Volume Last Year 681,000 Pieces

Postmaster Says '64 Yule Mail Will Set New Record

Postmaster Nolan Grady reports that the Post Office Department is confidently predicting that the volume of mail during this year's Christmas rush will hit a record high.

"Actually," he says, "it's an easy prediction because mail volume has been rising at a rate of nearly three percent a year for the past several years, nationwide."

"Hereford's mail volume has been rising between 15 percent and 20 percent over last year's volume and this is most strongly reflected around the holiday season."

Well over 12 billion pieces of incoming and outgoing mail are expected to move through the system during December — with about 10 percent of the year's mail moving in less than three weeks.

Last year the Hereford post office handled an estimated 681,000 pieces of mail during the month of December.

"This year we are predicting approximately 800,000 pieces of mail will move through the Hereford post office during the month of December," he said.

The Hereford postmaster reports that public cooperation is one important reason that post offices around the country are able to handle this huge mountain of mail in such a short period.

"Without the assistance of the public, we'd be in a jam. People who shop early and get their cards and parcels into the mails early make it possible for the holiday mail to be delivered on time. Imagine what it would be like if we were to get all of the holiday mails the last week before Christmas."

In addition to early mailing, the postmaster has several other suggestions which will help the hard working postal employees move this avalanche of mail.

First, he recommends using ZIP codes which help to handle the mails faster because of a new transportation and distribution set-up. ZIP code also helps clerks to identify receiving post offices when addresses are hard to read. During this time of the year, the faster mail is processed the better chance it has to make connections with outgoing trains, planes and trucks.

Grady also recommends that all parcels be wrapped securely, packed tightly and the address be included inside the package as well as on the outside. This helps assure delivery even if the outer wrapping comes loose.

The postmaster points out that "because ZIP code on parcels usually means a more direct routing and less handlings, the chance of damage is drastically reduced."

Finally, Postmaster Grady says that use of the new Christmas stamps helps brighten up envelopes and packages.

There are 28 postal employees working night and day in the Hereford Post Office.

Bean is an "organic matter" gardener, and started his garden a number of years ago on an eroded hillside site. His first operation involved the use of a large quantity of poultry manure and a heavy mulch of cotton burs.

He has continued the practice through the years of adding organic and humus each year since. Not only has he built up his soil to a high condition, but he uses much less water in producing a crop now than he did a few years ago.

The high humus soil has a greater water holding capacity and the mulch holds down evaporation.

"We realize that the carrot industry of Deaf Smith County does not want a four pound carrot," Justin McBride, county agent said, "but there are several principals involved which can be applied to other crops. As we become more water conservation minded and began to stretch our water supply, we should become more interested in our soil and stop burning our stubbles."

"At present it is estimated that we produce between four and five thousand acres of carrots in the county annually. The normal production is around ten tons per acre and they bring from $20 to $30 per ton.

Winter's Coldest Weather Hits Panhandle

Auto Crashes Mount After Mercury Skids Into 'Teens

Winter laid its coldest fingers on the season on the Hereford area this past week, sending the mercury skidding into the 'teens early Friday after spreading a thin white blanket of sleet and snow over this section of the Panhandle at mid-week.

The icy streets and roads accounted for a rash of accidents that drew police on the jump. The accident caused by the slick streets came shortly after 8:45 a.m. Thursday near the intersection of W. Park Ave. and Emma St.

Vehicles driven by Alma Larson Conn, 100 Beach, and Robert Eugene Seyfert, 111 Aspen Dr., collided after Mrs. Conn's car hit a dip and went into a spin and Seyfert was unable to stop and avoid the collision due to the icy conditions of the street.

No tickets were issued by patrolmen, who termed the collision unavoidable. Damage to Mrs. Conn's car was set at $44 and damage to Seyfert's car was estimated at $20.

Shortly after 12:50 p.m. Thursday, a car driven by Phil C. Duncan, 609 Blevins, collided with a parked truck near the intersection of Third and Miles.

Duncan told officers that his car started sliding toward the curb of the icy brick pavement and would not respond to attempts to avoid the collision.

The car slid under a parked sugar beet truck belonging to Fidel D. Camacho, Gen. Delivery, who was out of the truck at the time of the collision.

Damage to Duncan's car was set at $400, while the beet truck received no damage. Only minutes after this wreck, officers were called only a few feet down the block at the intersection of Miles and Third, where they investigated a wreck involving a collision between automobiles driven by Velma Caldwell Hodges, 117 Kibbe and Luther Elvan White, 110 Bradley.

Mrs. Hodges was traveling East on Third and attempted to stop for the intersection, but began sliding and went into the curb.

White attempted to stop, but could not halt the car in time to avoid the collision. He struck the rear of Mrs. Hodges' vehicle.

Damages to Mrs. Hodges' car were set at $65 and damage to White's vehicle was estimated at $50.

No citations were issued by the investigating officers, who termed the accident unavoidable. The final accident of the slippery day saw vehicles driven by John Isaac McCutchen, 203 Elm and Malouqui Sierra, 325 Ave. E collided near the intersection of Lake and South Texas.

McCutchen was traveling east on Lake and Sierra was backing from a private driveway. McCutchen was unable avoid the collision after Sierra had backed into the roadway, he told investigating officers.

Sierra was cited by officers for improper backing. Police were already busy investigating a rash of accidents earlier in the week.

The first accident occurred shortly after 7 p.m. Sunday near the intersection of Park and 25-Mile-Ave.

Vehicles driven by Dana Carter Justice, 124 Ranger, and Gerald S. Burney, 202 J. Texas, were traveling side-by-side down Park Ave. officers said, when the Justice vehicle swerved to the right to avoid the rear of a vehicle in front of her, who was turning left.

Upon swerving, the vehicle struck Burney's car. Damage to the Justice vehicle was set at $25 and there was no damage to the Burney vehicle.

Monday Is Dollar Day

Tomorrow is "Dollar Day" in Hereford.

And for the big occasion, merchants are marking everything at specially low prices. That goes whether it's a toy truck for Junior or a suit of clothes for Papa.

Coming just two weeks before Christmas, this month's Dollar Day has special significance, it was pointed out. One merchant called it a "bonanza for the shopper", adding: "on this big one day sale it will be possible to buy those Christmas presents for less than they will sell for in pre-inventory sales, at least on some items."

This issue of The Sunday Brand contains advertisements of many merchants who are offering their wares at bargain prices for Dollar Day.

Courage To Play High Note

Liquor A Glass Crutch, Former Drunkard Warns

By Ray Martin

A high solo note on the trumpet in a Kentucky High school band was the trigger that started a stage-shy 15-year-old boy on the road to alcoholism. The road ended only 12 years ago after a quarter-century battle with the disease.

A roadside stop on the way to the band concert and a bottle of Scotch that one of the boys had smuggled out of his home, was the setting for the first drink, taken by the courage-seeking youth. It proved to be a glass crutch.

This was the story which Gil Lamb, owner of KMUL in Muleshoe, told a Deaf Smith county Alcohol Information Council meeting in Community Center Thursday night. Last week was Alcohol Information week in Texas.

"There were four of us boys in the car that night on our way to play with the band," Lamb related. "All four of us took a drink of that Scotch. It was the first drink for each of us. Two of the boys sputtered and choked over their first drink, a normal reaction to the first drink. One boy turned deathly sick and I reacted differently; I was exhilarated, my shyness fell away, and I no longer was afraid to hit that high note. I had 'courage' after a fashion. Afterward I was tremendously depressed, and I took additional drinks to relieve the depression, not knowing that alcohol is always a depressant — not a stimulant."

Lamb traced his battle with liquor through a long series of experiences — of his starring role in the Harley Sadler road show dramas.

Three times he was fired for drinking and twice was re-hired. Once in the '30's he was given the leading role in a nationwide daily radio drama show but he failed to show up for the initial broadcast because he had gone on another of his protracted drunks.

"Of the four of us who took that first drink on the side of a Kentucky road, one died of delirium tremors, one drank without apparent ill effect, and the boy who had turned deathly sick gave up liquor entirely, not through his own courage but simply because the chemical makeup of his body simply would not tolerate alcohol in any form. And then I, of course, became an alcoholic. Today I am an (Continued on page 2)

Polling Places For Cotton Referendum Dec. 15 Listed

Notices of individual farm acreage allotments for the 1965 upland cotton crop have been mailed to farmers in Deaf Smith County, according to Faust Collier, local manager of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office.

Collier pointed out that any question about the allotments should be taken up immediately with the ASC county committee. Deaf Smith county allotment for 1965 is 10,461 acres, some 296 acres less than the original allotment for 1964.

"These slight variations from year to year are partially due to changes in planting history formulas used in computing base acreages," Collier said.

"In 1964, Deaf Smith County received an additional 400 acres distributed by the state ASCS office from acres released from areas where acreages were not used."

"It is yet too early to know how much acreage may be expected from this source for this year. It is expected that this released acreage will be known probably in March, well before cotton planting time."

"The cotton quota vote coming up on Dec. 15 will mark the twelfth consecutive year in which growers have voted on marketing quotas for their upland cotton crop," Collier said. Polling places where Deaf Smith County farmers may cast ballots in the referendum have been set. The polling places are located as follows:

Community 'A' — Daws School House. Community 'B' and 'C' — Drivers License Room in Court-house. Community 'D' and 'E' — Ford Community House.

The polls will be open from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m. Collier said. Farmers eligible to cast ballots are all those who engaged in the production of the upland cotton crop in 1964. Approval by at least two-thirds of the growers voting is necessary if the quotas and the domestic allotments program are to go into effect for the 1965 upland cotton crop.

