Wet-dry election slated for April 7

By KIM THOGMARTIN
Staff Writer

Saturday, April 7 was set as the date for a "wet" election in Justice of the Peace Precinct 1 Monday by Deaf Smith County Commissioners.

In acting on the liquor option election, commissioners took the advice of Deaf Smith County Clerk David Ruland. "In my opinion," he said, "the best day is April 7, the same day as the school board, city commission and hospital board elections."

"A better turnout would express the true views of the precinct on this issue. I feel that more people will come out to vote on Saturday than on other days of the week." Scheduling the election, in which voters will decide if sales of liquor from package stores should be allowed in Precinct 1, called for two separate motions to be approved by the court.

First, Ruland announced, "Everything was done in accordance with the Alcoholic Beverage Code, and there were enough signatures to certify a local option election." Ruland explained that based on that certification, "the court is to approve it and order the election today."

Commissioner James Voyles moved to approve the petition calling for a local option election with Bruce Coleman giving the second. Commissioners approved it unanimously, as they did a second motion to set the date.

Ruland said he had spoken earlier with the City of Hereford, Deaf Smith General Hospital District and Hereford Independent School District. Only the school district, he reported, expressed any reservations about holding the election on the same day as the three already planned.

"Dr. (Harrell) Holder (HISD Superintendent) said he preferred that it not be held that day, but that he would not make a big deal about it one way or the other," Ruland explained.

He recommended, and the court agreed, that the wet-dry election proceedings not be combined with the others in any other way, such as combining ballots or using the same election judges. Ruland said a maximum of 100 persons could be hired to serve as election officials, with 12 persons already certified as presiding judges over local election precincts.

"If we use the 100 people, it would cost almost $4,000 to hold the election," Ruland said this morning. "That's just labor cost; there would also be the cost of printing ballots and posting notices."

Hereford farmer Art Reinauer, who circulated petitions and acquired more than the 1,571 signatures needed to call for the election, attended the meeting and was asked by the court for his opinion once the date was set. "That sounds fine to me," he said.

Ruland said the election code states absentee voting must start "20 days prior to the election, or as soon after calling of the election as ballots become available." The said this morning he hopes to have them ready by Friday. The 20-day period

Walden object of legal request

By KIM THOGMARTIN
Staff Writer

Hereford attorneys Jerry Smith and Don Davis and accountant Julian Berry Thursday filed a "petition for mandatory injunction, issuance of temporary restraining order and temporary injunction" against Linda Walden in 22nd District Court.

Walden, assistant state attorney general, was also that day found in contempt of court by Judge Pat Boone Jr.

Boone was assigned jurisdiction over any cases relating to an investigation of the criminal district attorney's office after 22nd District Judge David Wesley Guiley recused himself.

He ruled Walden was in contempt because she had returned microfilm rather than the original documents or copies of records that had been subpoenaed in December from the legal firm of Smith and Davis and the office of Berry, Ham and Company, local accountants. However, because of Walden's designation as an "officer of the court," another judge will have to hear the case and rule on the motion before Walden can be punished or made to comply with Boone's order. That judge should be assigned by Judge E.B. Jordan of Amarillo.

Walden is serving as special counsel to an extended Deaf Smith County Grand Jury, which is examining the records in its probe of alleged misconduct on the part of District Attorney Roland Saul and Smith, his former assistant and law partner.

The petition filed by the two firms complains of the manner in which the records were taken, saying service of the subpoena was "accompanied by a battery of law enforcement officers who had been directed by (Walden) to remain on the premises" and that "police cars were parked on the south and west side of the building occupied by Smith and Davis."

The petition also contends law enforcement officers stood guard and "clients of Smith and Davis were searched when they left the building."

Records from the Berry and Ham accounting office were allegedly removed in the same manner, and the firms claim the "search and seizure under the guise of Subpoena Duces Tecum was unlawful."

The motion also says Walden told the two offices that the records "would be copied upon defendant's return to Austin" and that the originals would be mailed back to them.

On Jan. 20, Boone ordered copies of the records be returned. On Feb. 22, the microfilm records are reportedly delivered instead. The plaintiffs claim, "Such microfilms are of absolutely no value as plaintiffs do not maintain microfilm reading or copying machines."

The two firms say they have been unable to properly conduct business with local, state and federal taxing authorities, equipment and machinery companies, supply houses, publishing companies and clients. Plaintiffs are further suffering the loss of good will, customer relations and loss of income."

The petition asks that Walden be ordered to return the original business records, which reportedly amount to some 23,000 documents.

Robin Green, an attorney from Amarillo who represented Walden when the contempt motion was heard, said on Friday that it is not unusual for a grand jury to have possession of financial records for the period of time that the Deaf Smith County jury has had the records in question.

"My client is simply trying to do her job," he said of Walden.

'Fritz' continuing South campaign

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer

Walter Mondale was making one final pitch for votes in the South today while Gary Hart kept up his barrage of television ads as the Democratic presidential contenders arrived at delegator "Super Tuesday," with contests in nine states across the nation.

Primaries in five states and caucuses in four more were pivotal for the two front-runners, and they were a fight for survival for John Glenn and George McGovern. This could be the last day of the campaign for Glenn and McGovern unless they show a new depth of support.

On the eve of the voting, polls indicated a mixed bag: Hart led in Massachusetts and Rhode Island, and Mondale led comfortably in Alabama. But Georgia was too close to call and in Florida, a Monday poll showed Mondale drawing almost even with Hart.

The Rev. Jesse Jackson, the fifth major Democratic candidate, was relying on a heavy black vote in Alabama and the other southern states. At stake today are 511 delegates, more than one-

Besides the primaries, caucuses are being held today in Washington state, Nevada, Hawaii and Oklahoma. In addition, American Samoa is holding its caucuses and the Democrats abroad are counting the results of their mail-in primary.

Mondale badly needs a victory today to revive his presidential campaign, which hasn't had a win since the caucuses in Iowa on Feb. 20. Since then, Hart has scored a clean sweep of New Hampshire, Maine, Vermont and Wyoming.

Hart invested heavily, both time and money, in the South in the hope of showing his New England victories, as he said, "were not a fluke."

Mondale kept up his attacks on Hart, questioning the substance of Hart's new ideas and challenging the Colorado senator to debate him before every remaining primary. He repeated a favorite line, playing on a popular restaurant commercial by saying of Hart, "Where's the beef?"

In Mobile, Ala., Hart offered a response. He placed a copy of his book "New Democracy" between two slices of a hamburger bun. "Here's the beef, Walter," Hart said, laughing.

Polls showed Hart with 2-1 leads in Massachusetts and Rhode Island, and an ABC-Washington Post poll Monday in Alabama had Mondale ahead with 40 percent to 28 percent for Hart and 12 percent each for Jackson and Glenn.

Governmental bodies to meet

Two local governing bodies have meetings scheduled this week, with the Hereford Independent School District board of education to gather at 5 p.m. today.

The Hereford City Commission, meanwhile, has slated a 3:30 p.m. meeting Thursday in City Hall, 224 N. Lee Ave. Only one item appears on its agenda: assign ballots for election day and absentee voting.

Tonight's school board meeting is to be held in the administration building, 700 Union Ave. Among the 20 items to be considered is the 1984-1985 school calendar, which is to be adopted.

Also, the budget is to be amended in order to upgrade computers and textbooks are to be adopted. The curriculum report is to be given by Mal Manchee, HISD director of program development, who is to address the textbook question.

Legion birthday party set

The 65th birthday of the American Legion is to be observed by the Hereford post at 7:00 tonight in the Post 192 home in Veterans Memorial Park.

Now the nation's largest veterans organization, the American Legion was founded in Paris by veterans of World War I.

The legion has grown to encompass 2.5 million American veterans of four wars. It is involved in youth programs, rehabilitation efforts, national security, foreign relations and economic programs.

Hereford Post 192 was organized in 1929 and celebrates its 55th birthday this year. All Legionnaires, auxiliary members and their families are urged to attend the dinner and program to follow.

Lake board meets tonight

Three reports are to be received by Buffalo Lake Water District board of directors tonight during their 7:30 meeting at the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service headquarters near Dawn.

The reports are on a Bureau of Reclamation study, activities at the lake by the USFWS and legal matters from Walter Wolfram. To be discussed are the proposed budget, a policy statement sent to the Interior Department and establishment of a bank account.

