Grass fire

Hereford firefighters on Monday were called out to the St. Anthony's Cemetery in the 400 block of Ranger, where someone set a fire in the grass. Here, the strong spray from two fire hoses

-- one mounted under the front bumper of the fire truck -- kick up grass and leaves as flames along the fence line are extinguished. The incident is being investigated as an arson.

Commission accepts bids

Purchase of several items, including a pickup for the extension office and portable breath test equipment was approved by Deaf Smith County Commissioners' Court Monday morning.

Commissioners also approved payment of part of the cost of a new fire truck for use in the county and City of Hereford.

Two bids for the new pickup were received, with a difference of only $19 between the two.

Stevens Chevrolet-Olds bid a crew cab Chevy at $20,176, less $5,700 trade-in, for a net of $14,476.

Hereford Auto Center submitted a bid of $19,995 for a GMC crew cab pickup with a trade-in of $5,500, or a net of $14,495.

The bid was awarded Stevens.

County Judge Tom Simons recommended purchase of two portable breath test units to be placed in Texas Highway Patrol cars. Cost of the units will be about $600 each, Simons said. His recommendation was accepted.

And, commissioners voted unanimously to reimburse the City of Hereford for the county's share, $9,700, of the cost of a new fire truck. After insurance payments, a balance of $19,400 on the cost of the truck was split by the city and county. Total cost of the truck was $56,400. The new truck replaces one that was destroyed in a grass fire near Dawn earlier this year.

Commissioners also voted unanimously to adopt a resolution favoring re-institution of prayer in public schools systems nationwide. The initiative of a Denton County commissioner, the prayer resolution has been adopted by more than 150 counties in Texas and 171 counties from 27 other states.

In other business, commissioners: -- Authorized advertising for bids for a new pickup for Precinct 4 and for employment of a replacement for a retiree.

-- Canvassed returns from last week's general election and approved pay totaling $2,618.75 for election workers.

-- Adopted a safety policy statement for the county and appointed a safety committee of Ron Taylor, Dean Hacker, Nan Rogers, Tony Castillo and Bobby Hammock, chairman.

-- Approved a contract with the state for a vehicle registration and title system in the tax assessor-collector's office.

-- Appointed County Treasurer-elect Nan Rogers as retirement coordinator for the county.

-- Approved employment of a deputy county treasurer.

Feedlot proposed for north of Dawn

A group of investors from Deaf Smith and Randall counties will build a feedlot, estimated to cost almost $2 million, five miles north of Dawn.

Guy Walker, Frio farmer and president and general manager of the new Dawn Custom Cattle Feeders, said construction will begin next week. The first phase of construction is tabbed at $1.3 million and completion cost is estimated at near $2 million.

The 18,000-head operation will employ 10 to 12 people fulltime and utilize the most modern equipment, said Walker. He said the size of the feedyard is considered "optimal" from the standpoint of management and efficiency.

Walker has been in the cattle business in Deaf Smith County for 13 years. He and his family own and operate the 101 Cattle Company.

"We hope to be ready to take cattle by March 1, 1995," said Walker. Cattle feed will be prepared through a steam flake roller mill, which takes corn, runs it through a steam cabinet and rolls it through a mill, said Walker.

"I think this is going to be one of the first brand new facilities built since the 1960s," said Walker. It will be built under all the stiff new environmental guidelines, including containment of all runoff, he added.

The project was designed by Enviro Ag Engineers of Dumas and will be constructed on a quarter-section of land five miles north and 1.5 miles west of Dawn.

Investors include Walker, Harold Dillehay, Panhandle Milling, Jerry Sublett, Chris Cabiness, Mike Kuhlman, Harold Artho, Billy Albracht, Roy Carlson, Ron Crist, R.D. Friemel, Jim Friemel and Chris and Shirley Skarkey.

"We have confidence in the cattle feeding industry in this part of the country," said Walker. With our climate and availability of grain, it's going to continue to be a good industry."

Preview to feature visit from Santa

Santa Claus will be one of the feature attractions when "Preview Night" is hosted by Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce and local merchants Wednesday evening at Hereford Community Center.

The event, scheduled from 6 to 9 p.m., also includes displays of Christmas gift ideas by local merchants, the traditional Christmas lighting ceremony, singing of carols, refreshments and drawings for door prizes.

This new event began last year as a prelude to the "Eat-Your-Heart-Out-Neiman-Marcus" Fun Breakfast. The preview night gives residents the opportunity to spend time viewing gift ideas at all booths.

The Fun Breakfast will follow Thursday morning, beginning at 6:30 a.m. in the Community Center. It will feature the usual games, prizes and announcements, as well as presentation of a Bull Chip award, according to emcees John Stagner and Charlie Bell.

A special drawing for five $100 winners in the "Bag Full of Christmas" promotion will also be held at the breakfast. The Christmas promotion started with open houses by participating merchants, and shoppers had until today to get their entries validated at the stores.

"Local merchants urge all residents to attend the breakfast so they can express their appreciation for your patronage," said C of C President Wes Fisher. "Let's all shop Hereford and make this a great holiday season."

Capitol in employment turmoil after elections

By NITA LEYVELD
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Republicans who couldn't get in the news are suddenly mobbed by reporters. Democrats who once inhabited the big offices are bracing themselves for more humble times. It's as if Election Day had turned the Capitol on its dome.

"Every dog has his day, and the Democrats had a 40-year day," Dan Buck, administrative assistant to Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo., mused philosophically about the Republican takeover of both the House and Senate and his own party's new minority status.

"It ain't all bad. It gets you into fighting shape again," he added.

But down in a tunnel below the House chamber, where Bettie Pearson has been serving up food to tourists, lawmakers and congressional aides in the House caryout for eight years, comforting is the order of the day right now.

"The mood is terrible. People are so sad," she said of the Democratic staffers. "We hug them and try to console them. Some of them cry."

"People are not prepared for this. It's been a long time."

For the first time in 40 years, Republicans are about to take control of Congress. And workers who do everything from answering lawmakers' phones to writing their speeches are praying they'll survive the upheaval.

Donna Weslocky, a House elevator operator, holds one of the building's many patronage jobs, manually running an elevator that can also be run automatically.

"It's pretty grim because you're at the whim of Congress," the single mother said of the post-election turnover in which she is all but certain to lose her job.

Weslocky was hired originally without politics, when there was a shortage of elevator operators and she was struggling to find a job that would provide health benefits for herself and her now 14-year-old son.

She was able to keep her job by finding a Democratic sponsor, Rep. John Lewis of Georgia. But that sponsorship will get her nowhere now.

"I think they should go for the big fish and leave the little minnows alone," she said of the new Republican leaders, who plan a major jobs shakeup.

But the chances are slim. When House Speaker-to-be Newt Gingrich was asked Monday if any of the hundreds of Democratic aides would get to keep their jobs, he said matter-of-factly, "No."

Many Democratic staffers, of course, lost their jobs the old-fashioned way, when their bosses lost their elections.

In the office of one defeated Democratic lawmaker, one aide turned to another Monday and asked, "You got a resume?" The colleague produced it on the spot.

For Gingrich and many other Republican lawmakers, often unable to attract media attention in a Democratically controlled Washington, it's a whole new ball game on Capitol Hill.

The Georgia congressman had so many reporters at his news conference Monday that an overflow crowd had to listen to him via speaker in another room. As he walked down the hallway afterward, two camera crews followed him.

On Monday morning, Rep. Thomas Bliley's office - suddenly inundated with calls since Bliley is in line for a key health subcommittee chairmanship - put out a press advisory, telling reporters which aides would be able to answer their inquiries.

Number of cattle to hit 1.04 billion in '95

By MICHAEL LANDWEBER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - The number of cattle worldwide rose only slightly this year and are projected to total 1.04 billion head at the start of 1995, according to Agriculture Department estimates.

Major cattle inventory changes focus on China, the former Soviet Union and North America.

China continues to see expansion of herds as rising incomes create more demand for beef. On the other hand, herds in Kazakhstan, Russia and Ukraine have declined further, possibly by 4 million head over the past year, as high costs and economic shifts hurt producers.

