Two-vehicle accident leaves teacher trapped

By GARRY WESNER
Managing Editor

A Hereford school teacher escaped serious injury Thursday when she was involved in a two-vehicle accident that left her trapped in the wreckage of her car for about 40 minutes.

Donita Allred Rule, 50, of Wildorado, was treated and released from Hereford Regional Medical Center after the 11:36 a.m. accident.

According to police reports, Mrs. Rule was driving her 1993 Chevrolet S-10 Blazer north in the 200 block of North 25 Mile Avenue when a 1979

Buick LeSabre driven by 15-year-old Isabel Gonzalez of Hereford pulled out of a private parking lot.

Mrs. Gonzalez's vehicle struck Mrs. Rule's vehicle on the right side, flipping the Blazer onto its left side.

Mrs. Rule was trapped in the wreckage and fire department personnel were called to the scene to help Emergency Medical Services rescue workers free her.

Neither Gonzalez nor a passenger in the vehicle she was driving, Letecia Rodriguez, 33, of Hereford, were injured.

Fire Chief David Spain said a variety of equipment was needed to effect the rescue of Mrs. Rule, adding that the fire department in such cases coordinates its efforts with Hereford EMS.

"We let the paramedics dictate to us what we do," Spain said. "We had a paramedic inside the vehicle with her."

Spain said the first priority was to stabilize the vehicle, which was done with wooden blocks and by tying the car to a fire truck.

Firefighters used the Jaws of Life to pull the steering wheel and steering column away from Mrs. Rule.

An attachment to the Jaws -- called an O Tool -- was used to cut away the vehicle roof and peel it back.

Spain said the O Tool is simply a set of hydraulic scissors that cut away the metal.

Department air bags were placed under the vehicle to lift it off the ground slightly so firefighters could remove all of the roof.

Mrs. Rule's hand was hanging out the left side window on the ground, but Spain said he did not believe it was pinned beneath the car.

Spain said the rescue "went by the rules" and that the first priority was to get the victim out as safely and as quickly as possible.

"Any more you don't extract the victim," he said, because of the possibility of a neck or back injury. "You tear the vehicle up around them."

Mrs. Rule was transported to Hereford Regional Medical Center by ambulance, where she was treated and released.

Gonzalez was cited by police for failure to yield right of way to traffic-private drive, and for having no drivers license.

Accident scene

Firefighters used the Jaws of Life to cut away this Chevrolet S-10 Blazer from around accident victim Donita Allred Rule of Wildorado Thursday morning. Mrs. Rule was trapped in her vehicle for about 40 minutes following the accident at North 25 Mile Avenue and Plains. She was treated and released from Hereford Regional Medical Center with minor injuries.

Rescue under way

The hand of accident victim Donita Allred Rule can be seen in the wreckage of her Chevrolet S-10 Blazer following a two-vehicle accident Thursday morning. Fire Chief David Spain, right, and Bill Watts, left, use the Jaws of Life to cut away the roof of Mrs. Rule's vehicle to free her from the wreckage. A paramedic was inside the wrecked vehicle with her to monitor her condition while firefighters freed her.

West Texans feel ground shake in rare earthquake

By JEAN PAGEL
Associated Press Writer

ALPINE, Texas (AP)—West Texas residents never expected the ground to shake beneath their feet. Now, they know the geology of their wild, remote region can generate something more than a minor jolt.

A tremor that shook the area Thursday night, measured at 5.6 on the Richter scale, was the most violent quake felt in Texas in more than 60 years.

"You wonder what's happening at first and it finally dawns on you, 'Heck, we're having an earthquake,'" said Alpine police dispatcher Paul Brown, who spent several hours fielding calls from safe-but-scared residents.

The Texas Department of Public Safety said only two minor injuries were reported by law officials in the Big Bend and Trans-Pecos areas surrounding the epicenter, about 20 miles east-southeast of Alpine.

The tremor, which had a preliminary magnitude of 5.6, was felt as far away as San Antonio, Dallas-Fort Worth and much of New Mexico, according to the U.S. Geological Survey's National Earthquake Information Center in Golden, Colo.

"The Permian Basin Chapter Red Cross covers 13 counties ... and every one of them shook, rattled and rolled tonight, but they're all OK," said Chris McLean, executive director of the Odessa-based chapter, 130 miles northeast of Alpine.

"We are tremendously lucky any time we can have a 5.6 earthquake without any injuries or any worse trauma than we're having. We're very grateful."

About the biggest casualty was people's sense of safety. A 15- to 20-second rattle that seemed like it would never end shook the psyches, as well as the crockery, of the residents unfamiliar with earthquakes.

"It was like a sonic boom that didn't quit for a couple of seconds," said Dave Rohr, chairman of the geology department at Sul Ross University in Alpine, who was at home with his wife when the quake struck around 7:30 p.m. CDT.

"Initially, we felt more of the noise of things shaking, but it just continued. We said, 'Earthquake!' and just ran out the back door. ... I study earthquakes and know all about them but this is the first one I've ever been through. I've never experienced it before."

Injuries claim Hereford man

Hereford resident Ray Henderson, 71, died Friday morning at Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo, one day after suffering severe head injuries in an industrial accident here.

Henderson was flown to Amarillo by Medivac helicopter after the 8:58 a.m. accident at Oglesby Equipment.

According to reports, Henderson was struck in the head by a loading gate from a hay processor that was being assembled at the plant.

He was transported to Hereford Regional Medical Center, then airlifted to Amarillo.

According to a Northwest Texas Hospital nursing supervisor, Henderson died at 8:47 a.m.

Bush takes aim at alcohol use among Hispanic youth

AUSTIN (AP)—Hispanic youths are being targeted as part of a statewide campaign against alcohol abuse touted by Gov. George W. Bush.

"It is a public-private partnership all aimed at saying to our children, 'No matter where they live or what they look like, you are responsible for your behavior,'" Bush said Thursday of the battle against drunken driving and illegal underage drinking in Texas.

"Texas is a wide and varied state with all kinds of people, and there are programs aimed at our Anglo youth, and there need to be programs aimed at our Hispanic youth as well if we care about the future of our state," he said.

Bush also gave a statement in Spanish for the benefit of Spanish-language broadcasters at a news conference on the bilingual campaign.

The effort is sponsored by The Century Council, a not-for-profit national organization that opposes alcohol abuse. Its headquarters are in Los Angeles, and it's supported by members of the alcohol beverage industry.

The "Si Toma, No Maneje ... If You Drink Don't Drive" program was created by Hispanic leaders in California.

It includes an adult English-as-a-second-language anti-drunken driving curriculum to be distributed to public school districts; a designated-driver pledge called "La Promesa" to be implemented in Catholic parishes around the state; and bilingual materials in convenience stores and liquor stores that warn, "Too young to buy, don't even try."

