TULSA, Okla.—A thoroughly aroused mid-continent oil area stood militantly Thursday against a threatened cut in the price of crude oil.

The threat came from two major companies which have, not yet been named specifically by oil men in interviews for publication but are freely named in conversations outside the record.

Against these two are arrayed the large and small independent oil companies, newspaper and trade journal editors, and other interested parties.

Leaders Speak Openly
Leaders in the area, speaking openly for the first time since rumors began circulating several weeks ago, have come forward in droves to announce their stand against any reduction in price.

In fact, there is in a tangible state of development at this time a strong movement to void a price increase with the support and approval of independent companies so large as to be classed in size and financial power with the major oil companies.

Harry F. Sinclair, chairman of Consolidated Oil Corporation, is prominently in the front rank of independents seeking a stabilized price, and is joined by Continental leader of the upward movement last April; Phillips, Empire, Pure, Skelly, Barnsdall, Mid-Continent and others of the important group.

Aligned with them were Governor Murray of Oklahoma who said he would shut in an entire Seminoe operations of the two companies, if they cut prices, and Kansas and Oklahoma regulatory authorities.

In East Texas, a body of oil men and others met last night to discuss the situation. It was expected to crystallize sentiment against a cut in prices.

So aroused were leaders that further developments were expected throughout the industry, with the local point Texas, scene of greatest disruption due to lack of a stable program of proration.

In an attempt to show that proration has been successful in bringing operators greater returns despite reduced output, the Oil & Gas Journal today published a detailed article showing comparative cash returns to 21 representative companies, operating throughout Texas, for the second quarter of this year and the corresponding period of 1931.

The article quoted the companies' reports to the Texas comptroller, on which is based the state's gross production tax.

In 1931, when East Texas was running wide open and later forced to stiffen in by Governor Sterling, the 21 companies produced from all parts of the state 53,064,558 barrels of oil that brought $23,073,697, an average of 43.5 cents per barrel, the journal says.

The article quoted the companies' reports to the Texas comptroller, on which is based the state's gross production tax.

State Lends Aid In Crude Theft Probe

TYLER (UP)—Assignment of a special assistant attorney general to prosecute oil theft cases in the East Texas field and announcement of Attorney General James V. Alford that his aide, Willis E. Gresham, has full authority to bring suits for injunction and penalties in the name of the state's attorney, added to the scope of work of the anti-theft bureau here.

Members of the anti-theft bureau which became its supervisory agent yesterday expressed gratitude over assignment of Gresham to this territory. They said full cooperation was being maintained with the attorney-general's office.

Alford in announcing the appointment said duties of the attorney-general's office were not to be exercised by the law provided in the duty of investigating alleged violations of conservation laws, but to be exercised upon the railroad commission. That of investigations of criminal cases in a county or district attorney.

Gresham would file suits and represent the state railroad commission as the law provided. Meantime, Homer Pierson, anti-theft bureau chief, continued to reorganize his force.

Sixteen men who have been employed at Henderson under the direction of Luther Swift were transferred to the investigation department yesterday. Pierson was reorganizing his force to deploy one experienced man with each crew of investigators.

Pierson, Swift and F. W. Barr, deputy supervisors for the railroad commission, completed today a series of conferences with enforcement officers in Gregg, Bask and Upshur counties.

continent oil men today watched crude prices as retail gasoline prices dipped.

All companies in Oklahoma City reduced their station prices one cent a gallon. Companies explained the move was a "readjustment" and would have no bearing on crude prices now established at a top of 98 cents and $1 a barrel.

Mid-continent oil men and business leaders, however, assembling at Tyler, Texas, to discuss the price structure in view of rumors that purchasers were reported to be planning a crude slash so they could refill storage with cheap oil, looked with disdain on the gasoline price cut.

There was a general conviction, however, that danger of an immediate price cut had passed. Gov. W. H. Murray moved drastically yesterday to forestall a reduction in the Seminole area where many major companies have extensive holdings.