The total number of cattle in North America as of Jan. 1 is expected to be 146 million head, up around 1.5 million head from the beginning of 1994.

Cattle in Canada should number

Probation set after guilty plea

A 19-year-old Hereford man, charged with taking a gun onto school property, entered a plea of guilty in 222nd District Court Monday.

Gabriel Galvan was arrested Aug. 31, 1993. Judge David Wesley Gully granted deferred adjudication probation of five years after hearing the guilty plea.

Another defendant, David Salas, 24, was sentenced to five years' probation after pleading guilty to felony driving while intoxicated. He also was assessed a $1,500 fine.

12.5 million head in January, 4 percent higher than a year earlier. Favorable feeder cattle prices and good pasture conditions have led to an expansion of the beef cattle herd. Dairy herds are expected to stay close to the 1994 level, the Agriculture Department said.

Larger beef herds could lead to increased Canadian cattle exports to the United States in 1995, possibly reaching 1.25 million head. Meanwhile, Canadian beef exports to the United States may go up 10 percent as that nation's beef production rises 4 percent and packers continue their aggressive marketing in Western states.

Mexico is forecast to have 30.16 million head of cattle at the beginning of 1995, 2 percent less than in 1994. The decline is attributed to drought and reduced foraging area in the northern states.

The number of Mexican calves in 1994 stood at 9.5 million head, a 3.5 percent drop from the previous year, and 1995 estimates foresee a further decline to 9.05 million head.

Mexican cattle exports to the United States in 1995 also are expected to fall off slightly to about 1.2 million head. Proposed U.S. health standards for bovine tuberculosis could result in even fewer exports.

Japan faces declining cattle inventory, with a projected 4.98 million head to start 1995, and a growing demand for beef at home. Herds in Central and South America will experience little change at the beginning of 1995 from the previous year, according to the estimates, except for Brazil

Clinton pledges free trade to Asia, Pacific in 25 years

By TOM RAUM
Associated Press Writer

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) - President Clinton and leaders of other Pacific and Asian powers today pledged "free and open trade" throughout the economically dynamic region within 25 years.

"This agreement is good news for the countries of this region and especially good news for the United States and its workers," Clinton told a news conference.

U.S. products and services will become more competitive abroad as a result of freer trade arrangements in Asia, Clinton said at the conclusion of a meeting of leaders of the 18-member Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation organization.

The timetable to end trade barriers among 18 Pacific Rim nations calls for only the biggest industrial economies to drop trade barriers by 2010. Most of the rest of the region would get another 10 years, until 2020.

Clinton touted the accord as a natural outgrowth of the initial Asia-Pacific Rim summit he organized a year ago in Seattle, and said that the leaders would now work on a "detailed action agenda" for a follow-through summit next year in Osaka, Japan.

He hailed the meeting as "historic" but said the greater challenge is in making the agreement workable. "If we adopt a blueprint (for lowering trade barriers), that is a very good sign."

A last-minute deal was struck to give China and South Korea and other fast-growing Asian economies until 2020 to ease trade restrictions, rather than the earlier date. Clinton had pressed for more countries, particularly South Korea, to come in by 2010, but agreed to the compromise.

Only five powers would have to comply with the earlier date: the United States, Japan, Canada, Australia and New Zealand.

While the declaration leaves a lot of latitude and wiggle-room for countries uneasy with the deadline, it marks a step toward what could make into the world's largest free-trade zone.

"I'm going to do everything I can" to keep the American economic recovery going, Clinton said in answer to a question about the declining value of the dollar on world markets.

He said that working toward more open Asian and Pacific markets will provide more job security for Americans, especially auto workers. He said the region offers "rapidly expanding middle classes" and the potential for expanded demand for U.S. products.

The declaration said that the different pace of lowering trade barriers, with the largest economies doing it first, reflects "the different levels of economic development among APEC economies."

WANTED: LETTERS TO SANTA AND CHRISTMAS ESSAYS

Local Roundup

Mild weather continuing

On the heels of a 50-degree high Monday, the temperature in Hereford dropped to a chilly 27 degrees Tuesday morning. Fair skies and light winds with a low in the upper 20s are forecast for Tuesday night. A high near 60 degrees, under increasing cloudiness, is expected Wednesday, with south winds, 15-25 mph and gusty. Lots of clouds over last weekend brought only .08-inch of rain, according to KPAN Radio records.

Hospital board to meet

A regular meeting of the board of directors for Deaf Smith County Hospital District will be held today beginning at 6:30 p.m. in the board room at Hereford Regional Medical Center. The agenda includes an open forum time, consideration of a staff development program, the administrator's update, a report on the rural health clinic, and operations and financial reports on the hospital.

News Digest

WASHINGTON - The Federal Reserve is facing increasing attacks for its aggressive anti-inflation campaign, but private economists think the criticism will do little to prevent a sixth Fed rate increase.

BOGOR, Indonesia - President Clinton joins leaders of other Asian and Pacific powers for a summit session designed to chart ways to eliminate trade barriers throughout the economically dynamic region over the next 25 years. "This is a good investment, we need to make the most of it," Clinton declares, noting Asia already accounts for one third of all U.S. exports.

WASHINGTON - For low-income drug addicts and alcoholics, the surest way to get crossed off the federal disability rolls is to die or go to jail. Only 1 percent ever recover or get a job, according to a government study.

AUSTIN - Gov.-elect George W. Bush says his choice of Cameron County Judge Tony Garza as secretary of state shows his administration will be open to Texans "from all walks of life." Garza, 35, will replace Secretary of State Ron Kirk when Bush takes office in January.

AUSTIN - A bill that would allow Texans to carry concealed handguns went nowhere with Gov. Ann Richards in 1993, but Gov.-elect George W. Bush said Monday he would sign such legislation into law.

Big oil to take on alternative fuels

Major producers expect Republican Congress to help

DALLAS (AP) - Big oil companies are laying the groundwork to take on ethanol producers and proponents of electric cars and natural gas-powered vehicles.

The major oil producers and refiners are counting on a new Republican Congress for support of next year's offensive against the growing alternative fuels and vehicle industry.

A study released by the American Petroleum Institute on Sunday says federal government subsidies for the alternative fuels and vehicle industry total $1.1 billion a year. The association represents the nation's largest oil companies.

The government subsidies include about $130 million for research to develop an electric car battery, $573 million in tax breaks for ethanol fuel users and about $34 million to local governments and private companies for the purchase of vehicles that run on alternative fuels.

"We believe that these types of subsidy programs do not bring benefits commensurate with their cost," Leonard Bower, API director of policy analysis and strategic planning, told The Dallas Morning News in an interview at the oil association's annual conference in Los Angeles.

Dallas oil and natural gas producer Boone Pickens is a leading national proponent of natural gas as an alternative to gasoline. Big oil companies and alternative fuels advocates like Pickens are preparing to do battle in the Texas Legislature over how the state can best comply with new federal air quality standards.

But major oil companies and refiners are hoping that the new Republican Congress will eliminate the subsidies for their competitors.

"The only way these various alternatives are getting into the marketplace is through subsidies," said Kenneth Derr, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Chevron Corp., as well as API chairman. "I think they ought to stand on their own in the marketplace."

API member companies plan to urge Congress to impose some type of evaluation of the proposed alternatives to gasoline. They say their fuel will compare favorably.

In the meantime, the battle is expected to shift to state capitals such as Austin, before federal mandates begin requiring private fleet operators to adopt alternative fuels later in the decade.

Big oil companies plan to employ a two-edged strategy: If they can't get the alternative fuels mandate repealed and subsidies scrapped, they will try to get their own product - a more environmentally benign "reformulated" gasoline - approved as an option.

Sherman flash flood claims life

By The Associated Press
A 65-year-old Sherman woman drowned in flash flooding following heavy rainfall across North Texas, Grayson County officials said.

As much as 7 inches of rain fell at the Grayson County Airport on Monday, authorities said.