Issues to be decided in the Dec. 15 referendum are whether or not there will be quotas, including penalties, the level of price support to be available for the 1965 crop and whether the domestic allotment program is in effect for upland cotton.

"If the vote is favorable, quotas or penalties applicable to the 1965 crop — with penalties on any excess cotton produced on a farm, price support to growers who do not exceed the farm's acreage allotment will be available at a level between 65 and 90 percent of parity, and extra price support in the form of payments may be earned by farmers who keep within the farm's domestic allotment," Collier said.

"If the vote is not favorable," Collier continued, "there will be no quotas or penalties applicable to the 1965 upland cotton crop, no price support payments and the regular price support to growers who do not exceed their acreage allotments will be at 50 percent of parity, as directed by law."

"Growers who have any question about any particular part of the cotton program are urged to get in touch with the ASC county committee," Collier said.

When He Grows Carrots Boy, He Grows Carrots!

Deaf Smith County and Hereford can probably lay claim to growing the largest carrots in the United States as Raymond Bean, Dimmitt Highway, dug some four and one-half pound carrots from his home garden.

Bean said there were many carrots of that size in his patch, all of which are the Davers half-long variety.

The average carrot would weigh approximately six to 10 ounces and would be 7/8" to one and one-half inches in diameter, while Bean's carrot hit the four and one-half pound mark and was about five inches in diameter.

Bean is an "organic matter" gardener, and started his garden a number of years ago on an eroded hillside site. His first operation involved the use of a large quantity of poultry manure and a heavy mulch of cotton burs.

He has continued the practice through the years of adding organic and humus each year since. Not only has he built up his soil to a high condition, but he uses much less water in producing a crop now than he did a few years ago.

The high humus soil has a greater water holding capacity and the mulch holds down evaporation.

"We realize that the carrot industry of Deaf Smith County does not want a four pound carrot," Justin McBride, county agent said, "but there are several principals involved which can be applied to other crops. As we become more water conservation minded and began to stretch our water supply, we should become more interested in our soil and stop burning our stubbles."

"At present it is estimated that we produce between four and five thousand acres of carrots in the county annually. The normal production is around ten tons per acre and they bring from $20 to $30 per ton.

Traffic Fines Soar; 211 Get Police Tickets

Monthly report of police activities of the Hereford Police Department Friday showed an increase in almost every aspect of police business and efforts by the department.

In the department of traffic arrests, 211 citations were issued by patrolmen for moving violations, while only 152 were issued in October.

Twenty-five citations were issued for parking in a no parking zone, while only eight were issued the previous month.

One department was slightly off in the traffic arrests, which was that of overparking tickets. Only 646 tickets were issued for overtime parking, while 892 were issued in October.

Chief Padgett explained that the reason for the decline in the overparking citations was due partially to the inclement weather.

The patrolmen traveled 13,279.5 miles during the month of November, nearly 1,100 more than the 12,179.5 miles patrolled in October.

Records proved that 1,827 entries were made on the dispatch log, compared with 1,831 in the previous month. Each officer must notify the ex-drunkard but I am not an ex-alcoholic. You never get over being an alcoholic even though you may not touch liquor for 12 years as I have done. An alcoholic conquers the disease only for a day at a time, he lives only one day at a time without liquor, but so far as I know, there is no medical cure for the disease.

Lamb urged people who have the liquor problem to recognize it as a disease "just like pneumonia, diphtheria or any other disease. There is no reason to feel disgraced because a man or woman has the disease any more than there is stigma attached to the disease of pneumonia. All are diseases; all need treatment."

He added: "There are many false ideas about liquor. One is, 'He's able to carry his liquor.' This may be only to the fact that he is bigger and has more room for his liquor. Another is the old saw, 'one drink never hurt anybody'. There are those for whom only one drink is disastrous, as in my case.

"Another of the old saws is that a person has to drink in order to have a good time, that to be sociable and not a stick in the mud, he MUST drink. Why? If orange juice makes you sick, you don't drink it when it is offered to you, so why should you apologize for not taking a drink for sociability's sake?"

"And still another is that liquor is a stimulant. It is only a glass crutch and always breaks in a crisis. Alcohol is used to give a false courage to persons who are afraid to face a situation. I know, I used it to help me have the courage to hit a high note on the trumpet."

Here to talk about the church's role in the problem of alcoholism was the Rev. Allan Conley, an Episcopal rector in Amarillo who has long been active in the program of promoting information on alcoholism.

He said one out of 15 persons who drink becomes an alcoholic, and fewer than 7 percent of the total alcoholic population of 5 million persons ever recovers. "What, then," he asked, "can we do toward helping relieve this ty being recovered and returned to the owners.

This left 33 offenses unsolved for the month with $1,392 of the property reported stolen, still missing.

In October, 42 separate criminal offenses were reported with $2,572 in property being reported stolen. Seven of the offenses were cleared by arrest or other means and $209 was recovered. This left 35 of the offenses unsolved for the month, with $2,362 of the property unrecovered.

No old cases were cleared in November, while only one was cleared up in October.

Total of the criminal arrests in November was 69, involving 61 adults and eight juveniles. October's arrests involved 67, with 59 adults and eight juveniles being arrested.

During the month of November, 64 complaints were reported to the Hereford Police Department by residents of the city of Hereford. All of the reports were investigated and a report made to the Chief of Police following an investigation by a competent officer. Sixty such complaints were made and investigated in October.

The business of the Hereford Police Department is expanding in almost every department each month of this year. Patrolmen are called on to answer more calls of distress, investigate more accidents and patrol more miles of city streets than ever before.

Damage to Garcia's car was set at $80 and Cervantes' car received no damage.

Cervantes was cited by officers for unsafe start from a parked position.

In the final accident of the week, vehicles driven by Fran-

According to officers, Graves ran the stop sign at the intersection and struck the Serna vehicle.

He was cited for failure to yield right of way to a stop sign and Mrs. Serna was cited for violation of Driver's license code two, which provides a licensed driver must be in the front seat before she could legally operate the vehicle.

Damage to Mrs. Serna's car was set at $140 and damage to Graves' car was set at $75.

It wasn't worse, HB.

The recent cold-snap has sent most of us scurrying around looking for the old top-coat, bottom coat and undies-to-boot. Unfortunately, the nice fall weather has had us spoiled worse than our old pet tom-cat, and we just weren't prepared for the bitter truth. Incidentally, we're looking for much more of this week's variety before winter is over.

We're not trying to outdo Dan True, but we know it has been too nice... things had to change.

The ice and snow Thursday morning brought on a rash of minor auto accidents. Fender-benders by the dozen. And we suppose we were fortunate that

And it reminds us too, that there are only 16 shopping days until Christmas, and that includes Christmas Eve.

The arrival of the holiday season jolts us somewhat. We are hardly ever prepared for it, but this year we seem to be more "unprepared" than usual. We haven't bought a gift.

But then, the folks who know us best are not particularly surprised at that statement either. We're normally "last of the Mohicans" when it comes to doing our Christmas shopping. We'll hit the usual haunts about two days before Christmas and break the credit-barrier. Then, if we

Continuance Of Migrant Labor Program Is Urged

Continuation of the migrant labor program, due to end Jan. 1, is sought by Western Texas Farm Labor Association serving Deaf Smith, Bailey, Lamb, Parmer and Castro counties.

Virgil Nowell, president of the organization, asked the continuance of the program when he appeared before a U. S. Department of Labor hearing Friday in Dallas. Director of this county is Cameron Gault.

At the hearing, Nowell said, "realizing that this law (Public Law No. 78), which has been very workable, is near the end... we believe that the need for supplementary labor is in this country at this time is it in question; it has been proven by the Employment Service that there is a need."

He told the committee hearing that the main purpose of the organization has been "to serve the farmers in our area with farm labor. In the past years, we have placed many hundreds of local and migrant laborers in our fields. Due to the fact that the type of domestic labor is so high in demand at different times of the season, and the availability of such labor is so low, we have been forced to use supplementary labor from Old Mexico."

He told the committee that "the people in our area feel that without some supplementary help, our economy will degrade to an unpredicted low. We recognize that a feasible program will take some time; also we point out that farming cannot wait. Your speedy decision on this matter is urgent."

Nowell confined his discussion to the fields of wages, housing, insurance and transportation costs. In the written portion of his statement to the committee, he said:

Wages: Some three years ago, wages were increased some 40% to stop labor, but this did not help the situation. In trying to secure help, we have offered much more than this figure quoted by the Labor Department, with very little or no success. Sprinkler Irrigators are extremely hard to find, therefore, approximately 80% to 90% of our irrigators are Braceros. In our tomatoes, approximately 85% to 90% are imported. Cucumbers 98% and other vegetables 70% to 85%. The vegetable industry would die in our area without outside help no matter what the wages might be.

"Housing: We offer housing with all utilities furnished to all workers and these houses are by no means sub-standard. We feel that no changes should be made in these requirements be-might say so, that "boom" you hear will be from our friendly banker when we break the sad news.

Raymond White and Harry Bennett are being mighty tight-lipped about what happened the other day while out hunting. "No comment", is about all anyone can get from these two.

However, the Hereford Lions Club held a mock trial last Wednesday and convicted President Raymond on every count as charged, and a few that weren't charged. After the ribbing the Lions gave him, anything else should look mighty mild.

HB

And Melvin Jayroe tells a good hunting story.

Dale Winn, a former resident of this city, called to invite Melvin to accompany him on a goose hunting safari. As luck would have it, hunting was good and both boys cut-down on a flock of geese at the same time. One goose fell dead at their feet. The other, crippled, came to the ground about 50 yards away and started heading for the tall weeds, half-running — half flying.

