Little did Lamar know that this move would cause a war against the Comanches that would last for generations. Houston's anger with Lamar over moving the capital was not a secret to anyone. It is against this background that Edwin Sharke tells his story, including characters such as Cullasaja, Romulus Swift, the half Cherokee sister and brother to Jonathan Swift, as well as Texas Ranger Captain Matthew Caldwell and Hannah Dahlman, a German immigrant bride. Edwin tries to keep actual historical events true to history. This book has been praised by many as being the best historical fiction tale of Texas ever written. Don't miss it.

and break might make for a great western action film, but real cowboys, who use their horses day in and day out, know that method seldom ever produces a well trained or trustworthy animal. Hands and visitors at the Great Plains Feedyards had the opportunity this week to meet and work with a professional horse handler, who does more than just "break" the animal.

Handler and trainer John Mitchell demonstrated the techniques he uses and explained the psychology that makes the horse and rider work well together.

"We've learned to use the psychology on the horses and they learn cue response, rather than old granddad's breaking method," said Mitchell. "We get an animal ready to work and ready to work faster because he and Mitchell stressed as he hobbled young colt. As part of developing that trust, Mitchell covered the hobbled colt's eyes to get the animal to pay attention to the handler, rather than taking off on his own.

"They've got to listen, they've got to pay attention. That's what it all boils down to, is the trust. That horse has to know he can trust his rider to do the same thing every time," Mitchell said.

"With the trust there has to be a lot of discipline. Withbad habits, not letting him develop those problems. Repetition, whether it's improving a good habit or breaking a bad habit, is a big key in getting the best perfor-any horse," he said. This is not the mystical powers of human over animal, made famous in Hollywood, but an actual technique, Mitchell said works on 99.9 percent of the horses.

"It doesn't matter if you're conditioning stance make sense to that a horse for ranch work, cutting or dressage, the prin-

Mitchell isn't trying to get everyone to use his same methods on their horses, he just wants to give them an alternative to the old hog-tie and break methods.

rganic farming risky but profitable

SIXES, Ore. (AP) - Pending national standards on organic foods may create a higher-profit market for farmers but also they carry risks of broader swings in demand, more corporate takeovers of small farms crops and more vulnerable to damage, according to a trade group. The National Organic Program will require organic farmers and processors across the United States to be certified.

Qualified growers can't use pesticides or synthetic fertilizers, and organic dairy and beef producers can't use hormones or antibiotics on their livestock.

Once the rules are in place, possibly next year, it will be a federal offense to label a product organic unless it meets the standards established by the government.

Oregon is one of 18 states that already requires that or--ganic farmers be certified, which means pesticide-free crops for three years, surprise inspections, soil tests and a multitude of record keeping.

Oregon Tilth, an organization that certifies organic growers, says membership has risen 20 percent to 40 percent since the beginning of 1999. The number of U.S. farms certified by the organi-zation nearly doubled from 177 to 327 from 1996 to 1999. Consumer demand for organics has also risen.

Since 1990, demand has steadily climbed about 20 percent a year, and the Massa> climb once the federal rules are in place.

"I've always thought of this as economic development. It's not a green issue for me," said Nancy Evans, secretary of Bandon Organic Growers on the southern Oregon coast. She said organics will help Bandon's economy recover from the cranberry bust last season.

In nearby Sixes, cranberry grower Jerri Walter found girdler moths for the first time among her crop two years ago.

The herbicides she applied to control fungus were already causing her health problems and the last thing she needed was to add pesticides to the list, so she's among the farmers planning to go organic. Walter's farm will be officially certified as an organic producer in 2001, when the new federal rules are expected to set a national definition for what is and isn't organic.

Grocers also anticipate a rise in sales. Nature's Northwest, which has eight stores in Oregon, plans to enhance its organic education for customers, said Robyn Nick, marketing promotions manager.

She expects an across the board increase in sales of organics from processed to The federal rules may also

But converting farmland to or-carries risks. Demand could fail to meet expectations. Or, the increased supply could exceed demand .

National organic standards also may drive out 8- to 10acre specialty crop farms as corporate organic growers take over their niche, said John Foster, director of certification for Oregon Tilth.

"They've been able to make money because they have a crop nobody else has," he said. "They will have to beganic production come increasingly creative."

