Firing Federal Employees—Next to Impossible

 ${\bf EDITOR'S\ NOTE-ls\ firing\ a\ federal\ employee}$ really an impossible dream? The truth is that sacking a loafer or in competent from the federal service can be tough, as shown in this second part of a five-part series.

> By BROOKS JACKSON Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Firing a federal worker, even when there is strong evidence of goldbricking, can be at times an impossible task. And at times the public suffers directly. Witness the case of the unfilled book orders.

The Government Printing Office, swamped with complaints from citizens who ordered publications that never arrived, discovered that some of its employees were simply throwing orders away rather than filling them.

The evidence was there in the trash cans. The question was, which employees were responsible? Investigators struck on the idea of preparing stacks of secretly marked orders which would be given to designated employees. The marks, looking like ordinary pencil notations, were coded in a way that each order blank would be linked to a particular employee. Sure enough, 33 of the marked order blanks showed up in the trash. The markings indicated they all had been given to a single employee, whom we shall call James, although that is not his

James was suspended and fired, as were several others caught in similar circumstances. Order blanks stopped turning up in the trash and the problem appeared to be solved.

But James exercised his right as a federal employee to appeal his dismissal. There were two days of hearings at the GPO, which sustained the firing. James appealed to the Civil Service Commission field office in Washington, which also upheld the firing. By now nearly a year had gone

James appealed again, this time to the Commission's Appeals Review Board. He contended in effect that the evidence against him was only circumstantial since nobody testified that they actually saw him throwing away the orders. This time James won. The board ordered that he be reinstated at his old job and paid for the 18 months since he was sacked.

The board found that the GPO had enough evidence to suspend James for the first 30 days but said there was no conclusive proof that the marked orders had actually reached him. The original packet of 131 marked orders had passed through the hands of three superiors, being counted only once, before he got any of them.

James was reinstated. The GPO now has television monitors to aid in watching over employees and officials say it is unlikely there will be any repeat of the mass discarding of orders from the public. But they also say they solved the problem in spite of, and not with any help from the federal personnel system.

The system forced them, in their attempt to ensure that citizens would get the publications they had paid for, into something approaching a full-dress criminal trial with lawyers, live testimony, written briefs and motions and multiple levels of appeal.

In agency after agency, federal executives say it has become more and more difficult to fire a federal employee for anything but the most flagrant and outrageous behavior.

In the most recent 12-month period for which (See BUREAUCRACY, Page 2)

Farm Price Index Jumps 2 Percent During December

WASHINGTON (AP) - The government's index of farm prices rose 2 percent last month, including grains for cattle, hogs, broilers and some vegetables compared with December, but higher costs left farmers even further from their goal of 100 percent of parity.

Preliminary figures for January showed farm prices overall were up 1 percent from a year ago, the Agriculture Department said Tuesday.

Lower prices for eggs, milk, grapefruit and soybeans partially offset the increases for other commodities, the department's Crop Reporting Board said.

Meanwhile, prices that farmers pay out to meet expenses also went up 2 percent from December and averaged 5 percent higher than a year ago.

This caused the farm parity ratio to drop one point from December, to 65 percent in January. Theoretically, at 100 percent the indicator would give farmers the same purchasing power their predecessors had in 1910-14.

The American Agriculture movement wants farmers to curb production until the government guarantees prices at 100 percent of parity. The parity price of wheat in January was $5 a bushel.

compared with the $2.54 wheat producers actually averaged on cash markets. For farm commodities overall, the department's preliminary January price index averaged 185 percent of a 1967 base, compared with 181 percent in December and 183 a year ago.

Cattle averaged $37.20 per 100 pounds of live weight against $35.70 in December

Hogs brought farmers $43.90 per 100 pounds against $41.50 in December and $38 a year ago.

Corn prices at the farm held steady during the month at $1.96 a bushel, compared with $2.34 in January of last Atherton also talked with Egyptian Foreign Minister Mohamed Ibrahim Kamel and Vice President Hosny Mubarak. After the meeting one Egyptian source said that "at this stage, and after seeing the written ideas from Israel brought by Atherton we can still way the gap is quite wide.