Sensing a long chase, Winn immediately claimed the "sure" goose. "This one is mine", he said. "Yours is the crippled one."

"I spent about thirty minutes chasing that darned goose," Jayroe laments. "Finally bagged it, but the longer I chased that bird, the madder I got. We both fired at the same time and I don't understand what made him think he killed the other goose."

To this day, Jayroe hasn't figured whether Winn is a good shot or just an opportunist.

HB

of Commerce is seeking opinions from the shopping public concerning the downtown parking situation. The merchants and the Chamber had recently endorsed the idea of 30 degree "shallow-angle" parking for the downtown area, but when confronted with the loss of the eighteen parking places per block, the group had second thoughts. The shallow-angle parking would give an extra 6 ft. driving space in the street, perhaps solving one problem, but creating another. Certainly it would be nice to have more traffic space, but the loss of the parking could be serious.

Meanwhile, the City of Hereford is working on this problem and a few others. They have asked the Highway Department for a traffic count at Park Ave. and Ave. B, and Park and Ave. K. They don't know just when the count will be made, but it's in the mill anyhow.

Another interesting item that we picked up while talking to City Manager Dudley Bayne concerns the 1963 traffic on U. S. 90, U. S. 385 and Park Ave. We are quite surprised to learn that in 1963, the average traffic per day crossing the intersection at U. S. 90 and 385 totaled more than 16,000. That's thousands, not hundreds. More than 11,000 per day crossed the intersection at Park and U. S. 385. Also, according to the official records, Park Ave. carries more traffic than U. S. 385, to the tune of approximately 1,000 per day more.

We would have bet on that last figure however. We happen to live on the "other side" of Park, and some days, it's almost better to stay in town than try to get home.

We have considered selling and building on this side of Park, but since the children have to go to school on the other side, perhaps it's best to stay where we are.

Oh, well, that's another problem.

HB

By the way, Hereford has topped the $4-million mark on building permits for 1964. And another month to go.

HB

Keep frowning. You'll get credit for thinking.

High Plains Research Foundation Names Alton O. Schrandt To Staff

Alton O. Schrandt has joined the staff of the High Plains Research Foundation as public relations representative.

In announcing the appointment of Schrandt, Dr. Earl H. Collier, Director of the Foundation, said, "We are fortunate in securing the services of a man of his fine background and experience for the Foundation. He will make a splendid addition to our education and public relations staff."

Schrandt comes to the Foundation from the Citizens National Bank of Lubbock where he was an assistant in the Credit Department. He has been employed by the bank since July, 1963.

Schrandt retired the U. S. Air Force in June of 1963 as a Major with 21 years in the service. During World War II, Al served and flew combat as a bombardier and navigator in B-24's in the southwest Pacific. After leaving flying duty in 1950, he was assigned duties as Comptroller and Accounting and Finance Officer serving overseas tours in Spain and north Africa. He retired from Laughlin Air Force Base at Del Rio, where was accounting and finance officer.

Mrs. Schrandt is the former Mary Pigg of Quitaque. They have two boys ages 16 and 13.

Cotton Classing Gains Sharply

Cotton sample receipts increased sharply at the three South Plains U. S. D. A. classing offices during the past week, according to W. K. Palmer, in charge of the Lubbock Office. Ideal harvesting conditions until Thursday enabled farmers to get into fields and begin stripping their cotton. The three U. S. D. A. classing offices received about 50,000 samples daily during the past week.

During the week ending Wednesday, the Lubbock, Brownfield and Lamesa offices classed 193,000 samples. The Lubbock office classed 151,000, the Brownfield office 26,400 and the Lamesa office 15,800.

Total samples classed at the three offices this season was 544,100 compared with 624,800 by the same date last year.

Trading samples classed at the three offices this season was 544,100 compared with 624,800 by the same date last year.

Trading in new crop cotton in the Lubbock market was steady during the past week, but prices paid farmers declined. Agricultural Marketing Service reports indicate prices paid for White grades ranged from 50 points under OCC loan levels to 50 points over the loan. Prices were lower for Light Spotted grades and ranged from the loan rate for Strict Middling Light Spotted to 100 points over for Strict Low Middling Light Spotted.

Congressman's Daughter Sets Wedding Date

Congressman and Mrs. Walter Rogers, Pampa, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Susan Daly, to James Christopher Healey Jr., son of Congressman James C. Healey, New York, and the late Mrs. Healey.

The couple plan a February wedding.

Miss Rogers is a graduate of Georgetown Visitation Preparatory School and Marymount College of Virginia. Mr. Healey was graduated from Georgetown University and is presently studying for his masters' degree in political science at American University.

Miss Rogers is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John A. Daly, Tulsa, and the late Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Rogers, Sherman.

Mr. Healey's grandparents are Judge Joseph M. Callahan, justice of the Appellate division of the Supreme Court of New York (retired) and the late Mrs. Callahan, and Mr. John W. Healey, New York City, and the late Mrs. Healey.

Miss Rogers was presented to society by her parents at a dinner dance in 1959, and was the Texas Cherry Blossom Princess that year. She is a member of the Junior League of Washington.

Howie Polet can live at home when the Houston Colt .45s play in their new domed stadium next season. The team's new pitching coach lives in Houston.

Archaeologists Rally For 'Last Big Dig' For Relics

By ALY MAHMOUD, Associated Press Writer

ASWAN, Egypt — Scores of determined archaeologists are rallying for the "last big dig" to save Nubia's invaluable relics before they disappear beneath waters rising behind the Aswan Dam.

Eight years ago the Egyptian government announced she would build a new dam and turn the Nubian desert behind it into a 314-mile lake. This spelled death for Nubia, a vast open-air museum that was the meeting ground of four renowned ancient civilizations.

The flood waters are now rising behind the partly completed dam, and the doomed desert is beginning to disappear. Many sites will be flooded in a few months.

When construction of the dam started in 1960 the governments of Egypt and the Sudan made an international appeal for help. Missions from 14 Eastern and Western countries flocked into Nubia and immediately started a dramatic race against the threat of the rising waters.

Normally sleepy Nubia bristles with activity as the date of the final flood draws near. More than 30 archaeological camps stretch 300 miles along the banks of the Nile. Some are tent cities but most operate from boats. These are homes and floating laboratories, fully equipped to take care of countless problems.

For example, the heavily silted water must be constantly filtered and cooled for photographic development, which is providing a record of inscriptions that will be flooded.

Moving, Recording, Hunting

The rescuers are involved in three operations: moving and saving temples or frescoes in temples that cannot be moved, recording in photographs and notes the sites that cannot be moved, and making last-minute efforts to locate new sites before the chance is lost forever. The rescuers proudly say they will have "a complete record of all archaeological sites in Egyptian and Sudanese Nubia."

Nine temples have already been moved to higher grounds, and 15 are being either protected on their ancient sites or moved away to safe spots.

West Germany has accomplished what experts term "a marvelous archaeological feat," the dismantling and rebuilding of the Graeco-Roman temple of Kalabsha. The French are moving the 3,000-year-old temple of Amada. The Italians are starting to dismantle the Eltesya temple of the Egyptian Emperor Thutmose III, founder of the oldest empire known in history. The Americans will build three dikes to protect the Elephantine Island, home of the Philae temples of the Egyptian goddess Isis.

Aided by Polish, Belgian, French and American archaeologists, the Egyptians have saved the Roman temple of Kertassi, the Ptolemaic temple of Taffeh, the temple of Denkur (built by the Roman Emperor Augustus), the Nubian temple of Dakka, the colonnades of Maharraqah, the Nubian temple of Debod.

The temples of Debod and Taffeh will be gifts from the Egyptian government to countries which contributed most actively in the Nubian campaign. The countries have not yet been named.

The Germans have shouldered with the Swedes, French and Italians the task of dismantling, moving and rebuilding the colossal twin temples of Abu Simbel. Archaeologists view this part of the Nubian campaign with un- concealed misgiving "because of countless problems."

"If the Germans succeed in saving Abu Simbel, as they did Kalabsha, it will be the greatest achievement in Nubia since we came here eight years ago," said an Italian Egyptologist.

Terra Incognita

The portion of Nubia lying inside the Sudan was given more attention by the rescuers. Classified "terra incognita" (unknown soil) by archaeologists, 300 sites were surveyed and excavated. British diggers, led by Prof. Walter Emery of London University, made a sensational discovery, they said, sharply upset previous concepts of pharaonic military

Man Plugs For Flying Safety Since Accident

By BILL HARRISON, Associated Press Writer

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. — Durwood (Duke) Ledbetter started flying in 1923. A year later he saw a plane crash into the streets of Kansas City, killing the barnstorming pilot and scattering hundreds of leaflets the plane was carrying.

"Flying is safe if conducted properly," the leaflets proclaimed.

Duke Ledbetter was deeply impressed by the message—and the example of its disregard. He has been plugging flying safety ever since.

A robust 61, today he's still flying—more than 33,200 hours logged. And although mandatorily retired at 60 from American Airlines, he finds himself working harder than ever.

Duke conducts weekly classes on air safety here and talks air safety to groups all across the nation. He does it free.

"It's selfish," he says. "I feel I'm doing something worthwhile—this makes me feel good."

Now Duke is enlisting other retired pilots in his speaking-teaching program.

"I thought if I could enjoy it, why not other retired airline pilots," he says.

Ledbetter is president of the Grey Eagles, an organization of 317 American Airlines pilots over 50, each with a minimum of 2,300 flying hours logged.

Duke flies with the Civil Air Patrol, hunting the lost pilots who too often are found dead in the wreckage of their planes

Buildings Use Many Gallons Water In Day

DALLAS, Tex., Nov. 5 — The water required to aircondition a large building can be enormous, simply by evaporation.

