Much-Needed Rain Dampens Area

Slick Steps

This morning's cool, rainy weather caused Hereford residents to don winter clothing. Gwen Scott, dispatcher for the Hereford Police Department, was no exception and had to hold the railing to climb the slick steps to the upstairs police station this morning. Today's low temperature was 37 with the high expected to be in the middle 50's. Rain is expected to continue through the afternoon today.

A cold front which whistled through the area Monday and prompted many a Panhandle resident to reach for an extra blanket last night touched off sorely-needed thundershowers over a widespread area this morning.

Rain began falling within the city of Hereford and on outlying farm areas at about 8 a.m. today, marking the first precipitation for Deaf Smith County since some relatively dry snow which fell during the winter months.

While local farmers were excited to see the rain falling on their powdery-dry farmlands, the moisture is in all likelihood too late to help a major portion of the local dryland wheat crop.

John Fuston, county ASCS executive director reported that of the county's total dryland wheat crop of approximately 150,000 acres, some 75,000 acres is already "pretty well gone."

Fuston reported that an additional 30,000 acres is "on the borderline, and 45,000 acres still has a good chance of making some wheat, primarily in the far northwestern portion of the county, along the state line."

A vast majority of the dryland wheat crop on the sprawling farms in the western portion of the county went through the winter with virtually no appreciable moisture.

Powdery snows placed only traces of moisture in the soil, and the thirsty crop greedily drank that moisture up almost immediately.

Much of the dryland crop had been under severe moisture stress for over a month prior to today's rain.

"The rain falling today is going to be too late to be of much help to a lot of dryland wheat here," Fuston commented.

"We could see 20 or 30 percent of the crop make a fairly decent yield, but 50 percent of the crop is gone for all practical

Peace Talks Still Uncertain

WASHINGTON (AP) - White House officials are saying the warm remarks exchanged by President Carter and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin were more the result of ceremony than progress in the peacemaking process.

The officials, who asked not to be identified, said there has been virtually no change in the views of either Israel or the Carter administration after several days of talks that culminated Monday with Begin's brief trip to Washington to mark the 30th anniversary of Israel's founding.

"We've got a good dialogue going, but it's too early to say whether we've moved closer to the resumption of direct talks between Egypt and Israel," said one official close to the discussions.

Nonetheless, the atmosphere Monday was decidedly different from the chilly, formal air at the close of Begin's last visit to Washington in March.

Later in the day when Begin arrived in Los Angeles to continue his U.S. tour, he agreed: "There was difficulty in March, but now there is a great improvement."

Carter and Begin talked for about 30 minutes. When they emerged from the discussion, Carter told about 500 assembled rabbis and Jewish leaders, "We will never waver from our deep friendship and partnership with Israel and our total, absolute commitment to Israel's security. We will continue to do so not just for another 30 years, but forever."

Mondale Begins Asian Tour

MANILA, Philippines (AP) - Vice President Walter F. Mondale arrived in Manila today to begin a five-nation tour demonstrating the Carter administration's commitment to Southeast Asia and to human rights.

Sheats To Visit City Wednesday

The Rev. Morris Sheats, Democratic candidate for the U.S. 19th Congressional District, will campaign at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday at the south side of the Deaf Smith County Courthouse.

Sheats, pastor of Trinity Church in Lubbock, is seeking the Democratic nomination along with State Sen. Kent Hance.

Sheats began his campaign in Hereford in September at the courthouse. He says he has since traveled 22,000 miles in the district and has visited each county an average of 11 times.

"Where there are values and traditions that both our peoples cherish - freedom, individual liberty, human justice, democracy and national independence - I hope my visit can contribute to their greater fulfillment," Mondale told President Ferdinand E. Marcos on his arrival from Honolulu.

Marcos, in his welcoming remarks, referred to irritations between their governments, including lack of progress in negotiating new military and economic treaties and U.S. criticism of human rights violations by the authoritarian Marcos government.

Red Raider Day Nixed by Rain

The rain lightened the hearts of many area citizens today, but a handful of Texas Tech University backers were disappointed as their chance to meet and talk with new Raider head football coach Rex Dockery and other university coaches and officials was doused.

The Annual Red Raider Day golf tournament and dinner was postponed after a conference with club officials in Lubbock. Some 20 local Tech supporters as well as a like number of Tech coaches, officials, and Red Raider Club members from Lubbock had planned to play in the event.

Local chapter spokesman Dave Hopper reported that he had agreed with Red Raider Club president Leete Jackson of Lubbock to "postpone the event and reschedule it at a later date."

Besides Dockery Raider basketball coach Gerald Myers was also slated to appear for the golf play, social hour, and dinner tonight at the country club. Myers was a member of the winning team in the Florida Scramble-type event last year.

purposes. We could see some 7-12 bushel per acre wheat on some of the remaining acreage, and 30 percent of the acreage could make 20 bushel wheat with good moisture," he added.

Bill Nelson of the Texas Wheat Producers of Amarillo has already predicted only 50 percent of the normal wheat crop for much of the Panhandle, and Fuston reported that appraisals of the area wheat crop bear out that prediction.

"We are appraising the potential of some dryland wheat at only three or four bushels per acre, and this is way under what a man can afford to harvest. I would say that a farmer would have to be looking at a minimum of six or eight bushel grain before he could afford to harvest, and this would also depend on

Brownlow Named As Mayor Pro-Tem

City commissioner Emory Brownlow was elected mayor pro-tem by a unanimous vote in a four-item meeting of the commission Monday.

Brownlow, who was not present at the short meeting, will serve in the absence of Mayor Bartley Dowell.

The commission appointed Neil Cooper, Melvin Hoover and Don Lane to the tax board of equalization.

Approval was given to the Magic Triangle Competition Association to use the southwest water field land for a motorcycle rodeo, tentatively scheduled for May 20.

Three representatives from the association attended Monday's meeting to request the land. They told commissioners that the rodeo will be comprised of barrel racing and pole bending and will open to contestants of all ages.

Raymond Walker, humane society investigator, had asked to be placed on the agenda for the meeting but did not attend.

Briscoe Endorsed 19 Times

By The Associated Press

Gov. Dolph Briscoe and Rep. Bob Krueger continued Monday to hold a wide edge in the number of daily newspaper endorsements received for Saturday's primary vote.

Republican Bill Clements is favored most by daily newspapers in the GOP primary race for governor.