"There is a lack of logic on some points. While Israel agrees to the non-acquisition of land by force as in U.N. Resolution 242 and thus admits that withdrawal from Arab territories from primary issue they still insist on keeping the settlements and their air bases," the Atherton said Kamel "gave me some of the Egyptian government's ideas on the draft declaration and we will be reflecting on this to see where we go from delcaration of principles to guide an overall peace agreement. Sadat has said he does not expect to announce agreement on a declaration after meeting

"It is vital we make some progress when Sadat goes to Washington," one Egyptian diplomat said. "I don't know what will happen if we don't." Egypt has insisted the Israeli dismantle

Slick City Streets Cause 11 Wrecks

Hereford police Tuesday investigated 11 traffic accidents reportedly caused by ice-slick city streets.

Reports on four of the accidents. including two hit-and-runs at the high school, were not completed by morning due to the large number of wrecks.

Minor accidents were at 7:20 a.m. in the 300 block of Witherspoon, at 7:59 a.m. at 15th and Highway 385, at 8:26 a.m. at Beech and W. Park, at 10:30 a.m. at Schley and U.S. 60, at 12:52 p.m. at Bowie and Major, at 1:11 p.m. at Fourth and U.S. 60 and at 2:03 p.m. at Fourth

The 11 wrecks prompted Hereford patrolman Joe Brown to discuss safe driving procedures on slick streets.

Putting the vehicle into neutral prior to stopping is a safer way to approach a stop sign or red light, according to Brown.

"I feel that my working with the public for many years and my work experience qualifies me to do a good job in executing the duties of justice of the peace in a fair and impartial manner, while at the same time working in complete harmony with the city, county, state and school officials that will at one time or another do business with the JP court," Abalos said in a prepared statement.

"I will be retiring from public school education at the end of this school year. My wife, my brother and myself are in the restaurant business here and wish to remain in the area

"Our roots are here and we find Hereford has many fine attributes condusive to making a living."

Abalos will have served 22 years in public school education at the end of the present school year. He taught in Presidio County schools for two years and in Marfa public schools for four years before coming to Hereford. Since 1962, Abalos was an elementary

Abound in Will Trial

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) - All involved in the trial to determine whether Howard Hughes wrote the so-called Mormon Will are cautiously awaiting for the next "missing link" witness to come forth in a "surprise" gesture.

The trial itself pits Hughes' relatives. who claim the Mormon Will is a forgery. against former Hughes advisor. Noah Dietrich named in the will to serve as executor of the vast estate

As the news accounts of the Mormon Will have traveled across the country, a number of "kooks" have called in and appeared personally, offering their services as jurors, sons and daughters of the late recluse and key witnesses.

A year ago, the mystery man was un undercover courier who allegedly delivered the crudely written, three-page document to Melvin Dummar, a former service station operator from Utah.

Dummar, named as a beneficiary by the purported will, claims to have met and aided Hughes in the desert north of here in December 1967

Shortly after Dummar told his story in a widely-reported court hearing here last January, Levane Forsythe, a contractor from Anchorage, Alaska, surfaced. Attorneys for Hughes relatives contend that Forsythe is a publicity-hungry person who read news accounts of Dummar's testimony and decided to inject himself into the national spotlight.

Five years after Richard M. Nixon ended the draft, it costs more than four times what it did to draft men for the armed services in the mid-1970s

Recruiters are pending $500 million annually to keep the armed forces up to the 2.1 million level mandated by Congress. That came to $1,200 for each of the 411,000 enlistees last year, the Pentagon says, including a system of bonuses to encourage volunteers and salaries for the recruiters.

By contrast, at the height of the Vietnam war in 1966, the Selective Service System spent less than $10 million to induct 382,010, less than $300 per person.

And recruits will continue to cost more "The cost will go up," Pentagon spokesman John Becker said in a telephone interview. "There isn't anything you can do about it."

In 1974, the first year in which no one was drafted into the army, the number of males turning 18 was 2.1 million, a level Defense Department planners don't expect to reach again until nearly 1990.

