Oil Firms Asked To Meet Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Carter administration is asking oil companies to "roll up their sleeves" and get on with the job of producing enough unleaded gasoline to meet demands of U.S. motorists.

Despite industry warnings that demand is beginning to outstrip supply, a top Energy Department official told Congress Tuesday he sees no reason why the manufacture of unleaded gas can't be stepped up - especially in light of a new rule allowing refiners to pass on a larger share of their costs to motorists.

"It would be an outrage if this industry failed to meet the need for unleaded gasoline," David Bardin, head of the Energy Department's Economic Regulatory Administration, told a House Commerce subcommittee.

On a related matter, the House Science and Technology Committee was meeting later today on proposals to help reduce U.S. reliance on imported oil by transforming coal into clean-burning fuel.

Once thought too expensive a process to compete with oil, energy officials are now taking a new look at proposed projects that would turn coal into gas, liquid or solid fuel.

Backers of such projects claim a clean-burning fuel can be derived from coal and would cost the equivalent of oil priced at $18 to $20 a barrel.

With oil imports now costing upwards of $15 a barrel at U.S. ports and even higher prices looming on the horizon, the coal projects are nearing the point where they can compete with oil.

The Carter administration has said it will decide by this summer which of two proposed $700 million coal-to-fuel projects it will support: a coal-to-fuel plant in West Virginia or a coal-to-liquid-fuel plant in Kentucky.

Bardin told the House Commerce subcommittee on oversight and investigations Tuesday that the Energy Department rule issued earlier this month allowing refiners to pass along a higher percentage of the cost of making gasoline will add about five cents a gallon this year to overall gasoline prices.

Whitehouse said regulatory delays and inflation eroded savings of 75 cents to $1 a barrel Sohio hoped to realize by using a pipeline instead of shipping oil through the Panama Canal.

"I'm afraid now major energy projects in the United States have little hope of success today. A quagmire of federal and state regulations now exists that can bog down any project, no matter how worthy and regardless of the national interest," said Whitehouse.

Pipeline plans had federal approval, but California authorities had not

'Tragic', Says Gov. Clements Pipeline Project Is Killed By 'Red Tape'

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - The scrapping of a proposed $1 billion oil pipeline that would have stretched from California to Texas has been termed "tragic, most tragic," by the chairman of the Texas Railroad Commission.

The Standard Oil Co. Ohio announced Tuesday it is abandoning the project that would have pumped 500,000 barrels of Alaskan crude daily through Texas and into America's heartland.

"We were counting on construction of the pipeline to allow Alaskan oil to enter the pipeline arteries of the United States," said Railroad Commission Chairman John Poerner.

Sohio Chairman Alton W. Whitehouse made the announcement in Cleveland just one day after Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger told a Senate Energy Committee hearing in Washington that he believed the pipeline was needed by the nation.

"The project-killing delays were endless government permit procedures, pending and threatened litigation, and the prospective unavailability of two natural gas lines which Sohio proposed to convert to the oil pipeline," said Whitehouse.

Texas Gov. Bill Clements, who headed an oil exploration firm before his election, also bemoaned the decision.

"This would have been a means by which we could have corrected the maldistribution problem on the West Coast in a highly efficient and cost effective way. It's a tragedy," he said.

"I think that again we have a clear demonstration of excessive government interference and red tape with the result being that a project has now been abandoned that was very cost effective and certainly needed in the energy crisis that we are in now."

Sohio has tried since 1974 to obtain federal, state and regional approval for more than 700 permits to build an oil tanker terminal, storage tanks and pipeline to move Alaskan oil from Long Beach, Calif., to a national pipeline distribution center in Texas.

Whitehouse said regulatory delays and inflation eroded savings of 75 cents to $1 a barrel Sohio hoped to realize by using a pipeline instead of shipping oil through the Panama Canal.

"I'm afraid now major energy projects in the United States have little hope of success today. A quagmire of federal and state regulations now exists that can bog down any project, no matter how worthy and regardless of the national interest," said Whitehouse.

Police Recover Merchandise

Police recovered more than $5,000 worth of stolen Gibson Discount merchandise Tuesday and arrested two persons in connection with the burglary. More than $3,000 worth of shotguns and rifles were taken in the early morning burglary Tuesday. Also stolen were several stereos and speakers, cigarettes, boots, clothing, grocery items, a camera, shampoo, knives and shotgun shells. The burglary was the largest investigated by the Hereford police department this year. Investigating officers looking over the recovered property, left to right, are Reuben McGilvary, Vernon Hope and Joe Brown. Other officers working the case included Scott Howard and sheriff's deputy Johnny Moya. (Brand Photo)

Suspects Arrested In Gibson Burglary

Quick work by Hereford police officers solved a major burglary at Gibson's Discount Center Tuesday, with more than $5,000 worth of merchandise being recovered after the arrest of two suspects.

The Gibson store was broken into early Tuesday morning, as thieves entered through an air conditioner vent and made off with some $3,000 worth of rifles and shotguns. Also taken in the burglary were stereos and speakers, knives, grocery items, and other miscellaneous goods with an estimated value of approximately $2,000.

Arrested in connection with the burglary were two Hereford men—Obed Blea, 19, address given as 825 S. 25 Mile Ave., and Rosendo Nava, 17, whose address was listed as 204 Ross. The suspects were in county jail this morning pending the setting of bonds.

Officers made the arrests at 11:16 Tuesday morning and recovered the stolen merchandise. Investigating officers theorized the suspects made about six trips in taking the goods from the store. Arresting officers were Joe Brown, Vernon Hope, Reuben McGilvary, Scott

Howard, and sheriff's deputy Johnny Moya.

Police Chief Don Brush praised officers for clearing the case in a quick and efficient manner, calling it "just good police work."

Only two other items were contained in the police report this morning. Shanna

House Decides Ag Corporations Should Get Equal Tax Treatment

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Corporations that own agricultural land should get the same tax break as family farmers and ranchers, the House has decided.

Three decisions Tuesday on corporate-owned land laid to rest one of the major issues surrounding House action on a bill implementing the 1978 Tax Relief Amendment.

In a long afternoon marked by action on 21 amendments, the House:

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter returned to a hero's welcome today bringing as the bounty of his shuttling summit an agreement by Egyptian and Israeli leaders to accept compromise peace terms and their pledge to push for final approval of a treaty.

"I believe that God has answered our prayers," Carter said.

The Israeli cabinet in Jerusalem was called into special session by Prime Minister Menachem Begin to debate two remaining compromises already accepted by Egyptian President Anwar Sadat. The cabinet was expected to send them to Israel's parliament.

Approval there also seemed likely. Begin said he would resign if parliament rejected them.

The prime minister said a treaty with Egypt could be signed within the month, possibly in a week or two, if the cabinet and parliament, the Knesset, approve. Egyptian Foreign Minister Butros Ghali agreed with Begin's assessment.

Begin said he, Sadat and Carter would sign the accord in Washington. Then, Begin said, he and Sadat would sign the Hebrew version in Jerusalem and the Arabic text in Cairo.

Carter told about 1,000 congressional leaders, members of his administration and other flag-waving well-wishers who greeted him after midnight at Andrews Air Force Base: "You are looking at a tired but grateful man."

The president said he is asking world leaders in private messages to support "what Egypt and Israel have done." Carter said he had telephoned some of them from Air Force One.

He did not identify the leaders, but presumably they included Arab heads of state whom the administration has been unable to persuade so far to rally support for Sadat in efforts for peace.

By choosing peace, Sadat and Begin "are venturing into the unknown," Carter said. "They know that these United States will be with them as they begin to make peace a living reality for their people."

"There were political risks involved," the president told the cheering, sign-waving crowd about his Middle East mission. One sign said, "Jimmy: Prophet for Peace." Another said, "100 Percent President."

"They were political risks to me as president - and therefore perhaps to the prestige of the United States," Carter said. "Fortunately our work has had a happy result..."

"In war, we offer our very lives almost as a matter of routine," the president declared. "We must be no less daring, no less steadfast in the pursuit of peace."

Vice President Walter F. Mondale, who shook hands with Carter at the end of a red carpet, told the president: "Welcome to a proud and hopeful nation..."

Strong Quake In Mexico City

By GORDON D. MOTT Associated Press Writer

MEXICO CITY (AP) - A severe earthquake damaged buildings and sprayed broken glass over the streets of downtown Mexico City before dawn today. The Red Cross indicated there were no injuries, but there were no immediate reports of deaths.

The Seismological Institute in Mexico City reported the quake measured 7 on the Richter scale and the epicenter was about 200 miles southwest of the capital city.

The U.S. Geological Survey in Golden, Colo., called it a major quake with a Richter reading of 7.9 and the epicenter 100 miles northwest of Acapulco, on the Pacific coast or a short distance at sea.

Scientists there said that reading would make it the strongest quake in the world this year.

No damage was reported in Acapulco, a popular resort, but the highway to it from Mexico City was blocked by landslides.

Lights were out in several sections of the capital of 13 million people when a strong aftershock hit almost exactly an hour after the main shock rolled through the capital shortly after 5 a.m.

The facade fell from a bank building on Juarez Street in the heart of the city. It appeared at least one upper story of the building had collapsed into the ground floor.

Tourists gathered in small frightened knots in front of the towering hotels on Paseo de la Reforma Boulevard. Glass from broken windows littered the sidewalk.

Electricity was cut in many parts of Mexico City. The subway system stopped and firemen reported serious damage to some buildings at Inter-American University in the southern part of the city.

THE "LET-GEORGE-DO-IT" attitude is often a stumbling block in many community projects, but let's hope that is not the case with the emergency medical system being proposed here. The health and safety committee of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce endorsed the study of the system.

Members of Hereford's three men's service organizations are getting information on the system during the week. Rotarians head a program Tuesday; the Lions today and the Kiwanians Thursday. A public meeting was set for 5 p.m. today at the Hereford State Bank community room. We hope some folks took time to find out what EMS means to a community.