Price Daniel Jr. is ahead in the Democratic attorney general's race.

According to information received from state campaign headquarters in Austin, here are the endorsements made in the contested Democratic and Republican races for governor, U.S. Senate and attorney general:

Hughes To Leave For Round Rock

Pat Hughes, La Plata Junior High principal, announced Monday that he would be resigning at the close of the school year to accept the principalship of a new high school in the Round Rock School District near Austin.

Hughes, a 10-year veteran of the Hereford school system, has been principal at La Plata for five years. He announced the decision to his faculty Monday. The formal resignation is expected to be presented at the next school board meeting, May 9.

Dr. Harrell Holder, superintendent, said Tuesday morning that it was too early to discuss a successor at La Plata. "We hate to lose Hughes, but the move appears to be a great opportunity for him."

Hughes has been active in community affairs as well as professional associations during his stay here. He has held committee chairmanships in the United Way and the chamber of commerce, and has served on the Red Cross board. He has served on the board at First United Methodist Church and is member of the Masonic Lodge.

PAT HUGHES

At Round Rock, Hughes will guide the formation of a new high school. The first year he will be principal of a ninth grade with enrollment of about 850; the second year he will have the 9th and 10th grades.

Bayne, in 22 Years, Sees Bureaucracy Grow

By PAUL SIMS
Managing Editor

If there's anything City Manager Dudley Bayne hates more than state bureaucracy, it's federal bureaucracy.

Both, he says, are overwhelming the smaller city.

"I don't like bureaucracy a damn bit. Federal bureaucracy is worse than state bureaucracy because a lot of the laws states have to enforce are imposed on them by the federal government," said Bayne, Hereford's city boss for the last 22 years.

Bayne said that bureaucracy has been the thing most responsible for his job becoming immensely more complicated since he first took the position.

"It's harder now because of the interference of federal and state rules and laws. When I first came here, I worked for the people of Hereford. Now, a lot of my time is spent working for the federal government and state government, carrying out their ideosyncracies."

Bayne took the opportunity to lash out at President Carter's proposed urban policy.

"If it's approved, it'll be one of the worst things for smaller communities. He's going to do with one bill what 10 years of bureaucracy has tried to do to smaller cities."

"I just don't like most of the laws we have because they really serve no benefit to the community. They create additional expenses and time on the part of the city."

Bayne said another reason for his job becoming harder is the growth of Hereford which peaked in the late 1960's.

"It takes more personnel and more money to operate the city now," Bayne said.

As city manager, he is in charge of the general operations of the city. He prepares the budget, is personnel director and works with the city commission in setting policies.

Bayne is the commission's advisor and says he is in the best position to know what's good for Hereford.

"The commission itself sets the policy, but the commissioners need to know what the exact problems are and possibly some of the solutions."

In his 22 years as city manager in Hereford, Bayne has seen expansion in the water system, major street renovations particularly on U.S. Highway 60, Highway 385 and Ave. K., airport improvements, the purchase of a city

Signal Lights Planned by State

The State Department of Highways and Public Transportation today notified Hereford City Manager Dudley Bayne that a traffic signal lights will be constructed at the intersection of U.S. 385 and Moreman.

Construction will begin in August, according to a letter Bayne received from the highway department.

"The city's been requesting this every year for the last six or seven years," Bayne said. "We've needed a sufficient traffic count and approval from Austin to get it, and we finally did this year."

Ex-Assistant Chief Petitions for Withdrawal

HOUSTON (AP) - Former assistant police chief Carol Lynn, charged with obstruction of justice, has petitioned U.S. Attorney Tony Canales and his staff to withdraw from the case alleging Canales is a material witness.

U.S. Magistrate H. Lingo Platter scheduled a hearing Wednesday to permit government attorneys time to make a written answer to the petition, submitted Monday Lynn's attorney, James Pape.

Lynn, 45, who served briefly as police chief, was charged in an alleged scheme to use influence to get a securities violations case dismissed involving oilman John Holden.

An affidavit filed by the FBI alleges Lynn advised Holden last November he would take care of the securities indictments against him in return for $45,000.

The affidavit alleges Lynn said he would use his influence with Leonel H. Castillo, director of the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service, to pressure Canales to drop the investigation.

Federal prosecutors replied Monday that allegations of Canales' involvement in the alleged Lynn plot were hearsay. They also denied that Canales was a material witness and such a motion prior to grand jury action was premature.

Asst. U.S. Attorney Michael J. Brown said he and George H. Kelt Jr., would prosecute the case, not Canales.

ABC Program Schedule Won't Change Much

NEW YORK (AP) - ABC will top three current series from its prime time schedule this fall and add only 3 1/2 hours of new programming in an effort to continue as frontrunner in the networks' ratings race.

"The new changes we are making in our fall prime time schedule are testimony to the faith we have in our current schedule and the stability and leadership we have achieved over the past few years," James Duffy, president of the television network, said in a statement Monday.

It was ABC's first fall schedule since the announced departure of programming chief Fred Silverman and the network clearly was reluctant to tamper with success.

Silverman, who has been credited with steering ABC out of last place in the ratings and into its current position ahead of CBS and NBC, announced in January he would leave ABC to become president and chief executive at NBC.

He reportedly was not involved in fall programming at either network, primarily because of the timing of his departure.

CBS and NBC plan to announce their fall schedules in the next several weeks.

Private Detective Withdraws from Case

SAN DIEGO (AP) - Controversial private detective Jay J. Armes has refunded a $25,000 fee and agreed to withdraw from the Aleta Sue Grosenbach murder case even though he says he knows who the killer is and that the murderer has confessed to him.

City Councilman Bill Mitchell said Monday that he and James Vaus Jr., president of a citizens committee that raised the fee for Armes, met Sunday with the double amputee detective in his El Paso office. Mitchell said Armes gave them a $25,000 cashier's check as a refund.

Armes, who wears hooks for the hands he lost in a childhood accident, styles himself an investigator able to solve any case and he has received widespread news coverage for his usual $100,000 fees.

The committee, at Mitchell's suggestion, hired Armes to unravel the mysterious killing of Aleta Sue after police were unable to solve the 9-year-old girl's murder. Her body was found Aug. 18, 1976, on a slope in Scripps Ranch, five days after she disappeared from La Jolla after leaving her grandmother's home to buy a newspaper.