The woman and her husband were returning from a fishing trip at Hagerman Wildlife Refuge Monday afternoon when their pickup truck was swept into a creek. The husband managed to escape from the car, but was unable to save his wife.

The victim's name was not immediately released.

Rain continued across most of North Texas early today. Although there were reports of as much as 6-7 inches of rain in some areas, most of North got 1-3 inches.

A flash flood watch was in effect for East Texas today as the storm system moved eastward.

Forecasts called for a chance of rain in East Texas tonight and cloudy skies elsewhere in North Texas.

In West Texas, skies will remain partly to mostly cloudy through Wednesday. Temperatures will be in the 20s in the Panhandle by dawn Wednesday.

Showers and thunderstorms were expected to continue through tonight in South Texas.

Lows tonight will be in the mid 20s in the Panhandle and in the 30s and 40s elsewhere across West Texas, the upper 30s in western portions and in the 40s and 50s in the rest of North Texas and in the 40s in the Hill Country and in the 50s over the rest of South Texas.

Highs Wednesday will be in the 50s and 60s in West Texas except in the Big Bend area where readings will be in the 70s, in the 60s across North Texas and in the 60s and 70s in South Texas.

Early morning temperatures were in the 20s and 30s in West Texas, the 50s in North Texas and in the 50s and 60s in South Texas. Extremes ranged from 23 at Dalhart to 69 at Beaumont.

TEXAS LOTTERY

By The Associated Press
No tickets correctly matched all six numbers drawn Saturday night for the twice-weekly Lotto Texas game, state lottery officials said.

The numbers drawn Saturday night from a field of 50 were: 34, 20, 13, 17, 23 and 45.

Lottery officials estimate the jackpot for Wednesday night's game will be $55 million.

It would be the third largest jackpot in Lotto Texas history, said lottery spokesman Steve Levine. The largest was $75 million on March 16.

Atlantis brings home wealth of data on earth's ozone layer

By JANE E. ALLEN
AP Science Writer
EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) - Space shuttle Atlantis landed in the Mojave Desert on Monday, bringing home a wealth of data on the ozone layer along with 10 pregnant rats that were taken away for Caesarean sections.

The six astronauts ended the 11-day flight at Edwards Air Base because Tropical Storm Gordon made a landing at Cape Canaveral, Fla., impossible.

The rats were the first pregnant mammals to fly aboard a U.S. spacecraft; scientists want to learn how weightlessness affects fetal development.

But the main purpose of the mission was atmospheric research. Atlantis brought back data from seven atmospheric and solar-energy monitors and a $35 million German satellite. One ozone monitor broke a day after the Nov. 3 launch.

The satellite, carrying instruments to study ozone and other gases in Earth's atmosphere, was released from the shuttle one day into the flight and retrieved eight days later. Researchers said it performed nearly flawlessly.

"We planned 100 hours of science time. We actually got about 180 hours," said Konrad Moritz, German mission manager.

Crime of the week

The Hereford Police Department is seeking clues into several vehicles being vandalized or burglarized on the evening of Nov. 8.

The offense took place at Hereford Junior High School and about $350 damage was done. Items taken were a car stereo, a wallet and a check-book.

Anyone having information which leads to the arrest and indictment in the Crime of the Week can receive a reward of up to $500.

Anyone having information about the Crime of the Week or any other criminal activity is urged to call the Clue Line at 364-CLUE.

All callers may remain anonymous by using a code name or number.

Obituaries

A.W. LAIR

Nov. 12, 1994

A.W. Lair, 73, of Canyon, brother of Margaret Bell of Hereford, died Saturday.

Services were set for 2 p.m. Tuesday in First United Methodist Church of Canyon with burial in Dreamland Cemetery. Arrangements were made by Brooks Funeral Directors of Canyon.

Mr. Lair was born in Canyon and was graduated from Canyon High School. After graduation from West Texas State University, he earned a law degree from Baylor University in 1947. He married Freddie Rumage in 1946 at Borger.

He served as city attorney in Borger and assistant district attorney in Amarillo before being appointed the first criminal district attorney of Randall County in 1955. He served until 1961 when he opened a law practice.

He was a real estate developer and co-owner, with his son, of an auto dealership. Mr. Lair was a former president of Texas Panhandle Heritage Foundation. He belonged to the Rotary Club and professional organizations.

In 1978, he was named Canyon's Citizen of the Year. He was active in fundraising drives for WTSU athletics and donated to construction of the Fine Arts Building.

Survivors also include his wife; three sons, Mark Lair, Jon Lair and Greg Lair, all of Canyon; a daughter, Susan Lair of Las Vegas, a brother, James Lair of Spearman, and nine grandchildren.

The family has requested that memorials be directed to First United Methodist Church of Canyon or Dreamland Cemetery.

A.L. JONES

Nov. 3, 1994

A.L. Jones, 82, former Hereford resident, died Nov. 3, in Pierre, S.D. Services were held Nov. 8 at the United Methodist Church in Blunt, S.D., with burial in Pleasant Hill Cemetery at Blunt.

Mr. Jones was born in Oklahoma and grew up in the Chickasha, Okla., area. He married Hazel Doris Freeman in Duncan, Okla., in 1932. He rebuilt combines and traveled the custom harvesting route from Texas to North Dakota.

He moved to Hereford in 1949 and farmed, continuing his combine business. In 1953, he moved to Blunt where he introduced winter wheat and milo to farmers. Mr. Jones was active in the South Dakota Wheat Growers Association and American Ag Movement.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by a son, Delbert Jones of Harold, S.D.; four daughters, Alice Burges of Hereford, Marilyn Robertson of Spiro, Okla., Jean Lahman of Blunt and Juanita Fitzpatrick of Portland, Ore.; 15 grandchildren, 17 great-grandchildren and two great-great-grandchildren.

Judge keeps car evidence

LOS ANGELES (AP) - O.J. Simpson's defense suffered a setback Monday when the judge ruled he would not throw out evidence seized from Simpson's Bronco.

Simpson's attorneys contended that the evidence could have been contaminated when a tow yard worker allegedly went through the vehicle, which was seized after the slayings of Simpson's ex-wife, Nicole Brown Simpson, and her friend.

"There exists no concrete evidence of tampering," Superior Court Judge Lance Ito said in a three-page written ruling.

The defense contended a receipt allegedly stolen by a tow truck driver could have shown that Ms. Simpson was in the vehicle before the killings. The receipt, the defense said, could have explained test results that suggested her or Simpson's blood was in the vehicle.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

I should like to commend Dr. Keith Norvell at Cross Chiropractic Clinic for his generous community spirit. It was his desire to supply our food pantry with a thousand pounds of food. That amount was exceeded.

Thanks to the many people who responded to his medical assistance in return for canned food. When everyone helps, we can easily take care of the underserved in Deaf Smith County.

Kudos to Keith Norvell!

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My freezer is full of chocolate cake, brownies, chocolate ice cream, vanilla ice cream (there's chocolate sauce in the cupboard), several kinds of chocolate ice cream bars, chocolate pie and lots of chocolate candies.

I stand in front of my freezer and want to cry. You'll understand when I tell you I keep my weight under 125 pounds. I do it by starvation. One bite-sized chocolate ice cream bar, and my weight pops up on the scale the next morning.

My question to you is: Is it worth it? I'm a widow and still socially active. Because I'm big-boned, I don't look charming when I put on weight. But I'm also 83 years old. Should I spend my remaining years resisting chocolate? Or should I just go on and be fat and sloppy?

This is a very real problem to me. Please help me straighten it out—Chocolate Addict in El Paso

DEAR EL PASO: You asked the wrong person. I, too, am addicted to chocolate. See a nutritionist, and get your diet squared away so you can keep chocolate in your life without starving.

DEAR READERS: You asked the wrong person. I, too, am addicted to chocolate. See a nutritionist, and get your diet squared away so you can keep chocolate in your life without starving.

DEAR READERS: The ideal holiday gift is Liz Carpenter's new book, "Unplanned Parenthood." It's a real upper and only $20 (in Canada: $27.95). Publisher: Random House.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: For a long time, I've suspected my husband has been cheating on me. Now, I have phone numbers, letters and photographs of him with women, and the evidence is conclusive.