Nine more members were signed up Tuesday in the annual Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce membership drive, according to a report from chairman Mike Patrick. Nine had been signed up Monday, making a total of 18 for the first two days of the week-long campaign.

Plan Outlined To Rotarians

Life Support System Urged For County

BY PAUL SIMS Managing Editor

An advanced life support system for emergency medical care in Deaf Smith County is bound to save lives because it provides for on-the-spot treatment of stricken individuals, a Hereford physician told local Rotarians Tuesday.

Dr. D.E. McBrayer and emergency medical technicians Jerry Walls and John Gilliland told the Rotary Club that an emergency medical system could be likened to having "an emergency room on wheels" in Deaf Smith County.

McBrayer said a system would include a special ambulance equipped with emergency life-saving equipment and manned by specially-trained paramedics.

Walls and Gilliland are emergency medical technicians who have been undergoing extensive paramedic training in Amarillo.

"There are 12 modules to go through to become an advanced emergency medical technician," Walls said. "We've completed two-thirds of those modules. We'll be learning cardiac care and telemetry next."

McBrayer said an example of how the system could be utilized in the Hereford area would be a severe-burn victim "in the northernmost part of the county."

When the ambulance arrives at the scene, the first step will be patient evaluation, McBrayer said.

"It will be important to know what type of fire it was and the age and previous health of the patient. The paramedic will do a physical examination of the patient at the scene," he said.

"The information will be radioed to Hereford medical control—a physician on the staff of the hospital. This physician will authorize what has to be done."

"The paramedic will attempt to make sure the patient is stabilized. This is very important, and this is something we'll be able to do while in transport. In the past, we've not had the facilities to do anything but transport the patient as gently and fast as possible. Now we'll be able to start definitive therapy right then and there."

Radio communications are crucial, said

Rep. Tim Von Dohlen, D-Goliad, was one who tried to eliminate corporations from the agricultural value tax break.

He said he had found "there is considerable concern over anything that would encourage the purchase of land for agricultural pursuits by persons who are not now in that endeavor."

Rep. Bennie Bock II, D-New Braunfels, replied the question was not who was growing crops and raising livestock but keeping land in production.

Rep. Froy Salinas, D-Lubbock, failed 111-19 to impose 1978 market values as a floor on taxation of agricultural land.

"That would tell the farmers, 'We really didn't want to help you, so King's X,'" David said.

Propaganda Battle Continues

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) - Fighting in the Vietnam-China border war wound down today, intelligence officials in Bangkok reported, but the propaganda battle escalated with Vietnam accusing Chinese troops of butchering children and raping women.

Official observers following the war since China invaded Feb. 17 said Vietnamese forces were trailing Peking's troops as they withdrew to the frontier and that the conflict had shifted closer to the border.

The Chinese reportedly plan to hold some border posts they said the Vietnamese used as bases for raids into China. But the analysts said the war of words appears to be more intense now than the shooting war.

"Chinese troops beheaded, and disemboweled almost 100 children, burned and looted properties, raped women and mercilessly killed people with utter brutality everywhere they went," said the Vietnamese Foreign Ministry in a statement broadcast by Radio Hanoi.

Carter's Taiwan Policy Backed by Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter has won Senate and House approval of his new Taiwan policy, but with compromise language hinting that the United States might come to Taiwan's aid if Peking tries to take the island by force.

The Senate approved a bill implementing Carter's new policy 90-6 Tuesday and the House approved a similar measure 345-5. A single bill must now be worked out for Congress' final approval. That could come next week at the earliest.

Both houses rejected last-ditch efforts by opponents to impose stronger U.S.-Taiwan ties than Carter wanted under his new policy recognizing Peking as China's only government.

But Carter had to compromise and let Congress tack on the pledge that America "will maintain its capacity" to defend Taiwan if the president and Congress should decide to do so.

Both the House and Senate bills also declare that any Peking attack, embargo or other force to take over Taiwan would "be of grave concern to the United States."

But the bills make no pledge to defend Taiwan, only to maintain the capacity to do so.

Senate Subcommittee Rejects Proposal

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - A Senate subcommittee has rejected a mental health appointee portrayed by some parents as a threat to the state school system which, one said, is "the envy of the nation."

However, Family District Judge Criss Cole and other parents defended William Schnapp's appointment Tuesday, describing him as a knowledgeable man who cares deeply about mentally handicapped persons.

The nominations subcommittee voted 4-3 not to recommend Schnapp's appointment to the State Board of Mental Health and Mental Retardation.

The 31-member Senate, however, still must decide whether to confirm Schnapp.

The subcommittee approved Dallas bank executive William Daves Jr. as a member of the State Board of Insurance on a 6-0 vote but declined to approve or reject the appointment of W.B. "Monk" Edwards as a Houston district judge.

Edwards' appointment was merely forwarded to the Senate without any recommendation.

Jones Spokesman Kills Self

MODESTO, Calif. (AP) - Mike Prokes, the former TV reporter who spoke for Jim Jones during the halcyon days of the Peoples Temple, has followed his leader into death, shooting himself in the head moments after defending the Jonestown suicides at a news conference.

"I've got no martyr complex," he said after reading a five-page defense of the cult Tuesday night. "But I refuse to let my black brothers and sisters die in vain."

Prokes then walked out of a motel meeting room into an adjacent bathroom, witnesses said. After hearing a water faucet go on, eight reporters and photographers recoiled in horror as they heard a single shot ring out.

Prokes, 31, never regained consciousness after firing one .32-caliber bullet into his head, dying about three hours later at a local hospital, doctors said.

A suicide note found in the bathroom near Prokes' body said Prokes was not dispondent over the Jonestown deaths but chose to die for the same "just reasons" as those who drank the poison.

Front Brings Cooler Temperatures

By The Associated Press

A cold front moved through Central Texas into South Texas today, triggering some shower and thundershower activity as it moved into the Gulf of Mexico.

The front brought with it slightly cooler temperatures.

Dense fog cut visibility to less than a mile south of a line from San Antonio to Port Arthur during the pre-dawn hours.

Forecasts called for partly cloudy skies and slightly cooler temperatures in the northern half of the state and for mostly cloudy skies and some shower and thundershower activity in the southern half of the state.

Highs were to range from the 50s in the Panhandle to the 80s in the Lower Rio Grande Valley and the valleys of the Big Bend country.

Early morning temperatures ranged from the 30s in the Panhandle to the upper 60s in South Texas. Extremes ranged from 30 at Dalhart to 70 at Corpus Christi.

Weather

West Texas - Partly cloudy today with widely scattered thundershowers-southwest. Mostly cloudy tonight and Thursday with scattered showers and a few thundershowers. Partly cloudy southwest Thursday. Highs lower 50s northwest to near 70 south, except lower 80s Big Bend Valleys. Lows mid 30s north and mountains to lower 40s south.

Dispute Erupts Over Draft

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Army's top military and civilian leaders are sparring over whether to bring back the draft and let Uncle Sam call up as many as 100,000 recruits each year for mandatory training and standby duty.

The dispute erupted Tuesday after a surprise call by Gen. Bernard W. Rogers, the Army's chief of staff, for immediately instituting a limited version of the draft.

He proposed a lottery system for picking recruits and said the country must be willing to prosecute draft evaders.

Uniformed leaders of the Air Force, Navy and Marines, although not specifically endorsing Rogers' proposal, predicted that a draft is likely, if not inevitable. They were unanimous in urging renewal of a system requiring young people to register for possible service.

Within two hours of Rogers' recommendation, made to a congressional subcommittee, his civilian boss distributed a statement saying the general's plan clashes with official Army policy.

Army Secretary Clifford Alexander said, "To enact a draft, I believe, would be unnecessary, unfair and counterproductive to the best interests of the Army." He said there is no need now for a draft of any kind - including the one proposed by Rogers.

The disagreement between the two Pentagon officials probably will spread to Congress, where the debate so far has focused on plans for military registration - which would fall short of a draft.

Registration bills have been proposed in both houses of Congress, and legislation for a limited draft is pending in the House.

Rogers, the Army's top person in uniform, made his proposal to the Senate Armed Services manpower subcommittee, which is investigating widely acknowledged problems in mobilizing the nation's military for an emergency.

Although active-duty forces have fallen short of their recruiting goals this year, the biggest problem is in the reserves, and particularly the individual ready reserve - the manpower pool chiefly for use as replacements for wartime battlefield casualties.

Rogers said the individual ready reserve is 500,000 people short of its 700,000 authorized strength.

Generic Drugs At Lower Costs

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Major federal agencies such as the Defense Department and Veterans Administration already buy lower cost generic drugs - something Texans cannot do - as a way to save money, says federal administrator Gene Knapp.

Another federal employee, lawyer Dayle Berke of the Federal Trade Commission, said Texans could save as much as $21.9 million a year through the substitution of generic versions of 60 popular brand name drugs.

Librium, for example, is the brand name of a drug and costs $9.31 per 100 at some Austin stores, while the generic equivalent is chlordiazepoxide hydrochloride and costs $4.60 per 100.

Knapp, associate director of the Food and Drug Administration told a Senate committee Tuesday:

"The American consumer can be assured that our drug supply is of the highest quality in the world and that drugs will do what they are supposed to in the human body."

He said the FDA has compiled a list of approximately 5,000 approved drug products.

Ms. Berke reviewed a "model act" the federal agency has proposed for states such as Texas which do not permit pharmacists to substitute lower cost generic drugs.

She said only 10 states do not allow such substitutions.

A Texas bill based on the model act is before the human resources committee, but chairman Chet Brooks, the sponsor, said more testimony would be heard Wednesday before taking any vote.

A physician would have the option, under the model law, to prescribe a brand name drug or its generic equivalent. To prescribe the brand name, however, the doctor would be required to write "medically necessary" or similar words on the prescription.