The four-man executive committee of the blue ribbon group terminated Armes' contract Friday and sent a letter asking for return of the fee. Vaus told KGTV reporter Gene Gleason.

Crime Council Chairman Tells of Threats

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) - Rep. Frank Tejeda, D-San Antonio, co-chairman of Texas, says he was threatened both physically and politically after he voted in committee against the legalization of parimutuel betting.

Tejeda told reporters Monday that the threats came last year when he voted on the Texas House Intergovernment Affairs Committee of the House to keep gambling outlawed in the state.

Tejeda told a news conference that he received one anonymous threat that said: "You won't be around to vote on it next time."

He said the callers' messages were loud and clear that "I could gain financially and politically by voting for the bill."

The House member said he thinks 60 percent of the bookies in the state are connected with organized crime.

He added that the bookies are not afraid to take bets on the telephone because they have organized crime to use as "a collection agency."

Tejeda said he did not make the threats public earlier because he refused to be intimidated by them.

Police Report

Mootman Manufacturing Co. Progressive Road, reported a burglary to Hereford police this morning.

According to police, someone broke into a storage shed at the company and stole a half case of oil, three cans of transmission fluid, six cans of spraypaint and several paint rollers.

Dick Barrett Produce, Inc. reported to police that someone shot out 19 outside lights Monday night or early today.

Windcharger Research

Wind energy research underway at West Texas State University will be the focal point of the Faculty Research Symposium to be held May 4 on the WTSU campus. Running from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. in WTSU Science Center Room 101, the symposium is open to all interested individuals. One of the projects is the development and testing of small wind turbine systems. Located on the WTSU Nance Ranch outside of Canyon, these three models show the variety available. The left turbine is a Dakota, which is a commercial model styled after the Jacobs windcharger. The two on the right are experimental models designed by Wiley Stockett, Jr. of Canyon. [WTSU Photo]

"I worked a year at the Humble Oil and Refinery warehouse before my older son had lingering pneumonia. The doctor said we had to move to a higher climate.

"I went back to college—at West Texas State—and graduated. One of my professors was on the Canyon city commission and invited me to try the city manager's job. So I did.

"At Canyon, I learned all phases of city government. Then, Hereford was a better step up."

Bayne and A.C. Spears of Berger may hold the distinction of remaining in one location as city manager for the longest period of time of anybody in the state. "I'd like to stay here for good—I like the people of Hereford and I like the climate, and we have a community here without a lot of local politics."

He admitted he is outspoken and often ruffles feathers.

whether he had his own combine or had to hire a custom operator. When you go to figuring what you must have before you can harvest, it gets pretty close in a hurry on dryland wheat," he explained.

Although the current cool, rainy spell could help some of the wheat on the borderline of failure to hang on for another week or two, Fuston pointed out that many of the dryland wheat farmers "have completely missed out on their wheat crop and will have to turn to grain sorghum in an attempt to derive income from their land this year."

A sufficient quantity of rain now could provide soil moisture for getting a dryland sorghum crop off to a good start, although moisture would be needed during the summer to insure a good harvest.

Storing up soil moisture isn't just a concern of the dryland farmer, as many local farmers with irrigated acreage are running far behind in their farming operations this year and preplant irrigation has lagged behind schedule.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

I got a letter recently from a young reader in California who wrote, "As you are a mother, perhaps you could define the phrase, 'Someday you'll thank me for this.' When I confronted my Mom with this question she replied with that age-old cliché, 'You're too young to understand. Wait until you grow up and have kids of your own.'"

"Somehow, I can't conceptualize myself ever thanking my Mom for wrenching a jelly donut out of my mouth and throwing it into the neighbor's yard. I can picture the neighbor's cocker spaniel thanking her, but not me." -- Sincerely, Gayley S. (San Francisco)

How we mothers love it when you ask questions. You exhibit the kind of spirit that got my kids eight-hour naps when they were 17. (But then I never had kids who used language like conceptualize.)

Now, indulge me, Gayley, while I give you a little background. The phrase "Someday you'll thank me" was uttered by a housewife in Des Moines, Iowa, Aug. 6, 1934, who had one of those kids you couldn't discipline and get a reaction out of. She's send him to his room, take away his desserts, withhold his allowance, make him wear hard shoes in the summer. Nothing. Finally, one day after she had exhausted every threat she knew, she socked him on a chair and shouted, "One of these days, you'll thank me for punishing you."

The child looked up, stunned. Now he knew what he was dealing with -- an incoherent, irrational, weird mother who had inhaled too much laundry bleach and sucked on too many wet shoestrings. He never misbehaved again.

The phrase is a last resort for mothers. It is never used lightly or indiscriminately, but only when reason fails. It is reserved for those moments when a child is about to have a wonderful time and a mother is about to put a stop to it. At a time when she is about to inflict pain on your backside and feels there's a dead space in the conversation. It makes a mother feel forgiven for what she is about to do.

Thanks to that housewife from Des Moines, Gayley, there are 18 million mothers sitting around by their phones today waiting for their children to call in their thanks. Frankly, it's not the avalanche we had hoped for, but people like yourself are still searching for the answers.

Believe me, Gayley, someday you'll thank me for my vagueness in answering your reply. You may call collect. The number is 555-9990. After 6 p.m., 555-8224. I'll be waiting.

May Fellowship Day Luncheon Scheduled

May Fellowship Day, an observance when Church Women United pay tribute to their history and purpose, will be celebrated in Hereford with a covered dish luncheon on Friday in the Community Center.

The Rev. Doug Manning, pastor of First Baptist Church, will be keynote speaker during the program portion of the meeting. On the business agenda will be the CWU Chapter's installation of new officers.

Babysitters will be provided and it is asked that children bring sack lunches. The public is welcome to attend.

May Fellowship Day will be observed Friday by more than 2,000 units of CWU throughout the country. They will celebrate that fact "that we are a visible and ecumenical community of those who declare Jesus Christ as Lord and Savior who seek to act out our love in volunteer service to others. We this day declare that we have promises to keep."

Estate Planning To Be Discussed

The public is invited to attend a two-night series, beginning Thursday and concluding May 9, on Estate Planning at the County Bull Barn.

Singers To Give Concert

Hereford residents will be treated to a special religious concert to be performed at 7 p.m. Sunday by Hereford Chamber Singers at Temple Baptist Church.

