Fifth storm in 8 days pounding western states

By MARTIN STEINBERG
Associated Press Writer

The fifth powerful Pacific storm in an eight-day barrage that has left at least 10 people dead pounded the West today as more than 10,000 people remained out of homes invaded by floodwaters, landslides and avalanches.

People in western Nevada along the Truckee and Carson rivers and across much of northern and central California, where sporadic looting was reported Tuesday, were told to brace for possible flash floods today. Up to a foot of new snow was expected by this afternoon in the Sierra Nevadas and in Idaho, Montana and Wyoming.

States of emergency have been declared in parts of Utah, Nevada and California. The National Guard was mobilized in Nevada and California to help in evacuations and sandbagging, and the Navy assisted in the rescue of evacuees stranded in a Guerneville, Calif., church.

At least 10 people were killed and four missing since the waves of Pacific storms began pummeling the region Feb. 11.

After a brief respite, the latest storm struck Tuesday night and northern California again was hit hardest.

"We're getting some pretty good downpours out of it, (but) it doesn't compare with Friday's, which was the worst of the bunch," said Bob Diaz of the National Weather Service in Redwood City, Calif.

The break earlier Tuesday enabled rivers that had reached their highest levels in 31 years to recede slightly, but forecasters said showers were likely with locally heavy downpours into the weekend.

"Thursday, we'll have a pretty good lull from what we've had in the past week, but Friday we'll get more. It could very well end

Marcos to use powers to limit

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — President Ferdinand E. Marcos said today he plans to use his powers "to the limit" to prevent disturbances in a civil disobedience campaign his opponents called in an effort to force him from office.

A statement from the presidential palace said Marcos issued the warning at a caucus of the ruling New Society Movement, which started late Tuesday and ended early today.

Marcos said he has "certain powers to dismantle the machineries of civil disobedience" and that "I will exercise to the limit the provisions of the law and the constitution to prevent turmoil."

Corazon Aquino has called for a boycott of companies controlled by Marcos' relatives and associates to protest his proclamation as the election winner. In addition to the boycott, Mrs. Aquino has called for a general strike and a school boycott on the first working day after Marcos' scheduled inauguration on Feb. 25.

Plane crash lands in field

Larry Jones of Whiteface Aviation apparently had engine trouble, calling for the crash landing of his plane late Wednesday morning near Hereford Feedyard.

Jones, the only person in the plane, was not injured. The emergency landing caused some minor damage to the aircraft, according to a spokesman of the Hereford Fire Department.

Candidates must present to the hospital administration a proof of 10 registered voters in order to be placed on the ballot.

Deputies investigate burglaries

County deputies are investigating a burglary of a building where a saw, a cutting torch head and gauges were stolen.

Deputies also heard reports of a domestic problem, a fight and a lost or stolen purse.

White, workers dispute layoffs

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Mark White says his call for a 13 percent cut in state agency spending won't require layoffs of state workers, but an employees' group disagrees.

White on Tuesday issued an executive order calling on state agencies and universities to help make up the projected $1.3 billion budget shortfall faced over the next 18 months.

"There is no way you can cut that kind of money out of a state budget without employees being affected," said Gary Hughes, director of the Texas Public Employees Association.

"The main bulk of that money would have to come out of personnel. That means state employees are going to lose their jobs. That means services are going to go away," Hughes said.

White insisted Tuesday that layoffs won't be needed as he urged agency chiefs to impose a modified hiring freeze and other budget-trimming measures he said would make it unnecessary to call the Legislature into special session to slash spending.

"We will maintain top-priority programs but take a hard look at money spent on administration, consultants, travel, equipment and supplies, and utilities," White told a news conference.

"This strategy sounds tough, but it will have to be tough if it is going to do the job," he said.

Following the worldwide slump in oil prices, State Comptroller Bob Bullock last week said the state's projected revenue would fall $1.3 billion short of the $37.2 billion appropriated by the Legislature for the 1986 and 1987 budget years.

White's executive order — which urges agencies to follow his recommendations but apparently cannot require them to do so — was buttressed by letters from Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and House Speaker Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth. Those two generally are considered to have the most power over agency budgets.

"We must do everything possible to slow current state government spending," Lewis wrote.

"Every dollar we can save before January is a dollar we will not have to remove from our next two-year spending bill. I am counting on state agencies to do all they can to help the state weather this difficulty," Hobby said.

In his executive order, White called on agency directors by March 1 to:

- Stop hiring employees except those "critical to the continuation of the most essential agency programs or for compliance with court orders."
- Defer construction and renovation of buildings, other than prisons,

Officials not told of low temps before liftoff

WASHINGTON (AP) — Top NASA officials who gave the go-ahead to launch the ill-fated Challenger mission were never told of a low temperature reading of 7 to 9 degrees on the shuttle's right booster rocket prior to liftoff, according to the space agency.

Jesse Moore, head of the space shuttle program and the top-ranking official involved in the launch decision, told a Senate hearing Tuesday that if he had known of the reading "I would have asked more questions."

The temperature on the morning of the Jan. 28 launch have been a focus of a presidential commission's investigation into the shuttle accident because of concern that the cold might have affected the performance of critical O-ring seals between segments of the shuttle's two rocket boosters.

At the time of the launch the air temperature had risen to 38 degrees, but a dramatically lower temperature on the surface of the booster might have been an indication that super-cold liquid hydrogen was leaking from the huge external fuel tank, investigators say.

Richard Feynman, a physicist on the presidential commission, said he does not believe the low temperature readings were caused by a cold hydrogen leak. In Wednesday's editions of the Washington Post, he said the readings could have been a result of breezes blowing past the cold external fuel tank onto the booster rocket.

Moore told the space subcommittee of the Senate Commerce Committee that the reading was recorded on a hand-held infrared scanner used by workers examining the shuttle for ice contamination on the morning of the launch. No word of the low temperature reading was ever relayed to officials charged with deciding whether to go ahead with the launch, he said.

"Would that have caused you to have a material concern?" asked Sen. Donald Riegle, D-Mich.

"I believe I would have asked some more questions about what the reading indicated," Moore responded.

But Moore cautioned several times that the instruments making the low temperature readings are difficult to

Cartel price drops finally reach pumps

By SHAWN COCKRUM
Staff Writer

Panhandle residents are finding a pleasant surprise as they head for their favorite gas stations. The price of a gallon of gas is finally going down at the rate which it usually goes up.

According to Lynton Allred of Allred Oil in Hereford, the dropping prices are a direct result of the price of world crude oil. Allred said that this is the price cut that everybody was looking for when the first drop in crude oil prices was reported.

"There is usually a 60 to 90 day lag in the price to the gas consumer from the initial drop of the crude oil," Allred said. "First, the oil producers and gasoline wholesalers must distribute the gasoline they currently have in stock. After all of that is gone, the producers and wholesalers can buy the products that have been reduced."

In Hereford, the average price for a gallon of regular self-service gasoline is 99 cents and the average gallon of unleaded goes for $1.04. The average price for full-service is $1.11 per gallon and $1.16 for unleaded. Since the first of the year, the price of gas has dropped between 20 percent and 30 percent.

Allred stated that it is difficult to tell if the price will continue to drop or maintain a level price.

"It all depends on the price of world crude," Allred said.

In a telephone interview with The Brand, Amarillo oilman T. Boone Pickens said the reason the price of world oil is plunging is because the oil cartel of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) has disintegrated. The cartel, consisting of Algeria, Ecuador, Gabon, Indonesia, Iran, Iraq, Kuwait, Libya, Nigeria, Qatar, Saudi Arabia, United Arab Emirates and Venezuela, has been suffering turmoil. The oil exporting countries are forced into competition with each other, making each country to try to maintain their marketshare, therefore producing more oil.