Sen. Bill Patman, D-Ganado, asked if the provision was designed as a "nuisance," and Ms. Berke replied, "That's not the idea. The idea is that the physician would be required to make a two-second conscious decision to impose an increased price on a patient for some medical purpose."

Permitting lower-priced generic drugs, she said, would allow patients to "shop and choose among pharmacies."

"Prescription drugs now cost American consumers over $9 billion a year," Ms. Berke said.

"A considerable portion of this expenditure could be saved if pharmacists were not unnecessarily restricted in their ability to substitute lower cost generic equivalents for expensive brand name drug products."

Under the model act, a pharmacist's selection of drug substitutes would be limited to products determined by the Federal Drug Administration or appropriate state agency "to be therapeutically equivalent."

The model act also requires that the product be lower in cost than the brand prescribed, Ms. Berke said, "but does not require that the pharmacist pass on all the wholesale cost savings to the consumer."

"We believe that drug product selection laws that follow the principles of the model act will work to foster price competition and reduce drug costs without compromising the quality of health care," she said.

Obituaries

MRS. S.H. GARRISON

Funeral services for Mrs. S.H. "Sally" Garrison, 91, of Lubbock were conducted Tuesday afternoon in Franklin Bartley Chapel in Lubbock. Officiating were Dr. O.A. McBrayer, pastor of St. Luke's United Methodist Church at Midland, and the Rev. Lane Boyd, pastor of Wollfort United Methodist Church.

Mrs. Garrison was the mother of two Hereford residents, Homer and Shirley Garrison.

She was buried in Resthaven

Memorial Park at Lubbock

Mrs. Garrison, who had resided in Lubbock County for 50 years, died Sunday in a private nursing home at Lubbock. She was a member of First United Methodist Church at Wollfort.

She is survived by her two sons, Homer and Shirley, both of Hereford; a daughter, Mrs. Sherman Nelson of Lubbock; a sister, Mrs. Cora Horn of Cave City, Ark.; nine grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

Help On Utility Bills Sought For Elderly

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Elderly and disabled Texans on fixed incomes desperately need help with high utility bills, spokesmen for the propane industry and a natural gas company said Tuesday.

"I'm a fiscal conservative and this is the first time I've ever appeared before the Legislature on behalf of what you might call a welfare bill," said Lowry Carpenter, executive vice president of the Texas LP Gas Association.

Carpenter and Dan Crowley of Southern Union Gas Co. urged the Senate Finance Committee to approve Sen. Bill Patman's plan to give some 250,000 elderly and disabled persons between $10 and $20 monthly.

Patman, D-Ganado, already has won approval from another Senate committee for the program's enabling legislation.

The finance committee postponed a vote on a constitutional amendment necessary because of a current prohibition against state grants to individuals other than matching funds for Medicaid programs.

Chairman Grant Jones, D-Abilene, could not round up enough committee members for a quorum and said the panel probably would vote on the program Thursday.

Walcott School Board Okays Teacher Pacts

Walcott Independent School District trustees met this week in regular session to extend the contracts of five teachers.

In other business, trustees agreed to pay $750 out of district funds to each of the volunteer fire departments in Walcott and Sims for continued fire protection service.

--adopted recommendations of the textbook committee.

--authorized a field trip for seventh and eighth graders on May 15-19 in Austin, San Antonio and San Marcos.

--examined the school district's voting history in elections for the last five years.

--studied state legislative bills which affect school districts.

--heard an update on school accreditation.

--discussed miscellaneous reports.

--toured all five school houses to inspect newly-installed storm doors and carpet.

Teacher contracts were considered in executive session during the meeting. One-year extensions were approved for Dottie Darden, Bill Findling, Cheryl Boling, Rene May and Cathy Yarbrough.

The school district tax report showed that 94.24 percent of the total tax roll had been collected. In the April 7 school board election at Walcott, incumbent Dan Hall, Jerry Teel and Cecil Blasengen will be running for two positions.

The review of the district's voting history was done in conjunction with that upcoming election.

McBrayer, who added that the paramedics can do nothing unauthorized by the control physician.

"We can talk to Amarillo while the patient is in transport if the patient must go to Amarillo. We'll have radio contact with the air ambulance trauma team if the patient needs to be transferred to another burn center.

"The important thing is this patient will never have left adequate medical care."

McBrayer said the system will cut "in at least one-half the time before the patient gets definitive medical care."

The system works, he said. "Statistics gathered by the Panhandle Emergency Medical System Services (PEMSS) before and after 1975--before 1975 we didn't have this available--showed that cardiac deaths in 1977 decreased 15.4 percent. Deaths of premature infants dropped 34.5 percent. Although motor vehicle injuries increased 10.9 percent, fatalities decreased by 8.9 percent. Burn mortalities declined 8 percent," McBrayer said.

Walls said he and Gilliland were among 28 emergency medical technicians out of 100 applicants to be selected for the advanced training.

Walls said Deaf Smith County must have organized manpower and equipment to have an effective emergency system. "We have other emergency medical technicians here who have expressed a desire to take part in this program, and we hope to get the equipment we need."

The funding of a local emergency medical services system program will be discussed at 5 p.m. today at Hereford State Bank by Betty O'Rourke, of PEMSS in Amarillo. She also will discuss ways of implementing a local program.

The chamber of commerce-sponsored meeting will be open to the public.

McBrayer, Walls and Gilliland will also present programs this week to the Noon Lions and Noon Kiwanis clubs.

Bull

corn and has been supported strongly by Brown and the Texas Corn Growers Association.

Besides providing an alternate supply of fuel at a critical time, one of the big benefits of gasoline production would be in giving farmers a new cash market for their corn. Brown says it will not reduce food production and would help solve the surplus problem.

The use of gasoline is not an experiment. A recent article in a Wisconsin newspaper reveals it is already being produced and used in that state. The gasoline is a mixture of 90 percent gasoline and 10 percent alcohol. An advertisement states that gasoline produces a cleaner, smoother-running engine and fewer emissions to pollute the air. "It appears to us this is a golden opportunity for someone to cash in on the gasoline boom. Folks at Dimmitt have been working hard to land a gasoline refinery, and they seem to have an advantage because of existing facilities which can be converted."

A NEWS RELEASE from the U.S. Department of Agriculture a couple of weeks ago announced that a $510,000 contract has been awarded to a Massachusetts firm to develop a pilot, multi-media information campaign to encourage children to develop better eating practices.

An institute will try to determine what motivates children to select the foods they eat and where they get information about these foods. Based on the findings, the behavioral institute will develop nutritional messages designed to help children improve their dietary practices.

The plan then calls for the institute and an advertising agency to develop multi-media information in an effort to encourage children, ages 5 to 12, to eat breakfast, nutritious snacks and more fruits and vegetables.

"I don't know about you, but I get a sinking feeling about shelling out my tax money for such studies. The sum of $510,000 is just a drop in the bucket to politicians, but it appears to us the USDA could spend this money on something like gasoline production instead of wasting it on a useless survey."

Burglary

Jenkins of 432 Fir reported that a purse and tape case were taken from her vehicle while it was parked in front of an ice cream parlor last night. The white knit purse contained no money. No value was placed on the 25 tapes which were in the case.

C.G. Graves reported to police that some kids hit a tire on his vehicle with a dart from a blowgun while he was driving past the intersection of Union and Ave. G. No damage was reported to the tire, however.

the burden for years and years," Salinas said.

The bill would tax agricultural property by dividing a five-year average estimated "net to land" by a "capitalization rate." The rate would be 10 percent, or the Houston Federal Land Bank interest rate on crop loans plus 2 1/2 percent, whichever is greater. So if an acre of land was capable of earning a $30 yearly profit, and the capitalization rate was 10 percent, its taxable value would be $300.

The Tax Relief Amendment automatically exempted $5,000 of the market value of owner-occupied homes from school taxes. The implementation bill adds another $10,000 exemption for the elderly and the disabled and freezes property taxes of persons 65 and over for their lifetimes.

Also in the bill is a provision exempting two cars per family from property taxes, starting in 1980.

Pipeline

completed action on the necessary permits, although Long Beach voters approved construction of the terminal for the pipeline.

Environmental and other citizen groups have challenged the project on the grounds that it would increase air pollution in an area that already suffers from poor air quality.

Whitehouse said changing estimates on the availability of two natural gas pipelines earmarked for conversion to crude oil pipe were a key factor in the decision but he said regulatory delays were the principal cause.

Four Local Students Distinguished at TAMU

COLLEGE STATION - Four students from Hereford have earned "Distinguished Student" ranking at Texas A&M University.

The undergraduate honor is awarded to students who excel academically at Texas A&M, the state's land-grant and sea-grant institution responsible for providing not only excellence in academic programs but extension and research in agriculture, engineering and other practical needs throughout the state.

Recipients of the Distinguished Student honor must earn at least a 3.25 grade point ratio, out of a possible 4.0, during the most recent grading period.

Residential Walkers

Deaf Smith-Oldham County Unit of the American Cancer Society's Annual Cancer Crusade effort began here last weekend. The rural campaign goal of $1,000 is just five percent of the crusade goal of $20,000, the highest ever set by the local ACS board. The annual house-to-house campaign will begin Monday, April 2. It has a goal of $5,000. Among those participating in the residential walk are Donna Moore, Joyce Burford, Barbara Dickerson, Betty Mercer and block captain Lois Matchett.

Bridge Tourney Slated Saturday

The public is invited to enter the Annual Benefit Open Pairs Bridge Tournament to be held Saturday, beginning at 1:30 p.m. in the Community Center. The tourney is being sponsored by Tierra Blanca Chapter, National Secretaries Association, involving secretaries in Hereford and Canyon.

Duplicate bridge play is scheduled at 1:30 and 7 p.m. Advance tickets for duplicate bridge are on sale at $9, which includes the price of a home-cooked dinner. Tickets for party bridge are available at $2 each.

A session of contract bridge will begin at 7 p.m. Saturday in conjunction with the second session of duplicate bridge. Dinner tickets may be bought at the door Saturday for $2.50.