The average family uses about 14,600 gallons of water a month in the summer for all purposes. The Republic National Bank building in Dallas uses that much in less than an hour just to cool its occupants. The building requires 130,000 gallons simply to fill its air-conditioning system. But it begins to lose water as soon as it begins circulating through a gigantic cooling tower complex placed atop another building.

Some days this evaporation causes water consumption of 304 gallons a minute, according to the Marley Co. of Kansas City, which built the cooling towers.

Total building consumption for all uses equaled 13 million gallons one recent summer month. By 1965, when the bank building expands, water consumption will be at a rate of about 100 million gallons of water annually.

The Rochester Americans posted the best home record in the American Hockey League last season. They won 27 games and played one tie. They lost eight games.

Stanley Dancer of New Egypt, N. J., is the first harness driver to win more than $1 million in purses in one year. He did it in 1964.

Texas Man Takes Step Back In His Choice Of A Hobby

GEORGETOWN, Tex., Nov. 5 — While some persons are building things for the future like rockers, R. Cochrane Penick is taking a step backward as a hobby. He is bulking a harpsichord, the forerunner of the piano.

Penick is head of the organ department in the Southwestern University school of fine arts.

He estimates that when he finally polishes the instrument to his standards, it will have cost him about $250 and 150 working hours.

Before he joined the music faculty of the school here, he was professor of organ and sacred music at Mississippi State College for Women.

He also has served on the music faculties of Mary Hardin-Baylor College, Louisiana State University and Centenary College.

Penick is a graduate of the University of Texas, where his father, Dr. D. A. Penick gained fame both as a professor and coach of the tennis team.

He also holds degrees from Julliard School of Music and Union Theological Seminary.

architecture.

Built 3,900 years ago during the short reign of Queen Hatshepsute, sister and wife of Emperor Thutmose III, the fortress displayed a sophisticated knowledge of military architecture. It must have been needed to defend the strategic area of the second cataract dividing the lower and upper Nubia against the threat of a "powerful" enemy in the south. History tells of no superior power south of Nubia at that time. And archaeologists are still pondering if another civilization strong enough to frighten Egypt did exist on African soil at the time of Hatshepsute.

"Malfunction of equipment is rarely involved when a private pilot files into trouble," Ledbetter maintains. "Almost always it's lack of knowledge and experience, violation of some basic safety rule. Ninety-eight per cent of the accidents can be traced to pilot error or deficiency."

Duke thinks that percentage—and the accidents—can be cut way down.

"The pilot needs to realize his own limitations and those of his aircraft," he says.

"For example," says Duke, "the vortices (air whirlpools) created by big jets can turn a light plane inside out three miles behind the jet. It's like tying into a miniature tornado. It can cause structural failure or throw a plane upside down. If it crashes, nobody knows what hap-

Horse Trainer For 25 Years Is 1924 Princeton Graduate

By FRANK ECK
AP Newfeatures Sports Editor

ELMONT, N.Y. (AP)—How does a Princeton graduate become a horse trainer? John M. Gaver, Princeton '24, would have the answer. He's been head trainer for fabulous Greentree Stable since 1939.

His success with the same stable includes stirring victories with Tom Fool, the 2-year-old champion in '51 and American champion in '53; Capot in the 1949 Preakness and Belmont, and Shut Out in the '42 Derby and Belmont.

"I was crazy about horses as a child," said John Gaver as he shooed away Yogi, his 5-year-old beagle named partially for Yogi Berra. "My dad was a country doctor in Mt. Airy, Md. We weren't even in the horse section of the state, but I loved horses."

"A classmate and friend (the late Lewis Norrie) introduced me to Jimmy Rowe Jr., then training for Harry Payne Whitney. In 1929 I worked for Rowe. When Mr. Whitney died in 1930 Jim went with Mrs. Payne Whitney (original Greentree owner) and I joined him later and became the stable agent."

"Jim died after winning the 1931 Derby with Twenty Grand. Bill Brennan (formerly with Sam Hildreth) became Greentree trainer. I began an assistant trainer at Hialeah in '36 and became head trainer in '39."

Although Tom Fool missed the '52 Derby he was the greatest horse John Gaver ever trained. He gave away gobs of weight and beat all the handicap horses of his day.

Gaver was just about all set to move the contingent of Greentree horses to three parts of the country when Yogi—the beagle—came into the office again. As the trainer reprimanded the beagle he said:

"What about Yogi Berra? Isn't that something, him joining Casey Stengel with the Mets?"

Gaver loves to talk baseball and was interested in the game long before one of his two bosses, Mrs. Charles Shipman Payson, bought the New York National League franchise and founded the Mets. His other boss is her brother, John Hay (Jock) Whitney. They fell heirs to Greentree when their mother passed away 20 years ago.

This is the time of year when Gaver divides the stable. It's his busiest time. Four of the Greentree runners will race in California this winter. It will go to Hialeah for the winter.

CC Directors To Meet, Pick 1965 Officers

Directors of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce are to meet Wednesday at 8:30 a.m. in the chamber office to name officers for 1965. It was announced Saturday by Bill Thompson, chamber manager.

Four new directors were named recently — Neil Cooper, Pete Caviness, Johnny Pool and Dub Hair were all present at the Wednesday meeting. Election of officers within the board formally seated. They will present at the annual banquet in January.

Plans for the banquet also will be completed at the Wednesday session, when the board will select the menu, name a master of ceremonies, and decide on entertainment features for the banquet. Speaker will be Shearen Elebash, noted speaker-musician.

Bishop To Speak At St. Thomas, Confirm Class

The Rt. Rev. George H. Quarterman, Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Northwest Texas, will be at St. Thomas' Episcopal Church here Wednesday evening at 7:30 p.m.

This will be the Bishop's second annual visit for the Apostolic Rite of Confirmation. Bishop Quarterman will be the preacher and celebrant for the Holy Communion.

Following the service refreshments will be served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Waldrop. The reception will honor Bishop Quarterman and the persons confirmed and received.

School Board's Agenda Given

Hereford school board will name a textbook committee, consider plans for a band hall and consider its insurance bids at its meeting next Tuesday night.

They also will pass on such events as the Young Farmers and Young Homemakers state convention in Dallas and the superintendent and assistant superintendent's attendance of the school administrators conference on education in Austin. Both events are scheduled for January.

The board also will consider the appointment of a census trustee and the consideration of eliminating early morning classes next school year.

The session, to be held in the administration building starting at 7:30 p.m., is open to the public.

Fritz von Erich Started By Tossing Shot Put, Discus

By Harold V. Ratliff
Associated Press Sports Writer

A monstrous man with a terrifying hold known as the Iron claw cuts a swath through professional wrestling ranks these days. He calls himself Fritz von Erich but he was known by another name when he was an athlete at Southern Methodist University. Then he has Jack Adkisson.

And it was at Southern Methodist, in the shot put and discus circles that the iron claw was born.

"I developed the strongest grip in the world working with the shot and discus," said von Erich, and it is what makes my iron claw the most devastating hold in wrestling."

Von Erich says he is the only man able to break an egg gripped longways in his hand.

"You think this is easy? Just try it sometime. Try it with two hands. There aren't many who can do it that way even."

Von Erich admits that much of wrestling is showmanship and that he learned this from Wild Bill Longson, who once claimed the heavyweight championship. But he learned how to wrestle from John Pesek, one of the noted teachers of the game.

The iron claw is put on over a man's eyes by one hand with a finger in each temple.

The other hand is behind the man's head to create more pressure. It makes a guy pass out. With the claw, Von Erich is able to bring blood to a man's forehead.

"This is what inflames the fans," he says. "They really go wild when I do that."

Some of them attack him. He recalls one little old lady, as prim as you please, slashing his trunks across the back with a pen knife. It didn't break the skin but it bared his posterior.

"She just sort of smiled," he said. "She wanted to cut the skin but hadn't been able to slash hard enough."

He was a football star at Southern Methodist, playing guard and tackle, and he was a big winner in both the shot and discus. But he had to leave SMU after two years because he got married and the school had a rule that prohibited any boy from having an athletic scholarship if he took on a wife.

So von Erich went to University of Corpus Christi to finish up. He never made it; he got to wrestle in Houston, liked the game — and the money a fellow could make from it. So he left college and now has been campaigning over the world for 12 years. He has had 2,500 matches.

Von Erich says he is an independent and wrestles for no chain or combine and that he doesn't want to be champion.

"You will be controlled by somebody if you are the champ," he explains.

His biggest American gate was $53,000 at San Francisco. He had $40,000 at St. Louis. His all-time record is $81,000 at Palaise de Sports in Paris.

He weighs 270 pounds but since he is 33 years old doesn't anticipate he'll ever be any bigger.

He adopted the name of von Erich because it was his mother's maiden name.

'Have You Been Good Girls?'

This is the time of the year when Santa Claus asks such embarrassing questions. Like "have you been good," "have you minded your mother and father?" — things like that. And this Texas-sized Santa is no exception; he's asking these questions of the Fuhrmann twins, Nedra and Naomi. Of course he goes on to ask much nicer questions, like "What do you want Santa to bring you for Christmas?" The 16-months-old Fuhrmann twins are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Fuhrmann, 505 Union.

You Gotta Win To Fill Stands, Coaches Find

By Harold V. Ratliff

Associated Press Sports Writer
It's wonderful to have a winning football team. Red Sanders, the late coach of UCLA, said "Winning isn't everything; it is the only thing."

But, the reaction from falling off the pedestal and trying to fight your way back sometimes is worse than having never been there at all.