"With Saudi Arabia leading the way, oil producers were producing over 18 million barrels per day, if that kind of production were to have kept up, the price of a barrel of oil would have been about $10 to $12," Pickens said. "We just got off the phone with Europe this morning and they reported that oil is being produced at a rate of 16.7 million barrels per day."

Hip-O-Grams right for weighty message

By TERRY GOODRICH
Austin American-Statesman

SMITHVILLE, Texas (AP) — First, there was the Strip-O-Gram — a stripper delivering a telegram. But when you care enough to send the very most, call Hip-O-Gram, say two in-excess-of-portly women who deliver musical telegrams.

Meet Bonnie Ford, height 5 feet, who says only that she weighs "more than 200" pounds; and Marlene Oppenheim, who stands 5-feet-1½ and says that she weighs more than 300 pounds.

The cushiony women, who are both divorced mothers in their mid-40s, advertise their service with business cards that depict a hippo dressed in a tutu.

"We worked up the act ourselves and are quite unique," Ms. Ford said. "Other than certain talents, we have a certain size nobody can top."

Among those talents is Ms. Ford's accordion-playing. Both women have pleasant singing voices.

Ms. Oppenheim totes the tape recorder and plays fairly godmother, sporting a pink gown and a tiara.

She's in charge of putting the recipient at ease. That's accomplished by "telling them to put their hands around my waist as far as they can go — and usually, it's not too far," she says.

She listens to the individual's wish list, says a poem or two and then introduces Ms. Ford, the one who strips — within limits. Ms. Ford peels down to a red heart bra with gold tassels and a sashed swimsuit

Bowery gets Sebago Award

Sebago Award-Highest Honor

Cindy Bowery was shocked and pleased to receive the Sebago Award which was presented to her during Tuesday night's Camp Fire meeting. Being the highest honor, the Sebago Award was named after the first camp fire in Maine and is used to recognize outstanding contributions in the field of camping and out-door programming.

Receiving one of the highest honors in Camp Fire, Cindy Bowery was presented the Sebago Award Tuesday night, recognizing outstanding contributions she has made in the field of camping and out-door programming.

Hereford Camp Fire Council held their annual report meeting last night at the Community Center.

Several adults were presented awards and recognized for club participation, volunteer services through leadership and management, and for individual achievement.

Named after the first camp fire in Maine, the Sebago Award honored Bowery who has been in Camp Fire since 1962.

Bowery has been a camper for eight years, she received her Wohelo medallion, and before becoming a member of the staff, she was assistant camp director for nine years. Bowery was also assistant winter camp director and has participated many years in Blue Bird Day Camp.

Experiencing all phases of Camp Fire, from council business to slumber parties, cook-outs, and annual banquets, to their house being wrapped in toilet paper, Ernest and Helen Langley were recognized as Hereford Camp Fire Council's honorary members for 1985.

This honor is bestowed upon those who have given longtime outstanding service to the council.

Mr. and Mrs. Langley were honored for their constant support through their four daughters and, now, their grandchildren.

Certificates of appreciation were presented to Betty Henson of the American Red Cross and Stefan Hacker and Patrick Phibbs accepted the certificate on behalf of Hereford Key Club for community sponsorship.

Adult membership tenure awards were presented for service from one year to 19 year memberships.

Receiving a 15-year tenure pin was Cindy Bowery, a 17-tenure pin went to Anna Dupnik, and honored with a 19-tenure pin was Ellen Collins.

Wanice Jones was honored as leader of the year who has demonstrated her leadership abilities, accepting the challenge of these responsibilities, and has dedicated herself to her club and to Camp Fire.

Sponsor of the Year Award was presented to Larry Pagett of P&H Electric. The business has sponsored a group, helped maintain buses and lighted the Camp Fire's corner of the park.

The Fledgling Award given for outstanding leadership among Fledglings, younger members called the Sparks, went to Gloria Hubner and Christie Barton.

The Good News Award was presented to Kathy Moore, Camp Fire's public relations chairperson.

Temple Abney was honored with the Blue Ribbon Award for his help during the bean supper.

Youth members of the board, Whitney Drake and Andrea Wall were honored with a Camp Fire charm for serving as youth advisors to other Camp Fire girls and boys.

New directors and officers were elected and an updated change in Camp Fire uniforms approved.

New officers for Hereford Camp Fire Council, serving a two-year term, will be Betty Drake, president; Gary Phipps, vice-president; Cherie Zinck, secretary; and Dan Warrick, treasurer.

Directors serving a three-year term are Larry Pagett, Cherie Zinck, Tom Lange, Danny Cantrell, Teresa Munoz, Andrew Garza, and Temple Abney.

Nominating committee members will be Barbara Kerr, chairman, Cherie Zinck, and Ken Gearn.

Youth directors for a one year term are Andrea Wall and Jill Johnson.

mental hospitals and those critical to programs.

— Cease granting promotions and merit pay increases without prior written approval of the head of each agency.

— Bar most new contracts with consultants.

— Eliminate purchases of non-essential supplies, motor vehicles and capital equipment, except when savings can be demonstrated.

— End out-of-state travel wherever possible and reduce in-state employee travel by at least 20 percent.

— Renegotiate lease contracts where possible.

Hughes of the employee association said White should call the Legislature back into session.

"To mandate these cuts without authorization of the Legislature, I think, is a mistake," he said.

White, who continues to insist the Legislature need not return until its scheduled January 1987 session, defended his executive order as the best way to reduce spending. He said it gives directors of some 200 state agencies the freedom to cut where they see fit.

"That's the magic of it. I stressed I don't want to see an across-the-board, 13 percent reduction," White said.

White also denied that he was taking away the Legislature's authority to determine how state funds should be spent.

"Letting each agency do this, I think, lets the Legislature have more discretion at the next regular session because the money will be available and they won't be having to work against a deficit," he said.

Woman shocked by birth

ENTERPRISE, Ala. (AP) — A 46-year-old woman complaining of abdominal pains told doctors there was absolutely no chance she could be pregnant. Less than 48 hours later, she gave birth to a son on her bedroom floor.

"I can't even think of the word to describe how I felt when I saw the baby lying there," said Lois Grimsley, who gave birth shortly after noon Sunday to a 5-pound, 14-ounce son, Marcus Brice.

Mrs. Grimsley went to doctors twice in the two days before the birth, but doctors blamed the pain on a urinary tract infection and hemorrhoids.

She said the child's birth beside her bed initially scared her, and she was afraid to pick him up. She said she covered her crying son with a towel and called her husband, Ernest, into the room.

"He came in and when he saw the baby lying there he almost lost his mind," said Mrs. Grimsley. She and the baby were taken to Humana Hospital in Enterprise, where they were listed in satisfactory condition today.

"He is still on cloud 9," she said of her husband.

The couple have one other son, 15-year-old Michael.

Mrs. Grimsley, a civilian employee at nearby Fort Rucker, said she developed the pains Friday and her husband took her to the Fort Rucker hospital, where she was diagnosed as having a urinary tract infection.

The pains continued after her return home, and Mrs. Grimsley returned to the hospital Sunday, where doctors diagnosed her as having hemorrhoids. Again, she returned home.

Col. Charles Webb, assistant commander of the hospital, said the diagnoses were correct, as far as they went. Doctors didn't look further for signs of pregnancy because of her age and because the woman said it was impossible, he said.

Honorary Members

From cook-outs to their house being wrapped in toilet paper, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Langley have experienced Camp Fire in all phases. Supporting Hereford Camp Fire Council through their four daughters and now with their grandchildren, Mr. and Mrs. Langley were honored as honorary members during the council meeting held last night.

bottom. That's when Ms. Ford breaks into song, original words set to the tune of "Hey, Look Me Over." It details how the telegram recipient left her standing at the altar and how the janitor forced her to clean up the church herself after the wedding didn't materialize.