Proceeds of the tourney will go to a scholarship fund benefitting a young woman graduating from Hereford or Canyon High Schools, or enrolled at West Texas State University. Scholarship recipients must be planning to enter the business field or already majoring in business studies.

Door prizes will be given throughout the day Saturday.

Tickets are available from Property Enterprise, Buick-Pontiac, Deaf Smith REC, Hereford State Bank and High Plains Savings and Loan.

Vegetables Listed As Good Bargains

COLLEGE STATION—Best buys at Texas grocery markets this week include potatoes, yellow vegetables, bananas and "specials" on canned foods.

Also, eggs, fryer chicken "specials" and a few better buys on beef, Gwendolyn Clyatt reports.

Mrs. Clyatt is a consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

This week's price-quality trends are the following:

FRESH VEGETABLES—Best values are potatoes, carrots, sweet potatoes, squash and onions. Dry beans and split peas also make budget-stretching menu items.

Cabbage prices are relatively high, as are rutabagas. Slightly lower prices appear on peppers from Mexico.

FRESH FRUITS—Reasonably priced items are bananas and navel oranges.

Expect higher prices on Temple oranges and Honey tangerines.

D'Anjou pears show outstanding quality and moderate prices—and apples have excellent quality with moderate prices. Avocados have moderate prices.

Thompson seedless and perlette grapes from Chili—and nectarines and peaches from New Zealand—do have high prices. This may start a new trend, and as time goes by, these items may be standard winter items.

GROCERY MARKET AISLES—Look for many canned foods "on special", along with tuna fish, rice, pasta products and cake mixes. Also, frozen orange juice and pot pies.

POULTRY—Fryer chicken prices are a bit higher, but specials appear on parts. Also, turkeys over ten pounds have special prices in some markets. Eggs have low prices—Grade A, large-size eggs the best value generally.

BEEF—A few changes in retail beef have occurred. Look for good values on chuck roast, ground beef, round steak and beef liver.

PORK—Prices are stable with good values on quarter-loin cut into chops, rib and loin-end roasts, some brands of bacon, frankfurters and liver.

Dirty Toenails, Filthy Feet

DEAR ANN LANDERS: As a faithful reader may I have the last word on the "clean underwear in case of accident" syndrome? You've printed comments from medical people and an ambulance driver. Let's go one step further.

Several years ago I met our country coroner at a social gathering. I broached the subject of underwear and accidents and his response surprised me. He said, "We never see their underwear, but nothing stands out at the morgue like feet." He then went on to say I'd be amazed at how many otherwise well-groomed people have dirty toenails and filthy feet.

Ever since that conversation, I make sure my feet are presentable before I leave the house—just in case I wind up in the morgue. Tell everybody, will you, Ann?—Rochester Reader

DEAR R.R.: You did—and I think you. The things I learn from my readers!

DEAR ANN: You backed away from this one. Please allow me to answer for you. The letter was from "Finding It Hard to Love My Neighbor."

DEAR HARD TO LOVE: I also find it hard—to love your cat! This morning while my husband and I laughed at the antics of a bluejay at our feeder, a cat like yours came out of nowhere. Before our eyes he killed that beautiful bird. Tell me, when did you last hear of a bird killing a cat?

I do not feel "sanctified" because I'm a bird lover, nor "holier than thou." As a matter of fact I think cats are beautiful, graceful creatures. Your lame excuse—"leashes are contrary to a cat's nature"—leaves me cold. Not a week passes that I do not see a cat dead along the roadside, struck by a passing car. Had the owner not been too lazy to walk that cat, it might have lived. On a farm, a cat can run safely across acres of land, but not in the city.

You say you don't like to be awakened in the morning by singing birds? What a shame! There is nothing more peaceful than to awake to a bright sun and singing birds. Come to think of it, what's so beautiful about a cat waking you up at 3:00 a.m., howling for a mate?—For The Birds In Ft. Lauderdale

DEAR F.T.B.: I'm sure millions of bird-lovers across the land are applauding your well-worded letter. Add my name to the list of gratefuls.

DEAR ANN: Since your column is a great source of information for people who wouldn't read a medical journal (or couldn't understand all the highfalutin language) will you please pass on the following:

A recent study at the University of San Francisco revealed that one-third of the people who are given "placebo" (nothing but sugar pills) actually DO feel better. It's not imaginary.

We now know that the sugar releases a substance in the body called endorphin which creates a feeling of well-being since it substitutes for a missing ingredient. Interesting, isn't it?—San Francisco M.D.

DEAR M.D.: Yes, it is. And valid, too. All these years people have been saying, "It's all in the mind." Research has been turning up many scientific explanations for things we used to think were "all in the mind."

Music Students Perform Piano, Vocal Selections

Piano and vocal selections were performed Monday afternoon by music students for members of Hereford Music Study Club in the home of Mrs. Troy Carmichael. Other hostesses were Virginia Holmes, Ruth Long, Margaret Lyons and Mozelle Neill.

The students are tutored by various members of the study club and presented the following selections:

Sarah Fish, "Little Czardas"; Naomi Fuhrmann, "Sonata in C"; Elizabeth Rains, "Waltz" by Chopin; Gail McCabe, "Rustles of Spring"; Dedrie Sauter, "Copy Cat" and "Nadia's Theme"; Robin Hopper, "Presto" by Aaron; Jill Paschel, "Sherzo" by Mendelssohn; Devany Paschel, "Take-Off" by Garrow; Amy Coneway, "Waltzing Butterfly"; Stephanie Foster, "Prelude to A Fairy Tale"; Vanessa Sims, "Romance"; Kimberly Sims, "Sonata" by Hadyn; Cinde Duckworth, singing "The Cradles" by Faure and "Lullaby" by Cyril Scott; Mary Lee Simon, singing "Traum Durch die Dammern" and "Tell Me, O Blue, Blue Sky."

Refreshments of cookies, mints, nuts, punch and coffee were served to members, the guest performers and their mothers.

The club convened for a brief business session conducted by president Mrs. Wayne Thomas. Members were reminded of the State Federation of Music Clubs meeting to be held at the Quality Inn in Amarillo March 21-23. Several local members plan to attend the convention as delegates.

In addition to the hostesses, members in attendance were Mmes. J.R. Allison, Bill Brady, Wesley Fisher, Wesley Gulley, Joe Hacker, Ed Line, J.C. McCracken, Sid Shaw, Bob Sims, Thomas, R.P. Coneway, Ellis Coombes, D.W. Palmer and Mary B. Cartea.

Family Tradition

Young Amy Coneway continued her family's interest in music this week as she performed for members of Hereford Music Study Club in the home of Mrs. W.T. Carmichael. Amy is shown here with her grandmother, Mrs. R.P. Coneway Sr., who joined the Music Study Club in 1922. Amy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Coneway and her music tutor is Mrs. Sid Shaw. COMMENTARY

By Richard E. Cohen

Able alternatives in TV

WASHINGTON (NEA) - Federal officials have decided that their best chance to improve television programs is not to change the current operators but to encourage alternative sources. After years of grandiose plans and promises for expansion, they may be successful.

It has become popular across the country to criticize most television programs as unimaginative, too heavy on sex and violence, and created by a few isolated trend-setters in Hollywood and New York.

Even if the criticism is valid, the government should continue to allow the public to determine what broadcast fare, if any, it wants to watch.

As Charles D. Ferris, chairman of the Federal Communications Commission (FCC), noted in a recent speech, the fact remains that "on every weekday night television sets are on in 60 percent of American households and the vast majority are tuned to ABC, CBS or NBC."

But the reason they are watching those three networks is because they have little choice. Few viewers outside the very largest metropolitan areas can select another commercial station with first-run shows. And most public broadcasting programs still have relatively small viewer appeal.

This system has survived with little challenge for nearly three decades. One important, often overlooked, reason is that each of the three networks owns five television stations — the maximum permitted by the FCC — and all are in the 10 largest metropolitan areas.

This means 15 of the 30 stations affiliated with a network in the biggest dollar markets are owned by the networks and, consequently, hardly likely to do anything not in the best interests of the networks.

For example, these network-owned stations have shown little interest in programs distributed by independent producers seeking to challenge the network prime-time schedule. Without the approximately one-fourth of the public in the audience of each network's owned stations, many operators feel it is futile to market their work nationally.

Rep. Lionel van Deerlin, D-Calif., chairman of the House Communications Subcommittee, may urge his colleagues to reduce this control and bring more diversity to television ownership and programming. He has sponsored a bill to overhaul the entire Communications Act and hopes for its enactment in 1980.

At the FCC, Ferris makes it clear he thinks there should be considerably more than three major networks and is supporting steps to achieve that goal, including the recent creation of a special staff to review network dominance and analyze ways to relieve it. Ferris believes the result almost certainly will be a greater variety of programs because "many independent voices are preferable to a few."

Even if government does not act, private enterprise has dramatically altered options for the regular viewer. Cable television, which now reaches 14 million homes, can import programs from hundreds of miles away. In Atlanta, sports and movies on Ted Turner's "superstation" WTCC are distributed to cableviewers nationwide.

A new — somewhat less spine-tingling — service available to many cable subscribers is a continuous feed of the House of Representatives in session.

Home video cassettes have achieved phenomenal popularity in the few years they have been marketed commercially. Consumers now can spend a few hundred dollars on a machine that will record the viewer's favorite programs and play them back whenever he or she wishes.

Television technology is so advanced that engineers envision the day when a home set will receive as many signals as a typical radio.

All these steps do not mean a threat to the "Fonz" or Charlie's Angels. But more broadcast outlets offer the prospect that television will begin to cater to smaller audiences and more specialized tastes.

THOUGHTS

Tuesday

One of David's 30 heroes was famous as a runner, a much valued gift in ancient times. After a civil war battle he pursued Abner and unfortunately overtook him.

