Medrano's 'patients' have 4 legs and fur

"I love my job. I enjoy working with the people and their pets."

■ EDITH MEDRANO,
office manager, Hutto Veterinary Hospital

By Donald M. Cooper
Hereford Brand Managing Editor

Edith Medrano takes care of her patients. She checks their records to make sure they have had all their immunization shots; she carefully administers their shots; she assists in surgery; she even comes in after hours and on the weekends to check on them.

But her "patients" aren't the two-legged kind you'd find at Hereford Regional Medical Center. Medrano's "patients" all have four legs, fur and will voice their complaints with barks or meows — they're dogs and cats.

Medrano has been office manager for the Hutto Veterinary Hospital on U.S. Highway 385 North since 1997, and she loves her job.

"I love my job," Medrano said enthusiastically. "I enjoy working with the people and their pets. I enjoy helping them, giving the pets their shots and being around them."

A Hereford native, Medrano graduated from Hereford High School in 1990, and has taken some classes at Amarillo College.

As office manager and semi-veterinarian assistant — she hopes to go to school some day to become a full-time vet's assistant — Medrano said Dr. Aaron Hutto has been helpful by sending his staff to workshops and seminars on the treatment of animals.

"We've gone to seminars in Dallas. The last one was for working up front, at the front desk. We learn how to handle clients," she said. "I hope to go to another seminar in Las Vegas, maybe in October. That's a really big, important one."

"It will cover new techniques for treating animals, and new medications. It will bring us up to date," she said.

New techniques already have been put into effect at the vet hospital, she said. A new high-tech monitor is taking over some of the tasks formerly handled by X-rays.

"Today (Thursday), a lady brought in her cat. He was scratching and shaking his head. We ran him through the scan monitor and saw he had ticks way down inside his ears," she said. With the help of the modern technology, the cat didn't have to endure any discomfort in determining what was causing its problem.

Working in a veterinary hospital, Medrano also will see some unusual animals. While the clinic gets house cats every day, they seldom have big cats brought in for treatment.

However, Medrano said the clinic has had to work with lions.

"Sidney Blankenship (of Adrian) brought in one of his lion cubs that had broken a leg. We tried to put a cast on it, but we finally had to put it down," she said. "That was sad, but the lioness had two cubs, and the other one had a hernia that we repaired."

Edith Medrano (behind counter, at left) takes information from Tara Kimball about a German shepherd adopted at the city animal shelter. With Kimball and her daughter, Marissa, watching Medrano administer a rabies shot to the as-yet-unnamed dog.

Medrano said the lion cubs were the most exotic animals treated at the clinic, although they do occasionally get ferrets, "but not very often."

When she's not working at the veterinary hospital, Medrano enjoys riding her bicycle, although she did admit she wishes she were riding a

COLD WAR

■ Veterans of 40 years of East, West 'conflict' receiving some recognition for their service

By Donald M. Cooper
Hereford Brand Managing Editor

For more than four decades, hundreds of thousands of young Americans served their country in a war that was not a war, in a cold war.

In an era when the veterans of the "forgotten war" in Korea are finally getting recognition for their service, where thousands of people daily stop and reflect at the Vietnam War Memorial in Washington, D.C., the veterans of the Cold War also are receiving notice from their country.

In 1998, the U.S. defense secretary approved awarding Cold War Recognition Certificates to all members of the armed forces, including the National Guard and reserves, and qualified government civilian personnel who served the nation during the Cold War era, Sept. 2, 1945-Dec. 26, 1991.

The applicants must certify their service was "faithful and honorable," and they also must provide documentation that shows they served during the Cold War era. For deceased veterans, the certificate may be awarded to relatives who apply.

The certificate may be requested by use of U.S. or international forms found at the Army's Cold War webpage, <http://coldwar.army.mil>. It is a secure site, but anyone who doesn't feel comfortable providing a Social Security number online can obtain the form by mail.

A request must contain the words "I certify that my service was honorable and faithful," or it will be rejected.

Supporting documentation, which must be submitted with the request, includes military service number, foreign service number or Social Security number, a copy of a DD-214, which is the military service record, or a DD-215, which is a corrected version of that document. National Guard members should provide the statement of service equivalent, NGB Form 22.

The request should be sent to:
CDR, PERSCOM
Cold War Recognition, Hoffmann II
Attn. TAPC-CWR3, 3N45

200 Stovall St.
Alexandria, VA 22332-0473.
Applications for the Cold War certificate also can be obtained through U.S. Rep. Larry Combest's office, according to a spokeswoman for the 19th District representative.

For more information, contact one of Combest's offices or visit the Combest website, <http://www.house.gov/combest/kvets.htm>. Deaf Smith County veterans should contact Jessica Detten in Combest's Amarillo office, 5809 S. Western, No. 205, Amarillo 79110. For more information, call Jessica Detten at 353-3945.

Although shots were not exchanged in the Cold War, it was a total war waged on a variety of fronts: political, economic and propaganda. The term was coined in 1947 by Bernard Baruch, a financier and adviser to President Harry Truman.

The stage for the Cold War was set by the Allies' victory over Germany

Third time was not charm for Pentagon anti-missile system

WASHINGTON (AP) — The missile interceptor the Pentagon is developing as the key component of a national missile defense not only missed its intended target over the Pacific Ocean early Saturday, it didn't even try to hit it.

In a new twist for the Pentagon's oft-criticized missile defense program, the "kill vehicle" that was supposed to guide itself into the path of a dummy warhead in space — destroying it by the force of impact — never separated from the booster. So it never activated its sensors to hunt for the approaching target.

The interceptor passed harmlessly by the target, and few of the critical technologies of missile defense were put to the test.

The $100 million test was the third to attempt an intercept, and the second to fail. The first failure, in January, was blamed on moisture inside the "kill vehicle" that prevented it from using heat-seeking devices to "see" its target.

"We did not intercept the warhead that we expected to have tonight. We're disappointed with that," said Air Force Lt. Gen. Ronald Kadish, director of the Pentagon's Ballistic Missile Defense Organization.

Kadish said he had never had a concern about the booster properly releasing the "kill vehicle."

"It wasn't even on my list" of potential problems, he said, adding that it had been used successfully on earlier tests. He said the kill vehicle did not separate from the booster because it did not receive the necessary electronic signal. It may take days for officials to understand why the signal was not received, he said.

At an early morning news conference in the Pentagon, Kadish was asked what he learned from the failure.

"What it tells me is we have more engineering work to do," he replied.

HEREFORD BRAND Local roundup

Library's final summer reading program on tap

The final program for the Deaf Smith County Public Library's Summer Reading Club will be "The Sky is Calling!" — a planetarium adventure.

The "journey" begins at 10 a.m. Tuesday in the Heritage Room of the library. Prizes for READO will be awarded through July 31.

For more information, call 364-1206.

TAAS exams scheduled

The 2000 summer Texas Assessment of Academic Skills (TAAS) exit-level examination will be administered next week by Hereford Independent School District.

Students taking the TAAS tests should be at Hereford High School at 8:30 a.m. each day of the testing.

The dates for the TAAS tests are:
• July 11 — writing;
• July 12 — math
• July 13 — reading.

Students who pass the summer test will not have to take TAAS classes during the next school year. TAAS classes are non-credit.

For more information, call counselor Sara Pesina at 363-7620.

No lunches to be served

The summer feeding service program at West Central Intermediate School will not be in operation July 10-13, according to Christine Evans, Hereford Independent School District food service director.

Lunches will be served at the Hereford High School cafeteria on those days.

Clinics slated for July

The Texas Department of Health at 300 Witherspoon, is offering immunization clinics 8-11:45 a.m. and 1-4:45 p.m. each Thursday in July.

Fees will be based on a sliding scale based on family income, size and the ability to pay.

Vaccines will be offered for polio, diphtheria, tetanus, whooping cough, measles, rubella, mumps, Hib, and varicella.

Public forum slated

A meeting of the Governing Body will begin at 9 a.m. July 19 at Amarillo State Center, 901 Wallace.

The Governing Body has requested a public forum regarding its services.

By 15, most U.S. kids are working

WASHINGTON (AP) — Half of American 12-year-olds hold informal jobs like baby-sitting or yard work, and by age 15, nearly two-thirds are employed, according to a new Labor Department report.

"The American work ethic starts at an early age," said Labor Secretary Alexis Herman of the findings about young Americans' working habits, released by the Bureau of Labor Statistics on Friday.

Still, the study found that a smaller percentage of the teenage population held jobs in the late 1990s than two decades earlier, in the late 1970s.

During the period from 1977 to 1979, an average 30 percent of 15- to 17-year-olds held jobs during the school year and 43 percent did in the summer. By comparison, from 1996 to 1998, an average of 25 percent in the same age group held jobs during the school year and 34 percent in the summer.

The BLS study combined findings from annual government surveys of American households with in-depth interviews conducted in 1997 with 9,022 young men and women who were between the ages of 12 and 16 on Dec. 31, 1996. Findings were focused on kids 15 and younger.

The 1997 interviews revealed that about 50 percent of kids had worked in informal jobs at age 12. By age 14, the share of kids working rose to 57 percent.

About 43 percent of 14-year-olds were still doing only odd jobs like neighbors' yardwork or baby-sitting, while 24 percent had formal, ongoing employment.

for Strategic and International Studies, said in an interview after Saturday's test that, logically, the failure should mean a delay in the Pentagon's fast-track timetable for building a national missile defense. The target date is December 2005, but even the Pentagon's own advisers have acknowledged that this may be overly ambitious.

President Clinton is expected to decide by this fall whether to approve sticking to that timetable. The president will base his decision in part on a recommendation from Defense Secretary William Cohen, who told National Public Radio on Friday that he expected to make his recommendation in three or four weeks.

It remained unclear today whether the Pentagon still believed the missile defense project was ready to move toward deployment.

"Logically, you do regroup after something like this and you don't go forward with the existing schedule," Cordesman said, although he added that pressure from Congress might compel the Pentagon to go ahead.

The next attempted intercept is scheduled for this fall, but that schedule might now be put back. More than a dozen additional flight tests are scheduled before 2005.

If Saturday's test had succeeded, it could have moved the United States a step closer to building a national missile defense shield that Congress says is urgently needed, but that critics decry as unworkable.

After technicians fixed a last-minute glitch that delayed the start of the test by about two hours, a modified Minuteman intercontinental ballistic missile with a dummy warhead atop its second-stage rocket blasted off from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif., at 12:19 a.m. EDT.

The rocket headed toward the central Pacific.

Twenty-one minutes later, at 12:40 a.m. EDT, an interceptor missile carrying the "kill vehicle" launched from Kwajalein Atoll.

The "kill vehicle" was supposed to separate from the second-stage rocket booster exactly 2 minutes and 37 seconds into flight, then maneuver itself into the path of the mock warhead. Television monitors showed no flash indicating a collision.

Demos pushing free trade, back death penalty

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Pushing a centrist agenda, the Democrats' platform committee drafted a statement of principles calling for open trade, teacher certification and continued support for the death penalty despite objections from liberal, education and labor interest groups.

The policy positions dovetail with the agenda of Vice President Al Gore, the Democratic presidential candidate who also supports capital punishment despite growing debate nationwide about its fairness.

Meeting Friday, the committee added an amendment to the death penalty plank in the party platform, calling for DNA evidence to be used when appropriate and for efforts to ensure defendants effective legal counsel, which is in line with Gore's view.

"Some believe serious consideration ought to be given to repealing the death penalty," said Gerald Shea, assistant to the president for government affairs of the AFL-CIO, citing differences of opinion on the committee.

Harley-Davidson, but "they are so expensive." She also enjoys listening to music, from Tejano to the classic rock 'n' roll of the Fifties and Sixties.

Because the veterinary clinic deals with pets, Medrano said there are often calls from people whose dog or cat has strayed away, or who have found a lost animal.

"Sometimes people will call and tell us they've found a dog, and ask if we could help find its owner," Medrano said. "That's why we tell everyone to make sure to put the tags on their dogs. If the dogs have a tag, we can find the owner."

Medrano's work day doesn't always end when the hospital's doors close. When animals are being boarded at the kennel, one of the staff members comes in every day to feed and water the "residents."

"We're in here every day. Someone has to be here on Sunday to care for them," she said.