If a customer doesn't want a striptease, the women abide by those wishes.

What they do not do is think of themselves as a freak show — or as an act to appeal to kinkier leanings. Neither woman drinks or smokes, and they avoid compromising situations.

"Some people are into fat — like the five men who suggested a hot tub — but most of them don't have that problem," Ms. Oppenheim said. "A lot of 'em are worried that we're really gonna strip."

It may seem odd that the women willingly subject themselves to situations in which they might face ridicule. Do they feel exploited? "No, not as long as we're making money," says Ms. Ford.

"You do have times when you get depressed (about weight)," Ms. Oppenheim admitted. "But you have a positive self-image, and you can deal with whatever people say. I went into a hospital program, a research hospital, for six months. And I've tried Weight Watchers and TOPS (Take Off Pounds Sensibly) and have got to around 200. But I'd get on these plateaus."

"Finally, I decided, I'll just eat three nutritious meals a day, and the hell with it. Not everybody likes to look at fat people, but I live with it," she said.

"You just have to project yourself more, and once people get to know you, they like you whether or not you're fat."

Ms. Ford tells a similar story. "Once, I lost nearly 100 pounds and weighed about 160 — but I wasn't well at all," she said. "People would say, 'You look terrific.' But I didn't feel terrific. I was eating only 500 or 600 calories a day, and I got very sick. I talked to a nutritionist who said, 'You'd better eat.'"

The women live in Smithville and have been offering their act through Three-Ring Service for about a year in the Austin area. Ms. Ford is a lab technician when she's not quasi-stripping, and Ms. Oppenheim has done office work and phone sales.

They met in St. Louis, Mo., where both were members of Overeaters Anonymous and a self-help group they started called Positive Self-Image. They began doing their act in 1983, after accompanying a friend to an audition for a "bag lady" act.

"We just went along for moral support," Ms. Oppenheim said. The agency that booked their friend was looking for a "fat act," but "they were talking about doing all these sick fat jokes. It was nauseating."

Instead, they came up with the fairy godmother-accordion player-stripper act, which ranges from 10 to 15 minutes. Cost ranges from $60 to $150, depending on how far they must travel.

They have been the recipients occasionally, of jeers and "piggy calls," Ms. Ford said.

Generally, though, the audience is more genteel.

In fact, "Some people are very concerned about hurting our feelings by laughing," Ms. Oppenheim said.

"We try to break that down with our act," she said. "We try to get people to laugh with us rather than at us — to see we're not stupid, that we can be creative and that it's fun to be around us. We try to put a lot of love in our act."

Hospital revenue down

Patient revenues drew $390,633 for Deaf Smith General Hospital during January, but expenses for the hospital saw a net loss of $12,563 in that month, according to reports made at the hospital district board meeting Tuesday.

Average daily census for the month was 21.4 patients. Also during January there were 98 surgical procedures done and 515 emergency room visits tended.

operate and he said the likelihood of error could be "quite substantial."

Nevertheless, several senators indicated concern about the breakdown in communications and asked William Rogers, chairman of the presidential commission investigating the accident, whether such breakdowns had led him to conclude that the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's launch decision-making process was "flawed."

Rogers, however, would say only that the commission intends to elaborate on the "flawed" remark — which was made last week — at a future public meeting.

Even so, several senators suggested enough questions had been raised to cast a cloud over NASA's reputation for safety and efficiency.

STORMS

Sunday," Diaz said.

By Tuesday night, the storms had poured nearly 22 inches of rain on Kentfield, 40 miles north of San Francisco, and the Heavenly Valley ski resort reported 9 feet of snow. In Utah, Wellsville had 10.56 inches of rain in five days and Bald Mountain, Idaho, got nearly 50 inches of snow.

The Napa River receded Tuesday night to 24.9 feet, just below its 25-foot flood level, after reaching 30 feet Monday, breaking a 31-year-old record. The Russian River hit 46.9 feet in Guerneville, almost 15 feet above flood stage.

Mudslides and avalanches unleashed by the storms closed major highways, damaged and destroyed hundreds of homes and threatened hundreds of others.

More than 9,000 northern California residents were in evacuation centers or with friends or relatives today because their homes were flooded or threatened by landslides. About 500 people were forced from homes in northwestern Nevada, most in the Dayton area southeast of Reno. Floods damaged or destroyed nearly 300 homes in northern Utah.

More than 20,000 people were without electricity Tuesday in northern California, Pacific Gas & Electric and Sierra Pacific Power reported.

California Gov. George Deukmejian declared emergencies Tuesday in Napa, Sonoma and Humboldt counties.

Near Marysville, Calif., looters broke into two of 15 houses that were evacuated, said Sgt. Ron McCarty of the Yuba County sheriff's office.

In Napa County, California's main wine-growing region, flooding forced 4,200 people to flee their homes, and damaged 4,000 homes and up to 100 businesses, said Mike Vagnerini of the sheriff's department.

"We have evacuated everybody, so far, that needs to be evacuated," Napa County Red Cross disaster chairwoman Doris Zylinski said Tuesday. "Napa's really isolated. We have slides or torrents on all highways, in and out. I don't think anybody can get into Napa right now."

'Crimes of the Heart' to open in Amarillo

A grave, yet somehow, hilarious deep-South tale of three young sisters escaping the past to seize the future will be told when the Amarillo Little Theatre presents "Crimes of the Heart," opening Friday, Feb. 28, at the Amarillo Theatre Centre.

"Crimes of the Heart" won the Pulitzer Prize and the New York Drama Critics Award for author Beth Henley in her first playwriting effort. The play enjoyed a successful Broadway run.

Allen Shankles, director of plays for Amarillo Little Theatre, called the play "warm-hearted, irreverent and brilliantly imaginative, as it teems with humanity and humor."

The story is set in a small Mississippi town, where the three sisters have gathered to await news of the family patriarch, who is living out his last hours in the local hospital. Betrayed by their passions at the crossroads of their lives, the three sisters bring together a variety of troubles, which they attempt to resolve with infectious high spirits.

The cast includes Joan Gaines in the role of Lenny, the oldest sister, who is unmarried at thirty and facing diminishing marital prospects;

Debbie Spiegel plays Meg, the middle sister, who quickly outgrew her small town but is back after a failed singing career on the West Coast; and Hillary Smith is Babe, the youngest sister, who is out on bail after having shot her husband in the stomach.

Benny Evans performs as Chick, the sisters' griggish cousin; Cody Duncan is Barnette, the awkward young lawyer who tries to keep Babe out of jail while helpless not to fall in love with her; and Steve Lumms carries the part of Doc, Meg's former boyfriend, whom she left heartbroken when she set out on her singing career.

The play runs four performances: February 28, March 1 and 7-8, 1986. Tickets are $10 each, all seats reserved. Tickets can be purchased at the Amarillo Little Theatre box office, 2019 Civic Circle. Curtain time is 8 p.m. Call 355-9991 for reservations or additional information.

All seats at dress rehearsal, February 27, are $3.

The final play of the Theatre's 1985-86 Season is "Greater Tuna," which runs May 2-3 and 9-10, 1986.

New film offers way to inner peace

"Success often covers up a crippling, debilitating problem: a stressed and weakened inner world," says Gordon MacDonald, former pastor and current president of Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship, an interdenominational ministry to college students.

According to MacDonald, many people who've "got it all together" on the outside are falling apart inside. For them, the six-part documentary "Ordering Your Private World" offers sure help.

The film series will be shown at 6 every Wednesday night starting Feb. 19 at the First Presbyterian Church, beginning with a soup and cornbread supper. All are invited.

It's based on his book by the same name—currently one of the most successful in the Christian marketplace. Observes Billy Graham, "It struck me right between the eyes with conviction."