Brownsville Police Chief Victor Rodriguez, among several Hispanic leaders voicing support for the program, cited statistics regarding Hispanic drunken-driving arrests in Texas.

Of Texas' population, 25.5 percent is Hispanic, while 37.4 percent of those arrested for driving while intoxicated in 1993 in Texas were Hispanic.

"We have a common goal: To educate, and in doing so, to save lives," Rodriguez said.

Cattle truck wreck

A temporary pen erected around the roof of a cattle truck holds surviving cows from the wrecked vehicle Thursday afternoon south of town. Six cows were reported killed with the truck overturned on U.S. 385 about one mile south of FM 1055. The truck driver, whose name was not known, was treated and released from Hereford Regional Medical Center. A spokeswoman at Barrett and Crofoot East said the cattle were en route to that facility from Clark Feedyard. The driver was from Graham.

'We're having Fung,' say O.J.'s lawyers, but tables turned slightly

LOS ANGELES (AP)--For much of the day, O.J. Simpson's lawyers made little effort to hide their glee at the way they thrashed police criminalist Dennis Fung on the witness stand.

Johnnie Cochran Jr. roamed the halls Thursday saying, "We're having Fung." Robert Shapiro handed out fortune cookies to authors Joe McGinnis and Dominick Dunne and said, "These are from Dennis Fung."

Defense attorney Barry Scheck ended his five days of brutal cross-examination of Fung with a flurry of surprises and allegations that the criminalist lied about a vial of Simpson's blood as part of a police cover-up.

But then the tables started to turn, if ever so slightly.

Prosecutor Hank Goldberg criticized for the way he has handled Fung's testimony--pulled a surprise of his own, having Fung present the original of a document that the defense just minutes before claimed Fung destroyed and replaced with a fake.

It was just one more twist, and provided an auspicious beginning for the prosecution's formidable task of salvaging Fung's character and the physical evidence portion of its case.

"I think that the prosecution has their work cut out for them," Los Angeles defense lawyer Barry Levin said.

Fung's redirect testimony resumes today, with court in session despite Good Friday and the approach of Passover.

Judge Lance Ito, intent on moving ahead with the lumbering trial, went an extra 1 1/2 hours past schedule Thursday, and recessed just before 6 p.m. only because his court reporters needed to catch trains home.

Ito obviously is concerned about the well-being of the sequestered jury. The latest juror to be dismissed told him that racial divisions run so deep among panelists that separate video-viewing rooms and gyms had to be set up for whites and blacks.

In a one-hour hearing Wednesday, ex-juror Jeanette Harris, who is black, repeated her contention that certain white jurors and sheriff's deputies are discriminating against the black jurors, who comprise most of the panel.

"It's my intention to speak to each and every juror who remains," the judge said near the end of the hearing, according to a transcript released Thursday.

Outside court, Cochran said reports of ticking and hissing among downtown that looks like a tornado hit it," said assistant police chief Chris Croy. "I'm not going to say there's a big panic, but everyone is concerned."

"It really rocked my RV, and it weighs seven tons," said Joseph Delaney of Alpine. "It really bounced me up in the air. I've never experienced anything like that in this part of the world."

Although a better estimate of damage was not expected until after dawn, possibly the most serious incident was the collapse of a chunk of Cathedral Mountain, a 6,800-foot peak in the Davis Mountains, about 12 miles south of Alpine. It caused no injuries, said a DPS officer.

"He said it looked like the mountain had been karate-chopped," said DPS communications officer Bill Bechtel of Pecos.

Thursday's shake was the biggest in Texas since Aug. 16, 1931, when a 6.0-magnitude quake struck Valentine, about 50 miles west of Alpine, said Bruce Prosser, a geophysicist with the U.S. Geological Survey.

The last notable quake in Texas measured 4.2 on April 9, 1993. The epicenter was 55 miles southeast of San Antonio.

The last notable earthquake to shake West Texas struck Jan. 2, 1992, when a 4.7-magnitude quake shook most of West Texas and southeast New Mexico.

Recluse-kills mayor over $15 water bill

COVE, Ark. (AP)--Townpeople say Orville Miller was a recluse, an odd man who wore insulated coveralls year-round and drove his gray lawn mower to and from town along the shoulder of U.S. 71, pulling a wagon to load groceries or gas.

At the small building that doubles as a town hall and fire station, city workers knew the 78-year-old Miller as a bit of a curmudgeon.

"He comes periodically and gripes and carries on about one thing or another," said Donnie Shoeman, the town's treasurer-recorder.

On Wednesday, police and witnesses say, Miller did more than gripe.

Angered by a $15.55 water bill, he went to town hall, waited for Mayor Fred Neblick to return from lunch, then took a .38-caliber revolver out of his pocket and shot him.

"He said Fred was cheating him out of his money and that he was ripping him off," Shirley Kyle, another city employee, said. "He was going to settle it and settle it now."

"He said he was going to challenge him to a duel," Mrs. Shoeman said. "And Fred said, 'You're going to what?'"

"And then he shot him."

Mrs. Shoeman said she was helping someone when she heard the "horrible bang." She turned, stomped her foot and screamed, "Stop it, stop it right now."

But Miller did not stop. There was another bang. A second shot hit Neblick in the middle of the chest.

Even then, it didn't seem real.

"I know it was horrible but he couldn't be dying, you know," Mrs. Shoeman said, a tear rolling down her left cheek. "He stood up and the blood come up out of his mouth."

Dying, the 58-year-old Neblick, a former sheriff and state trooper, lunged for the gun.

The two women ran outside looking for something to use as a club. When they returned, Miller was standing with his foot up against the wall and the gun pointed down.

"I'm the marshal of this town now," another witness recalled him saying. "Everything's under control. Everything will be all right."

And then he rode off--on his lawn mower.

Miller was arrested at a gas station about a half-hour later and jailed without bail on a murder charge.

On Thursday, the mayor was mourned in this town of 391--a community so small that, "you become a family," Mrs. Shoeman said. "What happens to one happens to all of us."

A black-paper wreath with black ribbons and white artificial flowers hung on the propped-open glass door to the mayor's office. A sheet of paper bearing a three-stanza verse, "A Word of Consolation," was taped to the door. A red rose rested in a glass vase on Neblick's desk.

Dennis Dalton was one of the townspeople who stopped by. He pushed a $20 bill into Mrs. Shoeman's hand. She found a jar, wrote "For Fred's Family" on a piece of paper and taped it to the jar.

Dalton had known Neblick for 15 years. The mayor, in fact, had encouraged him to open his storage facility and small-engine repair business.

"He has helped more people in this community than you could ever know," Mrs. Shoeman said.

Even Miller. Last year, after nobody saw Miller for a couple of weeks, Neblick stopped by to check on him. Neblick did that for many elderly residents.

