Commission approves Sunday dancing

By GARRY WESNER
Managing Editor

Dancing on Sundays will be allowed starting this week thanks to a new city ordinance passed Monday night that revokes a nearly 40-year-old ban on such activity.

City Commissioners voted 6-1 to enact the ordinance, which completely eliminates a section of the Hereford Code of Ordinances that was passed on Aug. 6, 1956, which banned all dancing in the city and within 5,000 feet of the city limits on Sundays.

Proponents of Sunday dancing said the ban took dollars out of Hereford and put possibly intoxicated people on the highways, driving back from dances in Amarillo, Dimmitt and Muleshoe.

Rumaldo Garcia originally requested the action at the Commission's Feb. 6 meeting.

A standing room only crowd appeared at the commission meeting Monday, many of them on hand for the dancing vote.

An informal count of the audience showed 47 people in attendance in the gallery, which has seating for 21. However, several of those people were present for a later agenda item.

Garcia reiterated his request and presented a petition with 600 signatures of residents he said favored the repeal.

Because dancers must drive to other towns on Sunday, Garcia said, "We're just losing all that money going elsewhere."

While most of the people who spoke were in favor of the ban, a few said they opposed it.

Martha Rincon said she did not support or oppose the issue, but voiced several questions -- "How's it going to affect our youth, since we've just adopted the curfew?"

In addition, Mrs. Rincon said, "This is a well religious-oriented community... for me a Sunday is very special," because it is family-oriented.

Mayor Bob Josserand responded to Mrs. Rincon's comments about the effects of repealing the ban on law enforcement by saying Chief David Wagner "does not have a concern with repealing the ordinance. He does not feel it will cause him any special concern."

Teresa Brown was one of those who opposed lifting the ban.

"One reason we were happy to make this our home is we felt like it was a little more moral place," she said. "We choose to keep the Sabbath holy for ourselves."

Mrs. Brown said the vote should be against. "If we have a chance to stand up for righteousness, let's do it."

Melissa Solis, wife of private club owner Joe Solis Jr., said having a religious faith and dancing on Sunday are not mutually exclusive of one another.

"I'm still going to be religious even if I'm able to go dance on Sunday," she said. "Some people say if you dance on Sunday it's bad for Jesus, but it's not."

She also addressed comments about Sunday dancers who also get drunk.

"Not all people go to dances to drink, may be to get drunk," she said. "I go to dances to dance, because it's my culture."

Grace Cepeda, a mother of teenage kids, said parents will pick up their kids from dances to keep them from driving on city streets if they're impaired by alcohol, while Bertha Theodore said, "I would prefer to have my kids in town and have a place of their own rather than go to Amarillo."

"It is their choice. We are taxpayers and we have a choice," she continued, adding that if young people are here to dance, their parents can moderate their drinking, something that could not be done in another town.

Commissioner Carey Black said he noticed that 80 percent of the supporters of lifting the ban mentioned keeping drunken drivers in Hereford.

He said he would like to see commissioners and dance proponents "work together on controlling the alcohol. I'm not any more excited about them being drunk in Hereford" as having them on area highways.

The public meeting portion of the session lasted about 20 minutes.

Commissioners were asked for their comments before the vote was taken.

In opposing the vote Commissioner Dennis Hicks -- taking his last action after resigning from the commission -- said, "I do feel it is a moral discussion here... I do feel the opportunities are there for people to dance."

The final vote was 6-1 with Hick opposing the measure.

Josserand told Garcia after the public meeting that the ordinance takes effect immediately.

Josserand also thanked the speakers for coming out to the council meeting and for taking the time to speak out on an issue about which they have strong opinions.

Pushing for the right to dance

Rumaldo Garcia, standing at podium, makes his case for Sunday dancing to Hereford City Commissioners Monday night. Garcia and dance proponents won the right to dance when commissioners voted 6-1 to rescind a 1956 ordinance banning such activity. Watching Garcia was a capacity crowd that filled the council chambers for the discussion and later council business.

Hicks, Cockrum honored by city

By GARRY WESNER
Managing Editor

On a night when dancing was the hot topic, Hereford city commissioners also were able to turn their attention to some other business Monday, including saying goodbye to one of their peers and a longtime city employee.

Mayor Bob Josserand said saying farewell was "something that brings me a lot of sadness on one hand and a lot of joy on the other."

The mayor honored Commissioner Dennis Hicks, who had resigned at the Feb. 6 meeting, but who attended Monday's session long enough to vote on repealing the city's ban on Sunday dancing.

Hicks cited his 12-year-old daughter's health as his reason for resigning.

Josserand said a plaque that was ordered for Hicks did not come in on time, but thanked the commissioner for his service.

Action on a replacement for Hicks was deferred from Monday to a work session next week because Josserand said he wanted to give the public ample opportunity to apply for the spot.

As of Monday, two men, Scott Hall and Steve Johnson, had expressed interest in Hicks' seat.

Josserand said anyone interested in applying is urged to contact City Hall and make their interest known.

He said the person appointed does not have to file for election to a full term, but if that individual wants to serve beyond the May election, he or she would have to run for office.