The film series, produced by Thomas Nelson Communications, reveals what often happens to busy Christians, as seen through the life of an over-extended super-achiever, Harvey Leech.

Using Scriptures and examples from daily life, MacDonald demonstrates how Harvey's public life—just like our own—flows from a private inner world. And when that becomes disorganized, it isn't long before the outer world begins to crumble.

"Ordering Your Private World" exposes the whole problem—from how and why, to what comes next. Providing practical, biblical solutions for Christians caught up in the hectic, performance-oriented society we live in.

Gulley recognized

The College of the State Bar of Texas has recognized 607 attorneys as certified members of the College in ceremonies held in Austin.

David Wesley Gulley of Hereford was among those recognized.

The College was created by the Supreme Court of Texas as a means of recognizing members of the State Bar for their participation in continuing legal education programs. It is through completion of these education programs that attorneys in Texas keep abreast of the law and increase their legal competence.

Special certification ceremonies for the new members were held on Jan. 31 during a luncheon at the Texas Law Center in Austin. Presiding over the ceremony was the chairman of the Board of the College, Steven G. Condos of Dallas. Lawyers were presented their certificates by Supreme Court Justice Raul Gonzalez.

A nip of brandy before braving the cold is a mistake, according to the American Heart Association. The group reports that alcohol dilates blood vessels, and blood more quickly is moved into extremities where heat-loss takes place. Smoking while in extreme cold also can cause problems, it says. It constricts blood vessels and speeds the effects of cold on the skin.

Snacks accounting for additional nutrients

Recent research shows that snacks are making a greater nutritional contribution to the diets of women and children, says a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service nutritionist.

According to Dr. Alice Hunt, U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) scientists compared data on the food intake of women and children in 1977 to new data collected in 1985.

The 1985 data showed that more women and children reported eating four times a day than three times a day. In 1977, three meals a day was reported most frequently.

Seventy-six percent of the women and 83 percent of the children in the current study identified one or more of their eating occasions as a "snack." Those figures were much lower - 60 percent for women and 62 percent for children - in 1977.

"Because we're eating more snacks, they are making a greater nutritive contribution to our diets," says Hunt. For example, women in the USDA study got 9 to 19 percent of their calories and nutrients from snacks in 1985, compared with 6 to 15 percent in 1977.

Children got 9 to 22 percent of their food energy and nutrients from snacks in 1985 compared with 6 to 16 percent in 1977.

"Figures like these should make us stop and think about the kinds of foods we're eating and feeding our children for snacks," she says. "Many standard snack foods - chips, cookies, sodas, candy bars - are relatively high in sugar, sodium and fat for the nutrients they provide."

Hunt says that if a snack is going to be the fourth "meal" of the day, it should fit into a balanced diet.

A balanced diet will include protein foods, dairy products, grains and cereals, fruits and vegetables each day, while going light on fats, sugars and alcohol, explains the nutritionist.

While salt is an effective snow and ice removal aid, it should not be over-used. Salt is especially harmful to lawns and plantings, says True Temper, a maker of lawn and garden products.

Harold Brown of California was President Jimmy Carter's only secretary of defense.

DR. GOTT See specialist about prostate

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.
DEAR DR. GOTT — I'm 69, and in the past year have had some trouble urinating. I no longer have a free flow; it is released in spurts. Could this be a warning of coming prostate problems?

DEAR READER — It's more than a warning of coming problems; your problem has arrived. Your trouble probably is due to an enlarged prostate. However, there may be other sources of obstruction within your lower urinary tract, so check with a urologist for an accurate diagnosis.

To give you more information, I'm sending you a free copy of my Health Report on THE PROSTATE GLAND. Other readers who would like a copy should send 75 cents plus a long self-addressed, stamped envelope in care of this newspaper to P.O. Box 2597, Cincinnati, OH 45201. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I suffer from pain in my knees down, especially when I go to bed. My doctor said it was caused by poor circulation, but the medicine he gave me didn't help. It's worse when I wear high heels. What causes this?

DEAR READER — Circulatory problems in the legs can be most troublesome at night or during exercise. I suspect that in your case, the high heels are a factor because you are on your feet when you wear them. Sometimes women's high heels can result in back ailments that cause leg pains.

However, if your doctor believes your pain is due to poor circulation, you may need to have further testing to determine where the blood flow to your legs is blocked. When such an obstruction is present, less blood reaches your leg muscles; cramps and spasms can be produced. In severe cases, unresponsive to medicine, surgery may be necessary to re-establish bloodflow by removing the obstruction.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I have a shoulder injury, a severe tear in the rotator cuff. The surgeon wants to operate. What is your opinion?

DEAR READER — If you have pain due to a torn rotator cuff — the capsule of gristle that surrounds the shoulder joint — surgery may help you. If your surgeon is qualified to perform this operation, let him or her do it.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My husband has plantar warts on his heel. These have been cut out three times and are back again. Are there any folk remedies that might help? Even if they don't work, at least they won't hurt, which is more than can be said for the surgery.

DEAR READER — I am not aware of consistent successes from folk remedies for plantar warts. I've had better results from Vergo, an over-the-counter cream, applied as directed to the wart. Make sure your husband uses sandpaper or an emery board to remove all of the callus over the wart before he applies the cream.

DEAR DR. GOTT — What causes pain in my shoulder joint when I raise my arm to comb my hair? What sorts of treatment are effective?

DEAR READER — Shoulder pain from arm elevation can be caused by injury or inflammation of any of the tissues around or in the shoulder joint. These include muscles, tendons, ligaments, bone, cartilage, the joint envelope (bursa) or the joint itself (arthritis). Treatment depends on the specific cause.

For the average adult, the type of pain you mention would commonly be due to bursitis, tendinitis or arthritis. The inflammation is usually caused by repeated movement and can be helped by heat, ultrasonic treatment, pills by mouth or medicine by injection.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Our daughter was told she had epilepsy. The family doctor has her taking Tranxene, Tegretal tabs and Dilantin. She got a letter from a girlfriend saying that epilepsy could kill her or give her a heart attack. Our doctor said some kids outgrow it. Who is right? I need help in explaining it to her.

DEAR READER — Your doctor is right. I am constantly amazed by the callousness and inconsideration of some children. I cannot imagine why your daughter's friend would write such a cruel letter, especially since the opinions expressed were inaccurate.

Epilepsy is a relatively common disorder that is due to abnormal electrical activity in the brain. People with epilepsy are normal in all other ways. The condition is treatable. Often, young people will outgrow it.

I am sure your daughter's doctor would welcome a meeting so that your concerns and questions could be aired. For more information, contact the Epilepsy Foundation of America, 4351 Garden City Dr., Landover, MD 20785.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I have been diagnosed as having fibroid tumors. Recently I became a mother for the first time, at the age of 39. The doctor has suggested a total hysterectomy, but I would like to have at least one more child. My job requires that I walk and be on my feet. Will this worsen the condition?

DEAR READER — Fibroids are benign common growths that form inside the uterus. They do not have to be removed unless they cause excessively heavy menstrual bleeding or other symptoms, such as discomfort. Exercise, physical activity, standing or walking will not make fibroids worse.

If you wish to have another child, go ahead. But let your obstetrician keep close watch on you during your pregnancy to make sure that no complications develop.

Send your questions to Dr. Gott in care of this newspaper at P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101. Due to volume of mail, individual questions cannot be answered. Questions of general interest will be answered in future columns.

For oil, gas exhibits

Museum opens new wing

Canyon, Tx. — The Feb. 23 opening of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum's Don D. Harrington Petroleum Wing represents a landmark event for the state's oldest and largest state-supported museum.

This 75,000 square-foot edifice, dedicated to the independent oil and gas operators of the Panhandle, incorporates the latest in exhibit design and museum interpretation and doubles the Museum's existing exhibit space.