The 40-member choir, under the direction of Bill Devers, will sing contemporary and inspirational religious music. Highlights will be solos by Bobby Boyd and Bob Stice, as well as the trio of Stice, Joyce Allred and Jan Walser.

This will be the Singers' final performance before autumn.

Heart Board To Convene This Week

A volunteer leadership conference will be held by the Deaf Smith County Division of the American Heart Association when they will convene at 7 p.m. Friday in the First National Bank Community Room.

Board members and committee chairmen are reminded to attend the conference in conjunction with the regularly scheduled monthly board meeting.

The committee chairmen and directors will set goals for next year CPR (Cardio-Pulmonary Resuscitation) classes, nutrition programs, hypertension screenings, children's programs and general heart health.

The local division invites all organizations in Hereford to contact Rosie Wall at 364-4374 to arrange for programs to be given in the upcoming year. Programs of varying lengths will be offered in the areas mentioned above.

Sponsoring the seminar are Deaf Smith County Resource Development Committee and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Thursday night's meeting will feature Dr. Ray Sammons economist-management representative of the TAES, attorney Bill Marquis, and Jack Wilcox, trust officer at First National Bank.

Dr. Sammons will review the A, B, C's of planning an estate, offering the basics of making out a will. Marquis will analyze the various types of wills and the recommended steps one should take before drafting a new will or revising an existing will. Wilcox will discuss the purpose of trusts.

The program, which will begin at 7:30 p.m., will end at approximately 9:30. Coffee will be served during the break.

Birthday Party Honors Toddler

Chad Hutson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rick Hutson, celebrated his second birthday, April 28, with a backyard party.

Beach balls were given as party favors and cake and ice cream were served to family members and guests.

Evans To Graduate at KC

Candidates for graduation from Kilgore College number 395 this year, and represent 55 Texas cities, six additional states, and the foreign countries Iran and Nigeria. Among the graduates is Joseph E. Evans of Hereford.

Dr. Randolph C. Watson, President of Kilgore College, has announced that Dr. Kenneth H. Ashworth, Commissioner of Higher Education, Texas College and University System, will present the graduation message, May 18.

Dr. Ashworth spent a year with the Office of Education in Washington, D.C., and later assisted in federal programs for the Coordinating Board of Texas. In 1969 he became vice chancellor for Academic Affairs of the University of Texas system, and later served as executive vice-president at UT at San Antonio. A Phi Beta Kappa graduate in economics from UT, he earned the master's degree in public administration at Syracuse University and the Ph.D. in history and philosophy of education at UT.

Dr. Ashworth is a native of Abilene. He and his wife are parents of two children.

Program participants include Mr. John W. Turk, Jr., who will play "Choral Prelude" by Bach as a professional and "March" by Mendelssohn as a recreational. Merle L. Moreland of Biblical Studies Center will give the invocation, and Dr. Stewart H. McLaurin, executive vice-president, will introduce platform guests, William Holda, director of Fine Arts at Kilgore College, will sing, and Bruce D. Swan, president of the KC Board of Trustees, will present degrees and certificates. The ceremony will conclude with a benediction by Gerald R. Mullikin of Wesley Foundation.

Pioneer of Year To Be Selected

The "Pioneer of the Year" award will again be presented here during the Mid-Plains Pioneer Day reunion May 27 in the Deaf Smith County Bull Barn.

Bernard Roberson, president of the pioneer association, announced that the executive committee has begun making plans for the covered dish luncheon and program. As in the past, awards will be given to the man and woman who have traveled the greatest distance to attend the reunion and to the oldest man and woman present. The "Pioneer of the Year" award is to be presented by KPAN Radio.

Officers of the association, in addition to Roberson, are Bill Brady, vice president, and Mary Fraser, secretary.

Olympics Entrants Emerge Successful

Laura Duncan and Jimmy Wilson were double victors, but all the entrants from Hereford in the annual Special Olympics held at Canyon last Friday came away winners. The local kids, coached by Ron Tidmore, Terri Laing, Irma Gomez, Wanda Vershelde, and Rhon Stewart, chalked up eight firsts, 10 seconds, nine thirds, one fourth, and three fifths at the meet.

The local kids were aided in going to the meet by the Lions Club and local volunteer firemen, who donated money to pay for physicals, and by the C.R. Anthony store at Sugarland Mall, which provided team shirts for the entrants.

Miss Duncan led the Hereford charge at the Olympics with wins in the 100 meter dash and the softball throw in her division. Wilson won the 400 meter run and softball throw in his division as well as claiming a third in the 440 relay along with Rudy Garcia, Travis Johnson, and Charles Lee.

Other champions included Lee in the 50 meters Jesse San Miguel in the 25 meters, Crystal Coody in the 25 meters, and Norma Martinez in the softball throw. Miss Coody also placed 5th in the softball throw, while Miss Martinez was second in the 50 meter run, and Lee was third in the softball throw.

Other winners for Hereford included Garcia, second in the 400 meters and third in the softball throw; Jo Ann Duncan, second in the 50 meters; Beth Clark, second in the 100 meters; and Mitch Merritt, fifth in the 100 meters and fifth in the softball throw; Johnson, second in the 800 meters and third in the softball throw.

Also, Richard Nolan, third in the 25 meters and softball throw; Nita Brown, second in the 25 meters and third in the softball throw; Maria Liscano, third in the softball throw and fourth in the 25 meters; Tim Villarreal, second in the 25 meters and third in the softball throw; Kip Redwine, second in both the long jump and 50 meters; and San Miguel, second in the softball throw.

Construction continues at a frenzied pace at the new Kids, Inc. baseball complex as the organization looks to the opening of the season next Monday night. Volunteers have put in unnumbered hours in preparing the complex for baseball and softball play this summer. TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) - Tennis star Jimmy Connors has had to cancel tonight's exhibition match with Roscoe Tanner because of an attack of infectious mononucleosis.

Hank Pfister of San Jose, Calif., will substitute for Connors in the match sponsored by the Tuscaloosa Civitan Club.

CARTAGENA, Columbia (AP) - Former world middleweight champion Rodrigo Valdes has announced he has decided not to retire from boxing and that he wants a rematch with Hugo Corro of Argentina, who wrested the title from him April 22.

Corro outpointed Valdes in San Remo, Italy, prompting reports that Valdes would retire. "I thought about retiring after losing," Valdes said upon arrival in Cartagena, Colombia's leading Caribbean resort. "But I have cancelled those plans. Now I think I can fight Corro again, but if he refuses then I guess I won't fight anymore."