When I confronted "Sheldon," he insisted these women are just friends. "Donna" traveled with him on a "Business trip" to the Caribbean. I know a lot about his business, and he has no customers in that part of the world.

My husband says Donna doesn't mean a thing to him and that he hasn't slept with her or with "Myrna", either. He took Myrna, who is recently divorced, to Carmel, Calif., for a week of golf. As luck would have it, he shot a hole in one and got his picture in the paper. Myrna was standing next to him.

We've been together 10 years and have three young children. I don't want to raise my kids alone, but I don't trust their father. He says my imagination is working overtime. I did not "imagine" those letters and the newspaper photo. Sheldon says a marriage without trust is sure to fail. Advise soonest.—D.C.

DEAR D.C.: If Sheldon wants you to trust him, he'd better clean up his act and earn that trust.

You need an unbiased third party to establish some firm guidelines. The two of you should get some marriage counseling so Sheldon will have a clear understanding of what is acceptable behavior and what is not. Obviously, the man doesn't have a clue, and I might add, he has been getting away with murder.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My father is 84. His eyesight is poor, and he is quite deaf. He insisted on driving me to the post office last week, and I nearly had a heart attack. He jumped a curb and almost hit a pedestrian.

The next day, I phoned the chief of police and asked him to have my father followed and take away his driver's license. He is very depressed, and I'm filled with guilt. Please comment.—No Name, No City

DEAR N.N.N.C.: You performed a public service and may have saved your father's life. Thanks on behalf of all the people he didn't hit.

Artist of the month

Jeannie Caison of Hereford is the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Women's Division Artist of the Month. Her artwork will be featured through December at the Chamber of Commerce office, 701 N. Main St., during regular office hours from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Mrs. Caison, who recently studied under Jack Sorenson of Amarillo, concentrates in Southwest art and has placed first in folk art shows.

New Arrivals

Mark and Robin Watson of Amarillo are the parents of a daughter, Lauren Elizabeth, born Oct. 29, 1994, in Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo. She weighed 7 lbs. 10 oz.

The infant is welcomed by a brother, four-year-old A.J. Grandparents are Richard and Paula Price and Marline Watson, all of Hereford. Great-grandmother is Annis Corbett of Hereford.

Sara Zinck to perform in comical production

The West Texas A&M University theatre program will present "Fortinbras," a comedy by Lee Blessing, at 8 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday and 3 p.m. Sunday in the Branding Iron Theatre.

Among the cast members is Sara Zinck of Hereford. She is a freshman theatre major.

According to Royal Brantley, head of the Department of Art, Communication and Theatre and play director, the comedy is about what happened after Hamlet died.

"William Shakespeare's 'Hamlet' has been copied, twisted, analyzed....But no one has written a follow-up quite like Lee Blessing's 'Fortinbras,' Brantley said. "Throw in some ghosts, some interesting prisoners of war and the most amazing army in the world and you have an ingenious comedy that is sure to delight every Hamlet fan and foe in the world."

Due to humorous adult situations, the play is not recommended for children.

"Fortinbras" is the last production of the fall 1994 semester. The Branding Iron Theatre season will continue next semester with "Barnum," a musical about P.T. Barnum, and "Our Country's Good," a dramatic and inspiration account of the colonization of Australia.

Tickets for the play are $7 at the door or may be purchased at the Department of Art, Communication and Theatre, Room 151 of the Fine Arts Building on the WTAMU campus. For seniors 65 and older and children 12 and younger, tickets are $5.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY KIMBERLY!

 From all of us
 Guess Who??

Thank You
 I would like to express my appreciation for the excellent care I received at Hereford Regional Medical Center. This community is so fortunate to have the doctors, staff and facility of such high caliber. The sincere care that was shown me by each worker was truly a blessing. Thanks to all my friends for cards, phone calls and flowers. God bless all of you.

Lady Whitefaces' season ended by Demonettes

Up for grabs

Hereford's Danielle Cornelius (15) and Dumas' Jenny Robinson reach for a ball over the net. Cornelius and Robinson battled at the net throughout the Region I-4A finals Saturday in the Caprock Activities Center, but the Demonettes won the war, 14-16, 15-11, 15-11. Dumas earned the right to advance to the state tournament Friday and Saturday in Austin.

Herd cagers to debut against Brownfield

The Hereford High School basketball teams open the season today against Brownfield at South Plains College in Levelland. The girls play at 6 p.m. and the boys play at 7:30.

The girls' team will have its home opener Friday when Plainview comes to Whiteface Gym for a 7:30 p.m. game (junior varsity at 6). This game was incorrectly listed as set for Plainview in the schedule printed in Sunday's Brand. However, assistant coach Loy Triana confirmed all other dates were correct.

The boys will play in Littlefield Friday: JV at 6 p.m., varsity at 7:30.

The Dumas Demonettes stopped the Hereford Lady Whitefaces volleyball team one step short of the state tournament with a 14-16, 15-11, 15-11 win Saturday in Amarillo before an overflow crowd in Caprock Activities Center.

After a two-year absence, Dumas (26-6) will return to the state volleyball tournament, set for Friday and Saturday in Austin. Three times in the last five years, Dumas has beaten Hereford in the Region I-4A finals to get to Austin. In 1992, Hereford beat Dumas to go to state.

Saturday's match was intense as any in the series as Herd and Demonette fans roared throughout two hours of volleyball action. The Lady Whitefaces fought back from deficit after deficit to win the first game, but the Demonettes overcame early Herd leads in the second game to win it. In the third game, a decisive 6-0 Dumas run turned a 7-6 Hereford lead into a 12-7 Dumas lead. Hereford pulled back within 12-11, but Dumas scored three points quickly for the win.

After 6-foot-1 senior Jenny Robinson's hard kill for the 15th point, Dumas fans flooded the floor and celebrated with the Demonettes. Meanwhile, on the other side of the net, Hereford players stood stunned for a few moments.

"It was like my heart was ripped out of my body," said Herd senior Jessica Evers, who two years ago experienced the opposite feeling of beating Dumas in the regional finals.

"It was heart-wrenching, it really was," Evers said. "Just the fact that it was all over at that moment--it was horrible."

The teams and the match were pretty even; Dumas just got the important points at the end, Hereford coach Brenda Reeh said.

"The momentum swung our way at the end of the first game, and the momentum swung their way at the end of the third game," Reeh said. "The kids played as hard as they can play. We didn't beat us; Dumas beat us."

"This is one of those matches--and we've won our share of these kind--where there doesn't need to be a loser," Reeh said. "Today, the swing of momentum at the end was towards the Demonettes."

Reeh and Dumas coach Jack Wilson both said that Robinson, with 26 kills unofficially, was the deciding factor in the match.

"Both the two teams are as evenly matched as they can be, with the exception of Jenny's ability and experience," Reeh said.

"The difference in the game was Jenny Robinson; she's just a dominating player," Wilson said. "We had one player who was a little bit superior to everybody else and that was the edge. Once we got her back on the front (line) at the end, that was the game."

Dumas jumped out to a 4-1 lead in the third game, and three of those points came on Robinson kills. The teams traded points for numerous rotations before a stuff block and a kill consecutively by Hereford's Danielle Cornelius gave the Herd a 7-6 lead.

Robinson answered with two hard kills to regain the lead for Dumas, then after Cornelius got a kill for a sideout, Robinson hit the ball even

Odell wins Cowboys trip

Dan Odell missed only three games out of 25 in the winners' portion of the Brand Football Contest to win the trip to the Dallas Cowboys football game with the Washington Redskins on Su8.

Odell's three misses were picking Pampa over Borger, Philadelphia over Cleveland and Kansas City over San Diego.

If Odell decides to accept the grand prize, he'll receive two tickets to the game, hotel accommodations, airplane tickets and transportation to and from the airport, hotel and stadium.

Odell won the winners' contest by two games over a field of 21. A host of previous winners missed, five games: Kay Redwine, Earl Stagner, Keith Kalka, Gregg Kalka, Bernadette Kalka, John Fuston, Dave Kimmel and Pete Vargas Jr.