Cold War

and Japan in World War II. The shaky alliance of the United States, Great Britain and the Soviet Union began to unravel amid mutual suspicion.

As their forces liberated the countries of eastern Europe from the Germans, the Soviets installed puppet regimes that would be controlled from Moscow and serve as a buffer zone against any renewed German threat. The U.S. and British feared permanent Soviet domination of eastern Europe and the threat of Soviet-influenced communist parties coming to power in western Europe.

The first major confrontation of the Cold War was the Berlin Airlift of 1947-49 when the Soviets blockaded the former German capital. The blockade was broken by around-the-clock supply flights from the West.

During the period 1948-53, the Soviets exploded a nuclear warhead, ending the U.S. monopoly on the atomic bomb; communists seized control of China; and the Soviet-backed North Koreans invaded the U.S.-supported South Korea, igniting the Korean War.

Although tensions eased after the death of Josef Stalin in 1953, the Cold War heated up during the period 1958-62. In August 1961, the Soviet-backed East German government built a wall separating East and West Berlin. The U.S. and Soviet Union began to develop and deploy intercontinental ballistic missiles; in 1962, the Soviets began to install missiles in Cuba and sparked the Cuban missile crisis that brought the two superpowers to the brink of nuclear war.

Although the U.S. and Soviet Union avoided direct military confrontation during the Cold War, neither superpower was reluctant to engage in combat to keep allies in line.

The Soviet Union sent in troops to preserve communist control in East Germany (1953), Hungary (1956), Czechoslovakia (1968) and Afghanistan (179).

The U.S. intervened to overthrow a leftist government in Guatemala (1954), Dominican Republic (1965) and Grenada (1983). The U.S. also fought a bitter and protracted war in Vietnam (1964-75) in an unsuccessful effort to prevent communist North Vietnam from taking over South Vietnam.

In the 1970s, the tensions eased, with both countries signing strategic arms limitation treaties. In the early 1980s, there was another arms race, but the Cold War began to break down in the last part of the decade when Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev began an effort to make the Soviet system more democratic.

When the communist regimes in eastern Europe collapsed in 1989-90, Gorbachev did not send in troops as his predecessors had and democratic reforms took hold in East Germany, Poland, Hungary and Czechoslovakia, with the most significant change coming in November 1989 when the Berlin Wall — the symbol of the Cold War — came down. Gorbachev's efforts to reform the Soviet system so weakened the Communist Party that power shifted to Russia and the other republics. In December 1991, the Soviet Union collapsed and 15 newly independent nations, including Russia, were born.

The Cold War was over.

PPW to celebrate No. 80

Special to The Brand

AMARILLO — Panhandle Professional Writers Association celebrates its 80th anniversary by honoring mystery writer D.R. Meredith, historical romance writer Jodi Thomas and historical writer Frances Clegg-Ferris during its bimonthly meeting next weekend at the Amarillo Senior Citizens Center, 1217 S. Tyler. The three long-time members of the organization also will be featured speakers for the day's program.

Any writer, published or unpublished, new or advanced, is welcome to attend. Registration begins at 9:30 a.m. July 15. Admission is free.

Thomas will launch the morning program at 10 a.m.

with "Let's Spotlight on the Plot Line." Thomas will share her expertise in weaving plots and subplots within a work, as well as her methods for developing scenes. Clegg-Ferris will speak from 11:20 a.m.-12:10 on research opportunities in the writing of historical fiction.

Meredith will open the afternoon session at 1:15 p.m. with "Doing Murder? Don't Stop With One." She will discuss how to create an amateur sleuth and develop a series character, supporting cast and the right setting for a mystery.

Meredith is known for her unique ways of doing in her victims and has created three highly acclaimed mystery series set in the Texas Panhandle. "The Sheriff and the Branding Iron Murders" and "The Sheriff and the Folsom Man Murders" won the "Oppie" for Best Mystery of 1984 and 1985 respectively and were selections of the Detective Book Club. Her latest books, "Murder by Volume" and "By Hook or by Book," featuring female sleuth and paleopathologist Megan Clark were released this year.

Clegg-Ferris has written 37 family histories published in the "Families of Fisher County" and has conducted extensive historical research in West Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico. Her historical fiction is based on first-hand accounts and original data.

Thomas just celebrated the release of her 15th novel, "To Wed in Texas," which made The New York Times and USA Today bestseller lists. In 1998, Thomas received the Career Achievement Award from Romantic Times for her contributions to women's fiction over the last decade.

For reservations, call Ginger Porter at 371-8114 during the day or e-mail her at signtag@netzero.net by July 12. Lunch costs $7.

For more information, call Nan Rinella, publicity chair, at 359-6181 or visit PPW's website at <http://users.arn.net/~ppw> or call "IN TOUCH" line at 376-1000, code 1247.

Commemorative pins available to veterans

U.S. veterans of the Korean War are eligible for a commemorative 50th Anniversary Korean War pin issued through the U.S. Department of Defense, according to U.S. Rep. Larry Combest.

"The 50th anniversary pin is a small token of our immense appreciation and admiration of their courage," Combest said.

The U.S. began observances of the 50th anniversary of the Korean War, which is commonly known as the "forgotten war." During the 37-month war, nearly 34,000 Americans died in action and more than 100,000 were wounded.

Any veteran who served in the theater of war — on Korean soil — between June 25, 1950 and July 27, 1953, is eligible to receive the pin. Spouses or families of deceased veterans who served during these dates also are entitled to claim one pin per family.

To apply for the pin, a veteran will need to provide name, address, telephone number and dates of service. The veteran also should provide a copy of the report of separation, commonly known as a DD-214 or a corrected version of that document, a DD-215. National Guard members should provide the statement of service equivalent, NGB Form 22. All branches of the U.S. armed services will be recognized.

For more information, contact one of Combest's offices or visit the Combest website, <http://www.house.gov/combest/kvets.htm>.

Deaf Smith County veterans should contact Jessica Detten in Combest's Amarillo office, 5809 S. Western, No. 205, Amarillo 79110. For more information, call Jessica Detten at 353-3945.

'CELEBRATION OF WORDS'

Preparations start for High Plains Book Festival

Special to The Brand

AMARILLO — It's that time of the year.

Preparations are under way for the 3rd Annual High Plains Book Festival "Celebration of Words" Sept. 28-30 at the Amarillo Civic Center.

Children's events are being scheduled for Thursday-Friday, open to reservation by local schools and day care centers. Two featured authors will be Kimberly Willis Holt and Anastasia Suen.

Holt was the winner of the 1999 National Book Award for Young People's Literature for her book "When Zachary Beaver Came to Town." Suen is a noted children's author, educator and co-founder of the Writers Roundtable Conference.

The festival will be open to the public on Saturday the 30th with participation from various booksellers, authors, and local businesses.

Authors already lined up for the festival are:

- Ed Mitchell, winner of the 2000 National Publishers Award for Best New Fiction for his book "Gold Rush";

- Don Cooper, author of "C Trick: Sort of a Memoir" and managing editor for the Hereford Brand;

- David Horsley, author of "Into the Wind," columnist for the Amarillo Globe-News and member of the faculty at Amarillo College; and

- Kathy Wetzel, author of "Mind Games: The Aging Brain and How to Keep it Healthy" and faculty member at Amarillo College.

Everyone's just wild about 'Harry'

LONDON (AP) — While truckloads of the top-secret "Harry Potter and the Goblet of Fire" sped along Britain's highways Friday to shops around the land, bookstores invited youngsters to bring sleeping bags and await the first official sale — at midnight.

Hours before Harry Potter's new adventure burst upon a waiting world, it was hard to tell who was more excited — the book industry or the throngs of youngsters whose genuine eagerness to read it created a marketer's dream.

With the hefty new tome firmly in their grasp, the kids will have the edge.

"We're really, REALLY looking forward to it," 11-year-old friends Natasha Cook and Eva Arevuo said almost in unison Friday afternoon at a Books Etc. branch in north London.

"They're not so realistic that they're boring," Natasha said, trying to explain the Potter books' appeal. The adventures of the orphaned wizard, Harry, at Hogwarts School of Witchcraft and Wizardry are filled with humor, suspense, monsters, ghosts and magical characters.

While waiting for the new book to go on sale, children at Waterstone's bookshop in Piccadilly Circus were given an "I waited for Harry" T-shirt and entertained by a magician. Waterstone's shops in Glasgow, Scotland, and Birmingham and Leeds, England, arranged sleepovers, too.

Cowboy poets to meet at B&N

Special to The Brand

AMARILLO — The Southwest Cowboy Pets Association will meet at 6:45 p.m. July 20 at the Barnes & Noble Book Store, 2415 Soney Blvd.

The evening will feature cowboy poetry, music and "tall tales."

Rusty Nichols of Borger will sing and play the guitar, and a dozen performers will have 10 minutes each for their presentations.

Among those appearing are Pat Henry, who also will be the emcee; Richard Henry; Billie and Rusty Nichols; Charlie Bell, SWCPA president; Marianne Logan; Charlie Sinclair; Ludie Stone; Don DeHay; Marty Crumley and David Waddle.

For more information, contact Bell at 352-4693.

Clinton blocks execution

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House said Friday that President Clinton is postponing the Aug. 5 execution of a federal death row inmate — the first since 1963 — until the Justice Department updates clemency guidelines.

Juan Raul Garza was convicted in August 1993 in Brownsville, Texas for killing three men between April 1990 and January 1991. A 10-count indictment named him as the boss of a drug ring that imported tons of marijuana into the United States between 1983 and 1993.

He is one of 21 federal prisoners awaiting execution, including Oklahoma City bomber Timothy McVeigh.

COMMENTS

U.S. should administer own justice

The United States has the largest number of military serving overseas. It also has its own military justice system for punishing American troops suspected of war crimes.

So why should it give an international tribunal superseding jurisdiction to prosecute U.S. troops charged with war crimes or crimes against humanity?

It shouldn't. And if it fails to get blanket immunity for American personnel based abroad, the Senate should refuse to ratify a treaty establishing the United Nations-sponsored court.

Whatever the White House's inclinations, the Clinton administration isn't likely to call attention to the matter of the global court. With good reason. This is an election year. Most Americans would and should be furious at the notion of U.S. troops being subject to a U.N. version of justice.

The Indianapolis Star

Who's to blame?

Gasoline prices are at record highs for recent years, and politicians are blaming each other for the problem. But a close look at the record suggests that some of the blame should fall on the present administration.

That is the view of, among others, the nonpartisan Congressional Research Service. But President Clinton declared recently that “there is no economic explanation I can think of for the run-up in prices.” He promised that the government will aggressively investigate the possibility of collusion by oil companies.

Although the administration hopes to deflect blame for high gasoline prices to the oil companies, there is reason to suspect that it does not think high energy prices are altogether a bad thing since they encourage administration goals of energy conservation and the reduction of greenhouse gases.

Some help for cat-owners

Donald Cooper

Anyone who's ever shared a household with a cat knows how temperamental and contrary our feline friends can be, especially when it comes time for administering medication.

I've seen parents who can corral a half-dozen hyperactive kids brought to tears by a single 8-pound cat. So, as “owner” of a few cats, I certainly could appreciate these tips provided by an Arkansas cousin.