He said Corro is a good boxer, "but I think he is still a little green. He can become a good champion, but right now I think he still needs a lot of experience."

Phillies Embarrass Seaver on Television

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

What did they say in 1968, when Cy Young won 13 games and lost 21? Was there no hope at all in 1911, when he finished 7-10?

Did everyone then ask, "What's wrong with Cy Young?" the way everyone now is asking, "What's wrong with Tom Seaver?"

Six starts into the 1978 baseball season, Seaver is winless. His earned run average is 6.52. He is, in his own words, "embarrassed and extremely frustrated."

Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson yanked Seaver in front of a national television audience Monday night after the right-hander, a three-time Young Award winner, gave up seven hits and seven runs - six of them earned - in less than three innings against the Philadelphia Phillies.

Worse, almost, was the six walks he handed out.

After eating Seaver alive in three innings, the Phillies picked their teeth the rest of the way. They finished with a 12-1 victory, leaving Cincinnati with the scraps and leaving everyone asking Tom Seaver what's wrong.

He answered the only way he could: "I wish I knew what it was. If I did, I wouldn't be in this situation."

In the other National League games, the San Francisco Giants trimmed the St. Louis Cardinals 2-1, the Pittsburgh Pirates bested the San Diego Padres 7-4 and the Atlanta Braves edged the New York Mets 6-5.

In the only American League games, the Boston Red Sox held on for a 9-6 triumph over the Baltimore Orioles and the New York Yankees topped the Kansas City Royals 8-4.

Giants 2, Cardinals 1
Terry Whitfield doubled and scored from second base on Mark Littell's wild pitch in the eighth inning for the winning run in San Francisco's victory over St. Louis.

The game was spiced by a ninth-inning argument between the Giants' Bill Madlock and rookie umpire Charlie Williams, who was behind the plate for the first time in a major league game.

Madlock, who had struck out twice, stepped out of the batter's box after the court went to two strikes against Cardinals reliever Pete Vukovich. Williams ordered Madlock back into the box, then signalled for Vukovich to throw when his directive was ignored.

Madlock, who had his back to the plate when the pitch was thrown, had to be restrained from going after Williams when the umpire cried, "Strike Three."

Somewhere in the hubub was an eight-inning, six-hit performance by San Francisco's Via Blue.

Pirates 7, Padres 4
Singles by Phil Garner and relief pitcher Jim Bibby keyed the three-run eighth-inning rally that sent Pittsburgh past San Diego.

Braves 6, Mets 5
Biff Pocoroba and Jeff Burroughs had run-scoring hits in the eighth inning to help Atlanta beat New York in a game marked by four balks - three by Braves pitchers.

Red Sox 9, Orioles 6
Jim Rice slugged a pair of two-run homers and Boston survived Baltimore's ninth-inning rally to snap a four-game losing streak.

Yankees 5, Royals 4
Lou Piniella scored Thurman Munson with the first of four seventh-inning runs to help the Yankees beat Kansas City.

Tom Wants Linemen

DALLAS (AP) - Dallas Cowboys Coach Tom Landry, faced with the retirement of Ralph Neely and Rayfield Wright's injury problems, says he wants some good offensive linemen from the National Football League draft.

The 1978 NFL draft gets under way today, with the Houston Oilers grabbing Heisman Trophy winner Earl Campbell via a trade with Tampa Bay.

Last year, it was Dallas that traded for Seattle's No. 1 choice to draft Tony Dorsett. But the Cowboys are at the other extreme today, getting the 28th pick by virtue of their Super Bowl triumph.

"Our major concern is the offensive line because left tackle Ralph Neely retired," said

Landry. "If Rayfield Wright comes back strong enough we don't have a problem. If he doesn't, we want to be sure we have enough depth there."

Wright, an offensive tackle, returned to action late last season after knee problems.

Because of the Cowboys' computerized system of ranking collegiate players in advance, the draft has become an almost automatic affair for them. They pick the highest rated athlete available regardless of position.

In cases where three or four players are rated practically the same, Landry said the team will draft on the basis of need.

This year's collegiate crop is considered below average by NFL scouts, so the "can't miss" prospects will go before the first round is completed.

HWGA Crazy Golf Winners Listed

The team of Roger Owen, Audrie Howard, and Lani Walterscheid combined for a 37 over nine holes last weekend to capture first place in the Hereford Womens' Golf Association (HWGA) Crazy Tournament.

The trio outlasted three other teams for the title in the tournament, which included a variety of "crazy" shots. At various holes the players were instructed to tee off blindfolded, off a commode, with a tennis racket, with a putter, off bed springs, and left handed as well as others.

Things didn't get much better on the greens with a variety of "putters" used. Those included a short putter, croquet mallet, a driver, a training putter, and even a tennis ball substituted for the golf ball.

Finishing second in the affair were Don Martin, Johnny Wall, Glenda Hansen, and Mary Hansen with a score of 39. The teams of Karl Mannschreck, Lewis Block, Eynn Carter, and Jan Weishar and Susie Mannschreck, Jim Lowder, Calvin Jones, and Pat Brooks finished the round with identical 40s.

Alydar Still Derby Choice

By DICK JOYCE
AP Sports Writer

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) - Laz Barrera, trainer of Affirmed, says his colt not only faces a tough rival in Alydar for Saturday's 104th Kentucky Derby, but he's bucking sentiment for the Calumet Farm colt.

Not even the presence of Kentucky-born-and-bred Steve Cauthen aboard Affirmed is expected to sway the favorite's role from Alydar, winner of the Flamingo, Florida Derby and Blue Grass Stakes.

"Logic says we should be the favorite," said Barrera on a chilly Monday morning at Churchill Downs. "We beat him four of six races. If this race was in California, Affirmed would be the favorite, but it's Kentucky, so Alydar will be favored."

Alydar's status as favorite will be built a great deal on the fact that Calumet Farm, winner of a record eight derbies, is a legend among racing fans, especially in Kentucky.

Adding to the sentiment: the owners, Admiral and Mrs. Gene Markey, are in their 80's, and Calumet hasn't had a Derby winner since Forward Pass won it in 1968 when Dancer's Image was disqualified.