Tractor accident hurts boy

Jerry Creek, 13, suffered a broken arm Monday afternoon in a tractor accident about two miles south of Easter.

He was listed in satisfactory condition this morning at High Plains Baptist Memorial Hospital in Amarillo, where Creek was taken after being inspected at Deaf Smith General Hospital.

According to a Hereford Volunteer Fire Department spokesman, Creek's coat got caught in the tractor. There may have been damage to the shoulder area, though complete reports were not made available.

Three injured in fight

Three people were injured Friday during a brawl involving at least eight which began at about 11:40 p.m., Hereford police reported this morning.

One man, Pat Nava of Avenue F, suffered a severe cut to his left wrist, which required surgery by a specialist in Amarillo. "Little Joe" Enriquez, also of Avenue F, had his left hand broken and received facial injuries. Freddy Mendoza of 106 James St. had a slight concussion.

The fight took place at 112 Ave. H, Apartment 15. Resident Janie Mendoza was at work when the incident occurred.

Meanwhile, an 86-year-old Deming, N.M., resident received minor injuries and was arrested for driving while intoxicated for his part in a three-vehicle wreck Saturday night.

The accident happened at 7:27 p.m. near Highway 60 and Main Street, where Elmer James Walker plowed his 1980 GMC pickup into a car awaiting a red light to change. That car, as a result of being rear-ended, struck another stationary vehicle in front of it.

MONDAY'S HIGH: 68 (normal high this date: 66 record: 87 (1916))

OVERNIGHT LOW: 40 (normal: 31 record: 8 (1950))
OUTLOOK: Low in the middle 40s tonight under fair skies. Winds should be southerly 10 to 15 miles per hour, increasing to 15 to 25 miles per hour Wednesday, when the high is expected to be in the middle 70s. Sunny skies are projected.

Divers hoping to end their search

By MICHAEL L. GRACZYK
Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Divers today hoped to complete their inspection inside the wreckage of an American drilling ship that sank last year in a typhoon off the coast of Vietnam, believed killing its crew of 81, including 37 Americans.

At least 26 bodies have been retrieved from the sunken hulk of the Glomar Java Sea, Richard D. Vermeer, vice president of the Houston-based Global Marine Inc., said Monday.

The ship went down Oct. 25 during Typhoon Lex in 300 feet of water in the South China Sea about 200 miles east of Vietnam and 60 miles south of China's Hainan Island. Divers began the grisly search on Thursday and the first 12 bodies were recovered Friday. Twelve more were found Sunday. An additional two were discovered Monday, Vermeer said.

"Global Marine plans to transfer the bodies to another vessel later in the week, and then they will be taken to Hong Kong," Vermeer said. "The survey then will be directed to exterior of rig and surrounding areas."

None of the bodies has yet been identified. That procedure would take place in Hong Kong, he said.

Vermeer had no information on where the bodies were found within the vessel, although he said divers were searching "further and further down into the rig" and had been inspecting the crew's quarters.

Company officials have said the crew's last radio transmission indicated workers were in life jackets preparing to board lifeboats after getting hit with 75 mph winds and 26-foot waves.

Officials had theorized and family members had hoped that survivors could have floated to Vietnam, where the winds likely would have carried them.

A lack of diplomatic relations between the United States and Vietnam hampered early search efforts although the Vietnamese government subsequently said it found no debris and no survivors.

Divers investigated the outside of the wreck for three days in early November and found a large indented fracture which ran from top to bottom of the vessel's starboard side, Global officials told a Coast Guard hearing in January.

Besides the 37 Americans, a crew list provided by the U.S. Coast Guard showed those aboard included 35 Chinese, a Canadian, a Filipino, an Australian, four Britons and two Singaporeans.

Relatives of a few of the U.S. crew members have filed multimillion dollar lawsuits against Global Marine, claiming negligence by the company. The firm, however, has denied any wrongdoing.

Jury to hear confessions

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) — A judge has ruled that confessions by Henry Lee Lucas can be introduced as evidence in his murder trial in the death of an unidentified woman whose body was found near Georgetown in 1979. Lucas' defense attorney, Don Higginbotham, had argued that the confessions were inadmissible because Lucas was originally arrested on a weapons charge in Montague County last year without probable cause. "If these confessions were not admissible, we might as well take him (Lucas) home," said Georgetown prosecutor Ed Walsh.

Parole board rejects requests

AUSTIN (AP) — James Autry's legal battle to live is being fought today in the courts and the governor's office. The Texas Board of Pardons and Paroles said "no" Monday to two requests that would have spared Autry from an execution set for Wednesday morning. Autry says the execution should be blocked because he endured "cruel and unusual" punishment when he was strapped to a prison gurney on Oct. 4 for an execution that a Supreme Court justice then stopped. But Board of Pardons and Paroles member Neal Pfeiffer said it would be "cruel and unusual" to delay the execution again.

First Lady asks for help

HOUSTON (AP) — Nancy Reagan told a Republican women's group about meeting an 11-year-old girl who was recovering from drug addiction and the First Lady begged the organization to seek out similar victims and help them. Mrs. Reagan, making a rare solo campaign appearance Monday, told 1,400 Republicans attending a luncheon that the best thing about being First Lady has been the chance to fight drug abuse.

"No one is immune and I do worry that we're in danger of losing our next generation," she said. "One of the advantages of being in my position is that you do have a platform to try to do something and I think we have."

De Lorean described as 'scared'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — John Z. De Lorean was in Los Angeles today, facing the first court appearance of his trial with anxiety but optimism, hoping to find a fair jury to judge him on cocaine trafficking charges.

"He's scared," said attorney Howard Weitzman. "But he's looking forward to the trial beginning. He believes that if justice prevails he will be acquitted."

De Lorean, 59, charged with conspiring to distribute $24 million worth of cocaine, flew in from the East Coast over the weekend with his wife, model Cristina Ferrare.

He spent Monday at the offices of his attorneys, Weitzman and Donald Re, going over last-minute details and studying questionnaires filled out by prospective jurors who will be quizzed in person beginning today.

Reagan administration feud

WASHINGTON (AP) — With two big steelmakers readying a revised merger proposal for the Justice Department, two Reagan administration Cabinet members have escalated their unusual public spat over merger policy.

Attorney General William French Smith lost no time Monday responding firmly to the latest broadside against his department by Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige.

Meantime, the department's antitrust lawyers were set to meet again late today with representatives of LTV Corp. and Republic Steel Corp. It was thought that the companies might be ready to submit a revised version of their $770 million merger, which the department blocked Feb. 15.

Leaders meet privately

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) — Lebanon's rival Christian and Moslem leaders met in private today to discuss proposals worked out during the night for halting the latest bloody round of civil warfare in Beirut.

Sources at the national reconciliation conference said the talks would focus on suggestions from a five-man committee which was assigned during Monday's opening session to arrange an effective truce in Lebanon.

The cease-fire committee met for five hours during the night, and another four-member group composed of Lebanese army, Christian, Druse and Shiite Moslem representatives met in Beirut for the same purpose.

The session today began with a speech by Syria's observer at the conference, Vice President Abdul Halim Khaddam, but the contents of the speech were not disclosed.

Several officials expressed concern that the conference would devote its time to cease-fire arrangements and put off discussions on political reforms aimed at easing differences among Lebanon's various religious communities.

Police dismantle bomb in club

LONDON (AP) — Police defused a bomb in a popular Arab nightclub on the third day of a terror campaign the British government says is aimed at foes of Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy.

Part of London's West End was closed to traffic for about four hours Monday night as experts from Scotland Yard's anti-terrorist branch dismantled the two-pound bomb. It was found in a cardboard box under a bench at the Omar Khayyam Night Club and Restaurant, a nightclub frequented by wealthy Libyans and Egyptians.

Over the weekend, four bomb blasts in London and in Manchester in northern England injured 26 people. Four other devices were detonated safely by police. Libyan diplomats here denied involvement, but British newspapers accused Libya of carrying out state-sponsored terrorism and demanded countermeasures.

Omar Sodani, press attache for the Libyan People's Bureau, or embassy, here, told a news conference Monday, before the latest device was discovered: "We have nothing to do with what has been happening in Britain. We do not know who is doing what to whom. We cannot give reassurances that these attacks will not happen again because we do not know anything about it."