How to give a cat a pill

1. Pick cat up and cradle it in the crook of your left arm as if holding a baby. Position right forefinger and thumb on either side of cat's mouth and gently apply pressure to cheeks while holding pill in right hand. As cat opens mouth, pop pill into mouth. Allow cat to close mouth and swallow.
2. Retrieve pill from floor and cat from behind sofa. Cradle cat in left arm and repeat process.
3. Retrieve cat from bedroom, and throw soggy pill away.
4. Take new pill from foil wrapper, cradle cat in left arm holding rear paws tightly with left hand. Force jaws open and push pill to back of mouth with right forefinger. Hold mouth shut for a count of 10.
5. Retrieve pill from goldfish bowl and cat from top of wardrobe. Call spouse from garden.
6. Kneel on floor with cat wedged firmly between knees, hold front and rear paws. Ignore low growls emitted by cat. Get spouse to hold head firmly with one hand while forcing wooden ruler into mouth. Drop pill down ruler and rub cat's throat vigorously.
7. Retrieve cat from curtain rail, get another pill from foil wrapper. Make note to buy new ruler and repair curtains. Carefully sweep shattered figurines and vases from hearth and set to one side for gluing later.
8. Wrap cat in large towel and get spouse to lie on cat with head just visible from below armpit. Put pill in end of drinking straw, force mouth open with pencil and blow down drinking straw.
9. Check label to make sure pill not harmful to humans, drink glass of water to take taste away. Apply Band-Aid to spouse's forearm and remove blood from carpet with cold water and soap.
10. Retrieve cat from neighbor's shed. Get another pill. Place cat in cupboard and close door onto neck to leave head showing. Force mouth open with dessert spoon. Flick pill down throat with elastic band.
11. Fetch screwdriver from garage and put cupboard door back on hinges. Apply cold compress to cheek and check records for date of last tetanus jab. Throw T-shirt away and fetch new one from bedroom.
12. Ring fire department to retrieve cat from tree across the road. Apologize to neighbor who crashed into fence while swerving to avoid cat. Take last pill from foil wrapper.
13. Tie cat's front paws to rear paws with garden twine and bind tightly to leg of dining table, find heavy duty pruning gloves from shed. Push pill into mouth followed by large piece of fillet steak. Hold head vertically and pour 2 pints of water down throat to wash pill down.
14. Get spouse to drive you to the emergency room, sit quietly while doctor stitches fingers and forearm and removes pill remnants from right eye. Call furniture shop on way home to order new table.
15. Arrange for SPCA to collect cat and ring local pet shop to see if they have any hamsters.

Great explorers find way home

Mauri Montgomery

Hello, Hereford:

Exploring: Those who do it best are the ones who always find their way back home.

If only Capt. Merriwether Lewis and William Clark had had the Internet and tourism billboards, they would have surely traveled more comfortably, more wisely.

Armed with our technology today, the two frontiersmen would have been privy to the location of every turnpike, Holiday Inn, gas station and Indian Trading Post/Curio Shop laying in wait for them.

Perhaps you remember from your American history lessons that Lewis and Clark were commissioned in 1804 by President Thomas Jefferson to explore the western United States.

Two years and some 8,000 miles later the duo had trekked from the small river front community of St. Charles, Mo. to Oregon's Pacific shoreline, and then back home to St. Louis.

Historians tell us the Lewis and Clark expedition was arduous. According to official expedition accounts, Lewis was apparently as blind as this writer, and at one point shot Clark in the rear-end when, without his glasses, he mistook Clark for a bear.

Even though it pained him to do so, Clark turned the other cheek and the two continued on their grueling journey through the western frontier.

Tales of their trials and tribulations were well-documented. They had no Internet, no maps, no 24-hour weather reports, no rap music, no Oscar Meyer cold cuts. Worse, they had to endure constant harassment from some rather nasty, scalp-hunting heathens as they made their way up the Missouri River via a 55-foot keelboat — Noah's ark on a smaller budget, built for endurance, not beauty.

My wife, my son and I learned all of this and more when we made our way up to the “Show Me State” two weeks ago.

Our daughter missed the trip to Missouri in consideration of summer college and early notice there would be no outlet malls. I think you can imagine how proud I was when she made a great effort to cloak her disappointment in missing the trip and her family's absence.

In all seriousness, she surely would have been as moved as we were when we visited the still uncompleted, but nevertheless impressive and haunting memorial erected in tribute to the 168 lives that perished in the April 19, 1995 bombing of the Alfred P. Murrah Federal Building in Oklahoma City.

But disguising most outward emotion, my daughter pretended not to be hurt that we also visited the 145th Infantry Museum without her.

She couldn't fool me. She had always loved military memorabilia, especially the armor and artillery.

Her flawless act continued when we related the experiences we shared around the completely restored Main St. of St. Charles — billed as the oldest community on the Missouri River, proudly proclaimed as Missouri's first capital and replete with all of the architectural charm that one would expect of such a celebrated and historic past.

Nor did she seem to care that we got to breathe some of the same steamy air once drawn by literary giants Mark Twain and Joseph Pulitzer.

“Who was Joseph Pulitzer?” she asked.

Even though I couldn't detect it, her stoic facade must have cracked when she learned she had also missed watching the St. Louis Cardinals from the ozone layer in Busch Stadium as they beat San Francisco, or the ride we took to the zenith of the Gateway Arch alongside the muddied expanse of the Mississippi River, or our one-night stay in Branson, or the scenic drive through the Ozarks and the 32 different state license plates we spied during our travels.

She's a tough one, my daughter. Tough as nails.

In contrast to Lewis and Clark's pilgrimage, our small 1,600-mile expedition to the Midwest and back was more reckless in its planning and lighter in scope.

The trip was confirmed three days shy of our departure which should have provided less time to pack the entire household wardrobes, or for my wife to worry about getting lost.

This theory, like many of those I had tested before it, was unsound.

Beforehand, our family had never stepped outside the Hereford city limits without a carefully honed agenda — which invariably began to fall apart after we got into the car.

This time, we hit the road with complete abandon.

But just in case, a website dedicated to the perpetually lost showed us the way to the “Show Me State” and back, beginning with the first of three critical turns we were required to negotiate from our driveway on 8th Street: (1) Go north on US 385 towards West Park Ave by turning right — 0.1 miles (2) Turn right on Park Ave. — 1.2 miles (3) Turn slight left on

Strengthening veterans benefits

Kay Bailey Hutchison

U.S. Senate

Everyone who lives in the country and enjoys the freedom and prosperity it offers owes a tremendous debt to our military veterans. They are the people who made and kept America the strongest nation in the world.

By their service and sacrifice, they earned the benefits they were promised years ago.

But many of our 65-and-older military retirees and their families are concerned, understandably, that America is not living up to the promise of quality, lifetime health care that was made to them when they first enlisted. As the military has been downsized, and bases and their hospitals were closed across the country, it has become harder for retirees to find the kind of health care they want and need. Many retirees have found themselves completely closed out of their local base hospitals after 20 years or more of military service.

Many of these same veterans are having a hard time getting the prescription drugs they need because they live far from a military facility, where they otherwise could get their prescriptions filled. All military retirees under 65 already have access to a prescription drug program with special co-pay and cost rules, either through military bases or from a national mail-order pharmacy and retail drug-stores. But retirees lose their eligibility for drug coverage when they qualify for Medicare at age 65.

Prescription drug costs are the fastest-rising segment of military health care spending, according to the Department of Defense, increasing at a rate of about 13 percent per year. (In comparison, drug costs are increasing by about 15 percent per year in the private sector.)

Military retirees without access to a military facility pharmacy must pay market rates for the medicine. And, we all know the cost of paying for medicines out of pocket is skyrocketing, especially for individuals with the chronic diseases that often arrive with age.

Congress now is in the process of trying to fix this problem in a way that will return quality health care to retired veterans.

I am supporting a proposal by Senate Armed Services Committee Chairman John Warner that would extend the prescription drug benefit program now provided for those under 65 to the 1.3 million Medicare-eligible military retirees over 65, as well as provide them a 20 percent discount at pharmacies. Last month Congress also took an important step to ensure that those over 65 continue to have access to the same military medical programs available to all retirees under age 65. I voted to support Sen. Warner's amendment to the Fiscal 2001 defense bill because it would remove the barriers to military medical care for those over 65.

I am hopeful Congress will give its full approval to the measure this year and send it to the president for his signature.

Many Medicare HMO patients must seek new providers

AUSTIN — Some Texas HMOs will stop offering Medicare plans as of Jan. 1, 2001, forcing almost 200,000 Texans to find other coverage.

Aetna U.S. Healthcare, which covers about 130,000 Texans, is the largest HMO leaving the Texas market. Humana is withdrawing from 28 counties, affecting nearly 37,000 Texans.

Insurance Commissioner Jose Montemayor advised those who will be affected not to panic and to look for alternatives now. He also said policy holders should not make final decisions until they confirm their Medicare HMO coverage will end Dec. 31.

Those losing coverage will have the option to switch to another Medicare HMO if possible, return to traditional Medicare coverage or go to a new, private "fee-for-service" plan offered in all but 15 counties.

Starting in mid-July, the federal Health Care Financing Administration will provide information on plans that will offer Medicare HMO coverage in 2001. The information will be available at www.medicare.gov or by calling 1-800-633-4227.

State facing deadline

Texas is in a use-it-or-lose-it situation. If the state fails to use federal funds earmarked for health-care programs for uninsured children by a Sept. 30 deadline, the money may be redirected to other states.

Texas could lose nearly $450 million in health care for needy children because its Children's Health Insurance Program did not get under way until May, more than two years after funds were authorized by Congress.

Each dollar Texas spends in the program yields $3 in federal matching funds.

Sales Tax Holiday Is Set

Texas' second annual "sales tax holiday" will be observed across the state Aug. 4-6.

On the first Friday, Saturday and Sunday of August, no state or local tax will be charged on most clothing or footwear priced under $100," state Comptroller Carole Keeton Rylander said last week.

The timing of the sales tax holiday is intended to help parents outfit their children for the new school year, she said.

This year, Rylander added a new dimension to the "holiday." Customers who put clothes and shoes costing less than $100 on layaway during Aug. 4-6 will be permitted to take those items out of layaway at a later date without paying sales tax, she said.

Last year, Texans spent more than $400 million on tax-exempt clothes and shoes during the first annual sales tax holiday and saved more than $32 million in sales taxes, the comptroller's office reported.

Bullock museum taking shape

The Bob Bullock Texas State History Museum, on the southern edge of the University of Texas campus in Austin, is projected to open on April 21, 2001, San Jacinto Day.

The project, under the direction of the State Preservation Board, includes construction of a 190,000-square foot, two-level parking garage; a four-story, 178,000-square foot building housing a 400-seat IMAX theater, a 200-seat storytelling theater, 41,000 square feet of exhibit space, a museum store, cafe, offices and classrooms.

The museum's three floors of exhibit space will show enduring themes of Texas history: "Encounters on the Land," "Building the Texas Identity" and "Creating Opportunity."

Housing and Community Affairs met July 5 and approved expenditures of more than $63 million for affordable housing, home repairs and flood relief.

The meeting was held with Dr. Florita Bell Griffin absent. Griffin is under indictment on federal bribery, theft and mail fraud charges, and could not, therefore, attend the meeting without placing federal funding in jeopardy, the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development warned.

About 200 Texas state prison guards and supporters marched through downtown Austin on the Fourth of July to demand higher wages, better training and safer working conditions. Texas prison guards can make as much as $28,380 per year. The national average for state prison guards is $34,000.

About 27 percent of new jobs in Austin are in technology industries, according to a new study released by The Benchmark Co. July 3. Austin now has 411,000 people working in technology fields. About half of the 30,000 people who move to Austin each year come from other cities in Texas, the study revealed.

DEJA VU:

Some of Bush's policies have a familiar ring — they were ideas floated by his father and Reagan

By Calvin Woodward

Associated Press Writer

George W. Bush's presidential campaign presents him as "a different kind of Republican," yet there's a ring of the familiar in his plans for the country.

Health-insurance tax credits for the working poor? His father proposed similar ones as president. Partial privatization of Social Security? The idea is a longtime favorite in Capitol Hill. On education, Bush's voucher plan is a limited edition of what conservatives have championed for years and brother Jeb is experimenting with as Florida governor.

One his latest proposals, to split the federal immigration department to make enforcement against illegal aliens more effective and treatment of legal immigrants fairer, was already raised and shot down in Congress.

To be sure, Democrat Al Gore isn't reinventing his party, either, but largely seeking to expand what President Clinton has done or tried to do.

Much is being made of Bush's outreach to constituencies normally ceded to Democrats. And his appeals to the political center appear to be having an effect.

It's a source of frustration in the Gore campaign that Bush is being seen as a new Republican despite a program that Democrats contend is shopworn in its substance and conservative to its core.

"His real agenda is the same old Republican rhetoric," said Gore spokesman Doug Hattaway. "He could be running in the 1980s."

The Bush campaign points to the Texas governor's slogan — "compassionate conservative" — as the starting point in arguing that he represents a change both in substance and style from the way Republicans in Washington have been operating.

"It's a philosophy that the best solutions are conservative solutions but that Republicans need to be concerned with compassionate results," said Bush spokesman Ari Fleischer. It's the approach of "someone who comes from outside the Beltway and makes his living forging bipartisan agreements."