Affirmed, owned by Harbor View Farm, scored those victories over Alydar last year and emerged as the Eclipse Award winner as the top 2-year-old. They haven't faced each other this year and both are unbeaten as 3-year-olds.

Affirmed's big wins this year came in the Santa Anita and Hollywood Derbies.

"I know one thing," said Barrera. "My colt is very sound and in helluva good shape. All we need now is luck in the race. Knock on wood." The Cuban-born trainer saddled 1976 Derby winner Bold Forbes.

Asked if he was apprehensive about having young Cauthen, appearing in his first Derby, as Affirmed's rider, Barrera said, "Cauthen learned how to be a jockey on this track. He's cool. He rides like he's been riding for 100 years."

Cauthen, of Walton, Ky., who turned 18 Monday, was the nation's leading rider in victories (487) and purse earnings with more than $6 million last year. He has been Affirmed's regular jockey except for the Santa Anita Derby when he was under suspension.

John Veitch, trainer for Alydar, said, "Alydar is a better horse now than he was last year. He's stronger, more professional and does everything easier than he did as a 2-year-old. There were times last year when he was unsure of himself. He's not like that anymore."

While Alydar and Affirmed are expected to be the top two choices, Joseph Taub's Sensitive Prince, unbeaten in six career starts, and Hickory Tree Stable's Believe It, the Wood Memorial winner, also are regarded as top contenders for the 1 1/4-mile race.

Ann Landers

Ann Says 'MYOB'

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Sometimes minding your own business is the wrong thing to do. I think this is such a time and am writing to see if you agree.

Here's the situation. I have a friend who is single. He is 37 years old and lives at home with his widowed mother. His mother is an "old-time Catholic" and a very fine person. She does not try to run his life nor has she ever poked her nose into his private affairs. About ten years ago my friend fathered a son. He visits the boy often, supports him and is a very active, generous father, considering the circumstances. The child lives with his mother, who is a divorcee and therefore cannot marry my friend in the Catholic church. (I don't really think they want to get married anyway.) The boy's mother and my friend spend a lot of time together and have a warm relationship.

My friend has never told his mother that the child is her grandson. The boy's father feels that in order to protect her from his "sin" he must continue to shield her. He will not let the boy's mother tell either. Everyone in the family knows but the boy's grandmother.

"Grandma" is getting old. Even though she is in good health she will probably die without ever having known about her grandson. The child, on the other hand, is being deprived of the privilege of knowing his wonderful grandmother.

What, if anything, should I do? -- Watching From The Sidelines

DEAR WATCHING: Since the principals have chosen to handle the situation in this manner, you have no right to interfere. This is not your affair, and no one is asking for your advice. So MYOB, Toots.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our five-week-old baby seems to be cross-eyed. He looks that way when he gets tired or when he just wakes up from a nap. When I mentioned this to my husband he told me I was imagining things. When I brought it to the attention of my mother-in-law she said, "All my children were that way. Leave the baby alone. Don't start with doctors. The baby will outgrow it."

My mother put in her two cents' worth. She said, "Those rattles above the bed are what's causing it. Take them down." So I did -- but the problem persists.

Please, Ann, I know you aren't a doctor but you know the best ones. Will you get an opinion for me? -- Charlevoix, Michigan Mama

DEAR MAMA: One of the best is Dr. Jay Arena, Professor of Pediatrics at Duke University. He says many infants appear to be temporarily cross-eyed because they cannot focus. The condition usually disappears by the age of six months. Dangling rattles and mobile art above the infant's head does not increase the tendency.

If the problem continues after the age of one year, Dr. Arena suggests that a specialist be consulted.

CONFIDENTIAL to Rat Fink and Proud of It But Where Do I Go from Here?: I don't know, but you'll probably go, there alone. You've lost two good friends for sure -- and maybe four. If you don't learn to keep your big bazoo closed after this experience, you're a hopeless case, Buster.

'Ride On' Exhibit Open Now

The Smithsonian Museum's traveling exhibit "Ride On", a history of bicycles, is on display in the Audio gallery on the second floor of Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum at Canyon through May 21.

The Smithsonian's graphic panels depicting the history of the bicycle are complimented by an early turn of the century sporting costume and four bicycles of an earlier period from the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum collection.

The next Smithsonian traveling exhibit entitled "Agriculture and America" is scheduled for showing in August and September.

Carter Uses Couples In Administration Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) - The husband and wife teams working for President Carter have a lot in common. They work long hours and schedule their lives tightly. And they make big bucks.

In most cases the couples earn at least $100,000, but they dismiss any suggestion that they're being overpaid.

Take Evan and Kit Dobbelle, for instance - one of at least seven couples appointed to Carter administration jobs.

Last week the president asked Dobbelle to leave his post as chief protocol to become treasurer of the Democratic National Committee - a job that pays $50,000 a year.

At the same time Carter recommended that Dobbelle's wife, Kit, take over her husband's job at the State Department. The protocol job also pays $50,000 a year, and Mrs. Dobbelle got valuable experience as an unpaid assistant to her husband during the past year.

"It may be that $50,000 for a government job seems high, but there are a lot of women my age in the media, especially in television, who are making a lot more," said Mrs. Dobbelle, 33, a Hamden, Conn., native.

Mrs. Dobbelle said she last earned a salary in 1972 when she earned about $12,000 as deputy director of a Ford Foundation grant program. Her husband, who was mayor of Pittsfield, Mass., before joining the Carter administration, had a $20,000-a-year salary.

Another White House couple faring well economically is Dr. Peter Bourne and his wife, Mary King.

Bourne draws a $51,000 annual salary as Carter's special assistant for health affairs. His wife earns $50,000 a year as deputy director of ACTION, a cluster of government-sponsored volunteer agencies including the Peace Corps.

Bourne said, however, he and his wife probably would be making more than their combined $101,000 salaries if they had not taken government jobs.

"We were making more prior to coming here," said Bourne, 38, who was president of a scientific consulting firm before joining Carter's presidential campaign. Ms. King, 37, had operated a management consulting firm specializing in health issues and criminal justice.

Anne Wexler, Carter's deputy under secretary of Commerce, moves to a $56,000 White House job Monday to work on Carter's domestic policy staff. Her husband, Joseph D. Duffey, is chairman of the National Endowment for the Humanities, for which he receives $52,500.

"The fact that we've married shouldn't take away from the salaries we're making," said Ms. Waxler, 48, of Norwalk, Conn. "It all sounds so glamorous. But after taxes, it's not as much as you think."