The Omar Khayyam is a basement club on Regent Street, one of London's most fashionable shopping thoroughfares. The six-story building also houses offices of the Royal Jordanian Airline.

Autry wanting execution to be shown on television

By SHARON HERBAUGH
Associated Press Writer

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Convicted killer James David Autry today pushed to allow television cameras to record his scheduled execution early Wednesday, while attorneys scrambled to save him from the Texas death chamber where he earlier escaped death with only 30 minutes to spare.

The U.S. Supreme Court was expected to rule today on an appeal which could save Autry's life for a fourth time, while a Houston federal judge considered a petition that would force the state to permit television coverage of his death.

"I want my execution put on TV because it may help stop someone else from being put to death on death row, and maybe someone will see my execution and decide the death penalty isn't right," Autry said in the affidavit filed with the television suit.

In their appeal to the high court, Autry's attorney argued their client was the victim of cruel and unusual punishment when Texas prison officials in October left him strapped to a hospital gurney with needles in both arms, waiting for death for an hour. Lawyers won a reprieve half an hour before a deadly combination of drugs was to be injected into his veins.

Autry, nicknamed "Cowboy" by fellow inmates, was convicted in the 1980 shooting death of Shirley Drouet, a 43-year-old mother of five who was working overtime at a Port Arthur convenience store to earn some extra money.

Three previous execution dates for Autry have been blocked by federal judges. Dorothy Browne of the American Civil Liberties Union office in Austin said Autry's attorney, Stefan Presser, told her that he presented a writ to the high court on Friday, seeking another stay.

The justices met Monday without announcing their decision, and Presser "thought that was bad news," Ms. Browne said.

Presser has been unavailable for comment and has refused repeated telephone calls.

Ms. Browne speculated that if the court planned a stay, it would have been announced immediately. The delay, she said, could indicate that minority dissenting opinions were being prepared.

The death chamber, recently painted and remodeled, "is ready to go," said Texas spokesman Charles Brown.

begins on Sunday.

There were apparently no representatives present from Citizens Against Package Stores, an organized opposition group headed by the Rev. Ron Cook of the First Baptist Church of Hereford. "I did expect them to be there," Reinauer said afterward. "I'm sure they're prepared and they're going to do something."

Reinauer said he does not intend to publish any more statistical information, at least until the opposition does. "We've got it to a vote now, and I'm not going to fight that."

The 30-year-old Deaf Smith County native, who farms in the western part of the county, decided to try to bring the issue to a vote after learning that he could not operate a winery in a dry county. Reinauer is nurturing a vineyard that is watered with drip irrigation, a technique designed to save water and fuel costs.

In other matters, commissioners decided to purchase two Caterpillar motorgraders from West Texas Equipment of Amarillo. With trade-in of two older models, the maintainers will sell for $169,434. The court chose the West Texas plan because the company offered a guaranteed buy-back at the end of five years at $160,808, a total cost to the county of $8,626.

"That also includes a maintenance contract for five years, and we aren't bound to sell them back after five years," explained Voyles.

Lydick Roofing Company of Amarillo was hired to replace the roof on the Deaf Smith County Library at a total cost of $14,880.

Ken Rogers and Gerald Baker of the Lone Star Agency addressed the court about current liability insurance coverage held by the county. They expressed concerns that there is no coverage on property confiscated by the county, and that "the county has exposure for personal injury liability for law enforcement officers."

Commissioners asked for time to study the policies and are to make a decision at their next meeting.

During a brief afternoon session, the court certified Marian Kreig as a Precinct 5 election judge. Ruland said a full slate of election judges was needed to call for the wet-dry election.

Three candidates for the commission attended Monday's gathering.

Concerning polls

Networks failing to agree

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The internal debate at the three networks over how to use election-day polling information sounds a lot like Sen. Howard Baker's famous Watergate question: What did you know, and when did you know it?

Survey tools, such as interviews with voters leaving the polls and analysis of key election precincts, enable the networks to scientifically predict winners before the polls have closed. There are some who believe that any broadcast of such results influences the outcome.

On Tuesday, when nine states hold primaries and caucuses, CBS said it won't call any race until the majority of polls are closed. NBC said it will wait until the "overwhelming" majority of polls close, and ABC won't make projections until all the polls have closed.

Each network, however, characterizes the trends, based on raw vote, precinct counts and exit polls, in their evening newscasts and, later, in bulletins and updates.

The discussions on Tuesday at all three networks, once again, will involve deciding when to tell voters how they voted.

At ABC, for example, correspondent Sam Donaldson has said that the network knew at 1:30 p.m. that Sen. Gary Hart was likely to be the upset winner of the New Hampshire primary on Feb. 28. But ABC, along with NBC and CBS, which had similar tracking information, didn't inform the television audience until evening newscasts some five hours later.

Each network foreshadowed the Hart victory, with CBS taking the strongest position, estimating the outcome, based on its exit-poll interviews.

ABC's Donaldson said in an interview that he believes the knowledge of any significant trends in the voting should be immediately shared with the viewing-voting public.

Jeff Alderman, ABC's director of polling, said the 1:30 information was good for internal guidance at ABC News, but it was too scientifically sketchy for public release.

"For an exit poll, you need a good representative sample, and 1:30 was too early," said Alderman.

Alderman said that the ABC News inner sanctum constantly discusses how to use the information gathered by his polling unit. "The debate centers on whether to put it on the air, or not," he said. "Plenty of people are nervous about polling; they don't like it."

Rep. Timothy Wirth, D-Colo., chairman of the House Energy and Commerce subcommittee, is monitoring the networks' election-day reporting. He said they acted "more responsibly" in New Hampshire than they did after the Iowa caucuses the week before.

In Iowa, CBS and NBC reported the presidential preferences of some participants before caucus voting was scheduled to begin. CBS' reporting was based on sign-ins at caucus sites, and NBC's on telephone interviews.

This controversial issue first surfaced in 1980, when the networks all called Ronald Reagan's victory over Jimmy Carter before polls on the West Coast had closed.

In Florida, daily ABC-Washington Post polling showed the race suddenly tightening on Monday. Hart had a 45-32 percent lead in polling on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, but surveys conducted Monday showed Hart ahead just 39 percent to 37 percent, with the others in single digits and the undecideds increasing slightly to 8 percent.

Hardly an American household escapes some experience with diabetes. It has to be agonizing for the victims to hear a sustaine cacophony of claims and counter-claims and medications deemed "better," yet "unattainable."

Many or most doctors are as confused as you are.

Upjohn Company has given $4 million to the American Diabetes Association "to educate doctors" on diagnosis and treatment of adult diabetes, to help them understand what those "warning labels" don't mean!

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have a good job. My wife does not have to work. All she does is stay home, keep house and take care of our three kids.

She hates to get up in the morning to fix breakfast for me. We have had several arguments over this, so now she does it grudgingly. The alarm clock goes off at 6:30 a.m. I get up immediately to shower and shave. My wife stays in bed an extra 10 minutes. Sometimes she oversleeps. When this happens, I become very annoyed.

I would like to wire the bed so I can press a button from the bathroom that will send an electric current through the bedsprings and give her a light shock. I know an electrician who can rig this up for me. He has assured me there is no chance that she could be electrocuted.

Flood speaks to La Madre Mia Club

La Madre Mia Study Club met Thursday in the home of Pat Walsh, with Beverly Bryant as co-hostess.

Mrs. Walsh introduced the guest speaker, Carmen Flood of Finishing Touches, who presented a program on interior design. Mrs. Flood has her degree and is an associate member in the American Society of Interior Design. She is currently studying for certification.

She stated that interior decorating is concerned with surfaces such as carpet, walls and drapes, whereas interior design requires a knowledge of floor plan, plumbing and heating, plus decorating.

She showed the group a board work up of a restaurant she had done, and then shared the latest material samples. Committee reports were given during the business meeting conducted by President Mariene Watson. Roll call was answered by members telling their most prized possession.

Others in attendance were Frances Berry, Jeri Bezner, Sarah Hazelrigg, Mary Herring, Gladys Merritt, Betty Owen, Lucy Rogers, Carrell Ann Simmons, Jenna Simons, Tricia Sims, Mysedia Smith, Georgia Sparks, Betty Taylor, and Judy Williams.