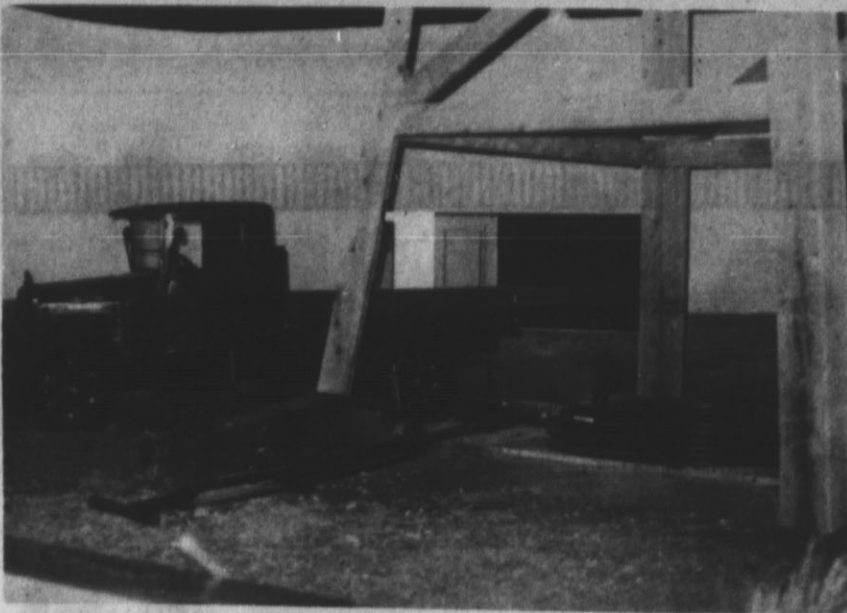

Consuming five years from planning to completion, the building and exhibits were entirely funded by grants totalling over $6 million from the Don and Sybil Harrington Foundation, of Amarillo. The wing exemplifies the spirit of regional cooperation and dedication to historical preservation that has become a hallmark of the Museum since its founding in 1921.

The first floor, dedicated to paleontology and geology, contains materials collected by the Museum since its beginning. "Paleontology: A Fossil Record of Life" is an exhibit revealing life forms in the Panhandle from the very oldest geological strata up through the most recent. Such creatures as the Permian Age dimetrodon, a thirteen-foot-long lizard, and skeletons of various large and small dinosaurs are presented. Ice Age mammals such as saber-toothed cats, ground sloths, and the bison are also represented.

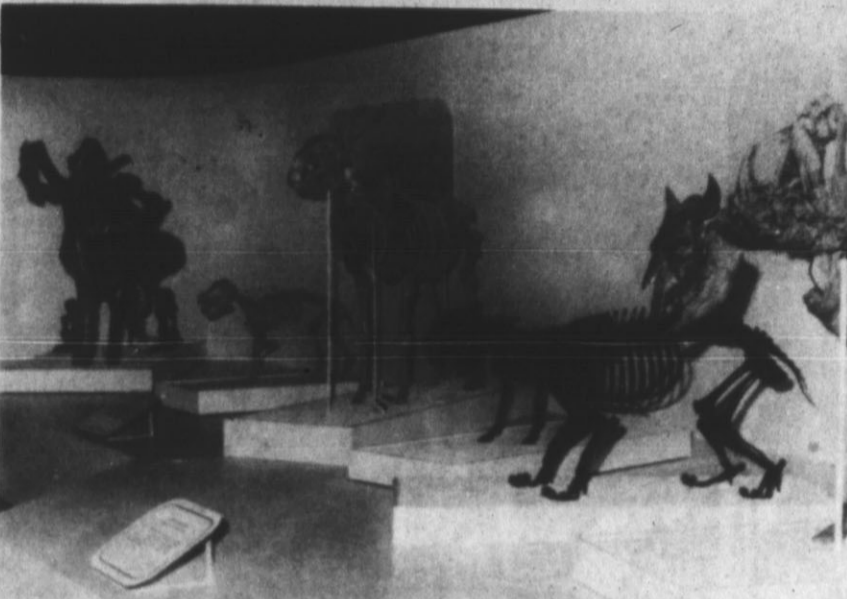

"Panhandle Oil and Gas: The Early Years" occupies the entire second floor of the new exhibit wing and is devoted to the 1920s, 1930s, and 1940s, the "boom years" of oil and gas development in the region. Individual exhibits within the energy exhibit are devoted to the independent oil operators who brought the industry to life, the workers who drilled for oil, the process of turning natural gas into gasoline and other products, and the wholesale and retail oil business in the first half of the present century.

In each section, artifacts, documents, photos, and state-of-the-art audio-visual technology bring the subject to life. At various points, the visitor is taken down into the ground to see how drilling tools work and is led through a life-size diorama of the "oil patch," complete with full-size rig, pump jack, pulling unit, thousand-barrel tanks, and flaring gas.

The Panhandle-Plains is Texas' oldest and largest state-supported Museum, with over 100,000 square feet of exhibits telling the story of Texas from early in geologic time through Indian occupation, ranching, town building, and twentieth-century industrialization. Annual museum attendance is 130,000. Museum hours are 9 to 5 weekdays and Saturday, 2 to 6 Sunday, with 6 p.m. closing June through August. Admission is free.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have little regard for doctors and they have no regard for us, their patients. So where do we go from here?

You call them up because you need help. It's either their day off, they are with a patient, they are at the hospital, they are delivering a paper at a medical meeting in Paris or Geneva, they had an emergency or they are out to lunch. You ask them to call you back. They never do.

You arrive for your appointment five minutes early and are kept waiting an hour or more. The nurse says, "He had an emergency." (Want to call her a liar?)

In the hospital they poke their heads in the door and say cheerfully, "Good morning, how are you?" That exchange is considered a consultation for which you will receive a bill for $50.

I have read articles and heard lectures on "How to Talk to Your Doctor." Some of the lectures are pretty good but we need to know how to catch our doctor before we can talk to him. Any suggestions? P.S. I use the male gender because I find this problem is much more common among male physicians than females.—SICK OF GETTING KICKED AROUND IN PHILADELPHIA.

DEAR SICK: The game is changing. We are heading into an era when we will be faced with a surplus of doctors. This means competition will be keener, there will be less vacationing, fewer papers delivered in Paris and Geneva and less waiting in reception rooms.

If you don't feel that your physician is giving you proper care, get another doctor. The government is getting into the act more and more—and you know what that means. The quality of medical care will not be as good but more people will get something.

A safe way to clear a driveway or sidewalk of snow is a work-relax routine. Shovel for only two to three minutes, then pause to enjoy the wintery scene until your pulse and respiration have returned to almost normal. It may take a little longer to finish the chore, but it will be safer and more enjoyable in the long run.

Telephone techniques to be topic of seminar March 11

Effective telephone techniques will be the topic of a one-day seminar March 11 in the Lubbock Plaza Hotel and Convention Center.

Sponsored by the Texas Tech University center for Professional Development, the seminar "Telephone Techniques for Secretaries, Receptionists, Customer Service Representatives and Other Support Staff" will begin at 9 a.m.

Seminar leader Richard R. Conant said that seven out of 10 people who stop doing business with a firm do so because of the way they are treated on first contact.

The seminar will deal with how to get a complaining customer on the company's side; creating success or failure in the first four minutes; important strengths of telephone communication; screening calls politely and professionally; more effective communication techniques; and giving the organization a professional image.

The seminar is open to all interested persons. Registration fee is $165. Group discounts are available.

Houston plays without Akeem Olajuwon

Kings post 115-105 win over Rockets

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Kings center LaSalle Thompson discovered playing Houston minus half of the team's ballyhooed "Twin Tower" combination isn't an easy task.