Today's gasoline price reduction placed prices here for standard grades at 19 cents a gallon and anti-grad at 19 cents. Competitive grades remained at 12 cents although this grade was cut to 10 cents at Tulsa.

Meanwhile, the Oklahoma supreme court had under advisement a plea to void its $5,000 supersedeas bond order under which the Wilcox Oil & Gas company attempted to reopen its ten wells in the city field. Attorneys accused the company of "flagrant abuse" of all curb orders.

Justice E. F. Lester said a ninety-day ruling would be made. The Wilcox order, drafted by Col. Cleo R. Murray, oil field generalissimo, precipitated the "oil war" here.

Vigorous protest against the rumored price cut plan developed as result of publicity given the purported scheme. Colonel Murray said he believed the move originated with the Standard Oil Company of Indiana and the Hubbell Oil Company of Texas.

I have hopes now that the parties behind it may be afraid to place it into effect," Colonel Murray said.

Governor Murray charged that the ones who are to be behind the move to demoralize the market have great holdings in the Seminole field.

If they start that movement, it will be easy enough to shut down the Seminole field and let them lose the fall of the temple from which they pulled the pillars.

Death Takes Paris, Texas, Civic Leaders

J. J. Culbertson, Public Benefactor, Succumbs In San Diego

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UP)—John J. Culbertson, 71, widely known Texas capitalist, civic leader and public benefactor, died here Tuesday night, apparently due to heart failure.

His home was at Paris, Texas. He came to San Diego September 19 on a vacation with his wife. Mr. Culbertson had extensive oil holdings in Oklahoma and large investments in the cotton and oil business in Texas.

John J. Culbertson, capitalist of Paris, Tex., public benefactor, pioneer cotton oil builder in the southwest and charter member of the Federal Reserve Board of the Dallas district, was born at Cincinnati, Ohio, March 16, 1863.

His paternal ancestry came from Ireland and his maternal from France. In 1861 his family moved from Ohio to Staten Island, N. Y. He obtained a district school education in and around New York city.

Later he went to Jersey City, where in 1882 he married Emil Lee of Plainfield, N. J. Three children were born to them.

In 1883, he moved to the south, having made connections with a company at Marion, Ala. He was employed as salesman and soon saw the possibilities of the cotton oil business. A year later, with E. Gaston of Montgomery, Ala., he built the first cotton oil mill at Paris, Tex. There were but eight other plants of the kind in Texas at that time.

Returns To Paris The Paris Oil Works, as it was called, was sold in 1887, and Mr. Culbertson went to Little Rock, Ark., and assumed management of an oil plant. Four years later he returned to Paris and organized the Paris Oil and Cotton company and built the present mill of the Southland Cotton Oil company. Later he constructed similar mills at Corsicana, Temple and Waxahatchie, Tex.; Jackson, Miss.; Shreveport, La., and Wayneswood and Chandler, Okla. Further plants were acquired and the Southland Cotton Oil company was formed with contributions to the amount of $1,000,000. Mr. Culbertson was vice-president of this company.

Swiss Geology Explained By Dr. Emil Ott

SAN ANGELO—The new geological map of Switzerland was interpreted into the structure of the Alps discussed by Dr. Emil Ott, native of Switzerland but for several years a San Angelo consulting geologist, in an address before the West Texas Geological Society here Tuesday night.

The session was held on the roof garden of the St. Anselmus hotel.

Dr. Ott subscribes to the theory of many Swiss geologists that the Alps were formed by the northward drift of the Indo-African continent over Eurasia, beginning in Permian time and coming to a paroxysm in Tertiary time. The Thetis sea was closed and its sediments were pushed first into folds, which were laid over to the north later, and finally were pushed in that direction in the form of tremendous overthrust sheets (Deckens). In the last part of the Indo-African continental shelf underpushed the Alpine chains, causing extensive backfolding and underthrusting in the diastrophic zone in the backland of the Alps. It is indicated that the Indo-African continent before it began drifting northward extended much farther south than now.