In the late 40s Southern Methodist rode high with golden boy Doak Walker, the mighty Kyle Rote and others who made statistics on the field and records in the stands. There was a year when SMU drew almost a half-million fans. The athletic department made so much money it gave a sizable chunk to the fine arts department.

But the descent started in 1950 and reached the absolute low in 1962 when the average was 21,000 fans per game. There had to be cutbacks in other sports.

Hayden Fry came along to win four games in 1963 and bring the average up to 34,718. Included was an upset of Navy and some good games that were lost but with a flourish. It seemed SMU was at last on the way back.

Prospects for 1964 were excellent. Some writers thought SMU would make it to the first division of the Southwest Conference, maybe even fight for the title.

But a lot of things happened to ruin SMU's hopes. First the school was put on probation for recruiting violations. There was chagrin and humiliation but this didn't seem likely to damage any ability on the field of play.

That, though, was taken care of in other ways.

John Roderick, the speedy young man who ran Navy into defeat, became scholastically ineligible. Mac White, a top quarterback, had to forego football because of a ruptured disc. Larry Jernigan, who might have been the best talkback in the conference, got acute arthritis and couldn't play a down.

Tom Hillary, a fine end, signed a professional baseball contract. David Wilson, an excellent linebacker, dropped out of school to work. Buddy Miller chose to graduate rather than take his last year of eligibility.

In the first game Danny Thomas, a senior quarterback, injured his knee. He played all season virtually on one leg.

Donnie Oefinger, a sophomore, stepped in at quarterback and was doing a fine job when he got a broken jaw in the third game of the season — the only game SMU won. He didn't get back until five games later.

Southern Methodist lost and lost. Frustration and humiliation hit simultaneously when the Methodists took a 44-0 licking from Arkansas.

But there was no clamor to fire the coach — something that would have been evident no more than three years ago.

The fans and alumni, for once at least, were understanding. They didn't go out much to see the games because they didn't want to watch the Mustangs lose. But they didn't criticize the coach or the school for its troubles.

Fry was probably a little amused but he certainly felt better about the situation. "The people have been wonderful," he said. "There's a different attitude in football these days anyway."

Fry could even get a little enthusiastic about next year's prospects with one of the finest freshman teams coming up. And he's hopeful that some of those good football players lost by injury and scholastic trouble will be back. "We could have a good team," he said.

Losing has hurt Fry more than the fans and alumni but he has found that losing isn't so bad if the people understand and are willing to make allowances. One thing that brought this about came from the fact that Fry and his Mustangs didn't quit. They tried just as hard whether the score was 44-0 or 16-13.

U. S. Open champion Ken Venturi will be pointing for the Los Angeles Open. He won the event in 1959 but last January he missed the cut for the final 18-hole round.

Parking Problem Provides Long-Range City Challenge

The old adage that time changes everything appears to have established an exception when it comes to the question of parking. Currently, we note that the problem has cropped up twice in the news columns during the past week and, after 10 years of discussion, the answer seems as elusive as ever.

Needless to say, Hereford is not exception in the overall picture. Parking has plagued towns and cities all over the nation, and the problem is always much greater in the larger centers.

Proposed angle parking on Main Street is a sidelight on the overall view, but it does have some merit in that it could help eliminate cars getting stuck at the curb during icy weather, and that it would widen the traffic stream at all times. If the town continues to grow, the ultimate result may well be parallel parking on Main, along with the possibility of one-way traffic.

Downtown merchants and property owners are also discussing purchase and operation of parking lots. The proposal has numerous disadvantages, but it appears to be the only practical solution. Another good step would be control of employee parking by provision of space by each firm for employees. If lots are provided for free customer parking, something will have to be worked out for employees — or the new lots will be filled before the customers ever get to town.

Some smaller cities have experimented along this line by providing lots and maintaining parking meters through city cooperation and policing, which would automatically take care of the employee portion of the problem — and we do feel that one with this portion of the parking dilemma is eliminated that half the battle will have been won.

Out of this same problem has grown the popular shopping center expansion all over the country, but even that encounters difficulty in that it is impossible to move banks, utility offices and governmental centers, all of which are highly important in the smaller towns.

Most encouraging of all is the fact that Hereford and the local merchants are finally recognizing the problem — and that they are making a serious effort to do something about it. Very few things come along which cannot be worked out, provided the sponsors are interested, unselfish and willing to give the situation intelligent consideration and effort. Hereford, like all other towns, has its own peculiarities in the form of parking ills, and the way they are moving toward a solution indicates that they are on the right track — and for the first time.

A Job Well Done

The Civil Air Patrol marked its 23rd anniversary on December 1st, and to all members of the Hereford units of this hard working and dedicated organization, we extend our heartfelt congratulations. Civil Air Patrol has achieved an enviable record of patriotic public service to community and nation since it was founded in the dark days of World War II.

When our shipping lanes were being harassed by marauding enemy submarines, early in WW II, the men and women of Civil Air Patrol, licensed pilots and aircraft owners, voluntarily offered their time, their services and their aircraft to patrol America's coastline. CAP pilots flew 24 million miles on coastal patrol and are credited with having bombed 57 U-boats — or radioed the Army or Navy to make the attack. Twenty-six Civil Air Patrol members lost their lives in carrying out that anti-submarine duty.

Civil Air Patrol has not rested on that splendid record. In the intervening years, it has grown and developed into a highly organized, efficient and potent force. Co-operating with Civil Defense, the Federal Aviation Agency, state, county and city government agencies, CAP today is an asset to any community. Its trained and competent pilots stand ready to fly search and rescue missions on instant notice; its nationwide communications network of 14,500 radio stations has become a vital element in Civil Defense planning for survival and recovery in the event of national disaster, and its fleet of 4,900 light aircraft is an integral part of the nation's Civil Defense recovery plans.

The federal government long ago recognized the value of this volunteer organization and insured its continued existence by federally chartering CAP as a civilian nonprofit corporation in 1946 "to provide an organization for the development of aviation maintenance, of air supremacy, and aviation education and training." Two years later CAP was officially made a civilian auxiliary of the United States Air Force by Congressional action.

The Air Force gave CAP two vital missions, assisting Air Rescue Service in search and rescue activities in the continental United States, and conducting an aerospace education program for youth. In both, CAP has excelled. Each year, CAP's pilots fly more than half the total flying hours expended on search and rescue by USAF's Air Rescue Service.

CAP is unrivaled in its aerospace education program. It is not only conducting an intensive aerospace education program among the 50,000 boys and girls enrolled in the CAP cadet program, but has also developed an education workshop program for teachers which is conducted at colleges and universities during the summer months.

We compliment CAP on the accomplishment of both these vital missions and in saluting the organization on its 23rd anniversary, we say we are proud to have a CAP unit in our community.

Amarillo Air Base To Close

One of the most controversial subjects in this area in a long time centers around announcement that the air force base in Amarillo is to be closed.

While the closing will not directly affect Hereford, it will undoubtedly be felt to some degree in this community. Much, of course, depends upon how Amarillo chooses to use the facilities which they will probably secure from the air force once the base actually goes out of operation. Speculation on this score varies all of the way from airplane factories to location of a large college — and we doubt if anyone ever has a vague idea at this early date.

Amarillo will weather the storm in the longrun and, no doubt, will be a stronger and more stable community once the base has been closed. Furthermore, if the type of air force equipment and training included in the base are truly obsolete — and indications point this way — the nation definitely will find the situation to advantage. To say the least, Amarillo will inherit one of the longest concrete runways in the nation — and this is no mean advantage in modern times when air travel is becoming more and more popular.

Hereford faced a lot of the same situation after World War II, when the POW camp was closed but, looking back today, we wonder how the base ever made so much difference — and you have to find a sure-enough old timer to locate someone who even remembers its existence. Such, without doubt, will be the ultimate experience in Amarillo.

Santa Claus On His Way

Santa Claus, the jolly old fellow with the twinkling eyes, is coming to town Friday, Dec. 11, at which time he will officially kick off the annual Christmas shopping spree. Things are ready for him, too, with yule decorations and lights already in evidence.

And while we know that some are bound to disagree, it seems to us that his trip this year, a bit earlier perhaps than usual, is timely indeed. All over town, stores are packed and jammed with yuletide merchandise, all of which is definitely attractive to early shopping. And the fact that the stores will be open Friday night following the parade should add stimulus to this phase.

Why not make a "late" 1964 resolution and do your shopping early this year. It will help the stores, true, but the one who will benefit most will be you, and in more ways than you can ever imagine.

Brick Paving, Favored For 4000 Years, Passe

Commissioners Plan Visit To Inspect Paving Project

The City Commissioners have planned to visit a number of Texas cities and towns for the purpose of inspecting the different kinds of paving now being used and to get as much information as they can as to the merits of the different kinds and their costs. This with the view of contracting for some paving here in the near future or as soon as weather conditions make it available and they wish to first determine the kind most suitable. Amarillo is having a large amount of paving done at this time and are using Asphaltic concrete which costs them $1.80 per square yard. The commissioners would be glad to have any interested party consult with them and make suggestions, for it is their desire to get the best paving possible for the money.

Last Sunday night about eight o'clock the new Ford Garage being erected on Main Street collapsed at the rear. About 40 feet of the roof, the entire east wall and about forty feet of the North wall, making a complete wreck.

No one was in the building at the time. Mr. McGhee was standing on the sidewalk in front and was attracted by the noise and watched it until it fell.

The building was nearing completion and the walls were finished. The roof lacked only a few hours work and the front plate glass was all in and the cement floor was nearly half done. The damage was estimated at $1,000 or more.

Mr. Jake Tiefel was the contractor and the loss will fall heavily on him. Mr. H. B. Webb was having the building erected.