Also honored at Monday's meeting was Herbert Cockrum, who is retiring after 31 years of working for the city health department.

Josserand presented Cockrum with a gold watch, commenting that Cockrum was so dedicated to his job that in the 28 years the city has kept such records, the man only took 31 days of sick leave.

Three outgoing volunteer committee members were also honored with plaques -- Golf Course Advisory Board members James Salinas, who was not present, and David Workman and Planning and Zoning Commission member Mauri Montgomery.

In regular board action, commissioners voted to allow two out-of-city residents to connect to city water.

Josserand said Dwaine and Theresa Schwager and Panhandle Fluid Process Inc., both located in the area of Holly Sugar Road, need to be on city water because a prior water source -- a well at a nearby business that is now closed -- has become unreliable because the well is no longer maintained.

The mayor said the standard conditions for attaching a customer to the city water system is for the customer to pay 1-1/2 times the regular water rate and for the customer to pay all hook-up costs.

Because there is an existing water main near the two customers, Josserand said, "it's really not a major imposition on anybody to connect to it."

The requests were approved unanimously.

Following completion of the regular meeting agenda, Josserand told commissioners and those present that a survey mailed out Friday and appearing in Sunday's Hereford Brand had already generated 15 responses Monday.

The survey seeks public input regarding priorities for the city and comments on city government.

Whitehead, opponents offer views on Treasury measure

By PAULINE ARRILLAGA
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) - Consolidating the state Treasury with the comptroller's office could overload the latter agency and eliminate safeguards against abuse, opponents say.

The House State Affairs Committee is considering two proposed constitutional amendments to abolish the Treasury and transfer its duties to the state comptroller's office.

State Treasurer Martha Whitehead told the committee Monday that consolidating the agencies would eliminate a duplication of services and save the state $8 million annually.

"Government in Texas needs to be smaller, it needs to be more efficient, more effective and can be done by the consolidation of the things that we do," said Mrs. Whitehead, a Democrat who campaigned last year on doing away with her job. "The people of Texas want smaller government. That's why I was elected."

But Mrs. Whitehead's Republican opponent, David Hartman, said combining the agencies would eliminate safeguards such as checks and balances.

"The fact is that the reason for separating cash handling from accounting is you can spot the possibility for misappropriation and embezzlement," Hartman said. "We need to see they're enforced."

The Treasury, in existence since the Texas Constitution was drafted more than 100 years ago, has four primary functions: investments, cash management, overseeing unclaimed property and administration of cigarette and tobacco taxes.

Its annual budget is about $11 million; Mrs. Whitehead said the comptroller's office could manage the same duties at a cost of about $3 million.

Under the proposals, voters would decide the issue either in November 1995 or November 1996. Changes to the state Constitution require two-thirds approval in both chambers of the Legislature and voter approval.

Christie claims grand champ steer honors in San Antonio

A Deaf Smith County youth shone in San Antonio last weekend as Colby Christie brought home top honors in the San Antonio Stock Show and Rodeo.

COLBY CHRISTIE

Christie won grand champion steer honors Friday night, capturing top honors over 14 breed champions.

Christie, 17, is a member of Hereford FFA at Hereford High School. He and his family live in Summerfield.

Christie entered the championship drive as champion of the Maine-Anjou breed. He was named top in that breed, beating 116 other competitors.

Christie also showed the Five-County/County champion steer at last month's Hereford Young Farmers Junior Livestock Show.

It was not known if the steer which won on Friday in San Antonio was the same animal which won here.

Christie's 1,265-pound steer named "Kahuna" was proclaimed top of the show by judge Chris Skaggs.

The animal went up for auction on Saturday and brought $66,000. The purchaser of the animal was not known.

Combest offers amendment on Arkansas Shiner

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - A Lubbock congressman has authored an amendment that he hopes will keep a 2-inch minnow from being labeled an endangered species.

U.S. Rep. Larry Combest believes granting the Arkansas River Shiner a protected status would pose a serious threat to the region's water supply because it could limit the amount of water cities and farmers could use.

"The federal government could be controlling and preventing what we can do with our own water supply," Combest, R-Lubbock, said Monday at Lubbock's Water Reclamation Plant.

U.S. Fish and Wildlife officials say the minnow has been wiped out of 80 percent of its historic habitat.

Fighting the fire

Hereford volunteer firefighters Chad Kriegshauser and Michael Kitten direct a spray of water to a burning shed during action on Monday. Firefighters were called out to the property 10 miles west on U.S. 60 -- which is owned by Vicki Betty Sears -- at 4:41 p.m. when weeds, trash and a shed caught fire. ## Honored for city service

Mayor Bob Josserand, second from left, presents a gold watch to retiring city employee Herbert Cochran during Monday's City Commission meeting. Cochran was honored for 31 years of service to the city. Also honored was outgoing City Commissioner Dennis Hicks, by Cochran, who stepped down for personal reasons. Mauri Montgomery, left, was given a plaque for his service on the city Planning and Zoning Commission, while David Workman, right, was honored as an outgoing member of the Gold Course Advisory Board as president of the Men's Golf Association. Not shown is James Salinas, who also was honored for his service on the Golf Course Advisory Board.