Thunder Junction planning continues

By JEAN PAGEL

Associated Press Writer

CLARENDON, Texas (AP)--An odd patchwork of partners looks at a tilled plot of farmland north of this town and envisions a multimillion-dollar theme park.

They call it Thunder Junction.

The proposed Western-heritage entertainment complex would cover 67 acres with water slides, rides by train and canoe, musical shows and a hotel built from rail cars.

Nothing about Thunder Junction looks typical.

Its backing and ownership come from a private British investment group. Its beneficiaries include a nonprofit senior citizen's organization.

And its supporters predict that visitors will descend by the hundreds of thousands on Clarendon, population 2,067.

"People are coming to the Texas Panhandle whether we like it or not," said Bar H Dude Ranch owner Frank Hommel, a member of the Westwood GMW Ltd. board. "Get ready for the tourists or get out of the way."

Westwood held a ground-breaking ceremony last month to kick off the project stalled for years by lack of financing. Organizers hope to open the $24.3 million park's first phase by Memorial Day.

"It's a tight deadline," conceded Stan McClendon of Wellington, a vice president of Thunder Junction Inc., the for-profit group formed to develop funding.

The three parties involved--Westwood, Thunder Junction Inc. and Yesterday's Children--won't reveal their intended division of profits.

But Westwood head David Williams has said Yesterday's Children will receive at least $25,000 a year.

"You just don't come up with a concept and then immediately go up with it unless you're somebody with a zillion dollars in your pocket," said Pat Kaiser, president of the Amarillo group that conceived Thunder Junction in 1988 as a way to help senior citizens. "I mean, we were doing this with volunteers."

By Ms. Kaiser's estimate, Yesterday's Children already has spent $150,000--including state and federal grants--to get the project going.

She said her group would award its share of profits to activities like Meals on Wheels and elderly day-care across the Texas Panhandle.

The city of Clarendon in 1992 spent $17,000 on a feasibility study that concluded the park could open by 1994 and attract 195,000 people annually. Backers counted on crowds from nearby Greenbelt Lake, along with traffic off U.S. 287.

Discussion of Thunder Junction surfaced again during a town hall meeting this week.

"People that I visit with are very optimistic, hoping that it does go over and go over well," said Johnny Floyd of Floyd's Automotive Supply & Muffler Shop. "We're backing it 100 percent... (but) there are people who are skeptical."

Ms. Kaiser said she worries that the park is getting a late start for the 1995 summer season.

Investors hoped to open in the next month or two with water slides, a go-cart track and miniature golf course. Admission: about $6.

DEAR CALIF: With pleasure. Tomorrow is Easter, and I hope those of you who are considering buying live animals as gifts will think twice. Here's the letter:

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Every Easter, many people buy rabbits or chicks as novelty gifts. A vast majority of these animals find their way to the pound or the local lake shortly after Easter. This inhumane ritual ends million of animals' lives prematurely every year.

I am involved with a non-profit humane society that rescues rabbits from the local pounds and places them in loving, permanent homes. We, like other humane groups, are doing all we can, but it's simply not enough. We need to educate and inform the public through whatever positive channels are available. -- Walnut Creek

DEAR WALNUT CREEK: It's never too late to remind people NOT to purchase live bunnies and chicks for Easter presents. Stuffed rabbits are just as much fun and twice as durable.

Every year, thousands of baby bunnies and ducklings are left in the baskets of children by the Easter bunny. After a couple of days of fun, the children become bored, the bunnies go to the pound and the ducklings get dropped off at the already overcrowded pond. They will all die. Somehow, I don't believe this is what Easter is supposed to be about.

SAN JOSE CATHOLIC CHURCH

The Easter Vigil is the most beautiful liturgy of the year, and also the longest (over 2 1/2 hours). Parishioners may begin gathering at the church around 8 p.m. There will be a music practice to prepare us to fully sing the liturgy. Every adult who comes to the Easter Vigil will need a 7-day clear-glass vigil candle. You can buy one at the church of purchase one at a store before hand.

At 8:45 p.m., everyone will gather outside for the Blessing of the Easter Fire. We will light our candles from the newly blessed Paschal Candle as we enter the dark church to listen to the readings that proclaim our history of salvation. After joyously proclaiming the Alleluia, the church will burst forth in light and color then we will hear Luke's account of the Resurrection.

The Easter Vigil will continue with the Liturgy of Baptism and Liturgy of the Eucharist. As we conclude the Easter Vigil with great rejoicing, everyone will be invited to take home some blessed water. Be sure to bring a container or jar of water with you to the Easter Vigil. Menudo will be served in the salon after the Easter Vigil.

There will be Morning Prayer at sunrise on Easter Sunday at 7:30 a.m. at church. Liturgies will be at 9 a.m. and 11:30 a.m. Bring water to church to be blessed and taken home. We will renew our baptismal promises and baptize new members into the church. Our rejoicing will continue for 50 days and 6 more Sundays, for once again through the Pascal Mystery, we have passed from death to life.

Netters put 3 doubles, Carr in district semis

The Hereford tennis team got three doubles teams and one singles player into the semifinals after the first day of the District 1-4A Tennis Tournament Thursday in Canyon.

The semifinals will be played when the tournament resumes at 9:30 a.m. Saturday at the tennis courts of West Texas A&M University in Canyon. The tournament is taking today off in observance of Good Friday.

Making the semis for Hereford were both boys' doubles pairs—No. 2 seeds Pete Vargas-B.J. Lockmiller and Tom Jarecki-Tyler Merrick—and the girls' No. 2 seeds, Natalie McWhorter and Paige Robbins.

The biggest surprises for Hereford came in the boys' singles bracket, where unseeded Andrew Carr won twice to earn a semifinal berth, but No. 3 seed Rob Reinauer lost to unseeded Cliff Martin of Canyon, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4.

"That guy (Martin) should have been seeded," Hereford coach Ed Coplen said. "He's probably the second or third best player in the district. It was a match that probably shouldn't have been played in the quarterfinals. And it was probably the best-played match of the day."

Reinauer had a bye in the first round, then lost to Martin in the second round.

Carr knocked off No. 3 seed David Kludt of Pampa in the first round, 6-2, 6-2, then beat Casey Reid of Canyon, 6-3, 6-3 in the second round.

"He played the best two matches he's played all year today," Coplen said.

Carr will face Matt Thompson of Borger, the No. 1 seed, at 11 a.m. Saturday. Even if Carr loses, he'll have a chance to grab one of the two regional tournament spots by winning a third-place match and a play-back match, which are designed to make sure the best two entries advance regardless of the draw. All four brackets are set up that way.

McWhorter and Robbins had a bye in the first round, then beat Ashley Griffin and Cherise Leavitt of Dumas, 6-1, 6-0. They'll face Erika Vaquera and Lauri Garner of Canyon at 9:30 a.m. Saturday.