"...and Asahel was as light of foot as a wild roe...And Asahel pursued after Abner;...Wherefore Abner...smote him...and he...died." — II Sam. 2:19-23

Wednesday

The early Jews excelled in the art of dyeing. Scarlet was a color of distinction and prosperity. A scarlet thread from a window once saved a woman and her family.

"...thou shalt bind this line of scarlet thread in the window...and thou shalt bring thy father, and thy mother, and thy brethren...and they brought out all her kindred and left them without the camp of Israel." — Joshua 2:18 and 6:23

Thursday

The supposed site of Abraham's family burial grounds (Machpelah) is now enclosed (the Haram) and surrounded by massive walls said to date from time of Herod the Great or earlier.

"There they buried Abraham and Sarah his wife; there they buried Isaac and Rebekah his wife; and there I (Jacob) buried Leah." — Gen. 49:31

Friday

The old Lamp Lighter is truly of ancient origin. Aaron, brother of Moses, qualified for that title.

"And Aaron...when he dresseth the lamps, he shall burn incense upon it. And when Aaron lighteth the lamps at even..." — Exod. 30:7-8

Saturday

"Congregation" is used more than 100 times in the Bible, generally meaning an assembly or meeting. The Latin "greg" or "gregis" means "flock" or "herd" from which comes "congregation," meaning "to gather into a flock" or "to collect."

"And gather thou all the congregation unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation." — Lev. 8:3

Uniform Irrigation System Revealed

Water Imports Outlook Highlight of Conference

By JIM STEIERT
Brand Farm Editor

Area farmers got a look at prospects for imported water for the High Plains while obtaining information about the latest procedures to help them make the best use of what water is currently available during the annual High Plains Irrigation Conference held at the Community Center yesterday.

Highlighting the session was a presentation by Duncan Ellison, executive Director of Water Inc. of Lubbock on the search for a source of water to be channeled to the Plains region of Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma to supplement the rapidly diminishing Ogallala Aquifer, and an address by Dr. Bill Lyle, research agricultural engineer at the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Halfway, concerning irrigation management research and the use of low energy, precision application lateral move sprinkler systems.

"We are in trouble in the water situation nationwide. It is an artificial thing brought on by the politics of the time, and the real trouble began two years ago with the 'hit list' on national water projects," commented Ellison.

"The big thing with water today is conservation, but it is not the wise and judicious use of a resource which we have used to define conservation here. Now it means not using the water at all," Ellison continued.

"Our underground water is like money in the bank. It only has value to us when we take it out and spend it wisely," he stated.

He pointed out that Water Inc. is currently attempting a nationwide education program on behalf of agriculture, and that initial efforts must focus on getting a proposed 160 acre limitation on irrigation lifted.

Turning to the water importation issue, Ellison related that an initial study in the late 1960's found water available from the Mississippi River, where a surplus of water existed.

Engineering feasibility for an import project was good at that time, but the project was not considered economically feasible.

"The economic yardsticks used at that time aren't in existence now, and we could find a whole new economic justification for such a project," Ellison stated.

According to Ellison, a search for water sources farther upstream along the Mississippi revealed available surplus water in Arkansas.

"An unofficial study into the Oklahoma-Arkansas region underway at this time has shown that 54 million acre-feet of water is flowing out of Oklahoma with no projected need for it right now. Bringing water across Oklahoma to Texas, and New Mexico is a possibility, although the probability is still questionable. I'm optimistic a joint effort will be developed," said Ellison.

"The biggest problem with the water importation issue is keeping the faith. We must sustain the vision that has brought us this far," he continued.

Dr. Lyle cited his experiments with a lateral move irrigation system which could revolutionize irrigation procedures on the High Plains.

Using low energy, precision application of water from a lateral move sprinkler system along with surface modification to reduce runoff, Lyle has achieved a remarkable 97 percent water distribution efficiency on fields of cotton, grain sorghum and soybeans.

"We are to the point we will be in a deficit irrigation situation, and need to plan on it. It's not practical to meet the evaporative demand of your crop, and we do need to utilize our rainfall, because we get two-thirds to three-quarters of it during the growing season. For this reason, we've adopted an irrigation procedure in our experiments which leaves room in the soil for moisture storage from natural precipitation," he related.

Lyle utilizes a furrow diking system to reduce field runoff losses of water.

The low energy sprinkler system operates under low pressure, and is designed to take advantage of already available underground pipe systems.

Drop tubes from the sprinkler manifold supply water to special orifices which "spoon feed" trickles of water to the furrow dikes, making for uniform water application.

"I'll admit this system is not as labor efficient as a center-pivot sprinkler, but it's better than gated pipe or siphon tubes," said Lyle.

He pointed out that furrow dikes on steep slopes can help reduce energy consumption in pumping water with tailwater

How Affordable?

Dr. Ray Sammons, area economist-management with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Amarillo addressed the topic of affordability of irrigation Tuesday during the High Plains Irrigation Conference here. Sammons told local farmers the efficiency of their irrigation unit will play a major role in determining if they can afford to irrigate.

return systems.

"You are able to apply twice as much water and cut the rate of advance in half with furrow dikes, and in many instances, you may have the potential of reducing runoff to the extent that a tailwater return system might be replaced," he stated.

Leon New, area agricultural engineer-irrigation with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Lubbock addressed local producers on efficient use of center pivot irrigation systems.

"You can figure on a one percent water loss for each mile per hour of wind velocity, and water losses will run as high as 11 to 25 percent on any average day," New reminded his audience.

"You must operate a sprinkler system in the manner for which it is designed or losses will be more severe, and you must keep the capacity of your system in mind. You can't expect a pivot or any other system to go beyond a realistic amount of water application. An adequate water supply is a big factor in successful use of center pivots, and effective use is often what works best for you in your conditions," he explained.

Dr. Ray Sammons, area economist-management, from Amarillo, spoke to local producers on the issue of whether they can afford to irrigate.

"The efficiency level of your irrigation is often more important than the cost of your gas. I'm convinced irrigation costs for many farmers are lower today with more expensive gas than they were years ago with cheaper gas, simply because farmers have improved their irrigation efficiency," commented Sammons.

He pointed out that as the cost of gas rises, farmers can afford to pay more for efficiency repairs.

"When it comes down to the question of can you afford to irrigate, the first question you must answer is how efficient is your well," he concluded.

Official Says Loan Funds 'Drying Up'

New regulations announced last week by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board will further dry up funds for home loans in Texas, Durward Curlee, executive vice president of the Texas Savings and Loan League, said today.

The new regulations remove the differential between interest rates paid by S&Ls on money market certificates and regular Treasury bills.

Currently, a saver can purchase a money market certificate with a savings and loan association at an effective interest rate of 9.665 percent while six-month Treasury bills only yield 9.415 percent.

"The announcement Friday means that S&Ls have lost an advantage to attract money which eventually is used for home loan mortgages," Curlee said.

Curlee said, "Once again the Federal government has decided that the housing industry will be used as a whipping boy in the fight to halt inflation. This means there will be even less money to loan in Texas for housing."

He continued, "We in Texas are already facing a severe money shortage for housing because of the 10 percent usury ceiling."

"The average American who sees owning his home as the only viable way to hedge against inflation is going to find it even tougher now, particularly in Texas, to find money to buy that home," Curlee said.

Silage Growers Seek Higher Tonnage Rate

Area corn silage growers, concerned about the low contract prices for silage, have held several informal meetings in the past two weeks and are urging growers not to accept a contract for less than $17.50 a ton.

A spokesman for the group reported that area feed yards have been contacted by silage growers to discuss the rising production costs. He indicated, however, that the group has met with little success in getting the contract price increased.

"We contracted for $14.50 a ton last year, and it was just like giving it away," said the spokesman. "All our costs have gone up this year... if we can't get at least $17.50 a ton, we will have to look at alternative crops." He added that the contract price is around $15.50 to $16 at present.

Persons interested in the silage growers' actions can contact Robert Wagner, Roger Williams, Larry Walterscheid or Frank Bezner Jr.

Super Sports Weekend Starts Thursday

By MARC HERRING
Brand Sports Editor

The Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Super Sports Weekend kicks off activities Thursday morning with the beginning of a seven team baseball tournament, has a girls track meet and a golf tournament starting Friday and the boy's division of track and the conclusion of the baseball and golf on Saturday.

The baseball tourney, sporting 3A and 4A teams have Pampa playing Levelland, Caprock playing Borger and host Hereford going against Canyon on Thursday. The seventh team, Dumas received a bye in the first round and will start action on Friday.

The girl's track team, fresh off of a fourth place finish at Lubbock last weekend, will have its preliminaries start at 10:30 with the finals set for 2 p.m.

The mile relay team of the Whitefaces took first place in its last meet with a clocking of 4:10.3. Members of the relay team are Louise Mays, Beverly Nixon, Velma Arroyos and Lindy Walterscheid.

Arroyos, district champ in the 880 last year will be looking for her initial first place finish for the year on the home track. As of two meets she has claimed second both teams, with her latest clocking being 2:25.6, still not as fast as last year but improving each week.

Other contenders on the cinder team are Darlene Sanders in the sprints, Nixon in the hurdles, and Walterscheid in the sprints and relay events.

The baseball team with a 3-2 record, will be looking for its fourth win of the season in the 1:15 game Thursday against Canyon.

The boys track team with strength in the relays and the open quarter will hope for a better point production than the 12 accumulated at Odessa last weekend.

Paul Bell, district champ in the open quarter won his specially last weekend with a time of 50.1 and will hope to continue his first place finishes this week. The other two points copped by the Herd at Odessa were in the long jump by Robert Graves.

The mile relay and sprint relay teams hope to bring success to the team and according to Coach Don Cumpton both baton events are strong for the Whitefaces.

"As of last week the best we have been able to do is a 3:35 in the mile relay and I know we can do better just because of the people we have running," Cumpton said. "The sprint relay should be ready this week to show its stuff, if the handoffs are all completed at their best."