The results are a synthesis of Republican approaches and some bipartisan ideas favored both inside and outside the circular highway that symbolically divides Washington from "real" America. Bush adds some new twists and overlays everything with a tone Fleischer says is "different from a lot of the sights and sounds heard from Washington."

While Bush supports school vouchers, his plan to let parents use tax money to help pay for private schooling or other choices is limited to the relatively small proportion of public schools that are judged chronic failures.

He favors a stronger federal role in public education than conservatives have wanted. He has insisted the GOP platform lose its plank urging the federal Education Department to be shut.

Hattaway argues any plan embracing vouchers belies Bush's claims to being a different Republican on education. "He may have other bureaucratic layers on top of it, but the crux of the idea is to take money away from public schools."

Policy watcher Kathleen Hall Jamieson of the Annenberg School for Communication at the University of Pennsylvania says Bush is retooling party policy in a few areas but keeping its usual principles while giving the rhetoric a centrist but cosmetic makeover.

Timing of aerial spraying blasted

Dear Editor:
I'd like to suggest that the person who is responsible for ordering aerial spraying for mosquitoes request those services Monday through Friday—and, even then, check a community calendar to be sure there are no community outdoor events scheduled during that time.
Nine a.m. on Saturday isn't the time to do it.
Last year, we sprayed the runners during the Jubilee—and sprayed the park where the food was being prepared. This year, we sprayed the golfers during one of the largest golf tournaments in Hereford.
I realize that we need to combat the mosquitoes, but, please, let's use some common sense.

Texas sales tax to take a holiday

Special to The Brand

Classes within the Hereford Independent School District, as well as across most of Texas, will resume Aug. 14; so parents will be hitting the stores to outfit their youngsters for the year.
The Texas families will have a chance to stretch their clothing dollars Aug. 4-6 during the state's 2nd Annual Sales Tax Holiday, according to the Texas Comptroller's Office.
"On the first Friday, Saturday and Sunday of August, no state or local sales tax will be charged on most clothing and footwear priced under $100," Comptroller Carole Keeton Rylander said.

The time of the sales tax holiday is intended to help parents outfit their children for the new school year.

The tax break is not limited to children's school clothes. Highlights include:

- Most clothing and footwear priced under $100 is exempt from sales taxes. Consumers may purchase as many tax-exempt items as they wish;
- Clothing and footwear used primarily for athletics or protective gear, such as golf cleats or football pads, are not tax-exempt. However, athletic clothes that are commonly

"In the future, I think backpacks should be tax exempt, because kiddies need them for school. I also would like the ... holiday to include fabric, buttons, zippers and other items people use to sew clothes."

— Carole Keeton Rylander, Texas comptroller used as street wear, such as tennis shoes, baseball caps and jogging suits, are eligible for the exemption; and

• Excluded from the tax holiday are accessories, such as jewelry and watches, and items that are carried rather than worn, including handbags, briefcases, wallets and backpacks.

"This year ... customers who put clothes and shoes costing less than $100 on layaway during the sales tax holiday weekend will be permitted to take those items out of layaway at a later date without paying sales tax," Rylander said.

"This will allow hard-working families with limited budgets to pay for their purchases a little bit at a time and still receive the tax break.

"In the future, I think backpacks should be tax exempt, because kiddies need them for school. I also would like the ... holiday to include fabric, buttons, zippers and other items people use to sew clothes," Rylander said.

"And, I would like to see the sales tax holiday last a couple of weeks, instead of just three days. But any change in the list of tax-exempt items or the number of tax-free shopping days must wait until the Legislature meets next year."

In 1999, Texans spent more than $400 million on tax-exempt clothing and shoes during the three-day sales tax holiday.

The holiday applies to all state and local sales taxes. Local communities were allowed to opt out of the event this year, if they notified the comptroller's office by March 31. Only Sunset Valley chose not to waive local sales taxes.

IF I LIVE A HUNDRED

(Jerry Ratliff)

If I live to be a hundred, I wonder where I'll be.
Maybe down in Alabama, or up in Tennessee.
Maybe on the West Coast, California's calling me.
If I live to be a hundred, I wonder where I'll be.

They say you can't go home again; I know that's not all wrong.
I once tried to go back, but everyone's long gone.
Maybe I'll go up to Montana, or Corpus by the sea.
If I live to be a hundred, I wonder where I'll be.

I really don't want to live that long, and have loneliness carry me
To places I don't need to go, and see things I don't need to see.
I could walk out in the desert, and cash in my chips today.
No one would every know, no one could ever say.
But I think I'll hang around, and burn bridges I need to burn
Watch one more sunrise come and go, and learn what I need to learn.
There is so much more to know about what's inside of me.
If I live to be a hundred, I wonder where I'll be.

Davis takes helm

■ Assistant baseball coach ready to be the man in charge

By Jeff Blackmon
Hereford Brand Sports Editor

More than six years of being an assistant baseball coach paid off for Grant Davis.

Davis was recently named as the new head baseball coach of the Hereford High School Whitefaces after the sudden departure of two year head coach David DePriest.

"It's exciting to have a shot," Davis said. "I want to be the head guy, and I am ready for the challenge."

Davis has assisted the JV baseball team and the varsity baseball team since 1994 and now takes over a program which accumulated a 13-13 record while reaching the first round of the playoffs. Davis said being an assistant coach for six years has given him the chance to see the current varsity players grow from little league to high school play.

"I have seen these kids grow up," Davis said. "I know these kids, and we have a good rapport with each other."

Davis takes the helm from former head coach DePriest who leaves the Whitefaces after just two seasons to become the head coach of class 5A Clovis High School. DePriest said he is excited about the move up to a bigger school and is glad coach Davis has been named his successor.

"I am excited about going to Clovis," DePriest said. "Grant will do a great job here, and the kids coming up will do a great job."

DePriest inherits a team returning eight seniors and six starters, and he said he hopes being a Wildcat will be fun.

"Clovis is a big athletic town," DePriest said. "I'm excited, and our first game will be at home against Hereford."

The Hereford team returns ten players from the 2000 playoff team, and Davis is optimistic about their chances, because he has a basis to work with.

"I don't feel any pressure. I am confident," Davis said.

When hiring a replacement for DePriest, boys athletic director Craig Yenser said looking to Davis to take the reigns was an easy decision.

"It was a no-brainer," Yenser said. "Coach Davis really deserves it, and he was an easy choice."

Yenser said the players have a strong bond with

Davis, and the new head coach should have no trouble sliding right in and getting the job done.

"He is well liked and well respected," Yenser said. "He should not have any trouble."

Yenser also said there is no one more deserving of the position than Davis. He said along with helping turn the team around since 1994, Davis knows the good and bad of the varsity team.

"It is a well deserved move," Yenser said. "He is a big part of the team's turnaround, and he knows the team's strengths and weaknesses."

Davis said the team is used to his style of coaching and should respond to his teaching. Davis said coach DePriest's style was more laid back, but he is a motivator who finds it hard to sit still on the bench.

"I am more of the ra-ra guy," Davis said. "They know I get excited, and I am just as intense and into the game as the players are."

Davis said he likes to pump up the guys and get them excited before and during games. Davis said he feels his energy helps the players and their chances of winning.

"I get into the game," Davis said. "I get in the middle of

Rafter, Sampras showdown set

■ Rafter becomes first Australian to reach final in 13 years

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Patrick Rafter overcame the blistering returns and passing shots of Andre Agassi to win in five sets Friday and become the first Australian to reach the Wimbledon men's final in 13 years.

Rafter played a masterful grass-court match, mixing his acrobatic serve-and-volley game with off-speed shots to dismantle Agassi 7-5, 4-6, 7-5, 4-6, 6-3 in 3 hours, 18 minutes.

Rafter is the first Aussie in the Wimbledon final since Pat Cash, who won the title in 1987. In Sunday's championship match, he'll meet the winner of the semifinal between six-time champion Pete Sampras and qualifier Vladimir Voltchkov.

Rafter's victory marked a dramatic return from the shoulder surgery in October which kept him out of the game for five months. Earlier this year, the two-time U.S. Open champion suggested he was considering retirement.

When asked how it felt to be a Wimbledon finalist, Rafter replied: "Sounds pretty good right now, mate."

Friday's match was a repeat of last year's semifinal, won by Agassi in straight sets.

The high-quality match provided a classic contrast between Agassi, the consummate returner and counter-puncher, and Rafter, the serve-and-volley specialist.

Rafter chipped and charged on Agassi's second serves. In baseline rallies, he relied on a soft, slice backhand to rob Agassi of the pace on which he thrives.

"If he's healthy, he's been playing some matches, he's right up there with the best of them," Agassi said.

In the end, it was Agassi's serve that let him down. He served eight double faults, several at crucial moments. Agassi's final double came in the sixth game of the fifth set, with Rafter converting the decisive break on the next point to go up 4-2.

From that game, a deflated Agassi lost the last 15 points of the match.

The 12th-seeded Rafter served 18 aces and had seven double faults. He roamed all over the court, knocking off 35 volley winners.

The second-seeded Agassi, who won Wimbledon in 1992 by staying at the baseline, played the same way against Rafter. He cracked 18 passing shot winners and moved in on returns to keep pressure on Rafter's serve.

Rafter's superior serve and more varied game proved the difference.

"I thought I was going to struggle out there today," Rafter said. "I came out and I played some really good stuff on Andre's serve and put him under pressure. I started serving well in the fifth. Everything started coming together when I needed it to."

"I was always behind," Agassi said. "He stepped it up and played enough quality shots at the right time. He played a great fifth set ... I didn't serve as well as I wanted to do today and made some careless errors. To his credit he played well at the right time."

Agassi hadn't been broken in his last three matches this week, and hadn't lose serve to Rafter in their previous two Wimbledon encounters. But Rafter broke him five times Friday.

Agassi said he missed too many first serves, allowing Rafter to "zone in" on his second serves. That forced Agassi to go for big serves, resulting in the double faults.

"You don't win Slams by getting careful at those moments," Agassi said. "You have to pick your opportunities. At 30-all, 2-3 in the fifth, I just went for a 97 mph serve to his forehand. It was breezy out there and it got away from me."

The all-American women's final is Saturday, pitting defending champion Lindsay Davenport against Venus Williams.

For Davenport, the most overlooked player in women's tennis, it's been another low-key run to the championship match.

More mule deer records; protecting the hunting heritage

The outstanding non-typical desert mule deer harvested in Randall County last November 23 by Jerry Curtis of Hereford has garnered further acclaim among big game record keeping organizations. As we have mentioned previously in this column, Jerry took the deer at a location between Canyon and Hereford using a .454 Casull handgun. Jerry recently received a certificate of official standing from Texas Game Records of the World. TGRW notified Jerry that his big mule deer currently stands as the No. 1 harvested with a handgun, and scored the muley at 578.8 points. It was ranked as a World Record Diamond Class Trophy in the handgun collection category.

Jerry was also recently notified by Safari Club International that this High Plains non-typical mule deer ranks No. 1—a Gold Medal Trophy—and rated it with a total score of 228-6/8.

All of this news came on the heels of Jerry having attended the State Big Game Awards banquet, where his trophy was recognized as the No. 1 non-typical desert mule deer harvested in the state during the 1999 season.

The big buck was officially deemed a 20-pointer with a net Boone & Crockett score of 218-6/8, and a gross SCI score of 228-6/8—overall the largest single mule deer taken in all of Texas last season. Having field-dressed at nearly 300 pounds, this buck was nearly twice of size of most desert mule deer harvested in the state. It sported a rack that was just short of 30 inches wide with seven-inch bases. The beams were 25 inches and the tines were as much as 17-1/2 inches long.

Jerry enjoyed the great good fortune of harvesting a once-in-a-lifetime deer, one of legendary status.

Goes to show what even Panhandle deer can amount to given good genetics, habitat, and enough time to grow to maturity.

Landmark Federal legislation has been introduced to protect hunting on the nation's federal lands.

The Sportsman's Den

The Hunting Heritage Protection Act is sponsored by Reps. Randy Cunningham (R-CA), Saxby Chambliss (R-GA), Collin Peterson (D-MN), Chip Pickering (R-MS), Mark Green (R-WI), and Don Young (R-AK).

The Hunting Heritage Protection Act would establish federal recognition of the intrinsic value of hunting as recreation and as a wildlife management tool.