Dr. Ott said the Alps are six feet in dimensions, a Tectogram, which in a generalized form produces a plastic picture of the complicated structure of the Alps; a tectonogram map and three maps with cross sections showing Europe from the Mediterranean sea to Vienna. Graduated from the University of Bern in 1922, Dr. Ott was a member of the staff of the Swiss Geological Society during the summer of 1921-22-23.

In the absence of A. L. Ackers, society president, Dr. H. P. Bybee presided. Dr. Ackers was instructed to appoint a committee to recommend to the United States Geological Survey certain changes relating to West Texas in the geological map of the state recently prepared by the U. S. G. S. It was suggested that the society take up with the American Paleontological Society the matter of publishing the Paleontological supplement by William Penn of Austin to the report on the Sacramento mountains of New Mexico which Dr. J. W. Beede prepared about two years ago.

Miss Minette Ries, secretary of the West Texas Geological Society, will convene the meeting, a for contributions to the memorial fund for the late Dr. John A. Udden, for many years director of the Bureau of Economic Geology of the University of Texas.

Civic Music Plan, Designed To Bring Three Or More Great Artists To City, Accepted At Tuesday Night Meeting

In an effort to stimulate love of good music, Big Spring and surrounding cities will attempt to bring at least three artists here during the 1933 season.

Monday evening a group of citizens accepted the offer of the Civic Music Service of Chicago to function under the civic music plan to bring high class entertainment to this section.

Mrs. Buel Cordwell was named secretary of the newly formed organization.

The Chicago Civic Music Service plan was described by Herbert W. Cost, Texas representative, as "putting the cart before the horse." His plan, he said was opposed to posting guarantees and paying deficits.

Under the civic music idea the money must be first obtained, then the artist engaged commensurate with means.

Mr. Cost told listeners that the equivalent of 350 adult memberships must be raised before the plan will be feasible. One week to be allowed for securing the number from this and surrounding cities. No one will be admitted to performances who does not hold a season membership in the club.

Membership in the Civic Music Club is $5 for one year. Cards are transferred.

A. C. Williamson of Sweetwater and Rev. Winston Borum of Midland represented their cities in the meeting and pledged active support to the plan.

A drive for membership will be inaugurated with a dinner, probably the second week in November, it was decided.

Civic Music Clubs, eleven years in existence, are now firmly entrenched in 257 cities. The smallest city is Helena, Ark., possessing a population of less than 10,000. Eight cities in Texas are functioning, under the plan, according to Mr. Cost.

Rainfall Halts Farm Activity In Large Area

Quality Cotton Materially Damaged; September Rainfall 10.39

RANGES WATERED

Pastures Are Said To Be In Best Shape For Many Years

Slow steady rains falling through Thursday night and Friday morning added another inch and a half of moisture to an already seasoned soil. Precipitation in two days here amounted to more than five and a half inches. Septembers total ran 10.39 inches.

Feed crops in this section were hard hit as a drizzling rain was to water against open fields and shocked stalks.

Cotton farmers watched open bolls absorb the moisture. Quality of the cotton was materially damaged. Picking will now be delayed another week or ten days.

Ranges were given another good watering and later the tanks were replenished to capacity. Pastures are in the best shape in years and with the rain of the past two days will need no more moisture until spring.

Heavy downpours were registered at Brown, Sterling, City, Egan, Sweetwater and Abilene. Little rain fell to the west but general rains fell towards the east and north. Hamlin reported heavy precipitation but rains were much lighter further north.

Roads north and south were made impassable by the near cloud burst of Wednesday and the slow drizzle of Thursday and Friday. Highways traffic to San Antonio was being routed via Fort Worth from here Friday.

Big Spring public schools maintained an increase in enrollment over last year at the close of the second week Friday. Superintendent W. C. Blankenship announced 2,211 pupils in local schools Friday as compared to 2,168 at the end of two weeks in 1931.

Mexican ward still registered the largest additional number with 213 this year as compared to 92 last year. High school also recorded an increase with 544 this year against 520 in 1931. West Ward was the only other unit showing more enrollment. It has 371 compared to 354 last year.