Hawkins finally executed, 18 years after being convicted

By MICHAEL GRACZYK
Associated Press Writer
HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) - Convicted killer and rapist Samuel Hawkins quietly was executed early today nearly 18 years after hacking to death a pregnant woman at her home in the Texas Panhandle.

Hawkins, 51, became the seventh convicted murderer to receive lethal injection in the state this year and the 92nd since Texas resumed carrying out the death penalty in 1982. The figures are the highest in the nation.

Hawkins had no final statement. Strapped to the death chamber gurney, he never acknowledged the presence of a son and sister standing just a few feet away.

He was pronounced dead at 12:21 a.m. CST, seven minutes after the lethal drugs began entering his arms.

Hawkins, a former meat cutter, was put to death for fatally slashing Abbe Hamilton May 3, 1977 at her home in Borger. He was convicted and sentenced to die for a second murder - the 1976 rape and bludgeoning of a 12-year-old Amarillo girl, Rhonda Keys, abducted from her home while she slept.

"I'm trying to make myself believe it's finally over," Sandra Rodgers, whose daughter, Abbe, was among Hawkins' victims. "Maybe now we can settle down and have some peace. All we ever wanted was justice for Abbe. Now that we have it, we can get on with our lives."

Hawkins confessed to using a hunting knife to kill Mrs. Hamilton, 19, who was six months pregnant at the time of her slaying. She was stabbed nearly 20 times and the wounds were so extensive she nearly was decapitated.

Hawkins said he was looking to rape someone and began checking doors of houses in Borger until he found one that was open.

He also was linked to as many as 40 rapes in Colorado, Oklahoma and Texas, offenses that earned him the nickname "the traveling rapist."

"I don't remember anyone being more richly deserving than him," said Tom Curtis, who prosecuted Hawkins for the Keys slaying. "I'm astonished it's taken this long. It's really amazing."

"Thank you Jesus," Rhonda Keys' mother, Patsey, said when told the execution had taken place. "It's all over. He's dead. It sets my mind at ease."

Hawkins represented himself in a number of his appeals, and his case languished while questions were raised about both his legal and mental competence.

Psychiatrists who interviewed Hawkins testified at his trial that Hawkins, who was black, had been instructed by his father that the best way to get back at whites was to attack white women. Hawkins said his childhood was marked by "abuse, violence, prejudice."

"I don't like what I did," Hawkins said in a recent interview. "You can't change yesterday. You can't do anything about it."

In a last-day appeal, his attorneys asked the U.S. Supreme Court to halt the execution, contending Hawkins talked to a state-appointed psychiatrist before his trial but wasn't warned that his conversations could be used against him. The high court rejected the appeal.

He spent nearly 18 years on death row in Texas, more time than any of the 92 Texas inmates executed by the state.

He also received a life sentence for the 1976 rape and beating of a 21-year-old Hereford housewife and served prison time in Colorado for rape and Oklahoma for burglary.

Child support payments hit record high

WASHINGTON (AP) - The federal government collected a record $703 million in delinquent child support by yanking the money out of the income tax refunds of parents who weren't paying, the Department of Health and Human Services reported today.

Nearly 1 million families benefited under what is known as the tax-offset program in 1993, HHS said. The year's collections were 13.6 percent higher than in 1992.

"When absent parents are not paying child support, we need to take every appropriate step - including seizing the tax refund, which the delinquent parent would otherwise receive," HHS Secretary Donna Shalala said.

Under the tax offset program, state child support enforcement agencies report the names of parents who owe child support and the overdue amount to the federal Administration for Children and Families.

The parents who owe child support are notified that their tax refunds will be withheld, but have the right to contest the action.

Parents whose children receive Aid to Families with Dependent Children and whose unpaid child support totals $150 or more may have their federal income tax refunds withheld. Refunds were withheld for more than 721,000 AFDC families in 1993.

For families not on welfare, the child support debt must be at least $500 before the income tax refund can be withheld.

Herd faces Canyon for playoff berth

The Hereford and Canyon boys basketball teams will meet tonight in Amarillo to see who goes into the state playoffs as the runner-up from District 1-4A.

The teams, which tied for second behind Pampa, play at 7:30 p.m. in Cal Farley Coliseum in the Amarillo Civic Center. The winner gets to play the winner of a bi-district game between El Paso High and Andrews.

Streaks are on the line for both teams. Canyon (23-5) made the playoffs six seasons in a row in Class 3A and is looking to continue that streak in its first year in Class 4A.

Meanwhile, Hereford (20-9) will try to break a streak of not making the playoffs; the Whitefaces have not made it since 1977.

This will be the third meeting of the teams. Each won on its own court during district play: Hereford won 79-

78 in overtime Jan. 3 in Hereford, then Canyon won 63-49 Jan. 27 in Canyon. That second game was tied 43-43 after three quarters.