Thompson had his hands full trying to contain the 7-foot-4 Ralph Sampson as the Kings posted a 115-105 National Basketball Association victory over Houston on Tuesday night.

Sampson managed 24 points and 10 rebounds as the Rockets played without the other half of its "Twin Tower" combo - Akeem Olajuwon. The 7-foot Olajuwon suffered a sprained ligament Saturday and is expected to be out for at least two weeks.

"There were times we had to double-team him," Thompson said of Sampson. "The guy's an all-star and he plays like it. I'd been much happier if I had held him below his average." Sampson has been averaging 18.3 points a game.

"I think when you hold a player like Ralph to just a couple of points above his average you've done a job on him," Houston coach Bill Fitch said. "I haven't seen him miss some of those inside shots he did tonight for a long time."

Thompson, a 6-10 fourth year NBA veteran, said he made "body contact as much as possible" to disrupt Sampson's games.

"I know I can't block Sampson so I have to do whatever I can," Thompson added.

Sampson shouldered the bulk of the Rockets' fourth quarter offense as he scored 13 of his 24 points.

Sacramento's victory was aided by a perfect 23-for-23 effort at the free throw line in the second half. The Kings were 33-for-37 from the free throw line for the night while Houston was 21-for-24.

Kings guard Reggie Theus scored 18 of his 22 points in the third quarter to allow Sacramento to outscore Houston 40-31.

The Kings gained control of the momentum with 7:19 to go in the third. Sacramento center LaSalle Thompson swiped the ball from Rocket Ralph Sampson to allow Mike Woodson to convert the turnover on an assist from Terry Tyler for a six-point lead.

Up until the Woodson basket, neither team managed larger than a

The loss dropped the Midwest Division leaders from Houston to 35-19 for the season.

Sacramento, currently in the cellar of the same division, improved to 22-32.

Robertson gets quadruple double

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Spurs guard Alvin Robertson downplays the significance of becoming the second player in NBA history to post double figures in four categories.

"I feel happy and excited about the stats, but winning the game is most important," Robertson said after leading San Antonio to a 120-114 victory over the Phoenix Suns on Tuesday.

"A win is the ultimate satisfaction I can get," said Robertson, an All-Star in his second season with the Spurs.

Robertson posted 20 points, 10 assists, 10 steals and 11 rebounds to become the first to reach double figures in those four statistical categories.

The only other known "quadruple double" in the NBA was by Nate Thurmond. He had 22 points, 14 rebounds, 13 assists and 12 blocked shots on opening night of the 1974-75 season for the Chicago Bulls.

"What can you say about Alvin? He just battles for you the whole game," said San Antonio Coach Cotton Fitzsimmons. He said the Spurs did what they tried to do two weeks ago in its loss against Phoenix.

"It looked like we were going to do the same thing we did last time," said Fitzsimmons. "In the second half, it seemed like the one way they could score was at the free throw line."

Phoenix hit 39 of 54 free throws in the game.

San Antonio forward Mike Mitchell led all scorers with 27 points, including 13 in the opening period. Walter Davis paced Phoenix with 22 points.

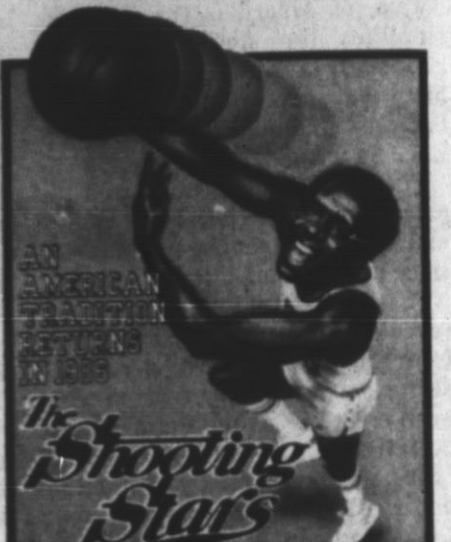

The play of Mitchell and Robertson aided San Antonio from start to finish and took an 18-point lead at one point in the contest.

"This certainly was a very physical, emotional game," said Spurs center Artis Gilmore. "It was good to see us play with a little emotion."

The Suns late in the fourth quarter cut the deficit to 112-111, but Mitchell hit a baseline jump shot to give San Antonio a three-point edge.

Robertson, on the Suns' next possession, made the biggest steal of the game, stripping Davis of the ball and passing off to Gilmore for a 116-111 San Antonio advantage.

Through athletic competition, as Willie Banks experienced

Understanding seen between nations

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

It's the kind of simplistic, idealistic goal that sounds so good — better understanding between nations through sports. It's what the Olympics sell every four years and what Ted Turner's Goodwill Games hope to produce this summer in Moscow. It's something triple jumper Willie Banks has seen happen.

Banks, the world record-holder at 58 feet, 11 1/2 inches, was at Mexico City in 1979, competing at the World University Games when a questionable drag foul was called on him. "I was mad, because I knew I hadn't fouled," he said. "Then they called one on the Russian, too."

Gennady Valuykevic had not fouled either, at least not as far as Banks was concerned, and the American protested again. "He was one of the best. I wanted to go against him. I didn't want him disqualified. I complained for him, but it didn't work."

Two years later, at a US-USSR joint meet in Leningrad, Banks and Valuykevic met again. "I went in thinking I'd go 57 feet on every jump and I'd win," Banks said. "But I wasn't jumping that well. Then I got one at 56 feet. On Valuykevic's next jump, he wasn't close but they announced longer numbers for him."

It was a classic case of hometown judging, perhaps a little bit of getting even for what had happened to the Soviet at Mexico City. Banks would not sit still for it. "I started arguing with the judge. He pushed me away and I pushed him back. It was getting pretty hot."

This doesn't exactly sound like an experiment in international understanding. Then Banks felt a hand on his shoulder. It was Valuykevic.

"He said to me, 'You know and I know what is going on here. Our job is to compete and enjoy the competition. I respect you and you respect me. We have rapport with each other. We are friends.'"

Friends.

Banks liked the sound of that. "It was an example of what competition can do to people," he said. "Even in a tense situation, competition can relax you and make it more palatable."

Relaxation has never been a major problem for Banks, whose unique style pulled the triple jump out of track and field's shadows into the sport's mainstream.

Sports briefs

BASEBALL

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Reds General Manager Bill Bergesch fired back a sharp response to a charge that he threatened to trade Dave Van Gorder if the backup catcher went through with salary arbitration.

In a statement released by the Reds, Bergesch called the accusation "totally untrue," and asked for an apology from Van Gorder or his agent, Brian David. The Major League Baseball Players' Association has filed a grievance accusing the Reds of unfair labor practices.

NEW YORK (AP) — Boston catcher Rich Gedman lost his arbitration bid for a $1 million contract but other major league players won salary arbitration decisions.

The winners were Boston second baseman Marty Barrett, New York Mets' pitcher Ed Lynch and Montreal pitcher Bryn Smith.

The players now have 12 victories and the clubs 14 in this year's round of arbitration decisions. Twelve cases are still outstanding.

NEW YORK (AP) — Don Mattingly, the American League's Most Valuable Player in 1985, came to terms with the New York Yankees on a one-year contract worth $1.375 million.

Mattingly and his agent, Jim Krivacs, left town with less than they had asked through arbitration, $1.5 million, but more than the Yankees had offered, $1.25 million.

Last season Mattingly, 24, hit .324, while hitting 35 home runs and leading the league with 145 runs batted in. Mattingly also hit 48 doubles, the most by a Yankee since Lou Gehrig's 52 in 1927, and was a Gold Glove winner at first base with a .995 fielding percentage.

TENNIS

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Check Devoe, former president of the Indiana Pacers and Indianapolis Racers, captured the men's 55 singles championship of the National Senior Indoors tennis tournament with a 7-6, 6-3 victory over Bob Howe.