Enrollment by schools follows: East Ward, 210; West Ward, 110; South Ward, 268; West Ward, 371; Mexican Ward, 213; Junior High, 457; Senior High, 544; and Negro school, 34.

Union Heads Ask Hoover's Aid In Fight

Delegate Calls At White House And Hand Presidential Statement

WASHINGTON (UP)—A group of railway union labor leaders Thursday urged President Hoover to support them in their fight against further proposed wage reductions.

The delegation called at the White House and handed the president a lengthy statement of their case. They declared that the depression appeared to have broken and that they could not accede to railway owners demands for a conference on "further reduction of wages."

The labor executives in their surprise call on the chief executive declared that "our government cannot be indifferent to the menace" of further reductions. They suggested that such a move would affect "not only railway employees," but that eventually it would strike "every one interested in promoting a revival of business."

"We will make every effort to reduce wages, thereby further reducing purchasing power will be lost," the executives said.

After setting forth a length their contention that the railways were receiving "the same revenues or even increased revenues" for the services they rendered, the labor leaders appealed to the president to aid them by refusing to lend the railways money if they cut wages.

Advisory Committee Appointed For Texas Democratic Campaign

AUSTIN—R. Ewing Thomson, Richard F. Burgess of El Paso, Texas, and Mrs. W. W. Turney of El Paso, Texas will be members of the State Advisory Committee from the 16th congressional district for the Texas Democratic campaign.

This committee has 54 members. It will act in an advisory capacity to Texas Democratic Headquarters and will co-operate extensively with the executive committees that are in charge of the Democratic campaign in the various congressional districts. It was announced Thursday by Roy Miller and Senator Margie Neal, directing the Democratic National campaign in Texas.

The advisory committee is made up of three members from each of the 18 districts. One of these three is the district's representative in Congress.

In a statement issued in connection with the announcement, Mr. Miller and Senator Neal said they were pleased to be able to announce the acceptance of Mr. Thomson, Mr. Burgess and Mrs. Turney. They will be of great assistance to Senator Neal and myself, in coordinating the activities of our party in Texas. They will also lend their assistance to the executive committee headed by Mrs. Robert L. Holliday, in charge of the campaign in the 6th district.

building up an aggressive statewide organization that will insure a decisive Democratic victory in November, Mr. Miller said.

We are receiving such favorable comment on our plan, which places the responsibility for each congressional district on a committee made up of active Democrats who live within the district. They in turn are organizing the counties by precinct, with county chairmen responsible to them for bringing out the vote. The Texas Finance committee, headed by Frank Scofield, is making plans, Mr. Miller said, to use this set-up for distributing the Roosevelt Garner medallions, the sale of which is being largely depended on to raise the Texas quota for the National campaign. Solicitation of funds from larger contribution will be handled through the district committees. Upon completion of the organizations there will be fifty thousand democrats actively at work for the ticket, Mr. Miller, concluded.

STUDENTS

When schools open in all parts of the land this September we will find that in all of them there are three types of students. These may be called the fast starting kind, the steady type, and the slow starting.

The fast starting type are the ones who study the first few weeks of school and make good grades, then to the surprise of the teachers, they suddenly are uninterested. Then they coast along the rest of the year on their grades of the first few weeks. Sometimes they get by, but most of the time they fail in their lazy attempts.

The steady pupils are those who study a moderate amount, in the way they study either good or bad.

The last type is a very numerous one. These are the ones who study all the ones who make good grades and never take time to study during the daily routine, but when time comes for the final tests, they cram their heads with all they can by reading others' notebooks or possibly reading up and managing to barely get by.

We may classify ourselves as to which of these types we belong. We may also form our own conclusions as to which of the three we would like to belong. As we all know the results of each, we know it would be best to study hard to decide the correct answer.

HIGH SCHOOL GAMES WILL BE TAX FREE, SAYS U. S. OFFICIAL

High school football admissions will go tax free this fall, Principal George Gentry has announced.