We sell White and Singer sewing machines on monthly payments. E. B. Black and Co.

Loss was estimated between $12,000 and $15,000 when fire broke out shortly after 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the rear part of the home of Mrs. Ollie Forbus,

10 YEARS AGO

1013 Park Ave. comprising most of the loss was the death of 18 chinchilla, which were housed in the back room.

Firemen said that the blaze, in all probability, started when an extension cord by which a light had been placed under one of the cages to keep the animals warm. Several of the animals were burned beyond recognition, some had their legs burned off and others were killed by the intense heat which built up in the room as a result of the blaze.

No loss on the chinchilla was covered by insurance, according to Mrs. Forbus, who said that insurance was not available on the animals. The incident wiped Mrs. Forbus out of the chinchilla business, except for two males which were not at home when the blaze broke out. Damage to woodwork and cages was estimated to be around $500.

Mrs. Forbus started with four chinchilla around two years ago and has been carefully nourishing and tending them until the brood had reached its size at the time of the fire.

The Hereford Fire Department had the blaze under control from the time they arrived and broke a large picture window to gain entrance to the building. Neighbors also eyed the blaze critically in view of high winds, which could easily have spread the fire over the neighborhood.

By Associated Press

For a road material that was No. 1 in the hearts of drivers for 4,000 years, the decline of bricks for paving was swift.

The Texas Highway Department, in a recent publication, noted that brick highways date back to 2,200 B.C. In several parts of the world brick pavement laid down by the Romans still is in normal use.

For thousands of years, no one devised a better pavement for roads and highways.

It was late in the 1800s, says the highway department, when American cities and towns, eager to get out of the mud, began to hunt for a material which would stand up under steel horseshoes and wheels and pickled brick.

Arrival of the automobile after 1900 brought an increased clamor for paved roads, and brick pavement was given new impetus.

In 1914 there were about 1400 miles of brick pavement in the United States, and by 1954, this had increased to 4,319.

The 1920's brought developments in concrete and asphalt, and methods of building with these materials were refined. Brick began a decline as a road material.

Most roadways that originally were paved with brick now are covered with asphalt or concrete, and the brick makes an excellent base. Brick surfaces caused automobiles to vibrate and were slick when wet.

Texas has no brick highway surfaces left. The westbound lane of U.S. 150 between Weatherford and Mineral Wells is an example of a brick road now covered with asphalt.

In the old days, a skilled bricklayer could lay more than 500 feet of 20-foot-wide pavement a day. He received 25 cents an hour, twice as much as the men who assisted him. The bricks were longer and thinner — more like the thin bricks used for buildings.

If the interstate system in Texas, comprising 3,025 miles, were to be built by bricklayers, the completion date probably would be the year 2050. The goal with modern materials is 1972.

When Santa Claus arrives in town Monday afternoon he'll find at least one other thing new other than a championship football team. Over 11,000 feet of Christmas wiring has been prepared for stringing over downtown business houses by the members of the Boys' Club. Anyway you look at it, that's a lot of lighting, especially considering that 7260 bulbs are strung on those wires. It appears that the town will be lit up, and not all of it is due to the football team.

Telegrams and letters to President Johnson urging that he continue Director J. Edgar Hoover.

THE BOOTLEG

—Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his hindwood farm takes a look at the economy drive this week. It's hard to tell what he sees.

Dear editor: Since there is no military installation or post office located on this hindwood farm, I can take an open-minded, statesman-like view of the President's drive to economy, and won't be in the shape of the Chamber of Commerce delegation that went to Washington to demand more economy in government and less cutting out of military establishments in their vicinity.

If Washington figures it can cut out 96 military bases no longer needed and save a billion dollars a year, it suits me, and if it wants to eliminate some small post offices, especially in other states, I guess that's all right too, but I have been giving some thought to the post office cut.

According to a television newscaster, the hundreds of small fourth-class post offices around the country are not efficient but they serve as a gathering place for the local folks. "After all," he said, "the people there have no place else to go and they gather at the post office, whether they have any mail or not." What this newscaster doesn't seem to know is that very few small town people gather in the post office any more. They gather at the supermarket, or the football field, or in their modern homes. As for having some place to go, it would be hard to find very many people in the United States who aren't within an hour or two of some big city, if you want to call that a place to go. Most of them though had rather stay at home and see it on television.

It seems to me just cutting out the small post offices isn't going far enough. Why not cut them all out and everybody handle his post office business by mail? After all, doesn't the post office department believe in promoting its own line of work? When the government sends a man a check, why go to the trouble and expense of putting up a post office building for him to get it in? Why not send it straight to his home?

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Want To Go Back To Your Boyhood Small Town? This Book Says 'No'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Do small town lads, now mature and moved to the city, really wish to return permanently to the town of their growing up? Sometimes in the night a moment of nostalgia as sharp as a knife may strike a one-time small-town man. But return permanently? Some would decline despite the stresses of city residence.

This is something thinly seen but nevertheless there in "The Vanishing America: The Life and Times of the Small Town," recently published by Holt, Rinehart and Winston. ($9.95).

The authors are 12 distinguished writers telling of the towns of their boyhood, and some flatly state that the town has changed, and so have they, and they do not indicate strong longings to return permanently.

Small towns today must progress, must hunt industry, must modernize the store fronts, pave the streets, and turn the grocery store and meat market of boyhood memory into a supermarket. Else they die.

Apparently few towns ever simply mellow. They never remain the way we remember them. But what does? We are not the same as when we lived there.

This does not mean that the reader will find nothing to stir his memory, and perhaps for a moment bring back the small pleasures of boyhood. At times he can say, "I remember the same thing in my town."

The book has a deeper significance: Recording how towns grew and sometimes declined, but taken as a whole helped build America as much as any teaming city.

The towns selected range from the comparatively ancient ones on the Eastern Seaboard to the still brash ones in the West.

Perhaps the oldest of the towns described—and perhaps surprisingly old to eastern dwellers—is Nacogdoches, Tex.

The story of that East Texas place is told by John Edward Weems, an Austin author. Nacogdoches, in a way, goes back to Indian days, and the redman's trails were used, and still are used, as the white man pushed in.

The town, more a small city now, was one of the advance posts of the Spanish soldiers and churchmen. At one time it was a key city between east and west. It even had a smuggler's trail, still seen paralleling the main road which led to the settlements around San Antonio. Nacogdoches is thriving, and possible mellowing handsomely as well.

Two of the authors are Pulitzer Prize winners, Hodding Carter writes of Holly Springs, Miss., and Conrad Richter of Pine Grove, Pa.

'65 Fertilizer Needs Studied

By W. F. "Bill" Bennett, Agronomist

Grain sorgham harvest is over. Cotton harvest is underway. Thoughts are turning to fertilizer use for the 1965 crop. As in the past, questions are arising as to whether phosphorus should be used and if so, what kind, how much and when and how to apply it.

This past crop season has shown some good responses to phosphate on all crops. Responses have generally been good on grain sorghum even in a year when yields have been slightly below normal. In general, grain sorghum yields with phosphate applied have been 6000 plus. Without phosphate, yields have been around 5500. These figures obviously will vary from farm to farm and some fields without phosphorus have yielded in excess of 6000 pounds grain per acre, but these are the exception rather than the rule. It is no longer a question of whether to apply phosphorus. Instead, it is a matter of how much and when and how to apply. The best basis is a soil test to determine whether the soil can supply sufficient quantities of phosphorus.

Source of phosphate is closely related to time and method of application. Banding phosphorus has generally given better results than broadcast phosphorus if used in equivalent quantities. Dry phosphorus sources usually are more adapted for broadcasting. Liquid phosphorus sources are more easily banded.

Sources of phosphorus can be divided into 2 broad groups—the ammonium phosphates and the calcium phosphates. The ammonium phosphates are available in several grades such as 11-37-0, 18-46-0, 11-48-0, 16-20-0 and so on. Their biggest advantages are their 100% water-solubility and the presence of both nitrogen and phosphorus in the same liquid or dry pellet. Nitrogen associated directly with phosphorus will usually increase phosphorus uptake by the plant. The calcium phosphates generally available are 0-20-0 and 0-46-0. The biggest advantage of these materials is their slightly cheaper cost—an advantage offset by the higher availability of phosphorus in the ammonium phosphates.

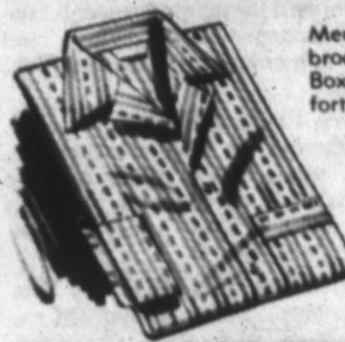

One point to consider on broadcast phosphorus is to incorporate the fertilizer into the soil as much as possible. If still possible, broadcast phosphorus should be applied, disked in and turned under when plowing. There is some concern that such a practice may place the phosphate too deep for roots to obtain it.

This is not true unless there is some restriction of root growth due to poor physical condition, excess moisture in the soil or

Dr. Edwards Cites Methods For Harmony

"A basic rule for working with people in any situation is to try to know and understand why they act as they do," Dr. Lena Edwards said in discussing her work at the local labor camp. She spoke at the meeting of La Plata Study Club in the home of Mrs. Milton Adams Tuesday evening. In introducing the guest speaker, Mrs. Eugene Campbell recounted recent honors accorded Dr. Edwards and her achievement in the medical field.

Mrs. Frank Prowell, president, conducted the business meeting, and plans were made for the Christmas party to be held in the home of Mrs. Ansel McDowell, Dec. 15.