Nearly 70 state and national conservation organizations, spearheaded by the Wildlife Legislative Fund of America (WLFA) worked for introduction of the legislation.

"The act establishes in law recognition by Congress of the significant role that hunters play in conservation. This law will direct federal agencies to support, promote, and enhance recreational hunting opportunities," says Bud Pidgeon, WLFA president.

A key element of the Hunting Heritage Protection Act is a stipulation for "No Net Loss of Hunting" opportunities. The government would be directed to maintain, at the minimum, current levels of federal hunting lands to be open for sportsmen's use.

Should Congress or future administrations attempt to establish federal lands that would close out hunters, the same amount of land would be re-designated or newly established to provide equal hunting opportunities.

A hearing on the bill has been scheduled before the House Resources Committee for the Act on July 20.

Hereford's Aquatic Center Pond has yielded a couple of whopper-caliber catfish to persistent anglers in recent weeks—one close to 14 pounds. The most recent fish was duped by a salamander. Looking at these fish, it appears that their spines were missing. This being the case, they are most likely cats that were released for the KidFish event last fall. Some sizable channel catfish were provided by the Texas Parks & Wildlife Department for that event. Many of the fish were in the five pounds plus category. Fisheries personnel clipped off the barbs of those fish prior to releasing them into the pond, in order to make them safer for youngsters to handle.

Certainly not all of those fish were caught, and some additional catfish went into the pond during the spring fishing event, so a fair school of "great escapers" may still be scouring the pond bottom for meals.

It seems that at least a few channel cats that eluded capture during the KidFish events have found good groceries and done some steady growing since their introduction into the Aquatic Center pond. Keeps things interesting at the city fishing hole.

There may be a few more of those trophy-sized channel cats still lurking at the pond. —Don't leave your rod lying unattended on the bank. A big channel catfish could cruise by and pull it in.

Elarton helps end Houston's woes

Bagwell, Biggio and Meluskey homer in 9-5 win

HOUSTON (AP) — Someone forgot to tell Scott Elarton that tiny Enron Field isn't a good place for pitchers.

Elarton won his fourth straight decision, improving to 5-0 at home this season, as the Houston Astros stopped their six-game home-losing streak, defeating the Kansas City Royals 9-5 Friday night.

"I can't explain it other than when he goes to the mound he has an aura about him," Astros manager Larry Dierker said. "Pitchers who had it are in charge. They can find a way to win."

"He's not afraid to throw strikes. He goes after the batters and he expects success."

The Astros have won only four of their last 17 games, and Elarton (8-3) has been the winning pitcher in each of those victories. The last time another pitcher won a game was Jay Powell on June 18 against San Francisco.

"This is a relief," Elarton said. "Now I can go into the (All-Star) break, rest my arm and come back for the second half. I didn't feel good at the start. I didn't have rhythm. Finally, I got my rhythm about the fifth inning."

Elarton gave up four hits in 7 1-3 innings and struck out eight. He left in the eighth, when three Astros errors led to four unearned runs, two of them coming on Mark Quinn's single.

"He doesn't walk many guys and he uses both sides of the plate," Jeff Bagwell said. "He mixes the ball in and out which is what you have to do anywhere. He's not afraid to pitch here. He does that every time."

Bagwell, Craig Biggio and Mitch Meluskey homered as Houston ended its longest home losing skid since a seven-game slide in 1995.

Elarton didn't allow a hit until Jorge Fabregas homered with one out in the fifth.

"He shut us down for the first seven innings except for the home run," Royals first baseman Mike Sweeney said. "We couldn't do much against him. He mixed his pitches real well. He had four pitches and he threw them all for strikes."

Biggio hit a two-run homer in the third off Blake Stein

(0-1). Stein's wild pitch made it 3-0 later in the inning.

Bagwell added a three-run homer, his 23rd, in the fifth. Meluskey hit a solo homer in the sixth.

There have been 135 homers at Enron Field this season compared to 118 for the entire season in the Astrodome last year.

Stein made his first appearance in the majors this season and pitched five innings. He missed the first half of the season with a fractured right forearm after being hit by a batted ball in a simulated spring training game Feb. 29.

He won his last three minor league tune-up assignments.

"I had no problems physically or mentally," Stein said. "My stuff was there. I just elevated a few pitches."

Above all, Davis said he wants the team's respect. He said he believes if a coach respects his players the players will respect the coach in return. Davis said he feels his dedication to the team the last six years already has earned him some of it.

"We have a mutual respect for each other," Davis said. "It takes lots of time and effort to play the sport, and I respect them for that."

"These kids understand what it takes to get prepared and to win."

As far as cheering the team on, Davis said he thinks there is no limit to the amount of verbal support one is able to give his or her team.

"I like to get up and holler and yell," Davis said. "I'm going to fight for them."

ARMSTRONG IN 12 SPOT

■ Tour favorites ride easy before tough stages

LIMOGES, France (AP) — France's Christophe Agnolutto stole the spotlight with a victory at the Tour de France. And that suited defending champion Lance Armstrong just fine.

Agnolutto led the pack for more than 75 miles, while Armstrong and his main rivals for the Tour de France crown — Marco Pantani, Jan Ullrich and Laurent Jalabert — settled in comfortably.

With an eye on the mountain stages which begin next week, Armstrong said he is happy to keep a low profile.

"Today went according to plan," Armstrong said. "I am feeling strong and the team has no problems at all."

After Friday's race, a 127-mile course from Tours to Limoges in central France, Armstrong met local cancer patients.

Armstrong battled back from cancer to win last year's Tour de France and is looking to become the first rider since Miguel Indurain in 1995 to repeat.

The 30-year-old Agnolutto — the first French winner of a Tour leg since Jacky Durand in 1998 — battled through driving rain to win the seventh stage in a time of 5 hours, 11 minutes, 41 seconds.

In the overall standings, Alberto Elli retained the yellow jersey. At 36, the Italian is the oldest yellow-jersey wearer since World War II, breaking the record of Spanish rider Federico Bahamontes, who was 35 in 1963.

Elli remained 12 seconds ahead of Fabrice Gougot of France and 1:17 ahead of Belgium's Marc Wouters.

Jalabert was 10th, 5:40 behind the leader. Armstrong was 12th, 5:54 off the pace, with Ullrich 22nd, 6:37 behind.

For a day, the little-known Agnolutto was the star of the show.

The Frenchman made a burst to the front in the 48th mile and held off his rivals until the finish line. Germany's Marcel Wust finished second, 1:11 behind, with countryman Erik Zabel third.

Purcella third, Gomez 12 in standings

Hereford roper Steve Purcella is currently in third place with a total winnings amount of $41,914 as of July 5.

Also, former Hereford roper Mickey Gomez is holding tight to the 12 spot in the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association with a total of $22,773. Gomez currently calls Holland home which is near Temple.

Purcella competes in team roping (heading) division, and Gomez competes in the team roping (heeling) division.

YOUR EYES

A Wide Choice of Lenses

Today, we have a wide variety of lenses from which to choose when purchasing a pair of glasses. For years, glass was the only lens material available and it continues to offer some benefits. Most importantly, it is the most scratch resistant material. Hard resin, or plastic, lenses are lighter weight than glass. They can be tinted to any color and density. They are more easily scratched than glass but can have an optional scratch protection applied.

With today's technology, even stronger prescriptions can be placed on thinner lenses. Such lenses are called "high index." They are usually made with plastic lenses because of the lighter weight, although glass can be used. High index lenses absorb all harmful UV light and can be tinted any shade or color. Polycarbonate lenses are the most impact resistant lenses available. They are the choice for young people and active individuals. Check with your vision care specialist to see which lenses are best for your lifestyles.

AC sets special 'camp'

Special to The Brand

AMARILLO — Students planning to enter Amarillo College this fall are invited to "Badger Boot Camp" for training, a T-shirt, a college planner, lunch and fun.

Badger Boot Camp will be 9:30 a.m.-2 p.m. July 17. The deadline for registration is July 13.

"All new students must attend orientation; however, they do have options," April Sessler, director of Student Activities, said. "Badger Boot Camp is orientation, plus fun. You get to meet the people you'll attend classes with, socialize during the games and at lunch, do some things you enjoy as a student at AC."

"Parents who attended last year told us that having a better understanding of today's college life helped them know how best to assist their son or daughter."

In addition to informational sessions, students will participate in games, tours and a scavenger hunt. Advising and registration will be available for students who have completed testing requirements.

The cost is $10 for students and $5 for parents. Registration is limited to 75 students. Overnight lodging is available for out-of-town students and their parents at the Amarillo Technical Center. Another boot camp will be conducted Aug. 10.

For more information, call 371-5303.

KACV program will take look at Panhandle water

Special to The Brand

AMARILLO — Forget oil and gas. Water is fast becoming the most valuable commodity in the Panhandle. Without it, Panhandle farmers couldn't grow certain crops, including corn — and nearly 50 percent of Texas corn is supplied by our region.

Adding to public concerns surrounding the issue, Dallas businessman, T. Boone Pickens wants to pipe water from Roberts County to cities in other parts of Texas. All this while experts worry that the region's water supply won't last through the next century.

How valid are these concerns? Is there anything we can do now to prevent future shortages? These are questions that will be addressed on "Going, Going, Gone: The Bid For Panhandle Water," at 9 a.m. July 11 on KACV-TV, the area's local public television station.

Host Ellen Robertson Neal and guests Dallas businessman, T. Boone Pickens; Panhandle farmer, Randy Darnell; Regional Water Planning Coordinator Jarrett Atkinson; and Panhandle Groundwater Conservation District General Manager, C.E. Williams will address local concerns and search for answers throughout the course of the half-hour program.

"I can't think of a single economic issue that's being talked about and worried over more than this one, the issue of water supply," Neal said. "It's time the viewing public got some answers, which is what this program is all about."

A repeat broadcast of the program, which is made possible through a grant from Amarillo National Bank, will be 6 p.m. July 16. KACV-TV is broadcast on Channel 2 and can be found on Hereford cable channel 2.

Towers, climate kill birds

HANOVER, N.H. (AP) — Communications towers and a changing global climate are thinning out populations of migratory songbirds, two studies have found.

A 13-year study by Dartmouth College and Tulane University, published in the June 16 issue of Science, suggests climate changes can affect songbirds' survival and reproduction rates.

A separate study by the American Bird Conservancy found that hundreds of thousands of birds, including 52 rare or declining species, are being killed in collisions with communication towers or guy wires.

Julian Zelazny, spokesman for the Audubon Society of New Hampshire, said the study backs up what long was suspected and could help determine legislation to deal with the problem.

"We have had a lot of calls about tower strikes," he said. "We know they are happening and at times hundreds, perhaps thousands, of birds are found dead at the bottom of these towers."

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service has estimated as many as 40 million birds are killed annually at the more than 77,000 communication towers around the country.

In the Dartmouth study, researchers T. Scott Sillett and Richard Holmes found that survival and reproduction rates for the birds were lower during El Nino years and higher during La Nina years. The global climate cycles are factors in birds' food supplies.

The researchers studied the black-throated blue warbler during its summers in New Hampshire and winters in Jamaica.

"If the El Nino cycle becomes stronger, it would increase the chances of having years when warbler survival and reproduction rates reach extreme lows, perhaps even approaching zero," Sillett said.

Matrimonial bliss can be 'fatrimonial bliss'

WACO, Texas — It's the season for weddings — and love is in the air. But after the vows are taken, the presents are opened and the honeymoon is history, there's a good chance newlyweds will settle down into a life of "fatrimonial bliss."

Bride's Magazine calls the pounds that sneak up on newly married couples "the first-year 10."

And Men's Health lists getting married as one of the best ways to gain weight, since a Cornell University study found that married men weigh about 5 pounds more than their single counterparts. (It's no wonder Ben & Jerry's calls one of its ice creams "Chubby Hubby.")

Marriage and health experts say post-wedding weight gain is a universal phenomenon.

"It seems to be across the board," local registered dietitian Beverly Hodges said. "(Getting married) is one of those times in life when everything changes. Most people have been on a merry-go-round, especially if they had a big wedding, so after the wedding, we seem to let our guard down. We go back to old bad habits, and couples pick up each other's bad habits," she said.