Writing Want Ads that really sell!

Unsure how to write a Classified Ad that will get results? Follow these pointers and you'll soon have an empty space in your storage room and cash in your pocket.

For starters, look at ads which offer the same intem/products. Get a sense of going rates and ideas for how to make your ad stand out. Once you're ready to write, begin with exactly what you're selling: "Dining room set, maple, six chairs."

Then remember these hints:

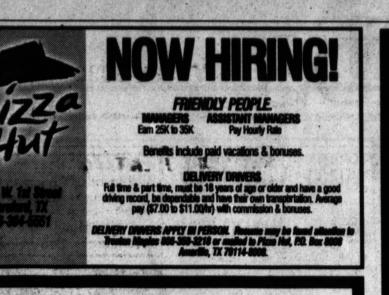

· Give the price. A newpaper consultant says 70 percent of · Use key words to describe what you're selling. The key words for a car are make, model, year, body style, color, mileage and price. If it's a house, key words are location, type of construction, number of bedrooms and baths, and condition.

· Don't use abbreviations. It's tempting to abbreviate and save money if ads are billed by the line. Brand ads are billed by the words, so spell them out so readers won't be confused trying to figure out abbreviations.

· Don't be misleading. Think accurate and factual when you write. Be sure to include a phone number and the best times to reach

WELCOMING FRONT PORCH

Home Exudes Warmth And Comfort

O BY W.D. FARMER, F.A.I.B.D.

This all American country home is particularly impressive. The front porch is both wide and deep, perfect for rocking chairs or a swing.

Entrance from the porch is into the offset entry area with direct view to a huge great room which flows into the roomy old fashioned kitchen. The deluxe cabinets are a major highlight, allowing for plenty of counter top space as well. The bay window gives an expanded seating area when guests visit. Neatly tucked away in the corner are laundry facilities.

An attached double garage is alongside the breakfast area and

This summer, 1,100 Americans tried to leave jobs, family, friends, computers, phones, newspapers and television to become television for the rest of us. They applied to become contestants on the latest reality show, Big Brother, which premieres on CBS Wednesday, July 5, and concludes Sept. 30. The show has already been a huge hit in the Netherlands, Germany and Spain, garnering top ratings and turning contestants into instant celebrities.

The premise is that 10 strangers – five men and five women – live in a twobedroom house where they're watched around the clock. Built specifically for this show, the Studio City, Calif., house has 28 cameras and 60 microphones recording their every moment. There also are two-way mirrors that allow the crew to watch. Weekly, housemates will nominate two of their number for expulsion. A studio audience's vote, based on the housemates' nominations, determines who's kicked out. The person left wins $500,000.

In some ways, they're just as secluded as the players in Survivor, the show in which people are marooned on a desert island, and the last one left wins $1 million. Though suburban L.A. is hardly a secluded island, contestants aren't allowed out unless they want to quit. Three housemates left in the Dutch version, and two each in Spain and Germany.

"They are responsible for taking care of daily tasks," producer Paul Romer says. "They grow their own garden, raise chickens for eggs. There are no appliances. They bake bread. When they want to do laundry, there is a wash bin and board. A lot of their day is making sure their environment is maintained."

Each person is allowed a small suitcase with personal articles. Daily, they receive $5 each for groceries, and everyone agrees on what to buy. The list is then slipped under the door, and the crew stocks the pantry when no one is around.

The camera is on them constantly - even in the bathroom. That particular camera is there "for security," Romer says. "The people in the house are our responsibility. If you are on the toilet and something goes wrong, we need to see it. We want to prevent that room from becoming a conference room. We won't air it when people are using the bathroom in a normal way. ... This show is about human relations, the interaction they have with each other, the community they are building."

It also may sound as if Romer and fellow producer Douglas Ross are mad scientists experimenting to see what happens when Biosphere meets The Real World. But Ross points out that this show isn't at all like the MTV series that shines a camera on 20-somethings sharing a house.

"We will have people in the house representing a broad range of ages." Ross says. "In Big Brother, the people come into contact only with themselves. The people in the house never see the crew, working behind two-way mirrors. There is no experience of what is going on outside of their community."

Half-hour episodes three times a week. Voting takes place during a weekly hourlong live version that includes the ostracized houseguest discussing his experience. The hourlong show on Saturdays recaps the week's highlights.