In this week's regular contest, the final one of the year, four persons missed four games. Kyanne Lindley won with her tie-breaker selection of 21-14, Hereford over Caprock, when the actual score was 27-14. Lindley wins $25 in Hereford Bucks.

Gladys Cavness takes $15 in Hereford Bucks for second place because of her tie-breaker prediction of Hereford, 24-10. Andy Kalka takes third and $10 in Hereford Bucks with his prediction of Hereford, 28-0. Paul Guyer also missed four games, but his tie-breaker prediction was Hereford, 20-3.

Eleven players missed five games.

Freshmen girls destroy Pampa points, while Briar Baker added 11 and Jamie Marquez chipped in 10.

Hereford took a 15-5 lead after one quarter, then stretched that lead to 36-7 at halftime. Hereford scored only six points in the third quarter, but still held Pampa to one point.

Oilers fire Pardee after 1-9 start

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer
HOUSTON (AP) - In less than a year, the Houston Oilers have gone from a playoff team to the NFL's worst record. On Monday, the plunge cost Jack Pardee his job.

He was replaced by defensive coordinator Jeff Fisher, who inherits a 1-9 team heading for Houston's first losing season since 1986.

"I would never have thought we would have fallen so fast and so far," Fisher said. "It goes to show you how volatile the National Football League is. It also shows you the head coach is obviously responsible for that. The weight falls on his shoulders and now the weight is on my shoulders."

Pardee, 58, is the first NFL coach to be fired this season. He was in the last year of a five-year contract. The Oilers made the playoffs the past four seasons, but lost in the first round three times.

"It's part of the business," Pardee said. "When you start struggling, you try everything. We probably coached harder this year, used more players."

Under Fisher, Houston's defense has been a bright spot in an otherwise dismal season. The Oilers' defense ranks third in the AFC and eighth in the NFL.

"Jeff had done a fantastic job keeping our defense going," owner Bud Adams said. "We feel Jeff is a very capable young man and has a great future in the National Football League. We felt we had the man on board to be the head coach for the Houston Oilers for some years to come."

Fisher, 36, said he's looking forward to the challenge. "We're starting over," he said. "We are 0-0."

Adams said he and general manager Floyd Reese decided to dismiss Pardee Sunday night after the Oilers lost to the Cincinnati Bengals, who also entered the game with only one win.

"I'm sorry we didn't have better results in the first part of the year," Pardee said. "When you lose your livelihood, it's pretty traumatic."

Also dismissed Monday was assistant head coach Kevin Gilbride, who was punched by former defensive coordinator Buddy Ryan during a sideline confrontation last season. Ryan left after the season to become coach of the Arizona Cardinals.

"I predicted he'd be selling insurance in two years," Ryan said of Gilbride's firing. "It's a year ahead of schedule."

The Oilers struggled to a 1-4 start last year, but rebounded with 11 straight victories to win the AFC Central. They lost to Kansas City in the first round of the playoffs.

Team officials blamed the new NFL salary cap for an offseason roster overhaul that cost the Oilers four Pro Bowl players.

Defensive linemen William Fuller and Sean Jones left after becoming free agents, quarterback Warren Moon went to Minnesota for a fourth-round draft pick and Greg Montgomery went to Detroit.

"How do you cut $12 million off the budget and get better at the same time?" Pardee said. "In reality, that's what happened this year."

Pardee and Gilbride were the architects of the team's run-and-shoot offense, which piled up huge numbers when Moon was quarterback.

But instead of re-signing Moon, the team gave backup Cody Carlson a multimillion-dollar contract and the starting job. Carlson injured his shoulder in Houston's opener against Indianapolis and has played sparingly since then.

The Oilers have used two other quarterbacks, third-year pro Bucky Richardson and journeyman Billy Joe Toller, but the team has continued to lose.

Pardee became Houston's coach in 1990, succeeding Jerry Glanville. Entering this season, Pardee's 42-22 record was the best in franchise history. Before joining the Oilers, he coached three seasons at the University of Houston.

"Jack is a nice guy," Ryan said. "But you can't let people run your business for you."

The first motorcycle, invented in France, consisted of a bicycle with an engine attached to the front of the bike.

High-flying play

Hereford's Tarabeth Holmes (21) waits for ball to come down so she can try to tip it over Dumas' 6-foot-1 middle blocker Jenny Robinson.

harder for a Dumas sideout.

Dumas proceeded to score four points in a row: Hereford had a four-hit violation; then Dumas' Misty Holt's attack was blocked by Hereford but it went out of bounds; then an amazing dig by a Dumas player went over the net and fell in the far corner of Hereford's side, behind the Herd defense; and finally Holt had a kill to make it 12-7 for Dumas.

"Once you get to a certain point in the playoffs, you can't give up four or five points in a row and really give yourself a shot at winning," Reeh said. "Dumas earned some of those points, and some we gave then with our errors. Either way, giving up a run of points against a team like Dumas, you put yourself at a real disadvantage."

Hereford fought back, though. A Heather Hodges kill and a Dumas hitting error gave the Herd two points then after another Hodges kill earned a sideout, Crystal Kelley and Tarabeth Holmes combined on a stuff, then Brooke Bryant had a kill to pull Hereford within 12-11.

That was all Hereford would get, though. A Hereford serve sailed barely long, then two Hereford went out. Dumas two more points for match point. Robinson took care of the rest.

In the first game, Hereford overcame a deficits of 5-1, 8-5, 10-8, coming back to tie each time. When Dumas took another lead, 12-10, on a Robinson kill, Reeh called a timeout. Dumas served an ace immediately following the timeout, so Reeh called another one as a momentum-breaker, she said.

It worked. Hereford outscored Dumas 6-1 from that point. Dumas was called under the net to make it 13-13, and a Hodges kill gave Hereford its first lead of the game at 14-13. Hitting errors by both teams made the Hereford lead 15-14. Robinson had a kill for a sideout, but Cornelius followed with an even harder one. Brooke Bryant's serve went sideways off a Dumas player for an ace and the game.

"Our passing was the best in the first game of the three," Reeh said. "We blocked well, but that we did all three games. I think the difference in a Hereford-Dumas match is passing and blocking, and we did have some service receive problems in this match, which we haven't had especially in the last two matches in the playoffs." The passing problems surfaced briefly at the beginning of the first game but disappeared for the rest of that game. The problems popped up every so often, in the worst places for Hereford, in the second and third games.

The second game was close all the way. Hereford led early 4-1 and 6-4, but Dumas took a lead of 9-7 on a huge kill by Robinson and an ace. Hereford pulled within 11-13 late on an Evers ace and a Dumas setting error, but Hereford was called in the net for Dumas' 15th point.

The loss visibly hurt the Lady Whitefaces, but Reeh said they should be proud. She pointed out that the only losses in Hereford's 28-7 were to Dumas (four times) and Amarillo High (three times). Both advanced to the state tournament--Amarillo High in Class 5A with a 35-0 record.

"The pain of a loss like this will ease after a few days, and the kids will see all the reasons why I'm proud of them and why the community is proud of them."

Woodson's big plays lead Steelers past Bills

By ALAN ROBINSON
AP Sports Writer
PITTSBURGH (AP) - If Rod Woodson hadn't been voted to the NFL's all-time team, the league might be demanding a recount.

Woodson, single-handedly accounting for more scoring the last two weeks than Pittsburgh's offense, returned an interception for a touchdown and forced a fumble for another to lead the Steelers past the Buffalo Bills 23-10 Monday night.

Gary Anderson, again the only productive member of the Steelers' no-go offense, kicked three field goals to move into sixth place on the NFL's all-time list with 302 as Pittsburgh won for the second straight week without an offensive touchdown.

Woodson stepped in front of intended receiver Bill Brooks for a 37-yard interception return touchdown - the third of his career - to put Pittsburgh up 10-0 in the final minute of the first quarter.