But for some couples, it's not a matter of continuing old bad habits. It's a matter of leading a new, less active lifestyle than they did when they were single, said Mary

Engagement Announcements

Kari Barrett, Stephen Bezner

Richard and Brenda Barrett announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Kari Lynette Barrett, to Stephen Matthew Bezner of Dalhart.

The prospective groom is the son of Jody and Kay Bezner of Dalhart.

The couple will exchange vows Oct. 7 in St. Anthony's Catholic Church in Hereford.

The bride-elect was salutatorian of the 1997 class of Hereford High School where she was a member of the State Championship Volleyball Team. She is a candidate for August 2000 graduation, magna cum laude, from Lubbock Christian University with a degree in finance. At LCU she played setter on the volleyball team, attended the national tournament, was named MVP and All-American Volleyball Player and Academic All-American.

She is the granddaughter of Frankie Barrett of Hereford and the late Richard E. Barrett, and Bernice Nahrgang of Amarillo and the late Glenn Nahrgang.

Bezner graduated from Texline High School in 1993. He received a bachelor of science in animal science from Texas A&M University in 1997. He is part owner of Bezner Cattle and Grain Co. in Dalhart and is employed at Bezner Beef, a family-owned feedyard.

He is the grandson of Doc and Boots Bezner of Dalhart and Earnest and Katherine Batard of Alice.

Laura Goins, Michael Power Jr.

Larry and Judy Goins of Fort Worth announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Laura Elizabeth, of Houston to Michael William Power Jr., also of Houston.

The prospective groom is the son of Michael and Priscilla Power of Hereford.

The couple will wed Sept. 9 in Granbury.

The bride-elect graduated from Kenyon College with a BA. She graduated June 2000 from the University of Texas

Medical School in Houston and is currently fulfilling residency requirements at the University of Texas at Houston affiliated hospitals in internal medicine and pediatrics.

Power graduated from Hereford High School in 1995. He graduated from Sam Houston State University in Huntsville with a BA in political science. He is currently seeking a masters of liberal arts with a speciality in political science at St. Thomas University in Houston.

Bliss

 Mann, member services manager for the Waco Weight Watchers franchise. Those who once went to the gym three or four nights a week in their single days opt to stay home with their new spouse at night, she said.

And for some couples, marriage becomes an adventure in eating, with oversized home-cooked meals or high-fat fast food the sources of extra poundage.

"A lot of people say they were never overweight until they got married," she said. "I think generally people don't take as good care of themselves as they do when they're single. We hear often in meetings that people don't do the same things, they're not physically as active, and if both work, they're going to fast-food places or eating out a lot."

The best strategy to avoid marital waistline expansion is to turn less healthy newlywed habits — cooking and eating big meals together, for example — into more healthy habits, such as exercising together, Hodges said.

Cooking, eating and spending after-hours time together is important for newlyweds' relationships, said Pam Bailey, a licensed professional counselor in private practice in Waco.

"(Eating together) is a ritual that's extremely important," Bailey said. "It's important to take that time at the end of the day to reconvene. But just because you have that ritual doesn't mean you can't be involved in the ritual of healthy eating."

Learning to cook low-fat meals together can also be a bonding experience, Hodges said. Especially since many young-married people have never cooked meals for two before.

Terri Magrans, an exercise physiologist and owner of Gold's Gym in Waco, said exercising together can not only help couples stay in shape but can provide them with common interests and ways to vent frustrations at the end of the day.

"One of the best things is to eat dinner and take a walk outside," Magrans said. "That way, they're not storing extra calories they consumed from dinner and can also make it a social event where they get caught up on their days and communicate with each other."

She said she sees many couples who work out together as partners and motivators in the gym. They spot each other at weight benches or take aerobics classes, such as kickboxing or cycling, together.

Some 21st century couples are thinking ahead to their post-wedding lifestyle and are registering for exercise equipment before they get married, Hodges said. Gym memberships are also becoming popular wedding gifts, she said.

A Touch of Love

You were six months old and full of fun.
 With a blink of my eye, you were suddenly one.
 There were so many things we were going to do,
 But I turned my head and you turned two.
 At two you were very dependent on me,
 But independence took over when you turned three.
 Your third birthday, another year I tried to ignore,
 But when I lit the candles, there weren't three, but four.
 Four was the year that you really strived.
 Why, look at you now, you're already five.
 Now you are ready for books and for rules.
 This is the year that you go to school.
 The big day came, you were anxious to go.
 We walked to the bus, going oh, so slow.
 As you climbed aboard and waved goodbye,
 I felt a lump in my throat and tears stung my eyes,
 Time goes so fast, it's hard to believe
 That just yesterday you were home here with me.
 And when the bus came and you jumped to the ground,
 You were wearing your cap and graduation gown.
 So I'm holding to these moments as hard as I can,
 Because the next time I look, I'll be seeing a man.

Happy 21st Birthday Baby Boy!

Guerra, Thomas united in marriage

Annabell Guerra and Dwayne L. Thomas were united in marriage Saturday afternoon, July 8 in the First Assembly of God Church in Hereford.

The bride is the daughter of Barbara Guerra of Hereford.

The bridegroom is the son of Helen Thomas of Amarillo.

Rev. Richard Collins of Faith Mission Church in Hereford officiated at the ceremony.

Maid of honor was Essie Thomas of Amarillo, sister-in-law of the groom. Best man was Tracy Montano of Colorado.

Bridesmaid was Michelle Brown and groomsman was Lester Brown.

Guests were seated by Ellis Collins and Richard Collins Jr., both of Amarillo.

Flower girl was Brittney Enriquez, daughter of Raymond and Yolanda Enriquez.

Angelo Guerra, son of the bride, was ring bearer.

Candle lighters were the mothers of the bride and groom.

Vocalists were Virgil Daves and Stephanie Stacey.

The bride, given in marriage by Andres Leal and Barbara Guerra, wore a formal gown of white with a veil of white tulle. She carried a bouquet of assorted flowers in the colors of purple and gold.

Bridal attendants wore dresses in the bride's chosen colors of purple and gold and carried bouquets of roses.

The couple was honored with a reception at the church following the ceremony.

The bride and groom both attended Hereford High School. He is a correctional officer for the State of Texas.

Mrs. John Mark Streun
...nee Lisa Marie Hurtgen

Austin church site of June wedding of Hurtgen, Streun

Lisa Marie Hurtgen and John Mark Streun, both of Austin, were united in marriage Saturday, June 24 in Hyde Park Baptist Church Chapel in Austin.

The bride is the daughter of Jim and Judi Hurtgen of Glenwood, Ark.

The bridegroom is the son of Murlene Streun of Hereford and the late Joe Streun.

Kyle Streun, pastor of First Baptist Church of Olton and brother of the groom, officiated at the ceremony.

Matron of honor was Traci Crain of Waco, sister of the bride. Best man was Walter Brockman of Dallas, formerly of Hereford.

Bridesmaids were Cynthia Turner of Idalou, sister of the groom and Sharon Kozjarek, of Austin.

Serving as groomsmen were Jeff Streun of Ozona, brother of the groom and Chris Johnson of Austin, formerly of Hereford.

Guests were seated by Brandon Pinson of Midland and Mike Bowen of Austin.

Candle lighter was Allison Turner, daughter of Mark and Cynthia Turner of Idalou.

Ring bearer was Brent Turner, son of Mark and Cynthia Turner.

Train bearers were Jordan Streun, son of Kyle and Jennifer Streun of Olton, and Hunter Streun, son of Jeff and Becky Streun of Ozona.

Organist/pianist was Owen Griffin and trumpeter was Mandi McCaslin. Griffen was also a vocalist, as were Dwight Crain, brother-in-law of the bride, and Gene Streun, uncle of the groom.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal, two-piece gown in tea light satin. The beaded bodice was fashioned in a sleeveless, off-the-shoulder style. Pale pink beads accented the hemline of the skirt.

The veil, designed by the mother of the bride, was attached to a braided satin headband.

The bridal bouquet was fashioned by the bride and contained pink roses accented with fern baby's breath and a tulle bow.

The bride's wedding band was worn by her late maternal grandmother.

Bridal attendants wore tea length dresses of soft pink brocade with a mock jacket that was beaded and embroidered.

They carried bouquets of pink roses, also fashioned by the bride.

The couple was honored with a reception in the Friendship Hall of the church following the ceremony.

Those assisting were Bobbi Miller, Jenny Freeman, Marcella Grotez, Carolyn Waters, Lisa Lowder and Judy Benson.

During the reception, Bob Miller played a medley of love songs on the saxophone.

The bride's four tier strawberry flavored cake was frosted in a basket weave design and decorated with fresh pink roses, fern and baby's breath between the tiers.

The groom's deep chocolate cake was frosted in a basket weave design and topped with fresh strawberries and dark and white chocolate dipped strawberries.

After a wedding trip to St. John's and Puerto Rico, the couple is at home in Austin.

The bride graduated from Belin, N.M. High School. She received a bachelor of arts in elementary education and a master of science in counseling and psychology from New Mexico State University. She received a master of arts in education administration from Southwest Texas State University. She is currently employed by Hayes Independent School District as assistant principal at Wallace Middle School.

The groom is a graduate of Hereford High School. He received a bachelor of business administration from West Texas A&M University and a master of science in finance from Texas Tech University. He is currently employed as an investment analyst for the Employee's Retirement System of Texas.

CREATORS SYNDICATE

Ann Landers

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 26-year-old professional woman, and I work at home. My computer was bought and is maintained by my company.

I recently hosted a family get-together. Several of my nieces and nephews attended, including my 12-year-old niece, "Sharon." When the younger kids became bored with the adult party, Sharon asked if she could use my computer to play some games. I agreed, figuring she was old enough to handle it herself.

The next day, I logged on to my computer and noticed that there were several web sites that had been accessed, apparently by Sharon. I did some investigating, and discovered she had accessed a site with graphic pornographic pictures and stories of an explicit sexual nature. Normally, Sharon would be unable to visit these sites, but my computer does not have blocking software, and she had no trouble at all.

I have no idea how to handle this. Sharon's mother is in her 50s, and while I would not say she is square, I don't think she realizes how much kids know these days. Also, I'm sure it would destroy my relationship with Sharon if I betray her by telling her parents that she is looking at pornography on the computer. An additional problem is that my computer is supposed to be for business use only. Our company policy expressly prohibits use of the Internet for anything personal, and I fear a reprisal from my employer. Please tell me the best way to handle this tricky situation. — Aunt in Omaha, Neb.

Dear Omaha Aunt: Keep your lip zipped. Don't tell Sharon's mother "how much kids know these days." Apparently, Sharon is knowledgeable about accessing all sorts of material online, but the next time she asks to use your computer, say, "Sorry, but my computer is for business use only." If your employer asks about this incident, explain it honestly, and hope for the best.

While there is a great deal of worthwhile information available online, there is also a lot of garbage. Parents should establish strict rules regarding computer use, and impose severe penalties if those rules are not obeyed. They should also install blocking software, if necessary, to keep their kids from accessing inappropriate sites.

Dear Ann Landers: I read "Why I Fired My Secretary," which appeared on Secretary's Day. It was about a guy who thought his family forgot his birthday, and was feeling unappreciated. His wonderful secretary remembered, however, and took him out for lunch. She then brought him to her apartment, turned down the lights, and went to "change into something more comfortable." When she came back into the room with a surprise birthday cake, along with his wife and kids, all he had on were his socks.

This column stirred quite a debate in our office. We wanted to know what became of the man. Was he already having an affair with the secretary, or was this just his way of getting even with his family for ignoring his birthday? The men in our department think he was set up by his wife, and the women think the secretary was getting her revenge because he ended their previous affair. What do you say, Ann? — The Office Staff in Richmond, Va.

Dear Staff: Interesting conclusions, but I don't agree with any of the above. I believe when the secretary went to get the cake, the boss impulsively decided to go for broke, and took off all his clothes. Little did he know that his wife and kids would be part of the birthday surprise. I have always said surprise parties can be disastrous, and this proves it.

MINDING YOUR OWN BUSINESS

Don Taylor

Having More Fun and Getting More Done

Your dream was to own your own business, and now you do. Your dream was to be your own boss, and now you are. Your dream was to work fewer hours and have more leisure time, but now reality is setting in. You've already worked more than 50 hours this week. You wanted to spend Saturday with your family, but you really need to tackle all those things you've been putting off. Just this once, family time will have to wait while you go in and get caught up. If this sounds familiar, maybe it's time to make a few changes. Changes that can help you enjoy your work more, lower your stress level and get more accomplished. Here are some ways to have more fun and get more done.