Lewis seeks long jump record

By HAL BOCK AP Sports Writer

When Bob Beamon launched himself through Mexico City's rarefied air in the 1968 Olympics and came back to earth a phenomenal 29 feet, 2½ inches later, Carl Lewis was 7 years old and more concerned with the second grade than he was with the long jump.

"I wasn't paying much attention when he did it," Lewis said.

Now, almost 16 years and four Olympics later, Lewis is enchanted with the event and Beamon's long jump record, once considered unbreakable, is clearly within the young man's sights.

He is less than five inches away from Beamon's mark and as much as that prospect excites him, Lewis is just as moved by his role in popularizing his sport and his specialty.

"I consider myself a pioneer for a generation," he said, accepting the Black Athlete of the Year award presented by Gordon's Gin.

Beamon's explosive jump came with stunning suddenness. His record leap was two feet more than he had ever gone before and he never approached it again after those Games. Lewis' progress has been more gradual, moving up steadily on the mark.

"I think that's been better for me and for my sport," he said. "People seeing me advance can feel and touch my progress. It makes them feel more a part of it."

Lewis twice has soared 28 feet, 10¼ inches, tantalizingly close to Beamon's record. The most recent jump was in the Millrose Games at Madison Square Garden in January and it came on his final attempt of the night, when he was trailing Larry Myricks at 27-6.

"I knew I was behind and I knew I could do that," Lewis said. "Twenty-seven-six is not a big jump. Last year I didn't have a jump under 27-6. So I told myself to just relax and get a good jump."

All night long, however, Lewis had been having problems with the runway.

"It was too short and I had to use an extension board. It was slipping and I couldn't get a consistent approach."

So, on his last chance, he had an idea. He called his sister, Carol, who is also a long jumper, down to the track, stationed her on the board to steady it, and just took off.

When he came down, the tape measure reached 28-10¼ — almost 1½ feet beyond Myricks' best jump and, once again, just 4¼ inches away from Beamon.

"Because he is so close, the logical question is when will Lewis jump past Beamon. The logical answer would seem to be the Olympics, with the world watching. Lewis, however, is not committing himself to that target."

"I'm not worried about the world record," he said. "My potential is farther than that. My goal is 29 feet, but I think 30 feet is possible. It may not be today, or tomorrow or next week. When it happens, it happens."

In the back of his mind, though, is not just the long jump gold medal and Beamon's record. He thinks he can take home three other Olympic gold medals — from the 100 and 200-meter dashes and the 400-meter relay.

"It's attainable, without question," he said.

"I watched the Winter Olympics from Yugoslavia and I cheered for everybody. I felt the same emotions as the athletes there did."

But he did not see himself in their place on the medal platform. Not yet, anyway.

"I've been around since 1979 on the international scene," he said. "Whether you're 16 years away from the Olympics or two months away, I know there are so many variables. Nobody's even on the team, yet. I'm taking things as they come." One inch at a time.

Former Ranger reflects

Sundberg bitter about trade

SUN CITY, Ariz. (AP) — Jim Sundberg, a six-time Golden Glove catcher traded last winter to the Milwaukee Brewers, says he still can't believe the Texas Rangers would swap him for a backup catcher and a minor league pitcher.

In December, the Rangers exchanged the 32-year-old Sundberg for Milwaukee's 28-year-old catcher Ned Yost and left-hander Dan Scarpet-ta. "We made the deal because Yost is a better player. Period. That's it," Texas Manager Doug Rader said. "I would have traded him even up. Absolutely. If he (Sundberg) was a better player, we would have kept him."

Is Yost really the superior player?

"I would definitely say no," Sundberg said. "In doing that, I don't want to degrade him. I don't think he's really had the opportunity over the course of a season to really see what he can do yet. But I don't feel I should really even answer that question, mainly because the statistics have proven themselves."

Yost has played in just 134 major league games and has hit 10 home runs in 352 at-bats with 15 walks, 68 strikeouts and has thrown out 16 of 101 base-stealers.

Sundberg is a 10-year veteran with 1,398 big-league games behind him. He has a .253 lifetime average, shares the record for leading the major league in assists six times and still leads Texas in seven career offensive categories.

"The only thing could be if I completely don't have it anymore and he's just starting," Sundberg said. "Age is involved. But I feel like I still have it. So therefore, I say, 'Yes, I still am better.'"

In his last two seasons as a Ranger, Sundberg had a falling out with his manager — first Don Zimmer in 1982 and then Rader in 1983.

After Sundberg hit .201 last year with two homers, 28 RBIs and committed 10 passed balls, Rader said: "It's common if you can't carry your weight, you deserve a change of address."

"I just didn't perform to his management. I fought paranoia and myself the whole year," Sundberg said. "It was my inability to cope with the situation, but it's a situation I should have never been in."

"When the criticism started, it just kept coming. And as it kept coming, I never really pulled out of my slump. A person needs to be responsible and accountable for his actions. I'm accountable for the .201. If there's anything lacking, it's the ability to play under those conditions."

Now, Sundberg is away from all that and said he is "very happy to be here" at Milwaukee's spring training complex.

"I'm going to miss Texas, but I won't miss that situation," he said. "When you're time is up at a place and they don't want you around anymore, certain things become very obvious."

With weaker teams

NCAA Tournament begins

By BARRY WILNER AP Sports Writer

While the big guns wait until later in the week to hit the road to the Final Four, 10 of college basketball's lesser knowns begin the NCAA tournament with little hope of advancing to Seattle.

But nobody from Rider, Richmond, Houston Baptist, San Diego or the others who play today in preliminary round games is complaining.

It's the first time in college basketball's premier event for those four schools. Rider, 20-10 and winner of the East Coast Conference, takes on Richmond, 20-9 and champion of the ECAC South, in one of three games at Philadelphia. San Diego, 18-9, won the West Coast Athletic Conference and faces Ivy League winner Princeton in another game of the Palestra tripleheader, while Northeastern, 26-4 and ECAC North titlist, played ECAC Metro champion Long Island University, 20-10, in the afternoon opener.

At Dayton, Ohio, Morehead State, 24-5, which won the Ohio Valley, opposes 22-6 North Carolina A&T of the Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference, and Alcorn State, 20-9, of the Southwestern Athletic Conference, plays Houston Baptist, 24-6, of the Trans-America.

Each team earned an automatic berth in the expanded 53-team tournament by winning championships in what the NCAA Basketball Committee deemed the 10 weakest of the 29 NCAA Division I conferences.

Northeastern's battle with Long Island University might be a grudge match. The Huskies, who will be without center Roland Braswell, a 6-foot-8 center out with a bruised right knee, did not renew their contract with LIU this season. Last year, the teams got into a brawl during their game.

The other teams making their NCAA debuts are Auburn, Nevada-Reno and Louisiana Tech.

Today's five winners will join the automatic qualifiers from the other 19 conferences, as well as 24 at-large entries for first-round action this weekend.

On Thursday, the Rider-Richmond survivor plays Auburn, 20-10, at Charlotte, N.C., and the winner of the Princeton-San Diego game goes to Salt Lake City to play Nevada-Las Vegas, 27-5.

On Friday, the winner of the Northeastern-LIU game will play Virginia Commonwealth, 22-6, at the Meadowlands Arena in East Rutherford, N.J.; the Houston Baptist-Alcorn State winner meets Kansas, 21-9, at Lincoln, Neb., and the Morehead State-North Carolina A&T winner plays Louisville, 22-10, at Milwaukee.

The 16 top seeds in the tournament have drawn byes until the second round, which will be held Saturday and Sunday.

MONTREAL (AP) — Goalie Pat Riggin, who sparked the Washington Capitals to three consecutive victories, was named the National Hockey League's Player of the Week for the third time this season.

Riggin has won his last four starts and has a 17-4-1 won-lost-tied record in his last 22 games. He allowed only six goals while stopping 63 of 69 shots as the Capitals moved into second place in the Patrick Division.

Pampa captures Invitational

Pampa High School captured first place in the Hereford Invitational Baseball Tournament Saturday by beating Hereford, 10-3, in the championship game.

"I think our strength was we played super defense and were aggressive at the bat," Pampa coach Billy Butler said after the contest. "I thought some our players performed much better than I expected. All in all, it was a total team effort. And it had to be to beat a fine team like Hereford."

Pampa breezed through the tournament, outscoring its opponents 26-10 in three games, Butler noted.