Although Hereford coach Randy Dean acknowledges that the home-court was a difference in both games, he points to other deciding factors.

"I think the free throw shooting was possibly the biggest difference," he said. "The first time we played them, they missed their last three attempts in overtime. The second time we played them, they were 16-of-18 for the game."

There's not much a coach can do about that, but Dean hopes to do something about the fact that, in the Canyon win, Canyon outscored Hereford 42-9 in the post position.

"We're going to try to increase the defensive pressure, try to make it harder for their guards to get the ball to the post," he said. "On offense, we'll make a strong effort to get the ball inside and make them play defense in there."

Admission for the game will be $4 for adults and $2 for students.

Pampa, at 10-2 and 24-7 the champion of District 1-4A, awaits the winner of a bi-district game between El Paso Parkland (22-6) and Big Spring (12-20) tonight in Alpine.

Possible Major League replacement player?

Carey Black, Class of '73, makes the double-play pivot at second base as current Whiteface player Armando Zambrano (30) tries to break it up. The '95 team and a team of former players fought to a 10-10 tie in 10 innings in Saturday's Alumni Game at Whiteface Field.

1995 baseball team ties former players 10-10 in Alumni Game

A team of former Hereford baseball players dusted off their skills for the Alumni Game Saturday at Whiteface Field, giving the current Whiteface players a chance to polish their skills before today's season opener.

The Estacado Matadors come to Hereford for the first game of the season at 4 p.m.

On Saturday, the 1995 Herd shook off some early nerves and rallied twice to tie the game, and that's how it ended. The '95 team came up with four runs in the bottom of the ninth inning to tie at 9-9, then had to score again in the bottom of the tenth for a 10-10 final.

Armando Zambrano had the big hit for the '95 team, a two-run double which tied it in the ninth. In the top of the tenth, Chad Brummett's single drove home Rodney McCracken to make it 10-9, but in the bottom of the inning, Gabriel Guerrero knocked home Raymond Gonzalez to tie it again. The Alumni preserved the tie by throwing out Michael Marquez at the plate when he tried to score from third on a grounder to first.

"It was all about having fun and playing baseball," said Pete Rodriguez, who gets his head coaching debut today. Rodriguez also said the scrimmage was about "finding mistakes we need to work on, and there's no doubt we found some."

The Herd got some good batting practice, as the Alumni put a different pitcher on the mound nearly every inning. Rodriguez said he was impressed with the Alumni's pitching.

"They gave us a pretty good look," Rodriguez said. "They're a little older and haven't pitched in a long time, but they have so much talent, they could just step on the mound and throw strikes."

The game started out well for the '95 team, when shortstop Marquez went into the hole and threw out

Alumni leadoff man Russell Backus, who had done that himself to a few runners in the late '80s.

The Alumni got a run in the first when James Hernandez' sacrifice fly brought home Rodney McCracken. The '95 team answered when Zambrano scored on a delayed double steal.

The '95 team didn't score again until the fifth inning, while the Alumni slowly built a 7-1 lead.

In the third, Carey Black—Class of '73; the least recently graduated of the Alumni—smacked a two-run single, plating Tab Hathaway and Fidel Ceballos. The Alumni kept scoring two at a time: Jim Eric Andrews had a two-run single in the fourth, scoring Ray Hastings and Clint Cotten; Ralph Martinez slapped a two-run single in the fifth, plating Chris Brummett and Russ Watts. (All the players on the Alumni team were

Local wrestlers excel at state; Lusk takes 2nd

Several wrestlers from Hereford did well at the Texas State Wrestling Tournament held Friday and Saturday in Amarillo.

Matt Lusk took second in the state in the 12-under, 171-pound class.

Jeremiah Beltran placed third in the 15-under heavyweight (250 pounds) class. He also accumulated enough points during the year to be one of six named to the state honor roll.

Chris Rodriguez took fourth in the 9-under, 58-pound class, and Joseph Bustos was fifth in the 12-under, 85-pound class. Two Hereford wrestlers were sixth: Kris Kathy in the 15-under heavyweight division and Trey Lusk in the 10-under, 95-pound class.

The event was sanctioned by the Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) and the Texas Amateur Wrestling Association.

Levelland girls upend Canyon

The Levelland girls' basketball team knocked off No. 1 Canyon with a 39-36 overtime win Monday in Clovis, N.M.

Levelland, which held the No. 1 spot in the Texas Association of Basketball Coaches poll for much of the year, scored the only three points of overtime to improve to 32-2.

Canyon, the champion of Hereford's District 1-4A, finished the season at 27-2.

Levelland advances to the Region I-4A finals, where it will face the winner between Cleburne and 1-4A runner-up Randall. Those two play at 7:30 tonight in Altus, Okla.

Oklahoma knocks off temporarily No. 1 KU

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) - The No. 1 spot in college basketball has been treacherous ground this season, as Kansas found out in a hurry.

The Jayhawks were voted No. 1 by The Associated Press on Monday afternoon, becoming the fifth team to hold the spot. Then five hours later they were upset by No. 25 Oklahoma, 76-73.