The golf tourney, with defending champ Hereford back at home after to two tough weekends in district play, are looking to regain some confidence on its home course

Indiana, Ohio State Pick Byes In NIT

NEW YORK (AP) — C.M. Newton and his boys are tired, Lee Rose, on the other hand, is sick and tired.

Newton is the coach of Alabama's basketball team, a tired Crimson Tide that was hoping for relief from the National Invitation Tournament but got, instead, an invitation to play one more game before next Monday's semifinals in New York's Madison Square Garden.

"We're very tired and obviously we would rather have gotten a bye," Newton said.

"And our next choice would have been to play in Birmingham or Tuscaloosa."

Instead, in one of Thursday night's quarter-finals to whittle the NIT field to four teams, Alabama will play Texas A&M in Houston. In the other game, Old Dominion will play Purdue in West Lafayette, Ind.

Two other teams, Indiana and Ohio State, had their names picked out of a hat Tuesday and drew byes to the semifinals. They'll play each other after the winners of the quarter-finals face each other.

The idea that Indiana and Ohio State can sit back and relax for nearly a week doesn't sit well with Rose, Purdue's coach.

"Can someone please explain to me the advantages of being the Big Ten champion?" he muttered after the 15th-ranked Boilermakers, the only ranked team still in the NIT field, heard their fate.

Actually, Purdue shared the Big Ten title with Michigan State and Iowa, both of whom were invited to play in the National Collegiate Athletic Association tournament, while Purdue was passed over.

"And now," Rose said, "the Big Ten's fourth- and fifth-place teams (Ohio State and Indiana) get byes and we don't."

The Boilermakers, an 84-70 second-round winner over Dayton, have to start thinking about Old Dominion, which edged Clemson 61-59 in double overtime Monday night. Apparently Rose doesn't know much about Purdue's next opposition, except that "I do know it's a run-and-gun ball club."

Purdue won its second-round game on the strength of center Joe Barry Carroll's 25 points. Alabama nosed out Virginia 90-88 thanks to Reginald "Mule" King's 43 points. In the other second-round games, Texas A&M turned back Nevada-Reno 67-64, Ohio State defeated Maryland 79-72 and Indiana beat Alcorn State 72-69.

Swenson Wins

NOME, Alaska (AP) — One of the most grueling tests of endurance in sports, the 1,049-mile Iditarod Sled Dog Race from Anchorage to Nome, has its first two-time winners — a trapper who lost last year's race by only one second.

Rich Swenson of Eureka, Alaska, drove his team of nine dogs across the finish line Sunday night, 15 days, 9 hours and 37 minutes after leaving Anchorage.

Mile Relay Champs

The Hereford Whiteface Girls Mile relay team captured first place in its specialty last weekend at the Lubbock Invitational Track Meet with a time of 4:10.3. Members of the team are Velma Arroyos, Louise Mays, Beverly Nixon and Lindy Walterscheid. These girls along with the rest of the track team will be participating in the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Super Sports Weekend, with the track meet for the girls being Friday. (Brand Photo by Marc Herring)

Relays Boost Girl Maverick Track Success

Relying on the strengths of their relays, the La Plata Maverick girls track teams brought home one first and two second place overall trophies from the Bulldog Junior Relays last weekend.

The ninth grade, paced by the 20 points of a first in the mile relay, collected 166 points to capture first place in its division of five teams. The relay team, comprised of Kellie Howell, Cathy Lane, Rhonda Reinart and Deborah Rogers, clocked a time of 4:25.6 to win. Evidence of the mastery at the quarter mile distance was seen in the open quarter as Lane, Reinart and Howell swept the race with first, second and third place medals.

The Maverick eighth grade, scoring 152 points, placed second in its division, with 56 of the points coming in first place finishes in the 880 and the mile relay, and a second in the sprint relay.

Relay members of the mile quartet are Sara Martinez, Sherrie Ellis, Allyson Thomas and Michelle Osborn, with a time of 4:33.9 for the four leg event. The 880 relay, sporting the same runners with the exception of Dede Dobbins in place of Ellis, clocked a time of 1:57.3 for its first place trophy.

Osborn, the anchor leg on the 880 and the mile relay also was the number four leg for the sprint relay as it clocked a 54.1 for second place. Participants in the race included Osborn, Jane Morgan, Dobbins and Kari Walterscheid.

Relay strength was displayed in the seventh grade also as the second place finish of the youngest Mavs had the help of a first in the mile relay to boost its 161 point total.

Mile relay runners were Marta Carlile, Lori Walterscheid, Vanessa Sims and Vonda Richards. Taking third in the other two relays had the running done by Sheri Templeton, Paige Phillips, Walterscheid and Dana Cabbiness for both of the baton events.

Action for the girls will resume for the freshmen this Friday as they take part in the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Invitational Track Meet. The seventh and eighth grade will resume competition the following Thursday in Bovina.

Wayne Inducted

SALISBURY, N.C. (AP) — Movie star John Wayne will be inducted into the National Sports Writers and Sportscasters Hall of Fame next month at the group's annual meeting.

Wayne's son, Patrick, will accept the award for his ailing father, and comedian Bob Hope will preside over the ceremonies April 9, in Keppel Auditorium on the Catawba College campus.

Wayne is being honored because of his patriotism, contributions to the entertainment world and outstanding football career at the University of Southern California, according to Dr. Ed McKenzie of Salisbury, N.S.S.A. president.

The Hall of Fame was established in 1961. Two new categories were added in 1977 for an individual team moment or event that has proved inspirational and for an individual who has made a significant contribution to sports, then gone on to outstanding achievements in other fields.

Gun club To Organize

Hereford black powder shooting enthusiasts will attempt to organize a local club tomorrow night at 7:30 in the REC Medallion Room, according to Chuck Cosper.

The attempted organization comes after an informal get-acquainted shoot held here recently.

The meeting is open to all interested individuals, and those owning a black powder gun are invited to bring it along.

ATTENTION CORN SILAGE GROWERS!

In order for all silage growers to receive a return on their investments in raising corn, contracts on silage corn should not be made for less than $17.50 a ton.

All costs for raising silage corn are going up. Natural gas prices are positively going to be higher; cutting and hauling are going up; mileage is going to be higher; other costs are up also.

Subtract these costs from your last quoted silage price and see what you have left. A $17.50 a ton contract is not an unreasonable price for buyer and seller.

Blue Hopes For Six More Seasons

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) - Vida Blue, a pitcher with 142 big league victories behind him, took a brief look at what lies ahead.

"Six more years," he said as he walked out of the San Francisco Giants' spring training clubhouse.

They are six baseball seasons he intends to enjoy, as he did the 1978 season in which he joined the Giants and helped make them a contender for the National League Western Division title.

Late last season, Blue signed a six-year contract, for an estimated $700,000 per year, with the Giants. He'll be 35 years old when that sixth season ends.

"If I take care of myself, I'd like to think I can still be a power pitcher when I'm 35," said the left-hander who has struck out 1,486 batters since reaching the majors at age 20.

"I wouldn't put it past him, the way Vida goes about his business," said Giants Manager Joe Altobelli. "I think he's the type of person who would be in the top 10 percent - make that top 5 percent - in anything he tried. And I mean anything, not just athletics."

Blue won 124 games with Oakland of the American League before A's owner Charlie Finley traded him to San Francisco for seven players last March 15. The pitcher, en route to an 18-10 season with the Giants, quickly set himself the goal of reaching 100 wins in the NL to join Cy Young, Jim Bunning and Gaylord Perry in the exclusive group of men who have won 100 games in each league.

"I'd like to know Perry's secret, how he has kept going so long," Blue said of the 40-year-old right-hander. "They can talk all they want about what he might be doing to the ball, but he didn't stop throwing hard when he passed 35."

Fastball specialist Blue has a spring training project which he believes could help him throw hard longer.

"I'm making myself throw more change-ups. Our pitching coach Larry Shepard wants us all to," Blue said. "As a power pitcher, I usually throw 120 to 130 pitches a game. If the change was more effective, maybe I could cut that down to 100 some games, and over the course of a season that could help a lot."

He believes that a better change-up also could help him reach the 20-victory mark that he missed last season despite a 10-game winning streak, the league's longest, and a 2.79 earned run average.

"When there's two out in the ninth inning, two runners on base, we're leading by one run and it's 3-2 on the batter, he's standing there saying to himself, 'This is Vida Blue,' and looking for a fastball," Blue said.

"That's when I could get an out, and a win, too, with a good change," he said. "If I thought it could get me that 'W' I'd throw a screw-knuckle-change-up."

Super Bowl In Detroit For 1982

HONOLULU (AP) - The sun belt no longer holds exclusive possession of football's Super Bowl after the decision of National Football League owners to send their premier game to the Silverdome in Pontiac, Mich., on Jan. 24, 1982.

It came as no surprise that the 1981 game will be held in New Orleans on Jan. 25, marking the fifth time the Super Bowl has gone to the Louisiana city.

The owners awarded the Jan. 30, 1983 game to Pasadena's Rose Bowl in California, which also holds the 1980 contest next Jan. 20.

The league also gave strong support to Max Winter, president of the Minnesota Vikings, in his battle to gain improved stadium conditions.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle gave strong indications that Winter would be given permission to move the franchise if the situation "became intolerable."

Michigan Governor William G. Milliken headed the delegation boosting Pontiac and the mayor of that city, Wallace A. Holland, and Detroit Mayor Coleman A. Young also made presentations.

The granting of the 1982 Super Bowl to Pontiac opened the way for other northern cities and Hartley Kruger of the unsuccessful Seattle group said, "We are very encouraged by the action favoring Pontiac. By 1984, we'll have our housing situation well in hand."

New Orleans gets the 1981 game, the 15th in the series which has been limited previously to Miami, Southern California, Houston and New Orleans.