George C. Hopkins, collector of internal revenue at Dallas, has written that emergency tax provisions passed by congress do not affect games, proceeds of which go to the school.

Tickets for district games here will cost fifty cents for adults and twenty-five cents for students. On holidays district game costs amount slightly to seventy-five cents. Gentry indicated minor reductions would be made for non-district clashes.

ODESSA BOORS SKIRMISH WITH LAMESA TORNADOES

ODESSA—The Odessa high Broncos have started their game for their coming season. On Oct. 13 the Broncos will travel to Lamesa.

Cough Swain has an excellent record this year and from all indications they should capture the district honor. The Broncos are using the Notre Dame shirt especially complicated for a high school team. Material for tackle is just a little scarce. Linebackers are plentiful, likewise guards. The backfield has sufficient driving power and speed.

Rep. Thomason Writes To Legion Commander

C. I. Bryant, post commander of the American Legion here, has received a letter from Congressman R. E. Thomason. Ending the letter Congressman Thomason said he appreciated the honor of being asked to speak at the dedication of the frame of the local auditorium and "hope the people of your town realize how deeply indebted to him I feel."

Campus Chatter

By DOROTHY DUBLIN
Professor Whitehead says it is time to start a little less around the campus as here goes.

What's this we hear about R. V. J. being the silent lover of H. H. Mac Pickle? Not so silent, but for all that love grand!

Woodrow Armstrong was elected president of the junior class by a large majority. Dorothy Dublin was elected secretary.

Edward Davis, treasurer. Miss Nell Brown and Mr. Belslow were nominated as sponsors of the class.

Talk Of The Town

Friday of this week the Steers will be trotting out on the field at Lamesa for their first game of the season.

The Steers beat Lamesa 13-0 last year. This year they are going out there with plenty of pep and the old fighting spirit to beat them again.

When they line up for the kick-off, Schwarzenbach will be the man to call the signals. Co-Captain Richbourg will probably play full back. Townsend and Robble will be at halfback in the line. Vines and Co-Captain Coots will hold down the ends while Sanders and Armstrong of Roberts will take care of the tackle positions. Fred Martin and Clifton Smith will be at guard positions while Bob Flowers and Elmer Dyer are still fighting center position. The Lamesa ace, Leo Hare and Weldon Woods will probably see service in the game in the backfield.

Rick Kobers, the reserve guard last year, is showing his ability at punting, passing and running. Fred Townsend, the Devils ace last year, will also probably pass and show his stuff in running.

"Swazie" Schwarzenbach, last year's quarterback and ace in running with the ball, is improved since last year and will lead the team against the district this year. Co-Captain Richbourg, who is taking Harris' place at full is showing the people how to deliver the ball and along with Swazie is the only experienced man in the backfield.

Monday afternoon Coach Britton took his entire squad to the stadium and gave them a hard workout with a scrimmage afterwards. He shifted the men around and all showed that "good ole fighting spirit. Kobers and Morgan showed nice play in punting the pigskin and had nice placement. To show the old fighting spirit was going, Swazie returned a punt for a touchdown. Townsend went around end for a pretty gain and Richbourg went through the line for a nice gain when he pulled a fake runner. All of the men showed up well on defense and offense.

X Marks The Spot

Hear ye! Hear ye! All of you careless students! If you don't wish your name in notorious print and exposed to the general public, stop up all keyholes, beware of tapping in the halls and tear up all notes. There is a Walter Whiting in the school. As he only arrived a few days ago he has only a bit of gossip this week but BEWARE!

Who is it in school that has such a secret crush on Eva Mae O'Neal? He is continuing to stare at her left eye and as it seems Eva is giving him the "cold shoulder." Faint heart never won fair play.

The Beau Brummel of the school when they discussed eligibility.

Sport Gossip

By ALBERT FISHER, Jr.
With no men on the ineligible list, the Steers are facing a season that seems to be particularly favorable. Although one has yet seen the results of a game, it is anything like that.

The Conference Committee did not give out any real names when they discussed eligibility.