"I talked to our kids about it (the ranking)," said coach Roy Williams, whose team also lost to Kansas State last year on the same day it became No. 1. "You guys promote that stuff more than we do. I don't think it had any effect on my team."

Williams preferred to give credit to Oklahoma, which ran its record to 14-0 at home.

In the only other game played Monday involving a Top 25 team, Georgetown upset No. 9 Villanova, 77-52.

The Sooners (20-6, 7-4 Big Eight) led by 13 twice in the first half and again by 13 early in the second half, then held together after Kansas rallied to take a six-point lead with 8:45 to play.

"We don't understand 'can't.' We don't understand 'won't,'" coach Kelvin Sampson said. "We just go out there and play our tails off, and that's what we did."

Down the stretch, it was Oklahoma that played more like the top-ranked team in the country. Kansas (20-4, 9-3) missed the front end of three 1-and-1s in the final 2:41, and didn't score at all after a follow by Raef LaFrentz gave the Jayhawks a 73-69 lead with 1:22 to go.

John Ontjes, who had 11 assists to go with 12 points, scored on a jumper in the lane with 1:08 remaining to get the Sooners within 73-71. After LaFrentz missed the front of a 1-and-1 with 1:00 to go, Ernie Abercrombie made a 3-pointer from the left corner to put the Sooners ahead 74-73 with 45 seconds left.

That shot alone should have been a sign it was Oklahoma's night. Abercrombie had taken just nine 3-pointers all season and made just three. He's more noted for rebounding - at just 6-foot-5, he led everyone with 10 rebounds Monday.

"It was just a moment in the game," he said. "I was open, we were down by two, and I hit it. That couldn't have been me out there."

Kansas had a chance to take the lead on the next possession, but Scot Pollard couldn't handle a pass, inside and the ball went out of bounds to Oklahoma.

Minor was fouled with 12 seconds left and made both ends of a 1-and-1 to make it 76-73. Jerod Haase tried a 3-pointer for Kansas with three seconds left, but it bounced off the rim and Ontjes grabbed the rebound as time expired.

Mad Magic blows out Bucks

By MIKE FLAM
Associated Press Writer

Eight Orlando Magic players scored in double figures to contribute to a record blowout.

The Chicago Bulls lost their game because, as a team, they couldn't score double figures in one quarter.

Orlando led the Milwaukee Bucks by 18 points after one quarter, by 28 after two and 50 after three on the way to a 152-104 victory Monday night.

The 48-point margin surpassed the 129-83 beating Orlando put on Philadelphia last Friday. The 152 points was three shy of the team record set in a 39-point victory over Utah on Dec. 30, 1990.

At Charlotte, N.C., the Bulls led by 19 points early in the third quarter and ended up losing 115-104 to the Hornets. How?

The Hornets held Chicago to a franchise-low nine points in the third quarter and outscored the Bulls 35-9. As Chicago hit 4 of 14 shots and committed 14 turnovers, Charlotte shot 10-for-16 and outrebounded the Bulls 15-3.

shooting, the Magic were 60-for-102 (59 percent) from the field.

At Charlotte, coach Allan Bristow learned something about his Hornets.

"It was our first game of the season that we needed to come back from such a large deficit," Bristow said. "I have been asking myself if this team was able to come back from such a deficit and we answered that tonight."

Chicago's previous worst-scoring quarter was the 10 it got in games against Milwaukee in 1990 and Portland in 1976.

Pistons 99, Kings 93

Joe Dumars won another game for Detroit in Auburn Hills, Mich., and it hardly surprised his teammates. The veteran guard completed a four-point play with 2:11 remaining to break open a tie game.

"Joe just makes big shots night in and night out," teammate Allan Houston said. "I've seen it for a year and a half, and we probably take it for granted, but he is a very special player."

Marlin finds success at Daytona 500

By PAUL NEWBERRY
AP Sports Writer

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) - There's something about Daytona International Speedway that brings out the best in the also-rans.

Derrike Cope has won two races in his career. One just happened to be the Daytona 500.

Dale Jarrett has crossed the finish line ahead of everyone else only three times since he's been in Winston Cup racing. One just happened to be the biggest race in stock car racing.

Then there's Sterling Marlin, whose only claim to fame 53 weeks ago was his lineage. Now the son of former Winston Cup star Clifton "Coo Coo" Marlin can stand on his own with the giants of the sport, having become only the third driver in history to repeat as Daytona 500 winner.

The others were Richard Petty and Cale Yarborough, a couple of pretty fair drivers at Daytona and everywhere else. For Marlin, these are the only two races he's won in his career.

"It's hard to believe," Marlin conceded. "We've won two Winston Cup races, both 500s. Both here. ... I like this place."

While his 1994 victory was a stunner, everyone expected Marlin to be running up front on Sunday. It was apparent during the week of practice and qualifying that his Chevrolet Monte Carlo was the fastest car in the field. All he had to do was keep the pedal on the floor and stay out of trouble.

"I wasn't believing it last year," Coo Coo Marlin said, "but I believe this now. I knew that since he's been down here. He's been strong the whole two weeks. I knew he had a good chance of winning."