Vargas and Lockmiller had a bye, then defeated Chad Bracher and Greg Thompson of Borger, 6-1, 6-2. They'll take on James Holland and Ross Jones of Dumas, who beat Canyon's third-seeded Toya McLeod and Matt Williams in what Coplen called the upset of the day.

Merrick and Jarecki also pulled off an upset or two. The unseeded Hereford pair defeated Borger's top doubles team, Clark and Goldston, 6-2, 4-6, 6-3. Then they ousted No. 4 seeds Ryan Jones and Bobby Ellibee of Dumas, 6-4, 6-1, in the second round.

Hereford's other entry in girls' doubles, Annie Hoffman and Rachel Bezner, lost in the quarterfinals. They beat Littlejohn and Foster of Caprock, 6-1, 6-0, in the first round, but lost to No. 2 seeds Chealana Pool and Rachel Pendergrass of Dumas, 6-1, 6-0 in the second round.

In girls' singles, Holly Weishaar defeated Heather Gossett of Caprock, 6-1, 6-2, then lost to No. 3 Lacey Jordan of Borger, 6-0, 6-2. Hereford's Taylor Sublett lost in the first round to No. 4 Cami Stone of Pampa, 7-6, 6-2.

Herd's Gamboa takes 3rd in discus

Things going as expected in early-going of district meet

Hereford's Josh Gamboa missed earning a trip to the regional track meet by four inches when he placed third in the discus at the District 1-4A meet Thursday in Canyon.

Gamboa hurled the discus 143 feet, 11 inches, but finished behind Troy White of Randall, at 147-1, and Brian Baggett of Canyon at 144-3. The top two in each event advance to the regional meet; the third place finisher serves as an alternate, so Gamboa would go if either of the others could not compete for any reason.

Gamboa's performance was his best in several weeks, coach Ron Young said.

"He competed real well," Young said. "He got that (143-11) on his last throw, and that kid that beat him got his on his last throw, so it was a good competition."

Gamboa had the best finish of any Whiteface on the first day of the district meet, when only seven events were decided. Most of the events will be decided Saturday—the meet takes today off for Good Friday.

The seven events completed Thursday were: boys' discus, pole vault and long jump; girls' shot put and long jump; and boys' and girls' 3,200 run.

Hereford had four others place Thursday.

—Michelle Brown and J.J. Hill were fourth and fifth, respectively, in the girls' shot put. Brown put the shot 31-2 3/4, and Hill was an inch behind at 31-1 3/4. Brown, a freshman, was seventh going into the finals, girls' coach Martha Emerson said.

"Kristi (Lytal, the throwing coach) said she was pleased," Emerson said. "(Brown) will get up there and compete. It's pretty tough to be a freshman and get topped on varsity."

—Michael Brown, Michelle's older brother, tied for sixth in the long jump at 17-11 1/4. Brent Horton of Canyon also had that length, and was originally credited with sixth place by himself. Young said they had to go back and fight to credit Brown with the tie for sixth.

—Henry Hernandez took sixth in the pole vault, clearing his best height of the season at 11 feet, 6 inches. That was a victory of sorts for the whole boys' track program, which started emphasizing the pole vault more in junior high a few years ago, Young said. Hernandez' sixth place was the first result of that at a district meet.

"That was a real pleasant surprise," Young said. "We haven't gotten points in the pole vault in the last six or seven years."

Neither coach reported any unpleasant surprises from preliminary races on Thursday. Both said their main hopes to finish first or second in running events qualified, including Marquise Brown in the 100- and 200-meter dashes and Erin Dunn in the 100-meter hurdles.

Marie Crox and Monica Best Juan both turned in personal best times to qualify for the 300 hurdles finals: Crox at 48.2 seconds, Don Juan at 50.8.

The meet will conclude Saturday at Canyon High School. Finals of the running events start with the 400-meter relays at 2 p.m. and conclude with the 1,600 relays at 5 p.m.

Field events start at 5 a.m. A change was made in the schedule; the varsity field events scheduled for Saturday are boys' shot put, triple jump and high jump and girls' discus, triple jump and high jump.

Giants, Rockies start spring with brawl

By BEN WALKER
AP Baseball Writer

Nothing like a good feud to get the baseball juices flowing again.

On the day the crowds returned - mostly, that is - to see real major leaguers like Ken Griffey Jr., Barry Bonds and Jose Canseco hit home runs, the Colorado Rockies and San Francisco Giants were busy renewing their rivalry.

Another kind of dispute, this one seen outside the stadiums, had locked-out umpires walking the picket line at three games. Meanwhile, Cal Ripken and the Baltimore Orioles were on the field for the first time this year, and the Toronto Blue Jays were on radio for the first time this season.

While Bonds homered for the Giants, that wasn't the biggest hit of the day as San Francisco played Colorado.

Andres Galarraga, whose season ended last year when a pitch by San Francisco's Dave Burba broke his arm in July, was hit by Jose Bautista. That led Rockies manager Don Baylor to call Bautista "a pretty weak excuse for a major league pitcher."

"We're going to make a statement ourselves, we're going to start pitching inside ourselves and it's going to be in the middle of the lineup," Baylor said.

Giants manager Dusty Baker said Galarraga's unusual stance caused him to be hit.

"He needs to learn how to get out of the way, don't you think?" Baker asked. "Clearly that ball wasn't at his head, it was up and in. And there's no crime in throwing up and in."

Clearly, the buzz was back in baseball. The crack of bat seemed sharper, the pitches went faster, the hard-hit balls went farther. Even the popups were major league, sailing high above the single-decked ballparks in Florida and Arizona.

"These guys are the show. They're the reason the fans come out," Wayne Busby, the replacement shortstop for the Pirates, said while watching Pittsburgh play the Chicago White Sox from a box seat in Bradenton, Fla.

For the most part, the crowds were larger than they had been six weeks ago when the strikebreakers started the exhibition season.

There were 7,100 fans at Al Lang Stadium in St. Petersburg, Fla., to see Cincinnati play St. Louis. Then, again, as a goodwill gesture, the Cardinals are offering free admission to their seven home spring games.

There were 6,164 in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., to see the New York Yankees take on the New York Mets. Only about 600 saw the Yankees' home replacement opener.

Among the 6,153 fans in Clearwater, Fla., for the Toronto-Philadelphia night game was Dave Roberts, 41, of Ottawa, Ontario. He'd spent the afternoon about two hours away, watching Kansas City play Houston.

"The game is bigger than the players or the owners," he said.

But in Vero Beach, Fla., where the Dodgers usually sell out 6,500-seat Holman Stadium, the crowd was just 1,788 for the game between Los Angeles and Florida. The Dodgers' replacement games, played at the height of the winter tourist season, drew an average of 2,117.

"I'm not surprised, because of the time of year," Dodgers manager Tommy Lasorda said. "If this was a month ago, I would be, but not now." But, even though there was no booing at exhibition games, all was not well.