Those who can't wait for the shows can log on to www.bigbrother2000.com to see four streaming video feeds of the housemates, 24 hours a day.

The two-bedroom Studio City house where 10 strangers compete to stay the longest and win $500,000 on CBS' new reality show, Big Brother, is equipped with 28 cameras and 60 microphones. Each week, the housemates nominate two others for eviction and the studio audience decides who goes. The series premieres Wednesday and concludes Sept. 30.

The son of Broadway veteran Michel Bell, the young actor scored a 1987 guest spot on ER just a few months after graduating with honors from San Jose State University in California. That hit show's creator, John Wells, remembered Bell when he was casting Third Watch. Bell has also made guest appearances on Buffy the Vampire Slayer and Smart Guy.

A singer like his dad, Bell often enjoys weekend jam sessions with his Watch castmates Anthony Ruivivar, Skipp Sud-duth and Jason Wiles. He is single but has a steady girlfriend who is not in show busin

Q: We thought John Schneider did a great job hosting the Memorial Day concert from Washington, D.C., but what happened to Ossie Davis, who originally was announced as host? -Rita Bobbio, Oroville, Calif.

A: Davis was forced to withdraw at the last minute due to illness. Schneider was an 11th-hour substitute an 11th-nour substitute. Q: Some years ago a famous singer was raped in a motel. I think it was Connie Stevens, but my friend insists it was Connie Francis. Who is right? -Monique Chryton, McAlester, Okla. A: Your friend is. Connie Francis, now 61, was raped at knifepoint at a Howard Johnson motel following a 1974 appear-ance at the Westbury Music Fair in New York York.

She reportedly received a multimillion-dollar award after suing the hotel chain for failing to provide adequate security.

Q: Of what nationality is the actor who plays Nikolai Krasnikov on Showtime's Beggars and Choosers? He seems to speak Russian fluently, and his accent while speaking English seems authentic. -Bradford Furman, Fort Lee, N.J.

Coby Bell

A: Rudolf Martin, who plays the seductive Russian mobster on Showtime's sassy sitcom, was born and raised in West Berlin but also spent part of his childhood in Paris and Italy. The actor, who played Anton Lang for three years on All My Children, is said to be fluent

Guiding Light becomes a Labine family affair

By Candace Havens

OTVData Features Syndicate

Guiding Light has a new head writer. Claire Labine took over writing duties for the daytime serial from James Harmon Brown and Barbara Esenten, who had been with the program since February 1997.

"Our Springfield characters could not be in better hands than Claire's; she is truly a master of this genre," says Mary Alice Dwyer-Dobbin, executive in charge of production for Procter & Gamble Productions. "She has a wonderful sense of story line, and, as she has demonstrated time and time again, her heartfelt words hit all the right emo-tional chords. Claire has a real gift for imbuing characters with integrity, soul and spirit." Labine helped create Ryan's Hope and has written for Love of Life, General Hospital and One Life to Live. She will be joined by her son, Matt Labine, and daughter, Eleanor Labine Mancusi.

Fans who haven't been happy with Reva Shayne and Josh Lewis (Kim Zimmer, Robert Newman) being friends or Michelle Bauer Santos and , Danny Santos (Joie Lenz, Paul Anthony Stewart) losing their baby can look for-ward to Aug. 7. That's when the Labines' stories begin airing. Dear Candace: I was wondering if you knew what Rob Estes (Kyle McBride, Melrose Place) is up to now. I've always enjoyed watching him. -Lucille Yandell, Snyder, Texas. Dear Reader: Estes played Dr. Cooper in the series Outreach and plays Michael Nostrand in Nostradamus. Dear Candace: I was traveling and didn't get to see the Daytime Emmy Awards. Could you please tell me if Patrika Darbo (Nancy Wesley) won for outstanding supporting actress, or Jensen Ackles (Eric Brady) for outstanding younger actor? They are some of my favorite characters on Days of Our Lives. -Sara Roberts, Attica, N.Y. Dear Reader: Unfortunately, your fa-vorites, Darbo and Ackles, did not win.

The award for outstanding supporting actress went to Sarah Brown (Carly, GH), and David Tom (Billy, The Young and the Restless) picked up the younger actor prize.