But Coo Coo's boy still hasn't demonstrated he can win anywhere else. After leaving Daytona a year ago, Marlin finished second in the race at Rockingham, N.C., but managed only three top-five showings the rest of the year and wound up 14th in the points standings.

Heat 103, Cavaliers 96

At Cleveland, Glen Rice used a fan's verbal abuse as inspiration and hit six 3-pointers on his way to scoring 36 points for Miami.

Rice, the NBA's 3-point shooting champion, hit 6 of 10 3-pointers.

"The guy kept telling me I wasn't a true champion because Mark Price wasn't in the contest," Rice said. "I told him that as of right now I'm the champ and Mark can get his chance next year. I went out to shut this fan up and show him who is really the champ. It was fun."

Price, the Cavaliers' guard who won the contest the previous two years, is sidelined with a broken right wrist.

Lakers 108, SuperSonics 105

At Tacoma, Wash., Nick Van Exel scored a career-high 40 points, including seven 3-pointers, as Los Angeles beat Seattle for the fourth straight time this season. Van Exel, a point guard, led the Lakers with seven rebounds and center Vlade Divac had 19 points and a team-high eight assists.

Warriors 98, 76ers 85

Donyell Marshall's debut for Golden State in Oakland, Calif., was successful as he scored 14 points.

Marshall, acquired Saturday from Minnesota for Tom Gugliotta, had eight of his points in the second quarter when the Warriors took the lead for good.

Dana Barros had 26 points for Philadelphia, and Scott Williams had a career-high 20 rebounds to go with his 17 points.

Lady Raiders strangle SMU

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - Michi Atkins scored 34 points Sunday to lead the No. 7 Texas Tech Lady Raiders to a 79-58 victory over Southern Methodist in the Southwest Conference.

Tech took an early lead, then really woke up in the second half after the Lady Mustangs had gone in front 51-50 with 10 minutes left.

The Lady Raiders (24-3, 10-1), sparked by two 3-pointers from Noel Johnson, went on a 12-0 run to take a 68-55 lead and it was never close after that.

Hughes leads Tech to victory

DALLAS (AP) - Lance Hughes scored 26 points, including two 3-point shots and a 3-point play during a decisive second-half stretch, to lead Texas Tech past Southern Methodist 83-77 Saturday.

The victory gave the Red Raiders sole possession of first place in the Southwest Conference.

ALUMNI GAME

included in an expanded batting order, while they rotated in the field.)

"In the first innings (the '95 players) were intimidated by that crew—the amount of talent they had on the alumni team," Rodriguez said. "Those guys (current players) weren't sure they could play with them. But they found out they could play with them, and they battled back."

The '95 squad started its comeback in the bottom of the fifth. Aaron Sorenson walked and went to third on Tanner Murphey's hit and run single. Sorenson scored on Jacob Lopez' grounder.

The '95 team kept scratching back, with Zambrano and Sonny Perez scoring on grounders in the seventh and Gonzalez scoring on a ground out in the eighth. The Alumni scored two more—Watts in the eighth and Cotten in the top of the ninth—to set up the '95 rally.

Joe De La Cruz and Marquez started the inning with walks. De La Cruz stole third and scored on a throwing error, with Marquez moving to second. Marquez scored when Homer Hamilton reached on a strikeout/wild pitch. Murphey was hit by a pitch, and both moved up on an error on a pickoff throw. Both came home on Zambrano's double.

McCracken walked to lead off the top of the 10th and moved up when Andy Kalka was hit by a pitch. Chad Brummett's single scored McCracken.

De La Cruz also started the '95 squad's 10th inning rally when he was hit by a pitch. Gonzalez ran for him and moved up on Marquez' infield hit before scoring on Guerrero's single.

HRMC, Women's Division hold third annual forum on special lifestyle health care issues

Hereford Regional Medical Center has set February 27 and March 6 for this year's annual Women's Lifestyle Advantage Health Issues Forum. According to Jim Robinson, hospital administrator. The meetings, held in cooperation with the Women's Division of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, will be in the Hereford Community Center, from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. This is the third annual LifeStyle Advantage seminar, an educational series designed to focus on a woman's special health care concern.

This year's program focuses on heart disease, with three health care experts talking about exercise, depression, and risk factors: Kathryn Corder, an exercise physiologist, will speak on "Women and Heart Disease." Darra Bullard, also an exercise physiologist, will speak on "Finding Time to Be Fit." Ron Rains, a trained psychotherapist, will discuss "The Pursuit of Happiness: How to Overcome Depression."

The cost for both programs is $10 per person. The programs are being partially sponsored by the First National Bank of Hereford. Seating is limited and advanced reservations are recommended. To make reservations or to obtain more information, call Peggie Fox at Hereford Regional Medical Center, 364-2141, Ext. 317.