At a time when many political marriages are breaking up, the White House couples said their demanding careers stimulate their marriages.

Climber Scales Sears Tower

CHICAGO (AP) - A man opposed to killing whales scaled 18 stories of the 110-story Sears Tower early Monday, then turned back and reached ground four hours later, as hundreds gathered outside the world's tallest building.

"I gotta do my thing and that's it," he shouted down to authorities who tried to coax him back.

The man, tentatively identified as Joe Healy, 25, of Chicago, began climbing the

Soviet Spy Exchanged For American Student

BERLIN (AP) - Convicted Soviet spy Robert Thompson was exchanged Monday for American student Alan Van Norman who was freed from an East-German jail to complete a three-way international swap of prisoners.

Thompson, 43, arrived from New York earlier in the day to finish the transaction that included Van Norman, 22, of Windom, Minn., and Israeli pilot Miron Marcus, 24. He was released last month by Mozambique.

A statement from the U.S. Mission, where the new exchange was carried out behind closed doors, said Thompson and East German lawyer Wolfgang Vogel then crossed to East Berlin.

Van Norman was reunited with his mother, who left Windom last week to meet him. He was arrested last Aug. 2 in East Germany and sentenced January 17 to 2½ years imprisonment on charges related to helping East Germans cross to the West, the mission said in a statement. The East Germans reportedly were a doctor, his wife and son.

None of those involved in the exchange was available for comment immediately afterward.

Thompson had taken a commercial flight from New York to Frankfurt and changed there to a plane for Berlin. On arrival at Tegel Airport, he was picked up by car from the U.S. Mission.

"I was a spy for the U.S.S.R.," Thompson declared moments before he boarded his flight in New York. But he refused to confirm reports that he is a major in the Soviet secret police.

Thompson was released from Lewisburg Federal Penitentiary in Pennsylvania Sunday after serving 13 years of a 30-year term for espionage. He was accompanied to Europe by East Germany attorney Wolfgang Vogel, who helped arrange the prisoner exchange.

In 1962, Vogel helped arrange the trade of downed U-2 pilot Francis Gary Powers for Soviet spy Rudolf Abel.

On his release, Thompson told waiting reporters that espionage is not "a game, it's a serious business. But if I had to do it over again, I'd have to do it again. This was my job. ... I wouldn't change a day in my life... but I'm glad to be out."

Thompson said the key to his own release was the release by Mozambique of Marcus, who was imprisoned for 19 months after his light airplane made an emergency landing on a flight from Rhodesia to South Africa.

More Room at the Top

My travels take me to a somewhere-else campus at least once a week. I am encouraged by much of what today's young people stand for—and some of the things they are refusing to stand for.

But I am not blind to the unprecedented intrusion of drugs and related depravity into the ranks of what we used to call "children."

If there is any "bright side" to the numbers I am about to relate it is this: All those youngsters on the way down are leaving a lot of room at the top for the others.

Half of all high school students now have experimented with drugs and more than one-third consider themselves "regular users."

That is one-third of 37 million!

And yet for every school-ager popping pills or on the needle, others are on the bottle.

Nearly 8,000 young Americans die each year in accidents involving alcohol, 40,000 are crippled or disfigured.

Dependency on drugs or drink spawns related crimes to support those habits. Los Angeles police guesstimate that 3,000 boys and girls under the age of 14 are prostitutes.

Three thousand in just that one city!

More than half of what the FBI calls "serious crimes"—rape, robbery, murder—are now committed by boys and girls between 10 and 17.

Last year in our schools there were 9,000 reported rapes, 12,000 armed robberies and 70,000 assaults on teachers; more than $600 million lost to vandalism.

This year one million desperate youngsters will run away from home; it's indicated that 40 percent to 60 percent of those flee child abuse and incest. The average age of the runaways is 14.

Perhaps the most tragic toll is the loss of so many youngsters to depression, emotional stress, loneliness. Last year 4,000 school-agers killed themselves and 80,000 tried. Among Americans between the ages of 15 and 19, accidents are still the leading cause of death—but second is suicide.

There is no way to prove that our Supreme Court's determination to disassociate religion and education has contributed to this mass frustration, but it can be proved that when Christianity was ordered out of the classroom a whole bunch of substitute religions rushed in to satisfy the inevitable hunger of all young people for a sense of rightness and wrongness. This appetite has spawned 5,000 substitute religions—cult and occult—with some three million members, mostly young.

An unprecedented proliferation of "church schools" is now offering an alternative to the barrenness of public education.

And again—if there is any compensation for the degeneration of so many of those oncoming generation it is that—for the disciplined others—they are leaving a lot of room at the top.

Show Promoters To Seek Permit

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - Promoters of a giant July country music festival, headlined by Kenny Rogers and Merle Haggard, plan to ask Monday for a state permit so the show can be held in adjoining Williamson County, where local officials oppose the jamboree.

Promoters say they have signed contracts with more than 20 top country music singers and expect between 20,000 and 25,000 persons daily for the show July 2-4 in Williamson County.

Williamson County health officials say they will try to halt efforts to have the show on a 140-acre tract of land near the Fairview community, about 15 miles southwest of Nashville.

Already, the Williamson County Board of Health has voted "to take whatever action necessary" to prevent the festival.

When plans for the show were announced a few weeks ago, festival officials said all necessary permits had been obtained. But since then, Tennessee health officials told promoters a state permit is needed.

County health officials said they are concerned about proper sanitary disposal, food handling, solid waste and garbage disposal, the availability of water, emergency ambulance service, traffic and overnight facilities for out-of-state fans.

Ralph Wright of Nashville, the show's promoter, said he is confident that festival will be held.

"Our position is we're operating a legitimate business and complying with the law," he said. "We are in no way attempting to circumvent the law."

"Asked if he would fight legal attempts to prevent the show, he said, 'You better believe it.'"

He said county health officials have overestimated the number of people expected to attend. Some 25,000 people are expected daily, Wright said, but many of these will attend all three days.

"We're not talking about 25,000 different people all three days," he said.

Besides Haggard and Rogers, stars under contract to perform include Tammy Wynette, Don Williams, Larry Gatlin, Lynn Anderson, the Oak Ridge Boys, the Kendalls, Johnny Rodriguez, Jack Greene, Jeannie Seely, Hank Thompson, Jimmy C. Newman, Barefoot Jerry, Earl Scruggs, Eddie Rabbitt, Danny Davis and The Nashville Brass. Little Jimmy Dickens, Hank Williams Jr. and Alvin Crow.