The Whitefaces, on the other hand, made it to the championship with two last-inning come-from-behind victories. HHS beat Borger, 8-7, on Thursday and downed Dumas, 11-10, Friday before falling to the Harvesters in the finals.

The big story of Saturday's contest was a six-run fifth inning by Pampa. Starting Herd pitcher Mickey Stengel had not allowed a hit until the Harvester fifth.

With one out, Pampa's Alfredo Soto belted a triple to left. Garland Allen socked a double for a RBI and Allen scored when Jeff Steward drilled a fastball into right for a single.

The barrage continued when the next batter, Rob Riththaler singled. Steward and Riththaler scored when Charlie Vest hit a basehit to left. Stengel, still on the mound, walked Gary Clark and he scored on a single by Bill John before the inning ended.

HHS plays against Dunbar High School in Lubbock today, and will compete in the Pampa Tournament this weekend. The Herd opens its District 3-5A March 20, when it travels to Lubbock to play Monterey.

Tar Heels atop AP Poll

By DAVE KAPLAN
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — North Carolina, which was No. 1 in the preseason poll, finished atop the rankings today in the final Associated Press college basketball poll of the season.

The Tar Heels, despite their second loss of the season last week — to Duke in the semifinals of the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament — captured the honor by a comfortable margin.

A nationwide panel of 62 sportswriters and broadcasters rewarded North Carolina, 27-2, with 51 first-place votes and 1,227 points. Georgetown, 29-3, remained a solid No. 2, collecting eight first-place votes and 1,169 points.

The points system is based on 20 points for each first-place vote, 19 for second, etc.

It was the second time in three seasons that Coach Dean Smith's team was the No. 1 preseason choice and wound up the regular schedule in the same position. The 1981-82 team also did that and went on to win the NCAA championship.

The 1975-76 Indiana squad was the only other team to be ranked No. 1 in the AP preseason poll and win the NCAA crown the same season.

North Carolina was top-seeded in the East Regional of this year's NCAA tournament, while Georgetown was seeded No. 1 in the West.

The other top-seeded teams, Kentucky and DePaul, which drew two first place votes, held to their third and fourth positions, respectively, in the final poll, while Houston remained fifth.

Kentucky, which received one first-place vote, was No. 1 for one week during the season, the only time North Carolina was not in first place.

Illinois and Oklahoma swapped places from the previous week, the Fighting Illini moving up to sixth place and the Sooners dropping to seventh.

Arkansas and Texas-El Paso stayed at Nos. 8 and 9, respectively. Purdue, the co-winner of the Big 10 title, moved up to 10th place.

Nevada-Las Vegas, losers to unranked Fresno State in the Pacific Coast Athletic Association tournament final, fell three notches to 13th.

Surging Maryland showed the greatest improvement in the Second Ten, climbing from 14th to 11th. The Terrapins, winners of the ACC tournament, go into the NCAA tournament riding a seven-game winning streak.

Tulsa stayed at No. 12 and Duke climbed two spots to No. 14. Washington was No. 15, Memphis State 16th and Oregon State 17th. Syracuse reappeared in the rankings.

During violence

Parents plan meetings

GREENVILLE, Texas (AP) — A group of black parents planned to meet tonight to discuss an outbreak of apparently racial violence at Greenville High School last week.

A third student was arrested Monday in connection with an outbreak of fighting last Thursday, in which a student was stabbed and a teacher trying to break up the fight was cut. The student arrested Monday posted bond and was released.

Two students remained jailed Monday, one charged with attempted murder and another with aggravated assault with a deadly weapon.

"You've got to say there were racial overtones. It was blacks and whites fighting," said Jerry Bench, administrator for personnel for the school district. "It is the most serious incident we've ever had."

about four mothers who organized tonight's meeting at a local church, said she hoped to see "a church filled with interested people."

Mrs. Tarver, whose oldest child is in middle school, said a group of parents would discuss "what we've done in meeting with school officials," which included complaining that there are not enough black faculty members at the high school. "Hopefully we'll get some unity" at the meeting, she said.

Principal Bill Walters said the fights had a racial overtone. He said seven students had been expelled and others involved in the fights probably would be by the end of the week.

Two students were treated at Citizens General Hospital after the fight. Walters said about 15 to 18 students were involved.

Another dimension to 4-H is the opportunity to go to summer camps. 4-H'ers having the desire to go to a summer camp can enjoy a week full of action-packed excitement at the Texas 4-H Center on Lake Brownwood throughout the summer months.

Not only do 4-H'ers meet new friends while at camp, but they can learn new skills and more about 4-H as well! The camping program includes learning in an outdoor environment that encompasses 78 acres of wooded land on the shores of Lake Brownwood.

Activities include canoeing, sailing, swimming, shooting sports, recreation, parties and handicrafts, to name a few. Every camper has the opportunity to participate in all areas and seniors have the chance to go to special interest camps that feature a week of swimming and diving, food nutrition, computers, natural resources, or shooting sports. These senior camps are designed to meet the needs of the older 4-H'er while combining the fun, relaxation and activity of summer camp.

Campers stay in modern, air-conditioned lodges. Each lodge has two bedrooms which house 13 campers each. A counselor and adult advisor stay in each lodge to help 4-H'ers get the most out of their 4-H experiences.

Experienced resource teachers and qualified college-aged counselors conduct educational sessions and county extension agents supervise campers. Additionally, a full-time staff sees to the needs of the 4-H campers while at the Texas 4-H Center. Certified life guards are on duty during all swim times.

There are several sessions for junior, intermediate and senior 4-H'ers throughout the summer, but 4-H'ers need to contact the County Extension Office soon if they're interested in attending any of the camps in Brownwood.

Of course, 4-H Electric Camp will again be offered to senior 4-H members in District I. This is an educational camp sponsored by Southwestern Public Service Company and is held in the beautiful pines near Cloudcroft, N.M. This year's camp will be held June 25-29.

For more information call the Extension Office at 364-3573. Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic levels, race, colors, sex, religion or national origin.

Importance of diet recognized during National Nutrition Month

It's sad but true...most of us take better care of our automobiles than we do our bodies.

When purchasing a car, one does everything the manufacturers recommend to keep it like new. One wouldn't expect a car to run as well on regular fuel if it were built to use premium.

The body is also a finely tuned machine, designed to run on a "premium" diet of fresh fruits and vegetables, lean meats and whole grains. The body does not perform as well on the "regular fuel" of highly refined and processed foods; it will run, but not at peak efficiency.

Because March is national Nutrition Month, Nan Gauthreaux, local Diet Center counselor, has provided the following "maintenance checklist" to evaluate one's nutritional upkeep.

—Do you eat three well-balanced meals a day? It is important to eat on time and on a schedule because the body needs these periodic "fuelings."

Pope elected nominee

Nell Pope was elected as a nominee for the district meeting scheduled April 24 in Pampa when the Cultural Extension Homemakers Club met Friday afternoon in the Reddy Room. The meeting was hosted by Nell Culp.

President Bertha Dettmann called the meeting to order and gave the opening exercise, a reading entitled "Experience." Roll call was answered by nine members on the topic, "Where did you go on your last trip?"

The program chairman announced that the next meeting will be with Marie Thames on March 23. The program will concern flower arranging.

The council report was given by Jewel Hargrave, and Ms. Dettmann reported on the tablecloths and bibs for Westgate, noting that they are to be presented on March 26.

Mmes. Pope, Hargrave and Dettmann gave a program on travel. Ms. Pope suggested contacting a travel agency when planning a trip and Ms. Hargrave packed a suitcase, giving tips on packing such as making a list and planning coordinating outfits.

Ms. Dettmann presented fashion tips, stating that styles for spring include no collar, no buttons and big pockets. She said that if coordinating garments are chosen, one can stay a week with three outfits.

Ms. Culp served refreshments from a table decorated in a St. Patrick's Day theme.

Meal skipping is prevalent among dieters as a way to cut calories. However, this is a misconception. Usually, the only thing accomplished by skipping breakfast is increasing the size of lunch and dinner.

—Do you eat a wide variety of foods? In this day of fast foods and eating on the run, people eat for convenience, yet convenience may sacrifice nutrient value. A varying diet including fresh fruits and vegetables, lean meats and whole grains will provide the body with essential nutrients.

Make it a habit to eat foods as close to natural as possible and as a precaution, consider taking a good multi-vitamin supplement. If eating on the run, make it an apple instead of a bag of chips!