Fans making their way into Municipal Stadium in West Palm Beach, Fla., saw a clear reminder that there is not yet labor peace in baseball. Outside the game between Atlanta and Montreal, 11 umpires set up a picket line.

Umpires, locked out by owners since they were last paid Dec. 31, also formed picket lines in Phoenix for the game between Oakland and the Chicago Cubs, and in Fort Lauderdale for the Yankees-Mets game.

Pokes' Williams faces sexual assault charge

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Erik Williams, a Pro Bowl offensive tackle for the Dallas Cowboys, faces formal sexual assault charges after a 17-year-old girl accused him of attacking her early Thursday, police said.

Dallas police Sgt. Jim Chandler said Williams was taken into custody after police responded to a telephone request for help by the girl from Williams' north Dallas home. He was later released on bond.

Chandler said officers went to the residence and asked for the girl by her first name. Williams told officers that she was not there and that there was no disturbance.

As officers returned to their patrol car, they said they heard a sound and saw the girl looking out of a window. Officers then arrested Williams and another man.

"She said that she had known Williams for about four months and that he picked her up at her apartment and took her back to his house - she went willingly," Chandler said. "She told them the story that she had been forced, with verbal threats, to engage in sexual intercourse with both men."

Also arrested was Roderick Carson of Madison, Wis. Carson, 26, was a college teammate of Williams at Central State of Ohio.

Both were released after posting

$2,500 bond at separate hearings before Judge Charles McClure. Williams' release was delayed until he cleared up outstanding warrants stemming from outstanding traffic citations accrued in Addison, a Dallas suburb.

Williams and Carson, both 26, spent Thursday morning at the Lew Sterrett Justice Center while investigators interviewed the girl.

"I have visited briefly with Erik and I'm in contact with the district attorney's office," Godwin said. "We are awaiting word from them on what they're going to do."

"He (Williams) appears to be in good spirits," he said. "He's very remorseful over having been arrested. He doesn't understand what the arrest was for."

Cowboys officials would not elaborate, spokesman Rich Dalrymple said.

"We're aware of the situation," Dalrymple said. "We are in the information gathering process right now. We won't have any comment until we have further information."

Shumate resigns from SMU helm

DALLAS (AP) - Southern Methodist's strict academic standards did not make it difficult for men's basketball coach John Shumate to win, triggering his resignation, athletic director Jim Copeland said Thursday.

"The admission standards are not a hindrance - or should not be a hindrance," Copeland said. "There are a lot of schools that win that have very similar standards, that graduate their student athletes."

Shumate resigned earlier Thursday, with three years left on his contract, after coming off his sixth losing season in seven years.

In a prepared statement released through SMU's sports information office Thursday morning, Shumate said: "I am particularly proud of the fact that 100 percent of our student-athletes graduated during my tenure and that we won the Southwest Conference championship in 1993."

"It has been a challenge to meet the high expectations of the university, in light of the various limitations that have been imposed on the program," he said.

Olajuwon returns, leads Rockets past Blazers

By The Associated Press
A welcome sight for the Houston Rockets is not exactly what the rest of the NBA wants to see heading into the playoffs.
Hakeem Olajuwon, the 1993-94 regular season and postseason MVP, returned with authority to the champions' lineup Thursday night. After missing eight games with iron deficiency anemia, Olajuwon had 35 points, 10 rebounds and five blocked shots to lead the Rockets to a 112-99 victory over the Portland Trail Blazers.
"Olajuwon was the difference," Portland's Clifford Robinson said. "He didn't play like he was sick. He played like he usually does."

"I kind of expected him to. It never crossed my mind that he wouldn't."
He played 38 minutes and was pleased with his performance, if not his state of health.
"I was motivated. This was an important game because Portland is right behind us," he said. "It was great to play as many minutes as I did. I'm just happy with the way I am compared to the way I was before."
Vernon Maxwell also came back from the same illness, but played just five minutes and had two points. He returned to the locker room late in the second quarter complaining of shortness of breath and didn't return. The Rockets said Maxwell would be evaluated at practice today.

Celtics 119, Magic 114
Shaquille O'Neal, who had 26 points and 12 rebounds, missed nine of 11 free throws, including four in a row in the fourth period, as Boston improved its playoff chances with a 13-3 charge down the stretch.
The Celtics were outshot 49-43 in field goals, but made 28 of 34 free throws, while Orlando was 11-for-23 from the line.
Dino Radja scored six of his 29 points in the decisive spurt for Boston's sixth victory in the last seven starts, moving the Celtics 1-1/2 games up on Milwaukee for the final playoff spot in the East.

Knicks 110, Bullets 100
Patrick Ewing scored 25 points, including the 18,000th of his career, as New York handed visiting Washington its 13th consecutive loss. The Knicks pulled within 3-1/2 games of Orlando for first place in the Eastern Conference.
New York's bench players outscored Washington's reserves 58-26.
Chris Webber scored 27 points to lead the Bullets.
Jazz 121, Warriors 102
Utah pulled into a tie with Phoenix for second place in the West, 1-1/2 games in back of San Antonio.
Karl Malone had 29 points and 15 rebounds and John Stockton scored 22 points as Utah got its 55th win, tying a franchise record for victories. Stockton surpassed the 12,000-point plateau.

The Jazz shot 40 free throws, converting 32, while the Warriors went to the line just 12 times, making seven.
SaperSonics 133, Mavericks 112
Gary Payton scored 24 points and Detlef Schrempf 22 as host Seattle rolled over Dallas for the eighth straight time.
The Sonics outscored the Mavericks 42-20 in the second quarter and led 73-47 at halftime. Dallas, which lost for the third time in four games, was beaten by 27 points by the Sonics last Saturday.
Shawn Kemp added 18 points and 19 rebounds for Seattle.
Nuggets 125, Clippers 103
Reggie Williams scored a season-high 31 points as Denver got its fifth straight road victory. The Nuggets moved into a tie with idle Sacramento in the race for the eighth and final Western Conference playoff spot.
Denver played without leading scorer Mahmoud Abdul-Rauf, out with a bruised right leg.
Terry Dehere led Los Angeles with 25 points.

Glen Rice, and Keith Askins made three free throws just before a scoreless final minute.
It was the first one-point win for Miami and the first one-point loss for Cleveland this season.
Mark Price led Cleveland with 20 points, while Tyrone Hill had 18 points and 11 rebounds.
76ers 102, Nets 94
Dana Barros led six Philadelphia players in double figures with 22 points. Barros also had 13 assists and made all five free throws. In his last 22 games, Barros, third in the league in free throw shooting, has made 102 of 109 foul shots.
Kenny Anderson had 25 points and Armon Gilliam 21 for the Nets, whose record dropped to 10-30. New Jersey, five games behind Boston with five games to play, did not have Derrick Coleman and Benoit Benjamin because of injuries.