Wright said plans call for a field hospital to be set up at the site with five doctors and 10 nurses. Ambulance service also will be provided, he said.

A similar rock festival east of Chattanooga was cancelled some five years ago because of opposition by local residents.

July 4 country music festivals have been traditional in the United States. Willie Nelson has drawn thousands of persons to July 4 festivals in Texas.

Media Not Punishable For Printing Proceedings

WASHINGTON (AP) - Newspapers cannot be criminally punished for publishing truthful information about secret governmental proceedings, a unanimous Supreme Court ruled Monday.

The high court struck down a Virginia law making it a crime to report about a state judicial commission's confidential investigations into judges' fitness to hold office.

That law was invoked against Landmark Communications, publisher of the Virginia-Pilot newspaper in Norfolk, after the paper published on Oct. 4, 1975 an accurate report that the state's Judicial Inquiry and Review Commission had studied complaints against a domestic relations court judge.

In other actions Monday, the Supreme Court:

- Said it will rule on how much discretion judges have in deciding when to keep reporters and the public out of court proceedings.
- Rejected arguments by a former Army doctor that he was denied the right to a speedy trial because authorities did not charge him with murdering his pregnant wife and two young daughters until five years after their deaths. The justices ordered him to stand trial.

Turned down a request by 60 House members that it block the Panama Canal treaties from taking effect until it considers an appeal filed by the legislators, who contend the House should have the right to vote on the pacts.

Let stand a decision by Michigan's highest court that local governments are not authorized to enact anti-obscenity ordinances.

The article published by Landmark provided accurate factual information about a legislatively authorized inquiry and in so doing clearly served those interested in public scrutiny and discussion of governmental affairs which the First Amendment was adopted to protect," Chief Justice Warren E. Burger wrote for the court.

The court's vote was 7-0. Justices William J. Brennan Jr. and Lewis F. Powell Jr. did not participate in deciding the case.

Although the controversy involved a newspaper report, wording in Burger's 16-page decision clearly extended such First Amendment rights to broadcasters as well.

At the outset, Burger described the legal issue as

"whether the First Amendment permits the criminal punishment of third persons who are strangers to the inquiry, including news media, for divulging or publishing truthful information regarding confidential proceedings."

Landmark Communications, after the Virginia-Pilot article appeared, was indicted, convicted and fined $500 under the now-invalidated state law.

The Virginia Supreme Court upheld the conviction and fine, ruling that the law made any breach of secrecy in the judicial commission's work a "clear and present danger" to the administration of justice.

That reasoning was rejected today.

"Neither the commonwealth's interest in protecting the reputation of its judges, nor in maintaining the institutional integrity of its courts is sufficient to justify the subsequent punishment of speech at issue here," Burger said.

Monday's decision said states could eliminate any risks to the administration of justice "through careful internal procedures to protect the confidentiality of judicial commission proceedings."

The court's ruling does not protect from criminal sanctions commission members, staff members or witnesses who appear before the commission and take pledges of secrecy in the event those persons are found to give out information about the closed proceedings.

A dollar earned is a dollar saved

As State Treasurer, Warren G. Harding has increased earnings from the investment of state funds. These earnings represent savings to Texans by reducing the need for tax increases.

- $1.8 billion in state funds invested in interest bearing accounts in over 1,300 Texas banks
- 90.4 percent of available funds invested at the end of March—the highest monthly average in Texas history
- 24 percent increase in earnings from October through March compared to same period in previous year
- $126 million estimated interest earnings for Texas this year—highest in history of state.

4-H Firsthand

TEXAS 4-H CENTER—A TRIBUTE TO 4-H'ERS

The $1.4 million Texas 4-H Center, located on the banks of Lake Brownwood in Central Texas, stands as a tribute to 4-H members and dedicated Texas residents who made this dream become a reality.

The Texas 4-H Foundation provided key leadership in planning and financing this facility. Funds came from individuals, industry, organizations and the 4-H Club members themselves.

More than 1,000 adult and teen leaders benefited from intensive training programs conducted at the center during 1977. At least 8,000 participated in other educational experiences there from April 1976 through August 1977.

4-H youth and adult leaders.

Extension staff members and other groups outside the Extension staff utilized the facilities for educational activities, such as weekend workshops, seminars, forums and camps.

The main point about the Texas 4-H Center is that it provides an opportunity for leaders to work together to improve the experiences youth have in 4-H.

The 4-H Center is a source of strength, knowledge and inspiration for all. It is a tribute to 4-H members and leaders. It stands there because people believe in youth and in the work of 4-H leaders. It also stands as a valid reminder that youth work is never complete.

Youth work grows and adapts, reshaping itself as times change. The Texas 4-H Center provided an opportunity to keep pace with change and to equip ourselves for new challenges in working with youth. That's why it's there.

4-H is open to all youths ages 9-19 without regard to race, sex, or national origin.

Lighter Side

WAYNESVILLE, N.C. (AP) - "It takes three days for this stuff to sweat out of your skin, and that's a fact," said the Rev. Billy Frank Woods, holding a fork full of ramps, an onion-like vegetable that grows in the wild.

Woods was a participant in the 56th annual Haywood County Rump Convention on Sunday.

Woods said Rumps "are worth all of it: They clean up your nose. They are the best laxative. The only thing they won't do is clean your breath."

Rumps taste like onions, but are much stronger.

ROCKPORT, Maine (AP) - Andre the seal swam unannounced into Rockport Harbor after swimming 160 miles from Marblehead, Mass., in a record 3½ days. But he didn't stay long.

Before he had been in Rockport more than a couple of hours Sunday, he was off to Camden "to watch them put out a fire in a boat," said Harry Goodridge, Andre's trainer and life-long companion.

The 17-year-old trained seal was first spotted splashing in the harbor at 3:30 a.m. Sunday by a man who called police to report that Rockport's honorary harbor master was home.

As he does every spring, Andre rode last Wednesday from his winter home at the New England Aquarium in Boston to the pier at Marblehead, Mass., where he was released for his swim to Rockport.

Goodridge said he was "happily surprised" that his freckled, gray and brown friend came home so quickly. Two years ago when Andre dawdled, his swim took two weeks.