—Do your meat sources consist of more chicken and fish than red meats? Chicken and fish are easy on both the waistline and the pocketbook. They are also lower in saturated fats than red meats.

—Do you avoid high-calorie cooking? Preparation techniques can double the caloric content of foods. Eat fruits and vegetables raw to provide necessary fiber in the diet, or steam vegetables lightly.

When cooking meats, use a nonstick pan or a low-calorie cooking spray. Also, avoid using heavy cream sauces or gravies. Don't try to hide the natural flavor of food—enjoy it!

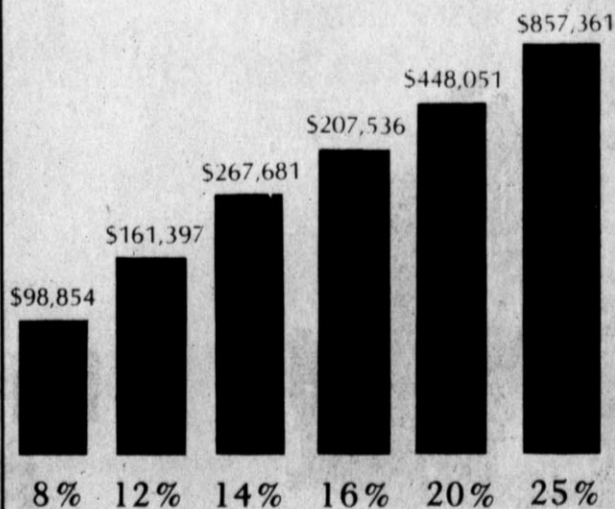

The English of the 15th to 17th centuries believed that the color red was helpful to the sick. Patients were dressed in red nightgowns and surrounded with red objects.

—Do you drink water as your main beverage? There is nothing as refreshing or healthful as a tall glass of water. Water is necessary to nearly all bodily functions, so, when trying to decide on a beverage, turn on the faucet.

Gauthreaux recommends combining a well-balanced diet with exercise to keep one's body in prime shape. If you answered "yes" to all or the majority of the above questions, you are well on your way to maintaining a healthy body. If "no" was a more frequent answer, remember, it's never too late for a nutritional tune-up.

BANVEL® HERBICIDE

Kill pigweed in corn.

Use a Banvel® herbicide overlay spike to 5".

Apply Banvel® herbicide over-the-top of spike to 5" tall corn. That's the right time to kill emerged broadleaf weeds like pigweed or kochia. It's the right time to get residual soil activity that kills germinating weeds until the corn canopy forms. And it's the right time to get control without high pre-emergence broadleaf herbicide rates, costs or carryover.

Guilty plea leads to man's freedom

PALO PINTO, Texas (AP) — Larry Elliott Plunkett walked out of the Palo Pinto County Courthouse a free man Monday less than an hour after he pleaded guilty to murder and received a 15-year prison sentence.

Plunkett's original 1976 conviction for beating a two-year-old child to death was overturned in July by the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, which cited defects in the judges instructions to the jury and improper closing arguments by the prosecutor. A second trial had been ordered.

The murder charge accused Plunkett in the Jan. 7, 1975 death of April Dawn Peters. The child's mother and another woman had left their children alone with Plunkett in Mineral Wells while they went to do their laundry.

An autopsy revealed the girl had suffered a fractured skull and severe injuries to her heart, liver, spleen and pancreas.

Plunkett maintained that the child fell, hitting her head on a concrete floor while he was watching television in another room.

The 28-year-old man pleaded guilty to the same charge Monday in return for a 15-year sentence. He was then allowed to go free because he had served eight years in the Texas Department of Corrections and was credited with about the same amount of "good time." This meant he had completed his sentence the moment he received it, authorities said.

"It's like waking up from a nightmare," Plunkett told the Fort Worth Star Telegram as he waited outside the courthouse for a ride that would take him to his Fort Worth home for the first time in eight years.

District Attorney Jimmy A. Ashby said he agreed to the plea bargain because a second murder conviction would not have justified the cost of trying the case.

His maximum sentence, if convicted following a second trial, would have been 50 years in prison. Ashby said that even if he had been convicted and received the maximum 50 years in prison he would have been freed soon on parole.

"In fact, the parole board already was talking to him," Ashby noted.

The prosecutor also said the evidence and witnesses tend to get "stale" after such a long time passes between the crime and the second trial.

"It would have been difficult indeed to get witnesses from 1976 and trying to put on a second production," Ashby said.

Defense lawyer Danny D.

Burns said he was certain Plunkett would have been found innocent at the end of a second trial.

"I'm not satisfied that Larry intended to kill that kid. Reading the cold record (of the trial) and not seeing the witnesses, I don't see how the jury convicted him," Burns said.

Both Ashby and Burns said they did not know until Monday that Plunkett would agree to the plea bargain and thus avoid a second trial. Both said they believed he would force the second trial in an attempt to clear his name.

"It's very difficult for me to believe that he would have pleaded guilty to murder if he didn't do it," prosecutor Ashby said.

Plunkett said he didn't want to spend any more money to clear his name and didn't want to spend any more time in prison away from his family. He said if being called a convicted murderer is the price he must pay for his freedom, he is willing to pay it.

"I can't get the eight years back. I'm going to do my best to build a life for myself from now on," Plunkett said.

The attractive rosewood that is seen often in fine furniture, does not come from rose plants. It's the name of several types of wood of the botanical genus Dalbergia.

South American Indians called the rubber tree cahu-chu, which means weeping wood. The drops of oozing latex made them think of big white tears.

Piano Performance

Keiley Mack Whitaker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Randy Allmon, was among 90 entrants in the Junior Music Festival held last week at the First Baptist Church.

She received a superior rating on her piano performance. Violin and voice students also participated in the annual event.

Tenure Awards

Leader tenure awards were presented to 15 local Camp Fire leaders during the Hereford Council's awards banquet held last week in the Bull Barn. Honored for 15 years service was Anna

Sewing program set Thursday

Louise Walker, county extension agent, will present a "Lunch and Learn" session entitled "Shortcuts to Sewing" at 12:10 p.m. Thursday in the Heritage Room of the library.

She will use the extension publication of the same name as she demonstrates various methods and tools available to aid the home sewer.

All interested persons are invited to bring a sack lunch and enjoy a program during their lunch hour. The free program will conclude at 12:50 p.m.

For further information, contact Ms. Walker at 364-3573.

"I want to keep good customers coming back, so I'm recommending XL-72aa again this year."

It takes a long time to build a good business reputation. So I only recommend a product if I know it works. That's why I'm recommending XL-72aa again this year.

Oh, I don't grow corn myself, but I do hear what my customers say about it. And when they brag about yields, even in a tough year like last, I know XL-72aa has to be good.

Come to think of it, they brag about XL-72aa no matter what the weather—or the soil type. Maybe that's why they ask for it year after year.

A long time ago, I learned that the best way to keep a customer is to keep giving him what he wants. Around here, that's XL-72aa.

Who's recommending only his best?

I am.

Victims' family not sympathetic to Autry's case

On a bloody night in 1980, two people were shot to death and a third was crippled for life at a convenience store in Port Arthur, Texas. The dead were buried, but for the brother of the man who was crippled, that night lives on every day of his life.

James David Autry, convicted of killing the store clerk Shirley Drouet, is scheduled to die by injection early Wednesday morning. Autry also was accused of killing one customer, Joseph Broussard, and with wounding another, Anthanasios Svarnas, a sailor from Pierias Lihoron, Greece. A bullet struck Svarnas in the cheek and then tore through his head and lodged at the base of skull. In an instant, Svarnas was changed from a hard working seaman to a person needing almost constant care. He lives now with his brother, Jimmy Svarnas, a house painter in Bricktown, N.J.

"He's like a child, like a baby," Jimmy Svarnas said of his brother. "He'll live forever like this."

Both of the Svarnas brothers are Greek immigrants and for Jimmy the wounding of his brother has caused him to be deeply puzzled about the United States.

"Autry, the state gives him food, the medical," said Jimmy Svarnas in heavily accented and broken English. "But who pays for my brother? Who takes care of him? Who gives medical for my brother? I pay from my pocket."

Svarnas said he regretted that some were killed in that violent outburst four years ago. But he wonders who is the better off.