Top-seeded Len Saputo of Walnut Creek, Calif., captured his second straight 45 singles title by defeating Les Dodson of Kalamazoo, Mich., 7-5, 6-4, in the competition at the Canyon Racquet Club.

BASKETBALL

DENVER (AP) — Alex English and the Denver Nuggets have reached an agreement in principle on a multi-year contract that will make him one of the NBA's best-paid players.

The 32-year-old English leads the league in scoring this season with an average of 29.1 points per game and has logged the most minutes — 2,032 — among the Nuggets.

the event has evolved into a happening, especially when Banks is out there leading the crowd's cheers. Call them participating patrons, clapping along with him as he prepares to take off on his approach.

That started in Stockholm in 1981 when Banks became outraged at a track and field promoter who had canceled the triple jump in his meet, calling the event boring. It meant cutting short Banks' European season and so he set out to prove the man wrong.

"I swore up and down that I'd do something at that meet, maybe a world record, to change his mind. I was hot. I ran to the stadium, full of energy. Two hours ahead of time, I was out there warming up, stretching."

Banks was wearing his Walkman, listening to a guitar instrumental by Parliament-Funkadelic. "You know,

I was getting plastered on this one song, 'Not Just (Kneejerk)'. I was into a groove, letting myself go, my head bobbing, waving to the crowd, blowing kisses."

The fans got into it with him, clapping along as he first tied, then broke Stockholm's Olympic Stadium record. By the end of the day, the whole stadium was jumping as Banks broke the European record with a 57-7.

With 20,000 fans howling, Banks, his cassette still playing, sauntered over to the reluctant promoter. He didn't have to say a thing.

"OK, OK," the man said, "I've got you set in five meets and maybe three or four others."

Case closed.

Club hosts party at nursing home

Members of Cultural Extension Homemakers Club met Friday in Golden Plains Nursing Home to host a Valentine's Party for the residents.

Annie Schwalbach welcomed the club and announced that nursing home residents had chosen a king and queen to reign for a year. Bernice Reed, activities director, crowned Jessie Matthews as king and Bernadine Whitter as queen.

Club members presented residents with homemade Valentine cards.

Byrdie Fellers, assisted by club members, served hot apple cider, Valentine cakes and cookies to residents, Celine Perez, Bernadine Whitter, Matthews, Madeline Bell, Francis Miller, Beverly Brackett, Cecil Williams, George Hanagan, Esteban Ortiz, Oleta Smith, William Schwalbach, Edward Reinauer, Thomas Manning and Nora Harrison. Guests included Mrs. Thomas Manning and Mrs. Reinauer. Also, approximately 20 employees were present.

The club met in the home of Fellers for their business meeting following the party. The host read a thanks prayer from Westminster Church and an article, "When Do Parents Top Worrying About Their Children," written by Irma Bombeck.

During the business session conducted by President Nell Pope, the club voted to send birthday cards to patients at the nursing home as one of their projects.

Hargrave read recommendations sent out by council and the club voted to accept these.

Fellers, Carrie Mae Doak and Vernis Parsons volunteered to bake pies for the 4-H Banquet and Hargrave and Edith Hunter will take dinner rolls.

Members who volunteered to take cobbler for the sesquicentennial chili supper were Nell Pope, Raylene Smith, Mary Lou Spinhrne, Hunter and Hargrave.

Fellers served coffee to 10 members present.

A fajitas luncheon will be held Feb. 28 in the home of Marie Thames.

King and Queen of Hearts

Mr. and Mrs. Rev. O.L. and Leota Knowlton were honored last week as king and queen of hearts during a Valentine celebration at Kings Manor.

King, queen elected

The Rev. O.L. and Leota Knowlton were elected as king and queen of hearts for Kings Manor on Friday of last week.

The Rev. preached his last sermon this past Sunday in Morton and retired from a church near Springer.

Mrs. Knowlton is a former nurse graduating from the Lutheran Hospital in Sioux City, Iowa. She's active in the Big Brothers-Big Sisters program and has two little sisters.

Mr. Knowlton enjoys playing the piano and entertains at the Manor, Westgate, and Senior Citizens Center. He is a Mason and she, a member of Eastern Star. Both are also honored as Stars of the organization.

The couple have a son who is also in the ministry and they have 22 foster children.

"It's great until graduations, weddings, or babies are announced," laughed Mrs. Knowlton.

Mr. and Mrs. Knowlton recently celebrated their golden wedding anniversary where they repeated their original vows under the Council Oak Tree in Sioux City.

King George V of England died Jan. 20, 1936, and Edward VIII was proclaimed the king. Edward was to reign less than one year. He was forced to abdicate the throne when he insisted on marrying an American divorcee, and he was given the title Duke of Windsor.

Sesquicentennial Quilting Bee to be held this weekend

The Texas 1866 Sesquicentennial Quilting Bee will be held Feb. 21-23 in Canyon at the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum. The Quilting Bee is co-sponsored by the Museum and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, according to Museum curator JoAnne Arasim.

The Quilting Bee is the final event in the 1985-86 Panhandle-wide Sesquicentennial Quilting Project. Quilt block competitions have been held in the top 26 counties, with local quilters entering their own special quilt blocks designed to represent a specific characteristic of each quilter's own county.

The top blocks were chosen in each county by panels of judges. Entries were evaluated on overall appearance, workmanship, originality of design, adherence to theme, appropriateness of material, and use of color.

The first-place blocks will arrive in Canyon at the Museum on Feb. 1, where on Feb. 21, 22 and 23 they will become part of a queen-size Sesquicentennial Quilt. Each county will have a block, and the remaining four blocks will represent the Museum, the Extension Service, the Sesquicentennial, and the Panhandle.

"During the Quilting Bee, area quilts come to the Museum to actually finish the quilt. We'll set up a quilting frame in the Museum's front hall, and the public can watch as the quilt actually takes shape," she said.

Anyone with quilting experience is eligible to participate in the quilting bee, Arasim said. Each quilter will be assigned a 20-minute session. Reservations must be made in advance, and each quilter may have only one 20-minute slot. The Quilting Bee will take place three days in February, she added. The days and times are: Friday, from 12 to 5 p.m.; Saturday, from 8 to 12 p.m.; and Sunday, from 2 to 6 p.m.

"We hope that quilters will join us from all of the top 26 counties of the Panhandle, because the Panhandle Quilt is the only Panhandle-wide activity celebrating the Sesquicentennial. All the names of the quilters will be entered in a special book to document the occasion for posterity. Also, the Panhandle's Quilting Bee is the only activity of its type this year in the entire state of Texas," Arasim noted.

Advance reservations may be made by calling JoAnne Arasim at the Museum at 806-655-7191. Additional information on the project is available from each county's extension agent.

Abundant Life

INNER RESOURCES
By Bob Wear

WE SEEM to fully realize and appreciate the value of physical and material resources, and it is readily admitted that these are valuable and important to all of us. These, however, do not and can not mean everything to us. This conclusion is being demonstrated daily in a number of different ways, and there seems to be considerable perplexity about it all.

THE BIG PROBLEM is in the inclination to make too much of the material and physical in relationship to our inner resources. We seem to forget that the material elements of life make good servants for us, but very poor masters. It appears that we are inclined to depend too much upon gadgets and things for our strength; however, these do not provide the strength we need. "An empty life filled with things is just as empty still."-Anon.

BEYOND THE POINT at which our bodily needs are reasonably satisfied, material goods are of little value and cannot contribute to victorious living. "Superfluous wealth can buy superfluities only. Money is not required to buy one necessary of the soul."-Thoreau.