Later, with Buffalo down only a touchdown after Jim Kelly's 19-yard scoring pass to Andre Reed, a blitzing Woodson dislodged the ball from Kelly near the goal line and defensive end Gerald Williams fell on it for his first touchdown in nine NFL seasons.

Rookie defensive tackle Brentson Buckner added to the Bills' growing frustration, blocking a 32-yard field goal attempt by Steve Christie later in the fourth quarter - Christie's first miss in 18 attempts this season.

Anderson, who last week kicked a field goal in overtime after Woodson forced a critical fumble in the Steelers' 12-9 victory over Houston, is 7-for-7 the last two weeks, 17-for-18 this season and 45-for-48 the last two seasons.

Mark Royals twice backed Buffalo up to its 3-yard line with pooch punts in the first quarter.

The YMCA is a great place to go for any kid. For some kids, it's the only great place to go.

The truth is, because of family problems or low incomes, a lot of kids can't afford the opportunities to go places and be with adults who can give them the caring attention they need.

That's why the YMCA is so important. We give kids the positive experiences they need to grow up prepared for happy and productive lives. But we always run out of money before we run out of kids.

Flower arranging demonstration given

Terry Sparks, owner of Terry's Floral and Designs, demonstrated the art of flower arranging when members of La Madre Mia Study Club met Thursday evening at the business.

Sparks' demonstration included ways to use fresh and dried flowers and fruit accented with a variety of greenery. Judy Williams won the arrangement as the door prize.

Roll call was answered with the members telling of their favorite Christmas traditions.

Mary Herring reported on the club's upcoming Annual Holiday Tour of Homes. The event is planned from 1-5 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 4, at the following homes: Pat and Don Graham, 128 Liveoak; Glenda and Keith Hanson, 111 Rio Vista Drive; Karen and John Sherrod, 140 Redwood; and Linda and Rosendo Gonzalez, 2100 Plains Ave. Tickets for the tour are priced at $5 per person and may be purchased from study club members or at the homes during tour hours. Proceeds will benefit the community.

Members present were Joyce Allred, Ruth Black, Francine Bromlow, Cindy Cassels, Merle Clark, Linda Cumpston, Kay Hall, Mary Herring, Barbara Manning, Glenda Marcum, Gladys Merritt, Betty Owen, Nancy Paetzold, Lucy Rogers, Tricia Sims, Mysedia Smith, Georgia Sparks, Debbie Tardy, Betty Taylor, Nicky Walser, Mary Beth White and Judy Williams.

Dan Quayle to speak in Amarillo Nov. 21

The AC Student Government Association will bring former Vice President Dan Quayle to Amarillo Nov. 21 as this year's Distinguished Lecturer.

Quayle is also author of "Standing Firm," an eye-opening autobiography featuring a close look at Washington politics.

As America's 44th vice president, Quayle offers the ultimate insider's account of the Bush administration. Quayle will discuss his years in office and the self-confidence and Christian faith that gave him the courage to stand firm and to record some of the most noteworthy contributions made by any vice president in history.

Included among these high points—coordinating America's response to a coup attempt in the Philippines, bringing the family-values issue to the forefront, using the White House Competitiveness Council to curtail "overregulation and championing legal reform.

Attendees to the event will be treated to a poignant look at the man "whose good humor is exceeded only by a competence for which he has never been fully credited," according to Harper Collins Publishers. Following his remarks, Quayle will answer questions from the audience.

The lecture will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Amarillo Civic Center Auditorium. Tickets are $7.50 for AC students and $15 for general admission and may be purchased at the business offices on the West and Washington Street campuses.

A reception for Quayle will precede the lecture at 6:30 p.m. in the atrium of Boatmen's First National Bank. Tickets to the reception and lecture are $50.

Sam Houston was elected president of the Republic of Texas in 1836.

Dolls to be given away

Two hand-crafted porcelain dolls will be given away during the Annual Festival of Trees Celebration planned Nov. 17-20 at the Hereford Senior Citizens Center.

Tickets for the dolls are priced at $2 each or three for $5 and each ticket gives two chances for a doll. Tickets can be purchased at the center or by calling 364-0471.

The dolls were made and dressed by members of the Hereford Senior Citizens Association.

North Hereford club elects new officers

New officers were elected when the North Hereford Family Community Education Club met recently at Sirloin Stockade.

Edith Higgins will serve as president; Naomi Brisendine, secretary; Evelyn Crawford, treasurer; Martha Lueb, council delegate; and Edna Schulte, reporter.

Higgins was the presiding officer at the meeting and program chairman was Brisendine who read "Hugs." Also, Crawford read an article on voting and Higgins read an item on "Thanksgiving."

It is announced that the council luncheon is scheduled Dec. 5.

Those present were Brisendine, Crawford, Marcella Hoffman, Lueb, Higgins and Schulte.

New member welcomed by organization

Irene Allen was welcomed as a new member when the Baptist Women of Avenue Baptist Church met recently for a luncheon meeting.

Wilma Bryan opened the session with a prayer and Irene Mullins presided over the business meeting.

Inez Houston prepared lunch of chili, English pea salad, mixed fruit from Thailand (which is pronounced Mac Chamoi Rambutan) and angel food cake to those present: Esther Frazier, Thelma Cherry, Janey Allmon, Cathy Bodie and Pauline Landers.

Allmon gave the devotional and the prayer calendar was read of the 12 missionaries who had observed birthdays. Thelma Cherry prayed for each of the missionaries.

Bryan gave a program on Mission Action and what Baptist Women can do in the community, in nursing homes and visiting prospects.

To Your Good Health

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Can't some other drug besides prednisone be used for asthma control? My daughter, age 50, was told she has asthma and was put on prednisone. She has gained a lot of weight as the result of this steroid drug. The weight gain has made it hard for her to do her exercises. So she is in a Catch-22 situation. That's why I am asking about other drugs, ones that won't cause the weight gain. Can you make some suggestion? — P.D.M.

ANSWER: There are lots of other medicines for asthma control. There are oral ones such as theophylline and others in inhalant form that dilate the breathing tubes more directly.

"Dilation of the passages is the chief approach to asthma control. Some asthma patients need to use prednisone, an anti-inflammation drug, to do the job. The rationale is that chronic inflammation keeps air passages in a state of sensitivity and thus prone to clamping down from asthma triggers — allergy, cold air or whatever. If you can control the inflammation, then you can control the asthma.

Any steroid drug such as prednisone that is taken over a long period can cause unpleasant side effects, among them weight gain. The doctor tries to keep the dose as low as possible to minimize such problems. And when possible, cortisone in inhaler form is preferred, for in spray form the side effects are much less likely to happen.

I am sure that in time, your daughter's doctor will be weaning her off the prednisone. When she is safely off the medicine, she probably will see the added weight go away.

For more on the subject, see the asthma report I'm sending you. Others can order a copy by writing: Dr. Donohue—No. 41, Box 5539, Riverton, NJ 08077-5539. Enclose $3 and a self-addressed, stamped (52 cents) No. 10 envelope.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Would you please write and tell me what causes your clothes to stain when you sweat under the arms, and how you can get rid of the stain? What can you take to prevent the staining? — T.T.

ANSWER: The staining results from excessive sweating, undoubtedly a chemical reaction of a sort.

A topical solution of 20 percent aluminum chloride usually works to cut down on excessive perspiration. One brand name is Drysol. The skin has to be completely dry when applied. You apply it at bedtime, leave it on overnight and wash it off in the morning. I hope it works for you.

I have to tell you that my domestic skills don't include a method for stain removal itself. I am sure my mail will include lots of kitchen remedies.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My daughter, age 46, has been told she has a new bacteria in her stomach lining. It is called, "H. pylori," from my doctor's spelling. Can you tell me about this bacteria? — N.D.

ANSWER: Until rather recently, the treatment for peptic ulcers focused exclusively on reduction of stomach acid. Thus medicines such as antacids and drugs to limit stomach acid were the familiar ones.

Now there is an innovation in ulcer treatment for some patients. It has to do with a bacterium recently identified in association with some ulcer disease. It is Helicobacter pylori, or "H. pylori."