- Working smarter, not harder
... Realize that you can't do it all. This is a key to reducing the stress that kills productivity. If you find yourself staying awake nights feeling guilty about all of the things you didn't get done, you aren't being selective enough in choosing what you do.
No one has ever gotten it all done, so don't feel guilty about letting some things fall by the wayside. Stay focused on your priorities. Do only those most important tasks.
- Plan and prioritize. From time to time we all get distracted from the important by the urgent. To avoid this trap, plan and prioritize your work. Divide your work into "must do," "need to do," and "want to do."
- These questions may help you establish your priorities: 1) What work will produce the most results in the shortest time? 2) What work will help me achieve my long-term goals the quickest? 3) If I don't do this task today, what are the consequences?
- Work at a steady pace. The old fable describing the race between the tortoise and the hare is really very true. You'll get more done if you find a comfortable pace of work and stay at it.
I divide my work into bite size chunks. I promise myself a little break when I finish a portion. That often helps me stay with a project a little longer.

...Knew when you do your best work. I recently visited with a young college student who told me she was taking a 7:30 a.m. summer class because that was when she was most alert.
The early part of the day is also when I perform at the highest level. I take on the most challenging tasks when I'm at my peak. Your day may really get started at noon. It doesn't matter as long as you don't waste your peak time on routine phone calls, paper work or follow-up.
...Save some time for yourself. I don't care how full of energy you may be, you still need some time to recharge your batteries. How you recharge will vary from person to person. For example, I work with people all day long. When I recharge, I prefer to be alone. I may go for a motorcycle ride, work in my shop or read a book.
A computer programmer, who spends all of his or her time in a cubicle writing lines of code, may wish to mingle with friends. What you do is up to you, just make time for it.
...Have some fun. You get to choose whether your work is a vocation or a vacation. Most successful people enjoy most of their work. Look for things to laugh about, share a cartoon or funny story. Fill your office with your favorite things. Bring your own music if it makes you feel better. Keep it soft. You don't want to infringe on the rights of others.

SOME BOOKS WORTH READING

Between the Covers

Martha Russell
Deaf Smith County Library

On the new nonfiction shelf this week is a veritable self-sufficient-living kit. First you must read Creating Retirement Income by Virginia B. Morris so that you can finance your venture. This book is said to be a comprehensive yet easy-to-understand guide which tells you how to build a solid investment portfolio, strengthen your cash flow, and create sources of lifetime income. Sounds good, especially if your wilderness survival skills are somewhat underdeveloped and you might need a financial cushion to help you through that first winter.

If you are going to bid civilization goodbye, you need to decide where you are going. National Geographic's Yellowstone to Yukon will give you a look at the vast region which runs from the U.S. to northern Canada, encompassing almost 500,000 square miles, including 11 major national parks as well as scores of state and provincial parks, national forest, wilderness areas, wildlife refuges, grizzlies, bighorns, elk, moose, and more. This area also has an expanding human presence as city dwellers succumb to its beauty. Gorgeous photographs typical of National Geographic will tantalize and tease your imagination.

However, you might not want to go to the snow country, especially after you read The White Death by McKay Jenkins. Jenkins unfolds a gripping natural history of avalanches, framed by the story of one of the worst avalanche disasters in mountaineering history. The day after Christmas 1969, five robust young men set out to climb the imposing north face of Mount Cleveland in Glacier National Park. The mountain was to become a memorial for the boys. After they failed to return to their families, an aerial search found the boys' tracks dead-ending at the jagged edge of a colossal avalanche.

Wherever you set out to "pioneer," you'll need Storey's Basic Country Skills: A Practical Guide to Self-Reliance by John and Martha Storey. Whether it's making ice cream or sharpening an ax, cleaning a chimney or growing raspberries, it's covered in this book. Illustrated step-by-step instructions will show you how to milk a cow, tap a maple tree, clean a fish, lead a horse, and build the best chicken coop. You'll find out how to heat your house with wood or by the sun and how to de-skunk a dog. You'll learn the proper way to put in a water system, rewire an old house, stack a cord of wood, and grow fruits, vegetables, and herbs.

In thumbing through the book, I did happen to see one thing with which I take exception. In the chapter that instructs you on how to choose your pets for life in the country, it includes some pointers on caring for your hairy friends. Vaccinations, collars with name tags, flea and tick inspections, and adequate food, water, and shelter are all important to pet health. However, whoever suggested a coat or sweater for the dog in cold weather has never really lived "in the country" with an active canine. Our Starr, robust black Labrador Retriever that she is, would be highly insulted if we tried to put some such sissy thing on her! Must have been some "city boy" who suggested that idea!

Dressing and Cooking Wild Game is the complete guide to field dressing and preparing great-tasting big game, small game, upland birds and waterfowl. With more than 370 color photographs, step-by-step directions, and valuable nutritional information, this book claims to teach you "how to make your wild game dishes as memorable as the hunts that made them possible." Who could resist southern fried squirrel or moose steak Diane? Oh, boy! I'm afraid if I tried to rough-it too long, I might wind up a vegetarian.

If you're planning a really remote homestead, a long way from Wal-Mart, or you just get a buzz out of making the necessities of life with your own hands, you'll find that Soapmaking for Fun & Profit by Maria Given Nerius provides the information and instructions you'll need to get started on some good clean fun, creating soap from scratch. It also includes a good deal of information about the different ingredients and additives you can use to personalize your soap. Again, the step-by-step instructions were carefully written and are easy to follow.

The final essential (maybe it should have been the first) is the family outhouse. What? No indoor plumbing? Remember, you are escaping all that stress of civilization! No more lying awake at night listening to the commode run, or being rudely awakened when another member of the family must flush in the middle of the night, or madly dashing to grab towels because the ornery thing decided to overflow. And, no more scrubbing, even without that new spray that promises you will never be in that position again.

The Vanishing American Outhouse by Thomas Harding not only give you plans and instructions (step-by-step, of course) for building and maintaining a privy, but they also take you on a nostalgic trip of historic research into the world before indoor plumbing. Poems, photographs, essays, first-person anecdotes, and serious research will give you all the information you need, as well as a few chuckles along the way.

Now, when you get all of the above read and accomplished, you might need The Back Pain Bible by Anthony J. Cichoke, D.C. Self-sufficient-living is not for sissies!

Dr. Cichoke outlines a five-step (step-by-step again!) program to alleviate back pain through stress relief, detoxification, diet, supplements, and exercise. It's my guess that the good Doctor's program is not for sissies either. But he claims to be able to teach you how to return your body to harmony with out drugs or surgery. It's worth a look-see.

Now, you should be thoroughly equipped to live on your own. Maybe you need to try to get on one of those television programs where, if you survive the ordeal, you get the million dollars. Do you think it's worth it?

Of course, an alternative to physically running away from civilization is to mentally retreat with a good novel. New ones available this week are:

He Shall Thunder In The Sky, a new Amelia Peabody

mystery from Elizabeth Peters; Agatha Raisin and Witch of Wyckhadden by M.C. Beaton;

Yesterday's Shadows, a Christian mystery by Lee Roddy; The Quiet Invasion, science fiction by Sarah Zettel;

Name Dropping by Jane Heller;

Ani's Ghost by Michael Ondaatje;

Horse Heaven by Jane Smiley;

Legend of the Celtic Stone by Michael Phillips.

FARM & RANCH

HEREFORD BRAND • Saturday, July 8, 2000 • B5

FAVORED FARMERS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Take a bankrupt seed company and add 14,000 troubled farmers and an election-year Congress mindful of their votes. It totals up to $35 million worth of no-interest loans from the federal government.

All part of the process in Congress, where lawmakers, Republican and Democrat, recently seized on a crop insurance bill to send $7.1 billion in aid to the economically distressed Farm Belt.

Some of the funds are targeted narrowly at favored constituencies, ranging from sheep and angora goat ranchers to tobacco farmers and cotton growers and ginners. Millions more are set aside for research on items as diverse as livestock waste streams and plant genetics, much of it directed to the states of lawmakers who wrote the bill.

"The cost of agriculture just doesn't seem to stop," grumbled Sen. Connie Mack of Florida, one of only four lawmakers — all Republicans — who opposed the bill when it sailed through the House and Senate.

"I could go on and on and on" about the problems in the bill, said Sen. Don Nickles, R-Okla., the Senate GOP whip. Among the items he cited disapprovingly is $14 million to complete construction of an ethanol research pilot plant at Southern Illinois University, money inserted at the behest of House Speaker Dennis Hastert, R-Ill.

Sen. Larry Craig, R-Idaho, was point man on the effort to arrange no-interest loans for farmers who are creditors of AgriBioTech, a seed company headquartered in Henderson, Nev., that filed Chapter 11 papers earlier this year.

Aides to Craig say he contacted the Department of Agriculture, where officials said they lacked authority to loan money to the affected farmers. The solution: a provision making $35 million available for no-interest loans good for 18 months. If the bankruptcy proceedings aren't settled by then, the farmers will become eligible for the USDA loans currently denied them.

The loans are to be repaid from the proceeds farmers receive from the bankruptcy settlement. In an interview, Craig said no farmers can receive a loan for more than 65 percent of the money they are owed.

He said his message to the 14,000 farmers involved — many of them in Idaho and Oregon — was: "I'm willing to provide you some money short term. But I'm also willing to say that business is business. You're in bankruptcy court."

An $8.2 billion crop insurance bill was months in the making, with the decision to add the $7.1 billion in economic assistance made shortly before final passage. The $7.1 billion was already in the budget — the third year in a row Congress has helped farmers recover from low prices. With the end of the congressional session approaching, lawmakers needed a legislative engine to carry provisions that might otherwise fail to make it to President Clinton's desk.

To move it quickly, the lawmakers behind the measure made sure there were no public hearings or drafting sessions, and no amendments permitted in either the House or Senate when the bill came up for a vote.

Despite scattered grumbling, the bill sailed through Congress, passing by voice vote in the House, and by 91-4 in the Senate.

The biggest item, $5.5 billion, will give farmers an additional subsidy payment under a formula established in 1996 legislation designed to phase out such support to many of them.

Rep. Charles Stenholm, D-Texas, and other lawmakers noted that meant some farmers would be able to "receive a payment without demonstrating real need. I strongly believe that more fully funding the disaster payments would have been a better method for directing these funds to agriculture producers," he said in floor debate.

At the same time, Stenholm, the senior Democrat on the House Agriculture Committee, and others

Troubles in U.S. agriculture, election year combine to bring big bucks to some lawmakers' most-favored constituencies

I strongly believe that more fully funding the disaster payments would have been a better method for directing these funds to agriculture producers," he said in floor debate.

At the same time, Stenholm, the senior Democrat on the House Agriculture Committee, and others made sure that wool and mohair producers received $11 million in federal assistance. It marks the first direct payments for sheep and angora goat ranchers since Congress ordered their federal subsidy phased out in 1993.

Tobacco farmers, helped by Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., are in line for $340 million, despite an early 1980s law that says support of their crop is required to have no net cost to the government.

Sen. Thad Cochran, R-Miss., saw to it that $100 million was made available for cotton growers or ginners to offset the impact of depressed prices on ginning. The money effectively extends a subsidy he helped inaugurate a year ago.

Honey producers will qualify for loans for the third year in a row, even though Congress ordered that program ended too.

In addition to such items aimed at easing the burden of low farm prices, the bill is also salted with projects for key lawmakers:

• Sen. Pat Roberts, R-Kansas, won $15 million for carbon cycle research designed to address the problem of greenhouse gases. The money will go to Kansas State University and several land grant universities — most of them in the states of lawmakers involved in the negotiations on the bill.

• Sen. Pete Domenici, R-N.M., won $3 million to establish a plant genetics research facility in Santa Fe.

• Rep. Tom Ewing, R-Ill., wanted $3.5 for research into addressing pollution problems associated with waste streams produced by livestock.

DENNIS HASTERT
House speaker inserted $14 million to complete construction of an ethanol research pilot plant at Southern Illinois University.

Kansas wheat quality falling

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — The quality of Kansas wheat is slowly dropping, state officials report.