"People who die, I'm sorry.

But, my brother. I see every day. He's so young. It make me inside of my heart broken," said Jimmy Svarnas.

Anthanasios Svarnas is only barely aware of the world around him. He doesn't recall the night he was shot and can remember things for only a few minutes. He is unable to work and is supported entirely by Jimmy who says it has been very difficult.

"My family not rich," said Jimmy. "The medical has cost thousands and thousands." And it may go on for many, many years, he said, since his brother, at 30, is still a young man.

Before the shooting, he said, the crippled seaman "was a strong man. Now he becomes a bab. Never my brother comes back like before."

"Every day he is like a baby. Every day you cry a little," he added.

Jimmy Svarnas said he has tried to get help, but "nobody gives a damn."

"All over I write letters. Congressmen. Judges. Nobody helps me. Nobody cares," he said. "I work very hard to take care of my brother. It makes me very sad. I don't understand it."

"I hope the U.S. wakes and does something to take care of the victim (of crime)," said Svarnas.

Autry, 29, is scheduled to be executed by poison injection before dawn Wednesday at a state prison in Huntsville. It will be his second trip to the Texas death chamber. He spent more than an hour on a gurney with needles in his arm, awaiting the flow of a paralyzing drug into his veins, last October. A last-minute stay saved him.

In interviews last week, Autry professed his innocence, but said he was sorry that people were shot.

"If I could change it, I would," said Autry.

Svarnas was not impressed by Autry's sentiments and said: "This Autry is punk. This Autry deserves to die."

Ernest E. Broussard of Houston, brother of the slain Joseph A. Broussard, agrees.

"He got the death penalty, and let's have it," said Broussard. He said he was unsympathetic about Autry time on the gurney waiting for death, "I sat in a hospital with needles in my arm and got blood poisoning. So what?"

Mrs. Drouet was shot in the center of the forehead while working as a night clerk at the convenience store. Autry was convicted of capital murder in her death and was never tried in the other shootings.

A brother of Mrs. Drouet, Harold Ferrell of Duncan,

Okl., said it is past time for Autry to die.

"I think the stays he has received are plenty," he said. "There's no need to prolong it. That just makes it harder on his family and on mine."

Most of the relatives of Mrs. Drouet, who had been extensively interviewed prior to Autry's near execution last October, declined comment this time.

"Enough is enough," said Mrs. James Ferrell, sister-in-law of Mrs. Drouet. "The family is tired of going through it over and over."

Lenora Taylor, 27, one of Mrs. Drouet's five children, said earlier that her mother's death put the family through "our own little hell for a long, long time."

Calls to Ms. Taylor's number now are answered with a recording.

His own way

J.P. dispenses justice

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Justice of the Peace Charles Griffin gives fatherly lectures to some who appear in his court and scolds, comments, encourages or threatens others.

In a typical week, the colorful and salty justice of the peace evicts people from their homes, takes away driver's licenses, fines parents for not sending children to school and puts wife beaters in jail.

Griffin, 68, who never got past the ninth grade, also performs weddings, hears civil cases involving $1,000 or less, issues mental health warrants and arraigns criminal defendants.

He has seen the human condition in its most basic form and says he learned more about people from his bench than he could have if he received a doctorate in psychology.

"It takes a very special man to be a JP, but above all, you got to know how to treat people," said Griffin.

But that doesn't mean Griffin coddles everyone who appears in his court.

"If you've gone out here and violated the law, Judge Griffin will put you behind in jail before God gets the news," he told one defendant.

Before he became justice of the peace, Griffin spent 30 years working for the the federal government, beginning as a janitor with

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Thermometer readings

DEAR DR. LAMB — Does it take more time for some people to get proper oral thermometer readings?

My temperature reading usually rises after three minutes, but sometimes it takes 15 minutes. Is this a more accurate reading?

When I'm not ill, my normal temperature is usually 98 or below. I was embarrassed at the doctor's office recently. I had just told the nurse I had taken my temperature before I came and it was 99.8. She took my temperature for a few minutes and said it was 98.

DEAR READER — We usually suggest leaving the thermometer in the mouth between three to five minutes. That means with the mouth closed and the bulb of the thermometer in good contact with the tissues of the mouth, under the tongue.

There are many things that affect a thermometer reading. The thermometer has been shaken down to record the lowest reading can make a difference. After that, it's influenced by what you have just eaten. If you have had a cold drink, your mouth may be cold and the temperature reading accordingly may be lower than your body temperature. And if you've just eaten something hot your oral temperature may be higher than your body temperature. Anxiety can cause the temperature to rise and just having taken a bath also may cause a temporary rise in body temperature.

I'm sending you the Health Letter 7-5, Body Temperature and Fever, which includes some of the problems people have when taking their temperature. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

I'm always a little surprised at the lack of general knowledge about taking one's oral temperature, considering temperatures are taken in all households and are so frequently used as an indication of whether a person is well or ill.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm wondering if taking too much Synthroid is harmful. One doctor told me that a patient of his was taking 10 pills, each 0.15 mg, every day. I generally take one or two tablets daily. How many pills can one take and still be safe?

DEAR READER — Most patients can be maintained at the proper level with only 0.10 to 0.20 mg of Synthroid daily. The doctor usually has to adjust the dose in accordance to the patient's response. If you take too much thyroid it almost has the same effect of having an overactive thyroid gland. That can lead to nervousness, sweating, loss of hair, a fast heart rate and heart irregularity, among other symptoms. Taking too much thyroid will not cause the protruding eyes as seen in some forms of hyperactive thyroid diseases.

It's not safe to take excessive amounts of thyroid on your own. You should follow the doctor's directions and have regular checkups to make certain the amount of thyroid hormone they are receiving is the proper amount for them.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm 70 and had blood clots in my right lung, so my doctor put me on Coumadin. I've been on it now for eight months. I take 5 mg. each day and worry about the side effects after having taken it for so long. I go every two weeks for a prothrombin time test and each time I'm told it's OK to keep taking the medicine.

DEAR READER — Stay on your medicine. Those blood clots in your lung could be life-threatening. The Coumadin is an anti-clotting medicine. The amount of medicine you should take depends entirely on your clotting mechanism, which is why you have your prothrombin time measured at regular intervals.

More East Germans coming West than ever

BONN, West Germany (AP) — More East Germans are legally emigrating from their communist homeland than at any time since the Berlin Wall was built in 1961, and Bonn officials see the development as an East Berlin overture for better relations.

In the last three weeks alone, about 4,000 East Germans have been allowed to go West compared with an average of only 750 a month in recent years, according to spokesmen at a government-run refugee reception center in Giessen.

In addition, another 15,000 to 20,000 East Germans have asked permission to emigrate to West Germany and may be allowed out this year, a high-ranking Bonn government official told The Associated Press in an interview.

"It could even be more than 20,000 if things keep going the way they are," he said.

By easing emigration restrictions, East Germany is addressing long-standing pressure from Bonn for a more liberal resettlement policy, especially so that German families can be reunited in the West, the official said.

Bonn is ready to answer East Germany's gesture with economic concessions for the cash-strapped Communist nation, said the source, who spoke on the condition that he not be identified.

"We are not going to pay cash. There is no deal," he said. "But we will give economic consideration, such as goods and technology — but no strategic goods and no strategic technology" that could be used for military purposes.

The official stressed that the goal of West Germany is not to empty the East German state, which has 17 million residents compared to 60 million in West Germany. "We want to help people that are in need, but it is not our goal to have thousands of people coming out of the GDR (East Germany) every year," he said.

There are probably several reasons why the East Germans have decided to open the refugee floodgates, Bonn sources and officials at the Giessen camp said.

East Germany's desire for a good name abroad and the wish to be rid of potential anti-government troublemakers probably play a role, they said.

"These people were a disquieting factor. They may be seeking to normalize their own society by getting rid of those who don't want to be there," said Rudolf Kraus, a social worker at the Giessen reception center.

The East Germans' flagging economy, which is $8 billion in debt to the West, is probably also a spur for improving East-West relations, officials said.

West German banks have long been tapped by the East Germans for loans. But the Bonn government became involved last summer when it guaranteed a $400 million Western bank credit to the East Germans.

There were no economic strings attached, but Chancellor Helmut Kohl said he expected some compensation in the form of improved relations and progress in human rights in the communist country.