Legion Auxiliary Hears Talk On Jesus By Fooks

"Life of Jesus" from birth, death, burial, resurrection, and ascension was reviewed by Gene Fooks, minister of the Central Church of Christ, for members and guests of the American Legion Auxiliary in the Rock Club House, Tuesday evening.

Introduced by Mrs. Ira Ott, president, Mr. Fooks said, "Christ was champion of the cause of the poor, released captives of sin, so that they might become servants of righteousness, through release. He was also able to restore the blind helping them to see the spiritual side of life.

"Christ fulfilled his mission on earth before ascension and is our captain and we who believe on him are soldiers of his command." He closed his message with this scripture: "And whoever gives to one of these little ones even a cup of cold water, because he is a disciple, truly I say to you, he shall not lose his reward."

Mrs. Ott announced that two dinners will be cooked and served by the Auxiliary as money making projects. These dinners will be for Anthony's Store employees and families Dec. 10, and The Brand staff and families Dec. 17. Members were reminded to volunteer their services in the V. A. Gift Shop. Meetings through March will be at 7:30 p.m.

Hereford Auxiliary will finance and be host for the next party which will be Dec. 14.

Mr. Fooks delivered a closing prayer and refreshments were served by hostesses, Mrs. Willie Vinton and Mrs. Mabel Wagner, to Mrs. F. S. Smith, Mrs. Ira Ott, Mrs. Hazel Sparks, Mrs. Carlos Vaughn, Mrs. Carlos Vaughn, Mrs. W. J. It's Hunting Time In Texas!

The Thanksgiving period marks the second phase of the major wildlife harvest in Texas, with the duck, quail and deer seasons being opened or expanded, reports the Parks and Wildlife Department.

E. A. Walker, assistant director for wildlife, noted that the duck season opened on Nov. 25 and the opening of quail season in a number of counties Dec. 1. Regulatory counties, except the Possum Kingdom District as regulated directly by the Department, opened the quail shoot simultaneously with the deer season Nov. 14.

The main calendar affect on the big game season is opening of the mule deer hunt in the nine county Trans-Pecos November 28. Walker observed that this is one of the high points of the big game season for many hunters who invade the rugged canyon country for the larger mule deer. The season runs through December 12. Counties affected are El Paso, Hudspeth, Culberson, Reeves, Jeff Davis, Presidio, Brewster, Pecos and Terrell.

Meanwhile, the duck season, anticipated with considerable enthusiasm by scatter gunners, had a Nov. 25 opener, with prospects of one of the better harvests in recent years.

The Panhandle offers a nimbrod's tonic in a seven day pheasant shot beginning Dec. 1 in the Panhandle regulatory district. Other counties having pheasant season are Ellis, Hidalgo, Kaufman, La Salle, Lee Smith, Travis and Wood. The limit is two cocks, with four in possession in the Panhandle regulatory district.

As the harvest area is expanded, one major season closed over all the State when the mourning dove shoot ended Nov. 24 in the South Zone. The North Zone dove hunt ended October 30.

The duck season continuing through Jan. 3, finds a daily possession limit of four and a possession limit, after the first day of eight. Shooting hours are from sunup to sunset. The daily possession limit may not include more of the following species than: two (2) wood ducks, two (2) mallards, two (2) canvasbacks or redheads (or one of each). The possession limit — not to include more of the following species than: two (2) wood ducks, four (4) mallards two (2) canvasbacks or redheads (or one of each).

The goose season, which opened Oct. 31, continues through Jan. 13.

similar factors. In fact, phosphorus which is deep would generally tend to encourage deeper root growth which is usually desirable. Broadcasting of phosphorus on top of plowed ground and then bedding-up may place too much of the phosphate above seed level.

Liquid phosphorus sources are gaining in popularity as a means of easily banding a phosphate source. This banding operation, which is a dual application of ammonia and liquid, can be done when ground is still flat or can be put in the sides of the bed on 20 inch centers. Row spacing or double row maize may dictate narrower or wider chisel spacings.

LET'S COOK SOMETHING!

Yule Gifts From Your Kitchen

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

ANY COOK who would like to turn out a delectable tasting and professional looking candy should be interested in this recipe.

The friend who passed it along to us called the candies Turtlettes. Good name! Pecan halves and caramel candy make turtle shapes; a coating of semi-sweet chocolate forms the covering. The result? Candies that look like miniature turtles.

The pecans are arranged on buttered cookie sheets and the caramel is spooned over them.

The caramel is an old friend—the best rule of this sort that we've ever come upon. The chocolate needs only to be melted and spread.

One hint: if the last of the caramel gets a little too thick to spoon over the last of the nuts, just place it over hot water until it is manageable.

TURTLETTE CANDIES

Small pecan halves (9 to 12 ounces)
2 cups light cream
2 cups sugar
1 cup light or dark corn syrup
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/3 cup butter or margarine
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 package (12 ounces) semi-sweet chocolate pieces
On buttered cookie sheets, arrange 4 dozen sugars—each consisting of 4 pecan halves.

In a large heavy saucepan, heat the cream to lukewarm. Pour out 1 cup; reserve. To the remaining lukewarm cream in the saucepan, add the sugar, corn syrup and salt. Cook and stir constantly over moderate heat until mixture boils. Very slowly stir in the reserved 1 cup cream so mixture does not stop boiling. Cook and stir constantly for 5 minutes. Stir in butter, about 1 teaspoon at a time. Turn heat low. Boil gently and stir constantly until temperature reaches 248 degrees on a candy thermometer or until a small amount of the mixture dropped into very cold water forms a firm ball that does not flatten on removal from the water. Remove from heat. Gently stir in vanilla; cool slightly. Pour about 1 teaspoon of the slightly cooked caramel mixture over the center of each group of pecan halves, half covering each nut, to resemble turtles. Let cool about 10 minutes.

Melt semi-sweet chocolate without stirring over hot (not boiling) water; stir until smooth. Spread over each turtle candy. When set, wrap each candy in clear plastic film. Makes about 4 dozen.

A WONDERFUL fudge is misspelled eight different ways: According to Webster, the word is panocha. According to cooks, it's panoche, panochi, penucha, penuche, penuchi, pinocha, pinche or pinochi. Actually the term panocha means a Mexican raw sugar or a sweetmeat.

If you like the beguiling flavor of brown sugar, this candy is for you. Originally the fudge was made with brown sugar, butter and cream, but nowadays we are inclined to add a little corn syrup to help achieve satiny-smooth texture.

This is a great candy to have in the house or to give as a gift—at holiday time or to a youngster away at school. For gift-giving, you might like to turn the fudge into one large or several small aluminum foil pans so you can offer it intact. The receivers will be happy to do their own slicing.

When I was young, one of my sisters was a great panocha-maker. Sometimes she would give the candy a second layer of chocolate fudge! If you are in the mood to improvise, you might like to try this.

Panocha is often made without nuts, but we like to include them to offset the sweet flavor.

PANOCHA
3 cups firmly packed light brown sugar
3/4 cup milk
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 tablespoon light or dark corn syrup

Decorating the table was a white cutwork cloth over yellow centered with yellow mums in a cut glass bowl. Bouquets of the chosen colors, yellow and white, decorated the house. Appointments were crystal and silver.

Shower Honors Miss Rowland

Miss Judy Marie Rowland, bride-elect of Deryl Lee House, was honored at a shower Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Marvin Crowson, 802 Blevins.

Assisting Mrs. Crowson as co-hostesses were Mrs. Denzil Pulliam, Mrs. E. E. Allen, Mrs. W. P. Axe, Mrs. Elmer Patterson, Mrs. J. C. Reese, Mrs. Wayne Stark, Mrs. Troy Benefield, Mrs. Al Lee, Mrs. Ernest Flood, Mrs. Earl Huckabee, and Mrs. H. L. Hershey.

Mrs. Crowson greeted the guests and presented them to the honoree, Miss Rowland, her mother, Mrs. H. J. Rowland, and Mrs. Elbert Austin House, Tulsa, mother of the prospective bridegroom.

Serving at the refreshment table were Miss Judy Means and Miss Laverne Kimbell. Forty guests were registered by Miss Virginia Roberts.

Rogers Beaten; Texas Champ Wins On TKO

Previously undefeated Roy Rogers, former local Golden Gloves champion and son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Rogers, 306 N. Lawton, met defeat for the first time since he entered professional ranks Tuesday evening as Texas Heavyweight Champion Tod Herring landed a technical knockout on the local boy in Houston.

Rogers had won nine and fought a draw in another bout. He is a graduate of Hereford High School and fought here for the local Optimist Club, taking several district and regional victories while fighting as an amateur.

The Tuesday fight with Herring had lasted four rounds, when Referee Ernie Taylor, on orders from the ring physician, stopped the fight.

championship in the fight scheduled for 12 rounds in Houston. He ran his knockout string to 18 and now has a record of 26-3 in the professional ranks.

Rogers' nose bled from the second round and there seemed no way to stop it. In the third, Herring landed the chopping right and an ugly gash appeared above the left eye of Rogers.

Rogers came out fighting in the fourth but Herring landed three left-right combinations which further damaged the eye cut.

Herring, who weighed 206, returned to the ring after an eight month period of inactivity after losing to Zora Folley. He is from Houston; Rogers, who weighed 196, is now residing in Levelland.

Herring will undoubtedly still be ranked as the Texas Heavyweight champion after scoring the victory.

When Queen Empress won the Gardenia at Garden State it marked the filly's sixth stakes victory of the year. She previously won the Frizette, Colleen, Astoria, National Stallion and Fashion.

Note To Santa: Farley's Boys Need New Suits

A new suit for Christmas makes any boy happy, and the goal at Cal Farley's Boys Ranch is to provide every one of the 325 boys with a suit for Christmas.