Pornography Law Deemed Unconstitutional

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Federal District Judge Jack Roberts says the child pornography law rushed through the 1977 Legislature is unconstitutional because it did not say such films and photographs must be "obscene.

Roberts held the portion of the Texas Penal Code was "unconstitutionally overbroad" and granted a summary judgment to Jay Battershell, an Amarillo motion picture theater and book store owner, against further prosecution.

However, Roberts said his ruling will not keep state courts from placing their own construction on the questioned

"A federal court's declaratory judgement of unconstitutionality does not have the disruptive effect on state regulation that would be created against enforcement of the statute; in fact, the declaratory relief granted in this case cannot directly affect or interfer with the state's enforcement of the statute except will respect to Jay Battershell," Roberts' opinion said

The managers say they are hobbled not only by basic civil service procedures but also by union grievance procedures and by new anti-discrimination rules which give employees a choice of several different ways to appeal the same action.

Employees can appeal firings, demotions, denial of pay raises or other "adverse actions." An appellant gets what amounts to a miniature court trial. If he loses there, he can appeal to the Appeals Review Board. If he still doesn't like the outcome he can go to the three Civil Service commissioners. Finally, he may sue in federal Managers complain that these technical reversals are so unpredictable that the process amounts to a game of bureaucratic roulette.

Federal unions don't like the process either, saying it takes too long and tends to give the benefit of the doubt to managers because the appeals are decided by officials on the federal payroll. "It's like a family fight with your mother-in-law; you know how it's going to come out," says Kenneth Blaylock, head of the biggest federal union.

In one case the Postal Service dismissed a $14,000-a-year employee after he shot a co-worker in the stomach in front of a post office. But the man, who was jailed for the crime, appealed his firing and won re-instatement on grounds that his bosses filled out the paperwork wrong. They signed the dismissal letter jointly. One boss should have proposed the firing and another should have children. His wife is the former Pilar The 2 percent overall farm price approved it, the appeals judge ruled. The Postal Service was forced to give the gunman about $5,000 in back pay for the time he had been out of work pending the appeal. Then they fired him all over again, this time getting the paperwork straight.

Cases often drag on for years. The Internal Revenue Service fired two cierical workers after they repeatedly failed to file their own income tax returns on time. The two women appealed, arguing that they had relied on their husbands to file the returns and were mostly due to get refunds anyway. The case took nearly four years to settle.

The women at first won appeals but after IRS Commissioner Donald Alexander said this would hurt public confidence in the IRS, the full Civil Service Commission reopened the case and upheld the firings. The women, represented by their union, sued and finally won in the U.S. Court of Claims, which ordered the women reinstated.

The delays soak up time of managers and work a hardship on the employees who eventually win reinstatement. One of the fired IRS employees, the sole support of her children, subsisted on welfare and food stamps during the four-year appeals fight because none of the 82 prospective employers she contacted would hire someone fired by the IRS, according to her attorney.

Managers say their jobs are made even more difficult because of the ease with which their subordinates can accuse them of discrimination on grounds of race, sex, age, religion or nationality. 'Unless you are a white, Anglo-Saxon male under 40 you probably have some excuse to bring a complaint," said one manager, who asked not to be named. Once accused of discrimination, managers cannot be present to assist in their own defense during the hearing, except to give their own testimony. They may not get legal advice from government lawyers, but must hire their own. If

Ann Landers Hunter's Law

DEAR ANN: My husband has a good job but he loves to hunt, fish and trap. He gets up at five o'clock in the morning to check his traps and goes off to hunt wild game.

Bob comes home at noon and says he hasn't got time to clean his birds. Well, that's my problem. I hate the job and have told him so. I'm not against hunting because I think every man should have a sport that he

What I want to know is whose job it is - his or mine? I work hard keeping up with a big house and six children. -

Watertown, S.D. P.S. Please answer in the paper, because if he knew I wrote to you he wouldn't talk to me for another two weeks. I'm sure many other wives have the same problem.