Less than half of this year's Kansas winter wheat crop was good enough for a No. 1 grading, the highest ranking for milling quality wheat, the Kansas Agricultural Statistics Service said Thursday.

Each weekly report of sampling by the Kansas Grain Inspection Service paints an increasingly dismal picture of this year's winter wheat harvest.

Only 48 percent of the Kansas crop graded as No. 1 wheat. Another 46 percent graded as No. 2 wheat. About 6 percent graded as No. 3 or below.

New zoo exhibit provides glimpse into the harsh realities of farming

APPLE VALLEY, Minn. (AP) — The Minnesota Zoo's newest exhibit introduces visitors to the harsh realities of family farming, complete with cloned animals, cattle locked up in tiny pens and the inevitable end, the slaughterhouse.

The $4.3 million Wells Fargo Family Farm is aimed toward reintroducing Minnesotans to farming — and to the controversial issues that sometimes surround it.

"Without doubt, people are going to be upset with some of what they see," said Jim Streater, who is in charge of the zoo's biological programs.

That's intentional. When the Children's Zoo closed in 1994, plans to construct an idyllic "Old MacDonald" farm with child-friendly animals gradually matured to a more realistic portrayal of farming, Streater said.

"In Old MacDonald's farm nothing ever dies," he said. "Real farming is about birth, nurtured life and death."

So along with friendly goats that children have fed at the zoo's "My Backyard" exhibit for years, the zoo farm will feature rare breeds, cutting-edge technology and a large dose of reality.

By letting visitors see a sow restrained to a constricting farrowing pen and cloned heifers racing each other across open fields, zoo officials hope agricultural issues will become less abstract to many Minnesotans long divorced from the land.

"We often take for granted the things that used to be most familiar," said Lars Erdahl, who directs the zoo's education programs. "What we're trying to do is not advocate for a certain position, but show people what our source of food is."

When zoo officials met with Twin Cities-area schoolchildren several years ago while planning the farm, they found many had a "grocery-store mentality," and didn't connect neatly packaged foods with farm animals like calves or chicks.

"This is our first opportunity to talk about death at the zoo," said Kim Thomas, who managed the zoo farm project.

Many animals born and raised at the zoo farm will be sold to slaughterhouses. And with displays in every barn and pen that show what products come from each animal, the reality of a working farm will not be hidden from visitors.

Of course, accommodating 1 million visitors annually has required concessions.

To keep the exhibit aromatic, some of agriculture's traditional byproducts will be carefully monitored.

"When poop hits the ground, somebody shovels it right up," Streater said. Until the zoo builds an onsite composting facility for the farm, a dump truck full of manure will be hauled out of the farm daily.

Writing Want Ads that really sell!
Unsure how to write a Classified Ad that will get results? Follow these pointers and you'll soon have an empty space in your storage room and cash in your pocket.
For starters, look at ads which offer the same item/products. Get a sense of going rates and ideas for how to make your ad stand out. Once you're ready to write, begin with exactly what you're selling: "Dining room set, maple, six chairs."
Then remember these hints:
• Give the price. A newspaper consultant says 70 percent of words for a car are make, model, year, body style, color, mileage and price. If it's a house, key words are location, type of construction, number of bedrooms and baths, and condition.
• Don't use abbreviations. It's tempting to abbreviate and save money if ads are billed by the line. Brand ads are billed by the words, so spell them out so readers won't be confused trying to figure out abbreviations.
• Don't be misleading. Think accurate and factual when you write. Be sure to include a phone number and the best times to reach

Graceful Living

FEATURE HOMES

© BY W.D. FARMER, F.A.I.B.D.

Encapsulated in this home are custom details that pair picturesque character with an exciting floor plan.

Entrance is from a wide covered porch with a recessed door area. The foyer is flanked by the formal areas of the home. Both the living and dining room include a tray ceiling and are divided from the foyer by columns.

Continuing back the family room blends with the kitchen breakfast room. The kitchen includes an island counter and the sink overlooks a snack bar and out to the terrace. Adjacent to the breakfast room are stairs up to the bonus room over the garage, stairs down to the basement and an enormous walk in closet which can be used as a pantry, storage closet or out of season clothes storage.

The laundry room is a real delight with additional storage space in a walk in closet, abundant cabinets and a laundry tub. Outside access is indicated as well, and a half bath is convenient for guests as well as kids outside playing.

The exterior is a combination of style, grace and quality of details created by gable roof lines combined with stone and horizontal siding. All W.D. Farmer plans include construction details for substituting brick, frame or stucco exterior finish.

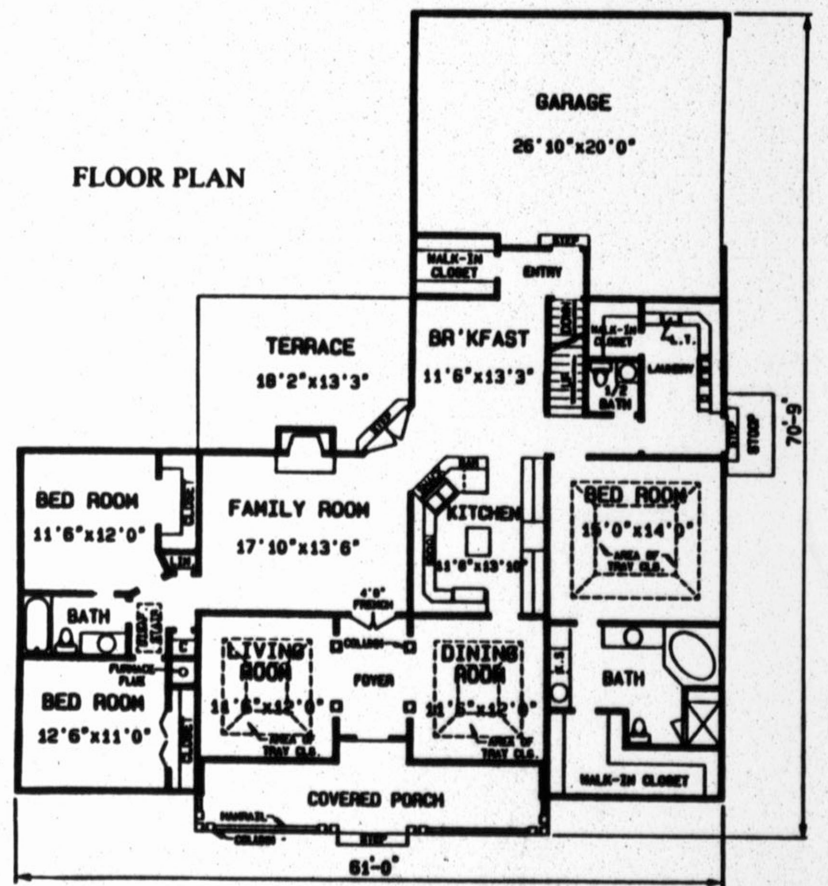

Plan number 2186 includes 2,151 square feet of heated space and 475 square feet of space in the bonus room. The basement is under the entire heated space in the house.

To receive an information packet on our plans, call W. D. Farmer Residence Designer, Inc. at 1-800-225-7526 or 1-800-221-7526 in Georgia. You can write to request the information at P. O. Box 450025, Atlanta, GA 31145. Visit our Web site: www.wdfarmerplans.com.

Secrets lurk at heart of WB's new Young Americans

Newcomers Rodney Scott, Kate Bosworth, Mark Famiglietti, Ian Somerhalder and Katherine Moennig (clockwise from top) are the principal players in Young Americans, a new drama series premiering Wednesday on The WB Network. The show is set in and around a prestigious New England boarding school.

©TVData Features Syndicate

Summer school officially starts this week for the students of Rawley Academy as Young Americans premieres Wednesday, July 12, on The WB Network.

While series creator and executive producer Steven Antin (Inside Monkey Zetterling) never envisioned this ensemble drama as a Dawson's Creek spinoff, the character of Will Krudski (Rodney Scott) was introduced on Creek last season as a friend of Pacey Witter's (Joshua Jackson).

As the new series opens, an elated Will arrives at exclusive Rawley Academy, where he has won a scholarship — and, he hopes, a ticket out of the blue-collar home he shares with a browbeaten mother and abusive father.

His roommate, Scout Calhoun (Mark Famiglietti), is a Kennedyesque charmer who quickly befriends Will and falls for lovely townie Bella Banks (Kate Bosworth), whose overprotective father owns a gas station.

"I wanted to tell a story about star-crossed lovers, a kind of Peyton Place in high school," Antin says. "I was driving through Maine and pulled into this gas station with all these 16-year-old girls working there during the summer. One of them told me her dad owned the place. And I thought, 'Wow, this is so cute.'"

"Then two boys pulled up in a BMW, and I thought, 'No, this is a show: towns vs. gowns, local girls and guys from the prep school down the road.'"

The Peyton Place analogy is telling, because even in the premiere episode, several secrets rear their heads. Will, we learn, cheated on his entrance exam, desperate to escape his father's violent rages. Scout and Bella are rushing headlong into passion until they come up against a startling secret that stands between them. And another boy at the school, reclusive outsider Jake Pratt (Katherine Moennig), has a jumbo-sized secret of his own, although the viewer quickly is tipped to the fact that he is a she.

The students at Rawley are mentored by Finn (Ed Quinn), an idealistic teacher who is also a bit of a rogue.

"At heart, Finn really does care about these students," Antin says, "but if he is too Yoda-like, just standing around dispensing wisdom, that can get tiresome. I wanted to create this character who has a real lust for life and loves being a teacher. He feels this incredible connection with his students."

"But we're also left to wonder: If this guy had so much potential as a young person, why hasn't he moved on with his own life instead of staying here and teaching at this small school?"

It's hard to tell whether Young Americans will grow into a Dawson-sized hit, but it is very smartly cast. Scott radiates middle American decency, while Famiglietti, if anything, needs to tone down his dazzling smile. Bosworth is authentically stunning, fresh-faced and natural in the same way that Katie Holmes captured viewers when Creek premiered.

Moennig tries hard but probably no actress her age could completely pull off this outrageous character. Most viewers will peg Jake as a girl from "his" first appearance, and the failure of the other students — especially dean's son Hamilton Fleming (Ian Somerhalder), who is Jake's closest friend — to notice is jarring. Antin admits he is pushing the envelope with this story line, and says some of the regulars will, in fact, become co-conspirators in Jake's cross-dressing masquerade in weeks to come.

In most other respects, however, Young Americans is far from a drag.

SOAP TALK

Soap veteran Mann plays Rae's man on OLTL

By Candace Havens

For several months, Rae Cummings (Linda Dano) has been talking about her missing man on One Life to Live. Now viewers will finally be able to put a face with the name.

Terrence Mann, who had roles on All My Children, Another World and As the World Turns, has signed on to play the recurring role of Daniel Faulkner on OLTL.

Fans of General Hospital can breathe a collective sigh of relief. Rebecca Herbst (Elizabeth Webber) has signed a new deal with the daytime soap. She'll be around for at least three more years.

The big news on the set of Guiding Light was the July 5 departure of Maeve Kincaid from the role of Vanessa Chamberlain Reardon. After more than 20 years with the daytime serial, Kincaid left to spend more time with her family and work in the theater.

"It's never easy to say goodbye, but at this point in my life it just feels right," she says.

Dear Candace: On the daytime soap All My Children, are the roles of Adam and Stuart Chandler played by the same actor?—Edward Koch, Hilliard, Ohio.

Dear Reader: Your question is a testament to the talents of David Canary, who plays both roles. He does such a fantastic job that it is difficult to believe it is the same person.

Dear Candace: What ever happened to John Black's (Drake Hogestyn) son Brady on Days of Our Lives? I haven't seen or heard anything about him since he and Belle Black (Kirsten Storms) were toddlers.—J.B., West Virginia.

Dear Reader: There were discussions about bringing the character back not long after Belle was aged, but it hasn't happened yet.

Dear Candace: Producers of General Hospital dedicated a recent episode to the memory of Kimberly Ann Robinson. Can you please tell me who she was?—Betty, Lake Havasu City, Ariz.

Dear Reader: According to Wendy Riche, executive producer of GH, Robinson was "a dear member of the GH family who served as a grip on our night crew and will always remain a friend in our hearts. She will be terribly missed."