The bacteria, it was learned, can enter the ulcer picture by chewing up the stomach's mucous lining, permitting stomach acid there to attack and form the ulcer. Thus, today, antibiotics are becoming familiar drugs in treatment of many peptic ulcers.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Nine months ago, my family finally persuaded my mother to quit smoking. She has gained 30 pounds, all in the abdomen. She watches her diet, but still gains. Can you help? — Mrs. V.H.

ANSWER: On average, smokers can expect a 5- to 10-pound gain after quitting.

There is a slight metabolism drop with removal of nicotine. But more is involved. Smokers tend to be thinner for starters, and their fat storage tends concentrate in less healthy areas — the abdomen, for example, as opposed to the hips.

Ex-smokers tend to be snackers, so they really must watch calories. They should exercise as well.

If your mom could take up a modest exercise program, she might speed up her metabolism sufficiently to make up for the absence of nicotine. Eventually, she should return to normal weight.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I'm a 14-year-old girl facing a big problem. I am starting to get pimples. My brother, who is four years older than me, had such a bad case that it left scars. I don't want the same thing to happen. I scrub my face three times a day, at least. What else should I be doing? — E.S.

ANSWER: Stop scrubbing, Elizabeth! That's not the way to treat pimples. It will make things worse. Wash gently with a mild unscented soap, and be sure to rinse. That would be a good start.

Here's the important physiological fact about acne: It does not result from dirt, but from the plugging of pores with oil — oil that comes from glands under the skin.

Hints from Heloise

Q. We live in subtropical, hot, humid climate here in the Houston area, and bread molds in two days if it is just left out in a plastic bag.

A. I have very little freezer space as it is and would love to find a proven method of keeping bread fresh other than freezing. Is there any hope? — Lillie Thrasher, Pearland, Texas

A. The only two ways you are going to keep the bread from molding so quickly is to refrigerate or freeze it! Here's a hint. Divide the loaf of bread into serving sizes large enough for a couple of days. Refrigerate the ones you will use first, and freeze the others in freezer-safe bags.

With the bread divided into smaller portions, it may be easier for you to find space for them in your freezer.

VINEGAR TO THE RESCUE
Dear Heloise: After peeling shrimp and handling other seafood, I pour vinegar on my hands and rub. Rinse and repeat and rinse again. No shrimpy hands! — Laura Eubanks, Mabelvale, Ark.

Doesn't vinegar just do all kinds of wonderful things! I have compiled a pamphlet with many of its versatile uses. To order one, send your request along with $2 and a long, self-addressed, stamped (52 cents) envelope to: Heloise/Vinegar, PO Box 795001, San Antonio TX 78279-5001.

RECIPE FRAME
Dear Heloise: Here's my hint on keeping recipe cards neat and clean.

When I'm going to bake, I put my recipe card into one of those clear plastic picture frames with a base. I set it upright so I can see exactly what my recipe calls for, and I don't need to touch it with my sticky fingers.

When done, I simply wash off the picture frame and file my recipe card away for future use.

The frames are very inexpensive and easy to find and the recipe card is always good as new. — Allison Blair, Sweet City, Iowa

HOT POTATOES
Dear Heloise: We like mashed potatoes and eat lots of them.

Instead of pouring hot water down the drain, pour it into the dish the potatoes will be served in. Mash the potatoes, then pour the water out of the serving dish (the dish is now hot) and serve the potatoes in a warm dish. Works great! — Anson Johnson, Jr., Palmyra, N.Y.

Thanks for sharing your superidea!

— Heloise

SCENTED DRAWER LINER
Dear Heloise: After lining drawers, I had some of the scented liner left. I needed to wrap a small gift, so I used it. It made up real pretty and smelled good too. — F. H., Washington, D. C.

Dear Heloise: My favorite recycling tip involves the plastic pint containers that strawberries and cherry tomatoes are packed in.

I find the green plastic ones serve well as a flower frog when I turn them upside down into a container. I then place flowers in the holes.

The plastic can be shaped to fit the container, and when the flowers have wilted, I pull out the entire container with flowers and discard it.

We have a large flower garden and I enjoy flowers all summer and fall in many rooms of our home. — Mrs. Shirley Morandi, Belle Mead, N. J.

Go by Chunnel or air: it takes same time

Train rider has little problem

Ground traffic delays flier

EDITOR'S NOTE - It's been seven years since giant drills started spinning, ready to bore a hole beneath the English Channel and unite the often fractious nations of Britain and France. On Monday, high-speed Eurostar trains began regular passenger service between Paris and London, and two reporters set out to determine whether the new rail link could beat an airplane flying the 210 miles between cities. They surprised each other by arriving at Trafalgar Square in precisely the same time.

By CHRISTOPHER BURNS
Associated Press Writer
PARIS TO LONDON (AP) - The race begins at the Arc de Triomphe in a dark drizzle as Paris awakens. I know it takes longer to reach the airport than the train station, so I pause in a cafe to warm up with a jolt of espresso.

7:32 a.m. - Enter the Paris Metro, the city's subway, and for a fare of $1.35 take express to the Gare du Nord rail station.

7:47 - At station, walk to a special airport-style ticket check-in built for the Eurostar. Pay $125 one-way.

7:54 - After passing through security, enter an ultra-modern waiting section, glassed-in and brightly lit with stainless steel lamps. Greeted effusively by attendants in sharply cut, deep blue uniforms, designed by Paris couturier Pierre Balmain. Security agents remain vigilant; a dog sniffs at baggage.

8:00 - Run a gantlet of TV and still cameras then step onto the Eurostar, a blue, yellow and white train of 18 cars with almost 800 seats. Inside is a bevy of journalists, but most passengers are tourists or business travelers.

8:07 - Eurostar eases into the dawn, running at a moderate clip until mile 12, when it reaches France's special track for high-speed trains. By mile 18, it's hit maximum speed of 180 mph.

Countryside shoots by, but the ride is smooth, as if we're moving on a cushion of air. Passengers stroll, chat, buy drinks in the cafe car.

First-class passengers, seated in wide, plush gray seats, have a symbolic Anglo-French breakfast of sliced bread, ham and cheese, a croissant, yogurt and orange marmalade. The gray and yellow striped seats in second class, where I am ensconced, are comfortable but less cushy; some passengers complain they don't recline. I partake of orange juice and a cold, leathery croissant at the standup bar.

9:15 - The train slows to 120 mph at Lille in northern France, then picks up speed after turning west toward the coast. Agents check passports.

To Richard Roth, a 35-year-old attorney from New York City, it seems almost like a commuter ride, in a sleeper setting.

"People could actually live in Paris and work in London. It sounds crazy, but certainly people commute from Philadelphia to New York (a distance of 115 miles) every day," he said. London to Paris is 210 miles.

9:35 - With a slight whoosh, the Eurostar shoots underground, running at 100 mph through the 31-mile-long tunnel bored through a layer of chalk under the seabed at a cost of $16 billion.

9:55 - The train exits into rainy English countryside, dotted with sheep and tidy red brick homes. The ride seems just as silky because of Eurostar's superior suspension.

9:58 - Less than 2-1/2 hours after leaving Paris, all is running smoothly when the Eurostar unexpectedly slows to a halt. A signal problem.

10:02 - The train begins to roll again, slowly, taking several minutes to reach top speed of 90 mph on the English track it must share with other trains. Britain is not expected to complete a high-speed track before century's end, when the trip will be cut from 3 hours to 2-1/2.

11:13 - Eurostar pulls up to its own shiny glass-and-steel platform at Waterloo Station. A brass band blares greetings.

11:17 - Sail through customs after filling out a "landing card." Take a $4.80 taxi to Trafalgar Square.

11:27 - Touch one of the bronze lions at Trafalgar Square - 3 hours, 55 minutes, and roughly $131, after leaving the Arc de Triomphe.

By PATRICK McDOWELL
Associated Press Writer
PARIS TO LONDON (AP) - I pick the shortest air route for the AP race, booking a flight to little City Airport, just six miles from London. Flying to the more distant Heathrow or Gatwick would have added up to an hour.