DEAR WIFE: Every firstclass sportsman honors the law of the hunting world: "Clean your own game." And this goes for fish, too.

Tack this column onto his hunting cap tonight, Toots, and lotsa luck.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I had an experience recently with my 16-year-old that is worth sharing. We were shopping and she selected a skirt and vest priced at $15.95. We found a blouse that matched for 19.95. She put the three pieces together and said, "I'll bet we can get the three pieces for $15.95." I said nothing. Sure enough, the woman rang up merchandise.

I stopped her and said, "You made a mistake. The blouse was extra." The woman was very grateful and thanked me. When we got outside my daughter said, "That was dumb of you." I did not respond.

As soon as we got home she went to the phone and called her best friend to say how neat it was - what her Mom had done. Then she came into the kitchen and thanked me and said, "I'll never try anything crooked again. I would not have enjoyed wearing that stolen blouse.'

So, if any of you parents out there wonder what goes on inside your kids' heads, take my word for it. They are looking to you for an example of decent behavior and when they don't get it they're let down. -

DEAR MOM: No truer words were ever spoken. All the sermonizing in the world doesn't mean a thing. It's how you conduct yourself in the crunch that counts. Your daughter will never forget that incident.I'll bet she will tell it to HER daughter.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was nuts about Frank and he treated me special. My first date with him was in July. Everything was great until last week. He said I was too bossy, too possessive, too domineering and he wanted to spend more time with the guys. (We are both 17).

I've been crying almost every night. I need your advice. -Goodbye Dolly

DEAR DOLLY: Apparently voltage for the next fella. The only girl who looks good carrying a torch is the Statue of Liberty - so smile if it kills you

Miffed Schools May Sue NCAA

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON

AP Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP) - A group of st 60 institutions is at odds with the National Collegiate Athletic Association over the new television plan and a possible lawsuit against the NCAA is being considered. The Associated Press learned Tues-

"I think Chairman Moss" mmittee needs to know about this," a spokesman for one of the schools, who asked to remain anonymous, told the AP. He was referring to the House Oversight and Investigations Subcommittee, headed by Rep.John E. Moss, D-Calif., which has been looking into the policies and procedures of the

The schools include members of the Mid-American, Missouri Valley, Pacific Coast Athletic Association, Southern and Southland conferences and 19

According to the AP's source, those five conferences, along with the independents in question, are being forced into the NCAA's newly formed Division I-AA if they want a share of television money which they claim was guaranteed them when the new TV pact was approved last spring.

At its mid-January convention in Atlanta, the NCAA's major division was split into Divisions I-A and I-AA. Division I-A will include the nation's big-time football powers but, thanks to late amendment, the five conferences previously mentioned plus the independents in question can also qualify for what originally was to have been the long-awaited so-called 'super division."

The spokesman claims the latter group of schools was specifically guaranteed 16 TV appearances over each two-year period of the new four-year contract with ABC-TV. But, he said, "The NCAA has informed us they have taken those guarantees away and put them n Division I-AA.

The spokesman admitted that clause in the TV contract gives the NCAA's Television Committee the authority to make changes in the new plan with the approval of the policymaking NCAA Council.

But, he added: "A letter we received the other day from the NCAA was the first any of us knew about the change in the guaranteed appearances. It was camouflaged and covered up from the outset. Right now legal counsel is involved and a lawsuit is being looked at."

Although NCAA Executive Director Walter Byers told a post-convention news conference that the schools in question had been "specifically ear-marked" for 16 TV appearances in each two-year period of the new pact, he added that the split into Divisions I-A and I-AA "changes that."

Under the new plan, most Division I-A games will be selected on merit, although the institutional limit of five TV appearances in two years still prevails. However, Division I-AA is guaranteed those 16 appearances every two years.

But most of the schools in question will probably declare for Division I-A. And ABC will almost certainly prefer to show the more prestigious football conferences as often as

Meanwhile, Blue remained unreachable, but in Oakland, his financial advisor. Chris Daniels, said the 28-year-old left-hander would play for the A's if he has to. "If Bowie Kuhn says he'll play in Oakland, that's what he'll do," Daniels said. "He just wants to play ball. I just hate to see him getting tossed back and forth like this."