REAL STRENGTH is not measured in physical terms. This is the measure of an elephant, but not a suitable measure for human beings. The strength needed for victory in the major experiences of life must come from our "inner resources". Our real strength has its roots in our faith, our love, our courage, our understanding, our mercy and our wise tolerance. The primary strength of the individual and of society is that which comes from within.

FOR THE BEST of living, we must maintain a balance between our material resources and our "inner resources" so that they complement each other. This works best, if we give our "inner resources" first place in our value system.

La Cuesta Encantada, the 115-room castle built by William Randolph Hearst in California, lures a million visitors a year. The Hearst estate near San Simeon once covered 240,000 acres, an area larger than New York City.

Older tunnels, such as those that serve railroads, can have several inches of misalignment. But tunnels drilled by laser-guided machines are straight to within a centimeter or two, according to National Geographic.

More than 3,000 varieties of soft corals are known in the world, although only a few hundred have been classified.

Based on its contribution to the region's gross domestic product, manufacturing continues to be the most important sector of the Latin American economy, reports the Inter-American Development Bank. In 1984, manufacturing accounted for 23.9 percent of regional GDP, compared to 23.5 percent in 1983. It was followed by commerce with 17.4 percent, agriculture with 11.9 percent, and transport with 8.5 percent.

To compete for honors

Reinauer essay to be sent to state

Lee Anne Reinauer, a sixth grade student at St. Anthony's School, placed first over-all for her essay submitted in the 1985-86 American History Month Essay Contest.

Winners from Hereford, Dimmitt and Friona schools were selected by members of Los Ciboleros Chapter, NSDAR. Lee Anne's essay has been sent to the Texas Society DAR to compete for statewide honors.

The annual contest is promoted to help students in the fifth through eighth grades become more aware of their responsibilities as American citizens.

"George Washington, As I Saw Him"

By Lee Anne Reinauer
My name is Harvey. I am a grey mouse. I live in a huge building in Philadelphia. My parents abandoned me here when I was a baby. Although it has been many years since then, I still have faint memories of my most exciting moments.

My favorite time was the writing of the Constitution of the United States. I suppose the states weren't getting along with the Articles of Confederation. They needed something that gave them freedom, but something that could keep them from fighting with each other.

After the Revolutionary war, George Washington wrote to the American government asking and urging them to form a central government. Can you believe it? The states were acting like thirteen separate little nations! Anyway, in May of 1787, delegates from each of twelve states met in Philadelphia to plan a union. They met in the building where I live. Of course, they chose the former General Washington as presiding officer.

On May 10, 1787 these twelve delegates came to Philadelphia to begin the meetings. I overheard that Alexander Hamilton came as a representative for New York. Many other men came from many other states.

Now, at the time of the first meeting, I was collecting bits of food for my supper (I didn't find much!) Just as I found something, George Washington walked through the door. He looked so powerful and wise! I ran back to my hole as fast as my legs would carry me.

During the four months that these men were discussing the nation's problems, I learned a lot about George.

He came from Virginia where he lived on a plantation called Mount Vernon. Anyone could tell that he loved his home very much. George wanted to be a family man and farm his land, but he felt that he had a duty to his country. He was a strong believer in a strong federal government. Little did he know that he would soon become the first president of the United States.

And so the meeting began. They talked about how the articles of Confederation didn't work. They expressed their thoughts on what they should write in the new Constitution. I fell asleep when the discussion was boring, but during the interesting parts, I listened.

I noticed that George Washington didn't have much to say, but his face told me that he was seriously thinking of something.

Well, the meetings went on. For four months the men talked about this new idea. Finally, during the fourth month, the Constitution of the United States was written. I could tell that George was satisfied.

Then came the best part. Every man in the room signed the rules which America would live by. As George Washington put his name on the paper, I saw a smile on his face.

Says entomologist

Spiders are adaptable

LUBBOCK - Many spiders have become domestic creatures as comfortable in our homes as we are, according to a Texas Tech University entomologist.

Entomology Chairperson James K. Wangberg said while spiders are adaptable and have found homes and offices offer them year-round protection from outside elements, the majority of the eight-legged creatures are harmless.

"Only two spiders, the black widow and the brown recluse or fiddleback, are dangerous to humans," Wangberg said. "And those fellows don't go out looking for human contact. You have to go poking around in dark, secluded places to find either one."

Wangberg said the black widow is as easily recognized by their shiny black color and long graceful legs as by the red hour glass on their stomachs.

"You don't have to turn the spider over to look at its stomach to be able to identify it," he said. "The shiny black color is unlike any other spider's."

The brown recluse, which is actually a tan color, is commonly called the fiddleback spider because of the distinctive dark brown outline of a fiddle on its back, Wangberg said.

Wangberg said because both the black widow and brown recluse like dark out of the way places, exploring children are the most likely victims and should be warned to be careful.

The black widow and brown recluse are the only two spiders common to Texas that pose a serious threat to humans. Wangberg said the venom of most spiders can paralyze small insects and other spiders but is ineffective on large mammals like humans.

"The belief that some spiders aren't poisonous is erroneous. All spiders are poisonous because they are predators that eat other creatures," Wangberg said.

"The black widow and brown recluse are the only ones that have a toxic enough poison to be dangerous to humans."

Wangberg said the brown recluse's bite is also noted for the tissue damage and scarring it can cause. He said if the bite occurs on an extremity such as a finger or toe where there is not much skin, the damage can be severe if not treated properly and immediately.

Wangberg said the tarantula, the large, hairy black monster of countless horror films and spy novels is really quite shy and not that dangerous.

Wangberg said even if a person is bitten by a tarantula, the bite, while somewhat painful, would look much like a mosquito bite.

While considered pests by many people, spiders actually form a vital link in the ecological chain, Wangberg said. If spiders were removed from the environment, there would be a great void in predator control of other insects, he said.

Despite their beautiful webs and ecological necessity, most people are afraid of the eight-legged arachnids, a fear that Wangberg said he doesn't really understand.

"I don't know why people are so afraid of spiders, but it is a very real fear," Wangberg said. "Take the tarantula for example, people think those spiders are scary creatures because they are big and hairy. Well teddy bears are big and hairy and no one's afraid of them. If you respect the spider and approach them with care they really aren't dangerous."

Helicopter from a kit?

100 miles an hour and stay in the air for about two hours on its 20-gallon gasoline supply.

Shipper bought the kit for about $32,000. The price includes the necessary training it takes to fly the craft.

Shipper, who has been flying light planes for a few years, decided to try his hand at helicopter building and flying.

"I've been flying for a while and decided I would like to build an airplane," he says. "But they are pretty big, and you have to keep them at the airport all the time. The helicopter I can keep here at my business."

"It's more of a challenge and more unique to fly a helicopter. I just like to be different and like a bigger challenge."

The helicopter will be licensed as an experimental craft, although the kits have been in production for some time, Shipper says.

Shipper bought the kit from Rotor Way in Chandler, Ariz., after flying out there for a first-hand look at one in operation.

When the kit arrived here in November, it came in 32 boxes, "some of them big boxes," he says. He expects to finish construction this month.

The helicopter is powered by a four-cylinder, water-cooled, 155-horsepower gasoline engine, which applies its power to the main and tail rotors through a series of belt drives.

The main rotor has a freewheeling clutch which allows it to keep spinning if the motor should stop. This allows the pilot to land the craft with the blade "autorotating."

Shipper will go back to the factory and spend a week learning to hover above ground and learn how to mount, balance and adjust the craft's blades. Then he will return home and practice hovering his own helicopter, spending as many as 20 hours practicing.

When he feels he has acquired the necessary skill, he will return to the factory and train in flying and emergency procedures, including landing a copter without the motor turning the blades.

On returning home, he will take his own helicopter up for hours of practice and then return to the factory for a check ride with a Federal Aviation Administration inspector and final certification as a pilot.