PGA seniors victimized by final holes

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP)—Some would-be contenders in the PGA Seniors Championship were snared in the Bear Trap.
Among the victims of the final four holes were Larry Laoretti, Australian Graham Marsh and Orville Moody.
Calvin Peete, DeWitt Weaver and Harry Toscano eluded the harsh penalties of the finishing holes at the Championship course at the PGA Resort, however, and emerged in a 3-way tie for the first-round lead at 4-under-par 68.
"Intimidating," Weaver said Thursday of the closing stretch that was dubbed the "Bear Trap" after Jack Nicklaus redesigned and strengthened this course six years ago.
Laoretti, Marsh and Moody, among others, could give testimony. Laoretti came to that fearsome finish at 5-under-par and leading the tournament. He promptly bunkered his tee shot on the par-3 15th, knocked his next shot into the lake and made double-bogey.

Marsh was 4-under and in a tie for the lead when he went to the 15th and double-bogeyed the next two holes.
Moody also was 4-under, but lost 4 shots on the next three holes.
Laoretti hung on for a 69 and was tied with Jim Colbert and Jim Albus as the only others besides the leaders able to shoot in the 60s.
While most of the field had nothing but trouble with the finishing holes, Colbert was the exception to the rule. He birdied the last three to move within a stroke of the lead.

Ray Floyd was in position until he bogeyed the 16th and dropped back to a 70. Lee Trevino and Gary Player, each a 2-time winner of this title, each matched par 72.
Nicklaus, 55 and playing in a third major event in as many weeks, struggled to a 76.
All three leaders credited a fast start on the more forgiving front side for their high standing.

Peete, 52, who has yet to win in a brief career on the over-50 circuit, was 4-under-par after eight holes, then had to work hard to get in at that figure.
"I was just happy to keep it together," said Peete, who is still nursing a torn rotator cuff in his left shoulder. "It's like an accident waiting to happen. You know it's there. And you know somewhere in the round you're going to hit a bad shot."

Rams face difficulty of moving

By R.B. FALLSTROM
AP Sports Writer
ST. LOUIS (AP)—Five months from now, the Rams open their first season in St. Louis.
Along with the elation that comes with finally getting approval from the NFL to move, there's also a realization of the enormous relocation task at hand.
"There's a tremendous amount of business that has to be addressed prior to the opening of our season," team president John Shaw said Thursday after a news conference to welcome the Rams to St. Louis.
"Besides the football side, there's a lot of administrative issues about office locations, tickets, all of these items."
The Rams likely will hold training camp in St. Louis this summer. The team has been looking at two sites for a temporary facility and five for a permanent site.

"There's no concrete plan, but we'll address it quickly," Shaw said.
Another logistical problem is starting the season in Busch Stadium, likely on Sept. 10 against an opponent yet to be named. The new domed stadium won't be ready until mid-October, meaning the Rams probably will play three games at Busch, which has about 10,000 fewer seats.
They can't ignore football matters, either. The Rams have the sixth overall pick in the draft, set for April 22-23, and Shaw said wide receiver and defensive line help are top priorities.
He also said the Rams would be interested in quarterback Steve McNair if he's still available.
"We should get a very good football player," Shaw said. "I think this team will improve significantly over a short period of time."

At least litigation isn't on the check list.
On Wednesday, Shaw had papers in his briefcase, ready to file a lawsuit against the NFL. The team also was prepared to back up the moving vans and head for St. Louis without league approval.
"We had a plan worked out," Shaw said. "Suffice it to say, the ownership of this team was committed to playing football in St. Louis this year."
After a night of celebrating in St. Louis, Shaw said he tore up the papers and threw them away.
At a special meeting in Dallas on Wednesday, owners approved the move by a 23-6 vote, with one abstention, the minimum needed for passage.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

ONE SON REMAINING!

WHEN KING SAUL ORDERED THE SLAUGHTER OF THE CHIEF PRIEST AT NOB AND ALL HIS HOUSEHOLD, BECAUSE HE THOUGHT THEY WERE IN LEAGUE WITH DAVID AGAINST HIM, 85 PRIESTS WERE KILLED THAT DAY—BUT ONE SON ESCAPED! THIS WAS ABIATHAR, THE LAST REMAINING PRIEST OF THE LINE DESCENDED FROM THE HIGH PRIEST ELI! ABIATHAR ESCAPED AND, AS WAS NATURAL, FLED TO DAVID IN THE WILDERNESS. (I SAM. 22:20-23). FROM THEN ON, ABIATHAR REMAINED AS A PRIEST WITH DAVID AND WHEN DAVID AT LAST ASCENDED THE THRONE, IT WAS ABIATHAR AND ANOTHER PRIEST, ZADOK, WHO APPARENTLY SHARED THE DUTIES OF THE HIGH PRIESTHOOD BETWEEN THEM (II SAM. 15:24-29). ABIATHAR REMAINED LOYAL TO DAVID THROUGHOUT HIS REIGN, BUT AFTER KING DAVID'S DEATH HE FAVORED ADONIJAH OVER SOLOMON—FOR THIS HE WAS DEPOSED FROM THE HIGH PRIESTHOOD AND ZADOK, A MUCH LOYAL PRIEST WAS PUT IN HIS PLACE. (I KINGS 2:13-27) THUS, WITH ABIATHAR'S DOWNFALL, THE END OF THE HOUSE OF ELI, AS HIGH PRIESTS, CAME TO BE, AS FORETOLD IN THE OLD PROPHECY WITH WHICH ELI WAS THREATENED! (I SAM. 2:31-35).

CLASSIFIED ADS

Classified advertising rates are based on 15 cents a word for first insertion ($3.00 minimum), and 11 cents for second publication and thereafter. Rates below are based on consecutive issues, no copy charge, straight word ads.

Times	RATE	MIN
1 day per word	.15	3.00
2 days per word	.20	5.20
3 days per word	.27	7.40
4 days per word	.48	9.60
5 days per word	.50	11.80

CLASSIFIED DISPLAY

Classified display rates apply to all other ads not set in solid word lines—those with captions, bold or larger type, special paragraphing, all capital letters. Rates are $4.95 per column inch; $8.85 inch for consecutive additional insertions.

LEGALS

Ad rates for legal notices are same as for classified display.

ERRORS

Every effort is made to avoid errors in word ads and legal notices. Advertisers should call attention to any errors immediately after the first insertion. We will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion. In case of errors by the publishers an additional insertion will be published.

FINDING OF NO SIGNIFICANT IMPACT

Rural Economic and Community Development (RECD) has received an application for financial assistance from Amistad Housing Development Corporation - Phase
II. The specific elements of this proposed action are construction of a 20-unit RECD Labor Housing apartment complex in Hereford,
Texas on a 10-acre tract of land which now contains 30 existing apartment units, with access to the project site being from Norton Street.