But the flier's edge - a scheduled 70-minute flight versus a 3-hour, 6-minute train ride - evaporated due to late takeoff, city traffic and an unplanned hike to make subway connections.

7:04 a.m. - Hail taxi at Arc de Triomphe. Commuter traffic is still light, and I arrived at Charles de Gaulle airport in what driver Jean-Pierre Marais calls a "pretty good" 22 minutes. Ride costs equivalent of $37.

7:26 - Speedy no-baggage check-in thanks to a machine that scans my $540 ticket ($270 one-way) and assigns seat. Exchange money, buy newspaper, visit restroom. Go through cursory passport inspection.

7:50 - After three minutes in waiting lounge, passengers board bus that will take us to plane. We wait for all 46 to get on. Bus leaves at 8:10.

"I can see myself using the train," said Graham Hanson, 43, a British Telecom marketing executive who makes about 40 Channel crossings a year. "They've got to show they can keep it to three hours. If the price is sensible, why not take it?"

8:15 - Passengers duck to avoid the low ceiling of the Air France ATR-42 twin-turboprop, debate whether to keep overcoats on against chill.

8:36 - Take off 16 minutes after scheduled departure. Pilot Daniel Ramassamy, 45, blames the long taxi from southern gate to northern runway.

9:01 - Breakfast is a cold, rubbery croissant, ham and cheese sandwich, sweetened white cheese, citrus slices, orange juice, coffee.

In contrast to train, the air trip offers barely an hour to relax and it's noisy. One frustrated passenger puts away her business report and pulls out a novel.

9:53 - With 20 people already in line for taxis, choose subway. Board shuttle bus - fare $4.80 - to subway station.

10:00 - Bus immediately snarled in traffic. Arrive at Liverpool Station 25 minutes later.

10:25 - Take tube to Bank Station. Delayed at least 12 minutes by long walk through underground corridors because platform for needed connection is under repair and passengers must walk to Monument, the next station.

10:52 - Arrive Embankment. Walk 400 yards to Trafalgar Square.

10:59 - Touch Nelson's Column, confident of victory. An hour later, realize my colleague arrived in same elapsed time, without half the hassles and a savings of more than $180.

Noon - Vow to take Chunnel next time.

Millikin University's founder, philanthropist James Millikin, was so publicity-shy that he declined a place on the platform when President Theodore Roosevelt dedicated the new university in 1903. Millikin preferred to mingle with the crowd.

State Capital

HIGHLIGHTS
By Lyndell Williams & Ed Sterling
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN - During her campaign, Gov. Ann Richards ridiculed a man who she said woke up one day and decided he wanted to be governor of Texas. That man is now Gov.-elect George W. Bush.

On Nov. 8, Texas voters turned their backs on the incumbent Democrat's long record as a public officeholder and weren't convinced by her "smear" ads. Bush, a Republican, won with 53.5 percent of the vote to Richards' 45.9 percent.

The day after the election, Bush said he believed he had a mandate to overhaul the state's juvenile justice, public education and welfare systems. He congratulated his party mates and held out his hand to Democrats, saying, "This is not a Republican agenda, because there will be a lot of Democrats who will support my plan to make our schools better, our streets safer and the welfare system more responsible."

Bullock Scores Easy Win
Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock, Texas' most powerful officeholder, is now the state's highest-elected Democrat.

Bullock, 65, overwhelmingly defeated Republican Tex Lezar of Dallas to win his second four-year term. Bullock garnered 62 percent of the vote to Lezar's 38 percent.

"This election is not so much a victory for me as it is a victory for Texans who want their problems solved without partisanship or gridlock," said Bullock.

Hutchison Defeats Fisher
U.S. Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison is returning to Washington with a full six-year term and a Republican majority in Congress for the first time in 40 years.

Hutchison, the state's first female senator, easily defeated Dallas financier Richard Fisher with 62 percent of the votes to Fisher's 37.3 percent.

"I think we are going to see some significant legislation passed immediately," Hutchison said. She predicted that the GOP Congress would approve term limits, staff cuts and a constitutional amendment requiring a balanced federal budget.

Veteran Democrats Defeated
Four longtime Democratic officeholders shared Richards' fate. For months, political talking heads accurately predicted that the mid-term election would be a plebiscite against incumbents, liberals and President Bill Clinton.

Voters rejected four veteran Democrats: State Sens. Carl Parker of Port Arthur and Steve Carraker of Roby, and in the House, Betty Denton of Waco; and U.S. Rep. Jack Brooks of Beaumont.

Parker, 60, who was elected to the state Senate in 1976, also served 14 years as a state representative. He was elected to the Texas House in 1962 - three years before his Republican opponent was born.

Michael Galloway of The Woodlands, a 29-year-old independent oil and gas producer - and political novice - claimed 53 percent of the vote to Parker's 47 percent.

State Sen. David Sibley, R-Waco, told the Houston Chronicle Parker was "the ideological and intellectual leader of the liberal group" in the Senate.

Carraker, 43, was defeated by Tom Haywood of Wichita Falls.

Carraker served in the House from 1983-88, and the Senate from 1988.

Meanwhile, Denton, 48, lost to Republican Barbara Rustling of China Spring, after serving in the House for 17 years.

Brooks, whose hold on the 9th Congressional District in East Texas spanned 42 years, would have been the senior representative in Congress had he been re-elected. He lost to Steve Stockman, a 37-year-old accountant from Friendswood.

GOP Takes RR Commission
As further proof that Texas is a bona fide two-party state, Republicans staged an unprecedented sweep of the Texas Railroad Commission, with the first woman ever elected to the post winning one of two seats on the ballot this year.

GOP challenger Charles R. Matthews of Garland defeated Democratic Chairman James E. Nugent for a full six-year term, ending more than 40 years of government service for Nugent.

In the other race, Democratic incumbent Mary Scott Nabers was beaten for a two-year term by GOP challenger Carole Keeton Rylander, a former three-term mayor of Austin.

Nabers became the second consecutive woman appointed to the commission by Gov. Richards to lose her job at election time. Lena Guerrero was the first. Nabers was appointed last year to fill the unexpired term of Bob Krueger, who left the commission to make an unsuccessful run for the U.S. Senate.

Election Highlights
■ Republicans captured four of the seven seats on the State Board of Education up for election to give the GOP a slim majority (8-7) on the 15-member board.

■ Other statewide officials re-elected include: Dan Morales (D), attorney general; John Sharp (D), comptroller; Martha Whitehead (D), treasurer; Garry Mauro (D), land commissioner; and Rick Perry (R), agriculture commissioner.

American youngsters face heart disease

DALLAS (AP) - As American youngsters get fatter, their cholesterol levels are rising ominously, threatening a surge of heart disease when these boys and girls grow up, research suggests.

"There are 80 million children in the United States today, and 30 million of them will die of heart disease. It's not a small problem," said Dr. Hugh D. Allen of Columbus Children's Hospital in Ohio.

Many experts believe that American youngsters eat too much and exercise too little. They fear this could offset advances made in recent years against heart disease, which is by far the nation's biggest killer.

Doctors presented several reports Monday at a meeting of the American Heart Association on the links between chubbiness and early signs of heart disease among U.S. youths.

However, one study also suggested a reason for optimism: It found that low-fat diets for youngsters can lower their cholesterol without stunting their growth, as some have feared.

The trend toward obesity is clear. Last week, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention reported that 21 percent of teen-agers are overweight. This is up from 15 percent in the 1970s.

The latest work shows what this is doing to youngsters' cholesterol levels. Much of the evidence comes from the Bogalusa Heart Study, a long-running study involving children in one Louisiana town.

Dr. Samuel S. Gidding of Children's Memorial Hospital in Chicago directed a review of 654 Bogalusa youngsters who approached puberty in the 1970s and '80s. In both decades, the researchers started with children who ranged in age from 7 to 10 and followed them for eight years.

The smallest differences were in white girls, who gained an average of two pounds in the 1980s. Black boys put on the most, an average of 15 more pounds.

"We think this has implications for all healthy U.S. children above the age of 2 years," said Dr. Peter Kwiterovich of Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore.