The decision on sites for the next three Super Bowls cut out Miami, which held the 1979 game. Joe Robbie, managing general partner of the Miami Dolphins who is having a conflict with the Orange Bowl over contracts, did not endorse the Miami bid for one of the next three dates.

Rozelle said, "Pontiac had strong support throughout the league. The older franchises remembered the Detroit Lions came into the NFL in 1934 and there is a lot of NFL history involved in that ballclub."

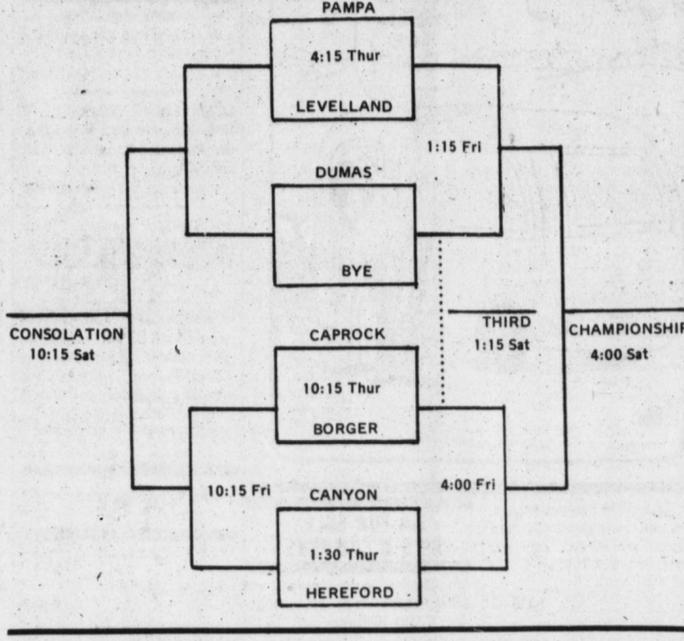

The Lions' home stadium is the Silverdome.

New Orleans, bid only for 1981 and didn't seek the 1982 game because of a conflict with a convention of orthopedists, who also have slated 1986 and 1990 conventions there.

Don Yokaitis of the Pasadena delegation commented, "We're extremely pleased they will return to Pasadena for a third Super Bowl and we look forward to having them in Pasadena about every three years."

Rozelle said there was no commitment that a certain number of Super Bowls would be held in the Rose Bowl.

By The Associated Press

BOSTON - Top-seeded Chris Evert scored a 6-2, 6-2 opening-round victory over Pam Teeguarden while fourth-seeded Wendy Turnbull took a 6-3, 6-2 victory over Diane Desfor in the second day of opening matches in a $150,000 women's tennis tournament.

In other matches, Rosie Casals defeated Jeanne Duval 6-3, 6-4; Australian Kerry Reid beat Renee Richards 6-2, 6-4; Linda Siegel scored a 6-4, 6-2 victory over Sandra Collins; Betsy Nagelsen defeated Pat Medrado of Brazil 6-7, 6-1, 6-1; Betty Stove of The Netherlands beat Anne Smith 6-4, 6-1, and Terry Holladay had to retire from her match with Sue Barker of Britain due to a cyst.

WASHINGTON - Fourth-seeded Roscoe Tanner eliminated Deon Joubert of South Africa 6-2, 6-3 in the first round of the $125,000 Washington men's tennis tournament.

In other first-round matches, second-seeded Brian Gottfried easily defeated Keith Richardson 6-0, 6-3; No. 8 seed Stan Smith ousted Carlos Kirmayr of Brazil 6-1, 6-2; Geoff Masters of Australia defeated Francisco Gonzalez of Puerto Rico 6-4, 7-5, and Hank Pfister won over Colin Dowdeswell of Rhodesia 6-1, 6-2.

In a letter to the Rev. Bernard J. Fell, president of the Olympic committee, Tremble said he resigned because he found certain tactics and principles of higher committee officials "unacceptable." He did not elaborate.

HONOLULU (AP) - Los Angeles Rams' Coach Ray Malavasi, suffering from the effects of high blood pressure, is expected to remain at St. Francis Hospital for a few days of observation.

Dr. David Fergusson said Tuesday that Malavasi, 48, had shown no signs of a heart attack. Malavasi, who had heart bypass surgery in 1977, asked to be taken to the hospital Monday night after he felt dizzy and had difficulty breathing. The Rams coach was attending the National Football League's annual meetings here.

Holzman Looking For Old Magic

By The Associated Press

There is a method to Red Holzman's madness. With Kevin Loughery, it seems to be the other way around.

Holzman, coach of the New York Knicks, has torn his team apart and put it back together again this year, trying to reshape it into the kind of squad which won two National Basketball Association championships during his first tenure as coach.

For a while Tuesday night, Holzman couldn't convey his concept of organization to his Knicks. In the third period, the New Orleans Jazz, the worst team in the NBA, sliced New York's lead from 24 to six points. But when they did put it together in the fourth period, they ran off to a 104-91 victory.

Loughery, meanwhile, did what he does best as coach of the New Jersey Nets. He got two more technical fouls - that's 38 this season - ran onto the court to get at referee Bernie Fryer and got run out of yet another game.

And the Chicago Bulls, trailing by as many as 17 points, caught the Nets and beat them 105-102.

In the rest of the NBA it was Indiana 122, Detroit 120 in overtime; Portland 103, Atlanta 82; Washington 120, Los Angeles 111, and Phoenix 124, Cleveland 120.

Bulls 105, Nets 102
Artis Gilmore and Reggie

They scored 18 points apiece and had the key baskets in the closing minutes that propelled the Bulls past New Jersey. With the Nets up 102-99, Gilmore stuffed in an alley-oop pass from Ollie Johnson, then Theus whirled 180 degrees and heaved in a rainbow shoot to put Chicago on top to stay.

Pacers 122, Pistons 120
Guard Johnny Davis faked Detroit's Earl Tatum out of his socks and hit a desperation basket from the top of the key with one second left in overtime to give Indiana its victory. The Pacers, winning for the fourth straight time, were led by Ricky Sobers' 24 points. Davis finished with 23. M.L. Carr had 33 for Detroit.

Blazers 103, Hawks 82

Portland ran away from the Hawks late in the second period, built a 51-35 halftime lead and breezed to the victory that halted Atlanta's nine-game winning streak. Mychal Thompson's 19 points and Maurice Lucas' 16 led the Trail Blazers to their fifth victory in six games. Wayne Rollins scored 14 points for Atlanta.

Bullets 120, Lakers 111

Bob Dandridge scored 22 of his 30 points in the second half to carry Washington, the winningest team in the NBA past the Lakers.

Los Angeles suffered its fourth straight setback and fell one game behind first-place Seattle in the Pacific Division.

Adrian Dantley scored 28 points for the Lakers. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar was held to 17 by Wes Unseld.

Suns 124, Cavaliers 120
Walter Davis' 36 points and Paul Westphal's 32 helped Phoenix edge the Cavaliers, who got a career-high 41 points from Campy Russell.

The Suns led by a basket with less than half a minute to play, but the Cavs had the ball with a chance to tie it - before Elmore Smith was called for traveling.

Millionaire Marathoner Doesn't Buy Success

HOUSTON (AP) - Houston marathoner Mary Cullen lives in two worlds and few would deny she "looks like a million" in both places.

Cullen, 40, is one of the top women marathoners in the country in her 40-49 year old age group, she recently completed a 50-mile race and consistently wins her age group title in the Houston Marathon.

That's one world.

But when the day's run is over, Cullen can change from her sweaty running gear into an elegant evening dress and descend the winding staircase of her mansion in the elite River Oaks section as the wife of oil multi-millionaire Roy Cullen.

That's the other world.

Although highly respected in the running world, Cullen faces an occasional problem when non-runners of the other world discover her wealth. Many seem to think Cullen hires someone to do her running as she would hire a gardener.

The Cullens attended a dinner party shortly after the 50-mile run and a guest was in awe of the feat until he discovered Mary's wealth.

"That discounts everything you've done," he said. "You're married to a multi-millionaire. You can afford to do anything." Recounting the incident,

Cullen said "I said listen, this is something I did for myself, by myself and with myself and no one can buy my accomplishment."

"Whatever money you have you can't fake 10 miles. If you're going to run 10 miles, you have to perform."

Cullen has proven she can perform. While many shudder at the thought of reaching 40, Cullen won the 50 mile shortly after her 40th birthday and now plans to become a regular on the masters circuit.

Friends now drop in to congratulate Cullen for her running accomplishments but some once shook their heads at the site of such a socially prominent millionairess jogging down the moss-shaded streets of River Oaks.

"I guess four years ago people thought I was lunny," Cullen laughed. "When I first started, I ran in a dress or skirt and just plain tennis shoes. I couldn't run more than a fourth of a block."

"I started out walking and running then my husband took me out a mile and I had to get home. I'm not really athletic so if I can do it, anybody can."

Cullen made a New Year's resolution in 1974 to start running and slowly became hooked on the sport. She's successfully combined her two worlds ever since.

Cullen says the friends she's made in the running world has made the whole experience worthwhile.

"If it hadn't been for these experiences I've had in running it would have been kind of empty, because I've really made so many new friends in the running world," Cullen said.

"I feel like people respect me for my running capability. I run with a lot of younger girls and I enjoy listening to their viewpoints. We all go out together to run and we'll say exactly what's on our minds."

Something like group therapy on the run?

"Yes, there isn't time to put up any walls or facades," Cullen said. "We're very honest with one another and then when the run is over we leave each other and go back to our own little worlds."

Cullen created a stir in London last December when she ran in the London to Brighton 50 mile race. She ran a total of 35 miles with a group of male Houston runners although women aren't allowed to run distances longer than the marathon in England.

"It was easy," she said. "I just fantasized that I was partaking in one of King George's entourage."

There were 33 holes-in-one on the PGA tour in 1978, three being made on the last day of the Disney World Tournament, by Orville Moody, Randy Erskine and George Cadle.