RECD has assessed the potential environmental impacts of this proposed action and has determined that it will not significantly affect the quality of the human environment. Therefore, RECD will not prepare an environmental impact statement for this proposed action.

Any written comments regarding this determination should be provided within 15 days of this publication to Mr. L. George Ellis,
State Director, RECD, Room 114,
Federal Building, 205 East 5th, Box
F13275, Amarillo, Texas 79101.
RECD will make no further decisions regarding this proposed action during this 15 day period.
Requests to review the RECD environmental assessment upon which this determination is based or to receive a copy of it should be directed to the above address.

New business venture combines airport parking with auto repair

By NELSON ANTOSH
Houston Chronicle
HOUSTON - Walt Gray recently telephoned a customer vacationing in Belize to tell him that his car needed a brake job and to seek authorization to do the work.

The bad brakes were discovered during a checkup. Gray knew the car owner's room number at the Mayan Princess hotel. Gray was able to do the work because the customer's car was already parked in Gray's airport parking lot on Greens Road just west of JFK Boulevard near Intercontinental Airport.

This unusual new business venture combines airport parking with full-service auto repair. Service Park is owned by the son of Houston franchised auto dealer Tom Gray, and has been open for business since February.

It is the first of its kind in Houston and said to be one of only a few in the nation. Others are located in Los Angeles and Atlanta.

The Houston venture has the usual shuttle buses running back and forth to the airport every 15 minutes, plus a full-service repair shop with eight bays. Mechanics can do valve jobs and brake jobs, fix transmissions, replace mufflers, align wheels and repair air conditioners, while other employees do less serious work, such as washing and detailing.

The theory is that the only time people don't really need their cars is when they are traveling by air. "After all, the only convenient time to have your car worked on is when you don't need it," Gray says.

Gray claims the idea came to him in the 1980s when the family had a long-term parking lot and a rental car franchise at Hobby Airport. When the time came to build a park-repair facility, Intercontinental was chosen over Hobby because parking spaces are in even shorter supply there.

As it turns out, more than 40 percent of the people who park their cars at the new business get some sort of work done, even if it is just a wash or an oil change.

One doesn't have to get his car fixed to park at Service Park, and neither does a person have to be a traveler to get his car fixed. Gray has his eye on the approximately 15,000 airport employees as potential customers. There is a dearth of repair shops in that vicinity.

An engineer from The Woodlands who spends a lot of time in Los Angeles has already had his car worked on in Gray's shop four times. The work has included a brake job, a tune-up, and painting of a camper top.

The concept is impressive to one of the customers, Houston businessman Robert Pearl, who falls into the category of "those of us who are tied to our cars to make a living, and don't have time to stop and get them fixed unless they break down." From previous experience in the repair business, Gray knew that people also have trouble finding the time to drop off their cars at the repair shop. His facility is open to accept cars 24 hours a day, seven days a week, although the repair bays are open during more conventional hours.

People can fill out the repair orders while on the shuttle bus going to the airport and leave the key with the driver. There is a blank on the form to list the destination where they can be reached. The form also provides an 800 telephone number to reach

Service Park. Knowing when the traveler gets back and thus how much time he has to work on the car is a luxury, Gray says. This is a better situation than having the customer asking over and over, "When are you going to have it ready?"

The plan is to expand in stages, until all eight acres at the site are being used. Now, Gray employs three mechanics.

Competitive rates are another part of the plan. Parking costs $5 a day. The shop time for doing repairs costs $45 an hour.

Who had first burger? Bun is key, says Oklahoman

By DOUG BRUGSON
Associated Press Writer

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—Small towns in New York, Wisconsin and Texas claim they had the beef, but Grandma Fanny had the bun. Does that make Tulsa home of the first hamburger served in the United States?

Gov. Frank Keating said as much in a proclamation Thursday calling Tulsa the "real" birthplace of the hamburger.

Author and historian Michael Wallis, who discovered the startling revelation doing research on Oklahoma hamburger joints, says a bun is as important to the burger as the tortilla is to the taco.

Those who claim the first hamburger was made 110 years ago in their small towns say it's much a-moo about nothing.

"If you're frying that hamburger on a grill and all you have left is a loaf of bread, you don't hesitate to put that fatty piece of meat between the bread," said Pat Kruhlow, the "burgermeister" of Seymour, Wis. "And you still call it a hamburger."

The ongoing debate took on a new look when Wallis, author of "Route 66: The Mother Road," learned that hamburgers first cooked in Seymour, Hamburg, N.Y., and Athens, Texas, were slipped between white bread.

"They probably turned out a very good burger, but it isn't the hamburger we know," Wallis said. "Where's the bun?"

He contends the credit for the first hamburger should go to Oscar Weber Bilby, who served burgers at a Fourth of July cookout in 1891 at the family farm just west of Tulsa. His wife, Fanny, made sourdough buns.

Harold Bilby said "Grandma Fanny" had a special recipe for sourdough buns on which the burgers were served. The recipe was never written down, and the family used conventional buns when it opened the hamburger stand in 1933.

"I understand Texas claims the first burger," said Bilby, overlooking six fresh patties slapped on the 104-year-old grill his grandfather made. "But their burger is what we call a patty melt—a piece of meat between two pieces of bread. Grandpa said through the years that a REAL hamburger had to be on a bun."

Or does it?
"A hamburger is a hamburger is a hamburger," said Kenneth Schoetz, a town trustee in Hamburg, N.Y., where Francis and Charles Menches purportedly served the first burger in 1885. "If it doesn't have ketchup on it, is it no longer a hamburger? God only knows."

Athens, a small town 100 miles southeast of Dallas, celebrates its claim as the birthplace of the burger each year with the "Uncle Fletch Davis Hamburger Cookoff and Trade Fair." Davis is credited with flattening ground beef into a patty in 1885, and later selling them at the 1904 World's Fair in St. Louis.

In his proclamation, Keating belittled the Texas Legislature for relying on a "bogus claim" in adopting a resolution last week honoring Athens for, among other things, being the birthplace of the hamburger.

"It's a matter of interpretation," said Larry Beeman, president of the Athens Chamber of Commerce. "We're not going to cancel our annual cookoff because someone says we ain't it."

Seymour, a small town 10 miles west of Green Bay, has a Hamburger Festival every year—folks made a 5,520-pound burger in 1989—to honor the man it claims made the first burger in 1885—Charles Nagreen.

"We'll stand by our claim that 'Hamburger Charlie' developed the hamburger first," said Kruhlow, who helps organize the festival.

Webster's dictionary defines a hamburger as "ground beef," and secondly as "a fried, broiled or baked patty of such meat, often eaten as a sandwich in a round bun."

The American Culinary Federation, an organization of chefs and cooks in St. Augustine, Fla., has produced a handbook on hamburgers, but it talks about preparation and cooking—nothing about a bun.