On Monday, Kuhn canceled the trade of Blue to the Reds for minor league first baseman Dave Revering and $1.75 million in cash. Two years ago, the commissioner rebuffed Oakland owner Charles O. Finley's attempts to sell Blue to the Yankees for $1.5 million and outfielder Joe Rudi and relief ace Rollie Fingers to the Boston Red Sox for $1 million apiece.

Finley subsequently sued for $3.5 million. His suit was overturned in the courts but an appeal is due to be heard later this month.

In calling for Kuhn's ouster. Kroc said he was the only owner to vote against renewing the commissioner's contract last year.

"I told one of the owners that unless we buy up Kuhn's contract, we're doomed," Kroc said. "I don't want a lawyer in that job. We should have a good businessman who knows what life is all about."

Kroc pointed out that Finley eventually lost Rudi and Fingers when they played out their options, receiving nothing is coach the Buffalo Bills.

Allen coached the Rams from 1966 to 1970. His Los Angeles teams compiled a 49-17-4 record and earned playoff berths in 1967 and 1969. The first playoff appearance was the Rams' first title in a dozen years.

He was fired by the late Don Reeves after the 1969 season, but was reinstated when players and fans objected to his dismissal. The next year, Allen was fired again and became coach and general manager of the Washington Reskins.

At the start of the hunt for a successor to Knox, Rosenbloom had expressed great interest in Allen, but stressed that his job would be strictly as coach.

Allen was fired by the Redskins a week after Knox left the Rams. He led Washington to five playoff appearances in his seven seasons there and one Super Bowl, the 1973 affair, which the Redskins lost to Miami 14-7.

His overall record in 12 years as an NFL head coach is 116-47-5. No Allen-coached pro team has had a losing record.

Nine players ripped the nets

The Whitefaces trailed by as much as 20 points in the final quarter (74-54), but went on a binge to outscore the visitors 11-4 over the next two minutes. Kitchens led the charge with seven of those 11 points, while David Arney and Jackie Mercer, who finished with eight and 10 points respectively on the night, added a bucket each.

Arney collected his third personal with 2:21 left. The Whitefaces narrowed the gap to six points as the half ended, however, with a 9-4 advantage. The Wildcats outscored the Faces 24-12 in the third quarter to seemingly put the game out of reach. Sophomore Brooks Jennings, who finished the night with 20 points to lead the Clovis cause, scored five points in the stanza, while sub Lynn Culberth came off the bench to add six points to the Wildcats, total.

Schumacher, who finished with 20 points in the game for the Herd, hit eight consecutive points for the hosts in the period before Kitchens and Arney finally helped out with a bucket

Tony Hodges' short jumper gave the 'Cats a 74-54 lead as the final period began, and the stage was set for the Hereford

On the night Clovis outshot the Herd from the field with a 53 percent effort (38-72) to 46 percent (33-71) by the 'Faces. Both teams shot 72 percent from the free throw line with the Wildcats canning 13 of 18 and the Herd hitting 18 of 25.

Clovis also held a slim 40-38 edge in rebounds. Schumacher led the Herd effort on the boards with nine rebounds, six defensively. Graves added eight caroms to the total, while Mercer got seven, Arney six, and Kitchens five.

The win upped Clovis' record to 18-2 while Hereford fell to 15-12 with the loss. The Whitefaces begin the second half of District 4-4A play at home Friday night against Coronado.

Clovis also won both the sophomore and junior varsity games Tuesday night. The 'Cats won the soph encounter 63-32 and took the JV match by a 92-73 count. Frank Maes and Bill Kirk led the HHS sophs in their loss with eight points each, while Keith Adams and Ernie Suarez added six apiece. Joe Walker's 19 points led the Herd JV, while Steve Cerda added 16 and David Mays scored 12.

Harvard Professor Prompts Case Questions

BY MARC CHARNEY Associated Press Writer CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) Documents made public Tuesday opened a new mystery in Sacco-Vanzetti case - was Harvard University president who helped seal the fates of the two Italian-born anarchists writing his conclusions before the full defense was heard?