Breast cancer screening clinic set

The Women's Center of the Don and Sybil Harrington Cancer Center and High Plains Baptist Hospital will conduct a breast cancer screening clinic in Hereford at South Plains Health Care Providers, 603 E. Park, on March 3 from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Each participant at the screening will receive a breast exam and one-to-one instruction in breast self-examination by a registered nurse specially trained in breast cancer detection, and a mammogram by a mammography technician. The program is certified by the FDA, American College of Radiology and the State Health Departments of Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico.

The total cost of the screening is $70. Call the Women's Center at Harrington Cancer Center at 1-800-377-HOPE (4673) or (806)-359-4673 for more information or to schedule an appointment.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a woman in my early 30s. Recently, I had some appointments on the campus of a large, urban university. During a break, I sat down in the lobby of the on-campus hotel to do a bit of paperwork. The lobby was nearly empty, and I was reviewing my notes for a meeting.

I was approached by a uniformed hotel employee and asked if I was a registered guest of the hotel. When I replied that I was not, I was ordered to leave immediately. I was told that the lobby was for registered guests only.

There were no signs posted to that effect, nor was there any way for a visitor to the campus to know about this restriction. When I got home, I wrote the manager of the hotel to suggest that he post a sign to inform the public of this hotel policy. I received no reply, and no sign has been posted.

This hotel enjoys many benefits from its on-campus location, and it seems odd that it would refuse to let university visitors use the lobby. If the management feels this policy is legitimate, the public ought to be informed BEFORE entering the lobby area. What do you think?--Indianapolis

DEAR INDIANAPOLIS: It could be that the hotel security officer thought you were "soliciting."

We called two Indianapolis hotels and were informed that for security reasons, they no longer allow unregistered guests to sit in the lobby. We called a third Indianapolis hotel--the Hyatt--and were told that unregistered guests may sit in the lobby if they wish. So, my advice is, stay at the Hyatt.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a retired minister who is still very active in church work and other activities. My wife goes to the same church, but most of the congregants do not know her as well as they know me.

When I am asked to perform a wedding and invited to the reception, my wife says I should not go unless she is also specifically invited. I always offer to take her along, but she refuses to accompany me. She says that to invite a husband without his wife is a grave breach of etiquette. Furthermore, she insists that if the invitation is not issued to both of us, neither of us should go.

I disagree, she told me to "ask Ann Landers," so what do you say?--Detroit Minister

DEAR DETROIT: When a clergyman is asked to perform a wedding ceremony, and a lunch or dinner follows, the invitation to dine should include his wife, unless, of course the clergyman is Catholic.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I were married almost two years ago. We had a small but lovely ceremony and reception with about 25 guests--immediate family and a few close friends.

I'm embarrassed to say that I have still not sent thank-you notes to these wonderful people, either for their gifts or, in some instances, for traveling far to attend the wedding. At this late date, I'm not quite sure how to approach the correspondence, which I still want to send.

Should I acknowledge my tardiness and apologize, or just write a thank-you note?--Awfully Late and Embarrassed in California

DEAR AWFULLY: By all means, apologize. You can be sure the people who sent you a wedding gift almost two years ago are very much aware of your negligence, so you may as well be up front about it.

Lonesome? Take charge of your life and turn it around. Write for Ann Landers' new booklet, "How to Make Friends and Stop Being Lonely." Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $4.25 (this includes postage and handling) to: Friends, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562. ## PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT

Holy Spirit, You who make me see everything and who show me the way to reach my idea. You who give me the Divine Gift to forgive and forget the wrong that is done to me, and you who are in all instances of my life with me. I, in this short dialogue want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from You, no matter how great the material desires may be. I want to be with You and my loved ones in Your perpetual glory. Amen, Thank You for Your love towards me and my loved ones. (Grace obtained). F.G.

Gramm defends draft issue

WASHINGTON (AP) - Sen. Phil Gramm on Sunday defended the fact that he did not serve in the Vietnam War and insisted there was no comparison between his actions and those of President Clinton.

Clinton's avoidance of the draft was an issue during the 1992 presidential campaign. Gramm, who is seeking the Republican nomination for the 1996 campaign, was asked on CBS' "Face the Nation" why he did not serve in Vietnam. The Texas Republican has voted for high military spending, criticized Clinton's draft record, and received five draft deferments from 1965 to 1970.

"It's an easy answer," he said. "My dad was a career soldier, sergeant in the Army; my brother was a career soldier - a colonel, served with distinction in Vietnam. I had the standard student deferments when I was in college. I got my Ph.D. five years and nine months after I entered the university as a freshman, even though I worked a year. So you couldn't say I was just hanging around the student union."

"When I got out of graduate school I turned 26. I had a Ph.D. in economics. Being from a military family, I figured if I quit my job at A&M and joined the Army, I would end up working in some library in the bowels of the Pentagon. And given what I was doing at A&M, I preferred it. I thought I was doing something important. I had a lot of students. ... A&M ... has a very active ROTC corps. I was an academic adviser to the corps. I supported the war effort."

The Texas Republican said he complained about the war on grounds the proper commitment was not being made to win it, but did not disagree with the policy behind waging it.

"The difference between Bill Clinton and me is I wasn't out protesting against the war - either in this country or anywhere else. I was supportive of my brother when he was there, I was supportive of my students when they were there. So it is true I could have quit my job at Texas A&M and joined the Army. I didn't," Gramm said.