The first contributions to this fund have already been received at the Boys Ranch office. Mr. Will G. Harris, Goathead Prairie has once again bought the first new suit for a boy. Harris is carrying on a tradition he began when the Ranch first started by being the first person to contribute $25 for this purpose.

The second contribution this year has come from Elton Smith, Denver City.

Purchasing a new suit at this price is made possible through the generosity of certain merchants who have been doing this for many years. The boys of the Ranch receive either a new suit, dress coat and slacks, or a combination of clothing, depending upon their needs.

For many of the more than 300 boys, his new suit will be the first one he has ever owned.

Teletype Links Stockmen With U. S. Cattle Markets

Officials of the First National Bank of Hereford announced the addition of a livestock teletype machine to their customer services this week.

The machine gives reports from the United States Department of Agriculture and all of the major cattle markets in the United States.

Reports are typed out continuously on the machine, indicating the trends in cattle sales, receipts and prices.

Main markets reporting on the teletype are Wichita, Kan., Clovis, N. M., Joplin, Mo., Ft. Smith, Ark., Kansas City, Mo., Amarillo, New York, N. Y., St. Joseph, Mo., Des Moines, Iowa, St. Paul, Minn., Denver, Colo., Chicago, Ill., Sioux City, Iowa, and Ft. Worth.

"Many other smaller markets report on the teletype," Wheeler Sears, vice president of the bank said, "but the main trends are derived from these larger markets."

"Local feeders and stockmen will be able to come into the bank and see these reports and be able to conclude the best time to sell their cattle, began feeding operations or purchase livestock."

PETE PROGRESS Traffic Study Pleases Pete; Solution Seen

Pete came hustling into the office the other day looking real pleased. "I'm right proud of our downtown retailers and their stand on the parking and traffic problem they are experiencing," he opened the conversation with.

"For too many years the situation has lacked a satisfactory answer. Main Street has shrunk and shrunk as cars got longer and longer. How many times I have seen cars try to get away from the curb for minutes on end — then get desperate and try to bluff their way out only to gain a crumpled fender!

"Our 60 foot streets gets pretty narrow when we lose 20 feet on each side to parking. Cars backing from the curb, particularly the larger cars and pickups, not only block the traffic lane on the near side but often block the opposite lane. On heavy shopping days, such as First Monday sale day, double stamp day and most Saturday afternoons, congestion on Main street is a real problem.

"There are several possible solutions to the problem. The one adopted, narrowing the parking angle from its present 45 to 30 degrees, is the least costly to experiment. All that will be involved will be the moving of a few meters. Some parking space will be lost but the six to eight feet to be gained in the driving lanes should more than make up for that loss.

"Another choice suggested and rejected for the time being was the suggestion that Main Street be made one-way. The general feeling of those present at the meeting was that many people become confused by and dislike the one-way street plan. Several major cities have abandoned one way Main street after giving the plan a trial of several years. Oklahoma City is an example. Parallel parking, similarly, was rejected not only because of the loss of the large number of parking spaces but because most women dislike the difficulty of maneuvering into and out of "This teletype is also linked with the USDA line in Washington and reports livestock imports from foreign markets.

The teletype machine at the bank is only capable of receiving the reports and can not transmit any messages.

"We would like to invite everyone interested in this sort of information to come in and see this machine and glance over the reports as they come in or see them posted on the bulletin board, which will be kept current by our staff," Sears said.

The machine is linked locally with those operated by Hereford Feed Yards and Holly Livestock Operations.

This teletype is the only one, however, that is available for public use during the bank hours.

"We feel due to the expanding livestock business in Deaf Smith County, this will be a much-desired customer service that will prove very beneficial to our friends and customers," Sears said.

parallel parking areas.

"Another alternative that may eventually have to be resorted to if the present plan proves ineffective is that of widening the street by cutting down on the sidewalk width. Opinion now is conflicting as to the cost versus the advantage to be gained by such a proposal. No-Left-Turn from or onto Main has also been suggested as a remedy for some of the delays encountered downtown. This, too, could be easily tried if the narrow angle parking does not ease the problem sufficiently.

"In any event it is encouraging to see downtown facing up to its problems and suggesting a solution. Figures are being worked up now by a committee headed by Don Zimmerman for presentation to the City Commission."

We agreed with Pete that the experiment was worth a try.

Two Fined After Pleas Of Guilty

Business nearly ground to a halt in county court this week as only two persons appeared before County Judge H. C. Williams to answer to charges.

Gilberto Rayes entered a plea of guilty before Judge Williams Monday to a charge of driving while intoxicated.

He was fined $150 and costs and sentenced to seven days in the county jail. Rayes was arrested by officers of the Texas Highway Patrol.

POLLUTION RULING — State Water Pollution Control Board is appealing a ruling by Judge Herman Jones held in a Superior Oil Company suit against the State, that the Railroad Commission has exclusive jurisdiction over disposal of oil and gas field waste.

Under the ruling the Water Pollution Control Board does not have authority to issue orders with regard to the use of open unlined salt water disposal pits designed to handle oilfield waste.

89 Percent Of Qualified Texas Voters Cast Ballots

By Vern Sanford
Texas Press Association

AUSTIN — A post-election review of statewide voting totals shows that only 89 per cent of the 3,100,000 Texans who were qualified to vote actually made it to the polls on Nov. 3.

Total number of ballots cast — 2,760,788.

Not all of those who went to the polls voted in all the races. In Travis County, for instance, 3,461 of the 67,419 who cast ballots failed to vote in the presidential race. Elsewhere around the state, 32,304 Texans who voted in the governor's race did not vote on the lieutenant governor's race, which placed next on the ballot.

High vote getter, in this election and in Texas history, was Atty. Gen Waggoner Carr. He racked up 1,901,038 votes. Gov. John Connally was next with 1,872,137. Lt. Gov. Preston Smith was third, with 1,833,747.

LAWMAKERS TAKE OATH — All 42 freshmen in the 150-member House of Representatives already have taken the oath that makes them State officials. They started drawing their $4,800 a year salary the day of their oath-taking.

Thirty-three took the oath jointly in the special swearing-in ceremony. Lt. Gov. Preston Smith participated, along with House Speaker Byron Tunnell and Secretary of State Crawford Martin.

Freshmen legislators who did not come to the Capitol were sworn in at home by local judges. Many did so for sentimental reasons.

TRAIN HEARING SET — Right after the order was issued allowing the Texas and Pacific Railroad to discontinue two passenger trains that ran between Fort Worth and El Paso, the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe Railway Company filed a request with the Railroad Commission to discontinue two trains in West Texas.

Company said it wants to stop service of passenger trains Nos. 77 and 78 between Brownwood and San Angelo because Railway Post Office service was halted on them Sept. 26. Company said government's failure to renew the postal contract will increase the railroad's already substantial net annual "out-of-pocket deficit" by more than 75 per cent.

Hearing on the application will be held in the Tom Green County Courthouse Jan. 14.

ATTORNEY GENERAL RULES — Attorney General Carr branded unconstitutional a section of the tax law providing for cigarette tax payments to the State Treasurer.

He noted that the law calls for the treasurer to ship cigarette stamps, or a set meter for use in stamping cigarettes, without receiving payment in advance.

EAGLE PASS CASE — J. W. Edgar, state education commisalready are underway in Austin. Four groups of water users are being called in for comments suggestions and help. They are the state, federal and local water agencies; the cities; the industrial and oil-gas groups; and the largest group, users of water for irrigation.

Chief Engineer John Vandertulip is outlining to the four groups a program for developing a water plan to meet Texas' growth needs to the year 2020.

Plans will be ready by the fall of 1966, if the Legislature provides the money recommended by Governor Connally.

ing of state credit. Thousands of dollars are lost under present practices, he said.

The Attorney General also ruled that a county commissioners' court does not have authority to prescribe office hours for a county official holding a constitutionally-created post.

Opinion stated that a county official may close his office on Saturdays without consent of the commissioners court, because no provision in the statutes or constitution requires county offices to be open to the public for any specific time other than for a "reasonable time".

COURTS SPEAK — Texas Supreme Court heard arguments in the Trinity River Authority's suit to force the attorney general to validate its $48,500,000 interim bond issue for land purchase and construction of the Livingston Reservoir.

On Sept. 8 the City of Houston contracted for 70 per cent of the reservoir water, estimated at 1,200,000,000 gallons a day. Money from city payments would finance bonds.

High court refused to change lower court rulings against the City of Carrollton's suit seeking to regulate Southwest State Telephone Company rates covering optional direct-dialing telephone service with Dallas.

EAGLE PASS CASE — J. W. Edgar, state education commissioner, postponed show-down hearings in an explosive Eagle Pass School District controversy until Dec. 7 after listening to two more days of testimony.

Controversy involves the firing of Supt. J. I. James last spring, the hiring of W. T. Poulos of Odessa, and subsequent rehiring of James and the ouster of Poulos following April 4 elections.

Attorneys for a citizens group here sharply questioned James about a variety of school finance, accounting and administrative practices. Poulos' appeal was heard last June 29-30. James apparently will get his turn to tell his side of the story at the third session with Dr. Edgar.

As many as nine attorneys have participated in the hearings.

RECEIVERSHIP SUIT — J. N. Nutt, State Insurance Commissioner, instituted the first receivership of any significant size in recent months when he initiated proceedings against Great American County Mutual Fire Insurance Co. of Lufkin.

Dist. Judge Herman Jones of Austin granted the State's application for temporary receivership. This was followed by resignation of several of the company's officers.

Nutt estimated that about 3,000 policies were active at the time court proceedings began.

STATE BUDGET — Governor Connally says that his state bud-