Harvard provided new documents on the case when it opened the private papers of its former president Abbott Lawrence Lowell concerning the case. Lowell headed a governor's advisory commission that recommended that the 1927 executions of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti take place.

Even the first draft of the commission's report contains the damning words: "....The committee is of opinion beyond reasonable doubt that Sacco was guilty of the murder at South Braintree." The draft also states, "On the whole, the committee members were of opinion, beyond reasonable doubt, that · Vanzetti also was guilty, though with less assurance than in the case of was dropped from the final report and that is sure to fuel more controversy among those still defending the two admitted anarchists executed for a murder committed during a payroll robbery.

The qualification "on the whole" did make it into the final report and has been a source of frequent criticism of Lowell's ission because it seems to conflict with the idea "beyond reasonable doubt."

The papers also show that two early drafts of the commission report which sealed Sacco and Vanzetti's fate are dated before the commission's investigation was complete.

A first draft is dated July 20, 1927. So is a second draft, but in that case the date is crossed but and July 27 is substituted. July 27, 1927 is the date the report was submitted to the governor.

TMA Stresses Patient Costs

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)-The Texas Medical Association wants medical schools to teach students more than how to treat patients-it wants them to teach how much treatment costs.

This is one of the TMA's recent proposals to hold down health care costs. It says that is its top priority in 1978.

'The medical profession in Texas has the responsibility to face this issue squarely and to develop our own effective cost control programs," said Dr. John Smith Jr. of San Antonio. TMA president.

As part of the program, the TMA said in a statement, physicians will be asked to eliminate unnecessary procedures or substitute less expensive

Also, the TMA said, health insurance companies will be encouraged to use deductibles to protect against "over-utilization of benefits. These companies will be asked to provide coverage for diagnostic tests and services on an outpatient basis rather than only as part of in-hospital care."

It would save office expenses, the TMA said, if patients paid for office visits at the time of service and submitted their own insurance claims. In 1975, the TMA said, medical practice expenses accounted for 43 percent of physicians' beforetax income.

"Following sound health practices, such as proper diet and exercise, not smoking, and not drinking in excess, for example, could prevent up to one half of most people's health problems," Smith said.

Labor Department Suing Teamsters

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Labor Department is suing Teamsters President Frank E. Fitzsimmons and 15 other former trustees of a scandalscarred union pension fund to recover millions of dollars in allegedly illegal loans, government sources say.

Labor Secretary Ray Marshall called a midmorning news conference to announce the suit, due to be filed today in U.S. District Court in Chicago.

The ex-trustees of the Teamsters' Chicago-based $1.4 pillion Central States Pension Fund allegedly made loans that were improper or illegal under the 1974 federal pension reform

"We really don't know the true extent of the losses and probably will never know, but it involved tens of millions in. loans." said one Labor Department source.

The defendants, in addition to Fitzsimmons, include William Presser of Cleveland and his son, Jackie, 51, who is among those frequently mentioned to succeed the 69-year-old Fitzsimmons as head of the nation's biggest union.

The others include trucking industry executives and union officials, all of whom had served as Central States trustees before resigning in 1976 and 1977 under the pressure of threatened government action against

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) -State District Court Judge Peter Michael Curry has set Feb. 17 for the formal sentencing of a Bexar County Jail inmate convicted of slaying another prisoner.

A 166th District Court jury on Tuesday assessed Eddie River. 25, a 50-year sentence after convicting him of murder in the strangulation death Sept. 17, 1977, of Hugo Saenz.

Four other inmates at the jail testified as witnesses and identified Rivera as one of five inmates involved in the slaying.

Rivera testified he was asleep at the time of the killing and knew nothing about it.

Despite modern medical advances, nearly 20 million American children are still vulnerable to such diseases as measles, polio and whooping cough because they have not been immunized. According to the American Academy of Pediatrics, by the time a child reaches school age he or she should have received five DTP (diptheria-tetanus-