"I never saw if I joined the Army that I would have gone to Vietnam. I would have been working in some library or some research institute in the Army. I thought what I was doing at Texas A&M was important."

Clinton received a draft notice, but arranged an appointment to the ROTC program at the University of Arkansas law school and subsequently wrote a letter thanking an ROTC colonel for helping him avoid the draft. He did not follow through on the commitment to join the ROTC, but briefly made himself liable for the draft, as it wound down, and subsequently drew a high lottery number that virtually assured he would not be called.

He openly opposed the U.S. war effort and participated in demonstrations against it while a student in England.

Walking through fire

Hereford volunteer firefighter Chad Kriegshauser is partially obscured by smoke and flames as he moves through a fire scene west of town on Monday. Firefighters were called out to the location at 4:41 p.m. in response to a fire that destroyed a small shed on the property.

Now you'd only have 25 seconds, and you wouldn't be able to go back and look at the opening line or pause (19...18...17) to consider its significance. You wouldn't be able to spend a lot of time with this advertisement and it wouldn't be able to spend a lot of time with you. ### Sasquatch in action

The Hereford Volunteer Fire Department's newest truck -- dubbed Sasquatch -- shoots a spray of water six to eight feet from the front nozzle controlled by Fire Marshal Jay Spain in the cab, while firefighter Michael Kitten stands on the back of the truck to put out any remaining hot spots. Behind the truck is another unit making sure the flames are extinguished. The fire shown was reported at 2:05 p.m. Monday two miles north of Hereford just east of U.S. 385 and involved CRP grass burning. Spain urged citizens to be extremely cautious with fire because of very dry conditions. He also asked that farmers burning off fields contact the fire department ahead of time to he would know which fires are supposed to be burning.

GOP members say they'll deliver 'contract' on time

By JILL LAWRENCE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - The most complicated, emotional, divisive issues are yet to come, but House Republicans, entering the final 50 days of a 100-day marathon, say they'll deliver the "Contract With America" on time.

Never mind pesky Democrats who disagree with the pace and substance of the wide-ranging legislative package, let alone the formidable challenge of getting the measures through the filibuster-prone Senate or past a president sitting ready with a veto pen.

"It is imperative that our promise be kept," says House Majority Leader Dick Armey, R-Texas.

The promise, laid out in a campaign-season contract signed by hundreds of candidates, was this: If Republicans took over the House, they would have votes within the first 100 days on poll-tested, highly popular issues ranging from welfare reform and term limits to tax cuts and a balanced budget amendment to the Constitution.

The House Republican juggernaut started rolling on the very first session of the 104th Congress, with a 14.5-hour day of internal but significant changes in House rules. By the time lawmakers left for a President's Day recess late last week, they had recorded 145 roll-call votes. The 103rd Congress had held 35 votes by the same point in 1993.

Wednesday marks the midpoint of an opening run notable for the dominant presence of House Speaker Newt Gingrich and the near absence of GOP setbacks. Republican leaders did lose a bid to revive a national missile defense system; they also were unable to attract enough support for a constitutional requirement for a three-fifths majority to raise income-tax rates.

The second half of the self-imposed "Contract" period is bound to be more contentious and less successful than the first.

Armey conceded in an interview that there was "tough stuff ahead of us," but said he expected the House would pass 80 percent of the contract and that half the campaign manifesto eventually would become law.

Whatever its fate, Gingrich is already calling the contract "a great moment in history ... because it's the most decisive legislative proposal since the New Deal began in 1933."

Besides internal reform and a bill applying all federal laws to Congress, the House has passed three complete sections of the contract:

- A balanced budget amendment to the Constitution and line-item veto authority for the president. Senate approval of the budget amendment is uncertain at this point. Even if it passes, 38 state legislatures must ratify it. The president does not sign constitutional amendments.

- A stiff crime bill that replaces crime prevention and police hiring programs enacted last year with $10 billion in block grants to states and counties. Senate prospects are precarious, and President Clinton is threatening a veto.

- A national security bill that reduces U.S. support for U.N. peacekeeping and restricts the president's authority to place U.S. troops under foreign commanders. The Clinton administration says the House bill is an unacceptable infringement upon executive powers; Senate prospects are uncertain.

Still to come, in order of appearance:

- Regulatory reform. The House this week takes up a moratorium on most government regulations and a requirement to weigh costs when evaluating the benefit of new regulations.

- Legal reforms.

- A constitutional amendment to limit congressional terms.

- Revenue measures.

Cool a burn.

A burn is too hot not to handle.

Depending on their severity, different degrees of burns need different treatment. Follow these general rules to be prepared in case of a burn emergency.

- Never use ice, salves or butter on a burn.
- Cool burns with cool water until pain eases.
- Remove all clothing and jewelry not sticking to the burn.
- Cover burn area with clean sheet and keep victim warm.
- Seek medical assistance or call your emergency number.

Remember, improper treatment of any kind of burn can lead to infection.