"My assumption is a hamburger is basically ground meat," said Tim Murray, director of apprenticeship. "But if I ordered one in a restaurant, I would expect it to be on a bun."

And what if it were served on white bread instead of a bun?

"In cafeteria-style restaurants, that would be called a ground sirloin patty," Murray said. "It's a formal name for a hamburger patty, but they can sell it better."

50 years later, Americans still don't want Germany to expand defenses

By HOWARD GOLDBERG
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - Fifty years after World War II, most Americans still do not want to see Germany and Japan expand their defense roles in Asia and Europe, according to an Associated Press poll.

Whether young or old, U.S. adults overwhelmingly agree that the former enemies posing a military threat to America "is all in the past." Just 22 percent say Japan might seek to become a threat, and 21 percent suspect that of Germany.

Still, most Americans grew up in a world where the United States and its allies provide deterrence against military aggression in Europe and Asia. Although passing some of this burden to Japan and the reunited Germany would obviously help the U.S. budget, the poll finds slim American support for defense buildups in the countries that lost World War II.

Twenty-seven percent favor a larger defense role for Japan, and 60 percent oppose it. For Germany, it is 23 percent support, 69 percent opposition.

The poll of 1,004 adults was taken March 17-21 by ICR Survey Research Group of Media, Pa., part of AUS Consultants. Results have a margin of sampling error of plus or minus 3 percentage points.

Those old enough to remember the war express slightly higher levels of suspicion of Germany and Japan.

Age also figures in how people answer whether they think there will be another world war in their lifetime. Overall, 33 percent expect to see another world war. The share is 43 percent among those ages 18-34, and much lower, 9 percent, among those over age 65.

Security threats in Asia and Europe are not as simple to grasp as they were during the Cold War. The motives of Iraq, Iran, Islamic fundamentalists, Chechans and subway terrorists in Tokyo are all mysteries to many Americans.

North Korea's refusal to allow U.N. nuclear inspections, loose control of nuclear material in the former Soviet Union and the civil war in Bosnia may keep policy-makers up at night, but they register low on measures of public awareness.

Attacks on foreigners in Germany by neo-Nazis also have gotten little public attention in the United States for the past two years. Yet one-third of poll respondents say it is likely right-wing extremists like the Nazis might return to power in Germany.

Those born before World War II are more likely than other adults to expect neo-Nazi revival, as are women and the poor.

A poll commissioned in Germany last year by the American Jewish Committee found that 26 percent of Germans consider anti-Semitism in their country a "very serious problem," and 46 percent think it will increase. The poll also found that more than one in five Germans express negative feelings toward Jews, and even more view Gypsies and various foreigners unfavorably.

A RAND survey late last year in Germany found 56 percent favor an ongoing U.S. military presence, despite the withdrawal of the former Soviet troops.

A majority of Germans support assuming more international responsibility in roles such as peacekeeping, humanitarian missions, defense of threatened allies, and prevention of proliferation. RAND analyst Ronald Asmus says support falls dramatically when Germans are asked if their army should defend specific countries such as Saudi Arabia or Poland against a theoretical attack.

A German constitutional court decision last year set that nation on a course toward an eventual defense role outside its borders.

Japan's constitution still prohibits participating in military action overseas even to solve international conflict, and polls indicate most Japanese support those strictures.

The Associated Press poll on World War II was taken March 12-21 among a random sample of 1,004 adults in all states except Alaska and Hawaii. Interviewing was done by telephone by ICR Survey Research Group of Media, Pa., part of AUS Consultants.

The results were weighted to represent the population by key demographic factors such as age, sex, region and education.

No more than one time in 20 should chance variations in the sample cause the results to vary by more than 3 percentage points from the answers that would be obtained if all adults were polled. This margin of sampling error is larger for responses of subgroups such as age categories.

There are other sources of potential error in polls, including the wording and order of questions. Here are the AP poll questions: (Because of rounding, sums may not total 100.)

1. Because of World War II, do you sometimes feel suspicious Japan might seek to become a military threat to the United States again, or do you think that is all in the past? Feel suspicious: 22 percent. Don't know-no answer: 7 percent.

2. What about Germany? Because of World War II, do you sometimes feel suspicious Germany might seek to become a military threat to the United States again, or do you think that is all in the past? Feel suspicious: 21 percent. That's in the past: 75 percent. Don't know-no answer: 4 percent.

3. After the war, America and its allies forced Japan and Germany to limit their armed forces, and the United States has provided military deterrence in Asia and Europe. Would you like to see Japan take on a larger military defense role in Asia? Yes: 27 percent. No: 60 percent. Don't know-no answer: 13 percent.

4. Would you like to see Germany take on a larger military defense role in Europe? Yes: 23 percent. No: 69 percent. Don't know-no answer: 8 percent.

5. How likely do you think it is that right-wing extremists like the Nazis might return to power in Germany? Very likely: 6 percent. Somewhat likely: 29 percent. Not very likely: 38 percent. Not likely at all: 21 percent. Don't know-no answer: 5 percent.

6. Do you think there will be another world war within your lifetime, or don't you think so? Yes: 33 percent. No: 62 percent. Don't know-no answer: 5 percent.

Bill is 'gravy train' for GTE, Bell says group

AUSTIN—Quickly-scheduled floor action on the proposed telecommunications bill "means that the monopoly special interests have taken charge of the train and are about to railroad the Texas consumer," Tim Curtis, executive director of the 150,000-member Texas Citizens Action, said Tuesday.

"This bill is nothing short of a gravy train for GTE and Southwestern Bell Telephone Company," Curtis said. The bill was heard in the House State Affairs Committee last Thursday. It is set for floor debate next week.

"This bill is being pushed by monopoly local telephone companies because they want to get to the trough as soon as they can—before members of the House can consider the merits of the bill," said TCA's Curtis. "It's bad table manners and it's worse public policy."

The bill, a major rewrite of the state's telecommunications law, is supposed to allow for competition in local telephone service. Critics of the bill have said that the bill actually does just the opposite by erecting roadblocks to fair competition for local services.

TCA claims provisions of the bill: --Restrict consumers' choices in local telephone service. --Allow for the pass through of "Phantom Taxes" to consumers.

--Provide no incentive for the lowering of uncapped rates, which means they rates will probably rise.

--Provide that consumers will be surcharged for contributions to the so-called regulatory transition fund—effectively requiring consumers to compensate local monopolies for costs of competition.

--Require major competitors to construct their own facilities, creating massively redundant networks, costing billions of dollars.

"You'd have to be out of your mind to try to compete against Southwestern Bell under these conditions," says Curtis.

He noted that one provision of the bill could mean a $241 million bonanza for GTE because they would be able to keep all of the "phantom taxes" collected from consumers. Curtis also noted that SWB is collecting more than $10 million a month in phantom taxes and that their rates have not been reviewed in a decade.