Penn State football coach Joe Paterno originally planned a career in law or politics.

HEALTH Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D. All-purpose vitamins

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am a bachelor and, quite frankly, my cooking leaves a lot to be desired. I eat intermittently at best and wonder if I should start taking vitamins. The question is, are there better brands than others and can vitamins replace a good dietary intake? DEAR READER - I wish people would get their vitamins and minerals from good wholesome foods. That's the way nature planned things. There are people who do not eat a good, balanced diet, for a variety of reasons, and these are the ones who should take vitamins. Many people who live alone, young or old, don't eat properly. This is sometimes related to lack of cooking ability, as you confess. In other instances it is from lack of interest or just plain difficulties in cooking for one person. I don't think it makes a lot of difference which vitamin tablet you take, as long as you take an all-purpose vitamin tablet you can buy at any grocery store which contains the recommended daily allowances (RDA) for all the important vitamins. I'm also sending you The Health Letter number 46, Balanced Diet, Recommended Daily Dietary Allowances (RDA) to give you my thoughts on what you should be eating. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. There is nothing wrong with taking vitamins, if you need them. I believe some older people's vitamin requirements are increased. The hazards in vitamins are associated with taking large amounts, more than the recommended daily allowance.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I have just given birth to a baby with the Down syndrome and congenital leukemia. Both the baby and I were extremely anemic. He is at the children's hospital in the intensive care unit now with a very uncertain prognosis. I would appreciate any information you can give me about this birth defect. DEAR READER - The classic characteristics show a rounded head with physical features that resemble those commonly ascribed to orients. That's a very superficial distinction, however, because you can readily tell a baby of oriental parentage with this defect. You are going to hear a lot about this problem so I will

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am replying to Val who has an annoying urine odor in her carpet. We use ground cloves for the removal of many odors. Sprinkle it generously on the spot and then vacuum up the next morning. It is great for removing the odor of mildew from drawers and closets. Try it for removing that stale cigarette smoke odor that so often lingers in a car. It really works. - MRS. B.A. DEAR POLLY - You recently advised the reader who had a doggie odor in her carpet to sprinkle dry salt thickly on the rug, leave overnight and then vacuum up. Polly, you should warn those who try this to empty their sweeper bags immediately. Salt as well as sand cannot be left in a sweeper bag for fear of corrosion. - CAROL. DEAR CAROL - Thanks for calling this to our attention. That warning is always put at the end of this Pointer and must have gotten lost along the way this time.

NCAA Playoffs Topic Of Spring Training

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Ball players in spring training camps are following the NCAA basketball playoffs with the keen interest normally reserved for the stock market ticker, but none more avidly than the Yankees' Tommy John.

The rangy ex Dodger with the bionic left arm has a legitimate rooting interest in the nation's No. 1 team, unbeaten Indiana State.

It's his alma mater, Terre Haute, Ind., is his home town. His parents, plus a rash of uncles, aunts and cousins all still live there. Indiana State's All-America star, Larry Bird, is a golfing companion and one of his closest friends.

"Larry is coming down to camp after the playoffs are over. I hope to goodness the Sycamores are in the finals."

John said during a respite in the Yankee locker room. "He loves baseball. He's coming down to watch and we're going to play a little golf with Bob Toski."

Talk of the college basketball showdown has saturated the baseball training scene.

Pete Rose is upset because the Phillies' exhibition schedule may force him to miss the NCAA finals on TV. Almost everybody was shocked by the defeat of Duke and North Carolina at the hands of a couple of Eastern teams, one of them, of all things, from the Ivy League.

Who's going to win the big one — Notre Dame, UCLA, Michigan State, Indiana State? "I still think the Atlantic Coast Conference plays the best basketball in the country," John said. "And there's not a better coach anywhere than Dean Smith at North Carolina. I don't understand it. They must have gotten overconfident. But don't count Indiana State out."

"A lot of people don't take them seriously. They've still got to prove themselves. So you can bet they're going to be fired up to the gills."

The newest of the Yankees, free agent millionaire, whose career was saved when a tendon from his right arm was sewn into a ruptured ligament in his left elbow, has been back home in Indiana since signing with the world champions last November.

"Terre Haute never changes," he said. "There are the same number of people in town, about 70,000, as when my father was growing up." John said. "What is different is the enthusiasm shown for this basketball team."

"It's a little ironic. For years, the merchants and townspeople didn't do anything for me. A friend of mine, an auto dealer named Bob McClelland, provided free cars and spent thousands of dollars to help the recruiting program."

"We had a little game that seated about 6,000. The student section was filled. The rest of the place was nearly empty."

Now that Indiana State is No. 1 and has the best player in the country in Larry Bird, everybody is saying, "Our team and our man, Larry. They jumped on the band wagon."

Larry is not only a fine player but a great guy, modest, local, completely honest. Any one else would have signed that big pro contract a year ago.

Champ Fights Bout

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — World Boxing Association junior featherweight champion Rorua Chiratanon of Cambodia will meet Thailand's Victor Mianon on Saturday in a 15-round title bout at Roi Fong, about 260 miles north-east of Bangkok.

Cardona, 26, who won the title in 1977 from South Korea's Soe Hwan Hong, arrived in Thailand a week ago for gym work and sparring sessions with Thai boxers at the national gymnasium here.

So far the champion has sparred 80 rounds and intends to continue for another five rounds before the fight.

It's pretty hot here, but I'm feeling fine. I'm not excited about the fight because I know I'll win," Cardona said.

Bonds Power Evident In Hitting Display

By The Associated Press

Bobby Bonds, who reported to the Cleveland Indians only last week, seems to be making up for lost time.

The slugging outfielder, who was reluctant to join the Indians after being traded for the fifth time in six years, had three hits and three runs batted in, including the tying and winning hits, Tuesday as the Indians beat the Milwaukee Brewers, 10-9 in 12 innings.

And, says Cleveland's Tom Barker, "You ain't seen nothing yet."

The 32-year-old Bonds is being used as a designated hitter while he catches up with the rest of the club in conditioning. He cracked a two-out, 10th-inning single to tie the game 9-9 and added a 420-foot homer to win the game in the 12th.

That capped the day for the Indians, who trailed 8-1 after five innings but pulled even on Paul Dade's two-out single in the ninth.

Those first few innings were like a circus," said Cleveland Manager Jeff Borner. "I don't like that, but winning makes you feel better."

So did the hitting by Bonds, who will be the Indians' starting fielder on opening day.

"He's still getting his timing down and it's going to take a bit longer," said Borner. "He's awesome. He hit a triple to center in the third inning and came back to the bench shading his head. He said I should have hit that one, but he doesn't quite have his timing yet."

And watch out when he gets it, says Barker.

"There's no question he's a great talent," says Barker, who, like Bonds, reported to Cleveland this week. "I've seen him hit in the past."

The New York Yankees are still waiting for the return of their ace pitcher, Steve Carlton, and their season's schedule is packed with tough games, including the Texas Rangers, who are the only team to have won more major league baseball.

In the other games, the San Francisco Giants outscored the Chicago Cubs, 12-9; the California Angels whipped the Seattle Mariners, 11-3; the San Diego Padres bested the Oakland A's 4-3; the Chicago White Sox trimmed the Kansas City Royals, 4-1; and the Toronto Blue Jays topped the Minnesota Twins, 4-1.

Philadelphia's Montreal Expos edged the Boston Red Sox, 4-1, in 10 innings; the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated the Cincinnati Reds, 3-1; the St. Louis Cardinals nipped the Philadelphia Phillies, 7-6; the Detroit Tigers beat the Houston Astros, 4-2, in 11 innings; and the Atlanta Braves beat the Baltimore Orioles, 4-2.

The New York Mets and Pittsburgh Pirates tied 3-3 in 11 innings.

Darrell Evans, Art Gardner, Tom Dickey and Rob Murray were in a pitchers' duel as San Francisco beat Oakland, 11-0, and the Yankees edged the Cubs, 4-3.

Bob Miller had three hits and two runs batted in, including a two-out, 10th-inning single to tie the Texas Rangers, 9-9, as the only team to have won more

New Mexico State leads in a tournament...

Nicklaus Adds Doral Open

MIAMI (AP) — Some problems for Jack Nicklaus have been turned into a boost for the $250,000 Doral Eastern Open golf tournament.

"Nicklaus' game hasn't come back as well as he wanted it to following a long layoff over the winter."

"It needs more work," he said after disappointing performances in the Bay Hill and Inverrary Classics the last two weeks. "I'm a little bit behind schedule."

So the game's top performer and greatest gate attraction, who had planned to skip this tournament, filed a late entry for the Doral event that gets under way Thursday on the 7,065-yard Blue Monster course at the Doral Country Club.

His entry is a decided departure from the norm for Nicklaus. With two consecutive tournaments behind him and with a firm commitment to play in next week's Tournament Players Championship, he'll be playing four tournaments in a row — the first time he's done so since his earliest years on the tour.

"I said all along I'd play what's necessary for me to play in order to be ready for the majors," Nicklaus said. "I'd set up my schedule this was in advance, leaving the weeks of Doral and Heritage open with the idea that if I felt I needed the work, I could add them to the schedule."

"I'm not playing all that badly, but I'm not scoring. I'm just not as sharp as I should be at this time. I need more work. So I added Doral."

The sponsors, of course, are delighted. The other pros in the field of 144 are less enchanted.

With the addition of Nicklaus, they're suddenly facing the game's premier player who has a history of playing some of his best golf in this tournament on this course.

"He's won twice and has been second three times, including last year when he lost to Tom Weiskopf by a single stroke. He has a stroke average in this tournament of 70.1."

In addition to Weiskopf, other standouts include 1979 tournament winners Ben Crenshaw, Bruce Lietzke, Bob Byrum, Hubert Green and Fuzzy Zoeller, along with U.S. Open champ Andy North, Andy Bean, Ray Floyd and Johnny Miller.

CBS will provide national television coverage of portions of the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday.