East Germany responded by dismantling some of the automatic firing mechanisms along its border with the West and dropping the minimum amount of money required to be spent daily by Western children visiting East Germany. Until last September, children from the ages of 6 through 13 visiting East Germany had to buy the equivalent of about $3 a day in East German marks.

East Germany responded by dismantling some of the automatic firing mechanisms along its border with the West and dropping the minimum amount of money required to be spent daily by Western children visiting East Germany. Until last September, children from the ages of 6 through 13 visiting East Germany had to buy the equivalent of about $3 a day in East German marks.

Visitors 14 and older still must exchange the equivalent of about $10 a day. There is no East German request pending "at the moment" for another $400 million credit, said the Bonn official. But he said East Germany has a long-term need for more capital to rebuild aging factories and make its economy more competitive in world markets.

On an international level, he suggested the East German release of many people who have wanted to emigrate for years could be part of a Soviet bloc attempt to ease tensions with the West.

"This is a small sign of the East's readiness to negotiate" with the West on all levels, including arms talks, he said.

East Germans at the Giessen reception center, where their papers are processed before they are resettled in West Germany, said East German President Erich Honecker might be trying to improve his showing at upcoming national elections May 6.

"By letting us out, he is rid of the people who might vote no or just not bother to vote," said Werner Hammer, 55, a building engineer from Dresden. He and his wife applied to leave East Germany four years ago. A young East German couple who asked to leave in 1982 said the recent exodus has resulted in a flood of new applications to emigrate.

"This has given many people who didn't have it before the courage to apply," said Horst Bieberstein, 28, also of Dresden.

"The trouble is, they don't know when it (the emigration) is going to end. They are afraid of being left behind," said his 21-year-old wife, Elke.

Twenty witnesses later

Time for defense

FALL RIVER, Mass. (AP) — A hysterical woman was "in a state of shock" as she described being gang-raped in a tavern, testified a detective as the prosecution finished its case against two of the six men charged and the defense prepared to take over.

After presenting 20 witnesses who told sometimes conflicting stories, Assistant District Attorney Raymond Veary closed his case Monday against Daniel Silvia, 27, and Joseph Vieira, 28, who are being tried on aggravated rape charges in afternoon court sessions separate from four other defendants being tried in the morning.

Attorneys for Vieira and Silvia estimated it will take a week to present their cases. Assistant District Attorney Robert Kane, prosecuting the four other defendants, said it may take another two weeks to complete his case.

Defendants John Cordeiro, Victor Raposo and Jose and Virgilio Medeiros, who are not related, are being tried separately because they have given statements that incriminate Silvia and Vieira, authorities say. Those statements could not be introduced if the six were tried together.

The afternoon case ended with the testimony of several police officials who discussed laboratory samples taken from a 22-year-old mother of two. They said the tests confirmed that the woman had intercourse before she was brought into a hospital emergency room in the early hours of March 7, 1983, where she told a nurse she had been raped and abused by a bar-room full of cheering strangers.

New Bedford police Detective Sandra Grace testified she interviewed the 22-year-old woman hours after the attack.

"She was hysterical and in a state of shock," Ms. Grace said. "I got the impression that she couldn't believe what had happened to her."

Veary began his case late last month with a witness who told of stopping his pickup truck for a screaming, half-naked woman outside Big

Dan's tavern in New Bedford. Between that first day and Monday, the prosecutor called two other men in the truck that night, 10 police officers, a nurse, a travel agent, two bartenders, two Big Dan's customers and the victim, who said she was attacked while others cheered "like it was a ballgame."

In the morning trial Monday, Detective Kenneth Gornley testified that the day after the attack, Cordeiro and Raposo admitted to police that they held the woman down while she was raped.

Cordeiro "said he was sorry. He said he was drunk, but that was no excuse for what he had done," Gornley said.

SLEEPER BEEPER
FREEPORT, Ill. (AP) — A small electronic unit that can help keep drivers awake at the wheel, weighs only half an ounce but is powerful enough to lift a drooping eyelid.

The device, known as the "Sleeper Beeper," rides behind a driver's ear. Should the driver's head nod about 22 degrees (just before most people lose sight of the road), the unit produces a sharp electrical buzzing to alert the driver he is falling asleep.

A miniature mercury switch developed by Honeywell's Micro Switch division is the heart of the beeper, which fits easily over eyeglasses and hearing aids.

Needs in haystacks are child's play to find in comparison to contact lenses in shag rugs.

String of assaults has community worried

GRAPEVINE, Texas (AP) — Frightened students are traveling in pairs and outraged parents are patrolling school parking lots to try to prevent a fifth sexual attack or attempted abduction of a student in northeast Tarrant County.

A 16-year-old girl became the fourth victim in three months when she was abducted by an armed man from the high school campus here about 7:30 a.m. Thursday, forced to driver her car to a secluded wooded area three miles away and raped repeatedly.

The attack prompted school administrators to urge students to travel in pairs, parents to begin patrolling school parking lots and police to make a public appeal for help in their investigation.

Grapevine juvenile investigator Don Armstrong said Sunday that police still don't have a suspect.

"We don't have a whole lot to go on, but it's slowly piecing together," Armstrong said. "It's going to be a white male, approximately 6-foot-1, heavy set, reddish brown hair and with a pretty thick mustache."

"After the (latest) attack, he forced her to drive her vehicle to the intersection of Vince Street and South Main Street in Grapevine, where he exited the vehicle and told her just to keep on driving."

If anyone saw the man get out of the car at the intersection, saw anything suspicious or knows someone who fits the description, Armstrong asks that person to contact Grapevine police.

"It's unreal that we live in this nice, residential area and something like this happens," said Robert Downs, a Grapevine parent.

"It scared me," said a schoolmate of the victim, freshman Dena Dilez, who added that she had a bad dream about the incident.

Police doubt the same person is responsible for all the attacks because they have received varying descriptions of the assailant.

Grapevine band director Stuart Verdon said male band students on Friday started escorting young women from the parking lot to the band hall for early morning practices. Verdon said several parents of band students have agreed to patrol high school parking lots until the school year ends.

Also, principal Steve Jacoby said he has cautioned students to travel in pairs and follow the policy that stipulates they shouldn't be in parking lots during school hours. He said he hopes the precautions will help prevent another attack.

"I certainly hope it never happens again here or anywhere else and we'll certainly take the precautions to see it doesn't, but there are no guarantees," Jacoby said.

On Jan. 23, a 17-year-old Richland High School student was abducted and sexually assaulted by an armed man wearing a ski mask and was returned to the campus. Earlier that day, there was an abduction attempt of a 15-year-old student at Trinity High School in Euless.

In December, another Trinity student was abducted and sexually abused in a field by a man wearing a ski mask.

GRACE AND CHARM

SECOND FLOOR
HOME DESIGN
by Larry Farnsworth

With homeowners who insist upon a note of drama in their surroundings this plan is a surefire winner.

Just a glance at its wonderfully distinctive exterior—and aren't those roof lines beautiful—gives a clue to this model's exciting 2095 square feet.

The recessed front entrance at the end of an impressively accented walkway, leads to the perfect entry—distinguished by a well placed coat closet.

The formal living room and separate dining room beyond both have charming entrances, and the huge kitchen, nook and family room at the rear provide a perfect center for family activities as well as for large scale, informal entertaining. Note particularly the kitchen's four full walls of convenient cabinets, and the family room's big raised hearth fireplace, vista-extending sliding glass doors, built-in closet and handy adjacent bath.

There are more bonuses, too, an extra storage closet, a walk through utility room, and a cozy den, all closeted and ready to do double duty as a fourth bedroom when required.

Upstairs, the two-story half of this charming house offers two more baths and three bedrooms, two of them opening delightfully onto the luxurious sun-deck over the garage.

The master bedroom, large and wonderfully private at the rear of the house, has its own private bath, a walk-in closet, and a dressing and makeup area, complete with an elegant double lavatory. Note, the main bath lavatory is also built for two.

Without and throughout this dream house the happy results of good planning and creative imagination abound. Its exterior, enlivened by exciting lines and interesting window details, its floor plan, dramatic yet practical—all add up to happy living. Optional basement plans are available with this 2095 square foot home.

Call 1(800)634-3401 if interested in House Plans or send a post card with name, address and phone number to Farnsworth, P.O. Box 1841, Las Vegas, Nevada 89125.
